Commission executed before town clerk, instead of commissioners, suppressed. Hareforth v. Gutes, id.

Some of the commissioners certified partiality in one of the others. Motion for a commission to examine in whom the misdemeanour was, denied; for such collateral certificates are not required of the commissioners, but let them certify the matters committed to their charge, and if there be misdemeanour, let the party wronged make affidavit thereof, and take out his attachment. Anon. Id. 43.

The court directed a commissioner to examine witnesses abroad, to be delivered to a master to send the same by the post, and when executed, to receive it back again. Newland v. Horseman, 2 C. C. 76.

Witness examined on the defendant's part, after the plaintiff's commissioners were gone away with the commission. Trevor v. Trevelman, Toth. 189.

Where a party hath had a commissioner present upon the first examination, he must not examine upon new interrogatories by another commission as to the merits of the cause. Richardson v. Louther, 1 C. C. 274.

Depositions suppressed, because the solicitor's clerk in the cause did write as a clerk to the commissioners in the execution of the commission. Newte v. Foot, 2 C. R. 393.

Commissioners under a commission to examine witnesses, may adjourn. Brown v. Vermuden, 1 C. C. 282.

A special commission was granted, to examine the quantity and value of certain ore, &c. The six clerks appointed time and place; per cur. the time and place are only for the first meeting of the commissioners; but after, they may adjourn to another time or another place. Thornborough v. Baker, 1 C. C. 283.

Defendant, in bill of perjury after answer, ought to be examined on interrogatories. Philips v. Benson, Cary, 68.

Commissioners to be examined, on occasions of partiality and practice. Morgan v. Boudler, Toth. 40.

(7) Return of.

Under a commission for the examination of witnesses abroad, the commissioners examined the witnesses for the plaintiffs; and under an impression that the defendant had no witnesses to examine, whether he had or had not given notice of his intention to examine witnesses, was disputed; they closed the commission, and returned it to England after the commission had been sent off; the defendant examined his witnesses before some of the commissioners, and the depositions of those witnesses and the interrogatories upon which they were taken, were sealed up and forwarded to England. On motion to annex the last-mentioned depositions and interrogatories to the commission, and the depositions on the part of the plaintiff, the court expressed an inclination to grant the defendant a new commission, unless the plaintiff would consent to the motion; and upon such consent being given, the court made the order. When a commission to examine witnesses is returned, it is opened by the junior sworn clerk for the purpose of entering the names of the acting commissioners in the commission book, and the commission is then kept under lock and key until publication is passed. Irving v. Fiane, 1 Y. & J. 416.

Home commissions to examine, must be returned before third return of following term, but no period fixed for foreign commissions. Wake v. Franklin, 1 S. & S. 95.

The party praying discovery and a commission, the defendant cannot have the costs of the discovery till the return of the commission. Anon. 8 Ves. 69. DISCOVERY; COERS.

Injunction obtained two years back, on granting commission to examine in India not yet returned, dissolved. Penney v. Edgar, 1 Anst. 276. PR. INJUNCTION; LACHES.

Under the commission for the examination of French witnesses who could not speak English, the depositions are not to be taken in French, but must be turned by the interpreter into English, and be so taken down and returned. Id. Belmore v. Anderson, 2 Cox, 288. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 90. FOREIGNERS.

A commission returnable without delay, must be executed before the second return of next term. Jones v. Mitchell, 2 Vern. 197.

(8) When Lost.

A commission for examination of witnesses in Lisbon was executed, but the ship in which the depositions were sent to England was lost on the passage. The court ordered the commissioners to transmit the drafts of the depositions, and to certify the circumstances of the return of the commission, but would not make any order for the reading the drafts on the hearing of the cause, until after the commissioners had made their return and certificate. Burn v. Burn, 2 Cox, 426.

Commission executed; lost on road, and found; on affidavit by finders, that it had not been opened, received. Smale v. Chapter, Dick. 99.

Commission de bene esse lost; on return witness being dead, paper draft sealed, ordered to be sent up unopened and engrossed by six clerks, and used as original deposition. Jones v. Demithorne, id. 352.

Depositions allowed to be read though taken during abatement. Thompson v. Tooke, Dick. 115.

Where a witness dies after examination, but before such examination is signed by him, the depositions cannot be made use of. But yet where the defendant after publication examined a witness, and on the usual affidavit that the defendant, his clerk or solicitor, had not seen the depositions, got an order to re-examine this witness, but the witness died before a re-examination, the court gave leave to the defendant, to make use of the former depositions of the same witness. Copeland v. Stanton, 1 P. W. 414.

The court refused to order copies of depositions to be recorded and exemplified where the original had been lost, and in trials at law subsequent to the dismissal of the suit, the witnesses had sworn contrary to their depositions. Brabant v. Perne, 2 C. R. 36. PR. COMES WHERE EVID.

(b) Taken de bene esse.

See also PR. EVID. 28. (f).

A deposition de bene esse having been read at the hearing of a cause, it is of course, if any issue is directed, to order it to be read on the trial, notwithstanding an irregularity in the examination, which might have been effectually taken at the hearing. Whether the court will suppress a deposition taken before commissioners, of whom one is attorney in a cause in Scotland between the same parties on the same question, Quare? Gordon v. Gordon, 1 Swan. 166. COMMISSIONERS.

Depositions taken de bene esse upon incapacity of witness to attend at trial at law, not published but on affidavit of surgeon as to the probability of his attendance; an order was made for officer to attend at trial with the original deposition to be tendered if the incapacity of the witness to attend should be proved. Andrews v. Palmer, 1 V. & B. 21.

An application to read the deposition of a witness on the trial of an issue at law, directed by the court of chancery, on the ground of the witness being so aged and infirm as to be enabled to attend in person must be made to the judge at the trial, and not to the court which directs the issue. Jones v. Jones, 1 Cox, 184. ISSUE AT LAW.

Commission de bene esse lost on return, witness being dead, paper draft sealed ordered to be sent up unopened and engrossed by six clerks and used as original depositions. Jones v. Donithorne, 2 Dick. 352.

Witness going to the West Indies examined; but he being in Ireland must be examined in chief. Birt v. White, Dick. 473.

Witness examined de bene esse becoming interested, his depositions to be published. Brown v. Greenly, Dick. 504.

Depositions of witnesses taken de bene esse in 1711, and not having passed till 1743, under the circumstances, the depositions were ordered to be published, but without prejudice. Dk. Hamilton v. Meynal, Dick. 788.

Depositions of a witness examined de bene esse, he dying before he was examined in chief, ordered to be read at a trial at law. Marsden v. Bound, 1 Vern. 331.

(c) Depositions, amendment of.

Upon appeal against a decree after the case printed, and an appendix of the evidence as entered in the register's notes of proofs on the hearing, it is irregular to proceed by order upon motion in the court below to expunge any part of such evidence as entered by mistake; but the course is to apply to the house by petition for leave to proceed in the court below to rectify it. Lopdell v. Creagh, 1 Bli. N. S. 225. PR. APPEAL; MISTAKE.

The christian name of one of the defendants having been mistaken in the title to interrogatories and depositions, an order was made for correcting that error, and re-swearing the witnesses. Curre v. Bowyer, 3 Swan. 357.

Motion to amend depositions after publication refused. Ingram v. Mitchell, 5 Ves. 297. PR. PUBLICATION.

A deposition of a witness permitted to be amended after publication where there clearly appeared to be a mistake made by him in a material part of his evidence. Rowley v. Ridley, 1 Cox, 281. S. C. Dick. 677. MISTAKE.

A deposition of a witness amended after publication. Griells v. Gansell, 2 P. W. 646.

Deposition of witness rectified, he having been first examined by examiner before court. Darling v. Staniford, Dick. 358.

Upon an affidavit of a witness that the examiner had mistaken him, his deposition amended on examination in court. Penderil v. Penderil, Kel. 25.

But a similar application was subsequently refused. Truherne v. Burdus, id. 26.

Taking down depositions in a wrong sense suppressed, and witness re-examined. Peacock v. Collens, Cary, 47.

(d) Suppression of depositions.

Depositions taken by commission suppressed, it appearing that the evidence had been taken by the clerk to the commissioners, and that the effect of some of the depositions had been communicated to the agent on the other side. Lennox v. Munnings, 2 Y. & J. 483. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

The refusal of a witness to be cross-examined is no reason for suppressing his deposition, but the adverse party must, at the time, enforce such right of cross-examination as he has. Courtenay v. Hawkins, 2 Russ. 253. PR. EVID.; WITNESS, CROSS-EXAMINATION OF.

Where, after depositions have been suppressed for irregularity, a re-examination is permitted, all the same witnesses must be examined and cross-examined. Perry v. Silvester, 1 Jac. 83. PR. RE-EXAMINATION.

Depositions on part of defendant suppressed after publication, because clerk of defendant's solicitor, acted as clerk to commissioners. Cooke v. Wilson, 4 Mad. 380. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE.

A motion to suppress the depositions of witnesses examined on behalf of the defendant, after a conversation by him with one of the plaintiff's witnesses on the subject of his testimony, refused: the conversation not having been communicated to his solicitor, before the defendant's interrogatories were prepared, but without costs; communications between witnesses and parties being disapproved. Boughton v. Pierrepont, 3 Swan. 550.

The deposition of a witness examined previously to the decree, on his re-examination before the master without an order for that purpose, suppressed with costs, on motion of which notice was given four days after publication; the usual order was afterwards obtained for his re-examination, on interrogatories to be settled by the master, to matters to which he had not been before examined. Smith v. Graham, 2 Swan. 264. PR. WITNESS; ORDER FOR RE-EXAMINATION.

Under a commission for the examination of witnesses, several witnesses on the part of the defendant having appeared and been examined by the plaintiff, the defendant then declining to examine them, their depositions on a subsequent examination by the defendant in the examiner's office without leave of the court, not suppressed. Pearson v. Rowland, 2 Swan. 266. ORDER FOR RE-EXAMINATION; PR. WITNESS.

Depositions taken on the part of the plaintiff having been suppressed, as against some of the defendants, on the ground of no notice until after publication, upon evidence that the omission arose from a mistake committed by the clerk to the plaintiff's solicitor in giving at the examiner's office the name of the clerk in court for others of the defendants, as the name of the clerk in court for all the defendants, in consequence of which the plaintiff's witnesses were produced only at the seat of the clerk in court so named; and upon the examiner's certificate that the name of that clerk in court only was delivered to him; the Ld. Chancellor gave to the defendants the option; either of permitting the plaintiff to re-examine the same witnesses, or of allowing the depositions to stand, with liberty for them to cross-examine those witnesses, and to examine others. Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 2 Mer. 81. MISTAKE.

Motion to suppress depositions upon groundless objections, and not only after publication, but even after the cause had been called on and struck out, refused. Whitelock v. Baker, 13 Ves. 611.

Depositions of witnesses de bene esse, taken ex parte, and without notice of striking the names of commissioners, or of the execution of the commission, suppressed. Lovden v. Milford, 4 Bro. C. C. 540.

Deposition suppressed on account that the whole was written down in the exact form of it by the at-

The depositions of witnesses are not to be suppressed because they are made in express terms of voluntary affidavits, sworn by them at the commencement of the suit. Blair v. Archb. of Armagh, 3 Bro. P. C. 620.

Where defendant cross-examines plaintiff's witnesses, he cannot afterwards move to suppress their depositions in chief. Id. ib.

Depositions suppressed because interrogatories were leading; leave given to exhibit new interrogatories to be settled by the master. Arundel v. Pitt, Amb. 685.

The depositions of a witness who was examined in perpetuum rei memoriam, were suppressed, on a petition after his death, and the examiner discharged and committed for foul practice and irregularity in the taking of them, the plaintiff being suffered by the examiner to instruct him, and the witness being corrupted; and as he had been examined on a trial to the same points, the plaintiff might give evidence of what he swore. Hosier v. Hart, Mos. 321. PR. EXAMINATION, HOW TAKEN.

Setting down depositions in a wrong sense, suppressed, and witness re-examined. Peacock v. Colens, id. 47.

Witness examined by fraud, suppressed, and parties to fraud to be proceeded against by bill. Walford v. Walford, id. 56.

Cause not being set down, and fact to be proved being only a title to representation; order for enlargement granted on paying costs of application and commission. Cutler v. Cramer, 6 Mad. 253. ENLARGEMENT OF PUBLICATION.

Permission to exhibit an interrogatory as to the loss of a deed omitted to be proved by mistake given to the plaintiff at the hearing under the circumstances. Cox v. Allington, 1 Jac. 337.

Cause cannot be set down unless by consent in same term in which rule to pass publication is given. Lord v. Genslin, 5 Mad. 83. PR. SETTING DOWN CAUSE.

Before publication passed (plaintiff having obtained order to enlarge) plaintiff set down his cause and issued subpoena to hear judgment. Held irregular, subpoena quashed, and cause struck out of paper. Ellis v. King, 4 Mad. 126. Id.

Leave was given by decree to exhibit interrogatories to prove will of real estate. Examiner declining to publish the depositions, order was made for that purpose. Rossiter v. Pitt, 2 Mad. 165. INTERROGATORIES TO PROVE WILL OF REAL ESTATE.

Court will not make an order on motion that plaintiff in cross cause (who had not examined witnesses on his part in the original cause after having obtained an order to enlarge publication) shall be at liberty to read depositions taken on his behalf in a cross cause, after publication of the depositions taken on behalf of plaintiff, on hearing of original cause, on an application to put the cross cause into the short paper for that purpose, supported by affidavit of total ignorance on part of parties interested, and their attorneys, of the depositions published. And this, however satisfactory in point of fact, the affidavit in support of such motion may be in the particular instance. Hidley v. Obee, 3 Price, 26. PR. CROSS CAUSE.

After publication, no farther examination without leave; not obtained without great difficulty, and generally confined to some particular facts. Willan v. Willan, 19 Ves. 592. PR. EXAMINATION.

Depositions before the master not to be known by the parties until the whole examination is concluded. Id. 593.

Publication ordered of the depositions of a deceased witness, examined on the behalf of the defendant, under the plaintiff's commission, on a bill to perpetuate testimony. El. Abergavenny v. Powell, 1 Mer. 434.

Depositions in perpetuum rei memoriam not published in the life of the witness, except on incapacity to travel by sickness, &c. such orders, except in the excepted cases, proceeding on affidavit of the death of the witness, some expressly declaring that the depositions of the other witnesses shall not be read. Morrison v. Arnold, 19 Ves. 670. PR. DEPOSITIONS TAKEN TO PERPETUATE TESTIMONY.

Publications of depositions of witness who is dead taken on bill to perpetuate may be moved for as of course. Bourne v. Bligh, 1 Price, 307. PR. MOTION OF COURSE; PR. EVID. DEPOSITIONS ON; BILL TO PERPETUATE.

After publication, order for examination by general interrogatories as to the credit of a witness in the cause, and as to such particular facts only as are not material to the issue; but publication having passed five months, not to delay the hearing: the court does not previously consider whether the subject of the examination is material to the issue, but in that case will suppress the depositions. White v. Fussell, 19 Ves. 127. PR. EXAMINATION AS TO CREDIT OF WITNESSES.

Examination to credit after publication where the witnesses are in the country by commission on articles exhibited with one of the six clerks. Id.

On a bill for examining witnesses in perpetuum rei memoriam, held that publication of the depositions should not be allowed unless in a strong case. Harvis v. Cotterell, 3 Mer. 678. PR. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

Order before publication for re-examining a witness upon his affidavit that through mistake at the time he submitted to be examined, without looking at papers which enabled him to answer more fully and precisely. Kirk v. Kirk, 13 Ves. 280. RE-EXAMINATION OF WITNESS.

Re-examination of a witness after publication upon his own application and affidavit to correct mistake, but confined to that, the court not permitting the whole deposition to be suppressed, and an entirely new examination. Id. ib.

Examination after publication is confined to general credit, and to facts not material to what is in issue in the cause. Charles v. Brook, 10 Ves. 49. PR. EXAMINATION OF WITNESS.

Order made after publication for liberty to take out a commission and examine witnesses by general interrogatories as to credit of witness who had been cross-examined, and as to such particular facts only as are not material to what is in issue in the cause. Wood v. Hammerton, 9 Ves. 145. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE AS TO CREDIT.

After publication passed, liberty given to exhibit articles as to the credit of a witness who had been cross-examined by general interrogatories, and as to such particular facts only as are not material to what is in issue in the cause. Purcell v. M'Namara, 8 Ves. 324. PR. WITNESS, EXAMON. AS TO CREDIT OF.

Motion to amend depositions, after publication, refused. Ingrin v. Mitchell, 5 Ves. 297. PR. AMENDMENT OF DEPOSITIONS.

No witness ought to be examined after publication though sworn before. Jenkinson v. Pepys, 3 Anst. 836. EXAMINATION.

In a cause and cross cause, publication in the original suit stayed until after appearance to the cross-bill. Gardiner v. Mason, 4 Bro. C. C. 478.

The court allowed the defendant, after publication, to prove an old paper found in the parish registry. Clarke v. Jennings, 1 Anst. 173. FURTHER EVIDENCE.

Witness examined two days after passing publication; defendant cross examined witness; court would not suppress deposition. Hamond v. ———, Dick. 50.

Defendant cannot give rules to pass publication till plaintiff has been in default one term after cause at issue. Watnesley v. Elliot, id. 84.

Depositions de bene esse of witness dead published, to be read at law. Price v. Bridgman, id. 144.

Bill for injunction and commission to examine, and both parties at liberty to examine; defendant examined witnesses, plaintiff cross examined them; plaintiff takes out no commission; injunction dissolved, and publication ordered. Emmet v. Ayliffe, id. 239.

Depositions from abroad published, though taken during abatement. Sinclair v. James, id. 277.

Liberty to amend answer by striking out admissions of plaintiff's pedigree after publication. Kingscote v. Hainsley, id. 485.

The court will allow articles to the credit of a witness after publication, because the matters examined into in such cases were not material to the merits of the cause, but not where the commission is to go to foreign parts, because this would introduce a certain method of delay, unless no person in England can swear to the person's credit. Callaghan v. Rochfort, 3 Atk. 643. PR. WITNESS, COMPCY. OF.

After the depositions under a former commission had been seen, the court would not suffer additional interrogatories to be exhibited under a new one, but confined the defendant to the proving exhibits, and cross examining a person already examined for the plaintiff, but not to examine any new witnesses. Barnesley v. Powell, 3 Atk. 593.

An affidavit of the death or absence beyond sea of the witness, is necessary before examinations de bene esse can be published. Ward v. Sykes, Ridgw. 193. EXAMON. DE BENE ESSE.

Commission having been issued, &c. to examine witnesses in perpet. memor. a year past publication, ordered. Gravenor v. Brearton, Cary, 33.

Publication of evidence to be used at court baron, granted. Mantye v. Simcoe, id. 35.

Witnesses examined after publication ad informandum judicis, id. 53.

Publication stayed after granted. Darvall v. Stukely, id. 66.

New interrogatories for new witnesses may be exhibited any time before publication. Lewis v. Owen, Dick, 6.

Plaintiff examined witnesses, defendant adds fresh interrogatories and examines, this regular before publication, not after. Huyward v. Colley, id. 43.

Examination of witness viva voce, as to particular fact after publication, defendant to cross examine, allowed. Gage v. Hunter, id. 49.

After the defendant has been examined on interrogatories, and publication passed, the plaintiff ought not to have a commission to examine witnesses in order to falsify the defendant's examination, this tending to multiply causes, and make them endless. Smith v. Turner, 3 P. W. 413. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE; PR. EXAMON. OF INTERROGATORIES.

After publication and examinations known, this court will not give either side leave to examine. Cann v. Cann, 1 P. W. 727.

Court refused to publish depositions de bene esse, in order to compare them with the depositions in the same cause, taken on an examination in chief. S. C. Id. 567. PR. DEPOSITIONS DE BENE ESSE.

Witnesses examined in perpet. mem. one dead, other sick, moved to use testimony, and granted. Senhaves v. Senhaves, Cary, 88.

One having order to prove a deed viva voce at the hearing, not allowed to prove the witnesses' hands, they being dead, but had leave to examine in the office to prove the deed, though publication was passed. Blaxton v. Druitt, Prec. Chan. 64. DEEDS.

Though the plaintiff is to examine and have publication within fourteen days after the return of the certiorari to prove his suggestions, and give the court jurisdiction, the defendant is not at liberty to examine or publish any thing to disprove it; and though the defendant should examine as soon as answer, yet the depositions shall not be published but in ordinary course; for after the plaintiff's first examination to affirm the jurisdiction, if the court retain the cause, both parties are to examine orderly to the merits and body of the cause, and have publication according to the ordinary rules. Checkey v. Allen, Toth. 145. PR. CERTIORARI.

(b) Enlarging publication.

Publication not to be enlarged, except on special application. 18 Gen. Order, 3d April 1828.

Where there has been delay on both sides in proceeding on bill and cross bill, the court will grant a second order to enlarge publication in the original cause on terms, in order to give the party applying time to consider the matter furnished by the answer to the cross bill newly filed, with a view to the application of it in his defence to the original bill. Defendant was ordered to pay costs of application. Lowe v. Firkins, 13 Price, 21. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 10. As to the affidavit necessary, see 1 M'Clel. 10.

A third application to enlarge publication was granted, but cause was ordered to stand in the paper to prevent delay in the hearing. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 73. 13 Price, 198.

Under particular circumstances publication enlarged without prejudice to hearing, although rule to pass publication had expired above four months. Sterens v. Solway, 1 M'Clel. 596.

Where the cause cannot come on to be heard till after the following term, publication may be further enlarged a second time on motion, without assigning any special reason until the first day of the term. Vinter v. Bickley, 12 Price, 460.

Court will not enlarge publication after answer to original bill, till the answers in a cross cause come in; but they will require an affidavit verifying the facts stated in the cross bill. Lidards v. Morgan, 11 Price 399. PR. CROSS BILL, AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT; PR. CROSS BILL, ANSWER TO.

Cause not being set down, and fact to be proved being only a title to representation, order granted, on paying costs of application and commission. Cutler v. Cremer, 6 Mad. 253.

It is motion of course to enlarge publication, where no witnesses have been examined. French v. Leusay, 6 Mad. 50. PR. MOTION OF COURSE.

After publication passed, and which had been before enlarged at the instance of the defendant, he obtained an order, as of course, again to enlarge publication, and examined witnesses. Held that the latter order was informal, and on application that publication might be further enlarged, or the evidence taken under the informal order, might be read at the hearing of the cause, was dismissed with costs. Cumethard v. Hasted, 3 Mad. 429.

Publication, though often enlarged before, enlarged in title cause to enable defendant to search for records in Vatican, on affidavits as to probability of success there. Barnes v. Abram, 3 Mad. 103.

Publication enlarged, and new commission to examine defendant's witnesses, issued on affidavit of ignorance of contents of former depositions. Dingle v. Rowe, Wightw. 99. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE WITNESS.

A second application to enlarge publication allowed, though cause set down, the same being so far off in the paper, that it was improbable it would be heard before the time for enlarged publication expired. Moody v. Leeming, 1 Mad. 85.

After answer, not of course, to enlarge publication until answer to a cross bill. Dalton v. Carr, 16 Ves. 93. MOTION OF COURSE.

Motion to enlarge publication in the original cause, until answer to the cross bill, the original cause being set down for hearing, and the cross bill filed, after rules for passing publication, refused with costs. Cook v. Broomhead, 16 Ves. 133.

Publication enlarged on a special case, where farther evidence is necessary, and it can be heard without injustice or danger, not upon ignorance or negligence of an agent, nor to the prejudice of a party, even by delaying the hearing, and affidavit required, that the party, his clerk in court, and solicitor have not seen or been informed of the depositions and will not, &c. W hitelock v. Baker, 13 Ves. 512.

The court will not enlarge publication on the application of a party who has taken the depositions of the opposite party out of the office although by mistake. Lawrell v. Titchborne, 2 Cox, 289.

Plaintiff cannot enlarge publication and examine witnesses, after he has set down cause. Yate v. Boland, Dick. 495.

Plaintiff cannot set down cause until after publication, unless publication be enlarged at defendant's instance, with proviso that plaintiff may. Id. ib.

If publication passed, plaintiff may set down cause, and if no witnesses examined, may enlarge and examine. Id. ib.

After an original bill proceeded in, it is not a motion of course to enlarge publication on a cross bill, but notice must be given, &c. Aylet v. Easy, 2 Ves. 336.

Where defendant in a cross bill, but plaintiff in the original, is in contempt for not putting in an answer to the cross bill, the proper motion is not to stay proceedings in the original cause, but to enlarge publication in the original to a fortnight after the answer is come in to the cross-bill. Creswick v. Creswick, 1 Atk. 291. PR. CROSS BILL.

See also ARBITRATOR & AWARD.—PR. ANSWER, 17.—PR. COSTS, 10. (f).—PR. MASTER, REFERENCE, &c. 2. (h).

Exceptions will not lie to the return of commissioners in a suit for partition, on the ground of inequality of value in the lots. In all cases of improper conduct in the commissioners, a motion must be made to suppress the return. Jones v. Totty, 1 Sim. 136. PR. COMMISSIONER OF PARTITION.

Exceptions irregularly entitled, ordered to be taken off file. Williams v. Davies, 1 S. & S. 426. PR. INTITULING PLEADINGS, &c.

Counsel's name must be signed to exceptions. Chandler v. Partington, 6 Mad. 102. COUNSEL'S SIGNATURE.

After order to elect law or equity, plaintiff cannot move on motion of course for leave to file exceptions nunc pro tunc, but ought to make special application for that purpose, and for an order to suspend election till exceptions are answered. Coupland v. Bradock, 5 Mad. 14. PR. ELECTION; PR. EXCEPTIONS, NUNC PRO TUNC.

By minute 7th May, 1819, the rule of court, dated 1st February, 1792 (which directs that exceptions set down for argument are to be called on at the sitting of the court, the effect of which is, that where plaintiff does not attend to support them, they are to be struck out, and defendant may then move, as of course, that they be overruled; and where defendant does not appear, they are allowed) is ordered to be strictly adhered to. Memorandum. 7 Price, 208. EXCEPTIONS.

Exceptions under the circumstances allowed to be taken nunc pro tunc to the master's report of insufficiency of answer, though after the report was made, a plea of further answer were put in, and the plea overruled. Noel v. Ward, 1 Mad. 339. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Where exceptions have been filed nunc pro tunc, court will not grant injunction on opening material exception, unless the plaintiff, on obtaining his order, gave a four day rule for arguing the exceptions. Edwards v. Hogarth, 1 Price, 147. PR. INJUNCTION.

Distinction as to exceptions in the courts of chancery and exchequer. Rowe v. Teed 15 Ves. 377.

Exception to the report, and in general terms, that the master had reported the examination sufficient, whereas he ought to have reported it insufficient, is regular, but not to be encouraged, and therefore being overruled, costs beyond the deposit were given. Purcell v. McNamara, 12 Ves. 166. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT; PR. COSTS.

Amendment of exceptions permitted upon mistake. Dolder v. Bank of England, 10 Ves. 284.

Bare filing exceptions, is not shewing cause against confirmation of report. Hall v. Mulliner, Dick. 604. Abel v. Nodes, id. 730.

A person who was summoned to appear before the commissioners, and did not appear, may except to their decree, if concerned in interest. Raeson v. Turner, Sel. Ch. Ca. 42.

Exceptions frivolous, exceptant to pay 20s. for every one overruled, and 10s. for every one waived. Reul v. Ward, Dick. 110.

Liberty given to amend exceptions after arguing them. Northcote v. Northcote, id. 22.

When the court on hearing refers the matter in controversy to gentlemen in the country, no exceptions lie to their certificate. Dessy v. Currington, 2 Vern. 79. AWARD.

XL. EXCEPTIONS, BILL OF.

The writ grounded on the stat. Westm. 2., commanding judges to seal a bill of exceptions, does not lie where the exception taken is to an order of a court of law amending one of its own records; nor, semble, to any order made upon motion. In cases where this writ lies, it ought to be made out by the clerk of the crown, and not by the curstior; and it should not issue without special order from the person holding the great seal. Lalor v. Murray, 1 Scho. & L. 75.

No matter, except such as if allowed would be on the record, can, if disallowed, be properly brought on the record by bill of exceptions. Id. 82.

A motion for a mandatory writ to the chief justice of king's bench to sign a bill of exceptions, denied, though such writ was issued out of chancery to a judge of an inferior court. The Ristors' Case, 1 Vern. 175. JURISDICT.; MANDATORY WRIT.

XLI. EXCHEQUER, PRACTICE IN.

The Lord Chief Baron empowered to determine suits in equity; if hindered, the king may appoint one other of the barons to sit as the Lord Chief Baron, &c. shall appoint; decrees to have full force subject to appeal to house of lords; Lord Chief Baron or Baron may on petition rehear causes, &c. 57 G. 3. c. 18. s. 1, 2, 3. JURISDICTION.

How proofs are to be folioed for the judge. Order of Court, 21st May, 1821. 9 Price, 343.

The Lord Chief Baron will hear causes and matters by petition on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, except either of them shall happen to be the first or last day of term. All causes for further directions are to be brought on at the sitting of the court on Thursdays only. Gen. Order, 28th April, 1817.

The Lord Chief Baron will hear causes on Fridays, Saturdays, after the revenue business in the outer court is disposed of, if there be time. Id.

The Lord Chief Baron set apart from the rest of the court in the exchequer chamber this day for the first time under the late act of parliament. Gen. Order, 28th & 29th April, 1817.

Ordered, all pleas and demurrers and exceptions to answers in suits for equitable relief, be set down to be heard before Lord Chief Baron in the inner court; and any motion in equity may be brought before his lordship in the same court; but notice of motion must express in which court the motion is to be made: exceptions to answers to bills for discovery and injunctions are to be set down for argument in the outer court as heretofore. On Mondays and Thursdays, motions, pleas, demurrers and exceptions in suits for equitable relief, exceptions to reports, and further directions, petitions. On Tuesdays and Wednesdays, original causes will be proceeded with. Fridays and Saturdays, Lord Chief Baron will sit with other barons in outer court: court will proceed with original causes on Mondays and Thursdays after other business disposed of. Gen. Order, May 1st, 1828. 2 Y. & J. 329.

In injunction bills, where the defendant resides abroad, and an application is made, that service of process on his attorney at law may be good service, the court of chancery requires the bill to be accompanied by an affidavit, by the plaintiff, of merits: in this court the affidavit is not required until the motion is made for the injunction. Royal Exch. Assur. Comp. v. Short, 1 Y. & J. 570. PR. AFFIDAVIT OF MERITS.

A party is not subjected to costs on the abandonment of motion after one single notice of motion. Hurd v. Partington, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 40. PR. COSTS.

In exchequer, in a suit for discovery and commission merely; a commission to examine abroad may issue before answer. Ibbetson v. Richardson, 1 M'Clel. 581.

Applications to discharge orders for irregularity must be made without delay. The court of exchequer, like chancery, is always open. Joseph v. Simpson, 10 Price, 25. IRREGULARITY.

An injunction is not dissolved in this court as a consequence of course, on allowing a demurrer to the bill on the equity of which it was obtained; it must be moved that the injunction be dissolved on that ground. Barelay v. Curtis, 9 Price, 661. PR. DEMURRER.

Application by plaintiff to withdraw replication, and amend bill, is not a motion of course, and can only be made in exchequer on affidavit of materiality and nature. Markham v. Smyth, 9 Price, 163. S. P. Petre v. Wells, id. 667.

And where application was made twelve months after defendant had refused and proceedings suffered to be far advanced: motion was discharged with costs on opposition of defendant who had had notice of motion. Semble, Petre v. Wells; id. 670.

An amendment in such case, by striking out of bill certain titles to which plaintiff was stated to be entitled; but of which no account was prayed, was allowed. Markham v. Smyth, 9 Pri. 163. PR. MOTION.

If defendant means to except to report of impertinence, he must first move for leave, and notice of motion must be given. Ward v. Bottalin, 8 Price, 86. IMPERTINENCE.

In Exchequer, report of officer on reference, that answer is impertinent, must be confirmed by court on motion, of which notice must be given for that purpose. Id. ib.

The practice of the exchequer, permitting the plaintiff in an issue to make default once at the trial, does not prevail in chancery. Bearblock v. Tyler, 1 Jac. & W. 226. DEFAULT AT HEARING.

Practice of the court of exchequer holding the bankruptcy of the plaintiff, no abatement, and therefore, dismissing the bill with costs for want of prosecution. Randell v. Mumford, 18 Ves. 426. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR; BANKCY. EFFECT OF.

Where injunction is moved in exchequer, you may move to try the cause staying execution till the merits of injunction be determined; but injunction will not be granted against a foreigner unless on affidavits of merits. Anon. Loft, 545. FOREIGNER.

XLII. FUND IN COURT, AND ADVANCING PARTY THEREOUT, TO CARRY ON SUIT.

A solicitor has a lien for his costs on a fund in court produced by his exertions; and therefore where, on a bill for discovery in aid of a defence at law, an injunction was granted on the terms, one of which was the payment of money into court, and an answer was afterwards filed, and the action at law being subsequently tried, a verdict was found for the defendant; it was held that the solicitor for the defendant, in equity, had a lien on the fund for the costs of the discovery. But where the solicitor for putting in the answer was removed, and his demand paid, and another solicitor employed, it was considered that the fund was exonerated to that extent, and he had not any lien for the costs of the former solicitor, though paid by him. Iring v. Fiana, 2 Y. & J. 70. SOLICITOR & CLIENT; LIEN.

The court has no authority to advance part of the fund in the cause, to enable indigent parties to prosecute. Perk v. Beechey, 2 Sim. 40. JURISDICT.

A fund bequeathed by will was directed to accumulate till infants should attain twenty-one, deducting annually from the interest such portion as might be necessary for their education and other expenses, with benefit of survivorship in case of either dying under twenty-one; the shares to be vested at twenty-one. The court (the parties to whom the fund was given over consenting) directed an advancement for the purchase of a commission for one of the infants, but with considerable hesitation. Evans v. Mancey, 1 Y. & J. 196. ADVANCEMENT; INFANT.

Fund in court detained, until the party by whom it has been paid is secured against all conflicting claims to it. Franchlyn v. Colhoun, 3 Swan. 309. INDEMNITY.

Motion that defendants, whose title in trust lands was in question in the cause, might have advanced to them a sum of money to answer the expense of executing a commission in America, refused. Tillotson v. Hargreaves, 4 Mad. 172.

Advances to a married woman, deserted by her husband, on the credit of a fund in court, her property, for her maintenance exceeding the income of that, reimbursed out of the capital. Guy v. Pearkes, 18 Ves. 196. REIMBURSEMENT; FEME COVERT; SEPARATE ESTATE.

Court will not keep money after the party is entitled to it, even at his request. Isaac v. Gomperts, 1 Ves. J. 44.

XLIII. FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

Where causes are set down for further directions, a copy of decree and master's report, and the mandatory part of decree, must be left at C. Baron's chambers two days before hearing. General Ord. Exch. 28 June, 1819. 7 Price, 630.

Further directions by motion, when reference to master is made on motion. Whitcomb v. Foley, 6 Mad. 3. PR. MOTION.

A cause cannot be set down for further directions on a separate report: an order on a separate report must be sought by petition. Fan Kamp v. Beke, 3 Mad. 430.

Where administratrix, under usual decree for account, attempted to support her discharge before master by forgery and fraud, court, upon petition and further directions, directed enquiry as to balances in her hands from time to time, and a computation of interest thereon. Purnell v. Price, 14 Ves. 502.

A cause may be set down for further directions, or upon equity reserved, before Ld. Ch. or M. R., without regard to circumstances where it was heard originally. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 11 Ves. 53. PR. SETTING DOWN CAUSE.

On return of certificate of commissioners appointed to ascertain lands, it is the practice in court of exchequer to set down cause for further directions, and not to move to confirm commissioners' return, nor to file exceptions. Denn of Hereford v. Hultatt, 6 Price, 331.

Upon further directions, a question decided by master was opened without any exception, all the circumstances appearing by report. Adams v. Claxton, 6 Ves. 226. PR. MASTER'S REPORT.

Plaintiff may set down cause for further directions at same time that he excepts to report. Yeo v. Freer, 5 Ves. 424. Bowerbank v. Collasseau, id.

Upon further directions, the court may add to the decree; and may therefore give interest, though the question of interest was not reserved. Cruze v. Hunter, 2 Ves. J. 164. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 157. INTEREST; DECREE.

Interest decreed under a general reservation of further directions. Sammes v. Rhodan, 2 Ves. J. 36. INTEREST.

Petition to set down cause for further directions, or such further order as court should think fit, dismissed, though the parties could not proceed; an inquiry before the master being rendered useless by the event of a verdict upon issue directed, and further directions having been reserved till after trial and report. Dixon v. Olmitus, 1 Ves. J. 153.

A special direction to the matter in settling an infant's allowance, to consider the birth of a child unprovided for, refused. Burnet v. Burnet, 1 Bro. C.C. 179. S. C. 2 Dick. 602, quod vide. INFANT; MAINTENANCE.

Generally speaking, to warrant a reservation of interest on further directions, it should have been directed on the original decree: the case, however, of a direction for a trial at law is an exception, and there may be others founded on the peculiar nature of a case. Champ v. Moody, 2 Ves. 470. INTEREST; PR. DECREE.

The court has power to give interest upon further directions, though the question of interest is not reserved by the decree. Goutley v. Lake, Amb. 584. INTEREST.

A party cannot move, upon a master's report, to bring the cause on for further directions till the report is confirmed. Smith v. Reynolds, Mos. 71. PR. MASTER'S REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF; PR. MOTION.

XLIV. HABEAS CORPUS.

See also STAT. C. OF, II. 25.

A bankrupt brought up by habeas corpus is not to be discharged because the return to the writ sets forth the warrant of committal imperfectly, and in such a case the Ld. Ch. before he enters upon the question of the validity of the committal, will ascertain whether the warrant is truly set forth in the return, and if it is not so set forth, he will order the return to be amended. In re. of Power, 2 Russ. 583.

Where bankrupt committed by commissioner is brought up by habeas corpus, notice must be given to the assignees; and notice on Saturday afternoon for Monday, unless right to discharge is clear, is not sufficient. Bronley's Case, 2 J. & W. 453. BANKCY.; NOTICE.

The Ld. Ch. can issue the writ of habeas corpus at common law in vacation. Crowley's Case, 2 Swan. 1. S. C. Buck, 264. JURISDICTION.

The mode of reviewing the judgment of commissioners of bankruptcy committing the bankrupt for not answering satisfactorily, is by habeas corpus. Exp. King, 11 Ves. 425. BANKCY. REVIEWING JUDGMENT OF COMMISSIONERS.

Defendant in confinement under sentence for felony cannot be brought up by habeas corpus upon an attachment for want of an answer. Rogers v. Kirkpatrick, 3 Ves. 573. PR. ATTACHMENT FOR WANT OF ANSWER.

VOL. II.

Special return to an attachment for not appearing, that defendant was imprisoned for felony, the plaintiff must proceed in the usual way by habeas corpus. S. C. id. 471. PR. ATTACHMENT; PR. FELONY.

A habeas corpus and a certiorari differ; the latter removes the body cum causa, and the former declares ergo in the superior court. Woodcraft v. Kingston, 2 Atk. 317. CERTIORARI.

Motion for a habeas corpus to bring up defendant, to charge him in contempt for not answering, he being then in Newgate under a criminal sentence, refused, the application being founded on the return of the messenger, and not of the sheriff; and had it been otherwise, the motion was unnecessary, because defendant was sufficiently charged by the attachment issued to the sheriff. J. J. v. Aylett, 2 Dick. 658.

Habeas corpus to bring up infant, arrested for necessities, to have guardian assigned, must be by motion not petition. Home v. Lacey, Dick. 170.

Defendant in marshalsea for debt must be brought by habeas corpus to answer contempt. Brandon v. Knight, Dick. 160.

Bankrupt committed to Newgate for not answering commissioners, habeas corpus under 31 Car. 2. c. 2. directed to keeper of Newgate. Rex v. Horne, Dick. 67.

Habeas corpus to warden of Fleet to have defendant in court to be charged with debt on recognizance. Ward v. Crouch, Cary, 71.

Defendant, a prisoner in Bristol, being in contempt for disobedience of a decree, a habeas corpus cum causa was granted to turn him over to the Fleet, and on his persisting in his disobedience, a sequestration issued. Elcard v. Warren, 2 Rep. Ch. 151.

One in the Fleet for breach of a decree for not vacating a judgment, by judgment in a feigned action in K. B. gets himself turned over thither, and thereby getting liberty to go abroad, got the defendant in the judgment taken in execution. On a habeas corpus defendant in equity was brought hither, and re-committed to the Fleet, and confined to his chamber, and a habeas corpus with a long return, granted to the defendant at law. Baker v. Beaumont, 1 Ch. Ca. 32.

XLV. HEARING, AND SETTING DOWN CAUSE FOR

See also PR. ANSWER, 17. (K)—PR. CAUSE, ANSWERING, &c.—PR. REFERRING.

Where cause is set down in two courts, solicitor shall certify this to registrar of court where first set down. See 11 Ves. 53. 38th Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

Short causes in the general paper are to be placed in the paper for the last cause day in each term, but no cause is to be placed as a short cause in which any question arises, or any point is to be discussed. Gen. Order, T. T. 1824. 1 Mclell. 708. Id. 13 Price, 744.

Exceptions standing in the paper for argument, may only be heard at the sitting of the court. Memorandum, 1818. 5 Price, 607. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER.

Ordered, that the paper of causes shall be made out from general paper as they stand, and that no cause shall be omitted unless specially directed by himself, upon application to him in this court, except in cases where causes are abated, in which case cause abated is to be adjourned to the column of abated causes, and notice of such abatement given to registrar; not to apply to causes in which attorney-general is party. Gen. Order, Nov. 14, 1817, Dan. 63.

Where abated causes are restored to paper by order for hearing, they shall be put at bottom of paper of the day. Gen. Order, 20th Nov. 1817. Id. ib.

No motion to hasten a hearing, nor cause entered with registrar for hearing, without six clerk's certificate that pleadings are filed, for which no fee to be taken. Id. 287.

If solicitor offers at hearing to read pleadings not duly signed, cause to be put off, and solicitor fined. Id. 289.

Cause to be put off, if depositions made in fraud of examiners. Id. 302.

Cause to be put off when parties are not ready at beginning of term. Id. 310.

No cause to be set down for hearing the same term publication passes. Id. 319. 333.

Exception thereto. Id. 319. 334.

If plaintiff does not set it down term after, defendant may. Id. 319.

No cause is to be set down, unless six clerk certifies he hath seen depositions published. Id. 336.

If solicitors do not come prepared with their proofs properly folio'd, so as to refer to the passage tendered to be read, the cause will be ordered to stand over on payment by the solicitor of the costs of the day. Order Exch. E. 1821, 9 Price, 343.

Each Wednesday during the sitting to be for short causes, whether hearing or re-hearing; and the registrar to make out a short list accordingly, inserting therein such causes and re-hearings only as shall be ordered on petition to be transposed from the long list to such short list to be heard before the chancellor; the party obtaining such order to serve the same on the opposite party's clerk full four days before the hearing. Ord. Ch. Irel. 7th May, 1808. O'Keeffe's Ed. 107.

When the costs of the day are ordered to be paid, they are to be considered the costs out of pocket. Ord. Ch. Irel. 13th May, 1807. Id. 106.

Where a cause shall be struck out of the paper by reason of the non-attendance of the attorney, no motion to restate such cause shall be entertained, till the attorney first pay to the box 13s. 4d., which sum he shall not afterwards bring in charge, nor the officer tax, against his client. Ord. Exch. Irel. 24th Feb. 1795. 1r. T. Rep. 601.

Ordered, that before any cause be called on, the solicitor deliver to each of the barons, a statement in writing containing the names and interests of the parties in the cause, together with the prayer of the bill. Ord. Exch. M. 1793. Kirkby's Ord. Exch. 46.

If defendant, having been served with subpoena, make default at the hearing, defendant's answer, and the depositions, shall be read, and thereupon be decreed or dismissed, unless the court shall see cause to give defendant a day to shew cause against a decree. Ord. Ch. Irel. O'Keeffe's Ed. 9. But when a party appears and answers, he must appear at the hearing, and not suffer a conditional decree, provided subpoena to hear judgment has been served. Ord. Ch. Irel. 27th Jan. 1792. Id. 84.

If defendant, being served to hear judgment, make default at the hearing, and has a day given him to shew cause against the decree, he shall not be heard therein until he first pay 5l. costs. Ord. Exch. 30. Kirkby's Ed. 17.

If a defendant appear in court in consequence of a subpoena, or an order to appear gratis, and plaintiff makes default, the bill shall be dismissed with costs. Ord. Exch. 27th June, 1788. Kirkby's Ord. 44.

All causes wherein publication shall not have passed, to be set down after the causes wherein publication shall have passed; and all causes depending on reference to the deputy remembrancer, after the causes wherein publication shall not have passed, and when reports shall have been signed in such last mentioned causes, and no exceptions taken, such causes to be at the head of the particular paper for the day, and in case exceptions be taken to reports, the same to be set down within eight days after filing. Ord. Exch. 21st May, 1778. 2 Fowl. 171.

No cause to be received by the registrar, to be put into the paper, after six in the afternoon of the day before the day for which the cause is set down. Ord. Exch. 20th June, 1729. Kirkby's Ord. Exch. 30.

No cause to be put into the paper of twelve till after the return of the subpoena to hear judgment. Ord. Exch. 1819. 7 Price, 560.

Where causes are set down for further directions, a copy of the report and the mandatory part of the decree must be left at the C. B.'s chambers two days before the hearing. Id. 630.

If plaintiff be not ready at the day appointed for the hearing, if the court have leisure to hear it, and defendant be ready, then defendant is to be dismissed with costs, unless the court see just cause to appoint a further day. In Order 18, O'Keeffe's Ed. 9. For the future the Ld. Ch. will strike out any cause that is set down in the paper, (unless some reasons appear by affidavit,) if the parties be not ready at the day fixed for hearing. Ord. Ch. Irel. 5th May, 1719. Id. 29.

Causes adjourned for compromise not to be set down among the short causes until the treaty of compromise be determined. Ord. Exch. 15th June, 1790. Kirkby's Ed. 45.

All subpoenas to hear judgment to be made returnable the first hearing day in the term after issuing the same, and all the causes to be set down for the first hearing day of such term, pursuant to the return of such subpoenas. Ord. Ch. Irel. 16th Nov. 1813. O'Keeffe's Ed. 109. Ord. 12th Nov. 1792. 23rd Feb. 1793. Id. 85. S. P.

Cause may be regularly set down without consent in the vacation, after the term in which publication passes. Partridge v. Carr, 1 S. & S. 466.

Where one of several defendants sets down a cause, he is only bound to serve the plaintiff, and the plaintiff is bound to serve the other defendants with notice. Smith v. Wells, 6 Mad. 193. See Clarke v. Dunne, 5 Mad. 474. Pr. Notice.

A cause having been once set down for hearing, the bill cannot be afterwards dismissed on a mere motion for the purpose, though after an order to amend obtained, or in default the bill is not dismissed. The course is to set the cause down for hearing, and if plaintiff do not then attend, the bill will be dismissed. Lyance v. Wye, 9 Price, 166.

Court will set down cause pro forma and put it at the head of the paper, to enable witness, attending from public office in country to prove document, to return. Swift v. Grace, id. 146.

Subpoena to appear and rejoin is not necessary to enable plaintiff to proceed to hearing, and no instance of such subpoena known. Johnson v. Mackenness, id.

213. S. P. Petre v. Wills, id. 670. PR. SUSPENSE TO APPEAR AND REJOIN.

Cause cannot be set down unless by consent in same term in which rule to pass publication is given. Lord v. Genslin, 5 Mad. 83. PR. PUBLICATION.

The practice of the Exchequer, permitting the plaintiff in an issue to make default once at the trial, does not prevail in Chancery. Bearblock v. Tyler, 1 Jac. & W. 226. PR. IN EXCHEQUER.

Multifariousness cannot be objected to at the hearing; it should be done by demurrer. Ward v. Cooke, 5 Mad. 122. PR. MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

Before publication passed (plaintiff having obtained order to enlarge), plaintiff set down his cause, and issued subpoena to hear judgment: held irregular. Subpoena quashed, and cause struck out of paper. Ellis v. King, 4 Mad. 126. PR. PUBLICATION.

When the interval is short between the publication and the hearing, the court will grant time to examine whether the deposition was regularly taken, it being too late to object during the hearing. Gordon v. Gordon, 1 Swan. 171. PR. DEPOSITION, TIME TO EXAMINE.

On a demurrer, if plaintiff has no affidavits of service of subpoena to hear judgment, the cause may be struck out of the paper; if an affidavit of service be produced, the court will hear the plaintiff. Peasfold v. Ramsbottom, 1 Swan. 562.

Bill of foreclosure cannot be set down as a short cause, except by consent. Rashleigh v. Dayman, 2 Mad. 147. PR. FORECLOSURE, BILL OF.

Cause cannot be heard against some of defendants in absence of rest, although it is not intended to proceed against them. Bill must be formally dismissed as to them. Rumney v. Morgan, 4 Price, 266. PR. BILL, DISMISSAL OF.

To shew cause against a decree, on default by defendant at the hearing, the order must be to set down the cause on some day immediately, not after the causes already set down. Marg. Aispach v. Noel, 19 Ves. 593. PR. SHEWING CAUSE AGAINST DECREE BY DEFAULT.

Where defendant does not appear at hearing of cause, on usual affidavit a decree is obtained, and it is afterwards moved to set down the cause again, the court will direct a particular day on which it is to be heard. Id. S. C. 1 Mad. 313.

Plea set down by defendant, if he does not appear when plea called on, and on affidavit of plaintiff having been served with order to set plea down, will be overruled; and if no such affidavit made, will be struck out of paper, and will not be restored without affidavit accounting for delay. Mazarredo v. Maitland, 2 Mad. 38. PR. PLEA.

Private hearings always on the consent of both parties. In re: Ld. Portsmouth, Coop. 106.

No instance of a bill of interpleader brought to a hearing. Martinius v. Helmuth, cited in Stevenson v. Anderson, 2 V. & B. 412. note (i). 2nd Edit. INTERPLEADER.

A cause may be set down for further directions, or upon equity reserved before Ld. Ch. or M. R. without regard to circumstances where it was heard originally. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 11 Ves. 53. PR. FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

Bill to perpetuate testimony merely, ought not to be brought to a hearing, but if it prays relief, the defendant may be set down for dismissal. Vaughan v. Fitzgerald, 1 Sch. & L. 316. PR. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

Upon a decree taken by default at the hearing, the evidence is not to be entered as read. Stubbs v. —, 10 Ves. 30. PR. EVID., ENTRY OF AS READ.

Plaintiff may except to the report, and at the same time set down the cause for further directions. Freere, 6 Ves. 424. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Plea of another suit depending for the same cause, referred to the master of course, without being set down. Daniel v. Mitchell, 1 Ves. J. 484. S. G. 3 Bro. C. C. 844. PR. PLEA OF FORMER SUIT.

Petition to set down cause for further directions, or such further order as the court should think fit, dismissed; though the parties could not proceed; an enquiry before the master being rendered useless by the event of a verdict on issue directed, and farther directions having been reserved till after the trial and report. Dixon v. Olmuis, 1 Ves. J. 153.

Bare filing exceptions is not showing cause against confirmation of report; they must be set down to argue. Hall v. Mullinger, Dick. 604. Id. Abel v. Nokes, id. 730.

Plaintiff cannot enlarge publication, and examine witnesses after he has set down cause. Yate v. Bolland, id. 495.

Plaintiff cannot set down cause until after publication, unless publication be enlarged at instance of defendant, with proviso that plaintiff may. Id. ib.

If publication passed, plaintiff may set down cause, and if no witnesses have been examined, may enlarge and examine. Id. ib.

A cause coming on to be heard, stood over with liberty for the plaintiff to amend. He did amend, but did not proceed further. Defendant may move to dismiss the bill for want of prosecution, and it is not necessary to set down the cause again for the purpose. Mitchel v. Lowndes, 2 Cox, 15. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL; PR. LIBERTY TO AMEND.

A defendant in an interpleading suit not appearing at the hearing, a decree was made against him with costs. Hodges v. Smith, 1 Cox, 357.

A trustee not appearing at the hearing, a decree was made against him, with leave to shew cause against it. He then set down the cause again, and prayed his costs of the suit, on paying the costs of the day, which were granted; the M. R. saying that his having paid the costs of the day placed him rectum in curia. Norris v. Norris, id. 183.

Defendant made default at the hearing, but it appearing from the opening of the bill, that plaintiff had no equity against him, the court dismissed the bill, but by reason of defendant's making default, the court did not give him costs. Speidull v. Jerbis, Dick. 633.

A bill was brought to establish a will and execute the trusts, and upon an issue directed, a verdict was found in favour of the will, the cause coming on upon the equity reserved; it appeared the trusts were all executed; the court thought such a bill should not have been brought to a hearing, and dismissed it with costs. But this was reversed upon a rehearing. Marlar v. Whittaker, id. 805.

Motion to transfer exceptions set down before the Chancellor, to the M. R. on suggestion that the cause was set down to be reheard before him; said at the bar, and admitted, that exceptions ought to be set down before the Chancellor, but that on special reasons he might order them to be transferred; but his lordship denied the motion. Fretwell v. Key, id. 605.

Application, that a cause may be set down upon an early day, must be by petition. Roberts v. Hartley, 2 Bro. C. C. 56.

In equity, you may take exceptions for want of parties at the hearing of the cause or answer, but you cannot plead it in abatement at law after you have gone upon the merits. Durcent v. Hatton, 2 Atk. 510.

When supplemental bill is brought for new matter discovered since hearing of cause, but before decree is entered, if defendant is able to shew that there is no new matter discovered, he must take advantage of it, and cannot insist on it merely at the hearing. Challen v. Mackworth,

2 Atk. 40. S. C. Barnard, 445. PL. SUPPLEMENTAL BILL IN NATURE OF REVIEW, DEFERENCE TO.

When at hearing of cause objection is taken for want of parties, court should order cause to stand over, with liberty to amend bill by adding parties, plaintiff paying costs. Green v. Poole, 5 Bro. P. C. 604. PL. PARTIES.

The cause coming on to be heard, and the bill and answer opened, was referred to arbitrators, but nothing being done on the reference, it came on again. It was insisted and admitted by the registrar, that a decree ex parte, on defendant's default, is made on affidavits of service, and reading a piece of the answer. But if a cause is heard, and the bill and answer opened, and then is adjourned, though defendant make default at the next hearing, the decree shall be absolute; for the second hearing is to be considered a continuation of the former when he did appear. Halsey v. Smyth, Mos. 186. Venemore v. Venemore, Dick. 93.

Defendant by consent to appear gratis at the hearing, and pray no day over, making default, decree was pronounced. Dean v. Abel, Dick. 287.

Suit is dismissed with costs, plaintiff not appearing at hearing. Fincham v. Backwood, Cary, 45.

Decree by default, and a petition for a rehearing: the person in possession of the decree did not attend at the rehearing. Bill dismissed with costs as to the petition. Wilson v. Dobbs, Sel. Ca. Ch. 50.

A decree was for plaintiff nisi, who did not appear; the M. R. looked upon it as giving up the judgment, and dismissed the bill with costs. Snappe v. Furden, id. 6.

Bill to perpetuate the testimony of a will, if brought to hearing, to be dismissed with costs. Hull v. Hodgeson, 2 P. W. 162. PR. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

If a cause comes to a hearing on a bill of discovery, it must be struck out of the paper; but the bill cannot be dismissed not praying relief. Anon. Mos. 185. But see Gurish v. D-noran, 2 Atk. 163. S. C. Barn. 420. PR. BILL OF DISCOVERY; PR. BILL, DISMISSAL OF.

A cause may be referred for irregularity in the setting down after a decree. Page v. Page, Mos. 44. PR. DECREE.

Bank having notice of bill, refused to permit transfer of stock, though no injunction. Ordered, that they should permit transfer on a certain day, unless plaintiff obtained injunction in meantime. Ross v. Sherer, 6 Mad. 1. BANK TRANSFER.

Plaintiff having filed bill praying injunction, served defendant with subpoena and notice not to permit transfer. Answers put in, and no injunction moved for. On motion, party was ordered to permit the transfer, unless before a given day plaintiff should move for injunction to restrain him. S. C. 5 Mad. 458.

If the order for an injunction on payment of costs of the action, in the usual form of injunctions after decree for administration, it will be improper if the parties entitled to injunction, having to pay costs as a preliminary, might, from the situation of the estate, be enabled to obtain it in time. Drewry v. Thacker, 3 Swan: 541. PR. DECREE FOR ADMINISTRATION.

A writ of injunction issued after execution, is in the same form with the common writ before execution. Hawkshaw v. Parkins, 2 Swan. 529.

In injunction cases, the master's report on the question of impertinence must, at least, without reference to the inquiry whether there is further impertinence, have the same weight as his report on the question of insufficiency. *Raphael v. Injunction with clause, "si ita sit." Christopherus v. Chomeley, Cary, 37.

2. How and when obtained, and motion for.

Though that part of bill, preliminary to prayer for subpoena, asks for injunction, yet if the prayer of process omits it, it is a sufficient ground for refusing injunction. Anon. Urged by Mr. Knight. K. C. 6 Nov. 1829, and acquiesced in by V. C. (MSS. S. S.). PL. PRAYER.

The general prayer for relief will not extend to an injunction which will not be granted unless expressly prayed for. Davill v. Peacock, Barn. 27. Savory v. Dyer, Amb. 70, and see Jesus Col. v. Bloome, 3 Atk. 262. Id.

Order for injunction for want of answer obtained after master has signed, but before filing of his report of insufficiency of answer: Held irregular. Wynne v. Jackson, 2 S. & S. 226. PR. MASTER'S REPORT.

Injunction on bill and affidavit, charging breaches of trust, refused to debtor to restrain trustees from acting under a trust deed executed by him for benefit of them and his other creditors, their answer not having been put in or called for. Isard v. Colbron, 1 M. & Cl. 181. S. C. 13 Price, 327. DEBTOR & CRED.; TRUSTEE.

Injunction to restrain setting up outstanding term in bar of ejectment will not be granted on motion. Barney v. Lockett, 1 S. & S. 419. S. P. Northey v. Pearce, Id. 420. PR. MOTION; OUTSTANDING TERM.

Upon demurrer being overruled, the plaintiff must, out of term time, wait for the next seal day to move for an injunction. Claughton v. Hadwell, 6 Mad. 299. PR. DEMURRER OVERRULED.

Where bill found scandalous by master, injunction not granted till matter expunged. Davenport v. Davenport, 6 Mad. 251. PR. SCANDAL.

In an interpleading suit, the injunction may be moved for before the time for answering has expired. Warrington v. Wheatstone, 1 Jac. 205. PR. INTERPLEADER; PR. ANSWER.

In moving for an injunction after answer, affidavits filed after the answer may be read in support of allegations in the bill, which are not noticed by the answer. Jefferys v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 298. AFFIDAVIT.

Injunction, except to stay waste, can only, out of term, be moved for on seal day, and although motions be continued on following day, it is not a seal day, and no injunction can be then moved for, which party was not prepared to move on seal day. Rouze v. Jerrold, 5 Mad. 45.

Under the circumstances, the vice chancellor appointed a day during petitions for showing cause against dissolving an injunction. Felding v. Capes, 4 Mad. 293.

On motion for injunction to stay proceedings at law, answer is evidence for defendant, as to all facts to which other testimony could be received. Bott v. Arch, 4 Mad. 255. PR. EVIDENCE; ANSWER.

An action having been commenced in 1816, the plaintiff in July 1817, obtained a verdict; and a new trial having been ordered on 21st Jan. 1818, on the 9th Feb. the defendant at law filed a bill for the production of documents, which he had given notice to the plaintiff to produce on the trial, but which were not then produced; the commission day at the assizes being the 7th March, a motion on the 3d March, to extend the common injunction to stay trial, refused. Fild v. Beaumont, 1 Swan, 204. LACHES.

The further answer of a defendant, being sworn at the house of a master, and filed in the Six Clerks' Office, on the evening of the day on which the master had reported a former answer insufficient, an order obtained at the sitting of the court on the next morning for an injunction, is irregular; secus, if the answer had not been filed on the day on which it was sworn. Duckworth v. Boulcott, 3 Swan. 266. PR. ANSWER, FILING.

A plaintiff is entitled to the common injunction, immediately on the attachment issued. Bruce v. Welch, 2 Mer. 474. PR. ATTACHMENT.

In charity suits the court is not bound by strict rules of practice in granting an injunction to stay proceedings at law. Anderson v. Pearson, 3 Mer. 396. CHARITY.

Jurisdiction by injunction, where the effect will be to stop a great trading concern, exercised with caution; not ex parte, but on notice, with the opportunity of opposing an affidavit. Crowder v. Tinkler, 19 Ves. 618.

Application for injunction and appointment of receiver should be made the subject of two successive motions. Lawson v. Morgan, 1 Pri. 303. PR. MOTION; PR. APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER.

Service of subpoena, issued on an injunction bill, though effected at eleven o'clock on night of return day, and at so great a distance from town, as to render it impracticable for defendant to appear in time to prevent an injunction for want of appearance, is sufficient. Nightingale v. Merryweather, 1 Pri. 287. PR. SUBPOENA. SERVICE OF.

Court will discharge order for injunction obtained on motion of course, if it ought to have been moved for on notice. Reed v. Bowyer, 1 Pri. 101. PR. MOTION OF COURSE.

Motion to dismiss the bill for want of prosecution since the answer, not prevented by an injunction till answer. Notice not proper, and the production of the six clerk's certificate to the registrar sufficient without producing it in court. Day v. Snee, 3 V. & B. 178. PR. MOTION TO DISMISS.

Where exceptions have been filed nunc pro tunc, court will not grant injunction on opening a material exception, unless the plaintiff, on obtaining his order, gave a four-day rule for arguing the exceptions. Edwards v. Hogarth, 1 Pri. 147. PR. EXCEPTIONS NUNC PRO TUNC.

Pending exceptions to answer, a further answer cannot be filed in the exchequer, until those exceptions are argued and disposed of; tender of such further answer is a submission to exceptions, and injunction may be therefore moved for as of course. Edwards v. Johnson, 1 Pri. 203. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER; PR. FURTHER ANSWER.

After the dismissal of a bill for the specific execution of an agreement, the plaintiff being unable to make a good title, an injunction to restrain him from proceeding on the agreement at law, was granted on motion, the defendant undertaking forthwith to file a bill. McNamara v. Arthur, 2 Ball & B. 349. MOTION; SPEC. PERF.; DISMISSAL OF BILL.

Injunction to stay proceedings at law, dissolved for irregularity, plaintiff having obtained the injunction as of course, for want of answer of two defendants who resided abroad, without notice to the other defendant, who was sole plaintiff at law, and had put in his answer in time. Cooper v. Flindt, Wightw. 409. PR. INJUNC. NOTICE OF MOTION FOR.

Injunction on motion of course to deliver possession of land decreed; as a ground for the writ of assistance, the only mode of obtaining immediate possession: a court of equity properly acting only in personam. Huguenin v. Buseley, 15 Ves. 180. Lewes v. Morgan, 5 Pri. 468. WRIT OF ASSISTANCE.

Injunction pending a demurrer, irregular. Cousins v. Smith, 13 Ves. 164. PL. DEMURRER.

Injunction granted in vacation. Temple v. Bk. of England, 6 Ves. 771. VACATION.

A, being sued at law on policy of insurance which he had made as agent for B, on motion for injunction, on affidavit of B's residing abroad, A must have notice. Beauchroft v. Gordon, 3 Anst. 686. NOTICE.

On a bill for a discovery and injunction, the defendant (plaintiff at law,) admitted himself to be a mere agent for the other defendants, and ignorant of the transaction; the other defendants lived abroad; an injunction was moved for as of course, but there appearing a danger of losing other material evidence by the delay, it was refused. Vaughan v. Moore, 2 Anst. 502. EVIDENCE.

Motion granted for an injunction for one partner against another, the defendant being in contempt, and served personally, and not appearing. Reed v. Bowers, 4 Bro. C. C. 441. PARTNER.

Where the defendant is abroad, a motion for injunction to stay proceedings at law must be on special ground. Revet v. Brahan, 2 Bro. C. C. 640.

After a decree for a specific performance of an agreement for a lease, and the lease had been executed in pursuance of such decree, the plaintiff brought an action at law to recover from defendant damages for the delay in the performance of that agreement. Although the defendant would have been clearly entitled to an injunction in a new suit, yet the decree having been wholly executed, the court cannot make such an order in the original cause. Ford v. Compton, 1 Cox, 296. PR. DECREE.

The bill being referred for impertinence, the plaintiff cannot move (as of course) for an injunction for want of an answer, but is in the same situation as if the time for answering were not out, until the master has reported on the reference. Neale v. Wadson, 1 Cox, 104. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 574. PR. REFERENCE FOR IMPERTINENCE.

Where a suit was abated, and defendant would not appear to revive, an injunction was granted, notwithstanding the cause was not revived. Dk. Hamilton v. El. Macclesfield, 1 Eq. Ab. 285. PR. APPEARANCE; PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR.

Injunction granted of course, demurrer to bill being overruled. Rushleigh v. Buller, Dick. 153.

Where injunction was issued irregularly, held defendant had not waived objection to the irregularity, by asking for time to answer. Travers v. Stafford, Ambl. 105. S. C. 12 Ves. 19. PR. IRREGULARITY, WAIVER OF; PR. TIME TO ANSWER; WAIVER.

Proper injunction cannot be granted, unless expressly prayed by the bill. Savory v. Dyer, Ambl. 70. PL. PRAYER.

The court will only interfere in cases of necessity before answer. Close v. Hemlyn, Ridgw. 258.

A plea must first be removed out of the way, before a plaintiff can have an injunction to stay proceedings at law. Anon. 2 Atk. 113.

After a plea put in, there can be no motion for an injunction till the plea is argued. Humphreys v. Humphreys, 3 P. W. 396. PL. PLEA.

3. Obtained on amended bill.

A plaintiff who had obtained the common injunction, as of course, procured an order to amend, and then obtained an injunction upon the amended bill, as of course: held, that a special application ought to have been made. Horne v. Watson, 2 Sim. 86.

The injunction is not applied for on original bill; yet if bill is amended, injunction will be granted, as of course, on defendant taking time to answer amended bill. Statham v. Hughes, 2 S. & S. 382. TIME TO ANSWER.

Injunction, refused on merits in answer, is not of course, on filing amended bill. Bliss v. Boscawen, 2 V. & B. 101.

Injunction, of course, for want of answer to an amended bill; an answer having been put in to the original bill, and no injunction obtained upon that. Nelthorpe v. Law, 13 Ves. 323. See Gade v. Worral, 2 Anst. 553. PR. ANSWER.

After an injunction dissolved on the merits, the plaintiff on an amended bill cannot have another injunction without a special affidavit of merits, though the defendant be in contempt for not answering. Lingham v. Toule, 1 Anst. 188.

Injunction granted to amended bill on special motion without affidavit, after injunction dissolved on the original bill. Edwards v. Jenkins, 3 Bro. C. C. 425.

When an injunction is dissolved on merits, and plaintiff amends his bill, or brings a supplemental bill for the same matter, he cannot, as of course move for an injunction till answer. Travers v. Stafford, Amb. 104. S. C. 2 Ves. 19.

Amendments made to bill after injunction, cannot be used in support of injunction. Veray. Glynn, Dick. 441. Therefore if injunction is obtained on original bill, and defendant answers, and plaintiff amends, proceedings to get rid of injunction are on original bill and answer to it. Id. ib.

4. Special.

The plaintiff in bill of interpleader, may move at once for a special injunction, on payment of money into court, without first obtaining the common injunction. Vicary v. Widger, 1 Sim. 15. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Special injunction granted to stay proceedings, in an action in the C. P. at Lancaster. Hine v. Fiddes, 2 S. & S. 370. COURTS, INFERIOR.

Special injunction to restrain proceedings in ejectment between two defendants, reus'd, where the plaintiff's landlord might have made himself defendant at law. Moses v. Lewis, 1 Jac. 302. EJECTMENT; LANDLORD & TENANT.

Court will not restrain party from taking out execution on warrant of attorney, on affidavit of merits, and of irreparable mischief, by special injunction before answer. Naylor v. Christie, 8 Price, 534. EXECUTION; WARRANT OF ATTORNEY.

Injunction to restrain defendant, who was insolvent, from receiving testator's effects generally, and from prosecuting actions at law for that purpose, granted under the circumstances before answer. Mansfield v. Shaw, 3 Mad. 100. INSOLVENCY; EXECUTOR.

Motion refused for injunction to stay proceedings at law, on filing bill of interpleader and affidavit. Craggon v. Symons, 3 Mad. 130. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Although in cases in the nature of waste, an injunction will sometimes be granted ex parte, even after appearance; yet, if in such a case an injunction has been obtained for default of appearance, and it turns out that an appearance had in fact been entered at the time when the injunction was moved for, the order will be discharged. Harrison v. Cockerell, 3 Mer. 1.

Motion for a special injunction to restrain defendant (plaintiff at law) from suing out execution upon a judgment obtained by him in his action, previous to the common injunction being obtained, refused, as contrary to practice, the court only granting such special injunction in cases where the plaintiff has had no opportunity of obtaining the common injunction. Franklyn v. Thomas, 3 Mer. 225.

Court will grant injunction to stay proceedings before answer, even where defendant, having obtained time for return of commission sent abroad to take answer, is not in contempt for not putting it in; if it is shown, that in consequence of the necessary immediate delay, the action at law would be tried before the expiration of the time allowed for its return. Parnley v. Night, 2 Price, 144.

Special injunction to restrain distress will be granted before answer, if defendant is in contempt for not answering. Heming v. Emus, 1 Price, 386. DISTRESS FOR RENT, &c.; PR. CONTEMPT.

It is sufficient for purpose of obtaining injunction to restrain proceedings at law, that bill and affidavit state that an unsettled account subsists, and that on such account, plaintiff at law would be debted to plaintiff in equity, though bill shows it might be set off at law. Watkinson v. Pücher, 2 Price, 46. EXCHANGE; ACCOUNT, SET OFF.

Injunction against proceeding at law only on some default, either of appearance or answer. James v. Downes, 18 Ves. 522.

Injunction before answer to prevent irreparable mischief, defendant having previously established his right at law. Chalk v. Wyatt, 3 Mer. 688.

Service of subpoena necessary in the case of special injunction, but the practice having been unsettled, the defendant was put to dissolve upon the merits, and the plaintiff permitted to shew cause by affidavit. Att. Gen. v. Nichol, 16 Ves. 338. PR. SERVICE OF SUBPOENA.

Undertaking upon sale of the goodwill of a trade not to carry on the same business, and to use the best endeavour to assist the purchaser, &c. The remedy for a breach is an action or issue quantum damnificatus; and an information against proceeding under a judgment for the consideration, upon affidavits before answer, was refused. Shackle v. Baker, 14 Ves. 468. GOODWILL; COVENANT, BREACH OF.

Motion under special circumstances upon affidavit before answer, to restrain proceeding under a judgment, refused. Lane v. Williams, 6 Ves. 790. JUDGMENT AT LAW.

Injunction in pressing cases upon petition and affidavit. In this instance, converting old houses in London to a purpose that made them dangerous to the public, the Ld. Ch. granted the injunction; but said the lord mayor, by his general jurisdiction, could apply a much more proper and effectual remedy. Mayor, &c of London v. Bolt, 5 Ves. 129. NUISANCE; PR. PETITION.

The court will grant an injunction to prevent the negotiating a note obtained at play, upon affidavit, before service of subpoena. _____ v. Blackwood, 3 Anst. 851. GAMING; PROMISSORY NOTE.

Court will not interfere by injunction, before answer, to stay a breach of contract, where no trespass is committed. Longman v. Calliford, 3 Anst. 645. CONTRACT, BREACH OF.

Injunction not granted to permit transfer of stock until defendants have appeared, or in contempt, &c., upon notice. Doolittle v. Walton, Dick. 442.

Injunction not before answer in a special case, on a particular right; otherwise in a plain case of waste or nuisance. Att. Gen. v. Doughy, 2 Ves. 453.

After appearance, no special injunction (such as the navigating of a ship) without notice. Marasco v. Bolton, 2 Ves. 112.

Injunction against stopping lights until trial of the right, which was directed on the motion; court will never, on motion, make an adverse order to pull down what has been done. Ryder v. Bentham, 2 Ves. 543. TITLE; ANCIENT LIGHTS.

Injunction before answer to restrain other ferry boats, decreed; granted to stay waste, or where the right appears of record. Anon. 1 Ves. 476.

Injunction, on filing of bill, to stay induction of defendant to living. Potter v. Chapman, Dick. 146. S. C. Amb. 98.

An injunction will never be granted upon a bill and affidavit, to stay any proceedings at law till the defendant prays a dedimus, or is in contempt: an injunction upon a dedimus must never be granted concerning the possession, but only to stay proceedings at law. Anon. 2 Freem. 6. PR. DEDIMUS.

The court will grant an injunction before answer for a plain apparent nuisance, on a certificate, affidavit, and petition, shewing that the defendant, by his act in court, or otherwise, has committed a nuisance, the court expects the party to shew his right, and how he is particularly aggrieved, before the writ can be granted. Hind's Ch. Prac. 594. NUISANCE.

5. Perpetual.

After foreclosure and sale, action by the mortgagee for the balance opens the foreclosure; therefore, the mortgagee should have time to get back the estate and tender a re-conveyance, and the mortgagor to redeem: but the mortgagee having taken possession a considerable time ago, and the balance being inconsiderable, a perpetual injunction was decreed. Perry v. Barker, 13 Ves. 198. MORTGAGE, FORECLOSURE OF, HOW OPENED.

A right is not considered to be determined so as to be a ground for a perpetual injunction by any one trial at law, unless upon an issue sent out of this court for the purpose. Robinson v. Ld. Byron, 2 Cox, 4. ISSUE AT LAW.

Perpetual injunction granted against a bond for the purchase of an estate upon the public policy of the law, although the office was not within the statute. Hannington v. Du Chatel, 1 Bro. C. C. 124. BOND; PUBLIC POLICY.

Perpetual injunction granted against devisee, where testator had had injunction decreed against him in suit. Lowe v. Jolliffe, Dick. 390.

Perpetual injunction granted nisi against disputing a will in ecclesiastical court, after decree confirming it, and that decree affirmed in lords. Buckingham v. Buckingham, 2 Eq. Ab. 526.

Perpetual injunction granted to stay proceedings on bill of exchange void and vacated by foreign competent jurisdiction. Burrows v. Jemino, 2 Eq. Ab. 525. FOREIGN LAW.

Where there had been two verdicts in favour of plaintiff on trials of ejectments, a perpetual injunction was granted. Leighton v. Leighton, 1 Stra. 404.

After two trials at bar by direction of the court of chancery, and both verdicts the same way, equity will grant a perpetual injunction and decree upon the right found by the verdicts. S. C. 4 Bro. P. C. 378. VEXATION.

In case of a trust estate devised to be sold, or devised to S, if the will be disputed, after two trials in favour of the will, equity will grant a perpetual injunction. S. C. 1 P. W. 671. WILL.

A made an absolute conveyance of lands to B and his heirs, in consideration of 1500*l.*, which was at that time the full value; but, on the next day, B executed a defeazance, declaring, that if A or his heirs should, within sixteen years, pay B the 1500*l.*, the conveyance should be void. B entered and enjoyed the lands, and, about three years afterwards, made a settlement thereof upon his marriage, and to which settlement A was privy, but took no notice of the defeazance, or ever attempted to refute the general opinion that B was the sole and absolute owner of the lands. After B's death, A set up the defeazance, and filed a bill to redeem, to which the son and heir of B pleaded the purchase deeds and marriage settlement of his father. Held, that the intent of the conveyance being to enable B to obtain a marriage settlement and a considerable portion, such intention was fraudulent, and therefore a perpetual injunction was awarded against A, to stop all further proceedings under the defeazance. Webber v. Farmer, 4 Bro. P. C. 170. FRAUD ON MARRIAGE.

A and B jointly confess a judgment to C for 400*l.*, and afterwards file a bill against him to set it aside as unfairly obtained, and for an injunction: in the mean time, C having got an order for time, the injunction issued of course; but, on putting in his answer, he moved to dissolve the injunction, and being told it was dissolved, he took B in execution upon the judgment; but being afterwards informed that the plaintiff, by filing exceptions to his answer, had continued the injunction, he immediately discharged B out of custody. The judgment being joint, it was insisted that the discharge of one from the execution operated at law as a discharge of both; and therefore A and B brought an audita querela in B. R. to be relieved against the judgment, upon the ground of such discharge; but, on a bill filed by C, the court decreed him the whole 400*l.*, with his costs both at law and in equity, and ordered a perpetual injunction to stay all proceedings on the audita querela. Clerke v. Moore, 4 Bro. P. C. 723. JUDGMENT; DEBTOR & CREDITOR, DISCHARGE; PR. INJUNC.; PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

The court of chancery will award a perpetual injunction to restrain waste, by ploughing, burning, breaking, or sowing of down land. Worsley v. Stuart, 4 Bro. P. C. 377. HUSBANDRY.

After five several trials at bar, and the verdicts all the same way, the court of chancery will grant a perpetual injunction to restrain all further proceedings at law by the litigant parties, or any claiming under them upon the same title. El. Bath v. Sherwin, 4 Bro. P. C. 373. VEXATION.

The court of chancery may grant a perpetual injunction after five trials at bar on the same point, and verdicts the same way. S. C. 10 Mod. 1. PL. BILL OF PEACE.

Chancery will not grant a perpetual injunction, though the party has had five verdicts in ejectment at law, unless there be some ingredient in the cause which gives the court jurisdiction, as trust, fraud, accident, &c. S. C. Prec. Chan. 261. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 2. EJECTMENT.

Against a writ of ayel, after forty-five years' possession, a perpetual injunction was granted. Knight v. Adamson, 2 Freem 106.

A perpetual injunction awarded against a bond of resignation, the patron making an ill use of it. Durston v. Sandys, 2 Vern. 411. BOND OF RESIGNATION.

A decree ought not to be made to bind the inheritance where there has been but one trial at law. Fitton v. Macclesfield, 1 Vern. 293.

Perpetual injunction to restrain proceedings against a Dane, for the seizure of property of English subjects in Iceland, the seizure being sanctioned by the Danish authorities. Blad v. Bamfield, 3 Swan. 604. FOREIGN LAWS.

Where party has been in possession fifty years, and that title is confirmed in chancery, other party is prohibited by injunction from disputing it again in court of law. Clench v. Tomley, Cary, 23.

6. Extent and effect of.

The injunction in Exchequer restrains all proceedings unless issue is or can be joined, which is unless the record be in such a state that by an act of the plaintiff issue can be joined. Rolfe v. Burks, 1 Y. & J. 404.

The injunction on an interpleading bill stays all proceedings. Warington v. Wheatstone, 1 Jac. 205. PR. INTERPLEADER.

The common injunction to stay proceedings at law does not extend to distress for rent. Hughes v. King, 1 Jac. & W. 392. DISTRESS.

Commission to examine abroad so far in nature of proceedings at law; that application for commission is prevented by injunction. Novais v. Derrien, 4 Mad. 327. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

An interlocutory order for an injunction, cannot be considered in argument as affecting the ultimate decision of a cause. Drew v. Harman, 5 Price, 319.

Injunction when sealed at the next seal operates from the order, not from the sealing. Rattray v. Bishop, 3 Mad. 220.

Seemle, that injunction restraining administrator from transferring intestate's stock into his own name, will, by equitable construction, operate to prevent his parting with any of intestate's outstanding estate, which has previously come to his hands. Scott v. Becher, 4 Price, 346. ADMINISTRATOR.

Injunction against proceedings at law, commenced before the suit in equity, stays execution only; but extended to stay trial on an affidavit that the discovery expected will assist the plaintiff. Bishton v. Birch, 2 Ves. & B. 40.

Effect of an injunction in the court of chancery before action commenced, staying all proceedings at law after action commenced, permitting the defendant to call for a plea, and proceed to judgment at law, if in a condition to do so, or if not, to do only what is necessary to enable him to sue, restraining execution. Therefore, after bail excepted to, ruling the sheriff to bring in the body, is a breach of the injunction. Bullen v. Ovey, 16 Ves. 141. INJUNC., BREACH OF.

Injunction stays execution only; not, as in the court of exchequer, trial also; but may afterwards be extended to stay trial upon a slight affidavit. Nettles v. Law, 13 Ves. 323.

Injunction in chancery stays all proceedings if before declaration; if after, it stays execution only. Garlick v. Pearson, 10 Ves. 452.

Injunction before action commenced, prevents the commencement; after action, stays execution only, in chancery, differing from the exchequer, without a distinct application to stay trial. Earnshaw v. Thornhill, 18 Ves. 488.

Injunction is not binding on a person not party in the cause. Iveson v. Harris, 7 Ves. 256.

An injunction against proceeding at law, extends to prevent a suit against the sheriffs, for not paying over money levied in the original suit, before the injunction issued. Bolt v. Stanway, 2 Anst. 556. SHERIFF.

On an injunction obtained, the court will not discharge the party out of custody, if taken on legal process. Willis v. Daniel, 1 Anst. 36. PR. DISCHARGE FROM CUSTODY.

Foreign attachment stayed by injunction. Mildred v. Neate, Dick. 279.

Common injunction does not stay proceedings in spiritual or admiralty court; but must be moved specially. Macnamara v. Macguire, id. 22.

In no case does the court grant injunction of course till hearing. Petter v. Chapman, Ambl. 99. S. C. Dick. 146.

Where bail is put in above, an injunction to stay proceedings against the principal, extends to proceedings against the bail; where bail is only put in below, such an injunction extends to proceedings on the bail bond. Stone v. Affin, Ambl. 32. BAIL.

An injunction does not deny, but admits the jurisdiction of the court of common law, and the ground on which it issues is, that they are making use of their jurisdiction contrary to equity. So where a trustee is suing in the ecclesiastical court for payment of cestui-que trust's legacy into his own hands, or in the case of a portion where the husband is suing for it there before settlement made, the court of equity will, upon the same grounds, restrain them from proceeding. Hill v. Turner, 1 Atk. 516.

Though the court of equity cannot, on petition, prohibit the ecclesiastical court, yet they will restrain a woman who has married a ward of court from proceeding on an excommunication either against the infant or his guardian. Id., 517. WARD OF COURT.

In an injunction, the words pro defectu placiti are intended of an issuable plea; and the words judicium intrare are intended of a final judgment; therefore, if the defendant be in execution, and pleads plene administravit, and the plaintiff at law enters judgment de bonis testatoris cum ucciderint, he may proceed to a scire facias to enquire of assets, and enter judgment thereupon; for the meaning of the injunction is, that the defendant may proceed so far as that nothing shall remain but to take out execution after the injunction is dissolved. Morrice v. Hankey, 3 P. W. 146. see S. C. 2 Eq. Ab. 528.

Injunction before declaration stays action altogether; if declaration delivered, it stays only execution. Anon. 2 Eq. Ab. 529.

Injunction upon an attachment or dedimus, &c. does not stay proceedings in the spiritual court without special order. Anon. 1 P. W. 301. ECCLESIASTICAL COURT.

A, after judgment in ejectment and a writ of possession taken out against him, brings a bill, and has an injunction on a dedimus; this injunction was allowed to extend to the under-sheriff, who had refused to execute the writ, and was in contempt to an attachment in the king's bench before the bill filed. — v. Enerton, 1 Vern. 25.

It is said in Tilley v. Bridge, 2 Vern. 519., that an injunction does not prevent an entry; but see per Master of Rolls in Curtis v. Curtis, 2 Bro. C. C. 631. ENTRY.

7. Service of.

On injunction to stay proceedings where defendant resides abroad, motion that service of subpoena on his attorney at law may be deemed good, must be accompanied by personal affidavit of plaintiff in equity as to merits, and not of his solicitor, unless he has personal knowledge of merits. Kenworthy v. Accmor, 3 Mad. 550. PR. SERVICE OF SUBPOENA SUBSTITUTED; AFFIDAVIT OF MERITS.

Injunction upon affidavit of an intended marriage with a male infant aged eighteen, restraining communication with him until further order; and that service of the order at the house which appeared to be the last place of abode, though apparently shut up, should be good service. Pearce v. Crutchfield, 14 Ves. 206. WARD OF COURT, MARRIAGE.

Plaintiff, who has obtained an order for injunction, is not entitled in point of practice to serve it with the writ of execution before it be passed and entered, although usual to do so; and if he should not so serve it, and there should be an error in drawing up the order, to the prejudice of the defendant, it will be considered contempt, and so treated by court on application to punish the plaintiff for so doing; nor will plaintiff be suffered to avail himself of the excuse of its being a mistake, and all the costs incurred by defendant, arising from such an irregularity, will be ordered to be paid by plaintiff. Scott v. Becher, 4 Price, 346.

Defendant being in court when order for injunction is made, is bound by it from that time, and not from formal service thereof only. Id. ib. PR. INJUNCTION; NOTICE.

And defendant committed for breach after notice of injunction, though not served. Vansandau v. Rose, 2 J. & W. 264.

Exception to the rule requiring personal service of an order of injunction, where the party was present when the order was made, established by Ld. Hardwick; farther extended since by notice by information. — v. —, 1 P. W. 350.

Service of injunction at defendant's house, good. — v. —, 1 P. W. 350.

Where plaintiff obtained injunction for want of an was, but suffered defendant in equity to go to trial, and obtain verdict, and did not serve injunction till defendant in equity sued out fi. fa. on judgment, and dissolved the injunction. Anon. 2 Eq. Ab. 625. LACHES.

Injunction served, and copy delivered; the party serving is not bound to deliver the injunction itself to be composed. Woodward v. King, 2 C. C. 203.

Injunction for want of an answer dissolved because not served for several months after answer came in. Morice v. Bank of England, Kel. 43.

8. Breach of, what constitutes, and commitment for.

Plaintiff obtained the common injunction after four proclamations had been made under an exigent issued in an action commenced against him by defendant: Held, that it was a breach of the injunction for defendant to sue out a writ to compel the sheriff to make a fifth proclamation. Marsack v. Baillie, 2 S. & S. 577.

Giving notice of trial is a breach of injunction to stay trial. Birch v. Brancker, 2 S. & S. 186. NOTICE OF TRIAL.

Taking money out of court of law, paid in there by rule of court, is breach of common injunction against proceedings at law. A motion for that purpose was refused. Parke v. El. Shrewsbury, 1 M'Clel. 103. S. C. 13 Price, 289. PR. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT.

Personal service of a notice of motion to commit for breach of an injunction, is necessary; and cannot be dispensed with, though counsel undertake to appear for the party. Ellerton v. Thirsk, 1 Jac. & W. 376. PR. NOTICE OF MOTION, SERVICE OF.

Defendant committed for breach of an injunction after notice of its having been obtained, although the order for the injunction had not been served. Vansandau v. Rose, 2 Jac. & W. 264. PR. NOTICE; PR. CONTEMPT.

Quere, whether publication of decree of court in the provincial newspaper, is sufficient notice of its contents to an agent in that neighbourhood, so as to commit him for breach of injunction? Laves v. Morgan, 5 Price, 618. NOTICE; AGENT.

Where defendant had been arrested on attachment for contempt in not appearing to subpoena ad resp., and he has given a bail bond to sheriff, and there is an injunction restraining further proceedings in the action, plaintiff should apply for leave to be permitted to sue on the bail bond, notwithstanding the injunction, where defendant has not complied with condition, by appearing. Birdwood v. Hart, 6 Price, 32.

Where an injunction is obtained, even after execution executed, it is a breach of the injunction to call on the sheriff to pay over the money; but if the sheriff had voluntarily paid the money, it seems that would be no breach of the injunction. Sed quere? Franklyn v. Thomas, 3 Mer. 234.

If an injunction is obtained on bill filed after execution executed, the goods not yet being out of the hands of the sheriff, and the sheriff proceeds to sell without process, he will be ordered to pay the money into court. Id. ib.

Where, previous to injunction to stay proceedings after verdict in ejectment, plaintiff at law had taxed costs at law, and obtained writ of possession, it is a breach of injunction to sue out attachment for costs; but injunction being improperly obtained, Ld. Ch. would not commit for contempt. Partington v. Booth, 3 Mer. 148. Woodward v. King, 2 Ch. Ca. 203. PR. CONTEMPT.

Showing cause against a rule nisi for a new trial, is not a breach of an injunction. Whitman v. Barton, 3 Price, 241.

Delivery of declaration is a breach of the common injunction to stay proceedings at law, without plaintiff's acquiescence. Mills v. Collins, 1 Mer. 100.

Solicitor may proceed to tax his costs after a verdict at law, with a view to commence an action in his own name for the amount, after a final settlement between the parties by arbitration without his concurrence, notwithstanding an injunction to stay execution. Brooks v. Bourne, 1 Price, 72. PR. TAXATION OF COSTS.

Breach of injunction after notice of the order, without personal service of the injunction or order. Kimpton v. Eve, 2 V. & B. 349. NOTICE OF ORDER.

Injunction obtained by one co-obligor, the other not being made party, is no breach of injunction to sue out execution on a joint judgment, with notice to sheriff of injunction and directions not to take plaintiff in equity. Chaplin v. Cooper, 1 V. & B. 16.

After injunction obtained by principal, proceeding against bail is a breach. Id. 19. BARR.

One, not party to injunction, exercising an antecedent right, cannot commit a breach of it. Booth v. Stanley, 2 Eq. Ab. 528.

Contempt by breach of injunction by defendant present in court during the motion, though retiring before the order pronounced; but motion to commit after a considerable lapse of time, and the order not drawn up, refused with costs. James v. Downes, 18 Ves. 522. LACHES.

Breach of injunction by proceeding against bail. — v. Handcock, 17 Ves. 385.

Effect of an injunction in the court of chancery before action commenced, staying all proceedings at law after action commenced, permitting the defendant to call for a plea and proceed to judgment at law, if in a condition to do so, or if not, to do only what is necessary to enable him to sue, restraining execution. Therefore, after bail excepted to, ruling the sheriff to bring in the body, is a breach of the injunction. Bullen v. Ovey, 16 Ves. 141. PR. INJUNCTION, EFFECT OF.

Contempt by breach of injunction by persons who were present in court during the motion, though absent when the order was pronounced. Hearn v. Tennant, 14 Ves. 136. CONTEMPT.

Decree against lessee of alum works to prevent a breach of covenant, to leave stock of a certain amount at the expiration of lease. Ward v. Dk. Buckingham, cited 10 Ves. 161. CHATTELS SPEC.

Upon breach of injunction to restrain an act, the proper course is personal service of notice of motion that defendant shall stand committed; it is not the practice to move that he show cause why he shall not stand committed. Angerstein v. Hunt, 6 Ves. 488.

Where it is to do anything, the course is to move that he shall do it on a particular day, or stand committed. Id. ib.

An injunction for want of an answer had been obtained to restrain the defendant from all proceedings at law against the plaintiff, on award of payment of money. The award having been made a rule of the court of K. B., the defendant applied to that court for an attachment for non-performance of the awards, and obtained a rule to shew cause; this is not of itself any breach of the injunction. Franco v. Franco, 2 Cox, 420. ARBIT. & AWARD.

Where a party is taken after he has obtained an injunction, but before notice given of it, the detaining him after notice is no contempt. Willis v. Daniel, 1 Anst. 36. PR. CONTEMPT; ARREST.

Attaching and receiving money levied by sheriff, though levied before bill was filed, is breach of injunction. Aze v. Clarke, Dick. 549.

It does not excuse a party proceeding at law, after injunction, that it was not sealed, or where a party, or his solicitor, have been present on an order for an injunction, they will be bound, although it be not sealed. Anon. 3 Atk. 567. NOTICE.

Party having knowledge of injunctions being granted, and proceeding at law, he is guilty of contempt, though not sealed. Powell v. Follett, Dick. 116.

A and B jointly confess a judgment to C for 400*l.*, and afterwards file a bill against him to set it aside as unfairly obtained, and for an injunction; in the mean time, C having got an order for time, the injunction issued of course; but on putting in his answer, he moved to dissolve the injunction, and being told it was dissolved, he took it in execution upon the judgment, but being afterwards informed, that the plaintiff by filing exceptions to his answer had continued the injunction, he immediately discharged B out of custody. The judgment being joint, it was insisted, that the discharge of one from the execution operated at law as a discharge of both; and therefore A and B brought an audita querela in B. R. to be relieved against the judgment upon the ground of such discharge; but on a bill filed by C, the court decreed him the whole 400*l.* with his costs, both at law and in equity, and ordered a perpetual injunction to stay all proceedings on the audita querela. Clarke v. Moore, 4 Bro. P. C. 723. JUDGMENT; DRYTON & CRD. DISCHARGE; PR. INJUNC. PERPETUAL; PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

Though an injunction be irregularly obtained it ought to be obeyed, or the party is in contempt. Woodward v. King, 2 C. C. 203., but not committed. See Partington v. Booth, 3 Mer. 149. PR. CONTEMPT.

9. Reviving, continuing, and extending.

It is not necessary for a party who seeks to continue an injunction to the hearing, to shew an indefeasible right to the decree prayed by bill: where, therefore, assignees of a bankrupt sought a specific performance of an agreement for a lease against a party who was herself a lessee, and restrained from assigning without the consent of the lessor in writing thereto obtained, the court continued the injunction to restrain proceedings at law, there being a probability of obtaining the consent of the lessor to the assignment. Powell v. Lloyd, 1 Y. & J. 427.

Doubts in matters of law are always sufficient ground for continuing an injunction once granted. Maxwell v. Ward, 11 Price, 3.

The common injunction having been dissolved upon the coming in of the answer, and the bill being subsequently amended, the injunction was revived upon special application, supported by affidavit of the facts stated by way of amendment, the defendant being in default (though not in contempt) for not answering the amended bill. Vipan v. Mortlock, 2 Mer. 476.

Injunction not revived pending a rehearing. Order, allowing an exception to report that answer was insufficient. Scott v. Mackintosh, 1 V. & B. 503. PR. REHEARING; PR. ANSWER; EXCEPTIONS.

An injunction, though not to be continued with a view to specific performance of an agreement to grant a lease, if under a clause for re-entry, the lease, when granted, would be at an end by the tenant's acts, was maintained upon undertaking to give possession, when required by the court, and paying the rent due, by waiver of the forfeiture, if incurred, viz. distraining for subsequent rent. Gourlay v. Dk. Somerset, 1 V. & B. 68. SPEC. PERF.; LEASE; FORFEITURE.

Whether, even without a right of re-entry, the court, seeing a gross case of waste and breach of covenant, not to be indemnified by damages, would leave the tenant to law, refusing relief; quære? Id. ib. 73.

Injunction dissolved on the answer, not revived of course, without special motion on amendments verified by affidavit. James v. Downes, 14 Ves. 522.

That an indictment for perjury upon the answer has been found by the grand jury, is not a ground for reviving an injunction. Clapham v. White, 11 Ves. 35. PERJURY.

Upon the answer to a bill by the Universities, the king's printer not joining, but being made defendant, an injunction restraining the sale, in England, of bibles, prayer-books, &c., printed by the king's printer in Scotland, was continued to the hearing. Universities of Oxford and Cambridge v. Richardson, 6 Ves. 689. COPYRIGHT, INFRINGEMENT OF.

Bill for specific performance of parol agreement to grant farm lease, with usual covenants of neighbourhood, and injunction to prevent ejectment, plaintiff having taken possession; upon answer, stating insolvency of plaintiff, and various breaches of agreement during five years' possession, the injunction was continued, on undertaking to give judgment in ejectment, go to commission, and set down cause for next term, paying rent into court. Defendant also insisted on covenant not to assign; that is subject of inquiry as to custom of neighbourhood. Boardman v. Moystyn, 6 Ves. 467. SPEC. PERF.; BREACH OF COVT.

The answer being referred for impertinence, is a good ground to continue an injunction. Hurst v. Thomas, 2 Anst. 591. REFERENCE FOR IMPERTINENCE.

In exchequer, after an injunction on original bill, dissolved on coming in of answer, plaintiff cannot have injunction on a supplemental bill as of course, though supported by affidavits, and time for answering is expired, unless defendant is in contempt. Gadd v. Worral, 2 Anst. 553. See Nethorpe v. Law, 13 Ves. 323.

Injunction cannot be extended to protect one who is not a party in the suit in equity. Id. 555. PARTIES.

Reference of answer for scandal and impertinence, is not cause for continuing injunction. Milner v. Golding, Dick. 672.

Not necessary to revive perpetual injunction on death of party. Askew v. Townsend, Dick. 471.

Where exceptions are shown for cause against dissolving an injunction, and the answer is reported sufficient, the injunction cannot be revived on the merits disclosed by that answer. Peyto v. Hudson, 3 Swan. 363. PR. EXCEPTIONS.

A point which materially concerns merchants in general, will induce the court to continue an injunction. Green v. Suasso, 2 Atk. 229.

A lessee covenants not to dig up a particular part of the demised premises for raising sand, gravel, &c., under the penalty of 100*l.* per acre. He breaks this covenant, and thereupon the lessor files a bill for an injunction; on affidavit of the waste committed, the injunction is granted till answer, and further order: after the answer put in, a motion is made to dissolve the injunction, and, upon showing cause, the defendant consented to appear and plead to an action of debt or trover, and to take short notice of trial; thereupon the injunction was dissolved. But, on an appeal, this order was discharged, and an injunction granted to continue till the hearing of the cause. City of London v. Pugh, 4 Bro. P. C. 395.

Injunction granted last term to stay execution; ordered that injunction shall stand in force. Burtet v. Redman, Cary, 47.

10. Dissolving, and cause against.

The order nisi to dissolve the common injunction, may be obtained on petition. 23rd General Order, 3 April, 1828.

Where an injunction is obtained for want of an answer, defendant may dissolve it by giving the rule to dissolve, and the second rule six days after, which shall be absolute without further order, unless within the six days in the first day, or moves on the first day of motion, afterwards, notice of dissolution having been given, and all such motions shall be listed and called on at the sitting of the court on such motion day. Gen. Order, 13 November, 1892, 1 Scho. & L. 9, 4.

A common injunction having been obtained for want of answer; on the answer coming in, exceptions were taken and allowed; the bill was then amended, to which, and the exceptions, a further answer was put in; the further answer refused for scandal and impertinence. The master reported it was neither scandalous nor impertinent, and on this report the defendant obtained the usual order to dissolve the injunction nisi. Exceptions to the answer to the amended bill were offered to be shown as cause; but the court considered the reference for scandal and impertinence a dilatory proceeding, and dissolved the injunction. Stone v. Bettridge, 2 Y. & J. 432. PR. REFERENCE FOR SCANDAL.

Where the plaintiff elects to shew the impertinence of the answer as cause against dissolving an injunction, and the master reports the answer to be not impertinent, the court will dissolve the injunction absolutely, and a second order nisi is not necessary. Cu v. Horwell, 2 Y. & J. 36.

On shewing cause on the merits against an order nisi for dissolving an injunction, the plaintiff is not entitled to the reply. Tyrell v. L'audefille, 1 Y. & J. 404. PRACTICE IN COURT.

Two executors were appointed; one proved, the other declined to act. An action was commenced by the acting executor against a debtor to the testator; and the rule of law requiring all the executors to join, the action was brought in the name of both executors. On a bill filed by the debtor, he obtained the common injunction for want of answer; the acting executor subsequently put in an answer; and, on an affidavit that the other executor, who resided abroad, refused to act or to put in any answer, the court granted an order nisi to dissolve the injunction. Kithy v. Stanton, 2 Y. & J. 75. EXOR.

A common injunction had issued against all the defendants: one of them filed his answer, and then obtained an order nisi to dissolve the injunction: suggesting that all the defendants had answered, the order was discharged for irregularity. Todd v. Dismer, 2 S. & S. 477.

In suit for commission abroad, a discovery and injunction if the common injunction have issued before trial against the defendant, a foreigner, in contempt for want of answer, on the usual affidavit, the defendant may be heard, on motion, to dissolve injunction before answer, so far as to show on the face of the affidavit to the merits in support of the motion. And, semble, that an application to pay into court the money sought to be recovered at law before a commission had been applied for, is premature. Motion to dissolve an injunction, or bring money into court under the circumstances stated, refused, with costs. Keeling v. Sellick, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 359.

Not necessary for plaintiff, who claims an estate as tenant in tail under settlement of parents, to prove by affidavit their marriage, before he shows cause against dissolving an injunction, to restrain an ejectment brought against him to recover the estate. Hodgson v. Dean, 2 S. & S. 221. PR. EVID.; AFFIDAVIT OF MARRIAGE.

Where exceptions to master's report, that further answer to injunction bill was not impertinent, were overruled, and the report confirmed, the court, under particular circumstances, dissolved the injunction immediately, without allowing a reference back for insufficiency, and putting defendant to a new order nisi. Robertson v. Le Mercier, 1 M'Clel. 343.

Master's report of impertinence must be obtained in four days: where this was not complied with, order to refer answer was discharged with costs; and where defendant had obtained order nisi to dissolve injunction, and plaintiff meanwhile had obtained a reference for impertinence, which was allowed as good cause against dissolving injunction, but plaintiff omitted to comply with the above rule, on motion to discharge order of reference, and dissolve injunction absolutely, the first part having been granted, the plaintiff was obliged to show cause instanter against the dissolution. Hodgson v. Pritchit, 1 M'Clel. 209. S. C. 13 Price, 451. REFERENCE FOR IMPERTINENCE; PR. MASTER'S REPORT.

An order for enlarging time to show cause against a common order nisi for dissolving injunction against proceedings at law, obtained on an undertaking to show cause on merits confessed by answer, was discharged, with costs, for irregularity; the bill having been filed for discovery merely; notwithstanding it also prayed a commission and injunction. Jackson v. Strong, 13 Price, 309. And plaintiff must move to revive injunction, which becomes dissolved as of course. Id. ib. PR. ENLARGEMENT OF TIME TO SHOW CAUSE.

If an injunction have been granted on bill filed for discovery merely, and the plaintiff omit to set down his exceptions to defendant's answer for argument, and they are therefore overruled upon usual order, the defendant may move to dissolve an injunction absolutely in the first instance, without having obtained the usual previous order. Mellish v. Richardson, 13 Price, 23.

Order to dissolve injunction nisi may be obtained, though the plaintiff has excepted to master's report as to sufficiency of answer. Morant v. Coster, 1 S. & S. 486. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Order to dissolve injunction nisi obtained, after exceptions to answer filed is irregular. Williams v. Davies, 1 S. & S. 262. EXCEPTIONS.

Where, from the answer of several defendants to an interpleading bill, the right is clearly shown to be in one of them, the court will dissolve the injunction instanter. Bowyer v. Pritchard, 11 Price, 103. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Reference of answer for impertinence is good cause against dissolving injunction. Joseph v. Simpson, 10 Price, 25. PR. REFERENCE OF ANSWER FOR IMPERTINENCE.

In supporting motion to dissolve injunction, the plaintiff cannot use any allegations in the bill, unless confessed by answer. Mazwell v. Ward, 11 Price, 14.

• The contents of documents set forth in the schedule to the answer in an injunction cause, may be obtained before the dissolution of the injunction, and used to oppose the motion to dissolve it. Hence, when the injunction has been dissolved, and the plaintiff afterwards, by inspecting the documents referred to by the answer, discovers new matter, he cannot move to revive the injunction upon an amended bill containing the new matter, and verified by affidavit. Powell v. Lassalette, 1 Jac. 549. PR. EVID.

Where reference of answer for impertinence is shown for cause against dissolving injunction, and report is to be obtained in four days, which is not done, injunction is dissolved; and report being afterwards obtained, will not be cause to revive it, as in case of insufficiency. Dunsey v. Brown, 4 Mad. 238. PR. ANSWER, REF. OF, FOR IMPERTINENCE.

Court will not dissolve injunction, (obtained to stay proceedings in ejectment) on motion, in favour of persons claiming under a child otherwise provided for by his father's will, on whom the legal estate in copyhold land intended to be devised for life or in tail to another child, by the same will, (subject to questions of law as to the operation of the devise) has descended (or want of being surrendered to the use of will, against parties claiming under the latter as remaindermen or purchasers, notwithstanding the devise have covenanted with the heir that he shall stand seized to use of himself and heirs and assigns, in case of breach of covenants afterwards broken. Hodgson v. Merest, 7 Price, 658.

An order obtained, after exceptions to the answer allowed, for entering nunc pro tunc an order to dissolve an injunction absolutely for want of cause shewn to the contrary, is not irregular; nor is the plaintiff entitled to continue or revive the injunction. Harcourt v. Ramsbottom, 3 Swan, 359.

After undertaking to shew cause on the merits against dissolving an injunction, exceptions cannot be shewn for cause. Id. 362. PR. EXCEPTIONS.

The plaintiff, in equity, having been taken in execution, and discharged by a judge of the court of law, on payment into the hands of the master of that court, of the amount of the sum indorsed on the writ, with sheriff's poundage; and the common injunction having afterwards been issued; on motion to dissolve the injunction, it was ordered that the plaintiff might apply to the court of law for payment to him and to the defendants, of the sum paid into the hands of the master, that sum, when received, to be paid into the bank to abide the event of the cause. Hawshaw v. Parkins, 2 Swan, 539.

If plaintiff in injunction bill, filed to restrain defendant from proceeding in action at law, gives a cognovit, and undertakes in writing to dismiss his bill, and consent to a dissolution of injunction, but afterwards refuses to do so; the court on motion by defendant, and notice to plaintiff, will dissolve it, but not dismiss the bill. Norway v. Ede, 6 Price, 156. AGREEMENT.

After injunction and order for payment into court at a future time; on threat of going abroad, the court orders instant payment of money, or dissolves the injunction. Whitehouse v. Partridge, 3 Swan, 375. PR. NUNC PRO TUNC REGNO; PR. ORDER FOR PAYMENT INTO COURT.

Common injunction was obtained against two defendants, and afterwards extended to stay trial; on coming in of answer of one defendant, an order nisi must be obtained before motion can be made to dissolve injunction. Naylor v. Middleton, 2 Mad. 131.

Motion on last seal after Trinity term to dissolve an injunction, and that day might be appointed in vacation for making order absolute; but held, defendant was only entitled to order nisi. Kew v. Dixon, 2 Mad. 258.

Where order nisi is obtained to dissolve injunction on coming in of answer, and exceptions are shown for cause, and master reports answer sufficient; injunction is dissolved thereupon, and no further motion is necessary. Hutchinson v. Markham, 2 Mad. 355.

Motion to discharge an order for an injunction, and to set aside an attachment on which the injunction had issued, refused; the answer having been sworn on the evening before, but not filed until after the injunction issued. Bruce v. Webb, 2 Mer. 474. PR. ANSWER.

The defendant having put in his answer to the amended bill, which answer was excepted to, motion to dissolve the injunction absolutely in the first instance refused, the court being unable to judge, except upon reference to the master, whether the answer is a sufficient answer. Vipan v. Mortlock, 2 Mer. 476. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER.

Court will set aside injunction (granted after trial and verdict), and obtained on ground that one of the defendants (a plaintiff at law) in whom the interest was averred to be, was in contempt for not having answered, and that his answer was most material to the defence at law of the plaintiffs (in equity) to the action, as it might show that property was not in him; notwithstanding strong affidavit of merits.

new trial granted nisi on same merits. Whitmore v. Thompson, 3 Price, 241. JACQUES?

Variance between affidavit in support of motion for injunction and bill, in date of bill of exchange, on which defendant had commenced proceedings at law, is a sufficient ground for dissolving the injunction obtained. Wattleworth v. Pitcher, 2 Price, 189. PL. VARIANCE; PL. AFFIDAVIT.

Exceptions to the master's report, as to impertinence, is not cause against dissolving an injunction. Corson v. Stirling, Coop. 93. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Injunction not dissolved as of course, on one answer only coming in to interpleading bill, but plaintiff's delay to get in the other answers is a special ground for application to dissolve, or to have the money out of court. Hyde v. Warren, 19 Ves. 322. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Court will not make absolute the common order nisi to dissolve injunction (granted to restrain purchaser from proceedings at law to recover part of the purchase money paid by him in advance, the contract being impracticable on the ground of want of title and outstanding incumbrances) without master's report as to sufficiency of title, although objections are fully stated in defendant's answer. Church v. Legeyt, 1 Price, 301. PR. MASTER'S REPORT ON TITLE; VENDOR & PURCHASER.

A defendant may move to dissolve injunction for insufficient service of subpoena, although he has not appeared. Menzies v. Rodrigues, 1 Price, 92. PR. SERVICE OF SUBPENA; PR. APPEARANCE.

- (e) To stay proceedings in other courts.
- (f) Where money will be ordered into court on granting.
- (g) In cases of fraud and public policy.

(a) Generally.

If a defendant who has been taken on an attachment, still refuses to answer, the plaintiff may at the same time proceed to enforce answer by the process of this court, and bring an action against him, and his sureties on the bond given to the sheriff under the attachment. Boddall v. Page, 2 Sim. 225. Pr. ANSWER; Pr. ATTACHMENT.

Certain persons, as directors of an intended joint stock company, agreed to purchase mines; articles of agreement were entered into, by which the purchasers agreed to pay to the vendors the purchase money by instalments, and it was provided that if the directors should not have received the deposits or instalments from the shareholders in time to pay the purchase money, they should be allowed six months further time. A bill was filed by some of the directors to restrain the vendors from suing for the purchase money, alleging that the plaintiffs only intended to become liable as directors, and to the extent of funds received by them, and not to incur any personal responsibility, and that they had no funds as directors; a demurrer was allowed. Hodson v. Hancock, 1 Y. & J. 317. AGREEMENT.

Motion by a plaintiff for an injunction to restrain an action brought by one defendant against a co-defendant, granted. Kingham v. Maizey, 2 Sim. 41.

A bill was filed by a person in possession of certain lands, for the specific performance of an illegal parol agreement to grant him a lease for seven years, and for an injunction to restrain an ejectment; the defendant by his answer admitted that he had been disposed to permit, and would have permitted the plaintiff, if he had been satisfied with his conduct, to remain in possession for the time and on the terms alleged to have been specified in the supposed agreement, and that the plaintiff reasonably expected to remain in possession for the time and on those terms, but he had now denied that such agreement had been made, and he insisted that the plaintiff was tenant only from year to year, and had done many acts which would have been breaches of the covenants of the lease supposed to have been covenanted; the court upon his answer refused to make the order nisi absolute, and continued the injunction upon terms. Attwood v. Barnham, 2 Russ. 186. PL.

ANSWER; SPEC. PERF.

Defendant in suit by will in equity for tithes, relying on defence of tithes having been duly set out, may (notwithstanding the cause be at issue) bring action of trespass for not carrying them away; court refused an injunction to restrain him. Bradley v. Bensted, 13 Price, 221. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 80. TITHES.

Cross demand accrued after verdict is no ground for injunction to stay proceedings on verdict. White v. O'Brien, 1 S. & S. 551. SET-OFF AFTER VERDICT.

Injunction granted on interlocutory application in court of chancery in Ireland, to restrain proceeds at law there, is not of itself a sufficient ground to obtain injunction in this court to restrain proceeds on same matter in K. B. here. Bull v. Storie, 1 S. & S. 210. IRELAND; INTERLOCUTORY ORDER.

But a final judgment might have been different. Id. ib.

After decree for administration of assets, executor pleaded false plea to action brought against him by creditor of testator, in order to have an opportunity of applying for injunction to restrain action. Court granted injunction and held creditor not entitled to judgment against executor de bonis propriis. Fielden v. Fielden, 1 S. & S. 255. PR. DECREE FOR ADMIN. OF ASSETS; EXECUTOR; PL. FALSE PLEA.

Where guardian, after his ward attains full age, continues to manage property at the request of ward, and before the accounts of receipts and payments during minority are settled, it is in effect a continuance of the guardianship as to the property, and he must account on the same principle as though the transactions were during the minority. Therefore injunction was granted on terms to restrain guardian from proceeding in an action to recover balance claimed by him on account of the transactions after his ward became adult. Mellish v. Mellish, 1 S. & S. 138. GUARD. & WARD; ADULT.

Injunction to stay proceeding at law was granted, a decree of reference to take an account having been obtained on a creditor's bill against executors before action brought, but defendant not having notice of decree or of this application, it was ordered that all his costs should be first paid. Fairlow v. Wilson, 11 Price, 95. PR. DECREE FOR ACCOUNT; PR. NOTICE; PR. COSTS.

To an action by a creditor the executors pleaded non-assumpsit and set-off, and a plene administravit prater, and the verdict was against him on all these pleas; a decree for administration of the estate having been pronounced pending the action, an injunction was granted against the creditor on payment of his costs at law. Lord v. Wormleighton, 1 Jac. 143. DECREE FOR ADMIN.

After a decree for the administration of a testator's estate, creditors suing at law restrained on the application of a legatee. Clarke v. El. Ormonde, 1 Jac. 122. DECREE FOR ADMIN.; LEGATEE.

After a decree for a specific performance against a defendant, he cannot proceed by action at law on the contract for damages. Reynolds v. Nelson, 6 Mad. 290. SPEC. PERF.

It is no ground for application to court of equity to restrain plaintiff in suit for tithes in equity from proceeding in actions brought by him against parishioners not parties to that suit, for not setting out their tithes, that equity has decreed same to try the validity of (parochial) moduses laid in answers as covering the articles in respect of tithes of which actions are commenced. Nor will the fact of such parishioners having entered into a bond to pay costs of all suits, &c. relating to such tithes, entitle them to relief. Taylor v. Cook, 9 Price, 207. ISSUE AT LAW; TITHES; MAINTENANCE OF SUIT.

Injunction to restrain proceedings at law for recovering an annuity secured to the wife by a deed of separation not containing any covenant to indemnify the husband from her debts, refused. El. Westmeath v. Cs. Westmeath, 1 Jac. 126. HUSB. & WIFE; DEED OF SEPARATION; CONTRACT.

A party bringing an action at law for damages, in consequence of having been arrested on an attachment, which, on his application, has been set aside for irregularity, will be restrained from proceeding in it, but without prejudice to any application he may be advised to make to the court for compensation. Froud v. Lawrence, 1 Jac. & W. 655. JURISDICTION.

Where agent was, quasi agent, obliged to indorse bill, and fact was known to indorsee, injunction was granted to restrain proceedings thereon against him. Kidson v. Dilworth, 5 Pri. 564. BILL OF EXCHANGE, INDORSEMENT; PRINC. & AGENT.

Injunction to stay proceedings at law for rent by landlord, prayed on ground of agreement under which landlord was more than the amount of rent indebted to tenant, refused, being a legal sett-off. Townrow v. Benson, 3 Mad. 203. SET-OFF.

Apprentice, after serving part of time and then running away from master, the latter is not bound to receive him again or return part of apprentice fee. Nor will holder of promissory note given for amount be restrained from recovering it at law. Cuff v. Brown, 5 Price, 297. APPRENTICESHIP.

On a bill for specific performance, the questions whether time was originally of the essence of the contract, and whether, being so, the defendant has done any act whereby he has waived it as a ground of objection to the performance, are questions depending on evidence, and not to be decided except upon the hearing. Lery v. Lindo, 3 Mer. 81. SPEC. PERF.

Injunction, after a decree to account, to restrain a creditor from proceeding at law upon a verdict which would entitle him to a judgment de bonis propriis against an executor, refused. In cases where the injunction is granted, it may be obtained on the application of the plaintiff in equity, as well as of the executor. See note, Terrest v. Featherby, 2 Mer. 430. DECREE TO ACCOUNT; EXOR.

An account signed and settled by plaintiff in equity, leaving a balance in favour of defendant in equity, is sufficient ground to refuse an injunction to restrain defendant's proceeding at law, though there have been subsequent dealings; but plaintiff has refused to come to a settlement. Hirst v. Pierce, 4 Price, 339. ACCOUNT SETTLED.

Where set-off may be made at law, no bill for injunction will lie to stay proceedings at law. Id. SET-OFF.

Moore*, 3 Pri. 214. PRINC. & SURETY, DISCHARGE.

Recognition of surety for receiver being refused, and action brought against surety on application, reference directed as to what was due, and order made for payment by instalments, and injunction to stay proceedings granted by consent on paying costs of application, and proceedings consequent on order. Walker v. Wild, 1 Mad. 528. PR. RECEIVER, SURETY FOR.

Injunction in this court granted, though the court of law in which the action has been brought, have, upon an application made to it to stay proceedings, on a release of one of the plaintiffs, and affidavits of the circumstances of the cases, refused to stay proceedings. Whitfield v. Ralfe, Coop. 89.

Equity will not restrain by injunction farther proceedings at law, upon a verdict obtained through the defendant's neglect, to produce his certificate in evidence. Lingard v. Hibbertson, 1 Rose, 459. BANKCY. NEGLECT TO PRODUCE CERTIFICATE AT LAW.

Jurisdiction by injunction upon ground of vexation by repeated actions for breach of covenant. Waters v. Taylor, 2 V. & B. 302. VEXATION; JURISDICTION.

Vendor proceeding in treaty beyond the time for completing the contract, and the vendor having brought an action and withdrawn his record, finding he could not support it, not having got in a judgment amounting to half the purchase money, and the purchaser having brought an action for his deposit and obtained a verdict; an injunction to restrain his proceeding, was refused. Wood v. Bernul, 19 Ves. 220. VEND. & PURCH.

A and B partners, gave a joint and several bond to C, who afterwards becomes indebted to A. B becomes bankrupt; C proves the bond under the commission, and then brings a joint action against A and B, to which B pleads his certificate. A being by this form of action precluded from setting off his separate debt, applies for and obtains injunction against C's proceeding in the joint action. Bradley v. Millar, 1 Rose, 273. BANKCY. SET OFF; BANKCY. PARTNERSHIP.

Where commissioners had found a balance in favour of party against whom assignees were proceeding as a debtor to estate, injunction granted. Exp. Menzies, id. 395. BANKCY. SET OFF.

Injunction upon an interpleading bill against bankrupts and their assignees by a debtor to the estate sued by the bankrupts with the view of indirectly defeating the commission. Loundes v. Cornford, 18 Ves. 299. INTERPLEADER; BANKCY. COMMISSIONER.

No equity in favour of a lessee of a house liable to repair with the exception of damage by fire, for an injunction against an action under the contract for payment of rent upon the destruction of the house by fire. Moltzappel v. Baker, 18 Ves. 115. See contra Brown v. Quikton, Ambl. 619. S.C. 2 Eden, 210. COVENANT TO REPAIR; DAMAGE BY FIRE; LANDL. & TEN.

Stubbis*, 18 Ves. 20. PRINC. & SURETY.

Injunction granted against an action commenced by plaintiff while proceeding under a decree to account for the same matter, it being a contempt to proceed at law after the subject of the cause had been attached in court. Mocher v. Reed, 1 Ball & B. 318. PR. DECREE TO ACCOUNT.

Petition to restrain an action by commissioners of bankruptcy against the assignees for costs of defending an action against the commissioners and messenger for false imprisonment in which the plaintiff was nonsuited, or for a contribution among the creditors, dismissed. No distinction exonerating creditors who were absent; proving by affidavit, they adopt all the proceedings. Exp. Linthwaite, 16 Ves. 234. BANKCY. ASSIGNEES, LIAB. OF; BANKCY. COSTS.

Demurrer allowed to a bill by the Bank of England for an injunction against the action of an executor, claiming a transfer of stock. Considering the stock as specifically bequeathed (which was doubtful) to trustees in France upon special trusts, if the executor cannot maintain the action upon the nature of the bequest, or as having assented, the injunction is unnecessary: if he can, upon his title to the stock, to be applied as the other property, there is no equity. Bank of England v. Lunn, 15 Ves. 569. EXOR.; PL. DEMURRER; BANK OF ENGLAND.

No jurisdiction in equity by injunction to stay process of a court of law upon an award, made a rule of court under the stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15. Gwinett v. Baunister, 14 Ves. 530. JURISDICTION; AWARD; RULE OF COURT; STAT. C. OF.

A decree against an executor in nature of a judgment at law; after that, he may, on motion, without filing a bill for an injunction, restrain a creditor suing at law. The executor must pay the costs till notice of the decree; and he must make an affidavit as to funds in his hands. Parton v. Douglas, 8 Ves. 520. DECREE FOR ADMON. OF ASSETS; COSTS.

After foreclosure and sale of the mortgaged estate, injunction was granted to restrain the mortgagee from recovering the difference at law. Perry v. Barker, 8 Ves. 527. See Tooke v. Hartley, 2 Bro. C. C. 126. MORTGAGE, FORECLOSURE OF.

Bill by insurance broker for a discovery and account of money paid and received by him in that capacity on account of defendant, and money due to him for commission, &c. and for promissory notes indorsed to him, and to restrain an action as brought contrary to the universal custom of the business. Demurrer allowed, the subject being matter of set off. Dunwiddie v. Bailey, 6 Ves. 136. PR. SET OFF.

Injunction against securities obtained by one French emigrant against another, by arresting him when about to sail on the expedition against France, and under an obligation entered into in France as surety which, according to the law of France, could not affect the person. Talbot v. Boulton, 3 Ves. 447. FOREIGN LAWS.

Action at law on a bond given to a trustee only reciting that the obligor was (on the resignation of obligee's custui que trust) appointed to an office, not restrained by injunction; but may be pleaded at law in order to try whether the consideration was corrupt. Thrale v. Ross, 3 Bro. C. C. 57. BOND; CONSIDERATION.

A bond for performance of covenants to build a bridge, and the sum agreed for actually paid, an injunction granted to restrain an action on the bond, and an issue quantum damnificatus ordered, the sum mentioned in the bond being a penalty. Ferrington v. Aunesly, 2 Bro. C. C. 341. S. C. Dick. 692. BOND; ISSUE AT LAW.

If a defendant fail in proving a material fact at law of which he afterwards obtains a discovery from the adverse party in equity, it is a ground for granting an injunction, though he would not be permitted to prove the fact by any other witnesses whom he could have examined at law. Duckey v. Vernon, 2 Cox, 12. PR. EVIDENCE.

An administratrix entered into the usual bond in the prerogative court to exhibit an inventory within a limited time, &c. The time having elapsed without an inventory being exhibited, a creditor put the bond in suit in the name of the archbishop. The administratrix filed her bill for an injunction, which was granted on the terms of her giving judgment in the action which was to stand as a security for the costs at law and in equity (but not for the debt), and amending the bill by submitting to account. Thomas v. Archbp. Canterbury, 1 Cox, 399. ADMINISTRATION BOND.

The loyalists estates in America were, under the forfeiting acts, to be sold for the payment of debts. This no ground for an injunction to restrain an action here on a bond. Kempie v. Antill, 2 Bro. C. C. 11. AMERICAN LOYALIST; MARSHALLING SHIPMENTS.

Where the penalty of a bond is only to secure the enjoyment of a collateral object, equity will grant an injunction against a suit for the recovery, and an issue quantum damnificatus to try the real damage. Stonau v. Walter, 1 Bro. C. C. 418. BOND; ISSUE AT LAW.

There being a decree for payment of debts, &c. on the suit of the trustees, though the parties have not proceeded under that decree, a creditor restrained by injunction by bill here for the purpose from proceeding at law against the executor. Brown v. Reynolds, id. 163. S. C. 2 Dick. 603. DECREE FOR PAYMENT.

After a decree for satisfaction of creditors, the court will enjoin a single creditor from suing at law for his debt. Douglas v. Clay, Dick. 393. Thompson v. Worthington, id. 668.

Where the party applying for a commission to examine witnesses appears, from the nature of his case, to be entitled to it, the granting an injunction in the mean time is no more than a necessary consequence of that right. Nicol v. Verelst, 4 Bro. P. C. 416. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

Under what circumstances a commission to examine witnesses abroad, and an injunction to restrain proceedings at law in the mean time, ought not to be granted. Cajamout v. Verelst, id. 407. Id.

Lessee of a house and wharf covenants to repair, accidents by fire excepted; the house is burnt down, and the lessor having insured, received the insurance money, but neglected to rebuild, and brought an action at law for the rent. Bill for an injunction held proper till the house was rebuilt; but it went off on another matter. Brown v. Quilton, Amb. 619. S. C. 2 Eden, 210. See contra Holtzapfel v. Baker, 18 Ves. 115. LAND & TEN.; INSURANCE.

The holder of promissory note delivered to him without indorsement, after it is become due and noted for non-payment, shall not be staid by injunction from enforcing a judgment at law obtained by default. Dunbar v. Wilson, 6 Bro. P. C. 231. PROMISSORY NOTE.

The bill stated the plaintiff was legatee under a will of which the defendant was executor; that the usual decree for an account of the personal estate had been made, and the parties had been before the master, when the plaintiff was charged with several articles of the personal estate possessed by him; that the account between them was afterwards referred to an arbitrator, who found a small sum in favour of the plaintiffs, but never made an award; that after that the defendant, as executor, brought an action against the plaintiff for the effects of the testator so in his possession, and the bill prayed an injunction to restrain the defendant from proceeding at law; and that the value of the articles possessed by the plaintiff might be deducted out of the interest taken by him under the will. The court thought upon this case that the plaintiff was entitled to an injunction till the master made his report; a demurrer, for want of equity, was, therefore, overruled. Milner v. Goolden, 1 Cox, 196. LIS PENDENS.

Injunction, until hearing, to restrain an action by a bankrupt against the assignees under his commission, upon the ground of his long acquiescence under the commission. Flower v. Herbert, 2 Ves. 326. BANKRUPT; DISPUTING COMMISSION.

A brings a bill against B to recover divers sums on account, and also 10,000*l.* on a stale bond of above twenty years' standing. The defendant demurs as to what related to the bond, for that the plaintiff might sue at law. The demurrer being allowed, the obligee in the bond sues the bond at law, and gets a verdict; after which the defendant brings his bill to be relieved against the bond, as having been satisfied: the court ordered an injunction, for that there was no reason to grant relief in equity, though the defendant had demurred to the bill brought on the bond. Humphreys v. Humphreys, 3 P. W. 395.

A subscribes 1000*l.* into S. S. Company, and their cashier gives a receipt for money. By mistake of clerk, a wrong christian name is inserted instead of A's in their books. A brings an action against them for money, and, on their filing bill in equity, demurs by A, for want of equity, allowed. S. S. Comp. v. Carson, 2 Bro. P. C. 284. JURISDICTION.

A, a clothier, and B, a dyer, had mutual dealings in the way of their trade, which were carried on several years without payment of money on either side. B dies intestate, and indebted to others by specialties, who, as principal creditor, takes out administration to him, and sues A at law. Equity will enjoin the action and order an account, and that A shall be allowed, by way of discount, what was due to him from B. Docum v. Matthew, Prec. Chan. 531. ACCOUNT.

One of the late directors of the S. S. Company owes money which is recovered against him at law: though all his estate is taken from him by the late act, and provision made for his creditors, yet the court denied any injunction. Holditch v. Mist, 1 P. W. 695.

Where party allows and acquiesces in erection of a nuisance, he shall be stayed in action at law. Anon. 2 Eq. Ab. 522. FRAUD.

The court will not suffer a man to be sued at law for executing the process of the court, though it issued irregularly. Bailey v. Bererue, 1 Vern. 269. PROCESS, IRREGULARITY; JURISDICTION.

Executor relieved after a verdict at law had against him upon a plene administravit, and the verdict was had on producing the executor's own letter confessing a mortgage made to the testator for 300*l.*, the executor proving in equity that this mortgage appeared afterwards to be worth nothing, and that there were two prior mortgages upon the same estate. Robinson v. Bell, 2 Vern. 146. EXOR. LIAB. OR.

In debt against an executor for 700*l.*, executor pleads ne unques executor, and on proving at the trial that a chimney back or some other slight thing came to the defendant's hand, plaintiff had a verdict; but equity relieved against the verdict. So in another case upon the like plea of ne unques executor, plaintiff proved the defendant took money for a pot of ale sold by the testator in his life time, and equity relieved. Id. 147. Id.

Injunction granted to stay proceedings at law for forcibly taking from defendant money which he had won of the plaintiff at play, though the defendant had by answer denied all the circumstances of fraud charged in the bill. Firebrasse v. Brett, 1 Vern. 489. GAMING.

If a member of parliament sues at law, and a bill is brought to be relieved against that account, the court will grant an injunction till answer or further order. Anon. id. 329. MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

Injunction "si ita sit" to stay judgment and execution. Aschughe v. Sketton, id. 42.

Defendant's attorney ordered to stay proceedings at law; defendant proceeds and gets judgment. Injunction granted to bring money levied into court, and defendant to answer contempt. Segewick v. Redman, id. 41.

Injunction to stay proceedings; defendant proceeds, decreed that he shall acknowledge satisfaction on judgment. Colteruett v. Boney, id. 45.

(b) Against ejectment.

Injunction granted to restrain an action of ejectment brought by a bankrupt at the instigation of the petitioning creditor and another creditor, to recover the possession of premises sold under a commission at auction in for seven years. Exp. Grant, Buck. 90. BANKRY. COMMISSION; ACQUESCENCE.

Lessee proceeded against by ejectment, and who has received notice from a claimant, disputing his landlord's title, not to pay him any more rent, and has been threatened with distress by landlord, if he does not pay rent, cannot restrain either the ejectment or distress by injunction. Homan v. Moore, 4 Price, 5. LANDLORD & TENANT.

Injunction refused against a verdict in ejectment, upon a breach of covenant by lessee for years, as to the mode of cultivation, if admitting relief; the defendant having been prevented from proving other breaches, against which no relief could be had, as by assigning without license. Leat v. Lt. Ranelagh, 3 V. & B. 24. LANDLORD & TENANT; BREACH OF COVENANT.

Relief against breach of covenant by non-payment of rent; lessor, therefore, compelled to proceed on some other covenant, not admitting relief. Id. 30. Id.

Distinction as to injunction between landlord and tenant, upon an actual lease and a mere agreement; in the latter case no relief, if the covenant would have been violated in the former, some ground necessary either in the conduct of the lessor, or under the statute 4 Geo. 2. c. 28. Id. 29. LANDLORD & TENANT.

BREACH OF COVENANT; LEASE; AGREEMENT FOR LEASE.

Where a decree, giving relief to a party, whose title was gone at law, directs the accounts on the rents reserved in bona fide leases of tenants, not parties to the suit; the party relieved will be restrained from proceedings at law to evict the tenants, they being tacitly protected by the decree. Shine v. Gough, 1 Ball & B. 436. ACCOUNT.

Injunction against an ejectment under a deed of appointment, as obtained by a husband from his wife by undue influence, oppression, &c. and an issue directed. Peel v. —, 16 Ves. 157. FRAUD; HUSB. & WIFE.

Equity for a landlord against whom judgment had been obtained in ejectment by his own negligence, to restrain his tenant and those to whom he had attorned, from setting up the lease against his ejectment; though only a year and three quarters of the term was unexpired; and it is not necessary that the ejectment should be brought before the bill actually filed. Baker v. Mellish, 10 Ves. 544. LANDLORD & TEN.

Injunction against a surviving partner proceeding by ejectment to obtain possession of a farm of which a joint lease had been made to himself and his deceased partner. Elliot v. Brown, 3 Swan. 489. PARTNERSHIP PROPERTY.

Motion by a remote remainder-man and tenants, to restrain receiver from ejecting tenants, refused with costs, their interest not being sufficient. Receiver is to let the estate to the best advantage, but he cannot raise the rents upon slight grounds, nor turn out tenants, nor let even for one year, without application to the master. Wynne v. Id. Newborough, 1 Ves. J. 164. 165. PR. RECEIVER.

On a bill for an injunction to stay an ejectment at law against the plaintiff's tenant, the tenant ought to be a party. Lawley v. Wadden, 3 Swan. 142. PR. PARTIES.

Party suffering decree, which debarred his right to estate, to be enrolled, &c., stayed by perpetual injunction from bringing ejectment till decree reversed. Selby v. Selby, Dick. 678.

Motion to extend the common injunction granted, where the answer, which was filed on the same morning, was insufficient, and the trial was coming on the next day but one. Alennings v. Adamson, 1 Sim. 510.

Motion to extend injunction obtained, with discovery in aid of defence to action, to stay trial, on affidavit that two defendants were in contempt for non-appearance, cannot be made ex parte. Higham v. Antwis, 11 Price, 759.

Injunction in case of account dissolved, so far as it extended to stay trial, where the defendant being of unsound mind, the answer was put in by a guardian unable to give a full discovery. Barrett v. Tickell, 1 Jac. 154. LUNATIC, &c.

A defendant of unsound mind answering by a guardian, unable to give a full discovery, on a motion to dissolve an injunction, affidavits cannot be read by the plaintiff to prove facts that might be given in evidence at law. Id. 155. LUNATIC.

After a common injunction has been obtained, the plaintiff may move to extend it to stay trial upon the usual affidavit, although the defendant, by the rules of the court, must put in his answer before the trial can take place. Taylor v. Leigh, 2 Jb. & W. 388.

Court will grant injunction to stay trial of ejectment at the next assizes, on motion made 27th February, of which notice had been given to defendant's clerk in court only on 26th, if moved on merits confessed in answer put in only that day; and application to dissolve such injunction before hearing on an affidavit, was refused with costs. Hayward v. Greenwood, 7 Price, 537. NOTICE.

Action was commenced in 1816, and tried at Y. 1817. In January 1818 new trial was granted, and plaintiff filed bill of discovery, and obtained common injunction. New trial at Y. was fixed for March 1818. Motion to extend injunction to stay trial, on ground that defendant was not aware deeds were of such importance, refused with costs. Field v. Beaumont, 3 Mad. 102.

On a bill for discovery, and a commission to examine witnesses abroad, in aid of the defence to an action, the plaintiff having obtained the common injunction for want of an answer, was held entitled to a commission, and to extend the injunction to stay trial. Bowden v. Lodge, 2 Swan. 258. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

An answer filed is a sufficient objection to a motion to extend an injunction to stay trial; but, as the defendant submitted to exceptions, the order was made, an insufficient answer being no answer. Bishton v. Birch, 1 V. & B. 366. PR. ANSWER, INSUFFICIENCY.

Injunction extended to stay trial, on affidavit that plaintiff cannot safely go to trial without the answer, and believes it will produce discovery material to his defence. Earnshaw v. Thornhill, 18 Ves. 488.

Injunction to stay trial just at the time of the assizes, refused. Blacoe v. Wilkinson, 13 Ves. 454. LACHES.

Plaintiff being entitled to move for the common injunction to stay execution for want of answer, cannot, in the first instance, move for special injunction to stay trial. Garlick v. Pearson, 10 Ves. 450.

An injunction to stay trial cannot be obtained until after the common injunction, and therefore, where the time for the defendant's appearance was the day for which notice of trial was given, the trial cannot be stayed. Wright v. Broins, 2 Cox, 232. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 87. See note there.

After injunction dissolved upon the merits, motion to stay trial of ejectment till full answer to the amended bill, refused with costs. Iy. Markham v. Dickenson, 1 Ves. J. 30. PR. AMENDED BILL.

Injunction extended to stay trial in actions by a corporation, for petty customs, till answer, where defence at law may arise out of the answer. Anon. 2 Ves. 620.

Surety under annuity deed, having redeemed annuity after bankruptcy of grantor, sued the grantor on the bond of indemnity, and obtained judgment for arrears since bankruptcy, and the price of redemption, (see 3 B. and A. 186.) Injunction to restrain suing execution for arrears, refused. Quere as to the price of redemption. Watkins v. Flanagan, 6 Mad. 280. PRINC. & SURETY; ANNUITY.

A party against whom a verdict has been obtained at law must pay money recovered into court, before he can entitle himself to an injunction to stay execution, though he has since obtained a rule requiring plaintiff to show cause against a new trial. Austen v. Thomson, 11 Price, 1. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT; VERDICT.

Court will not restrain party from taking out execution on warrant of attorney, on affidavit of merits, and irreparable mischief, by special injunction before answer. Naylor v. Christie, 8 Price, 534. WARRANT OF ATTORNEY.

Injunction to stay execution granted before appearance, against defendants, to a bill of revivor, executors of the original defendant, on the merits disclosed by his answer, and on affidavit of personal service of the notice of motion. Turner v. Wright, 1 Jac. & W. 290.

Injunction to stay execution on a bill filed after a judgment at law, refused. Protheroe v. Forman, 2 Swan. 227. JUDGMENT.

Whether on a bill filed for the administration of assets, the court will restrain the legal proceedings of a creditor who had previously obtained a right of execution against the personal representative; Quare? Drevry v. Thacker, 3 Swan. 529. DECREE FOR ADMINISTRATION.

No injunction after a decree for the administration of assets, without information of their state. Id. 546.

Court has no jurisdiction to stay execution on judgment obtained against defendant, till plaintiff shall do any act, however reasonable, to make the defendant a title to the subject matter of the action; a rule for that purpose was discharged with cost. Bell v. v. Bilke, 4 Price, 291. JURISDICTION.

Demurrer by judgment creditor, bill for injunction to restrain him from taking out execution on his judgment against an estate sold (before he had obtained judgment) and ineffectually conveyed to purchaser, (the plaintiff), whereby the legal estate descended, since his judgment, to the heir at law, overruled. Prior v. Penpraze, 4 Price, 99. PL. DEMURRER.

Injunction will not be granted to restrain defendant from taking out execution, on judgment being suffered by default, on a case made by bill and answer, that bill of exchange on which the action had been brought, was given in consideration of defendant's delivering up a former bill which had been endorsed in consideration of a gaming debt. Graves v. Houditch, 2 Price, 147. CONSIDERATION.

Injunction to stay execution, or sale under execution, when granted. Rose v. Wood, 2 Swan. 234.

Where an action at law has been brought on bail-bond given to sheriff on an attachment from equity side of exchequer, for not answering according to the condition, and a verdict have been recovered, if defendant, instead of pleading the answer put in, pleads non est factum, and refuses to settle with plaintiff by paying costs pending the action, when he had an opportunity before the judge on a summons, equity will not restrain plaintiff from taking out execution, (although defendant has answered since the action brought), except on terms of paying all costs at law; though the plaintiff has not, as he ought to have done, refused to accept the answer when it came on till the contempt were cleared, but has actually waived them by excepting to answer, and amending his bill. But the court will not order the defendant at law to pay costs in equity also, because they were waived by accepting the answer. Hurd v. Partington, 3 Price, 222.

Injunction to restrain sheriff from executing fi. fa. against furniture, &c. of defendant at law, which, with house, &c. had been let by him to plaintiff, who was in possession, refused. Gurstin v. Asplin, 1 Mad. 150. FIERI FACIAS; LANDLORD & TEN.

After a lapse of six or seven years, equity will not restrain by injunction a creditor of an executor from taking in execution the goods of a testator for the executor's own debt. Ray v. Ray, Coop. 264. EXOR.; LENGTH OF TIME.

Injunction granted upon bill filed, and affidavit to restrain proceeding in an arbitration, under the circumstances. Mytne v. Dickenson, Coop. 195. ARBITRATION.

Plaintiff being entitled to move for the common injunction to stay execution for want of answer, cannot in the first instance move for special injunction to stay trial. Garlick v. Pearson, 10 Ves. 450. PR. INJUNC. TO STAY TRIAL.

A executed a deed by which he conveyed chattels to B in trust, as to one moiety for certain scheduled creditors, as to the other for A's own benefit. C, a creditor, not in the schedule, sued A, and recovered and took out execution against the chattels in the hands of B. B sued the sheriff's officer, and recovered at law. Bill for an injunction, on the ground that the deed was void against creditors for the moiety. The court refused the injunction, for there can be no execution against goods in the hands of a trustee. Cail-lan v. Estwick, 2 Anst. 381. EXECUTION; TRUSTEE.

Where one distrained, and on replevin, made three comurances as bailiff to different persons, on affidavit stating the claim to be under one of the persons, and that he had absconded insolvent, will not entitle plaintiff to an injunction. Nichols v. Philips, 3 Anst. 636.

Where the principal subject in dispute is the locality of the lands of each, which have been confused while occupied by one person, an ejectment does not decide anything; and therefore a court of equity will not allow the lessor of the plaintiff to take out his execution, so as to choose his own part of the lands. Where lands are confused, and the plaintiff at law recovers on an instrument which states the whole to be twenty-five acres, of which eighteen belonged to him, and in fact it appears that the whole land is only twenty-one acres, he shall not be allowed to take out execution for eighteen, but must abate proportionably. Hardcastle v. Shafto, 1 Anst. 184. CONFUSION OF BOUNDARIES.

The practice of the court of law compelling a plaintiff on a bond not to take execution beyond his real debts, does not oust the jurisdiction of this court in awarding an injunction. Demurrer to a bill on that ground overruled. Codd v. Wooden, 3 Bro. C.C. 73. BOND; JURISDICTION.

Injunction to stay judgment on certificate of judges of assize. North v. Helewich, Cary, 49.

Plaintiff after bill, answer, and replication, distrains for which an injunction is granted. Kidner v. Harrison, id. 48.

Where privateer had taken a prize without having letters of marque, and the court of Admiralty had sentenced her a droit to the crown, yet the court of chancery refused with costs to restrain the parties from receiving, or the register of the Admiralty from paying, the proceeds under a treasury warrant. Nichol v. Goodall, 10 Ves. 155. JURISDICTION OVER ADMIRALTY COURT.

An administratrix having an equitable demand against the personal estate of her intestate, the court will enjoin the next of kin from proceeding in the spiritual court to compel a distribution: but they may proceed to compel the administratrix to exhibit an inventory. Buckhouse v. Hunter, 1 Cox, 342. DISTRIBUTION; ADMOR.

Injunction granted at suit of a wife to stay proceedings in ecclesiastical court by husband for legacy to her, without making a settlement. Meades v. Meades, 5 Ves. 517. note (94). S. C. Dick. 373. HUSB. & WIFE, SETTLED BY COURT.

Injunction to restrain proceedings in the ecclesiastical court to set aside a will, contrary to agreement. Gascoyne v. Chandler, 3 Swan. 418. S. C. Dick. 281. ECCLESIASTICAL COURT.

The court of B. R. will not grant a prohibition in a suit for subtraction of tithes, unless it be shown that the modus has been pleaded in the ecclesiastical court, and denied there; and on the same grounds that a court of law grants a prohibition, equity grants an injunction. Retherham v. Fairclark, 3 Atk. 628. TITHES, MODUS.

The owners of two privateers seized upon a ship, as a lawful prize, it appearing by her papers, that she had carried provisions to the enemy, and the captain signed a note, acknowledging that they had justly confiscated his cargo; afterwards the captain brought his bill for an injunction to stay a suit in the admiralty court, on the lawfulness of the transaction, suggesting that some of the papers were lost, and that if the note should be produced which he was compelled to give, he should be cast at law. The court denied the injunction, for if it was to be granted on such pretences, it would defeat the statute respecting prizes, and if the admiralty find, that the note was obtained by duress and imprisonment, they can suppress it of their own authority. Anon. 3 Atk. 350.

If the validity of a will has been already determined, and it has been acted upon, equity will restrain proceedings in the prerogative court to controvert it. Sheffield v. Ds. of Bucks, 1 Atk. 628. PROBATE, WHERE VALIDITY EXAMINABLE.

Where there is a trust, or anything in the nature of a trust, notwithstanding the ecclesiastical court has an original jurisdiction in legacies, yet the court of equity will grant an injunction. Anon. 1 Atk. 491. JURISDICTION.

Where the husband of an infant institutes a suit in the ecclesiastical court for her legacy, upon the executors bringing a bill and suggesting this matter to the court, an injunction will be continued to the hearing. S. C. Ib.

Injunction granted to stay suit ex quo minus in exchequer. Jones v. Miles, Cary, 112.

Injunction against spiritual court, suit commenced in chancery. Parre v. Tipelady, id. 73.

Staying proceedings in spiritual court. Banvill v. Banvill, id. 64.

A man suing for his wife's jointure in the spiritual court, will be restrained by an injunction in equity, till he has made a competent provision for her. Tanfield v. Davenport, Totl. 114. HUSB. & WIFE, SETTLEMENT BY COURT.

(f) Where money will be ordered int court on granting.

Where injunction is granted against proceedings at law, on instrument obtained either as a gift or purchase in fraud of fiduciary situation of the donee or purchaser, the court will not impose terms of paying money into court, if the relationship be that of attorney and client. Goddard v. Carlisle, 9 Pri. 169. SOL. & CLIENT; FRAUD. FID. SIT.

Injunction granted and continued on terms of paying demand into court, to restrain defendant from proceeding at law on a security given to defendant's testator, the latter having agreed to accept another security in lieu of it, though still remaining executory. Dally v. Catehlee, 4 Pri. 147. AGREEMENT, EXECUTORY.

Where four of many actions, against the various underwriters, on policies on several ships (individually) had been tried, and verdicts passed for plaintiffs at law, the court granted an injunction to restrain them (the plaintiffs at law), from proceeding further in a case where there was a strong suspicion of fraud in the assured, on the money being paid into court, on the ground of answer of one of defendants not having come in. Keasington v. White, 3 Pri. 164. FRAUD.

Court will not order plaintiff who has obtained injunction to stay proceedings at law on bill filed for discovery, by which he seeks to establish a case of goods being charged at a much greater price than the one agreed on, to pay even the price acknowledged to be just into court, to abide the result of the action. Parrell v. Nesbitt, 2 Pri. 149.

Order for a commission to examine witnesses abroad, returnable without delay pending an injunction against an action, without paying the money into court. Cock v. Donovan, 3 V. & B. 76. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

Plaintiff having obtained injunction to restrain proceedings at law, cannot be called on to pay into court the sum demanded at law on an affidavit of equitable grounds by one of the defendants, the answers of the others not having come in, nor will the court in the alternative dissolve the injunction. Menzies v. Rodrigues, 1 Pri. 133.

Where an injunction against proceeding at law is obtained till the coming in of the answer of one defendant who resides abroad, the plaintiff is not compellable to bring the money into court, unless on special circumstances. Sholbred v. Marnuster, 2 Anst. 366.

Where a verdict has been obtained at law, and an injunction bill is filed while the plaintiff at law is out of the kingdom, and an injunction obtained against him for want of his answer, the court will direct the plaintiff in equity to pay into court the money recovered, and in default thereof will dissolve the injunction. Potts v. Butler, 1 Cox, 330.

Where a defendant has obtained a verdict at law, and an injunction bill is filed against him while he is out of the kingdom, the plaintiff in equity shall be put upon terms of paying the money in question into court, or otherwise his injunction be dissolved. Sherwood v. White, 1 Bro. C. C. 452. S. P. Acton v. Market, 2 Bro. C. C. 14. Culley v. Hickling, id. 182.

(g) In cases of fraud and public policy.

Injunction granted to restrain action at law to recover the arrears of annuity granted to wife, of person who from fiduciary connection with grantor, was held to have abused his confidence by undue exercise of influence, ordered at hearing to be continued. Godard v. Carlisle, 9 Pri. 169. FRAUD; FID. STR.

An action on a post obit, as contrary to the principles of this court was restrained, and subsequent motion to set injunction aside, was refused with costs, such case being an exception to general rule, that costs of motion for injunction, or to dissolve injunction refused, are costs in cause. Marsack v. Reeves, 6 Mad. 108. PR. COSTS.

On bill for discovery and injunction to stay proceedings at law on bill of exchange, and for delivery up of bill to be cancelled, and charging fraud, not answered by defendant; if discovery obtained would be a defence at law, injunction to stay proceedings refused, but granted to stay execution. Houlditch v. Nias, 8 Pri. 689. PL. BILL OF DISCOVERY.

Injunction to stay proceedings in an action brought by a purchaser to recover the amount of his deposit, refused, the description in the printed particulars of sale being calculated grossly to deceive as to the real nature and value of the estate sold. Stuart v. Alliston, 1 Mer. 26. FRAUD; VEND. & PURCH.

Injunction granted to restrain the defendant from suing for a rent charge, granted to qualify him to sit in parliament, the purpose never having been answered. Platanone v. Staple, Coop. 250. FRAUD; PUBLIC POLICY.

Bond to marry or pay money established at law, but injunction granted till hearing, on ground of public policy, being an engagement upon expectations under will of third person, though not a relation, from whom it was kept secret, to marry at his death, and no mutual obligation. Cock v. Richards, 10 Ves. 429. BOND; MARRIAGE; PUBLIC POLICY; MUTUALITY.

Where a verdict has been obtained against a defendant who neglects to apply for a new trial within the time appointed by the rules of the court of law, this court will not entertain a bill for an injunction, on the ground that the plaintiff's demand was unconscientious, or that it was subject matter for an account, provided it was competent to the party to lay those grounds before the jury on the trial, or before the court of law, on motion for a new trial. Bathnan v. Willoc, 1 Sch. & L. 201. NEW TRIAL.

Injunction granted to stay action against the auctioneer for the deposit, although the estate sold was represented as freehold, with leasehold adjoining, and turned out to be almost all leasehold; and although there had been great delay in making out the plaintiff's title. Fordyce v. Ford, 4 Bro. C. C. 494. FRAUD; MISREPRESENTATION; VEND. & PURCH.

Injunctions granted to restrain defendant from recovering a demand from one of the plaintiffs, he having represented to the agent of the other plaintiffs on a treaty of marriage with his daughter, that there was no such demand existing. Nerille v. Wilkinson, 1 Bro. C. C. 543. FRAUD; CONCEALMENT OF TITLE.

Jointress giving leave to the next of kin in remainder for life, without impeachment, &c. to cut timber, the remainder man in tail having acquiesced and encouraged his doing so, the latter was restrained by perpetual injunction from bringing action of waste against the jointress. Aston v. Aston, 1 Ves. 396. TENANT FOR LIFE, AND REM. MAN; WASTE.

13. Against darkening ancient lights.

Injunction granted ex parte to restrain the owner of a house from making any erections or improvements so as to darken or obstruct the ancient lights or windows of an adjoining house. Buck v. Stacy, 2 Russ. 121.

Injunction to restrain obstruction of ancient lights refused, the nature of the alleged injury not requiring preventive interposition before a trial at law, and the legal right being doubtful. Wynstanley v. Lee, 2 Swan. 333.

Injunction against darkening ancient windows not in every case affecting the value of premises that would support an action, the effect must be that material injury, amounting to nuisance, which should not only be redressed by damages, but upon equitable principles prevented. Att. Gen. v. Nichol, 16 Ves. 338.

Injunction to stay building not granted in cases of mere injury or inconvenience to property or persons adjoining, or otherwise except by agreement, or the building being of such a nature as to stop up ancient lights. Morris v. Lessees of Lt. Berkeley, 2 Ves. 463.

Injunction granted to restrain the disclosure of secrets came to the defendant's knowledge in the course of a confidential employment. Evitt v. Price, 1 Sim. 483.

Mere temptation to the abuse of partnership effects is not sufficient to induce court to grant injunction. Glasington v. Thwaites, 1 S. & S. 124. PARTNERSHIP.

All the proprietors of the M. paper, being also, with the exception of one, proprietors in the E. paper, an injunction to restrain using effects of former partnership, to assist latter in consideration of an annual sum, was refused where there had been agreement permitting use on those terms which had been long acted under. Id. ib. PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT.

But injunction granted to restrain using effects not included in agreement. Id. ib.

Injunction to restrain the breach of a covenant, that buildings shall be erected upon a general plan, refused: the covenantee having acquiesced in a partial deviation from the plan, and not having made immediate application to the court. Roper v. Williams, 1 Turn. & R. 18. WAIVER; LACHES; COVENANT, BREACH OF.

A landlord who relaxes, in favour of some of his tenants, a covenant entered into for the benefit of all, is not entitled to an injunction to restrain the other tenants from infringing that covenant. Id. ib.

A person having, in articles of partnership, covenanted not to do certain acts after a specified period of time; the court will not, before the arrival of that period, grant an injunction to restrain him from acting in breach of his agreement, nor for mischief, which is no breach at law of the covenant between the parties. Coates v. Coates, 6 Mad. 287. BILL, QUIA TIMET.

Injunction to restrain a defendant from communicating certain recipes for medicines, and vending them, granted, on the ground that he had obtained a knowledge of the mode of preparing them by a breach of trust. Yobut v. Wingard, 1 Jac. & W. 394. SECRETS IN TRADE.

An injunction will not be granted to restrain the breach of a covenant in articles of partnership which has not been infringed for any length of time, where the bill does not pray a dissolution of the partnership. Whether the court will in any case grant such an injunction, unless there is ground for, and the bill prays a dissolution of partnership: Qu? Marshall v. Coleman, 2 Jac. & W. 266. PR. BILL: PARTNERSHIP.

The court will not interfere by injunction to prevent the violation of an agreement of which, from the nature of the subject, there could be no decree for a specific performance, as, for instance, to restrain the defendant from imparting the secret of an invention which had been the subject of a patent long since expired. Newbery v. James, 2 Mer. 446.

Distinction between express covenant and implied agreement as to be enforced by injunction granted in the former instance, not in the latter, against tenant, removing articles contrary to the custom of the country. Kimpton v. Ece, 2 V. & B. 319. AGREEMENT.

Injunction granted to restrain a breach of covenant secured for forfeiture of the lease and a penalty. Barrett v. Blagrove, 5 Ves. 555. BREACH OF COVENANT.

The plaintiff's house being so near the church, that the ringing of the five o'clock bell in the morning disturbed her; the plaintiff came to an agreement in writing, with the churchwardens and inhabitants, at a vestry, that she should erect a cupola and clock at the church, in consideration of which the bell was not to be rung in the morning; this agreement good, and decreed to be binding in equity, and an injunction was granted. Martin v. Nutkin, 2 P. W. 266. SPEC. PERM.

15. Infringement of copyright and patent.

The court will interfere to protect copyright from piracy at the suit of plaintiffs, who appear to have a good equitable title, even though it should not be quite clear that their legal title is complete. Mode in which the court exercises its jurisdiction, where one work of compilation, such as encyclopædia, copies matter from a preceding work of the same description. Mauvman v. Tegg, 3 Russ. 385.

An author having sold copyright of work published under his own name, and covenanted with purchaser not to publish any other work to prejudice sale of it: semble, that another publisher, who had no notice of this covenant, will be restrained from publishing work subsequently purchased by him from the same author, and published under his name, on the same subject, but under a different title, and though there be no piracy of the first work. Parfield v. Nicholson, 2 S. & S. 1. AGREEMENT.

Injunction to restrain the infringement of copyright in a work, as to which it appeared doubtful whether it did not intend to impugn the doctrines of the scriptures, refused. Lawrence v. Smith, 1 Jac. 471. PUBLIC POLICY.

Injunction granted to restrain the performance of a comedy, the copyright of which had been sold by the author, and had been afterwards assigned by writing to the plaintiffs, although it did not appear whether the original assignment was in writing. Morris v. Kelly, 1 Jac. & W. 481.

Letters written by the plaintiff to the defendant, having been returned by him, with a declaration, that he did not consider himself entitled to retain them, the publication of copies taken before the return without the knowledge of the plaintiff, was restrained by injunction, though represented by the defendant as necessary for the vindication of his character: the jurisdiction to restrain the publication of letters is founded on a right of property in the writer. Gee v. Pritchard, 2 Swan. 403. PRIVATE LETTERS.

No injunction to restrain the publication of letters painful to the feelings of the writer. Id. 413.

The publication of letters may be restrained, although not designed for profit. Id. 416.

The acts of the party may supply reasons for not restraining the publication of letters. Id. 427.

Injunction refused to restrain publication of a work which had been left for twenty-three years by the author in the hands of a bookseller, to whom it was originally sent, with an intention of its being published; that intention being afterwards relinquished, and the work having passed into the hands of the defendants, who published it without the consent or privy of the author. Southey v. Sherwood, 2 Mer. 435.

The court will not interfere by injunction, upon the author's application to restrain the publication of a work which is of such a nature as that an action could not be maintained upon it for damages. Id. ib.

Where there has been a length of exclusive enjoyment under a patent, the court will grant an injunction in the first instance, without previously putting the party to establish this right by an action at law; otherwise where the patent is recent. Hill v. Thompson, 3 Mer. 622.

Copyright in music not asserted against violations by several persons for fifteen years, not protected by injunction, until established at law. Platt v. Bulton, 19 Ves. 447. LACHES; TITLE.

Injunction granted on application of the executor to restrain defendant from publishing letters the property of the testator. Grand v. Dunkin, 1 Ball & B. 207. PRIVATE LETTERS.

Injunction until the hearing under the order of the house of lords for publishing Ld. Melville's trial, and prohibiting any other publication of it. Gurney v. Longman, 13 Ves. 493.

Injunction upon possession under a patent until the right can be tried, though subject to considerable doubt: the patent being for improvement upon a machine, the subject of a former patent, expired, and the specification describing the original machine, with the improvement as one entire machine, the subject of the latter patent, not distinguishing the improvements. Harmer v. Plummer, 14 Ves. 130.

Though copyright cannot subsist in an East India calendar as a general subject, any more than in a map, chart, series of chronology, &c. it may in the individual work; and when it can be traced, that another work upon the same subject is not an original compilation, but a mere copy with colourable variations, the original will be protected by injunction, which, in this instance, was continued until the hearing without a trial at law. Matthewson v. Stockdale, 12 Ves. 270.

Injunction to restrain publishing a magazine as a continuation of the plaintiff's magazine, in numbers, and as to communications from correspondents received by the defendant while publishing for the plaintiff; not preventing the publication of an original work of the same nature, and under a similar title. Hogg v. Kirby, 8 Ves. 215.

Injunction against infringement of copyright depending on effect of agreement; refused till recovery in an action. Walcot v. Walker, 7 Ves. 1. TITLE.

Court will not act either by giving an injunction or account even upon a submission in answer upon a publication of such a nature that an action could not be maintained. Id. ib. ILLICIT PUBLICATION.

Plaintiff, through several mesne assignments, being in possession of a right, originally in the city of London, of supplying Southwark with water, prayed injunction to restrain defendant from encroaching on this right by raising engines, laying pipes, &c. Defendant demurred to bill, for that plaintiff ought first to have established his right at law: demurrer allowed. Whitechurch v. Hyde, 2 Atk. 391.

Injunction denied to stay an interloper's trading to the E. Indies till the validity of the E. I. company's patent has been tried. E. I. Comp. v. Sandys, 1 Vern. 127.

16. Against setting up legal bars and defences.

Where the statute of limitation attaches a demand pending the retention of a bill in equity, the validity of the debt being directed to be tried at law, the court restrained the debtor from availing himself of the benefit of the statute at law. Sirdefield v. Price, 2 Y. & J. 73. S. P. Anon. 1 Vern. 74. LIMITATION, STAT. OF.

Injunction to restrain setting up of outstanding term in bar to ejectment will not be granted on motion. Barney v. Luckett, 1 S. & S. 419. S. P. Northey v. Pearce, id. 420. Id. ib.

Plaintiff in a bill to restrain the setting up of outstanding terms, cannot bring an ejectment before the hearing without the leave of the court. Beer v. Ward, 1 Jac. 194. PR. EJECTMENT.

Injunction to restrain the setting up of terms not obtained on motion. Id. 196.

Decree on bill for delivery up of deeds, having left parties to remedy at law, and directed defendant to bring an ejectment, the plaintiff ought not to be restrained from defeating it by means of an outstanding term. Brackenbury v. Brackenbury, 2 J. & W. 391. EJECTMENT.

After decree to bill for delivery up of deeds directing ejectment to be brought, an order to restrain setting up of outstanding terms cannot be made on motion. Id. ib. PR. DECREE; PR. MOTION.

A court of equity never refuses to remove temporary bars to enable parties to try their rights, unless there be fraud imputable to the plaintiff, or the defendant is purchaser for valuable consideration without notice. Blennerhasset v. Day, 2 Ball & B. 137.

It is a general rule, that where a party is prevented by court from proceeding to establish his right at law, it is the duty of the court to see no injury arise to him in consequence of its interference. Therefore, where an annuitant was restrained by injunction from proceeding at law to recover the arrears of rent charge, interest was allowed. O'Donel v. Braine, 1 Ball & B. 262. S. P. 6 Ves. 93. INTEREST; ARREARS OF RENT CHARGE.

Outstanding term to attend the inheritance, the trusts, being performed, may be an objection to the conveyance, not to the title. Berkeley v. Dangle, 16 Ves. 380. VEND. & PURCH.; TITLE.

The court will not order temporary bars to be waived on motion. Byrne v. Byrne, 2 Scho. & L. 537. PR. MOTION.

In what cases court of equity will restrain a party setting up a fine as a bar to an ejectment, especially where the non-claim has run pending a suit in equity between the same parties. Decree, dismissing the bill reversed. Pincke v. Thornycroft, 4 Bro. P. C. 92. Reversing 1 Bro. C. C. 289. EJECTMENT.

Every heir has a right to inquire by what means and under what deed he is disinherited; and, before he has established his title at law, he may go into equity to remove terms out of the way, which would prevent his recovering there; and may also have a production and inspection of deeds, and writings in equity. Harrison v. Southcote, 1 Atk. 539. PL. DISCOVERY; HEIR AT LAW.

Equity will not take away any defence the party may have at law a voluntary deed; but if a deed for a good consideration had been discharged by voluntary release, such defence would be restrained. Praund v. Turner, Fitzgib. 105. VOLUNTARY DEEDS.

A dowress shall have the trust of a satisfied term removed against the heir at law. Dudley v. Dudley, Prec. Chan. 241. DOWER.

Court will not entertain bill by dowress to set aside an outstanding term as against a purchaser, though he had notice. Bolton v. Venlebensdy, 1 Vern. 356, 179. DOWER; VEND. & PURCH.

17. Against nuisance.

Jurisdiction by injunction on danger of irreparable injury to property, though, as a public nuisance, an object of prosecution by the attorney general; the subject a corn mill to powder mills, from site, construction, &c., eminently dangerous to the neighbourhood and public. Injunction directed with an arrangement for a speedy trial, and preventing immediate danger in the interval. Crowder v. Tinkler, 19 Ves. 617. PUBLIC NUISANCE; JURISDICTION.

Jurisdiction by injunction on information by the attorney general, at the relation of individuals against a nuisance by an offensive and unwholesome process in trade, not exercised without a trial at law; regulating according to justice the time of trial of an indictment depending, and removed by certiorari into the King's Bench, from the assizes as against the relators; whether as against the defendants, quare? Att. Gen. v. Cleaver, 18 Ves. 211. JURISDICTION.

Where a nuisance and purpresture in a harbour are committed, an information in equity lies to abate it. Att. Gen. v. Richards, 2 Anst. 603.

Injunction to re-erect a nuisance, denied. Anon. 2 Ves. 193.

18. Against payment of money or transfer, or negotiation of security or estate.

The wife of a bankrupt, having separate property, died in France, in possession of other property there, which was claimed by the creditors as belonging to the husband; she by will disposed of all her separate estate, except 1,500*l.* consols, which, in default of, appointment was held in trust for her executors or administrators, and appointed a lady, resident in France, her executrix. Injunction granted at the suit of the assignees to restrain the transfer of the consols, but refused as to the rest of the separate estate. Stead v. Clay, 1 Sim. 294. DEBTOR & CRED.; HUSB. & WIFE, SEPARATE ESTATE.

Injunction granted ex parte to restrain the negotiation of a bill of exchange, by a holder who had given valuable consideration for it, but who had notice that it had been improperly accepted by a partner of the plaintiffs, in the partnership's name. Hood v. Aston, 1 Russ. 412. BILL OF EXCHANGE; VENDOR & PURCH.; NOTICE.

Injunction granted to restrain payments by friendly society, founded on erroneous principles tending to exhaust its funds. Peter v. Perkins, 2 J. & W. 390. FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

Where an injunction is issued after execution against the goods, the sheriff may proceed to sell; but the court will, in special cases, stay the money in his hands. Hawkshaw v. Perkins, 2 Swan. 549. PR. SALE BY SHERIFF.

Injunction to restrain the vendor of copyhold premises after delivery of possession, and receipt of part of the purchase money, from surrendering them to persons other than the purchasers. Spiller v. Spiller, 3 Swan. 556. COPYHOLD, SURRENDER OF.

Injunction to restrain the negotiation of bills of exchange, void in their creation. Hood v. Gordon, 2 Swan. 180. NEGOTIATION OF SECURITIES; BILL OF EXCHANGE.

The solicitor to a commission restrained by injunction from negotiating a promissory note that he had received from the bankrupts for his bill of costs in procuring his certificate, the bankrupt having purchased the debts of many of the creditors; and the solicitor being indebted to the estate in such a sum, that the share of it coming to the bankrupt, standing in the place of the creditor, in respect of the debts so purchased by him, would exceed the amount of the promissory note. Eip. Harding, 1 Buck. 24. BANKRU., SOLICITOR.

Quare, whether a court of equity, in the exercise of its jurisdiction to decree the specific performance of an agreement, can interfere by injunction to restrain a party from divulging a secret in medicine which is unprotected by patent. In this case an injunction, which had been granted for that and other purposes, was dissolved, upon the affidavit of the defendant (an infant) denying the facts of the case as represented by the plaintiff's affidavit in support of the injunction, and upon the ground that there was no secret in the alleged invention. Williams v. Williams, 3 Mer. 157.

General demurrer to bill filed by judgment creditor against his debtor (who had been discharged under insolvent act), and the executrix of will, by which debtor was entitled to a share of residue of testator's personal property, praying an injunction against executrix to restrain her paying it over to debtor, and that plaintiff might be allowed his debt thereout; allowed because a sufficiently strong case was not made out. Olley v. Line, 7 Price, 274. LEGACY; DEBTOR & CRED.

If there are vexatious alienations, pendente lite, the court will restrain them. Daly v. Kelly, 4 Dow, 440. ALIENATION PENDENTE LITE.

Mortgage of ship at sea (the form of registry act being observed) held valid, and injunction granted to prevent an improper indorsement on certificate of registry of ship. Thompson v. Smith, 1 Mad. 395. MORTGAGE; SHIP.

Injunction restraining vendor, defendant to a bill for specific performance, from conveying the legal estate. Echlin v. Bulabin, 16 Ves. 267. ALIENATION PENDENTE LITE.

Affidavits cannot be read in support of an injunction to restrain the negotiation of bills of exchange. Berkely v. Byrmer, 9 Ves. 335. PR. INJUNCTION, AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT.

Injunction until answer restraining a transfer of stock, standing in the name of a steward, on strong evidence by affidavit, that it was the produce of his master's property, rents, &c., received for many years without account; refused as to money at his banker's in his name. Ld. Chedworth v. Edwards, 8 Ves. 46. PRIN. & AGENT.

Application under 39 and 40 Geo. 3. c. 36. to restrain bank from making transfer without making them parties, must be upon notice to defendant, and upon affidavit as in cases of waste. Hammond v. Maundrell, 6 Ves. 772. (note). BANK OF ENGLAND; STAT. C. OR.

Injunction granted to restrain transfer, and receiver appointed to preserve property pendente lite in ecclesiastical court, upon the will. King v. King, 6 Ves. 172. JURISDICTION.

Bill of exchange, given to secure procuration money agreed to be given to colonel of regiment for commission, is void, and court will interfere, even after money is in hands of sheriff, on execution at law. Whittingham v. Bourgoigne, 3 Anst. 990. PUBLIC POLICY; SALE OF OFFICES.

A, having charged his estates by mortgages and other incumbrances to a very large amount, appointed B to be his steward or receiver of all his estates, with verbal directions to pay the interest to the mortgagees, and to pay over the surplus of the rents to himself; on the making a fifth mortgage, A, by deed, appointed B receiver of the estates comprised in that mortgage, in trust to keep down the interest of that mortgage, and to pay over the residue of the rents to himself. A afterwards granted several annuities, which he charged on all the mortgaged premises, and demised the same to a trustee for securing the said annuities in manner therein mentioned; and subject thereto, to permit A to receive the surplus for his benefit. At the time of granting these annuities, A represented the estates to be free from all incumbrances. On a bill filed by the annuitants against A and B, (without making any of the prior incumbrancer's parties), the court will restrain B from paying over any part of the rents to A, and will appoint a receiver without prejudice to the prior mortgagees taking possession. Dulmer v. Dashwood, 2 Cox, 378. MORTGAGE.

Widow being, as administratrix, possessed of property of intestate consisting of bank stock, motion to restrain her from disposing of it, to pay it into court, refused; but, being clearly entitled to her third, ordered to pay the two-thirds into court. Rogers v. Rogers, 1 Anst. 174. PAYMENT INTO COURT; ADMINISTRATRIX.

Injunction to restrain defendant from negotiating a bill of exchange given for goods not delivered, issued on certificate of bill filed, and to be served with the subpoena. Patrick v. Harrison, 3 Bro. C. C. 476.

Injunction against purchaser, on behalf of creditor, to restrain payment to heir. Green v. Lances, 3 Bro. C. C. 217. VENDOR & PURCH., PAYMENT OF PURCH. MONEY.

An injunction to restrain a suit in the exchequer for the same matter was refused, but granted to prevent the parties from disposing of the fund until the rights in chancery were determined. Bullock v. Bullock, 3 Swan. 698. EXCHEQUER.

A commission of bankrupt issued against A and B, but was not proceeded on. A and B had a very large sum of money in the hands of their bankers. This court will not, under these circumstances, interfere to prevent A and B from recovering the money at law from the bankers, although the commission remains in force. Fuller v. Gibson, 2 Cox, 24. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT.

Where money in the public funds is the subject of a suit, to which the bank is made a defendant, the court will not, on the application of the bank, make any order on the litigating parties to restrain them from proceeding at law against the bank to compel a transfer, but they must file a bill of interpleader. Birch v. Corbin, 1 Cox, 141. BANK OF ENGLAND; PL. INTERPLEADER.

Where plaintiff gave defendant a note for undertaking to procure him a marriage, and the fact was supported by affidavit; the court made an order upon the defendant to keep the note in his possession, and not assign or indorse it, but would not extend the injunction, to prevent his proceeding at law. Smith v. Aikewell, 2 Atk. 566. MARRIAGE BROKER.

Where an insolvent executor is getting in the assets before probate, the court will restrain him, and direct money to be paid into the bank. Id. ib. EXECUTOR.

Husband, possessed of term in right of wife, was divorced à mensa et thoro, and, he being about to sell term, injunction was granted to prevent him. Anon. 9 Mod. 43. See Shute v. Shute, Prec. Chan. 111. HUSB. & WIFE, SEPARATE ESTATE.

Injunction granted for delivering up of plate, nisi causa, &c. Geoffry v. Davis, Cary, 34.

Where a will was litigated in the spiritual court, on a suggestion, that it was unduly obtained from a man sick of the plague, the court, on the motion, ordered that the executor (who was supposed insolvent) should forbear to receive the debts of the deceased pendente lite. Smalpiece v. Anguish, 1 Ch. Ca. 75. ADMON. CONTROVERTED.

19. To quit possession.

It is usual in Ireland, for a lessee who has been three years in possession, and is disturbed, to file his bill in the court of chancery there, for an injunction to quiet him in possession, till evicted by due course of law; and this usage is founded upon the equity of the statutes made against forcible entries. But all bills of this kind must allege, and it must also be proved, that the sole and actual possession is in the plaintiff, and that no ownership or possession is in any other person. Vernon v. City of Dublin, 4 Bro. P. C. 398. IRELAND.

An injunction was awarded to restore and quiet the plaintiff and his tenants in the possession of the premises in question, but it was at the same ordered, that he should appear to an ejectment to be brought by the defendant, in order to try the title. An ejectment was accordingly brought, and the defendant obtained a verdict, and was afterwards put into possession. But on an appeal by the plaintiff, it was ordered that he should be at liberty to bring an ejectment, to recover possession of the premises, and that no mortgage should be set up in bar of his title. Seymour v. Ryan, id. 390.

Bill to be quieted in possession of a right of common, and to prevent distresses. Defendants produced affidavits of fifty years right of common and quiet possession; but the court would not interpose till after one or more verdicts at law. Anon. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 183.

An injunction is awarded by a decree, to put the plaintiff into possession of the premises in question, and at the same time, the parties are directed to try the title at law; this decree is repugnant and must be reversed, as to the injunction. Id. Tanesborough v. Elwood, 4 Bro. P. C. 385. PL. DECREE.

Injunction for plaintiff's possession as at time of filing bill, and three years before. Sapote v. Newport, Cary, 47.

Injunction for defendants in possession against plaintiff's entering. Dawche v. Perrot, id. 45.

Commission to put plaintiff into possession, injunction being dissolved or disobeyed. Boles v. Walley, id. 38.

Granted to put defendant in such possession of lands as he had at time of bill exhibited. Hawkes v. Champion, id. 36. 45.

20. Against sailing of ships.

Injunction to restrain the sailing of vessel, containing goods sold to a person who had become insolvent, but over which the plaintiff retained a right of stoppage in transitu, refused. A court of equity has not jurisdiction in any case to stop goods in transitu. Semble v. Goodhart v. Lowe, 2 Jac. & W. 349. STOPPAGE IN TRANSITU; JURISDICTION.

Injunction to restrain the sailing of a ship, upon the application of a part-owner, refused. Where the ship was intended to sail the next day, and it did not appear by the affidavit filed in support of the motion, that there were any circumstances to account for the plaintiff's delay in applying. Christie v. Craig, 2 Mer. 137. LACHES.

21. Against sale.

Pending an appeal, the court will sometimes stay the sale of property which the decree has directed to be sold, but if the property consists of personal chattels remaining in the possession of the appellant, he must give ample security for their value. Nerot v. Burnard, 2 Russ. 56. PL. APPEAL.

Injunction, ex parte, to restrain the assignees from selling the bankrupt's effects. Exp. Figes, 1 G. & J. 122. SALE OF EFFECTS.

Injunction to restrain the exercise of a power of sale given to secure a balance, to be ascertained by an arbitrator, refused; although the award was made after the plaintiff had executed a deed for the purpose of revoking his authority. Harcourt v. Ramsbottom, 1 Jac. & W. 505. ARBITRATION.

Injunction not granted to restrain mortgagee from selling, under power in mortgage deed; otherwise where there is a trustee for sale, and he proceeds precipitately and without notice to both parties. Anon. 6 Mod. 10. POWER OF SALE; MORTGAGE.

On separate commission against one partner, the assignees took possession of partnership property, and were about to sell it. Injunction on filing bill and affidavit, granted to restrain sale. Allen v. Kilbre, 4 Mad. 464. BANKCY., PARTNERSHIP; BANKCY. JOINT & SEPARATE COMMISSION.

Injunction granted, restraining sale of estates till answer to bill, alleging parcel agreement to exchange, partly performed by plaintiff having purchased estate for that purpose. Curtis v. Mary, Buckingham, 3 V. & B. 168. SPEC. PERF.; PART PERF.

There is no exclusive right in a subject not protected by patent, to prevent sale by another person under the same title, not assuming the name and character of the plaintiff. Canham v. Jones, 2 V. & B. 218.

Voluntary settlement void, under stat. 27 Eliz. c. 4. against a subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration with notice, though a fair provision for a wife and children, an injunction restraining the husband from selling, was refused, but a demurrer by the husband overruled, as covering too much, the plaintiff being entitled until a sale to an execution of the trust. Pulcerty v. Pulcerty, 18 Ves. 84. VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT; NOTICE; HUSB. & WIFE.

On a trust to sell, a suggestion in the bill of improper conduct of the trustees, in not giving sufficient notice of the sale, is not a ground for an injunction to stop the intended sale. Pechel, Bart. v. Fowler, 2 Anst. 549. PL. BILL.

Defendant, before he had prayed time to answer, or was in contempt, restrained from selling diamonds. Toumin v. Prout, Dick. 387.

Motion by the king's patentees for an injunction to stop the sale of English bibles printed beyond sea, denied till the validity of the patent had been tried at law. Anon. 1 Vern. 120. TITLE; COPYRIGHT.

22. Against trespass.

Injunction granted in cases of trespass. Field v. Beaumont, 1 Swan. 208.

Whether after a verdict at law, in an action of trespass, the court will grant an injunction against future trespasses, in favour of parties who refused at the trial to produce documents necessary to a fair decision, Qu? Id. 210.

Though the court will not restrain an action of trespass by a party, through whose estate a canal is cutting for deviating from the line, because he has laid by and rested upon his legal rights; yet if he files a bill to restrain their deviating, and then moves to commit them, the court will not do so, without a trial by jury in a disputed case, and directing an issue at law. Agar v. Regent's Canal Comp. Coop. 77. ISSUE AT LAW.

Injunction in trespass; where the title was disputed. Kinder v. Jones, 17 Ves. 110.

Lessee committed waste by opening a mine, and continued to work into the other land of the lessor, not comprised in his lease. Injunction was granted as to both. Cited in Hanson v. Gardiner, 7 Ves. 308. INJUNCTION TO STAY WASTE.

Injunction against a mere trespasser committing waste, not granted. Mogg v. Mogg, Dick. 670.

The court will not grant an injunction to restrain a person from committing a trespass, where it is temporary only; otherwise, where it has continued so long as to become a nuisance. Coulson v. White, 3 Atk. 21.

On bill stating intent of defendant to encroach on plaintiff's land, &c. by building; defendant by answer claiming title to land himself; motion for injunction was refused, not being sufficient to try title on. Buteman v. Johnson, Fitzgib. 106. TITLE.

23. Against waste.

The court will not grant an injunction to stay waste at the instance of a judgment creditor in a suit by him against the heir and administrator of the debtor. Lenke v. Beckett, 1 Y. & J. 339.

Tenant for life, without impeachment, restrained from cutting timber planted or left standing for ornament, &c., whether ornamental or fanciful, the protection extending beyond the mansion-house, to rides, &c. through a wood at a considerable distance, but not to the whole wood to prevent cutting other parts for repairs and sale. Wombwell v. Belasyse, cited, 6 Ves. 110. note a. TIMBER, ORNAMENTAL.

Injunction may be obtained upon motion to restrain purchaser under decree, not a party to cause, who has not paid purchase-money, from committing waste on property purchased. Cusamejor v. Storde, 1 S. & S. 381. VEND. & PURCH.

The Ld. Ch. Baron will take motions for special injunctions to stay waste or other pressing matters during vacation at his own residence, or on the circuit. Tucker v. Sanger, 10 Price, 132. S. P. Galloway v. Appleton, id. 133. S. P. Creswell v. Long, id. ib. S. P. Williamson v. Tompson, id. 134. S. P. Rigby v. Dracley, id. ib.

Defendant having appeared, motion for injunction in matter of waste not immediate, without notice, refused. Collard v. Cooper, 6 Mad. 190. PR. NOTICE.

Where equitable waste of one kind only has been done or threatened, the injunction is not to be extended to equitable waste of other kinds. Semble, usual injunction in cases of equitable waste not extended to trees which protect the premises from the effect of the sea. Coffin v. Coffin, 1 Jac. 70. EQUITABLE WASTE.

In equitable, as in legal waste, if one act of waste be established, the court will restrain equitable waste generally. S. C. 6 Mad. 17. JURISDICTION.

Court will restrain cutting underwood of insufficient growth. Brydges v. Stephens, 6 Mad. 279. UNDERWOOD.

Where injunction to stay waste had been granted on petition, a reference was made to inquire what timber, &c. might be cut advantageously. Att. Gen. v. Dk. Marlborough, 5 Mad. 280. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Injunction to stay waste refused, the acts of waste committed being trivial, and the plaintiffs proceedings having been dilatory. Barry v. Barry, 1 Jac. & W. 651.

A small degree of waste manifesting an intent to do more, is sufficient for the court to act upon. Id. 653.

In cases of waste, it is the business of the reverentior to apply to the court promptly. Id. ib. IACTUS.

A mortgagee is entitled to an injunction to restrain a mortgagor in possession from cutting down timber, if the land without it is a scanty security. It may be extended to cutting down underwood contrary to the usual course of husbandry, but not to underwood generally, although the mortgagor is insolvent. Thompson v. Harrison, 1 Jac. & W. 581. TIMBER; MORTGAGEE & MORTGAGE.

Injunction to restrain mortgagor from cutting timber will not be granted unless without timber security is scanty or insufficient. Hippesley v. Spencer, 5 Mad. 422. MORTGAGEE & MORTGAGE; TIMBER.

The court will not by injunction, restrain the working of mines, permitted during eight years, without directing an action. Field v. Beaumont, 1 Swan. 208. MINES.

Plaintiff and defendant (partners) having agreed to dissolve, and that defendant on payment of half value of effects should take the whole, though defendant took possession but failed to make the payment, and had begun to pull down part of buildings, injunction to restrain him refused. Coston v. Horner, 5 Price, 537. PARTNERSHIP.

Persons authorized by act of parliament to cut a canal, and required to appropriate certain sums for the construction and maintenance of works to protect a harbour in which the canal was intended to terminate, not restrained from cutting through their own lands, at a distance from the harbour, in the event of a present insufficiency of funds for the completion of the undertaking, pending an application to parliament for further powers to levy money. Mayor, &c. of King's Lynn v. Pemberton, 1 Swan. 244. CANAL.

But persons authorized by act of parliament to cut canal, if their funds are insufficient for completion of undertaking, may, on the prompt application of the owner of lands through which they are cutting, be restrained from proceeding. Id. 250.

On a motion after the answer for an injunction to stay waste, affidavits filed, subsequently to the answer, cannot be read. Smythe v. Smythe, 1 Swan. 252. PR. EVID.; AFFIDAVITS WHEN FILED.

The lessees of a colliery having agreed to grant to the lessees of a neighbouring colliery licence to use a right of way enjoyed by the former, and the owner of the first colliery having granted to the second lessees the same right of way during a term of years, and afterwards by assignment from the first lessees become possessed of the first colliery, and the right of way, an injunction was granted to restrain him from removing the materials and destroying the way. Newmarch v. Brandling, 3 Swan. 99. RIGHT OF WAY; LESSOR & LESSEE.

Injunction granted to stay waste and from sowing land with pernicious crops. Pratt v. Brett, 2 Mad. 62. LANDLORD & TEN.

Heir who is entitled by way of resulting trust until the determination of an event upon which the future contingent estates were to arise, was restrained from cutting timber. Stansfield v. Ilabergham, 10 Ves. 273. HEIR AT LAW; WASTE.

Where there is an executory devise over, even of a legal estate, this court will not permit timber to be cut, more especially in the case of a trust estate. Id. 278. EXECUTORY DEVIANT; TIMBER.

Injunction against trespasser cutting timber by collusion with tenant, without prejudice to case of a mere trespasser. Courthorpe v. Mappleden, 10 Ves. 290. TRESPASS.

An order specifically to repair the banks of a canal and stop gates, &c. refused; but by injunction restraining defendant from impeding plaintiff from navigating, &c. by continuing to keep banks, &c. out of repair, &c. the effect of such former order was given. June v. Newdgate, 10 Ves. 192. REPAIRS; CANALS, &c.

Mortgage of wood and underwood; it is not waste by the mortgagor in possession, to cut underwood at seasonable times and of proper growth; but being a bankrupt an injunction was granted on the right of the mortgagee to have the estate sold in the plight in which it was at the bankruptcy, and to prove the rest of his debt. Hampton v. Hodges, 8 Ves. 105. MORTGAGE; MORTGAGE; BANKRUPTCY.

Injunction against cutting timber refused where the title was disputed as between the devisee and heir at law. Smith v. Collyer, 8 Ves. 89. TITLE.

Injunction to restrain a surviving partner from disposing of the joint stock and receiving the outstanding debts. Hurtz v. Schrader, 8 Ves. 317. PARTNERSHIP.

Injunction to stay waste not granted without positive evidence of title. Daries v. Lee, 6 Ves. 781.

Injunction obtained on affidavits against pasturing cattle and cutting in a wood; the plaintiff prayed the injunction as tenant in fee, or as lord of the manor inclosing under the statute, the defendants denying the former title, and as to the latter claiming common of pasture and estovers, and stating that after the enclosure sufficient common of pasture would not be left: the plaintiff having, before the bill filed, been nonsuited in an action of trespass, and entered into an agreement with some of the tenants. The injunction was dissolved upon the answer. Quare, Whether the original new affidavits could be read in such a case? Hanson v. Gardiner, 7 Ves. 305. TITLE.

Injunction against cutting ornamental timber confined to timber standing for ornament or shelter, the court refusing to extend it by inserting the words "contribute to ornament." Williams v. McNamara, 8 Ves. 70. ORNAMENTAL TIMBER.

Injunction between tenants in common against destruction not against pure equitable waste. Hole v. Thomas, 7 Ves. 589. TENANTS IN COMMON.

Lessee committed waste by opening a mine, and continued to work into the other land of the lessor not comprised in his lease. Injunction was granted as to both. Cited in Hanson v. Gardiner, 7 Ves. 308. INJUNCTION AGAINST TRESPASS.

Injunction against waste granted in favour of tenant for life, particularly as to ornamental timber, not so much upon his interest as his enjoyment. Daries v. Lee, 6 Ves. 787. TENANT FOR LIFE.

Injunction against ploughing up pasture upon covenant to manage in a husbandlike manner. Drury v. Molins, 6 Ves. 328.

Injunction granted where defendant having begun to work mine in his own land, continued it into plaintiff's. Mitchell v. Dore, 6 Ves. 147. MINES.

Injunction granted on affidavit to restrain tenant from ploughing up meadow to build on, contrary to express covenant. Quare, if granted on ground of waste, or no covenant? Id. De Wilson v. Saxon, 6 Ves. 106.

Injunction to stay waste not granted against defendant in possession claiming by an adverse title. Pillworth v. Hepto, 6 Ves. 51.

Injunction granted to restrain tenant not impeachable for waste, from cutting clumps of trees for ornament two miles from house. Marg. Downshire v. Ly. Sandys, 6 Ves. 107. TIMBER, ORNAMENTAL.

Injunction granted to restrain tenant for life without impeachment, from cutting timber and other trees planted, &c. for ornament, &c. and from cutting except in husbandlike manner. Id. Tamworth v. Id. Ferrers, 6 Ves. 419. TIMBER, ORNAMENTAL.

Where a tenant defending an ejectment brought by his landlord, makes default at the trial, and makes use of the interval to do all the mischief he can by breaches of covenant and wilful waste, an injunction will be granted on motion, or in the vacation on petition: but it was refused, where no ejectment had been brought. Lathropp v. Marsh, 5 Ves. 259. LANDLORD & TENANT.

Court will not interfere to prevent tenant carrying off dung from farm, contrary to covenants of lease. Johnson v. Goldsacaine, 3 Aust. 749. sed vid. contra Geest v. Id. Belfast, id. note. BREACH OF COVENANT.

A tenant for life liable to waste, having sold timber, cannot prevent the vendee from cutting it. Wentworth v. Turner, 3 Ves. 3. TENANT FOR LIFE.

The general controlling power of the court over charities does not extend to a charity regulated by governors under a charter, unless they have also the management of the revenues, and abuse their trust, which will not be presumed; but must be apparent or made out by evidence. The Foundling Hospital is an institution of this kind; therefore, on motion, injunction to restrain the governors from building round it, refused; breach of trust or probability of it not being made out, and held not in nature of waste to turn meadow into buildings, unless clearly injurious. Att. Gen. v. Governors of Foundling Hosp. 2 Ves. J. 42.

Injunction to stay waste refused, where the plaintiff and the defendant in possession were tenants in common, but granted on affidavit of defendant's insolvency. Smallman v. Oulons, 3 Bro. C.C. 621. INSOLVENCY.

Injunction granted from farther digging a ditch, but court will not order it to be filled up till after answer. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 140.

Order made to prevent removal of timber wrongfully cut. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 93. WASTE.

The court will not interfere by way of injunction to stay waste where the defendant may be turned immediately out of possession. Mortimer v. Cotterell, 2 Cox, 205.

Injunction granted to stay waste against the widow of a rector at the suit of the patroness during vacancy. Hoskins v. Featherstone, 2 Bro. C.C. 552. PERSONAGE.

Where an injunction to stay waste has been obtained on bill filed and affidavit, the defendant may, immediately on coming in of his answer, move to dissolve the injunction without obtaining any order nisi; but then his answer can only be received as an affidavit, and the plaintiff may read affidavits in contradiction to it; and if afterwards, upon exceptions, the answer appear insufficient, the injunction shall be revived. Cs. Strathmore v. Bowes, 1 Cox, 263. PR. MOTION TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION; PR. EVID.

Affidavits read against the answer in support of injunctions to stay waste. S.C. 2 Bro. C.C. 88. PR. EVID. AGAINST ANSWER.

Demandeur to a bill for an injunction to restrain injuring fish ponds, overruled. The court also in this case restrained a tenant from building so as to interrupt his landlord's prospect. Bathurst v. Burden, 2 Bro. C.C. 64. PR. DEMANDUR.

Injunction to restrain defendant from preventing water flowing in regular quantities to a mill. Robinson v. Byron, 1 Bro. C. C. 588.

Injunction for waste denied; plaintiff's right being doubtful. Field v. Jackson, Dick. 599.

Injunction must be prayed against present waste. Anon. Loft. 151. PL. PRAYER.

Injunction against cutting young saplings, wavers and fruit trees. Kaye v. Banks, Dick. 431.

Injunction to stay waste only granted on interlocutory application. Kettle v. Corbin, Dick. 314.

Patron of a living may have an injunction against the incumbent to stay waste. So may the attorney general against a bishop. But they cannot pray any account of the profits for their own benefit as patrons. Knight v. Mosely, Amb. 176. ACCOUNT BY WHOM.

The court will restrain waste in an under-lessee at the suit of the ground landlord. So against a first tenant for life, at the suit of the remainder-man, notwithstanding an intermediate life-estate; so against a mortgagee (not applying the produce of timber in sinking the principal and interest,) at the suit of the mortgagor; so against a mortgagor committing waste to the prejudice of the mortgagee. Farrant v. Lovel, 3 Atk. 723.

Injunction refused to restrain the father who was tenant for life without impeachment of waste, from removing a deal floor he had placed, and young oaks he had planted, breaking up meadow &c. To ground such an injunction there must be waste and spoliation, and no delay in applying for it. Peirs v. Peirs, 1 Ves. 521. TENANT FOR LIFE.

Injunction to stay tenant for life from committing waste by cutting trees growing for ornament, and saplings not proper to be felled. O'Brien v. O'Brien, Amb. 107. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 168. in note. ORNAMENTAL TIMBER.

The court will restrain tenants for life, without impeachment of waste, to a reasonable exercise of the right. Aston v. Aston, 1 Ves. 264. TENANT FOR LIFE.

Garden grounds used for trades as much protected by the highway acts, &c. as private property. Plaintiff therefore, quieted in possession by injunction against the commissioners. Hughes v. Trustees of Morden College, 1 Ves. 188. HIGHWAY ACTS.

If a defendant by his answer admits that he has committed waste before the filing of the bill, though he swears he has committed none since, yet the court will not dissolve the injunction. Anon. 3 Atk. 485. Pn. ANSWER, ADMISSIONS BY.

The court will restrain a tenant for life, without impeachment of waste, from cutting down trees in lines or avenues, or ridings in a park, as they are for ornament; and whether trees grow naturally, or where planted, if they serve for ornament or shelter, it is the same thing. Packington's Case, 3 Atk. 215.

An injunction will be granted before answer to stay waste, by a person having no interest in the thing wasted, but merely acting as a servant. Ld. Orrey v. Newton, Ridgw. 252.

If a person only threatens to open mines, plaintiff may come into court to restrain him from doing it. Gibson v. Smith, 2 Atk. 182.

It is not necessary to stay till waste is actually committed, where the intention appears, and the person insists on his right to do it. Id.

Though no proof appears of waste, yet if tenant for life insists on a right to do it and has none, the reversioner may have an injunction. Id.

The court will grant an injunction to stay waste in favour of an infant in ventre sa mere. Wallis v. Hudson, 2 Atk. 117. CHILD IN VENTRE SA MERE.

Injunction against tenant in possession, not party to stay waste. Att. Gen. v. Dk. Ancaster, Dick. 68.

Lessee for years sans waste, remainder in fee to a bishop; lessee enjoined from digging the ground for brick. Bp. London v. Webb, 1 P. W. 527. LESSOR & LESSEE.

Injunction granted to prevent tenant for life punishable for waste from pulling down a castle. Pane v. Ld. Bernard, 1 Salk. 161. TENANT FOR LIFE.

Injunction to stay waste in cutting trees, granted on bill by party who was only tenant for life, and had no right to trees, and though party entitled to inheritance was not joined. Dagrell v. Champness, 1 Eq. Ab. 400. PL. PARTY.

Injunction to stay waste, granted against jointress. Cooke v. Whaley, 1 Eq. Ab. 400. But where it was covenanted that jointure should be of certain value, which it was not, court refused the injunction. Carew v. Carew, id. ib. JOINTURE.

In a lease for years of land, lessee covenants not to plough pasture land, and if he does, then to pay after the rate of 20s. per annum for every acre ploughed. The court will not grant an injunction against the tenants ploughing; for the parties themselves have agreed the damage, and set a price for ploughing. Nor will court relieve the lessee against the penalty if he plows. Powdercard v. Gyles, 2 Vern. 119. LANDL. & TEN.; STIPULATED DAMAGES.

A, tenant for life; remainder to B for life; remainder over. A, though punishable of waste at law by reason of the mesne remainder for life, yet shall be enjoined from committing waste in a court of equity. But tenant for life, without impeachment of waste, shall not be enjoined from committing waste. Tracy v. Tracy, 1 Vern. 23. TENANT FOR LIFE.

An injunction to restrain a lessee from ploughing pasture lands, which had remained unploughed during the continuance of the lease for thirty years, but were ploughed within six years prior to its commencement, refused. Goring v. Goring, 3 Swan. 661. LANDL. & TENANT.

Defendant stayed by injunction from pulling down his rooms to prejudice of plaintiff's rooms. Bush v. Fuld, Cary, 90.

Writs of prohibition and assistance, to prevent a prebendary from committing waste on his prebend. Acland v. Atwell, 3 Swan. 499. PREBEND; WASTE.

Injunction to restrain the lessee for years of the temporalities of a bishop, under a lease confirmed by the dean and chapter, and without impeachment of waste, from felling timber. Id. ib. WASTE; ECCLESIASTICAL LEASE.

A tenant for life of coal mines may open new pits or shafts for the working old veins of coals, for it is hazardous to grant an injunction to stay the working of a coal mine, as it may ruin the colliery for ever. So one seized of lands, wherein there are coal mines not opened, settled those lands on A in tail, remainder to B for life. A opened the mines and worked, and died without issue. B may continue to work all the mines lawfully opened. Clavering v. Clavering, 2 P. W. 388. Sel. Ch. Ca. 79. MINE.

Injunction to restrain the landlord from cutting ornamental trees in a lawn during the term, upon his conduct; amounting to a consent to the tenant's plan of improvement, laying out the lawn, &c. Sending a surveyor to mark out trees, is a sufficient ground for an injunction. Jackson v. Cater, 5 Ves. 688. LANDLORD & TENANT.

Two persons having agreed to work a coach from Bristol to London, one provided horses for a part of the road, and the other for the remainder, and in consequence of the horses of one having been taken in execution, the other having provided horses for that part which had been undertaken by the first, and claiming the whole profits of the journey; the court refused an injunction against continuing to provide horses. Smith v. Fromont, 2 Swan. 330.

A coach-master having sold his share of the business to his partner, with an undertaking not to be concerned in any coach running from R. to London, or prejudicial to the business which he had sold, an injunction was granted restraining him from running a coach from P. through R. to London. Williams v. Williams, 2 Swan. 253. GOODWILL.

Five hundred pounds awarded to B., retiring partner, for goodwill, &c. on understanding not expressed in award, that he should not set up same trade in the vicinity. On parol evidence injunction was granted to enforce award, and such understanding. Harrison v. Gardner, 2 Mad. 198. AWARD; GOODWILL.

Trust-deed for payment of creditors, no creditors being a party, nor made by agreement, and without consideration on the part of any creditor. The debtor afterwards executes other deeds, varying the trusts of the first; motion for an injunction by a creditor under the first deed, who had filed a bill to restrain the trustees from executing the trusts of the subsequent deeds, till they had raised money to answer the first, refused. Wallwyn v. Coutts, 3 Mer. 707. DEED, VOLUNTARY; DEBTOR & CRED.

Objections to award being such as might have been equally the subject of jurisdiction in the court of law, where reference was made a rule of court; injunction dissolved. Award being prepared by solicitor to one of the parties, is no objection. Featherstone v. Cooper, 9 Ves. 67. AWARD.

Where, by neglect, the number of trustees in a trust to present to a living was not filled up at the time of an avoidance, the court would not by injunction prevent the effect of a presentation, under the legal title of the heir of the surviving trustee without a special ground; but the court will take care as to the future, that the trust shall be properly filled up. Att. Gen. v. Bp. Litchfield, 5 Ves. 825. PRESENTATION TO LIVING; TRUST; LACIES.

Sequestrators forcibly dispossessed, restored by injunction. Ld. Pelham v. Ds. Newcastle, 3 Swan. 289. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

XLVIII. INSPECTION OF DEEDS, &c.

See also PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

The court does not usually compel a party to produce his title deeds as evidence; but where a party produces them to defeat his adversary, the opposite side is entitled to an inspection of them. Grange v. Cross, 2 Y. & J. 241. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS; TITLE DEEDS.

Motion by defendant for inspection of book produced by plaintiff under commission issued after publication had passed, was refused with costs. Forester v. Helme, 1 M'Clel. 558. PR. PUBLICATION.

Solicitor refusing to act longer in cause, ordered to permit client to inspect papers in his possession at all reasonable times, without any undertaking on her part to proceed to taxation of bill. Moir v. Mudie, 1 S. & S. 282. SOLICITOR & CLIENT; LIEN.

A party claiming to be heir to the lunatic, permitted, after the possession of the estate had been given up to the parties reported to be the heirs, to inspect deeds and documents remaining in the master's office, which it seems may be obtained till a proper investigation has taken place. Erpe Clarke, 1 Jac. 589. HEIR AT LAW; LUNACY.

In a bill against executors, the plaintiff having stated two promissory notes of the same date, one for 15000*l.* sterling, the other for 15000 French louis, given by the testator for securing a sum of 15000*l.*, on an affidavit by one of the executors, that he had inspected the first note, and observed on the face of it circumstances tending to impeach its authenticity, that he was informed and believed that the second note had been produced by the plaintiff for payment in a foreign country, and that he was advised and believed that it was necessary, in order that his answer might fully meet the case, that he should, before answer, have inspection of the second note, it was ordered, that the defendants should not be compelled to answer till a fortnight after production of the second note. Princess of Wales v. El. Liverpool, 1 Swan. 114. PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

A solicitor declining to be farther concerned in a cause, is not entitled to compel payment of his costs by refusing to permit such inspection of the papers in his hands, or such production of them before the court or the master, as may be necessary in the conduct of the cause. Commerell v. Poynton, 1 Swan. 1. SOLICITOR & CLIENT; LIEN.

Upon a reference to the master, it being necessary (to enable him to make his report) to have the evidence of entries in the books of the bank of England, the master is bound to grant his certificate, in order to justify the bank in permitting an inspection, rather than compel the parties by his refusal to file their bill for a discovery. Bruce v. Ormond, 1 Mer. 409. PR. MASTER'S CERTIFICATE; BANK OF ENGLAND.

Inspection ordered, on a motion, of articles claimed by the plaintiffs as heir looms, in a chest at the banker's of the defendant, insisting by answer on a lien. El. Macclesfield v. Davis, 3 V. & B. 16. LIEN; HEIR LOOMS.

An heir at law has no equity except to remove incumbrances in the way of his legal right; he cannot cannot call for an inspection of deeds in possession of the devisees. Lady Shaftesbury v. Arundell, 4 Ves. 66. HEIR AT LAW.

Bill by heir in tail against devisees, on motion an inspection was ordered of all deeds of settlement, admitted to be in the possession of the defendants creating estates in tail general, but no farther. Id. ib.

Ord. Ch. Irel. 1724. O'Keefe's Ed. 33. No witnesses to be examined on any direct interrogatories, that shall not be first entered with and signed by the register, who is also to mention the number of interrogatories that each schedule contains; and put his initials at the foot of each entry: witnesses not to be examined to any interrogatories that are interlined, unless the register's initials be written immediately before the place of such interlineation. Depositions taken contrary to this rule, to stand suppressed. Ord. Ch. Irel. 27th Feb. 1740. O'Keefe, 54.

No objection to be made on the hearing against the reading depositions, for that the interrogatories are leading, but to be made by motion immediately after publication passed. Ord. Ch. Irel. 22d Feb. 1731. O'Keefe's Ed. 43.

Commissioners, before whom witnesses shall have been examined on cross interrogatories, to put their initials to each of such cross interrogatories. Ord. Ch. Irel. 27th Feb. 1740. O'Keefe's Ed. 55. So, before any cross-examination takes place, the cross interrogatories must be first regularly entered with the register, and certified by counsel. Ord. Ch. Irel. 19th March, 1798. Id. 88.

Where witness has demurred to interrogatory, as tending to subject him to a penalty, and demurrer is overruled as too general; it was ordered without costs, and that new commissions should issue, plaintiff undertaking by interrogatories to make no use of answer for the purpose of enforcing such penalties. Jackson v. Benson, 1 Y. & J. 36. WAIVER OF PENALTIES; PR. EXAM. OF WITNESS.

If after defendant has put in his examination to the usual interrogatories before the master, the plaintiff discovers that defendant has received sums not mentioned in his examination, the master is at liberty to receive a new state of facts, and further interrogatories founded upon them, without an order of court. Sitden v. Foster, 1 S. & S. 335. PR. EXAMINATION; PR. STATE OF FACTS.

Interrogatories in support of articles for purpose of discrediting witnesses, may relate to particular facts not in issue in the cause, as well as to the credit of the witnesses generally. Piggott v. Crowhull, 1 S. & S. 467. PR. DISCREDITING WITNESSES.

Master may, at his discretion, receive further interrogatories. Pryce v. Lytton, 5 Mad. 465. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Court refused, (with costs,) to order interrogatories to be suppressed, however impertinent, if witnesses have answered there; they should demur: answering them waives impertinence. Jeffries v. Whitlock, 9 Pri. 436. WAIVER; PR. IMPERTINENCE.

Practice as to exhibiting of further interrogatories before master. Lynn v. Buck, 3 Mad. 280.

If plaintiff do not file his answer to interrogatories, an order will be made on him to show cause why they should not be taken pro confesso. Leves v. Morgan, 5 Pri. 471.

On a bill for discovery, and a commission to examine foreign witnesses in aid of an action at law, a motion that the plaintiff might communicate to the defendant the interrogatories exhibited by him, was refused. Butler v. Balkelly, 2 Swan. 373. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

Interrogatories to examine parties must be settled by the master. Willan v. Willan, 19 Ves. 593.

After defendant's examination on interrogatories and motion for payment into court on that examination, plaintiff permitted to file further interrogatories. Hatch v. —, id. 116.

Interrogatories and depositions not referred for impertinence alone without scandal. White v. Fussell, id. 113. PR. REFERENCE FOR IMPERTINENCE; DEPOSITIONS.

Re-examination not of course, but at discretion of the court on special application. Order after decree, on behalf of a defendant for the examination of another defendant, upon interrogatories, who had been examined and cross-examined, restrained to such of the points in the cause to which she had been examined, as the master should think reasonable. Interrogatories for examination of a party settled by the master. Purcell v. M'Namara, 17 Ves. 434. PR. RE-EXAMINATION.

Objections to interrogatories settled by master for impertinence, must be taken by exceptions, not by petition, as an objection to appointment of receiver. Hughes v. Williams, 6 Ves. 459. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

An interrogatory being suppressed as leading, the court, on the circumstances of the case, gave leave to exhibit a fresh interrogatory. Mentill v. Payne, 3 Anst. 923.

Where parties go before the master upon a reference, he must receive interrogatories from both, though one of them should not have gone into any proof in the former stage of the cause. Hough v. Williams, 3 Bro. C. C. 190.

Order for leave to exhibit interrogatories to falsify examination, pro interesse suo, obtained by motion of course. Rowley v. Ridley, 3 Swan. 308. PR. EXAMINATION, PRO INTERESSE SUO; PR. MOTION OF COURSE.

If, so late as at the hearing, an interrogatory appeared to be leading, the court will reject the evidence taken upon it. Delres v. Bagot, 2 Fowl. 152.

Interrogatories referred for being impertinent and leading, and the depositions taken thereon, referred also. Henriques v. Henriques, 2 Fowl. 151.

The words in an interrogatory, "in order to bring him home to England by law or in chancery," were held to be leading. Nash v. P. L. Co., 2 Fowl. 154. And by a subsequent order, the depositions taken thereon were suppressed. Id.

Interrogatories referred to the master, being reported to be leading, on motion to confirm his report, were with the depositions taken thereon, ordered to be suppressed, with costs. John v. Prothero, 2 Fowl. 153. Gaynon v. Ferron, id.

New interrogatories may be exhibited for new witnesses, any time before publication. Lewis v. Owen, Dick. 6.

Court will not allow interrogatories to be exhibited as of course. Bromby v. Child, id. 128.

Copy of interrogatories relating to contempt, refused. Welsh Copper Comp. v. Moore, id. 335.

Witness examined in chief before hearing, cannot afterwards be examined before master, without special order, and then not on any matters he had been before examined to, or wherein interested; master to settle interrogatories. Browning v. Barton, id. 508.

Exceptions do not lie to master's certificate of his having settled interrogatories. Stanford v. Tudor, id. 548.

An new set of interrogatories allowed to be settled before a master, the former being suppressed, as leading. Spence v. Allen, Prec. Chan. 493. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 150.

The plaintiff's christian name being mistaken in the title of the interrogatories, the depositions could not be read, nor would the court permit the title to be amended, though most of the witnesses since their examination were gone to sea. White v. Taylor, 2 Vern. 435. PR. INTERROGATORIES, AMENDM. OF.

LII. INTITULING PLEADINGS.

A petition praying that the committee of a lunatic may be ordered to transfer property vested in the lunatic as a trustee, ought to be entitled in the lunacy, and need not be entitled in the matter of the act, which authorises the lord chancellor to make the order. In re Fowler, 2 Russ. 449. LUNACY.

The title to a petition in bankruptcy is not vitiated by its being also entitled "In chancery." Exp. Hudson, 2 G. & J. 228. BANKCY. PET. INTITULING.

No objection to an affidavit, that it was not headed in the matter of the bankruptcy in which it was used, if from the accompanying circumstances it is manifest that it was judicially used in the bankruptcy. Exp.

Simmonds, 2 G. & J. 44. BANKCY. AFFIDAVITS, HOW INTITULED.

Petition in bankruptcy should be entitled in bankruptcy not in chancery; but leave given to amend. Exp. Glanfield, 1 G. & J. 387. BANKCY. INTITULING PETITION.

Plea by husband and wife, entitled as joint and several plea, word "several," mere surplusage, and does not vitiate plea. Fitch v. Chapman, 2 S. & S. 31. PLEVY; SURPLUSAGE.

Exceptions irregularly entitled, ordered to be taken off file. Williams v. Davis, 1 S. & S. 426. PR. EXCEPTIONS, MISTAKE.

Application to remove a solicitor from being, or acting as a master extraordinary of the court of chancery, and to strike him off the roll of such court, though it may be properly made, by reason of his conduct in matter of bankruptcy, should not be made in the bankruptcy, but should be addressed to the general jurisdiction of the court. Exp. Lowe, 1 G. & J. 78. SOLICITOR.

Petition under 33 G. 3. c. 54. s. 10, in consequence of bankruptcy of trustee of friendly society, should, it seems, be entitled in bankruptcy only, and not in matter of the society. Ann. 6 Mad. 98. FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

Court has no jurisdiction in bankruptcy, to declare an infant heir of assignee a trustee of bankrupt's estate; the petition must be entitled under 6 G. 4. c. 74. Exp. Kirk, Buck, 478. S. P. Exp. Beddam, 1 Rose, 310. BANKCY. JURISDICTION; INFANT TRUSTEE.

Demurrer to an amended bill need not be intituled as a demurrer to original and amended bill, but as a demurrer to the amended bill. Smith v. Byron, 3 Mad. 428.

Answer taken off the file when the title omitted the words "to the bill of complaint of." Peters v. Thompson, Coop. 249. PR. ANSWER, FORM; PR. TAKING PLEADINGS OFF FILE.

Answer ordered off the file, it purporting to be an answer to the bill of five complainants, where there were six. Cope v. Parry, 1 Mad. 83. PR. ANSWER.

Order for taxing a bill of costs, entitled in the cause if obtained by the party to the cause, regular under the general jurisdiction; but a person not a party in the cause, must apply ex parte under the statute 2 G. 2. c. 29. s. 22. Such an irregularity would be waived by proceeding under the order. Bignol v. Bignol, 11 Ves. 328. PR. ORDER FOR TAXATION.

4. Practice on generally, and trial of, and verdict, proceedings and effect of. See further, PR. NEW TRIAL.

1. Form of.

A bill was filed by one executrix against her co-executrix, charging her with having secretly and improperly possessed herself of part of the testator's property during his lifetime. The defendant, by her answer, denied the accusation, and insisted that the spoliation was committed by the plaintiff, but did not file a cross bill. If an issue is directed to try the fact, the issue must be, not merely whether the defendant possessed herself of any part of the testator's property in the manner alleged, but also whether the plaintiff possessed herself of any part of it in like manner. Launceston v. Atkinson, 2 Russ. 60. FRAUD; SPOILATION OF DEEDS.

Where parties to an alleged concerted commission make affidavits to support commission, which are not so satisfactory as to enable the court to come to a conclusion, and the court is compelled to direct an issue to try the concert, the court will direct as to the form of the issue. Exp. Carter, 1 G. & J. 326. BANKRY. CONCERTED COMMISSION.

Form of issue not changed on a motion for a new trial. White v. Lisle, 3 Swan. 351. PR. NEW TRIAL.

In directing an issue, the court will not order the examination of persons at the trial who, by the rules of the court of law, could not be examined without order, except sometimes in cases where the facts in dispute rest only in the knowledge of the plaintiff and defendant. Exp. Dister, Buck, 234. PR. ORDER FOR EXAM. OF WITNESS.

On issue directed, liberty for each party to examine the other, refused, without consent. Howard v. Braithwaite, 1 V. & B. 374. PR. EVID., EXAM. OF PARTIES TO CAUSE.

Amendment in issue, without serving defendant with subpoena to answer it. Hail v. Camp, Dick. 108. Bugshaw v. Batson, id. 113.

Case for opinion of judges stated in order, and not referred to master to settle. Ashburnham v. Kirkhall, Dick. 73.

Form of issue to try who are co-heirs. Tegart v. Sheffield, Dick. 87.

Where a party claims under marriage articles and settlements made in pursuance thereof, it is not sufficient to direct an issue to try the validity of the articles only, but the issue should be extended to try the execution of the subsequent settlements. Edgeworth v. Swift, 4 Bro. P. C. 654. EXEC. OF DEEDS.

In an issue directed to try whether M made a contract for his own use, or in trust for B, C, and D, M is very properly made a party, and ought not to be a witness; because, as a witness, he was to answer to his own advantage, viz., to lessen the number of his partners in a beneficial contract. Darson v. Franklin, 4 Bro. P. C. 626. PL. PARTY.

2. When directed.

The defendants to a bill by a rector for tithes of hay, set up a modus of twopence for each load of hay of the weight of one ton, payable at Easter by the several occupiers in lieu of tithes of hay grown from Easter in the year preceeding inclusive; and they, by their answer, further stated that the amount of the modus payable to the rector under such custom had been usually ascertained by a person, on behalf of the rector, inspecting the ricks of hay made within the parish in each year, and forming an estimate of the number of loads of one ton weight contained in each rick, upon which estimate the whole of the annual modus payable to the rector was calculated, but that this mode of estimating the weight formed no part of the custom: it also appeared that, in a suit instituted in the exchequer by the same rector against some occupiers for the title of hay in the same parish, an issue had been directed, and the jury having found that twopence for every load of hay of the weight of one ton had been immemorially paid to the rector at Easter in each year by the several occupiers of lands, in lieu of the tithes of hay, the rector's bill had been dismissed with costs. Held, that the alleged modus was bad in law; and the account ought to be directed against the defendants, without directing an issue as to the validity of the modus. Goodenough v. Powell, 2 Russ. 219. MODUS.

An issue directed to try a plaintiff's right, though no adverse claim is set up, and strong uncontradicted evidence is produced on his part. Moons v. De Bernales, 1 Russ. 301. TITLE.

The court has jurisdiction to declare an instrument forged, and to order it to be delivered up; it may make such a declaration and order, without sending the fact of forgery to be tried by a jury. Where one witness swears to the authenticity of the instrument, the court will not make a decree against it without directing an issue to try the fact of forgery. Peake v. Highfield, 1 Russ. 559. JURISDICT.; DELIVERY UP OF DEEDS.

Where bill is retained for a year, with liberty to bring an action, the proper course is, not to set down the cause on the postea, or as on the equity reserved, but to set down the cause for further hearing, and give the verdict and judgment at law in evidence. Wing v. Murrell, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 620.

Where, in a suit for tithes, the question depends entirely on the construction of ancient documents, the judge in equity is more competent to draw the proper conclusion than a jury; and in such case, an issue will not be directed. Fisher v. Id. Graves, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 362. TITHES.

Where a case depends on inference to be drawn from comparison of conflicting testimony, the court is not in the habit of drawing such inference without reference to jury; where, therefore, the situation and character of plaintiff in suit for tithes, as vicar, were equivocal, court directed an issue. Stokes v. Edmeades, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 436.

Where, on bill for account of profits of voyage against captain of East India ship, the executors of captain alleged the consideration to be that of procuring him the command of the ship, a case was sent to law as to the consideration, and question, as to agreement being against public policy, reserved. Money v. Macleod, 2 S. & S. 301. PUBLIC POLICY; CONSON.

Semble, an issue to try money payment set up as a firm modus, may be granted on the parol evidence of a single witness, uncorroborated by other evidence; but his testimony must be positive and distinct, and should apply to every thing necessary to be proved before the jury, in order to establish the fact intended to be tried: if it be insufficient or unsatisfactory in any of those respects, the court will not grant an issue, but will proceed to decree an account of the tithes. Walley v. Brownhill, 13 Price, 500. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 317. MODUS.

Judges in equity are not bound by opinion of courts of law on cases sent there. Maxwell v. Warr, 11 Price, 18.

Issue is not to be directed, unless there is reasonable doubt of the fact, and when it depends on evidence more properly triable by a jury. Short v. Lee, 2 J. & W. 464.

It is no ground for application to court of equity, to restrain plaintiff in suit for tithes in equity from proceeding in actions brought by him against parishioners, not parties to that suit, for not setting out their tithes, that equity has decreed issue to try the validity of (parochial) moduses, laid in answers as covering the articles in respect of tithes of which actions are commenced; nor will fact of such parishioners having entered into bond to pay costs of all suits, &c., relating to such tithes, entitle them to relief. Taylor v. Cook, 9 Price, 207. INJUNC. TO STAY PROCS. AT LAW; MAINTENANCE OF SUIT.

Courts of equity are not bound to adopt the opinion of the courts of law to which a case is sent for advice. Lansdowne v. Lansdowne, 2 Bligh, 60. JURISDIC.

Issue will not be directed to be tried in exchequer, unless for some special reason, and on a motion made or that purpose. Antrobus v. F. I. Comp. 5 Mad. 3. EXCHEQUER.

Courts of law will not answer speculative question; and therefore a case must state conveyances, &c., that may raise the question. A case sent for the opinion of a court of law must be signed by counsel on each side; and if either side refuse to sign, they are understood to waive the benefit of it. Bliss v. Collins, 1 Jac. & W. 426. SIGN. OF COUNSEL.

Case sent to law, "Whether the purchaser of lot 2 would, by the conveyance of the vendor alone, without the concurrence of the lessee, acquire the same rights and remedies against the lessee, in respect of the apportioned rent of 40l. therein to be reserved to him, as he would acquire in case no rent were mentioned in such conveyance from vendor, and the annual rent of 40l. were legally apportioned by a jury for that part of the reversion comprised in lot 2." S. C. 4 Mad. 229. VEND. & PURCH.; TITLE.

Upon a petition to stay a certificate, imputing conduct to the bankrupt which, if proved, would amount to felony, the court will not direct an issue to try the fact of conformity. Exp. Scott, Buck, 275. BANKCY. PETITION TO STAY CERTIFICATE; FELONY ON BANKRUPT LAWS.

To a bill for tithes, even by a lay impropriator, prescription in non decimando, or in presumptio from mere retainer, without colour of title, is no defence, and will not be sent to law. Berney v. Harvey, 17 Ves. 119. TITHES.

Where tithe of corn has never been paid in parish within memory, and a contributory payment exempting the whole parish is paid by certain, though not all, of the owners and occupiers of estates, the question whether it is a farm or district modus, must go to an issue. De Whelpdale v. Milburn, 5 Price, 485. MODUS.

Where an adverse title to tithes is set up and established against a demand by rector who offers no evidence to impeach title, he is not entitled to an issue. Wilmot v. Hellaby, 5 Price, 355. RECTOR; TITHES.

A modus being clearly invalid as laid, the question of law is decided without directing an issue on the question of fact. Blackburn v. Jepson, 3 Swan. 132. MODUS.

Bill by devisees, praying a conveyance upon the ground of an alleged equitable title in the testator, originating in an agreement, which was denied by the answer, but supported by evidence of ownership, as the receipt of rents and profits, &c. Issue directed to try whether the testator was, at his death, beneficially entitled. Burkett v. Randall, 3 Mer. 466. DEVISEES; TITLE.

Modus of 15s., payable on Easter Monday by all the occupiers of land in the township, or some or one on behalf of all, in lieu of tithe of grass growing within the township, whether the same be mown or made into hay, or eaten by barren and unprofitable cattle, covering the tithe of agistment, if there be evidence given of its having been paid, and for tithe of agistment, will be sent to an issue. Williamson v. Ld. Lonsdale, 5 Price, 25. MODUS.

Rector is entitled, as a matter of right, to issue at law as to tithes where he sues alone. Williams v. Price, 4 Price, 156. TITHES.

Issue will not be granted to try part of a custom. Leathes v. Newitt, 4 Price, 370. CUSTOM.

Issue directed to try whether F M was living at the death of his father, the testator; the father and son having been shipwrecked together on their voyage from India, and all on board having perished. Mason v. Mason, 1 Mer. 308.

In an issue, and in an action directed by the court, the practice varies. In the first, the motion for a new trial must be made to the court directing it; in the second, to that in which it is tried. Nor is this rule affected by any special provisions by which the direction of the action is accompanied. Curtains v. Stein, 2 Rose, 178. PR. ISSUE AT LAW; PR. NEW TRIAL.

Though the court will not restrain an action of trespass by a party through whose estate a canal is cutting, for deviating from the line, because he has laid by, and rested upon his legal rights; yet, if he files a bill to restrain their deviating, and then moves to commit them, the court will not do so, without a trial by jury in a disputed case, and directing an issue at law. Agar v. Regent's Canal Comp., Cooper, 77. PR. INJUNG. TO STAY TRESPASS, IN NATURE OF WASTE IRREPARABLE.

When the court of chancery directs an action to be tried at law, though it is with special directions, as that the bankruptcy of the defendant shall not be pleaded in bar, and that the parties shall be examined on oath, the application for a new trial must be to the court of law; but it is otherwise with an issue. Exp. Kensington, Coop. 96. PR. ISSUE AT LAW; PR. NEW TRIAL.

Where a party has failed to prove the terms of the agreement he relies on, equity will not assist him by directing an issue to ascertain the terms: if he be plaintiff, it is incumbent on him to state in his bill the agreement of which he calls on court to decree the performance, and to prove the agreement as stated. Savage v. Carroll, 2 Ball & B. 451. AGREEMENT.

Bill had been filed under stat. 37 Hen. 8. c. 12. to recover 2s. 9d. in the pound for tithes, and an issue was refused, under these circumstances; 1st, mispleading; the defendants not stating customary payments by their answer, but adopting ore tenus payments, disclosed by the answer to their cross bill, instead of moving for leave to file a supplemental answer: 2d, the improbability of establishing those payments, after two unsuccessful trials at bar in another cause. Warden, &c., of St. Paul's v. Kettle, 2 V. & B. 1.

Issue, whether an instrument was obtained by fraud, &c., not directed on motion after answer; as where the decree depends upon a simple fact, viz., legitimacy or competence, according to the present practice, to refer a title on motion. Fallagar v. Clark, 18 Ves. 481. PR. MOTION.

Bill by heir, suggesting a secret void trust for charity in residuary devise, but without evidence of a trust expressed, or of an engagement expressed or tacit, preventing it, dismissed with costs, unless the heir would take an issue, to which he is entitled. Paine v. Hall, 18 Ves. 475. HEIR AT LAW; WILL; FRAUD.

The question as to agent's authority denied by the answer, and by his deposition, stating his declaration to the contrary at the time of execution, to be determined by an issue. The evidence of a witness impeaching the instrument he has attested, as a witness to a will denying the sanity of the devisor, &c., being admissible, but to be received with the most anxious jealousy. Howard v. Braithwaite, 1 V. & B. 202. PRIN. & AGENT; PR. EVID.

Defendant not entitled to an issue, or inquiry to establish a case relied on by his answer, but omitted in proof. Savage v. Carroll, 1 Ball & B. 548. PR. PARTY DEFENDANT.

Court will not direct an issue to try composition real, where defendant, by his answer, only alleged a modus. Bennett v. Neale, Wightw. 324. PL. ANSWER.

Rector is not entitled to issue where defendant sets up a grant of a portion, and constant non-payment of tithes, which defence is not impeached by plaintiff. Baker v. Baker, Wightw. 397. TITHES.

Issue directed to try modus of 12d. an acre; when of tithe hay, moduses of 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. per acre for tithe hay, held rank. Henton v. Cooke, Wightw. 281. TITHES; MODUS.

Where there is contradictory evidence, raising a doubt in the mind of the court, then a reference or issue will be granted; aliter, where no evidence whatever. Savage v. Carroll, 1 Ball & B. 283.

Where contradictory evidence, raising a doubt, or witnesses are discredited after case proved, an issue or inquiry is directed; but not where a party fails to establish his case. Id. ib.

Plaintiff withdrawing issue, pays costs. Brookland v. Golding, Wightw. 100. PR. COSTS.

Issue directed on modus for certain lands, amounting to 1s. per acre for all tithes, notwithstanding apparent rankness. O'Connor v. Cook, 6 Ves. 665. See S. C. 8 Ves. 535. MODUS.

No instance of an issue upon the question between execut or and next of kin as to the residue. Walton v. Walton, 14 Ves. 323. EXECUTOR; NEXT OF KIN; RESIDUE.

Where chancellor was dissatisfied with opinion of court of law on a case sent for their opinion, it was sent back to another court, there being but one case of sending it back to same court to be reviewed. Trent v. Hanning, 10 Ves. 495.

A bill filed, in 1757, by H, pretending to be a devisee, charging that B, the only son of testator, was illegitimate, and making M a party, (who, in case of B's illegitimacy, was heir at law to testator): issue of derisavit vel non directed; H and B proceed to the trial of that issue, M taking no part in it: the issue found in the negative, and bill dismissed in 1770. On a bill filed, in 1776, by B for the possession and title deeds, he has an equity against H's ever insisting on the will, or the illegitimacy, and also against M's insisting on the illegitimacy, after having declined to contest it on the issue. Bond v. Hopkins, 1 Scho. & L. 113.

Executor having under a misconception of a will, at the trial of an issue, upon a debt, entered into an improper compromise with the creditor, expressly subject to the approbation of the court, was permitted to try the issue, paying the costs. Lagh v. Hollnagel, 8 Ves. 213. EXOR; MISAKE.

The court of K. B. refused to answer a case from the Rolls, stated as a trust. Parsons v. Parsons, 5 Ves. 578.

Upon a question as to the amount of a legacy, from a doubt as to a figure, an issue was directed instead of a reference to the master. Norman v. Morrell, 4 Ves. 769. WILL; C. OR.

Where a title to tithes in a layman is clearly made out, though not supported by possession, the court will decree an account, without an issue. Ligon v. Strutt, 2 Anst. 602. ACCOUNT; TITHES.

Plaintiff prayed a discovery, injunction and delivery of a bill of exchange upon the answers and evidence, the right being clear, the court refused an opportunity of trying it at law, and decreed an immediate delivery. Newman v. Milner, 2 Ves. J. 483. DELIVERY UP OF DEEDS; TITLE.

The court refused to direct an issue on motion by consent. Anon. 2 Anst. 480. But see Att. Gen. v. Jane, id. 589.

When a bill for an account of tithes against one who had a lease of his own and the other tithes in the parish, and the whole question in the cause turns upon the validity of the lease, and of the notice given to determine it; this court will not proceed till those points are settled at law. Boucher v. Morgan 2 Anst. 404. LEASE; TITLE.

Ejectment to try a title under an order of the equity side of the Exchequer, ought to be brought in the Exchequer. Kingsborough v. Orpen, 1 Ridgw. L. & S. 303. EJECTMENT.

Issue ordered to discover a witness's interest. Stokes M'Kerral, 3 Bro. C. C. 228. WITNESS, COMPETENCY OF.

A bond for performance of covenants to build a bridge, and the sum agreed for actually paid, an injunction granted to restrain an action on the bond, and an issue quantum damnificatus ordered, the sum mentioned in the bond being a penalty. Errington v. Aynesley, 2 Bro. C. C. 341. BOND; INJUNCTION AGAINST PROCEEDING AT LAW.

Bill for rent of a mine retained for a year, to suffer plaintiff to try an issue as to the quantity of coal, which by the custom of the country constituted a stack, the reservation being one shilling per stack. Geast v. Barker, id. 61. PR. RETAINING BILL.

Where the penalty of a bond is only to secure the enjoyment of a collateral object, equity will grant an injunction against a suit for the recovery, and an issue quantum damnificatus to try the real damage. Sloman v. Walter, 1 Bro. C. C. 418. INJON.; BOND.

Under what circumstances a new trial of an issue directed to try vicar's right to tithes, ought to be refused. Brownlow v. Deane, 7 Bro. P. C. 83. NEW TRIAL.

There being but one witness against an answer, court directed an issue. Penby v. Mathew, Dick. 550.

Where modus is set up, but not proved by clear legal evidence, court of equity ought not in first instance to decree an account, but should direct an issue to try its validity. Whitchend v. Trave 7 Bro. P. C. 49. MODUS; ACCOUNT.

After a sentence in the ecclesiastical court, determining the question of who are the next of kin of an intestate, and granting letters of administration to the person found to be such next of kin; the court of chancery is precluded from directing an issue to try that question. Bouchier v. Taylor, 4 Bro. P. C. 708. SENTENCE OF ECCLESIASTICAL COURT; JURISDICTION.

Courts of equity have for many years past adopted a practice which has been extremely beneficial to the suitors; for where they see the dispute between the parties is a mere question at law, and must be ultimately determined there, instead of putting the parties to a diffuse examination of witnesses in equity, they leave, by interlocutory orders, either directed an issue, or given the party liberty to bring an action within a limited time, and reserved the consideration of all further directions till after the verdict. And after a verdict has been found, it has been the uniform practice of the court, for the party in whose favour the verdict has been obtained to set down the cause for the further directions reserved by such interlocutory order. El. Pomfret v. Smith, 4 Bro. P. C. 700.

Wherever the question of right in a suit commenced in a court of equity is a mere legal question, the court does right in sending it to law to be tried, upon a proper issue, even though the whole of the evidence is written evidence, and the question depends upon the construction of that evidence. Collins v. Sawrey, 4 Bro. P. C. 692. TRIAL.

Issue to try if plaintiff or defendant was heir at law. Newton v. Newton, Dick. 443.

Where bill is filed by protestant discoverer, to have the benefit of the lease granted to a papist, on ground of rent reserved being of less than two-thirds the yearly value, the fact ought to be tried by jury upon issue. Kentley v. Davies, 5 Bro. P. C. 460. PAPIST; LEASE.

In taking an account before the master, one of the parties is charged with 4000l. as the value of a note which he had wilfully destroyed. The master by his report allows this charge, and upon an exception being taken to the report for so doing, the court first allowed, and afterwards overruled the exception. But upon an appeal, an issue was directed to try the fact of spoliation, and what damage was sustained thereby. Porrett v. Goodere, 4 Bro. P. C. 679. SPOILIATION.

Courts of equity should send matters of fact to be tried by a jury. Davis v. Oliver, 1 Ridgw. P. C. 9.

On the hearing of an information brought for the recovery of certain mine duties, the court of chancery proposed to the attorney-general an issue to try whether the crown, or its lessee, was by custom entitled to those duties; but the issue being refused, the information was dismissed. On an appeal, the decree was reversed; and proper issues to try the custom were directed. Att. Gen. v. Wall, 4 Bro. P. C. 665. CUSTOM.

Issue at law directed by consent to try right of stopping up or obstructing lights; and view to be had of premises, &c. Att. Gen. v. Bentham, Dick. 277.

Purchaser of an equitable title to a rent charge, claiming against some purchasers of the land, for a valuable consideration, without notice, must try his title at law, in the name of his vendors. Whitfield v. Fausset, 1 Ves. 387. VENDOR & PURCHASER; TITLE.

Where, in an agreement for a lease, the particular rent, commencement, and duration of the lease are uncertain, or depend upon the approbation of a third person, a court of equity will direct proper issues to ascertain these several facts, before any specific performance of the contract is decreed. Plunket v. Ld. Kingsland, 1 Bro. P. C. 322. AGREEMENT FOR LEASE; SPEC. PERF.

After bankrupt has surrendered and acquiesced a year and a half since the taking out the commission, an issue at law will not be directed to try the bankruptcy. Exp. Nutt, 1 Atk. 102. BANKRUPT. SURRENDERING COMMISSION; ACQUIESCENCE.

As to when issue at law will be directed. Patterson v. Tash, 9 Mod. 397.

Bill for title of copies by custom, to pay every tenth penny, or the value of it. Defendant by his answer denied the custom, whereupon the court directed an issue to try it. Randall v. Head, Hard. 188. TITHES, MODUS.

Where a parishioner insisted on a modus, and it appeared that the parishioners had usually paid differently, the alleged modus will be disregarded, and he will be decreed to account for the tithes in kind; and where the matter is plain, the court will not direct the modus to be tried at law. Charlton v. B. v. p. Colles, P. C. 206. TITHES, MODUS.

The court will direct an issue to try a modus, though not proved exactly as laid in the bill. Laithes v. Christian, Bunb. 340. TITHES, MODUS.

Heir at law of J, who was the last of three lives named in grant of copyhold, brought bill against lord of manor to be admitted to estate for his own life, and the lives of two other persons whom he should nominate, alleging the custom of manor to be so. Defendant denied the custom by answer, and insisted he was not bound to renew. Issue was directed as to the obligation to renew, but on appeal, order was reversed. Bill dismissed. Dk. of Grafton v. Horton, 2 Bro. P. C. 284. COPYHOLD, ADMITTANCE TO; CUSTOM.

Issue directed to try and settle boundaries of two manors by special jury, and to have a view. Leithellier v. Ld. Castlemaine, Dick. 46.

J agreed to sell a wood upon his estate to W, and to give him a certain time for cutting and carrying it away. The purchaser being interrupted by persons who pretended a title to the estate after the death of J, who they insisted was only tenant for life, and therefore, had no power to sell, brought his bill for a performance of this agreement. The court, upon the hearing, were of opinion, that this was only a colourable agreement, set up in order to try the defendant's title in equity, which was properly triable at law, and therefore dismissed the bill with costs. But on an appeal, the decree was reversed, and an issue directed to try the title. Stone v. El. Angelsea, 1 Bro. P. C. 218. TITLE.

On a bill by the lord of a manor, praying a commission to ascertain the boundaries of a copyhold estate, an issue was directed to try what copyhold lands were in the possession of the defendant. But on an appeal, this decree was reversed, and a commission of inquiry directed, with a previous inspection of all deeds, &c. Rans v. Barker, 4 Bro. P. C. 660. BOUNDARIES.

If mortgagee fraudulently antedate mortgage for purpose of overreaching marriage settlement; mortgage is void, but fact must be first tried at law. Ostborn v. Len, 9 Mod. 97. FRAUD; MORTGAGE.

An issue to try whether a particular manor was intailed by a particular deed is not proper, being rather a point of law than a matter of fact, or at least so complicated as not to be fit for the inquiry of a jury. Ld. Blane v. Mahon, 4 Bro. P. C. 61.

Subsequent mortgagee prays redemption of first mortgage, upon payment of what was due, and pending suit, first mortgagee sets up another mortgage prior to all. Issue directed as to its validity, and amount of money paid, &c. Douse v. Rue, 9 Mod. 53. ACCOUNT; MORTGAGE.

A parson sued for 2s. 9d. per pound for tithes of houses in London, under the statute 37 Hen. 8. But an issue was directed to try, whether less than that sum had ever been paid; although there was no proof of any regular modus. Bennet v. Froppess, 4 Bro. P. C. 650. TITHES.

Where reference is to judges, on a case stated, no writ of error will lie on their judgment. But if they certify their reasons, the court may reconsider it. Gore v. Gore, 9 Mod. 5. PLEA WRIT OF ERROR.

In the case of a charity, the most expeditious and least expensive methods should be adopted; and where no material fact is disputed, nor any point of law arises, but what a court of equity may determine upon, such court ought to determine finally without directing an issue. Bp. Rochester v. Att. Gen. 4 Bro. P. C. 643. CHARITY.

No issue ought to be directed to try a matter not fully put in issue in the cause, and therefore where a bill was filed to take advantage of a forfeiture by marrying without consent, and an issue was directed to try whether the party was a papist or not at the time of the marriage, the order was reversed, and the plaintiff left at liberty to amend his bill by putting in issue in the cause, the matter intended to be tried by the said issue. Filkin v. Holt, id. 640.

Whether a party has broken any of his covenants or not, is a matter properly triable at law; as the damages (supposing a breach), cannot be settled without such trial. Stafford v. City of London, id. 635. COVENANT, BREACH OF.

In a suit for title hay, the defendants, by their answer, only set up several moduses by the name of straw tithes; an issue in this case proper to try whether the moduses insisted on by the defendants, in their answers, have been time out of mind paid and payable for and in lieu of title hay in kind. Hanington v. Horton, id. 624. MODUS.

A gives three bonds to B for 500l. each, payable at different times. The two first are paid, but upon the parties settling an account relative to other matters, the third bond is delivered up by mistake, instead of a particular voucher, belonging to that account. Equity will relieve against this mistake, by directing an issue to try whether there were two bonds or three, and whether the last bond was paid or not. Vanhoven v. Giesque, 4 Bro. P. C. 622. MISTAKE.

Issue at law directed upon a rehearing of exceptions taken to a decree made by commissioners of charitable uses, after that decree had been twice confirmed. Corpus Chris. College, Oam. v. Parish of Naunton, 2 Vern. 507. COMMISSIONERS OF CHARITABLE USES.

An issue at law was directed in a matter where the plaintiff had a proper action at law, and was under no impediment in respect of bringing such action. Gilbert v. Emerton, id. 503.

Lord inclosed part of the common, insisting it was an improvement within the statute of Merton, and that he had left sufficient common for the tenants. They throw open the inclosure by force. Court granted an injunction, and at hearing, directed issues whether the defendant had a right of common, and whether sufficient common left. Arthington v. Fackes, id. 356. INCLOSURE OF COMMON; INJUNCTION.

Equity can determine as to fraud in deeds, without issue at law. White v. Hussey, Prec. Chan. 14. JURISDICTION; FRAUD.

Settlement being alleged to be made in pursuance of a marriage agreement, a trial was directed, to try what was the marriage agreement, but ordered the settlement should not be given in evidence. On a bill of review, the last part of the order reversed. Beachinall v. Beachinall, 1 Vern. 246. PR. EVIDENCE.

Bill by the issue in tail, to discover a settlement; the defendants plead that the plaintiffs are bastards. A trial at law was directed upon that point, and that the defendants pay the plaintiff 50l. to carry it on, but the money not being paid, nor the trial had, the plea was overruled. Devereux v. Devereux, Rep. T. Finch. 324.

An issue to try a custom of a manor was refused, where the court thought the evidence in support of the custom insufficient to influence a jury. Chamberlayn v. Symonds, Barn. 98.

Where at the hearing of a cause, a matter not in issue appears to the court to go to the very right; the court will sometimes order an issue. Batch v. Tucker, 2 C. C. 40.

3. Devisavit vel non.

An heir at law contesting his ancestor's will, in a suit to establish it in equity, is not entitled to an issue devisavit vel non to try the validity of it in a court of law in all cases, and at any distance of time; but he is not precluded from the exercise of that usual right, except by case of such acquiescence as would bar his possessory rights at law (viz. twenty years) or would put the adverse parties in a much worse situation than they would have been in, had he disputed the will originally. Tucker v. Sanger, 1 McClell. 424. S. C. 13 Price, 119.

Heir at law is usually entitled to an issue devisavit vel non, and is not liable to pay costs, notwithstanding the issue is found against him and will established. Id. 425. COSTS.

In what cases an heir at law is refused his costs, in an issue devisavit vel non. Id. 439. 446. PR. COSTS.

Heir at law is in cases of wills entitled to issue devisavit vel non, but if counsel for infant heir feels clear, from evidence, that there is no ground to impeach the will, he is well justified in declining to ask an issue. Levy v. Levy, 3 Mad. 245.

On the trial of an issue devisavit vel non, all the subscribing witnesses must be examined, except in cases of necessity, as death, insanity, or absence abroad, or the heir waves his right, and the rule is not merely technical. Bootle v. Blundell, 19 Ves. 494. 500. S. C. Coop. 136. PR. EVID.

An issue directed to try the validity of a will several years after testator's death, as a will cannot be established against the heir in equity by a decree, without an issue or ejectment, if he require it, and a person claiming under the will has a right to have its validity established. Blake v. Foster, 2 Ball & B. 387.

Heir at law defendant desiring an issue upon a will, in which he failed, entitled to his costs in equity; no costs on either side as to the issue; ordered to pay costs of a groundless motion for a new trial. White v. Wilson, 13 Ves. 87. COSTS.

Will is never set aside without issue devisavit vel non. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 11 Ves. 53.

Upon bill for specific performance of contract overreached by commission of lunacy, the plaintiff not having traversed the inquisition, an issue was directed, whether the defendant was lunatic at the execution; if so, whether he had lucid intervals, and whether the contract was executed during a lucid interval; the difficulties in executing the contract which was for sale of estate vested in lunatic, viz. that the price was to be fixed by persons to be nominated, not appearing strong enough to preclude the previous inquiry with a view to performance, the plaintiff being willing to take the title. Hall v. Warren, 9 Ves. 605. LUNACY; SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Heir at law is not entitled to issue at law, if construction of will is clear. Muddle v. Fry, 6 Mad. 270.

If an adult heir at law refuse an issue on the hearing of a cause, the court will establish the will against him, though he does not admit it. Jackson v. Barry, 2 Cox, 225.

Bill by an heir at law, for an issue to try the validity of a will made in England, dismissed, partly on the ground of his acquiescence, both in the ecclesiastical court, and upon a bill to perpetuate testimony, but principally because the lands lay in Pennsylvania. Pike v. Houre, 2 Eden, 182. S. C. Amb. 428. JURISDICTION.

Will established against heir at law's bill; he pays costs at law and equity, but on bill by devisee, no costs on either side. Johnson and Gardiner, et c. contra, Dick. 313. Same point, Gough v. Botevil, Dick. 396.

Issue directed to try whether an agreement to carry on an illegal game, and a contribution for that purpose had been made or not. Nash v. Ash, 1 Eden, 378. ILLEGAL TRANSACTIONS.

Costs given to heir at law, where he brings bill to dispute will or bill against him to establish it. Plinks-home v. Feast, Dick. 153.

Otherwise if heir at law infant. Id. ib.

On question of validity of devise, issue at law must determine it. Dawson v. Chater, 9 Mod. 90. DEVISE.

Heir at law disputing will, though on trial, there were shown no ground for disputing it; yet held, he was entitled to his costs at law and equity. Crew v. Jolliff, Prec. Chan. 93. PR. COSTS.

4. Practice on, generally, and trial of, and verdict, proceedings and effect of.

See further, PR. NEW TRIAL.

The object of an issue is attained, when the conscience of the equity judge is satisfied that at the trial, justice has, upon the whole, been substantially done. Collins v. Hare, 1 Dow, N. S. 139. S. C. 2 Bli. N. S. 106.

A new trial of an issue will not be granted, merely because on the former trial evidence was rejected, which ought to have been received. Neither will a new trial be granted, merely because the judge made to the jury an inaccurate representation of the effect of the defendant's answers. Barker v. Ray, 2 Russ. 63. PR. NEW TRIAL.

Vicar after issue directed to try modus, suffering issue to be taken pro confesso, pays costs. Drake v. Smith, 1 M'Clel & Y. 380. TITHES; COSTS.

As to costs in general of issue at law, relative to tithes. See id. ib.

Dissatisfaction expressed by judge, at verdict on trial of issue, how far a ground for new trial. Atkyns v. Drake, 1 M'Clel & Y. 213. NEW TRIAL.

Court will not direct new trial of issue on ground of evidence adduced on former trial, where that evidence was a surprise on the other party, and tended to defeat the intention of the court in directing former issue. Currington v. Jones, 2 S. & S. 135. EVIDENCE; NEW TRIAL.

Modus established by verdict of jury on an issue, is conclusive on judge in equity. Davies v. Moseley, 13 Price, 423. S. C. 1 M'Clel, 143. MODUS.

Where after two trials of an issue on modus, in both of which defendant (in equity) obtained verdicts, the court dismissed bill as to tithes covered by modus, with all costs at law and in equity, except the costs of the first trial of the issue as to which they ordered each party to pay his own costs, the question raised by motion for new trial having been doubtful. Stuart v. Greenall, 13 Price, 755. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 705. PR. COSTS.

At the trial of issue to ascertain whether one of defendants, a layman, was entitled to tithes or a modus in lieu of tithes of certain lands, it was proved that a payment described as a tithe or rate tithe, issuing out of the lands in question, had been conveyed by defendant's title deeds for the last 150 years, and that this payment had been received by him and his ancestors, and that no tithe had been paid to plaintiff the rector, within living memory, and verdict was found for defendant. Motion for new trial was refused. Williams v. Bacon, 1 S. & S. 415. NEW TRIAL; TITHES; EVIDENCE.

Where decree directs issues to try validity of moduses, and plaintiff wishes to have them tried in county different from that wherein lands lie, an order for that purpose cannot be inserted in decree, but must be obtained by petition. Sparke v. Ivatt, 1 S. & S. 366. DECREE; PETITION; VENUE.

On mis-trial of issue directed by courts of equity, there can be no motion in arrest of judgment. Moseley v. Davies, 11 Price, 162. PR. MOTION FOR ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

Both parties ordered to be examined upon the trial of an issue directed, upon a motion for an injunction, supported by the plaintiff's affidavit, and opposed upon affidavit of the defendant contradicting it. An order directing an issue not to be appealed from, after the trial has taken place. Semble. Tastet v. Bordenave, 1 Jac. 516. PR. EXAMINATION; PR. APPEAL.

The verdict on the first trial of an issue in a tithe cause being for the defendant, in consequence of a misdirection of the judge, and on the second trial being for the plaintiff, the costs of the suit of the motion for a new trial, and of the second trial given against the defendant, but no costs given of the first trial. Beaurock v. Tyler, 1 Jac. 571. PR. COSTS.

Person interested in issue devisavit vel non refusing to be party to it, is yet allowed to attend the trial by counsel, and ordered to produce deeds, &c. except those he held as mortgagee. Pindar v. Smith, 6 Mad. 48. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

It is not necessarily a substantive part of decree directing issue at law, to order it shall be tried by special jury. Stuart v. Greenall, 9 Price, 480. PR. DECREE.

Where minutes were drawn up, omitting to direct issue at law to be tried by special jury, and decree in consequence contained no such order; court refused to amend minutes by insertion thereof. Id. ib. PR. VARYING MIN. OF DECREE.

A bill against several defendants being retained with liberty for the plaintiff to bring an action against one of the defendants, the trial may take place during an abatement occasioned by the death of one of the other defendants, if the decree does not direct them to attend it. Humphreys v. Hollis, 1 Jac. 73. PR. RETAINING BILL; PR. ABATEMENT.

Where action is directed to be brought in court of law, and plaintiff resides abroad, motion for security of costs thereof must be made in equity. Despres v. Mitchell, 5 Mad. 87. PR. COSTS, SECURITY FOR.

If issue be directed but not tried, nor any notice of trial given; on motion and affidavit of notice, in absence of other party, &c. ordered to be tried subsequently or taken pro confesso. Anon. 4 Mad. 255.

Upon a petition to expunge the proofs upon certain bills of exchange, an action had been directed to be brought against the bankrupts to try the validity of the debt, a material witness being abroad, the court of common law put off the trial; it was ordered upon petition, that the bankrupt should be at liberty to file a bill for a commission to take the examination of the witness abroad. Exp. Coles, Buck, 293. BANKCY. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE WITNESSES ABROAD.

On bill for injunction against infringement of copy-right and account, court of law on issue having certified against plaintiff's right, defendant cannot move to dismiss bill. Brooke v. Clarke, 1 Swan. 550. PR. BILL, MOTION TO DISMISS.

Mortgagee on bill to redeem, insisted heir at law was living; master on reference reported him dead: exceptions were twice taken thereto and issue at law directed, by which he was found to be dead. Mortgagee not to pay costs of issue as it was not vexatious, so long as court thought fit to direct issue. Wilson v. Metcalfe, 3 Mad. 45. MORTGAGE & MORTGEE; COSTS; VEXATION.

It is in the discretion of the Ld. Ch. to permit or refuse a defendant at law to have copies of his examination before the commissioners. Upon this petition, the examinations having been laid before the Ld. Ch. he refused the application. Exp. Chater, Buck, 290. JURISDICTION; BANKCY. COPIES OF EXAMINATION IN AID OF DEFENCE AT LAW.

Where there are several issues, and some are found for plaintiff, and others for defendant, the parties will be allowed costs on issues found in their favour, and must pay in those against them. Prevost v. Bennett, 2 Price, 272. PR. COSTS.

In an issue, and in an action directed by the court, the practice varies. In the first, the motion for a new trial must be made to the court directing it; in the second, to that in which it is tried. Nor is this rule affected by any special provisions, by which the direction of the action is accompanied. Carnstairs v. Stein, 2 Rose, 178. PR. NEW TRIAL; PR. ACTION DIRECTED BY COURT.

Distinction between taking the opinion of a court of law conclusively, and directing an issue for the satisfaction of this court, reserving to itself the review of that passed at law, with reference to the record in equity. Boote v. Blundell, 19 Ves. 500.

No new trial upon the improper rejection of evidence; if the court, judging upon the whole record, is satisfied that the verdict is right. Id. 503. PR. NEW TRIAL.

Where the court of chancery directs an action to be tried at law, though it is with special directions, as that the bankruptcy of the defendant shall not be pleaded in bar, and that the parties shall be examined on oath, the application for a new trial must be to the court of law; but it is otherwise with an issue. Exp. Kensington, Coop. 96. PR. ACTION AT LAW DIRECTED BY CHANCERY; PR. NEW TRIAL.

To enable the court to disturb a verdict found on an issue, it must be either contrary to the evidence or given under the misdirection of the judge. Savage v. Carrol, 2 Ball & B. 455. JURISDICTION.

The improper rejection of written evidence, no ground for granting a new trial of an issue: the court being satisfied with the verdict upon all the evidence, including that rejected. Hampson v. Hampson, 3 V. & B. 41. PR. NEW TRIAL.

Order to read on a trial, directed at law, depositions of witness, proved by affidavit, from age and infirmity, incapable of attending without great danger of death, with liberty to examine them on interrogatories, and the depositions of such other persons as should be proved at the trial to be dead, or unable to attend: such order, whether to be made in equity, or left to the judge at law, depending on a sound discretion. Corbett v. Corbett, 1 V. & B. 335. EVIDENCE AT LAW.

Witness being proved unable to attend a trial, auxiliary to a suit in equity, the depositions may be read without an order, but not without producing the bill, answer, and all proceedings. Id. ib.

The party who has to sustain the affirmative, is to be plaintiff in an issue, and, as such, has the choice of the court in which it is to be tried. Exp. Malkin, 2 Rose, 27.

Order, that depositions shall be read at the trial of an issue, if the witnesses shall be then dead, or proved to be in such a state of health as not to be capable of attending. Without such order to make the depositions evidence at law, the whole record must be read. Palmer v. Id. Aylesbury, 15 Ves. 176. EVIDENCE; PR. ORDER AS TO READING DEPOSITIONS.

Two wills, originally duplicates, but one altered and cancelled, and a codicil without date. After three verdicts for the devisee, the Id. Chancellor, being satisfied with the result of the third trial, refused a fourth. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 13 Ves. 290. PR. NEW TRIAL.

Issue at law directed at Rolls, a motion for new trial may be made before Id. Chancellor. S. C. 11 Ves. 50. Id.

Issue directed as to lunacy is established by two verdicts. Exp. Hotyland, 11 Ves. 10. LUNACY.

After two trials at bar in favour of claimants of tithes, under decree and act of parliament, upon issue; whether any, and what less sum had been paid: a new trial was refused, though evidence was rejected, that ought to have been received as material. Wardens, &c. of St. Paul's v. Morris, 9 Ves. 155. PR. NEW TRIAL.

Upon equity reserved the court refused to increase damages on suggestion, that interest was omitted at law through mistake, on the supposition that it would be given in equity. Stevens v. Prued, 2 Ves. J. 518. INTEREST.

An application to read the deposition of a witness on the trial of an issue at law, directed by the court of chancery, on the ground of the witness being so aged and infirm, as to be unable to attend in person, must be made to the judge at the trial, and not to the court which directs the issue. Jones v. Jones, 1 Cox, 184. EVIDENCE; DEPOSITIONS DE BENE ESSE.

After trial of issue or decree, plaintiff cannot dismiss bill. Gartside v. Isherwood, Dick. 612.

Defendant neglecting to name attorney to try issue out of chancery, directed to do it in four days, or issue to be taken as tried, and verdict for plaintiff. Wilson v. Ginger, id. 521.

Under what circumstances a new trial, after trial of second issue, may be granted. Ashe v. Ashe,

7 Bro. P. C. 149. S. P. Pomfret v. Smith, id. 169. NEW TRIAL.

Plaintiff, after issue directed, may, at any time before issue tried, move to dismiss bill. Carrington v. Holly, Dick. 280.

Defendant making default at trial of issue, shall have day to show cause. Peacock v. McKercher, id. 434.

New trials granted in issues directed to try the right of the soil, though the judge certified in favour of the verdict, as there was no precedent of a decree, where the inheritance would be bound, being made upon one verdict only. El. Darlington v. Bowes, 1 Eden. 270. PR. NEW TRIAL.

New trial for mis-direction of the judge, and absence of a material witness. Cleave v. Gascoigne, Ambl. 323. NEW TRIAL.

If, on issue directed, the judge certifies, that the weight of evidence was against the verdict, court will order a new trial. If a verdict is not against evidence, a court of law cannot grant a new trial, but a court of equity will, for the verdict must satisfy the conscience of the court. Faulconberg v. Pierce, Ambl. 210. Id.

When the estate in question is of small value, instead of sending it to be determined by a whole court, it may be directed to be heard and argued before two judges at their chambers. Rigden v. Vallier, 3 Atk. 735.

On a bill to settle the boundaries of a manor, it was decreed, that each party should give to the other a note of their boundaries, and that it should be tried in a feigned issue. And the issue being found for the defendant on the first, second, and third trial, the defendant was not only allowed the costs of all the trials at law, but also the costs in equity; in regard, the defendant had no bill, and the plaintiff might have tried it at law without coming into equity: on a bill of partition no costs on either side, because it is for the benefit of both parties. Metcalfe v. Beckwith, 2 P. W. 376. PR. COSTS; BILL TO SETTLE BOUNDARIES.

Parties resting their defence, in an issue at law, upon instruments ascertained at the trial to be forged, will not be allowed to enter into any other evidence, or to say the forged instruments were immaterial. Kemp v. Mackrell, 2 Ves. 579. PR. EVIDENCE.

In case of an issue out of chancery, it is proper to move that court for costs, for not going on to trial, or to move there for a special jury. Aum. 2 P. W. 68. PR. MOTION FOR COSTS.

Defendant's answer directed to be read as evidence at a trial at law. Ibbotson v. Rhodes, 2 Vern. 555. PR. EVIDENCE; PR. ANSWER.

A copy of a deed to lead the uses of a fine, and enrolled for safe custody, only allowed to be read as evidence at a trial at law. Combes v. Spencer, 2 Vern. 471. Semble. S. C. Id. 591. PR. EVIDENCE, LOST DEEDS.

Bill for writings and a partition; defendant insists the plaintiff has no title, and there is an intail subsisting; the court gave the plaintiff a year's time to try his title: and upon a trial in ejectment, verdict for the plaintiff, upon coming in upon the equity reserved, it was insisted, this being a matter of right of inheritance, defendant ought not to be bound by one trial; sed non allocatur it being a decree only for a partition; sed quere? Blissman v. Brown, 2 Vern. 232. PARTITION.

The case was referred to law, and it was ordered, that the defendant do not insist on a title set aside by the decree, and he does insist on it; whereupon the plaintiff read the decree, but was, nevertheless, non-suited, and then moved the court of chancery for a commitment of the defendant, and establishment of the possession, which was ordered. Anon. 1 C. C. 267. PR. DECREE.

M gives to the defendant all her freehold and copyhold estates, upon trust to permit E to receive the rents, &c. during her life, and after her death, to sell, and out of the produce to pay 100*l.* to such person as she should by will appoint. E, by will, without reference to the power, gives 100*l.* and the whole of her household furniture to the plaintiff. It was charged by the bill, and not denied, that the testatrix had no personal property at the time of her death, besides some household furniture to a very small amount in value; but no evidence was gone into, and an inquiry was asked as to the state of the property at the time of making the will, with the view of ascertaining that the testatrix must have intended the gift of the 100*l.* as in execution of her power. But the inquiry was refused, and the bill dismissed. Jones v. Tucker, 2 Mer. 533. POWER, EXECUTION OF; WILL, C. OF.

No inquiry as to the quantum of personal property, to determine whether a gift is, or is not, in execution of a power. Secus, as to an inquiry whether there be anything but copyhold to answer a devise of land; the question then being, whether there was anything for the will to operate upon at the time when it was made; whereas a will of personality speaks at the death. Ib. ib.

Devise in strict settlement, with a clause of forfeiture by cutting any trees. Upon a bill by the infant remainder-man in tail an inquiry was directed, whether any trees in the park, not ornamental, or affording shelter to the mansion-house, are proper to be felled; and whether it would be for the benefit of all parties interested, that they should be felled, and sold; and the money laid out in other estates, to be settled to the same uses. Delapole v. Delapole, 17 Ves. 150. WILL, C. OF; TIMBER.

Where contract for the purchase of an estate is not complete in the lifetime of the ancestor, the terms of it not being ascertained, heir is not entitled to have the personal estate applied in payment of the purchase-money. A reference, or issue, will not be granted to ascertain the terms of the contract. The application of the personal estate by the heir, in completing the contract for purchase by the ancestor, but not binding on him, raises no trust in the lands for the next of kin. The money so laid out, is a charge on the purchased lands. Savage v. Carroll, 1 Ball & B. 265. CONTRACT; HEIR AT LAW.

(c) As to title.

Quare whether a master to whom a question of title is referred, has a right to require the parties to procure for him the opinion of any conveyancer who he shall select, upon the abstracts of title which have been brought into his office? Flower v. Walker, 1 Russ. 408.

On a reference of title in a suit by vendor, for the specific performance of a contract for the purchase of lands, the mere fact that a suit has been subsequently instituted, and is pending, in which part of the lands are claimed adversely to the vendor, is not a sufficient ground for reporting that a good title can be made. Osbaldeston v. Askew, 1 Russ. 160. VENDOR AND PURCH.

If the master reports against the title to an estate, purchased under a decree, the purchaser will be paid the costs of the reference out of the funds in the cause. Reynolds v. Blake, 2 S. & S. 117. VENDOR AND PURCH.; COSTS.

Where answer to bill for specific performance raises other objections to performance beside defect of title, court will not, on motion by plaintiff for reference of title, after the answer, decide whether other objections are frivolous or not. Semble. Withy v. Cottle, 1 S. & S. 174. S. P. Gordon v. Bull, id. 178. VENDOR AND PURCH.; PR. ANSWER.

A decree for reference of title, on a bill for specific performance, should contain a declaration that the contract ought to be specifically performed. Mole v. Smith, 1 Jac. 495. PR. DECREE, FORM OF; SPEC. PERF.

Receiver appointed on the motion of the vendor pending a reference of title. Boehm v. Wood, 2 Jac. & W. 236. VENDOR & PURCH.; PR. RECEIVER.

Although the court will not order a reference of title, on motion, when a purchaser resists the performance of the contract on another ground, yet it will take care that the latter is substantial. Semble. The motion was therefore granted, where the only other ground insisted upon by the owner was, that the time of possession had been made of the essence of the contract, but which, upon looking into it, appeared not to be the case. Merely undertaking to deliver an abstract and possession at a particular time, does not make it of the essence of a contract. S. C. 1 Jac. & W. 419. VENDOR & PURCH.

Court will not, on motion, after an order for reference, direct master to enquire (if he have found that a good title can be made to premises, the subject of a suit for specific performance), when such good title could be first made. Such direction should have been applied for at hearing. Lubin v. Lighthody, 8 Price, 606. PR. VARYING ORDER.

Motion after bill filed, and before answer for reference as to title, counsel for defendant stating there were other matters in question besides title, motion was refused. Mathews v. Dunn, 3 Mad. 470.

Motion may be made on bill for specific performance, for reference as to title, and whether title was shown prior to filing bill. Anon. 3 Mad. 495.

Reference having been made as to title on one motion, party cannot afterwards, by another motion, have reference as to delivery of abstract. Hyde v. Wroughton, 3 Mad. 279.

There can be no reference of title except where the title only is in dispute. Morgan v. Shaw, 2 Mer. 138.

On a reference of title, the master having reported that a good title could be made, order referring it back to the master to see whether such title could have been made prior to the filing of the bill by the vendor for a specific performance. Birch v. Haynes, 2 Mer. 444.

Specific performance decreed against purchaser without reference as to title, upon ground of possession, a correspondence and no objection to title till two years after delivery of abstract. Marg. Anspach v. Noel, 1 Mad. 310. SPEC. PERF.; VENDOR & PURCH.

The court of exchequer will not, on bill for specific performance, make an interlocutory order to refer a title, the validity of which is denied by answer, and depends on facts, to the deputy remembrancer, until the cause is brought to a hearing without consent. Bowyer v. Bright, 3 Price, 300.

Decree for a reference upon the title; the cause coming on for further directions, after a report approving the title, the defendant is entitled to have an enquiry at what time a title could have been made. Daly v. Osborne, 1 Mer. 382. VENDOR & PURCH.

Upon reference to the master as to the title, a report that A B, with the concurrence of C D, &c. can make a good title, is an excess of his authority, being a report upon the conveyance rather than upon the fact, title or not. Parties, therefore, having omitted to take exceptions to it, are not concluded by its confirmation. Lewis v. Loxam, 1 Mer. 155.

On reference of title on bill for specific performance the reference may extend to all that concerns the title, but not to other matters; it may be extended, therefore, to enquire whether it appeared by the abstract in pleadings mentioned, that good title could be made. Jennings v. Hopton, 1 Mad. 211.

Reference of title before decree refused, where the purchaser, besides objecting to the title, claimed compensation for defect of quantity, even though he submitted to complete his agreement. Lowe v. Manners, 1 Mer. 19. VENDOR & PURCH.

No reference of title upon a question whether the estate was tithe-free, having been sold as such. Waltinger v. Hilbert, 1 Mer. 104. Ib.

Court will not make absolute the common order visi to dissolve injunction, (granted to restrain purchaser from proceeding at law to recover part of the purchase money paid by him in advance, the vendor not being able to make title, and there being outstanding incumbrances,) without master's report as to sufficiency of title, although objections are fully stated in defendant's answer. Church v. Leger, 1 Price, 301. PR. DISMISSAL OF INJUNCTION; VENDOR & PURCH.

Costs to a purchaser: the vendor having established his title before the master, after contest, upon a different ground from that in the abstract delivered. Fielder v. Higginson, 3 V. & B. 142. VENDOR & PURCH.; COSTS.

Order to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution, not of course, pending a reference on motion, the title alone being in question. Biscoe v. Brett, 2 V. & B. 377. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL.

Reference of title before answer; plaintiff the vendor undertaking to do all such acts for the purpose of executing what the court thinks right, as if the answer was in, and the cause brought to hearing, direction, if the report shall be against the title, for compensation; refused as to indemnity. Balmanno v. Lamley, 1 V. & B. 224. PR. ANSWER.

Reference before decree confined to the case of title; where there was a farther subject of dispute, under a claim of compensation, it was refused with costs. — v. Skelton, 1 V. & B. 516. PR. DECREE.

Reference as to title before decree refused, where purchaser on other grounds, resists performance of contract. Paton v. Rogers, 1 V. & B. 351. PR. DECREE; VENDOR & PURCH.

Inquiry as to time when title could be made is the subject of further directions after report upon title, and is not to be continued with reference as to title. Gibson v. Clarke, 2 V. & B. 103.

Reference as to title before decree only made where title alone is in dispute. Blyth v. Elmhirst, 1 V. & B. 1. VENDOR & PURCH.

Specific performance decreed against purchaser without reference as to title, upon possession and no objection made to abstract. Fleetwood v. Green, 15 Ves. 594. VENDOR & PURCH.; SPEC. PERF.

The practice to direct a reference upon title, on motion after answer, limited to the case where the title only is disputed. Gumpertz v. —, 12 Ves. 17.

After answer submitting to perform contract, if good title can be made, reference was directed, on motion whether good title can be made, and whether it appears on the abstract. Wright v. Bond, 11 Ves. 39.

General rule that court will not decide upon a title without reference to master, unless unequivocally, and without fraud or surprise, waived; a plaintiff seeking specific performance of contract being entitled to opportunity of making a better title before the master, and the defendant having a right to further inquiry, beyond objections arising on abstract, upon principle that bill seeks relief beyond the law. Jenkins v. Hiles, 6 Ves. 646.

Court refused to make order under act of parliament for sale of estate, upon opinion of conveyancer approving conveyance merely, without reference to master. Exp. Ds. Newcastle, 6 Ves. 454. PR. SALE.

The bill praying the inquiry into the title, and a specific performance, on the defendant's motion after answer, an inquiry was directed as to the title, at what time the abstract was delivered, and whether it was sufficient, but the court would not decide upon any matter of relief. Moss v. Mathews, 3 Ves. 329. SPEC. PERF.

On reference to a master to see whether a good title can be made, the master proceeds on the abstract only, unless the purchaser requires the production of the deeds themselves, and if he omits to make such requisition, he cannot except to the report, on the ground of the deeds not having been produced before the master. Poole v. Shergold, 1 Cox, 160. VENDOR & PURCH.

Title established before master, not being clear on abstract, vendor pays costs. — v. Collinge, cited 3 V. & B. 143. note. PR. COSTS; VENDOR & PURCH.

(1) As to scandal, impertinence, and insufficiency.

See also PR. ANSWER, 18.

No order to refer any pleading for scandal and impertinence shall be made, unless exceptions be taken in writing, and signed by counsel, 11th Gen. Ord. 3d April 1828.

Order referring answer or pleading for insufficiency or scandal shall be considered as abandoned, unless party obtaining it procure report within a fortnight, or master certify further time to be necessary. 12th Gen. Ord. 3d April 1828.

Any party, without order of reference, may take out warrant to expunge from state of facts, or other proceeding before master, matter that is scandalous or impertinent. 73d Gen. Ord. 3d April 1828.

Master's report on reference for impertinence must be obtained in four days. Gen. Ord. 25th January 1822. 10 Price, 29.

Ordered that in future all references of answers of defendants for insufficiency, or for scandal and impertinence, or for impertinence made in the same cause, be made to the same master; and farther that where answers of defendants have been referred for scandal and impertinence, or for impertinence, and the court shall afterwards refer the same for insufficiency, the latter reference be made to the same master as the former reference. Gen. Ord. 10th March 1818.

Where answers have been referred for scandal, &c. and court shall afterwards refer the same for insufficiency, the latter reference shall be made to same master as former reference. V. C. 10 March, 1818. 3 Mad. 317. GEN. ORD.

A common injunction having been obtained for want of answer, on the answer coming in, exceptions were taken and allowed; the bill was then amended, to which and the exceptions a further answer was put in; the further answer was referred for scandal and impertinence; the master reported it was neither scandalous nor impertinent, and on this report the defendant obtained the usual order to dissolve the injunction nisi. Exceptions to the answer to the amended bill were offered to be shewn as cause, but the court considered the reference for scandal and impertinence a dilatory proceeding, and dissolved the injunction. Stone v. Bottridge, 2 Y. & J. 482. PR. INJUNCTION.

An affidavit made in support of a state of facts may be referred for scandal, but not for impertinence, by a party who has filed in support of a certain state of facts, an affidavit which appears to be an answer to the former. In mrs. Burton, 1 Russ. 380. PR. REFERENCE FOR SCANDAL; PR. AFFIDAVIT.

An order referring a defendant's examination for impertinence cannot be obtained as of course, if the plaintiff have proceeded on the examination. Jenkins v. Ure, 2 S. & S. 578. WAIVER.

A party cannot refer for impertinence, on affidavit filed in support of a motion, if after that affidavit was filed, he has filed any affidavit in opposition to the motion. Keeling v. Hawkins, 2 Russ. 319. WAIVER.

An exception may be regularly filed to the master's report as to impertinence, after the order to expunge, and at any time before the impertinent matter is actually expunged. David v. Williams, 1 Sim. 17. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

An examination setting out material accounts, clearly and conveniently, is not rendered impertinent, by varying from strict course pointed out by the interrogatories, nor by introducing three columns of figures, so as to occasion blank columns in the office copy, although blank columns are an abuse. Bully v. Williams, 1 McClel. & Y. 334. ACCOUNTS.

Master's report of impertinence must be obtained in four days: where this was not complied with, order to refer was discharged with costs; and where defendant had obtained order nisi to dissolve injunction, and plaintiff meanwhile had obtained a reference for impertinence, which was allowed as a good cause against dissolving injunction, but plaintiff omitted to comply with above rule; on motion to discharge order of reference, and dissolve injunction absolutely, the first part being granted, the plaintiff was obliged to show cause instant against the dissolution. Hodgson v. Pritchitt, 1 McClel. 209. S. C. 13 Price, 451. INJUNCTION, DISSOLUTION OF.

Reference of answer for impertinence is good cause against dissolving injunction. Joseph v. Simpson, 10 Price, 25. PR. INJUNCTION, DISSOLUTION OF, CAUSE AGAINST.

Interrogatories and depositions not to be referred on motion of course, before the hearing for impertinence alone, without scandal. Osmond v. Tindall, 1 Jac. 625. PR. MOTION OF COURSE; PR. INTERROGATORIES AND DEPOSITIONS.

Where bill found scandalous by master, injunction not granted till such matters expunged. Davenport v. Davenport, 6 Mad. 251. INJUNCTION.

Court refused (with costs,) to order interrogatories, however impertinent, to be suppressed, if witnesses have answered them; they should demur: answering them waives impertinence. Jeffries v. Whittuck, 9 Pri. 486. WAIVER; PR. INTERROGATORIES TO WITNESS.

VOL. II.

If defendant means to except to report of impertinence, he must first move for leave, and notice of motion must be given. Ward v. Botalin, 8 Pri. 86. PR. IN EXCH.; DEP. REMEMR.; REPORT; EXCEPTIONS.

In exchequer, report of officer on reference, that answer is impertinent, must be confirmed by the court on motion, of which notice must be given for that purpose. Id. ib.

Stranger to record, cannot move to refer bill for scandal. Anon. 4 Mad. 252. Sed. quare? See 6 Ves. 514. and id. note. Beame's Ord. 25. STRANGER.

In injunction cases, the master's report on the question of impertinence must, at least, without reference to the inquiry, whether there is farther impertinence, have the same weight as his report on the question of insufficiency. Raphael v. Birdwood, 1 Swan. 232. PR. INJUNCTION.

Answer being referred for impertinence, and reported not impertinent, order upon motion of course, to refer it to the master to tax the defendant's costs. Tyrrel v. Redifer, 1 Mer. 132. PR. COSTS.

unless an answer has been filed. Martyn v. Brough-ton, 3 Swan. 232. PR. CONFIRMATION OF MASTER'S REPORT.

Where bill is reported scandalous, defendant is entitled to have it expunged as of course, upon report made; and to a reference to tax costs instantly, after report made. Muscott v. Halded, 4 Bro. C. C. 222. PR. COSTS.

A plaintiff cannot refer an answer for impertinence after replication, or an undertaking to speed the cause; but he may refer for scandal at any time. Barnes v. Saibn, 3 Swan. 232.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken after impertinence is expunged, nor without special order, while the order to expunge remains in force; a report of impertinence having been obtained by surprise, the master was ordered to abstain from acting on order to expunge, until exceptions had been argued. Mortimer v. West, 3 Swan. 228. PR. EXCEPTIONS; PR. ORDER TO EXPUNGE.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken, nor be set down for argument, after an order to expunge without special leave. Wadman v. Birch, 3 Swan. 230. EXCEPTIONS; ORDER TO EXPUNGE.

Order to refer answer for impertinence not prosecuted, is no objection to a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution; and defendant need not obtain master's report in his favour. Railton v. Woodrick, 3 Swan. 247. PR. BILL, DISMISSAL OF.

A discharge carried in before a master, may be referred for impertinence. Price v. Shaw, 2 Cox, 184. PR. CHARGE AND DISCHARGE.

An answer having been referred for impertinence, and reported impertinent, it is not necessary to have the impertinent matter actually expunged before the defendant moves to dissolve an injunction upon coming in of his answer, though he cannot move it pending the reference. Kenn v. Barnwell, 2 Cox, 26. PR. MOTION TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION.

Plaintiff having referred a plea for impertinence, afterwards set the plea down for argument; this is a waiver of the reference for impertinence, notwithstanding the defendant had attended the master upon it. Dixon v. Olmies, 1 Cox, 412. PR. PLEA; WAIVER.

It is not considered as a species of impertinence that many witnesses are examined to the same fact, provided the fact be material; but if it be admitted by the answer, and therefore not in issue in the cause, any depositions to this point would be deemed impertinent. Vaughan v. Lloyd, id. 313. PR. EVIDENCE.

A defendant to a bill, though not served with process, may appear gratis, and refer it for impertinence. Fell v. Master, &c. of Christ's Coll. Camb. 2 Bro. C. C. 279. PR. APPEARANCE GRATIS.

Practice as to reference of an answer for impertinence, after an order nisi, to dissolve an injunction. Jennings v. Walker, 1 Cox, 178. PR. ORDER NISI, TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION.

The bill being referred for impertinence, the plaintiff cannot move (as of course,) for an injunction for want of an answer, but is in the same situation as if the time for answering were not out, until the master has reported on the reference. Neale v. Wadeson, 1 Cox, 104. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 574. INJUNCTION.

Any record of the court may be referred for scandal at any time, and even by strangers to the suit; but it is otherwise as to a reference for impertinence; though such orders are discretionary to a certain extent, the opportunity may be lost or waived. Anon. 2 Ves. 631.

Reference for scandal may be at any time, not so as to mere impertinence. Scandal includes impertinence, but a matter may be impertinent, without being scandalous. Nothing scandalous that is strictly relevant to the merits. Fenhoult v. Passavant, 2 Ves. 24.

Affidavit referred for impertinence. Phillips v. Mulman, Dick. 113.

After time to answer, bill cannot be referred for impertinence, though it may at any time for scandal. Farrar v. Farrar, id. 173.

In this case an order was made to refer the affidavit of plaintiff's own solicitor for impertinence. Phillips v. Phillips, 3 Atk. 391.

If answer be reported sufficient, and on exceptions held insufficient, defendant is not to pay the 40s. costs for insufficient answer. Knightly v. Deacon, Dick. 82.

The court will order depositions to be referred for scandal and impertinence to a master. Cocks v. Worthington, 2 Atk. 235.

If a bill be referred for impertinence, and master report it pertinent, defendant may except generally, without specifying the parts of the bill which are impertinent. Blackworth v. Briggs, 2 Atk. 182. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

After the defendant has answered the bill, he cannot refer it for scandal. Abergavenny v. Abergavenny, 2 P. W. 311. Sed quare. WAIVER.

Demurrer of a witness to interrogatories, enquiring after matter defamatory to a third person, and not material in the cause, allowed. Mulgrave v. Id. Dunbar, 2 Swan. 198. PR. DEMURRER TO INTERROGATORIES.

An answer may be scandalous even in the title, if it refers upon the plaintiff, because it is no part of the defence, and cannot be put in issue. Peck v. Peck, Mos. 46.

A counsel who sets his hand to a bill containing scandalous matter, is liable to costs. Emerson v. Dallison, 1 C. R. 104. PR. SIGNATURE OF COUNSEL.

The defendant obtained an order to refer the bill for impertinence, after he had twice prayed time to answer: the chancellor ordered that he should procure a report within four days, or the order be discharged. Anon. Mos. 71. PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

(c) If two suits are for similar objects.

On a reference to the master to inquire whether proceedings at law and in equity are for the same matter, all proceedings are in general stayed in the mean time. Anory v. Brodrick, 1 Jac. 530. PR. STAYING PROCEEDINGS.

Where an information and a petition under the 52 G. 3. c. 101, are proceeding together, and include the same or part of the same objects, the court will refer it to the Attorney-general to consider which should proceed. Att. Gen. v. Green, 1 Jac. & W. 303. CHARITY.

A reference to the master to inquire whether proceedings at law and in equity are for the same matter, stays all proceedings, without the special order of the court, which will give or withhold leave to proceed, according to the circumstances of each case. Curwick v. Young, 2 Swan. 239. PR. STAYING PROCEEDINGS.

Upon order being made on plaintiff to elect whether he will proceed at law or in equity, and on motion to discharge that order, court will, if there are sufficient facts before it, decide whether election necessary without reference to master. Anon. 2 Mad. 395. PR. ELECTION, LAW OR EQUITY.

Where two suits are instituted in the name of an infant by different persons, acting as his next friends, it is of course, to refer it to the master to see which is most for the infant's benefit, upon the more allegation of the counsel, that both suits are for the same purpose, it being at the risk of the party moving, in case the allegation should prove untrue, to have the order for reference discharged with costs upon the special application of the other party. Sullivan v. Sullivan, 2 Mer. 40. INFANT.

Upon such a reference, the master is at liberty to suggest any improvement in the frame of the suit, and to report any special circumstances that may be for the infant's advantage. Id. ib.

Suggestion that the defendant is doubly vexed by suits in equity and at law for the same matter, ascertained by reference to the master. Boyd v. Heinzelman, 1 V. & B. 381. ELECTION, LAW OR EQUITY.

Plea of another suit for the same matter referred to master. Wild v. Hobson, 2 V. & B. 110. PR. PLA.

Reference whether two suits are for the same matter is obtained by plea in chancery as in the exchequer; not by motion. Murray v. Shadwell, 17 Ves. 353.

(f) If suit for infant's benefit.

A suit instituted on behalf of infants by a solicitor wholly unconnected with the family, it was, on the motion of the defendant, referred to the master to inquire whether it would be for the infant's benefit that the suit should be prosecuted, the defendant undertaking to render to the master the accounts prayed for by the bill. Richardson v. Miller, 1 Sim. 133. P. AMT.

Infants being added as parties to a cause after the report had been made, it was referred to the master to enquire whether it would be for their benefit that the report should be adopted as to them. Brookfield v. Bradley, 1 Jac. 632.

After a decree in one or two suits commenced in the name of an infant, it is not usual to refer it to the master to enquire which suit is most beneficial. Taylor v. Oldham, 1 Jac. 527. PR. DECREE.

Court will not enquire if suit is for benefit of infant, unless there is a strong case of no benefit, or of an improper motive. Stevens v. Stevens, 6 Mad. 97.

Infants being made co-plaintiffs in two suits relative to the same matter, the court will not before a decree (on the master's report that one suit is more for the benefit of the infants), dismiss the bill in the other suit unless by consent. Martimer v. West, 1 Swan. 358. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL.

No reference upon an application by the next friend of an infant, to see whether a suit which he himself has instituted is for the infant's benefit. Jones v. Powell, 2 Mer. 141. PROCEIN AMT.

Reference, which suit by prochein amis most advantageous to infant. One ordered to prosecute; other not restrained further, it being at his peril to proceed. Owen v. Owen, Dick. 310.

Where there are two suits brought by different prochein amis, the court will refer them to see which is most proper, because the court, as guardian of infants, will take care that what is done shall be for their benefit. Anon. 3 Atk. 603.

A father left a great personal estate to two infant children, and made his wife executrix. A bill was brought in the infant's name by a relation as prochein ami, to call the mother to an account. On affidavit of several other relations that this suit in the infant's name was out of pique, and not for the infant's good, the court referred it to a master, who reporting the matter to be so, the suit was stayed. Da Costa v. Da Costa, 3 P. W. 140.

(g) To appoint guardian.

An infant's property being very small (290l.), maintenance ordered out of the principal without a reference. Exp. Green, 1 Jac. & W. 253. INFANT, MAINTENANCE.

So interest of 1200l., the property of three infants. Exp. Dudley, id. 354. n.

Guardian not to be appointed without a reference when the infant's property amounts to 150l. per annum. Exp. Janion, 1 Jac. & W. 395.

Reference for maintenance and appointment of guardian of an infant, ordered on petition without suit: property 200l. per annum. Exp. Myeracough, id. 151. PR. PETITION; INFANT MAINTENANCE.

Order appointing a guardian without a reference only where the property is excessively small, refused where it amounted to 1500l. Exp. Wheeler, 16 Ves. 266.

Maintenance allowed for an infant though no cause in court. Exp. Kent, 3 Bro. C. C. 80.

When a father, by his will, names guardians for his natural child, the court will not appoint them guardians without any reference to the master. Ward v. St. Paul, 2 Bro. C. C. 583. But see contra Peckham v. Peckham, 2 Cox, 46. GUARD. TESTAMENTARY; BASTARD.

Infant apprenticed to particular person, and fee paid without reference, father alleging he thought it proper. Mendes Da Costa v. De Paz, Dick. 168.

Reference for maintenance without suit when first introduced; court will order costs on reference for maintenance without suit. Exp. Thomas, Amb. 146.

(h) In cases of foreclosure, and redemption of mortgage.

On motion for reference under 7 G. 2. c. 20. the court refused to direct master to take into account costs incurred at law, no mention of proceedings at law having been made in the bill; but leave was given to amend bill in that respect, and motion to stand over in mean time. Miliani v. Magor, 3 Mad. 433. PR. BILL, AMENDMENT OF; PR. COSTS.

Mortgagor defendant to a bill of foreclosure being in contempt, cannot obtain the reference on motion under the stat. 7 G. 3. c. 20. Hewitt v. M'Cartney, 13 Ves. 560. STAT. C. OF; CONTEMPT.

Defendant to a bill for an account, cannot, upon motion immediately after answer, have a reference to the master by analogy to the case of a mortgage by stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 20., and the case of specific performance according to the practice settled, though the reason of it is questionable. Ultridge v. Porter, 14 Ves. 139. PR. BILL FOR ACCOUNT.

Master's report not to be respected which exceeds terms of reference. Beame's Ord. 23.

How master's reports are to be drawn. Id. 81.

On motion to dismiss for want of prosecution, clerk in court, (six clerk, see 10 Ves. 404. n.) on his certificate as to proceedings in the cause, (which may be obtained after motion is made), must not state any proceedings subsequent to motion. King v. Noel, 5 Mad. 13. PR. DISMISSAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

If on reference in bankruptcy to master, he finds examination of witnesses necessary, he must certify accordingly to court, who will make the order. Anon. 4 Mad. 379. PR. ORDER FOR EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES BY MASTER.

Master in his report is always at liberty, though not directed by decree, to state his reasons for disallowance of a claim. Champernowne v. Scott, 4 Mad. 209.

The master's certificate in support of a motion for an absolute order for production of books, &c., or commitment, must bear date on the day of the motion. Hopkinson v. Leach, 3 Swan. 98. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

Where some exceptions to answer are overruled, and some allowed, master should by report point out which are and are not allowed. Agar v. Gurney, 2 Mad. 389. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER.

Under a decree for account of proceeds of a joint adventure, on bill by one party on behalf of himself and the others, and inquiry who are concerned with the plaintiff, the master, having by advertisements, as usual, declared those who should not come in excluded, reported several persons who had not come in to claim, entitled to shares; further advertisements directed, but payment into court of those shares refused, and the decree not to be executed as to those who should not come in. Good v. Blewitt, 19 Ves. 336. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT; PR. DECREE TO ACCOUNT.

Where a surplus to be distributed in an uncertain sum, the master ought to report the shares in aliquot parts, not in money. Att. Gen. v. Haberdashers' Comp. 1 Ves. J. 295.

On a reference to a master in bankruptcy, with liberty for him to examine parties on interrogatories if he should think fit; it seems that if the master should decline to examine any party when required so to do, he should state the grounds on which he declined to do so. Exp. Charter, 2 Cox, 168. PR. EXAMINATION BEFORE MASTER.

Schedules of accounts, referred to in the master's report, must be annexed to and filed with the report, and not entered in a book, and kept in the master's office as was attempted in this case. Smith v. Smith, Dick. 789.

Masters in chancery, in reports which are special, are only to state bare matters of fact. Dk. Marlborough v. Wheat, 1 Atk. 454.

Where a master reports any thing as admitted by either party, which report is afterwards excepted to, the report must primâ facie be taken to be true, and requires at least an affidavit to falsify it. Allen v. Pendlebury, cited, Da Costa v. Da Costa, 3 P. W. 142. note.

In a creditor's suit against the administrators, and account decreed, the master reported that defendant had assets sufficient to satisfy plaintiff's demand; costs were decreed generally against the administrator.

Dury v. Seys, Mos. 204. PR. COSTS; DECREE FOR ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Where some tenants entered into an agreement to stand by others of the tenants, who are made defendants to a suit brought against them by the lord upon consent, the court will direct that the agreement shall be annexed by way of schedule to the master's report. Thanet v. Paterson, Barn, 255.

(b) Settlement and signature of, and effects thereof.

Defendant may file further answer before master has signed his report of insufficiency of first answer. Wynne v. Jackson, 2 S. & S. 226. PR. FURTHER ANSWER.

Order for injunction for want of answer obtained after master has signed his report of insufficiency of answer, but before report is filed, is irregular. Id. ib. PR. INJUNCTION.

Motion cannot be made for opinion of court to obviate difficulties of master in drawing up his report. Agar v. Gurney, 2 Mad. 389.

Evidence not to be received by master after he has settled his report. Thompson v. Lamb, 7 Ves. 587. PR. EVIDENCE.

(c) Filing and obtaining, in what time.

Master's report on reference for impertinence must be obtained in four days. Gen. Ord. 25th Jan. 1822. 10 Price, 29. IMPERTINENCE.

To be filed with register within four days after signing. Beame's Ord. 293.

Master's report of impertinence must be obtained in four days; where this was not complied with, order to refer answer was discharged with costs. And where defendant had obtained an order nisi to dissolve injunction, and plaintiff in the interim had obtained a reference for impertinence which was allowed as cause against dissolving injunction, but plaintiff did not comply with the above rule; on motion to discharge order of reference and dissolve injunction absolutely, the first part having been granted, the plaintiff was obliged to show cause instantan against the dissolution. Hodgson v. Pritchit, 1 M'Clel. 209. S. C. 13 Price, 451. REF. FOR IMPERTINENCE; PR. INJUNC. DISSOLUTION OF.

Master's certificate of disobedience to decree directing deed, &c. to be produced before him, need not be filed within four days after it is signed; it is sufficient if filed before four-day order is delivered out. Harris v. De Tastet, 1 S. & S. 263. FILING PLEADINGS, &c.

Sufficient if a master's report is filed before any proceedings had thereon, though not within four days after it was made. Eyles v. Ward, 2 P. W. 517.

(d) Review of and amendment of.

The master was ordered to tax the costs of all parties, and the account was directed to be paid out of the assets of the testator in the cause by his executors, who were to be at liberty to pay the costs of certain parties to A their solicitor. A was an attorney of K. B. and C. P. but never had been admitted as a solicitor in the court of chancery, and the master for that reason disallowed the whole of his charges except what he had paid to his clerk in court. He had however previously received from his clients to the full amount of his bills. The clients then petitioned for an order on the master to review his certificate and tax A's bills, but their petition was dismissed. Preamble v. Bognhurst, 2 Sim. 247. PR. COSTS, TAXATION OF.

After the confirmation of a report, a review will not be ordered, unless on a very strong case; and objections affecting the substance of it will not be permitted, but mere mistakes may be rectified. Turner v. Turner, 1 Jac. & W. 39. REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

Master directed to review his certificate and state reasons why examination impertinent. Anon. 3 Mad. 246.

It is not competent to the lord chancellor to order the master to review a report confirmed and followed by a decree of the master of the Rolls, containing consequential directions, while that decree stands. Turner v. Turner, 1 Swan. 154. JURISDICTION.

The master ordered to review his report after confirmation. Id. 157. PR. REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

After report was confirmed in favour of title by one master, and then master in another proceeding made a report by which the title was affected, motion that it should be referred back to the first master, granted. Jeuwine v. Alcock, 1 Mad. 597.

On reference to master to approve settlement to be made on wife, &c. of bankrupt, in respect of her property, the master approving the whole of her property on exceptions directed to review his report. Beresford v. Hobson, 1 Mad. 362. HUSB. & WIFE; BANKCY. SETTLMT.

Upon reference to master as to fact of person's death, the report only stating the circumstances, viz. absence abroad fourteen years without any account of him, but not drawing the conclusion, it was referred back to master to state whether he was dead at the time when administration was granted, especially as two years more had elapsed since the report. Lee v. Willock, 6 Ves. 605.

The court will not interfere with the master's appointment of a consignee unless upon special grounds and a strong case. Bowersbank v. Colasneau, 3 Ves. 164. CONSIGNEE OF W. INDIA ESTATE.

Allowance of a debt in the master's report, which had been obtained by fraud, rectified, the proper mode of proceeding being by original bill, not by bill of review; and held that it was not necessary to pray specifically that the act of the court should be set aside, plaintiff having made a sufficient case to obtain that relief under the prayer for general relief. Manaton v. Molesworth, 1 Eden. 18. PL. BILL OF REVIEW.

Master to review report in order that exceptions may be taken. Tallance v. Weldon, Dick. 291. AMBL. 126. PR. PAROL EVID.; WIDOW.

Where the error in a master's report is owing to a party's not laying a material piece of evidence before him, the court will not direct him to review his report, but upon the exceptant giving up his deposit. Hedges v. Cardonell, 2 Atk. 408.

Mistake in report enrolled, amended, and docketed also. Yow v. Townsend, Dick. 59.

Part of the decretal order directing an allowance to the defendant was omitted in the register's book, and the master in consequence refused the defendant's claim, but on exceptions the allowance was made. Tredcroft v. White, 3 C. R. 72.

(d) Confirmation and effect thereof.

The order nisi to confirm a report, may be obtained on a petition. 21st Gen. Ord. 3rd April, 1828.

The general rule is, that where the report of the deputy remembrancer may be excepted to, it requires confirmation; but the case of trustees approved of by him is an exception; there the report is good, unless excepted to. Gen. Ord. 18th June, 1792.

Not confirmed without day given. Same's Ord. 22.

Purchaser who has confirmed his report nisi, cannot after notice to open biddings, confirm absolutely. Vansittart v. Collier, 2 S. & S. 608. PR. SALES, JUDICIAL, OPENING BIDDINGS; VENDOR & PURCHASER.

Where exceptions will lie to master's report, it must be regularly confirmed before an order can be made upon it. Scott v. Livesey, 2 S. & S. 300. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Master's report of receiver's accounts does not require confirmation, and cannot be excepted to; but court will enter into consideration of objections to the general principle on which master has proceeded in taking such account, but not of objections to particular items in it. Shewell v. Jones, 2 S. & S. 170. PR. RECEIVER'S ACCOUNTS.

The master's report on reference of title, will not be suspended to wait the event of a suit commenced against the vendor for recovery of part of the estate; but the two suits may be heard together. Ostaldiston v. Askew, 2 J. & W. 539.

Filing exceptions alone, does not prevent the confirmation of a report; they must be set down. Mole v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 670. S. P. Abel v. Nodes, 2 Cox, 169. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

On a petition to confirm a report, and praying consequential directions, a party cannot, without presenting a counter petition, show cause against the confirmation, except upon grounds appearing on the face of the report. Brodie v. Barry, 1 Jac. & W. 470.

After the confirmation of a report, a review will not be ordered, unless on a very strong case; and objections affecting the substance of it will not be permitted; but mere mistakes may be rectified. Turner v. Turner, 1 Jac. & W. 39. REVIEW OF MASTER'S REPORT.

The master ordered to review his report after confirmation. Turner v. Turner, 1 Swan. 157. PR. ORDER TO REVIEW MASTER'S REPORT.

Exceptions to a report may be taken off the file, if filed after the report has been confirmed absolute. Sterling v. Thompson, Coop. 271. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT; PR. TAKING PLEADINGS OFF FILE.

Biddings will not be opened after confirmation of the report, unless fraud is shown in purchaser, or fraudulent negligence in agent, &c. or other special circumstances. Morice v. Bk. of Durham, 11 Ves. 57. PR. SALES JUDICIAL, OPENING BIDDINGS.

Irregular to confirm reports, as to maintenance on motion. Greenwell v. Greenwell, 5 Ves. 199. PR. MOTION.

After an order for confirming the report nisi, filing exceptions and making the deposit with the register are no cause to prevent that order being made absolute, unless an order for setting down the exceptions to be argued is obtained, which may be done either by the plaintiff or defendant, the order confirming the report was discharged on payment of costs. Gildart v. Moses, 4 Ves. 617. PR. ORDER NISI; PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Bond and judgment assigned, interest must be calculated to the date of the report, so as not to exceed the penalty. Sharp v. El. of Scarborough, 3 Ves. 557. INTEREST HOW CALCULATED.

After final report of costs, &c. nothing remaining but application of the fund; ordered, that service on the clerks in court of the defendants should be good service, in order to confirm the report, on motion and affidavits, that some lived in the East and West Indies, and others in different parts of this country, though there were only five defendants. Jackson v. —, 2 Ves. J. 416. PR. SERVICE SUBSTITUTED.

The master's report on a reference for impertinence needs no confirmation, and a report that the bill is not impertinent, entitles the plaintiff to an injunction, unless an answer has been filed. Martyn v. Broughton, 3 Swan. 232. PR. IMPERTINENCE.

Interest not given from the confirmation of the report upon demands liquidated by it, but not bearing interest in their nature, as legacies and arrears of annuities, though both legacies and annuities were charged upon land, and the annuities were not paid out of the rents and profits as possession was taken by mortgagees, and though one of the annuities was the provision for a widow. Crenze v. Hunter, 2 Ves. J. 167. 4 Bro. C. C. 157. INTEREST.

Interest is computed by the master's report, upon such debts only as carry interest according to the rate they carry; and upon farther directions, subsequent interest is directed, only on those upon which the report has already computed interest, but no interest is computed on simple contract debts by the report or order afterwards. Id. 115.

In exchequer, if defendant conceives himself aggrieved by master's report, he must file exceptions thereto, and such exceptions must be set down to be argued in court; but if no exceptions are taken, the court confirms the report as of course, and thereupon gives proper directions. Kaye v. Bruere, 2 Bro. P. C. 420. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Exceptions allowed to be taken to report, though confirmed, and though none were taken to draft. Allen v. Allen, Dick. 362.

Commissioners' certificate confirmed as a report. Keeling v. Cartwright, Dick. 401.

Bare filing exceptions is not showing cause against confirmation of report. Hall v. Mulliner, Dick. 604.

Biddings opened after confirmation of the master's report upon a considerable advance, there having been a mistake, made in a particular of the estate left with the master, and one of the parties who confirmed the report having been steward of the family, and knowing more than he communicated. Ex. Gower v. El. Gower, 2 Eden, 348. FRAT; SALES JUDICIAL, OPENING BIDDINGS.

Defendant permitted to take exceptions to a report after confirmation, without having taken objections previously. Allen v. Allen, 1 Swan. 158. PR. MASTER'S REPORT, EXCEPTIONS TO.

Confirmation of master's report opened, and the report allowed to be excepted to, or reviewed upon particular circumstances, although previous exceptions had been disallowed after argument. Hawkins v. Day, 1 Ves. 189. Id.

A master's report of what was due to a mortgagee for principal interest and costs, was confirmed nisi, and by the register's minutes at a subsequent seal in the same cause taken down, order absolute, but never entered; on the register refusing to do it, an application for an order de novo. Anon. 3 Atk. 521.

Not usual to have reports of receiver's accounts confirmed. Curper v. El. Cowper, 2 P. W. 729. PR. RECEIVER'S ACCOUNT.

Where a debt is liquidated by a report, the whole carries interest from the time of confirming such report, and so toties quoties as any new report is made. Bradshaw v. Astley, 4 Bro. P. C. 505. INTEREST.

A master reports so much due for the principal of a portion, and so much for the interest; the court of chancery decreed the money so reported due to be paid, together with interest upon the principal sum till payment. On an appeal, interest was directed to be carried on for the whole sum, principal and interest, stated by the master's report, from the time of confirming that report. Kelly v. Id. Bellow, 4 Bro. P. C. 495. Id.

A party cannot move upon a master's report to bring the cause on for further directions, till the report is confirmed. Smith v. Reynolds, Mos. 71. PR. MOTION; PR. FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

(f) Separate report, and what acts may be done, without waiting for general report.

Master may make separate reports as he shall deem expedient. 70th Gen. Ord. 3rd April, 1828.

In separate report as to debts and legacies, he may certify as he pleases on state of the assets. 71st Gen. Ord. Id.

Report of insufficient answer, when to be produced. Beame's Ord. 53.

A separate report is never allowed, except for the purpose of expediting the general proceedings. Hare v. Ruscombe, 1 M'Clel. 101. S. C. 13 Price, 277.

Motion by plaintiffs to restrain masters from making a separate report, until a month after the trial of an indictment for perjury, upon affidavit carried on by that party in support of charges, or until further order, or that the report might be without prejudice to plaintiff's thereafter prosecuting his claims, refused with costs. Bolaffey v. Bendelack, 1 M'Clel. 573.

If testator's personality paid into court be clearly more than sufficient for payment of debts, legacies, &c. &c. so that there is no occasion to resort to the produce of the estate devised to be sold for the purpose of creating a subsidiary fund for exigencies of will, court will proceed to decree execution of trusts in exoneration of fund, without waiting for a final report, which would in strictness be necessary, or until the devised property should be sold. Noel v. Henley, 7 Price, 248. EXECUTION OF TRUSTS OF WILL.

Court of exchequer will not direct dep. rememb. to proceed to make a general report, until the previous orders for separate reports are regularly disposed of, although he have before him a full statement of facts. Lewis v. Morgan, 3 Price, 175.

Separate report under circumstances allowed as to costs alone, without waiting for general report in the cause. Eids v. Rose, 2 Mad. 448. PR. COSTS.

Where estate is devised to infants charged with payment of debts, if personal insufficient, sale of real not decreed till master report personal insufficient, though infants at hearing admit it to be so. Birch v. Glover, 4 Mad. 376. INFANT, WHEN BOUND BY ADMISSIONS; PR. SALE WHEN DIRECTED; TRUST TO PAY DEBTS.

Arrears of annuity ordered to be paid to widow and executrix, although no report of debts had been made, it being stated, by her answer, that there was no deficiency of assets. Skinner v. Sweet, Coop. 54. PR. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT; ANNUITY, ARREARS OF.

Sale of real estate decreed provisionally, without waiting the account of the personal estate previously applicable. Curtis v. Price, 12 Ves. 105. SALE OF REAL ESTATE; PR. DECREE.

Before report, court refused to order balance of charges allowed against defendant upon account, and the whole alleged in his discharge to be paid into court, upon certificate by the master, and defendant's examination before him, but also refused a motion to take the certificate off the file. Fox v. Mackreth, 1 Ves. J. 69. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

A separate report directed, of what was due to a doweress, without entangling her in a general account of incumbrances. Eccleston v. Berkeley, Ridg. 263. ACCOUNT.

(g) Certificate, when necessary.

On application, the master shall certify the several proceedings which have taken place in his office. 57th Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

Upon a reference to the master, it being necessary (to enable him to make his report) to have the evidence of entries in the books of the bank of England, the master is bound to grant his certificate, in order to justify the bank in permitting an inspection, ra-than compel the parties, by his refusal, to file their bill for a discovery. Brace v. Ormond, 1 Mer. 409. PR. INSPECTION OF DEEDS, &c.; BANK OF ENGLAND.

The master not ordered to certify whether he was satisfied with the production of the papers by a party. Cotton v. Harvey, 12 Ves. 391. PR. PRODUCTION OF PAPERS.

No certificate by a master as by accountant general; but there must be a report in order to take notice of any thing in master's office. For v. Mackreth, 1 Ves. J. 70. PR. PROCEEDINGS IN MASTER'S OFFICE.

A commission for the examination of witnesses to falsify an examination of a party before a master cannot be had without the usual certificate from the master of the necessity of such a commission. Fearcroft v. Berkeley, 2 Cox, 108. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE.

(1) General orders.

Exceptions to reports must be filed with the register. Beane's Orders, 211.

Deposit and costs thereon. Id. 211. 236. 267. 289. 316. 326. 459.

To be entered by register in paper. Id. 211.

And notice given by exceptant to clerk of other side. Id. 211. 292.

Not to be filed by register (if concerning sufficiency of answer) unless brought and filed, and notice given to clerk of other side. Id. 254.

Notice of exceptions to be set up in the register's office two days before hearing. Id. 254.

Exceptions not admitted (if relating to sufficiency of answer), unless filed with register within eight days after subpoena for costs of answer, &c. Id. 258.

Though exceptions are allowed, yet if party brought not in objections to master, he shall pay costs. Id. 269.

If exceptions to report, as to paying money into court, are admitted after time for filing is out, proceedings on report not to be stayed without bringing money into court. Id. 261.

The order containing the three last positions suspended. Id. 294.

Good cause of exception that affidavit, ground of report, was not filed before report passed. Id. 307.

(2) When proper or necessary, and of obtaining leave of court.

The general rule is, that where the report of the deputy remembrancer may be excepted to, it requires confirmation; but the case of trustees approved of by him, is an exception: there the report is good, unless excepted to. Gen. Order, 18th June, 1792.

In equity, the proper mode in this court of objecting to the master's taxation of costs, is to move upon affidavits, stating the ground of objection, for leave to file exceptions to the report. Wright v.

Southwood, 1 Y. & J. 420. PR. TAXATION OF COSTS.

The master's certificate, as to production of books, &c. by a party, cannot be excepted to; a motion must be made to quash it. Jones v. Powell, 1 Sim. 387.

If a general exception is taken to a master's report, and the court is of opinion that the master is right in any one particular, the exception must be overruled. Green v. Weaver, 1 Sim. 404.

Exceptions cannot be taken to master's report approving new trustee; nor will court interfere with report where there is no complaint that persons approved of are unfit. Att. Gen. v. Dyson, 2 S. & S. 523. TRUSTEE.

Where party objects to principle on which account is taken by master, he should except to report; and if he neglects to do so, it will not be sent back to be reviewed, though in fact taken on an erroneous principle. Brown v. Sansome, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 427.

Where exceptions will lie to master's report, it must be regularly confirmed before an order can be made upon it. Scott v. Livesey, 2 S. & S. 300. PR. CONFIRMATION OF MASTER'S REPORT.

Leave must be obtained previous to filing exceptions to master's certificate. Thornha v. Pellatt, 11 Price, 732.

After an answer has been reported insufficient, an order to amend, and for the defendant to answer amendments and exceptions together, prevents the defendant from taking exceptions to the report, if it be served before the exceptions are set down. Farquharson v. Balfour, 1 Jac. 587. PR. ORDER TO AMEND.

An order inconsistent with the original decree cannot be made upon exceptions to the report. Brown v. De Tastet, 1 Jac. 284. PR. ORDER.

The application for leave to file exceptions to master's certificate of taxation of costs must be made on affidavit, stating the facts on which exceptions are founded, and the notice of motion should state the exceptions intended to be filed, and the ground of exception. Jenkinson v. Royston, 9 Price, 215. S.P. Oliver v. Court, id. 216. note.

Leave given to except to master's report of costs, on payment of taxed costs into court. Exp. Leigh, 4 Mad. 394. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

If master reports that certain admissions were made before him, and exceptions are taken to such statements of admissions in the report, the court cannot allow such exceptions without consulting the master as to the fact of such admissions. E. J. Comp. v. Keighley, 4 Mad. 16.

Master by report had refused to allow discharge for want of sufficient evidence. To support exceptions thereto, it must be shewn, that from the evidence before him master ought to have allowed it, and a distinct motion must be made to order him to receive additional evidence in support of discharge. Redifer v. O'Brien, 3 Mad. 43.

Exceptions do not lie to master's report as to costs, nor can there be a re-taxation as to quantum. Irregularity in proceedings, or master acting on mistaken principle, will induce court to interfere. Fenton v. Crickett, 3 Mad. 496. COSTS.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken after impertinence is expunged, nor without special order, while the order to expunge remains in force. A report of impertinence having been obtained by surprise, the master was ordered to abstain from acting under the order to expunge until exceptions had been argued. Mortimer v. West, 3 Swan. 228. PR. IMPERTINENCE; PR. ORDER TO EXPUNGE.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken nor set down for argument after an order to expunge without special leave. Wadman v. Birch,

PUNGE.

Purchaser who is dissatisfied with deputy remembrancer's report of title of premises sold under decree, must move for leave to file exceptions thereto, otherwise the motion to confirm may be made absolute in the first instance, but on moving, if prepared, he may show exceptions instant. Eyton v. Dicken, 4 Price, 303.
PR. SALES JUDICIAL.

Exceptions to master's report in favour of title of vendor of bishop's lease, on ground of non-produce-tion of bishop's title, overruled. Fane v. Spencer,
2 Mad. 438. TITLE; VEND. & PURCH.

To maintain an exception to the master's appointment of a receiver, a strong case of disqualification is necessary. Sharpe v. Sharpe, 12 Ves. 317. PR.
RECEIVER, APPT. OF.

Exception to report in favour of title on ground that reversion in fee might have been disposed of, so as not to have descended to heir from whom the title was derived, overruled. Sperling v. Trevor, 7 Ves.
497.

Upon further directions a question decided by master was opened without any exception, all the circumstances appearing by report. Adams v. Claxton, 6 Ves. 226. PR. FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

Objections to master's report settling interrogatories must be taken by exceptions, not by petition, as an objection to appointment of receiver. Hughes v.
Williams, 6 Ves. 459. PR. INTERROGATORIES.

Plaintiff may except to the report, and at the same time set down the cause for farther directions. Yeo v.
Frere, 5 Ves. 424. PR. SETTING DOWN CAUSE FOR FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

ceiver disallowed. Wilkins v. Williams, 3 Ves. 588.
PR. RECEIVER.

Bill by devisees in trust to sell, for specific performance of an agreement to purchase, that the heir of the devisor is not a party to the suit, is not matter of exception to the report in favour of the title. Wake- man v. Dk. Rutland, 3 Ves. 234. PL. PARTY; HEIR AT LAW.

Exceptions are not regularly taken to the master's report for costs only, but should be by petition. Pitt
v. Mackreth, 3 Bro. C. C. 321. PR. COSTS; PR.
PETITION.

Exceptions to a master's report of a proper person to be receiver, overruled, as the report ought to stand till the party approved is impeached as an improper person. Creuse v. Hp. London, 2 Bro. C. C. 253.
PR. RECEIVER, APPT. OF.

Proper way to bring report appointing receiver before court, is by exceptions to it. S. C. Dick. 687.

Where an exception is taken to a master's report including several distinct matters, and the report appears right in any one instance, the exceptions must be overruled. Hodges v. Salmons, 1 Cox, 249.

A master's report on a reference to inquire whether a suit instituted in the name of an infant by a pro-chain ami was necessary, is not a subject for exceptions; but any objection to it must be made on the motion to confirm the report. Whittaker v. Mar-
lar, 1 Cox, 285. PR. MOTION; PR. PROCHAIN AMI.

Exceptions will not lie to a master's report of maintenance, and a title set up against that of the infant cannot be taken notice of, but must be established elsewhere. Exp. Nichols, 1 Bro. C. C. 577.
MAINTENANCE.

In exchequer, if defendant conceives himself aggrieved by report, he must file exceptions thereto, and such exceptions must be set down to be argued in court. But if no exceptions are taken, the court confirms the report as of course, and thereupon gives the proper directions. Kaye v. Bruere, 2 Bro. C. C.

420. PR. REPORT.

Exceptions do not lie to master's certificate of his having settled interrogatories. Stanford v. Tudor, Dick. 548.

Exceptions allowed to be taken to report, though confirmed, and though none taken to draft. Allen v.
Allen, Dick. 362.

When accounts, &c. are referred to commissioners of bankrupt, their jurisdiction and proceedings are contiguous to accounts taken before a master in a suit in equity, and also to that of auditors, under the old action of account at law. In the case of exceptions to the report of a master or the certificate of commissioners, they must be founded on objections made before the master or commissioners. If the master, &c. varies his report, &c. on the objections, the other party may except as to such parts, though the exceptant be not strictly warranted by the objections; commissioners, as well as a master, may proceed ex parte, if the parties will not attend. Exp. Bar, 2 Ves. 388. BANKCY. COMMISSIONERS, POWERS OF;
ACCOUNT TAKEN BEFORE; ACCOUNT, HOW TAKEN.

A defendant who did not except to the first report of insufficiency of an answer: held not absolutely excluded from insisting on the same matter in his second answer. Finch v. Finch, 2 Ves. 491.

On reference to master's opinion no exceptions thereto to be taken, but court to judge and determine.
Neal v. Billing, Dick. 93.

If the plaintiff moves to confirm a report nisi, and the defendant shews exceptions for cause, the plaintiff may except also. Anon. Mos. 305.

(3) Form of.

Exception to the report and in general terms that the master had reported the examination sufficient, whereas he ought to have reported it insufficient, is regular, but not to be encouraged, and therefore being overruled, costs beyond the deposit were given. Pur- cell v. McNamara, 12 Ves. 166. PR. EXCEPTIONS, DEPOSIT ON; PR. COSTS.

Exception will not lie to a master's report of the appointment of a receiver, without shewing that the person appointed is improper. Thomas v. Dawkin, 3 Bro. C. C. 508. S. C. 1 Ves. J. 452. PR. RE-CEIVER, APPT. OF.

If bill be referred for impertinence, and master report it pertinent, defendant may except generally, without specifying the parts of the bill which are impertinent. Mackworth v. Briggs, 2 Atk. 182. S. C.
Dick. 81. IMPERTINENCE.

On an answer being reported scandalous or impertinent, if the plaintiff except to the report, he must show specially wherein it is scandalous or impertinent.
Craven v. Wright, 2 P. W. 181. PR. ANSWER;
REF. FOR SCANDAL.

Bill by devisees in trust to sell, for specific performance of an agreement to purchase; exception to the report in favour of the title that the persons entitled to the purchase money, subject to debts, legacies, and other charges, were not parties to the suit; the Ld. Ch. was of opinion they ought not to be parties to the conveyance, and if they were, their covenant ought to extend only to their own acts and those of the devisor, not to a general warranty without a special contract for it; but as the point must come properly upon objections to the conveyance, the exception was overruled upon the form. Wake-
man v. Ds. of Rutland, 3 Ves. 233. PL. PARTY; CESTUI QUE TRUST.

(4) Deposit on.

Deposit on exceptions to master's report shall be 10l. 41 Gen. Ord. 3rd April, 1828. See Beame's
Ord. p. 211. 236. 267. 289. 316. 326. 459.

Exceptions to the report and in general terms that the master had reported the examination sufficient, whereas he ought to have reported it insufficient, is regular, but not to be encouraged, and therefore being overruled, costs beyond the deposit were given. Purcell v. M'Namara, 12 Ves. 166. PR. EXCEPTIONS, DEPOSIT ON; PR. COSTS.

A party having prevailed in some exceptions to the master's report and failed in others, the court in this instance ordered the deposit to be returned. The court has, however, of late years ordered the deposit to be divided. Parker v. Prout, 4 Bro. C. C. 4.

(5) Time of filing, and effect of.

An exception may be regularly filed to the master's report, as to impertinence, after the order to expunge, and at any time before the impertinent matter is actually expunged. David v. Williams, 1 Sim. 17. PR. MASTER'S REPORT OF IMPERTINENCE.

Order to dissolve injunction nisi may be obtained, though plaintiff has excepted to master's report as to sufficiency of answer. Merest v. Coster, 1 S. & S. 486. PR. INJUNC.

If sum be reported due, and exceptions are taken to report, the money will not, on motion, be ordered to be paid into court. Creak v. Capels, 6 Mad. 114. PR. PAYMT. INTO COURT; PR. MOTION.

Filing exceptions alone does not prevent the confirmation of a report; they must be set down. Mole v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 670. S. P. Abel v. Nodds, 2 Cox, 169. PR. REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

Defendant permitted to take exceptions to a report after confirmation, without having taken objections. Allen v. Allen, 1 Swan. 153. PR. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT.

Exceptions permitted with reference to one subject of inquiry, after exceptions to the same report, with reference to another subject, allowed, or overruled, on argument. Hawkins v. Day, 1 Swan. 160.

If, by mistake or surprise, objections are not carried in upon a warrant to settle report, the court will allow the party to file exceptions. Bowker v. Nickson, 3 Mad. 439.

Exceptions to a report of impertinence may be taken after an order to expunge, until that order has been acted upon. Not necessary to take objections before the master, previous to excepting to a report of impertinence. Under the circumstances of the case, the defendant was at liberty to take a general exception, without setting out the particulars in which he alleged the report to be erroneous. Norway v. Rowe, 1 Mer. 135. PR. ORDER TO EXPUNGE.

Exceptions allowed to be taken to master's report, though no objections before master while report was in draft, and report confirmed nisi, a special case being made. Pennington v. Ld. Muncaster, 1 Mad. 555.

Exception under the circumstances allowed to be taken nunc pro tunc to the master's report of insufficiency of answer, though after the report was made, a plea and further answer were put in, and the plea overruled. Noel v. Ward, 1 Mad. 339. PR. EXCEPTIONS, NUNC PRO TUNC.

The right to process under an undertaking for a serjeant at arms, &c., immediately on exceptions to the report of an insufficient answer disallowed, is waived by plaintiff's taking out a subpoena for a better answer, and excepting to the report entitling defendant to eight days after the exceptions are disposed of. Algar v. Regent's Canal Comp., 19 Ves. 379. S. C. Coop. 221. WAIVER; PR. PROCESS; SERJEANT AT ARMS; PR. ANSWER, INSUFF. OF.

Exceptions to a report may be taken off the file, if filed after the report has been confirmed absolute. Sterling v. Thompson, Coop. 271. PR. TAKING

PLEADINGS OFF FILE; PR. REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

Exception to the master's report, as to impertinence, is not cause against dissolving an injunction. Corson v. Stirling, Coop. 93. PR. INJUNC., CAUSE AGAINST DISSOLVING.

On an application to dissolve an injunction nisi, on the coming of the answer, the plaintiff shewed exceptions for cause, with the usual undertaking to procure the master's report in four days: the master reported the answer to be sufficient, to which report the plaintiff excepted. The injunction is dissolved, notwithstanding the plaintiff's exceptions. Botham v. Clark, 2 Cox, 428. PR. INJUNC., DISSOLUTION OF.

Exceptions taken to report one hour before it is signed, are too late. Anon. 1 Anst. 277. LAQUES.

Filing exceptions is not cause against confirmation of report; they must be set down to be argued. Hall v. Mullinger, Dick. 604. Abel v. Nodds, id. 790.

Exceptions taken to report, though confirmed, and none taken to draft. Allen v. Allen, Dick. 362.

Master to review report, in order that exceptions may be taken. Vallance v. Weldon, Dick. 290.

There is a difference in consideration of law, and the strict rules of the court, as to the case of a lunatic being let in to take exceptions to a master's report after its being confirmed, and that of an infant, but it is equally open to the discretion of the court, in either case. El. Bath v. El. Bradford, 2 Ves. 587.

Confirmation of master's report opened, and the report allowed to be excepted to or reviewed, under particular circumstances, although previous exceptions had been disallowed after argument. Hawkins v. Day, 1 Ves. 189. PR. MASTER'S REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

(6) Setting down, hearing, and arguing.

Party exhibiting interrogatories before master for examination of adverse party, cannot set down exceptions taken to examination for insufficiency, to be argued before the court, but must obtain an order to refer it to master, to review his report, and to report thereon, with liberty to except. Gen. Order, 23 May, 10 Price, 169.

Exceptions to the master's report of the insufficiency of a fourth answer, ordered to be heard immediately, upon the terms of the defendant's rendering himself amenable to process. Farquharson v. Balfour, 1 Turn. & R. 188.

Where, in foreclosure suit, exceptions are taken to the master's report, and the time appointed for payment of the mortgage money is likely to elapse before the exceptions are heard, the defendant should apply to the court, upon the exceptions being filed, to have the time enlarged until the exceptions are disposed of. Renvoise v. Cooper, 1 S. & S. 364. PR. MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE; PR. ENLARGEMENT OF TIME.

Exceptions to master's report, under decree at rolls, may be set down before Ld. Ch. Burdon v. Burdon, 9 Ves. 499. JURISDIC.

After an order for confirming the report nisi, filing exceptions, and making the deposit with the registrar, are no cause to prevent that order being made absolute, unless an order for setting down the exceptions to be argued is obtained, which may be done either by the plaintiff or defendant. The order confirming the report was discharged on payment of cost. Gillard v. Moss, 4 Ves. 617. PR. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT; PR. ORDER NISI.

Upon exceptions to master's report, affidavits made subsequent to it cannot be read, notwithstanding the affidavits of the adverse party were filed but the evening before the report. Davis v. Davis, 2 Atk. 21. PR. EVID. AFFIDAVITS WHEN READ.

(7) Allowance and overruling, effect of.

Where exceptions are taken to the master's certificate of the taxation of costs, on the ground that he has not charged the solicitor with all the monies received by him with which he ought to have been charged, and such exceptions are allowed, and the master directed to review his report in that respect, the court does not give the exceptant the costs of such proceedings, on the ground that they are necessary to correct a mistake, or misapprehension of the master. Wright v. Smithwood, 1 Y. & J. 527. Pr. Costs.

If exceptions taken to the report of a good title be overruled, other objections cannot be made; but if exceptions allowed, and new abstract of title delivered, other objection may be made. Brooke v. —, 4 Mad. 212. Title.

If a bill be referred for scandal and impertinence, and so reported, exceptions being taken to the report and allowed, the plaintiff shall have the costs of the reference; but he shall not, on exceptions being allowed to the master's report of irregularity. Broomfield v. Chichester, Amb. 464. Pr. Costs.

Reference before master in favour of defendant, on exceptions overruled; defendant does not pay costs of reference. Stevens v. Long, Dick. 282.

When the first answer is reported insufficient, the defendant, if he answer again without excepting, is to answer all the points objected to, though the same exceed the bill. Crispe v. Neville, 1 C. C. 60. Pr. Answer.

LVII. MESSENGER.

See also BANKRU. VI. 14. (c)

A messenger, ordered to bring up defendant, dies, sergeant-at-arms will be ordered to go. Macnab v. Mensel, 2 Sim. 16.

The messenger, having defendant in custody under an attachment, and having afterwards let him go at large upon his undertaking to pay the costs, cannot use the process to compel payment. Jenkins v. Sandys, 1 Jac. 233. Pr. Costs.

Where defendant has been arrested on an attachment for contempt in not appearing to subpoena ad respond. court will not grant motion for a messenger to bring up the body if he have given a bail bond to sheriff, though the penalty be very inadequate to the occasion. Birdwood v. Hart, 6 Price, 32.

Where defendant resided in Lancashire, and sheriff had returned cepi corpus; on a habeas corpus being moved for, V. C. said the motion ought to be for a messenger, and afterwards for a sequestration. Holme v. Cardwell, 3 Mad. 114; but see Anon. Wyatt, 1 Pr. Reg. 392.

A defendant, having filed an answer and demurrer after a cepi corpus, returned on an attachment for not answering, an order for a messenger obtained before the demurrer and answer (of which the plaintiffs had bespoken an office copy) had been taken off the file, discharged with costs. Curzon v. De la Zouch, 1 Swan. 189. Pr. DEMURRER.

Commitment for contempt in assaulting the deputy messenger in discharge of his duty. Elliot v. Halmaraek, 1 Mer. 302. CONTEMPT.

Where an order for a messenger has been issued against a sheriff for contempt, in not returning attachment against defendant for not putting in answer, (other attachments having been issued before), it is peremptory, and court will not stay the order although it go to affect the sheriff not in office at the time of alleged original neglect, nor will they enlarge the time limited by the order. Thomas v. Mathias, 2 Price, 32. Pr. ATTACHMENT AGAINST SHERIFF.

The previous order to high sheriff to return the process may be well served on his under sheriff. Id. ib.

The messenger, under a commission of bankruptcy, was put out of possession of property on board a ship by threatening to throw him overboard, the parties also using contemptuous language; ordered to give security for answering the bankrupt's interest. An indemnity given against the consequences of a contempt involves the party giving it. Exp. Dixon, 8 Ves. 104. CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Return to an attachment for want of appearance cepi corpus, but, from illness and infirmity, she could not be removed, a messenger was ordered. Miles v. Lingham, 7 Ves. 230.

A motion for a messenger upon a cepi corpus returned, now is a motion of course, though formerly the court allowed messengers to those particular jurisdictions only where the sheriff had the amercements themselves, but the rule is now to send a messenger into every county generally without any restriction. Anon. 2 Atk. 507.

Plaintiff always pays messenger sent to bring up infant. Perkins v. Hammond, Dick. 287.

When the sheriff has the amercement, as in London, the course was for the court to grant a messenger, and order the sheriff to being in the body, or else the sheriff to pay the plaintiff all the costs. Anon. 2 P. W. 301.

The sheriff cannot take a bail bond upon an attachment for not paying costs, but in such case a messenger is to go to bring in the party. Anon. Prec. Chan. 331. Pr. ATTACHMENT FOR COSTS; Pr. BAIL.

Motion for a messenger upon a cepi corpus returned by the sheriffs of London. Anon. 1 Vern. 116, and see Gibbs v. Cotton, id. 154.

LVII*. MISNOMER.

See also AMENDMENT, (the references there.)

Bill filed by feme covert stating her to be a spinster; her solicitor being ignorant of the marriage, and the husband of the suit till after the decree. On motion by consent, husband was permitted to prosecute the decree under terms. Farrer v. Watt, 5 Mad. 449. Pr. PARTY; HUSB. & WIFE; Pr. DECREE, PROSECUTION OF.

Where, in former pleadings, Christian name was mis-spelt, and it was in subsequent pleadings corrected, six clerk ordered to file the latter notwithstanding the variance. Faircloth v. Webb, 5 Mad. 73.

LIX. NEW TRIAL.

1. When granted.
2. How obtained and proceedings on.

1. When granted.

A new trial of an issue will not be granted merely because, on the former trial, evidence was rejected which ought to have been received. Neither will a new trial be granted merely because the judge made to the jury an inaccurate representation of the effect of the defendant's answer. Barker v. Ray, 2 Russ. 63. PR. ISSUE AT LAW.

The defendant having set up a farm modus in answer to a bill for tithes, issues were directed to try whether the ancient farm consisted of the lands mentioned in the answer, and whether a certain modus had been immemorially payable for the tithes arising upon it. The jury found that the farm consisted of these lands together, with four other places, and was covered by a modus. The circumstance that the jury found the ancient farm to consist of other lands besides those mentioned in the pleadings, is no ground for a new trial, unless the plaintiff can shew that he has evidence with respect to those four closes, which upon the supposition that they are parcels of the alleged ancient farm, might materially vary the substance of the case. Bailey v. Sewell, 1 Russ. 239. TITHES; MODUS.

Dissatisfaction expressed by judge at verdict on trial of issue, how far ground for new trial. Atkins v. Drake, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 213. ISSUE AT LAW.

Court will not direct new trial of issue on ground of evidence adduced on former trial, where that evidence was a surprise on the other party, and tended to defeat the intention of the court, in directing the former issue. Carrington v. Jones, 2 S. & S. 15. EVIDENCE; ISSUE AT LAW.

At the trial of an issue to ascertain whether one of defendants, a layman, was entitled to tithes, or a modus in lieu of tithes of certain lands, it was proved that a payment, described as a tithe or rate-tithe issuing out of the lands in question, had been conveyed by defendant's title-deeds for the last one hundred and fifty years, and that this payment had been received by him and his ancestors, and that no tithe had ever been paid to plaintiff, the rector, within living memory, and a verdict was found for defendant. Motion for new trial refused. Williams v. Bacon, 1 S. & S. 415. ISSUE AT LAW; TITHES; EVIDENCE.

New trial of an issue granted, the verdict being unsatisfactory, from the circumstances under which the jury returned it. F. I. Comp. v. Bassett, 1 Jac. 91.

No new trial upon the improper rejection of evidence, if the court, judging upon the whole record, is satisfied that the verdict is right. Bootle v. Blundell, 19 Ves. 503.

The improper rejection of written evidence no ground for granting a new trial of an issue: the court being satisfied with the verdict upon all the evidence, including that rejected. Hampson v. Hampson, 3 V. & B. 41.

Two wills originally duplicates, but one altered and cancelled, and a codicil without date. After three verdicts for the devise, the Ld. Ch. being satisfied with the result of the third trial, refusing a fourth. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 13 Ves. 290.

The granting a new trial of issue is discretionary, if justice has been done on the whole, though some evidence may be improperly rejected at law. S. C. 11 Ves. 52.

On application for new trial, not sufficient to shew that injustice has been done; it must be shewn that the court is warranted to interfere. Bateman v. Willoe, 1 Scho. & L. 204.

After two trials at bar in favour of claimants of tithes under decree, and act of parliament, upon issue, whether any and what less sum had been paid, a new trial was refused, though evidence was rejected that ought to have been received as material. Wardens, &c. of St. Paul's v. Morris, 9 Ves. 155.

There is no doubt upon the right of chancery to grant a new trial, after trial at bar. Id. 165. JURISDICTION.

New trial refused, after two verdicts against dea-and a will, for fraud. Byles v. Graves, 2 Ves. J. 287.

After verdict on issue directed, new trial, on account of having farther evidence to produce, refused; there being no fraud or surprise, but the evidence having been kept back by the party applying, though the court was much dissatisfied with the verdict. Standen v. Edwards, 1 Ves. J. 133. PR. EVIDENCE.

Under what circumstances a new trial of an issue directed to try vicar's right to tithes, ought to be refused. Brownlow v. Deric, 7 Bro. P. C. 83.

New trial granted of issue to try whether, at given time, act of bankruptcy had been committed, founded on general assignment of bankrupt's effects, where not indebted, and in full credit. Hassel v. Simpson, Dick. 583.

Courts of equity may direct new trials in suspicious cases, and even where fraud or forgery is imputed in will. Salter v. Hill, 7 Bro. P. C. 189. JURISDICTION.

Under what circumstances a new trial, after trial of second issue, may be granted. Ashe v. Ash, 7 Bro. P. C. 149. S. P. Pomfret v. Smith, id. 169.

New trials granted in issues directed to try the right of the soil, though the judge certified in favour of the verdict, as there was no precedent of a decree, where the inheritance would be bound, being made upon one verdict only. El. Darlington v. Bowes, 1 Eden. 270.

New trial for misdirection of the judge, and absence of a material witness. Cleeve v. Gascoigne, Amb. 323.

If, on issue directed, the judge certifies that the weight of evidence was against the verdict, court will order a new trial. If a verdict is not against evidence a court of law cannot grant a new trial, but a court of equity will, for the verdict must satisfy the conscience of the court. Faulconberg v. Peirce, Amb. 210.

Courts of equity are much less strict in granting new trials than courts of law, it being necessary, not that the question should be decided to the satisfaction of others, though ever so often, but that the conscience of the court itself should be quite satisfied. Stace v. Mahbott, 2 Ves. 553.

New trials of modern introduction, and to avoid difficulties in case of attain. Id. ib.

Granted here in case of inheritance, or of value, or where the court was not satisfied, particularly on forestry. Id. ib.

No new trial, where there must be the same issues, and no surprise, &c. on the former trial; infancy no ground for it in such a case. Parsons v. Lane, 1 Ves. 192.

The court, for the more solemn determination in some cases, directs a second trial, without setting aside the first verdict; for otherwise the party in whose favour the first verdict was given, would lose the benefit of urging it in his favour. Baker v. Hart, 1 Ves. 29. 3 Atk. 542.

Where the court thought the evidence newly discovered, ought not to be the foundation for a different verdict, a new trial was refused. Colgrave v. Juson, 3 Atk. 197.

New trial only granted where it appears necessary, to justice of case, and new evidence not obtainable on former trial. Montgomery v. Att. Gen., 9 Mod. 388.

The court will not grant a new trial upon a suggestion that the party was not apprised of a particular evidence, and therefore not prepared to give an answer. Richards v. Symes, 2 Atk. 319.

A distinction was taken formerly between trials at bar and at nisi prius; but in the case of the queen and the bailiffs and burgesses of Bewdley, eleven judges against one determined a new trial ought to be granted. Id.

The intent of directing issues here is only to inform the conscience of the court, and therefore not tied down to the same strictness of verdicts as courts of common law. Ib.

Notice to defendant before the trial, that the plaintiff will prove a person to be abroad, though it does not point out the particular place where, is sufficient for the defendant to be prepared to encounter this evidence. Ib.

If there is evidence plaintiff is not apprised of, he may suffer a nonsuit, and on his coming back to this court, it would order another issue at law, notwithstanding the nonsuit. Ib.

Verdicts being recovered in Suffolk by F there, against L, L brought his bill for a new trial in a different county; bill dismissed. Tovey v. Young, 2 Vern. 437. Prec. Ch. 193. S. C.

If a witness be convicted of perjury, or the party of forgery, it is good cause for a new trial. Tilly v. Whorton, 2 Vern. 379.

Bill for a new trial; plaintiff suggesting that the mark to the bond was forged by one W, and all the pretended witnesses to the bond were dead, and that the verdict was recovered by surprise; a new trial ordered. Codrington v. Welch, 2 Vern. 240.

A new trial granted to an issue directed, the matter in question being of value, and concerning all the copyholds in the manor. Edwin v. Thomas, 2 Vern. 75.

The grounds for a new trial are, new evidence discovered which could not possibly be made use of in the first, perjury in the witnesses, partiality in the jurors, &c. all which must be made out to the satisfaction of the court. Sevell v. Freeston, 1 Ch. Ca. 65. But it is a rule that the court will not set aside a trial at law for any matter which might have been made use of at the trial. Curtis v. Smalbridge, 1 Ch. Ca. 23. 2 Freem. 178.

Nothing is allowed as a ground for a new trial after judgment, or that is not ground for a bill of review. S. C. Ib.

How obtained and proceedings on.

Application for new trial must be to the judge who directed the issue. 47th Gen. Ord. 3d April 1828.

Motions in exchequer for new trial of issue directed from equity side of court, are not subject to the rule requiring such motions to be made within the first four days of the following term. They may be made at any time during the succeeding term, or the sittings after, but they should, in the first instance, be made before the Ld. C. Baron, sitting alone in equity, if they arise out of causes pending before him. Pulley v. Hilton, 11 Price, 380.

Form of issue not changed on a motion for a new trial. White v. Lisle, 3 Swan. 351.

Previous to motion for new trial of issue, it is not motion of course to obtain judge's report of trial at law. Mem. 6 Mad. 58. PR. JUDGE'S REPORT.

New trial of an issue on the validity of a modus; two new trials having been ordered for misdirection, and the verdict on the third trial, as in the two former, being in favour of the defendant, the plaintiff was ordered to pay the costs of the applications in equity, (except those of the first application to the lord chancellor), and the costs of the last trial at law. White v. Lisle, 3 Swan. 342. PR. COSTS.

In an issue, and in an action directed by the court, the practice varies. In the first, the motion for a new trial must be made by the court directing it; in the second, to that in which it is tried. Nor is this rule affected by any special provisions by which the direction of the action is accompanied. Curtis v. Stein, 2 Rose, 178. PR. ACTION DIRECTED BY COURT.

Where the court of chancery directs an action to be tried at law, though it is with special directions, as that the bankruptcy of the defendant shall not be pleaded in bar, and that the parties shall be examined on oath, the application for a new trial must be to the court of law, but it is otherwise with an issue. Exp. Kensington, Coop. 96. PR. ACTION AT LAW DIRECTED BY CHANCERY.

When a motion for a new trial, has been refused at the rolls, upon an issue directed by the M. R. the Ld. Ch. will not, by way of appeal, entertain a similar application. Bourke v. Rothwell, 3 Ball & B. 56. PR. APPEAL.

Issue at law directed at rolls; a motion for new trial may be made before Ld. Ch. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 11 Ves. 50.

An action having been commenced on the petty bag side of the court of chancery, but tried in K. B., an application for a new trial must be made in K. B. and not in the court of chancery. Exp. Barker, 1 Cox, 418.

It gave B, as his bailiff, a general authority to accept bills for him. B accepted several without the knowledge of H, and discounted them at H's bankers, and applied the money to his own use, and then died. The bankers afterwards obtained a bond from H, for the balance of his account with them, including the several bills so accepted by B. On a bill to set aside this bond as improperly obtained from H, the court directed the bankers to sue plaintiffs at law on these bills. The bankers selected some of these bills on which they brought their actions, and which were just sufficient to cover their demand; but on the trial there appeared a receipt indorsed on one of them, and the jury for that reason gave a verdict against the bankers on that bill, and for them on all the rest. There was no application for a new trial; but when the cause was set down again, the bankers applied to prove their demand on some other of the bills; held, that the remedy (if any) must be by motion or petition for a new trial; but the court would not assist the bankers to rectify their own inadvertence. Holworthy v. Mortlock, 1 Cox, 141.

Liberty given to bring action to try right, and verdict for defendant; motion for new trial must be to court where before tried. Fowkes v. Chadd, Dick. 576.

After two trials of an issue at the assizes, a third trial being directed, was ordered upon application of the plaintiff, to be tried at the bar of the King's Bench, instead of the assizes; the party who applied for the trial at bar agreeing to accept of nisi prius costs in the event of the verdict being in his favour. Baker v. Hart, 3 Atk. 546. Hite v. Salter, Dick. 495.

An original motion must be made for a new trial, the court will not answer a petition for it, where the cause comes on upon the equity reserved. Att. Gen. v. Montgomery, 2 Atk. 378.

Equity will not assist a party to make out a different case, upon a second trial at law, from that which he made upon the first. Cockburne v. Hussey, 2 Ridg. P. C. 504.

Where bankrupt committed by commissioners is brought up by habeas corpus, notice must be given to the assignees; and notice on Saturday afternoon for Monday, unless right to discharge is clear, is not sufficient. Bromley's Case, 2 J. & W. 403. PR. HABEAS CORPUS.

Where one of several defendants sets down cause, he is only bound to serve plaintiff, and plaintiff is bound to serve the other defendants. Smith v. Wells, 6 Mad. 193. See Clarke v. Dunn, 5 Mad. 474. PR. SETTING DOWN CAUSE.

Defendant committed for breach of an injunction after notice of its having been obtained, although the order for the injunction had not been served. Vansandau v. Rose, 2 Jac. & W. 264. INJUNCTION, BREACH OF; PR. CONTEMPT.

Where answer is to be taken by commission in which plaintiff joins, plaintiff is entitled to six days notice, of time and place of taking the answer, to be given to commissioner named by him, and such notice should be a six-day notice and signed by two commissioners. Pound v. Wildgoose, 8 Price, 102. PR. COMMISSION TO TAKE ANSWER.

Plaintiff amending without requiring a further answer, should call on the defendant for his office copy to be amended; but when, though he neglected this, the defendant was otherwise apprized that an amendment had been made, but permitted the cause to come to a hearing: held, that he could not then object. Woodhouse v. Meredith, 1 Jac. & W. 204. PR. BILL, AMENDMENT.

Notice "for Monday the 12th of January, being the first seal before Hilary Term," is good notice for the first seal, though held on Thursday the 15th January. Smith v. —, 1 Swan. 10.

Upon an order to proceed to trial upon two issues to try the validity of the commission, the plaintiff was to give notice in writing to the bankrupt of the acts intended to be relied on at the trial. Held, that the petitioner in his notice must specify the acts relied on, the times when they were committed, and the witnesses who will be called to prove them. Exp. Bogden, Buck, 137. BANKCY. ISSUE AT LAW.

Defendant being in court when order for injunction is made, is bound by it from that time, and not from formal service thereof only. Scott v. Becher, 4 Price, 346. PR. INJUNCTION; PR. SERVICE.

Court will not hear special cause against dismissal of bill, unless notice of cause intended to be shown, be previously given to defendant. Christie v. De Tastet, 1 Price, 242. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL, CAUSE AGAINST.

Breach of injunction after notice of the order, without personal service of the injunction or order.

Kimpton v. East, 2 V. & B. 240. INJUNCTION, BREACH OF.

Order made to dismiss the bill for want of prosecution after three terms, without replication of course, without notice, and pending an injunction staying execution. Naylor v. —, 16 Ves. 127. See id. note 85. S. F. JACKSON v. PENNELL, id. 204. PR. MOTION TO DISMISS FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION; PR. INJUNCTION.

In a writ to absolve a person unlawfully excommunicated, notice required. Borlase's Case, 16 Ves. 346. ABSOLUTION, WRIT OF.

The practice of personal service, as a foundation for process of contempt, dispensed with, where the party must have had notice; as upon being in court on making a short order for execution of a decree. Rider v. Wadder, 12 Ves. 202. De Manneville v. De Manneville, id. 203. PR. CONTEMPT; PR. SERVICE.

After a decree for an account in a suit by parties interested in the surplus, where due proceedings take place between the plaintiffs and defendants, there is no occasion to give notice to the creditors; costs having been given here in the first instance, they were to be paid before debts, &c. Hare v. Rose, 2 Ves. 558. ADMIN. OF ASSETS.

Where notice should be given of the issuing a commission for an inquest. Rev v. Daly, 1 Ves. 269. PR. COMMISSION OF INQUEST.

It does not excuse a party proceeding at law after injunction, that it was not served, for where a party or his solicitor have been present on an order for an injunction, they will be bound, although it be not sealed. Anon. 3 Atk. 567. INJUNCTION, BREACH OF.

If second feoffee to uses knows of first feoffment, he shall perform it, otherwise not. Cary, 10.

Suit to have award by assent decreed, both parties must have notice. Wakefield v. Hawson, id. 64.

Upon commission, notice given to one of defendants only; new commission granted, and defendant to have carriage. Hollingworth v. Lucy, id. 91.

Application, without notice to commit for contempt of process, ordered nisi causa, &c. on personal notice. Van v. Price, Dick. 91.

On death of prochain ami, plaintiff refusing to name prochain ami, defendant after ten days notice, to be at liberty to name one. Lancaster v. Thornton, id. 346.

2. Denial of notice.

If special notice of title is charged by bill, such notice must be denied as specially; a general demurrer is not sufficient. Radford v. Wilson, 3 Atk. 815. PL. ANSWER.

On plea of purchase for valuable consideration without notice of plaintiff's title, it is not sufficient to deny notice at or before the execution of the conveyance to him; he must aver that he had none at or before payment of the purchase money. Story v. Ld. Windsor, 2 Atk. 630. S. C. 1 Ch. Ca. 34. PL. PLEA; VENDOR & PURCHASER.

If a person purchase an estate which he sees has a defect upon the face of the deed, yet a fine will be a bar, for that defect is the very occasion of levying the fine. Secus, as to a purchase from a trustee a mortgagee. S. C. Id.

Denying notice of plaintiff's title at the time of the execution of the deed or payment of the consideration money is not sufficient, you must aver you had no notice at or before the execution. Fitzgerald v. Buck, 2 Atk. 397. PL. PLEA.

In a plea of a purchase, it is sufficient denial of notice to say that at the time of purchase, he had no notice, without saying of it any time before. Jones v.

Thomas, 3 P. W. 243. PL. PLEA; VENDOR & PURCHASER.

A defendant in a plea of a purchase for valuable consideration omits to deny notice, if the plaintiff replies to it, all the defendant has to do, is to prove his purchase, and it is not material if the plaintiff proves notice, for it was the plaintiff's own fault, that he did not set down the plea to be argued, in which case it would have been overruled. Harris v. Ingledew, 3 P. W. 94. Id.

Notice must be denied positively, not evasively. Cason v. Round, Prec. Chan. 226.

Bill by a dowress to remove trust term, defendant pleads himself a purchaser, but does not deny notice: ordered to answer. Bodmin v. Vandenbendy, 1 Vern. 179. PL. ANSWER; DOWER.

Amendment of plea allowed where error was occasioned by mistake of clerk of outlawries, and did not affect substance. Waters v. Mayhew, 1 S. & S. 220. PR. PLEA; AMENDMENT.

Where by the mistake of the registrar in the name of the cause, the order for dismissal was drawn up by defendants after the plaintiff had undertaken to speed the cause, the plaintiff must indemnify the defendants against the costs of the order. Hibbertson v. Cooke, 4 Mad. 248. PR. ORDER TO DISMISS; PR. COSTS.

Mistake being made in decree whereby accountant-general entered accounts in wrong names. Order was made that registrar should alter decree, and accountant-general his account books. Hawker v. Buncombe, 2 Mad. 391.

Depositions taken on the part of the plaintiff having been suppressed as against some of the defendants, on the ground of no notice until after publication, upon evidence that the omission arose from a mistake committed by the clerk to the plaintiff's solicitor, in giving at the examiner's office the name of the clerk in court for others of the defendants, as the name of the clerk in court for all the defendants, in consequence of which the plaintiff's witnesses were produced only at the seat of the clerk in court so named; and upon the examiner's certificate that the name of that clerk in court only was delivered to him, the lord chancellor gave to the defendants the option, either of permitting the plaintiff to re-examine the same witnesses, or of allowing the depositions to stand, with liberty for them to cross-examine those witnesses, and to examine others. Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 2 Mer. 81. PR. DEPOSITIONS, SUPPRESSION OF.

2. Accountant-general.

See also PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT. — PR. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT.

An act to provide, that property vested in the Accountant-general of the high court of chancery, as such, shall, upon his death, removal, or resignation, vest from time to time in those who shall succeed to the office. 64 G. 3. c. 14.

By order 26 May, 1725, masters of court are directed to deposit in bank of England, monies, bonds, tallies and other effects of the suitors of court which had been, or thereafter should be, under the direction of the court; and by another order 4th Nov. 1725, Beame's Ord. 340. the former was confirmed, with further directions as to the forms of paying, transferring, or drawing out any of such monies; and as to the mode in which the accounts should be kept. By the 12 Geo. 1. c. 32. s. 1. the said last mentioned orders are confirmed, and, by s. 3. & 4. a person appointed who is to do all such things relating to the suitor's money and effects as are by the said orders directed to be done by the masters and usher; such officer to be called "The Accountant-general of the court of chancery," who shall hold such office during the pleasure of the court, and shall stand in the place of the masters and usher, and shall receive no other fees from the master than is allowed by the said order (as to which, see Beame's Ord. Ch. 358. 360). By s. 5 & 7. transferable securities are to be taken in accountant-general's name, and to be vested in his successors. By the 23 & 24 Geo. 3. c. 22. (Irel.) a similar officer is created in Ireland, and by s. 14 & 15. a similar officer is provided for court of exchequer (Irel.) By the 30 Geo. 3. c. 41. s. 5. (Irel.) it is provided, that in case of sickness or absence of respective accountants-general of courts of chancery or exchequer, they may, with approbation in writing, of Lord Chancellor and Chief Baron (mutat. mutand.) appoint deputies, for whom they shall be answerable, and who shall receive no fees besides such as they are paid by the persons appointing them. The 4 G. 4. c. 7. fixes the salary and fees of the accountant-general (Irel.) and his officers. As to practice of accountant-general's office in England, see 1 Turn, &

Ves. 240. In exchequer, suitor's money was formerly paid and received through the hands of deputy remembrancer, the practice of whose office is regulated by order 17th July, 1747. See 1 Fowl. Ex. Pr. 335. But by 1 G. 4. c. 35. s. 2. the duties of deputy remembrancer of exchequer are transferred to an accountant-general (which office is created by act) to be appointed by lord chief baron; and all necessary directions are given as to forms of paying, transferring, and drawing out monies in hands of the accountant-general. By s. 8. it is provided that on the death, resignation or removal of accountant-general, all property in suitor's money vested in him, shall, ipso facto, become vested in his successors; similar provision to that made as to the accountant-general of the court of chancery by the 54 G. 3. c. 14.

Orders relating to accountant-general. Beame's Ord. 348. 359. 363.

Order as to small sums belonging to married women. Id. 464.

On petition for transfer of stock standing in the name of the accountant-general, subject to the order of the court, under a power in an act of parliament, the facts alleged being disproved, the petition is not dismissed, but an order made for the transfer to the persons appearing to be entitled. Exp. Williams, 1 Jac. & W. 89.

In Garrey v. Hibbert, 1 Jac. & W. 180. money was ordered to be paid under a power executed in America, attested by a notary, and authenticated by an American secretary of state. And an affidavit made before a mayor of a foreign town requires evidence of his holding that situation. S. C. So as to a magistrate. Hutchison v. Marmington, 6 Ves. 823.

The accountant-general being directed by an order in this cause to deliver to plaintiff, who resided at Paris, certain exchequer bills, plaintiff's solicitor, on application, obtained from the accountant-general a power of attorney to send to plaintiff for the purpose of enabling his solicitor to receive the bills, to which power were annexed the following instructions as to its execution: "This letter of attorney is to be executed in the presence of a notary, who will affix his official seal; it is requested that the chief magistrate of the place do certify that the person subscribing himself a notary public, is such, and that due credit may be given to his act and deed. The chief magistrate also affixes his official seal." The power was executed and authenticated by the notary as directed, but the notary at the same time certified that there was no chief magistrate, who, according to the French law, could give the certificate required; the accountant-general refusing to dispense with the chief magistrate's affixing his seal, unless by the order of the court, the vice chancellor granted an order accordingly, on condition that an affidavit was produced that the notary was such at Paris. Kinnaird v. Saltoun, 1 Mad. 227.

On a decree for payment of debts, if it appear on the pleadings that the creditor is an infant, the accountant-general will not pay such creditor though he has come of age, on a certificate of the baptism, but an order for the payment is necessary. Anon. 2 Mad. Chan. 582.

The rule of evidence in the accountant-general's office ought to be the same as in the court. Therefore, upon marriage of woman entitled to interest of fund for separate use, an affidavit was required beyond that of the marriage and identity, that there was no settlement or agreement for settlement, without prejudice to future cases. Clayton v. Gresham, 10 Ves. 288. Evms.

Where the court directs the payment of money by the accountant-general, and that the release which is to be executed by some of the parties should be settled by the master, in case the parties differ about it, the accountant-general may refuse to pay the money unless the release has been settled by the master, although all the parties interested attend him and give their consent; in such case an order must be applied for by consent of all parties, directing the accountant-general to pay the specific sum mentioned in the order for which the release has been executed pursuant to the decree or order. Elliott v. Booth, 1 Turn. & Ven. Pr. 243.

However small the sums, a prerogative probate is, in all cases, necessary to authorize the accountant-general in paying a testator's money out of court. Chollnor v. Murhall, 6 Ves. 118. Newman v. Hodgson, 7 Ves. 409. Thomas v. Davies, 12 Ves. 417.; though in Lord Thurlow's time, and until he put a stop to it, the sum on which an order for a prerogative probate could be obtained was limited to 40*l*. In Docker v. Horner, 3 Bro. C. C. 240. S. C. Dick. 746. it seems that the sum was limited to 30*l*.

Where a decree directed a sum to be paid into the hands of the accountant-general, he refused to receive a part of the sum without an order. Payne v. Collier, 1 Ves. J. 170.

Where money is directed by act of parliament to be paid to the accountant-general, he is bound by the act to receive it, and the court will not al an order for that purpose. Anon. in 56. P. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

A party entitled at twenty-one to money invested in the name of the accountant-general, petitioned that the money should still continue in his name, but the court refused to make such order, and compelled him to take the money. Isaac v. Compertz, id. 44.

Money in the funds belonging to wards of court cannot be transferred into the name of the accountant-general, to the credit of the cause, until the account is taken by a master, and his report made. Bencraft v. Rich, 1 Bro. C. C. 56.

Where money is, by order of court, paid into the accountant-general's hands, to be placed in the bank till it can be laid out according to the directions of a decree, if you move for an application of this money, you must have a certificate, not only that the money was paid in, but that it is actually in the bank at the time of the motion made. Anon. 1 Atk. 519.

A clerk in court and solicitor refusing to continue the conduct of a cause until his fees are paid, was ordered to produce an office copy of the bill to be marked. Mayne v. Watt, 3 Swan. 93.

Where a party is avoiding service, and the clerk in court is dead, the proper course is to move first, that service of a subpoena to name clerk in court on the solicitor may be good service; if none is named, then that service on the solicitor may be good service. *Franklyn v. On a special motion (with notice) the court will restrain a party from paying his bill of fees to his solicitor, until the clerk in court employed by the solicitor in the cause shall be fully paid his bill. Stevens v. Avery, Dick. 224.

The clerk in court has a general lien on the duty recovered by his diligence and expence, which extends as well to collateral proceeding as to a decree; and this lien cannot be defeated by a mere voluntary release from the party employing the clerk in court, to his adversary; although if the suit had ended on a bond fide compromise, or on a reasonable consideration paid, it would be otherwise. Anon. 2 Ves. 25.

Court will allow the clerk in court to retain the papers, even against the client, until he be paid. Farewell v. Coker, 2 P. W. 460.

A client is not liable to agent employed by his solicitor, beyond what he may be indebted to solicitor for business done in the cause. Anon. Dick. 802.

Interest against a purchaser for delaying payment, court will not make purchaser appoint a clerk in court, which is only necessary where the party is to appear. Child v. Id. Abington, 1 Ves. J. 94. VENDOR & PURCH.; INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

Defendant having examined his clerk in court, plaintiff exhibited interrogatories for cross-examining him, to which he demurred, for that he knew nothing of the matters inquired of, except as defendant's clerk in court or agent. Demurrer over-ruled; first, because it ought to conclude that the party knew nothing but by the information of his client; secondly, because it appeared that the matters inquired after were transactions antecedent to the commencement of the suit; thirdly, the party having been examined, plaintiff might certainly cross-examine him to the same matter; fourthly, because it concluded that the party knew nothing but as clerk in court "or agent," and an agent might be only a steward or servant, who is not privileged. Faillant v. Dodemead, 2 Atk. 524.

A clerk in court's lending a solicitor money to carry on a cause, does not entitle the clerk in court to detain the papers, but he must deliver them up to the party and get the money from the solicitor the best way he can. Gray v. Cockrill, 2 Atk. 114. But see Dick. 224. 802. 2 P. W. 460.

The clerk in court may pray payment of his bill in this court, either against the solicitor or the client, though he cannot proceed at law against the client for want of retainer. Anon. Mos. 172.

If the party's clerk in court be dead, no process can be taken against the party until he has appointed a new clerk in court, and a subpoena ad faciend. attorn. must be taken out for that purpose. Rutcliffe v. Roper, 1 P. W. 420. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR.

In the exchequer, the suitor's money was formerly paid and received through the hands of the deputy remembrancer, the practice of whose office is regulated by an Order 17th of July, 1747. See 1 Fowl. Ex. Pr. 335. But by 1 Geo. 4. c. 35. s. 2. the duties of deputy remembrancer of exchequer are transferred to an accountant-general (which office is created by such act) to be appointed by the lord chief baron; and by the same statute, all necessary directions are given as to the forms of paying, transferring, and drawing out the monies in the hands of the accountant-general. By the 8th section of the statute, it is provided that on the death, resignation, or removal of the accountant-general, all property in the suitor's money vested in him, shall, ipso facto, become vested in his successors; a similar provision to that made as to the accountant-general of the court of chancery by the 54 Geo. 3. c. 14.

The jurisdiction of the two masters of the exchequer appointed by 1 Geo. 4. c. 35. in receiving and reporting on references, is limited (in the same manner as that of the deputy-remembrancer had previously been) to such matters as are specially referred to them. Foreman v. Cooper, 1 M'Clel. 538. JURISDICTION.

13. Warden of Fleet.

The warden's certificate of a prisoner being in his custody for contempt for non-payment of costs taxed, is sufficient to found a motion for a sequestration without any affidavit of demand, and refusals to pay. Phillips v. Stephenson, 11 Price, 473. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Inquisition finding two negligent escapes, per warden of the Fleet, is forfeiture of the office, though but for small sums. So is one voluntary escape a forfeiture. Col. Leighton's Case, 2 Vern. 173.

Warden of the Fleet is but tenant for life; on his forfeiture, the office belongs to the reversioner and not to the crown. Id. ib.

In case of an inquisition finding a forfeiture by the warden of the Fleet, whether it ought to find what estate the warden had in the office? Id. 174.

Court cautious how they pass a patent for the warden of the Fleet, because it may occasion a general escape for the prisoners. Id. ib.

Warden of Fleet attends courts of chancery and exchequer by two deputies; and therefore, no attachment will lie against him, because he is supposed to be always personally in court. It is common to suspend clerks of court and the warden of the Fleet, and in this case upon a motion, the court granted an order for a sequestration, which is a kind of suspension nisi. Anon. Mos. 236.

Escape lieth not against the warden of the Fleet for escape of one in execution for breach of a decree. Anon. 2 Freem. 146. JURISDIC.; PR. DECREE.

LXII. ORDER.

1. General orders concerning orders.
2. Construction and effect of.
3. Entry and drawing up of.
4. Showing cause against, suspension or discharge of.
5. Service of.
6. Amendment of.

1. General orders concerning.

Orders are ineffective when made without the court being informed of the last material order. Beane's Order, 19.

And not to be explained on private petitions. Id. 20. 215.

Are to be set down by registrar as pronounced. Id. 20.

Are to be explained on public motion only. Id. ib.
No draught of order to be delivered by registrar to parties without his keeping a copy. Id. ib.

Order of reference to contain opinion of court. Id. ib.

Special orders, contrary to general rules of court, to contain their particular grounds. Id. 22.

None for confirming report, without day given. Id. ib.

When final, not to be made upon petition. Id. 35. 215.

Not to be altered, &c. on petition. Id. 36. 215.

When to be stayed on petition. Id. 36.

For setting down cause, pleas, &c. to be carried to registrar in due time. Id. 254.

Orders on petitions to be ineffective, unless drawn up and entered within a certain period. Id. 274.

Within what periods to be entered. Id. 290.

Form of order when full costs are given on allowance of demurrer, under Ld. Rosslyn's order, 6th Feb. 1792. (Beame's Order, 456.) Pilkington v. Wignall, 2 Mad. 348. PR. REG. GEN. C. OF; PR. COSTS.

2. Construction and effect of.

Generally speaking, an order takes effect from the time it is made. Jones v. Roberts, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 567.

Order of dismissal does not take effect till drawn up, and then it acts retrospectively from time of making. Verlander v. Codd, 1 S. & S. 94.

Where one of the terms of staying decree till after trial of appeal in House of Lords, was that defendants should give security for the amount of certain rents and profits decreed to be paid by them to plaintiff: Held, that it lay upon defendant to verify that amount by affidavit, and to propose and perfect security to master's satisfaction, without any previous steps to be taken by plaintiff, otherwise, the decree to be carried into execution. Edwards v. Morgan, id. 258. PR. DECREE, STAYING EXECUTION OF.

Where an order was made for payment into court of 50 per cent., on subscriptions of the parties, this was held to mean not a payment of half the gross amount of the subscriptions, without regard to the parties contributing, as a condition of continuing the injunction, but a separate payment of one moiety of his individual subscription by each subscriber, and that the injunction was to be dissolved against such parties only as did not pay it, and to be retained in favour of such as did. Marryatt v. Noble, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 101.

Plea and answer cannot be filed until demurrer actually taken off file, after order for that purpose. Cust v. Boode, 1 S. & S. 21. PR. PLEA; PR. ANSWER; PR. FILING PLEADINGS; PR. DEMURRER.

Held that "the costs of and occasioned by the application," include the costs of an interlocutory order made in pursuance of part of the application. Costs of the day can only be obtained by a special order at the time. Exp. Green, 1 G. & J. 188. BANKCY. COSTS.

Order to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution, operates from the time of its being pronounced, and therefore a replication filed afterwards, though before service of the order, does not prevent its effect; but the practice not being previously settled, the bill was restored on terms and payment of costs. Some orders made on motions of course, e. g. that to answer amendments and exceptions together, operate from the time of service only. Lorimer v. Lorimer, 1 Jac. & W. 284.

Exceptions to a report of impertinence may be taken after an order to expunge, until that order has been acted upon, not necessary to take objections before the master previous to excepting to a report of impertinence. Under the circumstances of the case, the defendant was at liberty to take a general exception, without setting out the particulars in which he alleged the report to be erroneous. Norway v. Rowe, 1 Mer. 135. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT OF IMPERTINENCE.

On a plea to a bill of discovery, the V. Ch. being of opinion that a cestui que trust could not file such a bill without the trustee in whom the legal estate was vested, directed a case for the opinion of a court of law, on the question where the legal estate actually was, and ordered the plea to stand over till the return of the judge's certificate. The parties not being able to agree on the case, a motion for leave to amend the bill by adding the trustee as a plaintiff, pending the V. Ch.'s order, refused. Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 2 Mer. 71. PR. AMENDMENT; PR. PLEA.

Though order be made on petition in bankruptcy, directing costs to be paid to the petitioner personally, solicitor does not lose his lien for his costs. Exp. Bryant, 1 Mad. 49. SOL. & CTR.; LIEN.

Upon order that defendant shall be released from Fleet prison, on paying costs of contempt, or tender of the same, the warden of Fleet must release him on affidavit of tender of costs. Anon. 1 Mad. 109. PR. PRISONER, DISCHARGE.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken after impertinence is expunged, nor without special order, while the order to expunge remains in force. A report of impertinence having been obtained by surprise, the master was ordered to abstain from acting on order to expunge until exceptions had been argued. Mortimer v. West, 3 Swan. 228. PR. EXCEPTIONS; PR. IMPERTINENCE.

Exceptions to report of impertinence cannot be taken, nor be set down for argument after an order to expunge, without special leave. Wadman v. Birch, id. 230. EXCEPTIONS; IMPERTINENCE.

After an order in bankruptcy for liberty to bring an action, with special direction for a production of papers, and not to set up the bankruptcy, a bill of discovery cannot be filed. Cooke v. Marsh, 18 Ves. 209. BILL OF DISCOVERY.

An order for a cause to stand over, with liberty for the plaintiff to amend his bill by adding parties, is in its nature an order by consent, and therefore cannot be appealed from. Beresford v. Adair, 2 Cox, 156. PR. APPEAL.

Practice as to reference of an answer for impertinence, after an order nisi to dissolve an injunction. Jennings v. Walker, 1 Cox, 178. PR. REFERENCE FOR IMPERTINENCE.

An order for appearing gratis, implies that the defendant shall pay no day over. Servoise v. O'Carroll, 2 P. W. 368.

If the defendant is in contempt for not answering, and on motion he obtains time to answer, if it be not expressly ordered that all contempts in the meantime shall be stayed; the plaintiff may go on and prosecute the defendant for not answering. Anon. 1 Vern. 104. PR. CONTEMPT.

3. Entry and drawing up of.

The vendor may confirm an order nisi obtained by the purchaser, if the latter neglect to do so. Chillingworth v. Chillingworth, 1 Sim. 291. VENDOR & PURCHASER.

Where by mistake of registrar in the name of the cause, the order to dismiss was drawn up by defendants after plaintiff had undertaken to speed cause, the plaintiff must indemnify defendant against costs of the order. Hibberton v. Cooke, 4 Mad. 248. PR. COSTS; PR. OFFICERS OF COURT, MISTAKE BY.

Order on peremptory undertaking to speed the cause entered nunc pro tunc of course, on motion, without notice, about two years afterwards. Dixon v. Shum, 18 Ves. 520. PR. ORDER.

Order of a preceding Id. Ch. not to be reheard upon minutes, but must first be drawn up. Taylor v. Popham, 15 Ves. 72.

After motion to amend the bill, and that amendments and exceptions shall be answered together, if the exceptions are answered before the order is drawn up, it is regular. Partridge v. Haycroft, 11 Ves. 578. PR. EXCEPTIONS.

To enter an order nunc pro tunc, is a motion of course, where the party entitled to it comes recently; but after a length of time there ought to be notice of such motion. Anon. 3 Atk. 521.

As the manner of drawing up orders is of long standing, Ld. Hardwicke said he would not alter them; but wished they were framed with the same simplicity as orders made by the courts of law. Baker v. Hart, 2 Atk. 488.

Orders must be drawn up and entered by the registrar before they bear authority; for the registrar's minutes are only a warrant for an order. Anon. 2 Frec. 46.

A motion cannot be made upon a decretal order till it is passed with the registrar. Smith v. Reynolds, Mos. 69. PR. MOTION.

4. Shewing cause against, suspension or discharge of.

Time for shewing cause against conditional orders. Gen. Rule, 18th June, 1803, 1 Scho. & L. 178.

Where an order had been obtained, that service of a subpoena on the attorney of the defendant, who resided abroad, and had brought an action at law against the plaintiffs, should be good service, but such order was obtained, and the subpoena issued and served two days before the filing of the bill, the court refused to discharge the order for irregularity, holding that the irregularity, if any, had been waived by a subsequent appearance of the defendant. Royal Exchange Assurance Corp. v. Short, 1 Y. & J. 570. WAIVER.

Second order to dismiss cannot be obtained on day on which former order to dismiss is discharged. Fox v. Morewood, 2 S. & S. 325.

Where, under order made in a creditor's suit, supplemental bill is filed by a creditor, not a party to original suit, on behalf of himself and other creditors, to have the benefit of the decree in that suit, the propriety of the order which authorised creditor to file supplemental bill cannot be questioned at hearing of supplemental cause. Houlditch v. Marq. Donegal, 1 S. & S. 491. PR. CREDITOR'S SUIT; BILL SUPPLEMENTAL.

Applications to discharge orders for irregularity, must be made without delay. The court of exchequer, like chancery, is always open. Joseph v. Simpson, 10 Price, 25. PR. IN EXCH.

Order discharged, on ground that costs of two previous applications, which were refused with costs, had not been paid. Killing v. Killing, 6 Mad. 68. PR. COSTS.

If, however, costs are not taxed, non-payment is no objection. Id. ib. note (6).

An order, dismissing a bill for want of prosecution, obtained after an injunction had been granted, restraining the defendant from proceeding in an action at law, on the plaintiff's undertaking to give judgment, to be dealt with as the court should direct, and not to bring any writ of error, was discharged. James v. Bion, 3 Swan. 234.

Order to dismiss bill, not served before bill is amended, is a nullity, and it is not necessary to move to discharge it. Tanner v. Dean, 4 Mad. 176. PR. ORDER TO DISMISS; PR. AMENDMENT.

Application to suspend an order of the court, till an appeal of which notice had been given should be determined, would be more properly made to the court of appeal, particularly where that court has already interfered in the cause; but the court will suspend their order for a given period, and to a certain extent, on motion, for the purpose of giving the party an opportunity of applying to the appellate court. Lewis v. Morgan, 5 Price, 468. PR. APPEAL.

Order to dismiss for want of prosecution, after an abatement, although irregular, not to be regarded as a nullity; consequently, that order must be discharged, before the plaintiff can obtain an order to revive the suit. Boddy v. Kent, 1 Mer. 361. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVAL.

Order to dismiss for want of prosecution, after the regular time elapsed, and an injunction having issued on the merits, not to be discharged for irregularity, although obtained, upon motion, by the defendant without notice. Hannam v. South London Waterworks Comp., 2 Mer. 61.

On motion to set aside proceedings, as infra dignitatem, on affidavit that demand does not exceed 40s., court will not enquire into amount, if affidavit be put in, on showing cause against rule, that demand exceeds that sum, but will at once discharge the rule with costs. Branker v. Massey, 2 Price, 8. JURISDICT. INFRA DIGNITATEM.

Order to dismiss the bill for want of prosecution, though regular according to the present practice, not requiring notice, if before replication, nor the six clerks' certificate at the time of making the motion, discharged, without costs, upon the defendant's laches. Browne v. Byne, 1 V. & B. 310. LACHES.

The subsequent order, extending an injunction against proceeding at law to stay trial, not discharged separately, but the injunction, as extended, must be dissolved generally upon the answer by the usual order nisi, subject to shewing exceptions for cause, or the undertaking to shew cause on the merits. Earnshaw v. Thornhill, 18 Ves. 485. PR. INJUNCT.

After an order for confirming the report nisi, filing exceptions, and making the deposit with the registrar, are no cause to prevent that order being made absolute, unless an order for setting down the exceptions to be argued is obtained, which may be done either by the plaintiff or defendant. The order confirming the report, was discharged on payment of costs. Gildart v. Moss, 4 Ves. 617. PR. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT; PR. EXCEPTIONS.

An order to examine a defendant as a witness, saving just exceptions, is an order of course, and cannot be discharged upon a suggestion that the defendant, by his answer, appears to have an interest: the objection must be reserved until the deposition be offered to be read in evidence. Lee v. Atkinson, 2 Cox, 413. EVID.; PARTY DEFT.

Decretal order cannot be discharged upon motion, though made by consent, and surprise alleged. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 93.

An order was made that the plaintiff should set down his cause to be heard within a limited time, or that the bill should be dismissed without further order: in the mean time, the suit abated by the death of a defendant. This abatement suspends the effects of the former order. Gregson v. Oswald, 1 Cox, 343. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR.

Motion to discharge an order, to refer an answer for impertinence, obtained after notice of motion to dismiss, refused. Kinworthy v. Allen, 1 Bro. C.C. 400. PR. NOTICE OF MOTION TO DISMISS.

It is a known and established rule, that an appeal does not lie against an order made by the consent of parties. Toder v. Sansam, 1 Bro. P. C. 468. PR. APPEAL.

Motion is proper step to discharge order for commission to examine on master's certificate. Chaffin v. Wills, Dick. 377.

Orders made on petition not discharged on motion. Bishop v. Willis, 2 Ves. 113.

The master of the rolls may discharge an order made by the chancellor ex parte, or on a motion of course. Davy v. Seys, Mos. 71. PR. JURISDICT.; MASTER OF ROLLS.

A party may move to discharge an order, though he is in contempt for not obeying it. Hill v. Hissel, Mos. 258. PR. CONTEMPT.

5. Service of.

An order on two solicitors, as partners, is not duly served by serving it on one of them, and leaving a copy at the place where the partnership business is carried on. Young v. Goodson, 2 Russ. 25. PARTNERS.

When a party absents himself to avoid personal service of an order to pay money, or a subpoena for costs, the court will substitute service at his dwelling house, and on his clerk in court; but an order for service at the dwelling house only is irregular. Farrow v. White, 1 Jac. & W. 643. SERVICE, SUBSTITUTED.

Order to dismiss bill, not served before bill is amended, is a nullity, and it is not necessary to move to discharge it. Tanner v. Dean, 4 Mad. 176. PR. MOTION TO DISCHARGE ORDER; PR. AMENDMENT.

Service of order to pay money ordered, under circumstances, on defendant's clerk in court. Anon. 4 Mad. 462.

Order to dismiss bill obtained, but not served till eight months after; meanwhile, order to amend bill obtained: Held, order was regular. Young v. Smith, 3 Mad. 196. PR. ORDER TO AMEND; LACHES.

Service of order of court on servant of party not at his dwelling house, held insufficient. Anon. 2 Price, 4.

Service of all process, intended to bring a party into contempt, should be personal, if possible: in what case personal service dispensed with. Weston

v. Faulkner, 2 Price, 2. PR. CONTEMPT, SERVING PROCESS OR.

Service of an order, without producing the original, not good, unless that production is waived. Wallis v. Glynn, 19 Ves. 380. S. C. Coop. 282.

For the purpose of commitment under short order to pay money, the person serving the order must have authority to receive the money. Wilkins v. Stephens, 19 Ves. 117. PRIN. & AGENT; AUTHORITY; PR. COMMITMENT.

Depositions of a defendant examined, without service of the order for liberty so to do, cannot be read, being a surprise on the other party. Mulvany v. Dillon, 1 Ball & B. 413. PR. EVID.

Upon an application for the writ of ne exeat regno, no subpoena is served; but, upon personal service of the writ, the party is bound to appear, and to put in his answer, and then he may apply to supersede the writ, but not upon his affidavit. Russell v. Asby, 5 Ves. 96. NE EXEAT REGNO; PR. SUBPENA.

Exceptions being allowed to an answer in an injunction cause, plaintiff obtained an order to be at liberty to amend, and that the defendant might answer the exceptions and amendments at the same time; if the answer to the exceptions be filed any time before the order to amend, &c., is served, the order must be discharged. Paty v. Simpson, 2 Cox, 392. LACHES.

An order having been made against the defendant for a sequestration for non-performance of the decree, an application was made to discharge the order for irregularity, the defendant, by his affidavit, positively denying that he had been served with the order nisi: the court would not discharge the order, but stayed the sequestration for a fortnight, to give the defendant an opportunity of complying with the directions of the decree, by executing certain deeds, &c. Shuttleworth v. Lonsdale, 2 Cox, 47. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Answer reported insufficient: plaintiff obtained order to amend, and that defendant may answer amendments and exceptions at same time. Defendant may answer exceptions alone, if put in before this order is served. Bethuen v. Bateman, Dick. 296.

An order which is made on hearing counsel on both sides, need not be served. Bambridge v. Castel, Mos. 199.

No contempt for disobedience of an order, unless the party is served with a writ of execution of it. Moyser v. Peacock, 3 C. R. 22. PR. CONTEMPT.

A receiver need not be served with a writ of execution of a decretal order, but only with a copy; and if he disobeys, shall be committed. Macarty v. Gibson, Mos. 40. PR. RECEIVER.

6. Amendment of.

Misnomer in order to dismiss for want of prosecution, replication filed after such order drawn up and served, will not be taken off file. Verlander v. Codd, 1 S. & S. 94. PR. TAKING PLEADINGS OFF FILE.

Order of dismissal does not take effect till drawn up, and then it acts retrospectively from time of making. Id. ib.

Court will not, on motion, after an order for reference, direct master to enquire (if he have found that good title can be made to premises, the subject of suit for specific performance,) when such good title could be first made. Such direction should have been applied for at hearing. Lubin v. Lightbody, 8 Pri. 606. PR. INQUIRY BEFORE MASTER.

Mistake in title of order for sequestration, by omission of the words "and others," allowed to be rectified by amendment, inserting the words omitted. Louten v. Mayor, &c. of Colchester, 2 Mer. 395.

Order for time to answer, not corrected by extending it to the usual order for time to plead; answer, or demur, not demurring alone. Philips v. Gibbons, 1 V. & B. 184.

A mistake in the title of an order amended, though to charge a surety, that gave a recognizance to abide the order for hearing. Sparring v. Lynn, 2 Vern. 376. S. C. Prec. Chan. 115.

LXII. OUTLAWRY.

See also tit. OUTLAWRY.

Plea of outlawry need not be on oath. Masters v. Bush, 1 Ch. Ca. 258. 2 Freem. 143. Prat v. Taylor, id. 237. Contrà, Hulst v. Hulst, Toth. 73. Parry v. Bowden, 2 Vern. 37. It need not, it seems, be on oath, if there be only the common averment of the identity of the person. Took v. Took, 2 Vern. 198. To avoid pleas of outlawry, you may make all they that have outlawries against plaintiff, defendants. S. C. For precedents of pleas of outlawries, see Curs. Canc. 196.

If after plea of outlawry allowed, outlawry be reversed, plaintiff having paid costs of plea, may take out new subpoena to answer. Exch. Ord. (11), O'Keefe's Ed. 7.

Plea of outlawry is bad where plaintiff sues as executor or administrator. Arnold v. Arnold, Toth. 76. Swan v. Porter, Hard. 60. Killigrew v. Killigrew, 1 Vern. 184. Or as prochain ami. Mitf. Pl. 186. Beame's Pleas, 104.

So if it be any suit for that duty, touching which relief is sought by the bill. Beame's Ord. 175. Philips v. Gibbons, 1 Ves. & B. 114. S. P.

And in such case it will be disallowed of course, as put in for delay. Beame's Ord. 175.

Plea of outlawry had, because the outlawry was before the last general pardon. Trion v. Brocas, Toth. 142. But plaintiff in such case ought to reply, so as to make himself capable to have the benefit of the pardon, by showing that he was not a person excepted. Swan v. Porter, Hard. 60.

Outlawries must be pleaded all at one time, or the plea will be overruled. Whitney v. Strachey, Toth. 142.

No plea of outlawry to be allowed without pleading the record sub pede sigilli. Beame's Ord. 27. Wy. Pr. Reg. 326. Mitf. pl. 185. And therefore it need not be set down with the register, unless the plaintiff conceive it, through mispleading, or otherwise, to be insufficient. Id. 175; in which case the plea must be set down, in chancery, by plaintiff; in the exchequer, by defendant. Chapman v. Lansdown, 2 Anst. 554.

Plea by defendant that plaintiff has been outlawed, is good. Orrell v. Banks, Toth. 142. So long as the outlawry remains in force. Beame's Ord. 175. Venables v. Foyle, 1 Ch. Ca. 12. Outlawries overruled. Spry v. Coryton, Toth. 143. Kingston v. Pritchard, id.

1. Party plaintiff, rights, duties, &c.

The names of persons made plaintiffs in a bill, without their authority, ordered to be struck out with costs to be paid by the solicitor, their application after they were apprised of the fact, having been made without delay. Where persons who have been made plaintiffs without their consent have, after the fact has come to their knowledge, acquiesced for a considerable period, their names will not, on their application, be struck out of the bill. Semble. Wilson v. Wilson, 1 Jac. & W. 457.

Motion by some of several plaintiffs to have bill dismissed against them with costs, granted on terms. Holkirk v. Holkirk, 4 Mad. 50. PR. MOTION TO DISMISS.

Co-plaintiff, as next friend, struck out, his evidence being necessary; but as a general rule, giving security for the costs incurred. Witts v. Campbell, 12 Ves. 493.

Order that the name of an infant plaintiff may be struck out that he may be made a defendant. Tappen v. Norman, 11 Ves. 563. INFANT.

Order to strike out names of two plaintiffs, on giving security for costs made without consent. Lloyd v. Makeam, 6 Ves. 145.

Evidence of a plaintiff being necessary, and defendant refusing to consent to his examination, the bill on motion amended by making him a defendant, and replication withdrawn on terms of costs, amending defendant's copy, and requiring no further answer. Motteux v. Mackreth, 1 Ves. 142. PR. EVIDENCE; PR. AMENDMT.

Defendant at liberty to examine plaintiff as witness. Troughton v. Getley, Dick. 382. Sed quere, overruled, Dick. 799.

Application that plaintiff may be examined as witness, refused. Ly. Kilbury v. Crew, id. 60.

If heir at law is plaintiff to bill to subvert will, and he fails, he pays costs; otherwise if defendant to bill, to support will. Johnson v. Gardiner, id. 313. S. P. Gough v. Botel, id. 306.

Bill by two plaintiffs dismissed as to one. Cemmel v. Black, id. 513.

Bill by trustee in nature of a bill of interpleader, court gave leave to one of the defendants to examine one of the plaintiffs as a witness. Armiter v. Swanton, Ambl. 393. WITNESS, COMPETENCY OF.

The court cannot make an order to examine a plaintiff de bene esse, saving just exceptions, though they will make such order to examine a defendant; but the defendant ought to have demurred to such immaterial plaintiff; if a corporation would make use of one of their own members as a witness, they must disfranchise him. Mayor, &c. of Colchester v. —, 1 P. W. 695. PR. EXAMON. DE BENE ESSE; WITNESS, COMPET. OF.

A plaintiff in a cause cannot be made a witness, but a defendant may, because he is forced into the suit. Casey v. Beachfield, Prec. Chan. 411. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 98. PR. EVID. WITNESS, COMPET. OF.

A co-plaintiff though but a trustee, cannot be examined as a witness for the other plaintiff. Phillips v. Dk. of Bucks, 1 Vern. 230. PR. WITNESS, COMPET. OF.

Defendant not being the party seeking relief, therefore is not entitled to apply for an interlocutory order for his own security or relief as to the subject matter of the suit, unless the object of his motion may be imposed as a condition on an order applied for by the plaintiff. Wynne v. Griffith, 1 S. & S. 147. PR. INTERLOCUTORY ORDER.

There being no issue joined between two co-deendant, answer of one cannot be read against the other, even as to costs, other than as a suggestion, on which the court may direct an enquiry before master. Cherret v. Jones, 6 Mad. 267. COSTS; EVIDENCE; ANSWER.

If one of two defendants sets down cause, he need only serve plaintiff with subpoena to hear judgment, and not his co-defendant. Clarke v. Dunn, 5 Mad. 474. PR. SUBPOENA TO HEAR JUDGMENT. SERVICE OF.

Order for examining a defendant by a co-defendant, on the allegation of no interest in the matter, to be examined to; that being the true construction of the general form, that he is not interested, or not in the matters in question in the cause; and any objection to his evidence must be taken at the hearing. Murray v. Shadwell, 2 V. & B. 401. PR. EXAMON.

Ground of permitting defendant to be examined for a co-defendant, that the plaintiff might unite distinct claims, with the view of depriving the parties of each other's evidence. Ground of practice, requiring for the examination of a defendant by a co-defendant a general allegation of no interest, or none in the matters in question in the cause, that though he may have no direct interest in the subject of examination, he may in the result, have an interest in the subject, the effect, perhaps, of that examination. Id. 405.

A decree made between co-defendants, upon evidence arising from pleadings and proofs between plaintiffs and defendants. Cowry: Caulfield, 2 Ball & B. 255. DECREE.

Defendant not entitled to an issue or enquiry to establish a cause relied on by his answer, but omitted in proof. Savage v. Carroll, 1 Ball & B. 548. PR. ISSUE AT LAW.

Order by one defendant to examine another, not of course after, as before a decree. In a special case to ascertain who actually received money, all the trustees having signed the receipt, the court refused to discharge the order made two years before, but required the examination without delay. Franklyn v. Colquhoun, 16 Ves. 218. PR. EVIDENCE.

A defendant, by decree confirming the master's report, entitled to balance reported due to him, with interest, though no offer, by bill praying an account, to pay it. Defendant may enforce a decree confirming a report in his favour. Bodkin v. Clancy, 1 Ball & B. 216, 217. DECREE.

Defendant cannot revive, except after a decree to account, or where the defendant has some interest in the further prosecution of the suit, not therefore where his only object was to dissolve an injunction, and proceed at law. Horwood v. Schmides, 12 Ves. 311. PR. ABATEMENT. & REVIVOR.

No defendant by his answer can affect the rights of other parties. Southcot v. Watson, 3 Atk. 232.

Plaintiff may examine defendant as a witness, if there is a suggestion in the order that the defendant is not interested in the cause. Moudbury v. Isdall, 9 Mod. 438. PR. EVID.; WITNESS, COMPETENCY. OF.

A defendant cannot revive, but in one instance, and that is after a decree to account, because in that case he is considered as an actor, for till the account is taken, it is not known on which side the balance lies. Anon. 3 Atk. 691. PR. ABATEMENT. & REVIVOR.

A defendant having been examined under the usual order as a witness, plaintiff may have a decree against him upon other matters to which he was not examined. Nightingale v. Doid, Amb. 583. S. C. Mos. 229. PR. WITNESS.

Co-defendants are not deprived of the evidence of each other by being so joined in suit; but plaintiff, except in case of trustees, cannot examine defendant. Gibson v. Albert, 10 Mod. 19. Sed quere, 9 Mod. 438. PR. EVID.; WITNESS, COMPETENCY OF.

A necessary defendant being beyond sea, upon affidavit thereof, and that plaintiff knew not whether he was living or dead, he had an order upon motion to proceed against the other defendants, without prejudice, and afterwards had a decree without bringing such defendant to hearing. Walley v. Walley, 1 Vern. 487.

3. Strangers, when they may be heard, &c.

See also PL. PARTIES.

The court has no jurisdiction to order, upon motion, a person not a party to the cause to pay into court the arrears of an annuity granted by him to a defendant against whom a sequestration had issued for want of a sufficient answer, unless the grantor has, by his conduct, waived the objection to the jurisdiction. But he may notwithstanding, and without applying for the leave of the court, obtain from the grantees a release of the annuity. Johnson v. Chippindale, 2 Sim. 55. PR. SEQUESTRATION; CHOSE IN ACTION.

Injunction may be obtained on motion to restrain purchaser, under decree, not party to cause, who has not paid his purchase money, from committing waste on the property purchased. Casamajor v. Strobe, 1 S. & S. 381. INJUNC.; VEND. & PURCH.

Where an answer is required as evidence upon a trial, the court, except in a criminal case, does not permit the record itself to go; but an office copy, unless proof of the signature is necessary; not granted, where the action is by a stranger, unconnected with the suit in equity. Jarvis v. White, 8 Ves. 313. PR. EVIDENCE; ANSWER.

Proceedings under a commission of bankruptcy in the secretary's office, not permitted to be used as evidence in actions, by strangers unconnected with the commission. Id. 314. EVIDENCE.

There is no decided case, that guardians can be appointed for a child, by a stranger, during the life of the parent; but the law will take care that the child shall be educated according to his expectations. A legacy by a stranger to a female infant, not adceded by his paying a marriage portion, and other provisions for her and her husband. A deposit of bank notes with the executors, for the depositor's sister and her children, is a gift of the money among them. Powel v. Cleaver, 2 Bro. C. C. 500. JURISDIC.; PARENT AND CHILD; GUARDIAN, TESTAMENTARY.

Under what circumstances an appeal may be brought from an old decree, by a person who was neither party or privy to the suit in which the decree was made. No appeal lies to the house of lords in Ireland, from the judgment or decree of any court in that kingdom. The statute of 6 G. 1. c. 5. did not introduce any new law, but is only declarative of what the law was before: but this act is now repealed by the statute 22 G. 3. c. 53. Vernon v. Vernon, 1 Bro. P. C. 440. PR. APPEAL.

Specific performance decreed at the instance of a person entitled to the benefit of an agreement, though not a party to it. Hook v. Kinnear, 3 Swan. 417. SPEC. PERF.; PL. PARTY.

A mortgagee of part of estate in Ireland files his bill of foreclosure in court of chancery, in England, and obtains the usual decree: a mortgagee of other part of same estate files his bill of foreclosure in court of chancery in Ireland, and on hearing of cause, desired that decree of English chancery might be read, to intent that decree in Irish chancery might be made agreeable thereto; but refused, because present plaintiff, though defendant in former cause, was not brought to a hearing on that cause, and consequently was no party to that decree. Everard v. Ashton, 3 Bro. P. C. 561. PR. DECREE.

LXV. PAYMENT, ORDER FOR.

Where an order is made for the payment of money forthwith, and a short order is afterwards obtained in order to ground an attachment for non-payment, a demand must be made under the short order, and a demand under the first or general order, is not sufficient, no time for payment being fixed by it. Lamb v. Withers, 1 Y. & J. 453. DEMAND.

In a creditor's suit instituted by simple contract creditors, in which the assets, after the payment of the costs being insufficient for the discharge of the specialty debts, are apportioned among the specialty creditors, these specialty creditors are entitled, without contributing to the extra costs of the plaintiffs, to the use of the order for the payment of the money, and of the report founded upon it, so as to enable them to get the fund out of court. Lechmere v. Brazier, 1 Russ. 72. Pr. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT; CREDITOR'S SUIT.

Where legacy was, by order, directed to be paid to A B, and he dies, leaving executors, and one executor dies, on application to court, order made to pay legacy to surviving executors, without acquittance from executor of deceased co-executor. Moodie v. Bainbridge, 6 Mad. 107. EXECUTOR.

1. On admissions.

See also post, subdiv. 2.

Where defendant in title cause sets up modus, and is desirous of protecting himself from costs, he should move for an order that plaintiff accepts sums admitted due by answer, or proceed at peril of costs, and court will notice such tender by minute. Notice of such motion is not necessary, nor need money be paid into court. Davis v. Moseley, 9 Price, 211. TITHES; MODUS; Pr. COSTS.

Though defendant in answer makes admissions which would entitle plaintiff to decree, plaintiff cannot move for payment of money into court. Peucham v. Daw, 6 Mad. 98. Pr. ANSWER; Pr. MOTION.

Admission by an executor, that the whole amount of the property is near 40,000l. and that the whole is invested in India on public securities, either in his name or in the name of the house in which he is a partner and subject to his disposal, unless some part is in the hands of the said house at interest, which he believes may be the case; not a sufficient admission of money in his hands to order the payment into court, of any part of it. Freeman v. Fairlie, 3 Mer. 39. EXOR.; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Practice settled to move on examination, admitting money due for payment in court before the cause is set down for further directions. Ilitch v. —, 19 Ves. 117.

After the usual decree for an account, order on motion to pay into court the amount of the principal sums, admitted to be due by examination upon interrogatories, not extended to interest. Wood v. Downes, 1 V. & B. 49. INTEREST.

Order on motion to pay into court a principal sum, with interest; admitted by the answer to have been made to a greater amount. Id. ib.

Motion for payment of money into court, not admitted to be due even upon the examination of the defendant, but appearing due by his schedule, according to the plaintiff's calculation, refused. For such a purpose, the result of the schedule ascertaining the sum due, must clearly appear, verified by affidavit. Quarrell v. Beckford, 14 Ves. 177. Pr. SCHEDULE TO ANSWER.

Motion to pay money into court upon the affidavit of an accountant, that from the schedule to the answer, the examination, and the books of account, such a balance was due, refused. Mills v. Hanson, 8 Ves. 68. Pr. ANSWER.

Money may be ordered into court, on motion upon the ground of admission, as, by schedules or books, containing an account of receipts and payments, and referred to, so as to be part of the answer or examination. Id. ib.

A motion to compel a defendant to pay money into court on casting up books, must be upon the ground of admission, by reference sufficient to make them part of the examination, as much as schedules to an answer: in this instance it failed, the plaintiff going upon certain books, and the reference being generally to all. Id. 91.

Present practice to order payment of money into court upon admission, in the defendant's answer. Strange v. Harris, 3 Bro. C. C. 365.

Where defendant admits by answer that there is trust fund in his hands, court will always on interlocutory application, order payment into court; so where executor is debtor of testator at latter's death. Rothwell v. Rothwell, 2 S. & S. 217. PL. ANSWER; ADMISSION; TRUST.

Defendant who has covenanted to pay a sum of money to trustees of his marriage settlement, but had omitted so to do, ordered on motion in suit for performance of trusts to pay money into court. Id. ib. MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

The court will, in certain cases, permit an executor to transfer a principal sum of stock standing in bank in his name, and purchased out of estate of testator a considerable time before, without the dividends which have accrued in the mean time. Della Caine v. Haywood, 1 McClell. 16.

Money admitted by executor to be in hands of his partner, is in his own hands sufficient for the purpose of being ordered into court. Johnson v. Aston, 1 S. & S. 73. ADMISSION OF ASSETS; PARTNERS.

On a bill by an executor to recover a fund belonging to the testator, it appearing that the testator's debts were paid, and that the fund was bequeathed to infants, the court refused to have it transferred to the executor, but secured it in court for the benefit of the infants. Orrock v. Binney, 1 Jac. 523. INFANT.

Auctioneer being mere stakeholder, ordered to pay deposit money into court, after retaining his own claims out of it without prejudice. Yates v. Farebrother, 4 Mad. 239. VENDOR & PURCHASER; STAKEHOLDER.

Executor by schedule to answer, acknowledging that he had received money and lent it on promissory note (which is an improper use, though at interest) ordered to pay money into court. Vigniss v. Henfield, 3 Mad. 62.

Executor admitting a balance due from him to the testator upon an unsettled account, ordered to pay the amount into court, notwithstanding there were debts of the testator still outstanding, the testator having died three years before. Mortlock v. Leathes, 2 Mer. 491.

If attorney (being concerned as well for mortgagor as mortgagee) has been appointed receiver of rents and profits of mortgaged estates, and on order made for delivery of possession there is found to be a balance remaining in his hands, beyond what is sufficient to satisfy the mortgagee, he will be ordered to pay such balance into court, notwithstanding the general report has not yet been made, on which there may possibly be found due to him a greater sum of money than the balance in his hands. Lewis v. Morgan, 5 Price, 42. SOLICITOR & CLIENT, LIEN.

A clear and strong case must be made out, for court to order administrator to bring personal estate unapplied into court. Scott v. Becher, 4 Price, 346. ADMINISTRATOR.

Executor not called on to lodge money, except upon affidavit of his insolvency, or an admission by him of a balance in his hands after payment of debts. Rutherford v. Dawson, 2 Ball & B. 17.

Court refused to order dividends received before bill filed of stock, purchased by the old government of Switzerland, to be paid into court by the trustees on application of the present government, without having the attorney-general made a party. Dolder v. Bk. of England, 10 Ves. 352. PL. PARTY; ATT. GEN.

Personal property in the hands of a testamentary guardian and executor ordered into court, there being no particular purpose to be answered by leaving it outstanding. Blake v. Blake, 2 Scho. & L. 26.

In bill by legatees against executor, if he admits balance due on his examination and claims no interest, court will order him to pay it into court before report. Curgeven v. Paters, 3 Anst. 751.

An executor having admitted a large balance of the personal estate to be in his hands, was ordered to pay the whole into court, although he stated that an action at law was depending against him for a debt to a considerable amount due from the testator, but with liberty, in case the plaintiff in the action should recover, to apply to the court to have a sufficient sum paid out again. Yare v. Harrison, 2 Cox. 377. PR. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT.

Widow being, as administratrix, possessed of property of intestate consisting of bank stock; motion to restrain her from disposing of it, and payment into court was refused; but being clearly entitled to her third, ordered to pay the two-thirds into court. Rogers v. Rogers, 1 Anst. 174. INJUNCTION.

Trust fund, which under a power in marriage settlement had been lent, decreed to be paid into court, the trustees representing it to be in danger. Payne v. Collier, 1 Ves. J. 170.

Testator having a debt secured on lands, gives the mortgage money to the mortgagor, and desires that he will give a reversionary interest therein to a third person, the mortgagor, selling the estate, shall bring the mortgage money into court for the use of the devisees subject to the life estate. Lewis v. King, 2 Bro. C. C. 600. WILL, C. OF; MORTGAGOR & MORTGAGEE.

Money in the funds belonging to wards of the court cannot be transferred into the name of the accountant general, to the credit of the cause, until the account is taken by a master and his report made. This does not mean that such a transfer cannot be made, but that it could not operate as an acquittance and discharge of the trustees, until they had passed their accounts. Benerust v. Rich, 1 Bro. C. C. 56. note (b) there. WARD OF COURT; PR. ACCOUNT BEFORE MASTER.

Executor ordered to pay in 1000*l.* he has collected of testator's money into the bank, in the name of the accountant general, and a receiver appointed of the whole estate, to pay in from time to time what he receives whilst the will is contesting in ecclesiastical court. Montgomery v. Clark, 2 Atk. 378.

3. On interpleader.

No affidavit is necessary to support a motion by a plaintiff in an interpleading suit for liberty to pay the money into court, and for an injunction. Walbanke v. Sparkes, 1 Sim. 385. PR. AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF MOTION.

Where two parties claim fund in hands of stakeholders, the former may make motion by consent, to avoid expence of bill on interpleader, that stakeholders may pay money into court; but stakeholders cannot make such motion, they not being parties to the suit. Belbee v. Belbee, 6 Mad. 28. STAKEHOLDERS.

Upon an interpleading bill, qu. whether the money ought not to be actually brought into court before the motion for an injunction, though the practice seems to have been, that it was time enough if brought in upon shewing cause against the motion to dissolve the injunction. Dingay v. Angove, 3 Bro. C. C. 36. See sequel of S. C. 2 Ves. J. 304.

Tenants filing a bill of interpleader against annuitants, and bringing rents into court, paid their costs out of the rents. Aldridge v. Thompson, 2 Bro. C. C. 149. LANDLORD & TENANT; PR. COSTS.

In a bill of interpleader it is not necessary that the plaintiff should bring the money into court, unless the other side require it; but the plaintiff should by his bill offer to bring in the whole of the demand. El. Thonet v. Paterson, Barn. 251.

On interpleader, tenant paying money into court, is discharged. Alnett v. Bittam, Cary, 46.

4. On obtaining and continuing injunction against proceedings at law, and commission to examine abroad.

In insurance cases it is always a question of circumstances whether, on granting commission abroad, the party obtaining it shall be required to bring the whole or any part of the money alleged to be due into court. Marryatt v. Nobre, 1 McClel. & Y. 101. S. P. Jackson v. Strong, 13 Price, 309.

A party against whom a verdict has been obtained at law, must pay money recovered into court before he can entitle himself to an injunction to stay execution, though he has since obtained a rule requiring plaintiff to shew cause why there should not be a new trial. Austen v. Thompson, 11 Price, 1. VERDICT.

Money paid into court upon an injunction and laid out, is security, and not payment. Broughton v. Pitchford, 6 Mad. 295. PAYMENT, WHAT CONSTITUTES.

Where injunction is granted against proceedings at law on instrument obtained, either as a gift or purchase in fraud of fiduciary situation of donee or purchaser, the court will not impose terms of paying money into court, if the relationship be that of attorney and client. Goddard v. Carlisle, 9 Price, 169. SOLICITOR & CLIENT; FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Plaintiff, on bill of discovery in aid of defence to action against him at law, may have on motion at sittings after term a commission to examine abroad, on payment of considerable part at least of demand of plaintiff at law into court, where the cause at law is at issue, and was entered for trial the term before the term immediately preceding the sittings, and a case of sufficient defence has been made out by bill, although the affidavit on which it has been moved is in the common form, the delay in staying trial not being sufficient ground of opposition to such an application. Ebden v. Prince, 8 Price, 290.

Injunction granted and continued on terms of paying demand into court, to restrain defendant from proceeding at law on a security given to defendant's testator, the latter having agreed to accept another security in lieu of it, though still remaining executory. Dolly v. Catchlowe, 4 Price, 147. AGREEMENT, EXECUTORY.

Where four of many actions against the various underwriters on policies on several ships (individually) had been tried, and verdicts passed for plaintiffs at law, the court granted an injunction to restrain plaintiffs at law from proceeding further in a case where there was a strong suspicion of fraud in the assured, or the money being paid into court, on the ground of answer of defendants not having been put in. Keyington v. White, 3 Price, 164. FRAUD.

Court will not order plaintiff, who has obtained injunction to stay proceedings at law on bill filed for discovery, by which he seeks to establish a case of goods being charged at a much greater price than the one agreed on, to pay even the price acknowledged to be just into court, to abide the result of the action. Parnell v. Nesbitts, 2 Price, 149.

Plaintiff cannot amend bill to enjoin further proceedings at law after verdict, without first paying into court the sum recovered at law, although the original bill was filed before verdict. But he may be allowed to amend on paying in money by a certain day. Harrison v. Belmont, 1 Price, 118. AMENDMENT OF BILL.

Order for a commission to examine witnesses abroad, returnable without delay, pending an injunction against an action, without paying the money into court. Cock v. Donovon, 3 V. & B. 76.

Plaintiff having obtained injunction to restrain proceedings at law, cannot be called upon to pay into court the sum demanded at law on an affidavit of equitable grounds by one of the defendants, the answers of the others not having come in; nor will the court alternatively dissolve the injunction. Menzies v. Rodrigues, 1 Price, 133.

Where there have been various dealings between landlord and tenant, so as to produce an account too complicated to be taken at law, and the landlord has brought ejectment for non-payment of rent, the tenant may file a bill, before judgment at law, for an account on the foot of those dealings, and to have the balance applied to the rent claimed to be due. And the tenant need not bring in the rent under stat. 4 G. 1. c. 6. O'Connor v. Spaight, 1 Scho. & L. 305. LANDLORD & TENANT; ACCOUNT.

The plaintiff, as mortgagee, got possession of the estate, sued at law on the covenant for non-payment, and brought his bill to foreclose; this is regular, and the court will not stop the proceedings at law, unless the defendant brings in the money. Rees v. Parkinson, 2 Anst. 497. MORTGAGOR & MORTGAGEE.

Where an injunction against proceeding at law is obtained till the coming in of the answer of one defendant, who resides abroad, the plaintiff is not compellable to bring the money into court, unless on special circumstances. Sholbred v. Macmaster, 2 Anst. 366.

Where a verdict has been obtained at law, and an injunction bill is filed while the plaintiff at law is out of the kingdom, and an injunction obtained against him for want of his answer, the court will direct the plaintiff in equity to pay into court the money recovered, and in default thereof, will dissolve the injunction. Potts v. Butler, 1 Cox, 330.

Where a defendant has obtained a verdict at law, and an injunction bill is filed against him while he is out of the kingdom, the plaintiff in equity shall be put upon terms of paying the money in question into court, or otherwise his injunction be dissolved. Sherwood v. White, 1 Bro. C. C. 452. S. P. Acton v. Market, 2 Bro. C. C. 12. Culley v. Hickling, id. 182.

5. In cases of partners.

Order for a partner to pay into court partnership money received by him contrary to good faith; but in general, a partner insisting that the balance of the account is in his favour, is not obliged to bring into court what is in his hands, unless the other partners do the same. Foster v. Donald, 1 Jac. & W. 252.

Under a decree for account of proceeds of a joint adventure, on bill by one party on behalf of himself and the others, and inquiry who are concerned with the plaintiff, the master having by advertisement as usual declared those who should not come in excluded, reported several persons who had not come in to claim entitled to shares; further advertisements directed, but payment into court of those shares refused, and the decree not to be executed as to those who should not come in. Good v. Blewitt, 19 Ves. 336. PR. MASTER'S REPORT; PR. DECREE TO ACCOUNT.

Court of equity will order funds of annuity company into court, where the members are about to abuse their trust. Cartland v. Iyster, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 580. PUBLIC COMPANY.

6. In cases of vendor and purchaser.

Purchase money paid into court is the property of vendor. Gell v. Watson, 2 N. & S. 402.

Court will not compel vendor to pay deposit money into court, though he retains possession of the estate, if the delay in the completion of the contract is occasioned by purchaser. Wynne v. Griffith, 1 S. & S. 147. LACHES.

Purchaser taking possession without consent or privity of vendor, ordered, on motion, before answer, to pay purchase money into court. Blackburn v. Stace, 6 Mad. 69. PR. ANSWER.

The vendor dying intestate, and having an infant heir, the purchase money being paid into court in a suit for a specific performance instituted after his death, will be retained till the heir attains twenty-one, and conveys. Bullock v. Bullock, 1 Jac. & W. 603. INFANT HEIR; CONVEYANCE.

Purchaser in possession, and objecting to title on the ground of a claim to dower, ordered to pay the purchase money into court, on the objection being removed by the widow consenting to accept an equivalent from the vendor. Mole v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 665.

Purchaser having taken possession, and exercised ownership, although good title was to be made before purchase money paid, which was not done, must nevertheless pay purchase money into court. Wickham v. Ewered, 4 Mad. 53.

Purchaser in possession having made alterations and improvements on estate, ordered to pay purchase money into court. Bramley v. Teal, 3 Mad. 219.

But otherwise where he objects to title. Gell v. Watson, id. 225.

Defendant being in possession, and having exercised acts of ownership, payment of the money ordered, although an infant heir was a necessary party to the conveyance. Bradshaw v. Bradshaw, 2 Mer. 492. INFANT.

Purchaser (a trustee acting on behalf of himself and others, his co-trustees, and of the cestuique trust) ordered to pay purchase money into court, the agreement having been entered into in the name of himself alone, upon affidavits that the plaintiffs (the vendors) had no notice of his acting for others, and of acts of ownership committed since possession given to him under the agreement, in opposition to the answer alleging notice, and denying any act of ownership by himself, or by any other person to his knowledge. Crutchley v. Jerningham, 2 Mer. 502. TRUSTEE.

Generally a purchaser shall not be allowed both to retain possession of the estate, and to keep his purchase money; but in a case where he was willing to give up possession, which he had taken under the agreement, and it was a question whether there was or not a subsisting contract, the Ld. Ch. refused to order payment of the purchase money into court. Morgan v. Shaw, 2 Mer. 138.

Auctioneer, on motion of vendor, ordered to pay deposit into court, minus his charges and expenses; and purchaser restrained by injunction from proceeding in his action against the auctioneer for the deposit, in which action he had obtained a judgment for the whole amount of the deposit. Annesley v. Muggridge, 1 Mad. 593. AUCTIONEER; DEPOSIT.

Vendor permitting purchaser to take possession before completion of title, without stipulation as to purchase money, cannot, on motion, have purchase money paid into court. Clarke v. Elliott, 1 Mad. 606.

On bill by vendor for a specific performance, the court will not, before answer, make an order for payment of the purchase money, by the defendant in possession, unless under special circumstances, such as unreasonable delay, committing acts of ownership in alteration of the property, &c. In this case, the defendant being in possession, not under the agreement to purchase, but as tenant to the plaintiff at the time of the purchase, no order was made. Bonner v. Johnston, 1 Mer. 366.

Possession by a purchaser, according to the contract, not a ground for payment of the money into court, on objections to the title; acts of alteration or destruction against the nature of the contract, are; and slighter acts after the objections discovered effectual for that purpose, than if done with an understanding on one side that there is a title, on the other that there is not. Dixon v. Astley, 19 Ves. 564. S. C. 1 Mer. 133.

Acts of ownership amounting to waste, by alteration and conversion of property, sufficient to induce the court to order payment of purchase money into court, upon the ground that a vendor has a lien on the estate for the amount, and might have filed his bill to restrain the purchaser in possession from committing such acts of ownership. Though the bill contained no charge of such acts having been committed, the order was made on affidavit supplying the fact, the defendant not having answered, nor being in contempt, nor under any decree for time. Cutler v. Simons, 2 Mer. 103.

Motion against purchasers in the master's office, to pay the purchase money, refused; the estate sold being copyhold limited for life, and then in remainder, and the remainder-man man being abroad, he not having surrendered. Noel v. Weston, Coop. 138. COPYHOLD.

Motion by one tenant in common, who had agreed to sell to the other, that the latter should pay his purchase money into court, refused, where such purchaser had been before and at the time of the purchase in possession of the whole, with the approbation of the other tenant in common. Freebody v. Perry, Coop. 91.

Purchaser in possession objecting to title, ordered to pay purchase money into court. Smith v. Lloyd, 1 Mad. 83.; and though possession not admitted by answer, and only shewn by affidavit. Boothby v. Walker, id. 197.

Motion, for a purchaser in possession to pay money into court, refused, under the circumstances of possession given independently of the agreement to purchase, and laches on the part of the vendor in completing his title. Fox v. Birch, 1 Mer. 105. LACHES.

Vendee in possession, objecting to title, required to pay his purchase money into court, although the fact of possession appeared, not upon the pleadings, but upon affidavit only. Burroughs v. Oakley, 1 Mer. 52.

Order on a purchaser before conveyance to pay into court instalments due, and interest, according to the contract, the subject being a coal mine, and the purchaser in possession and working it. Buck v. Lodge, 18 Ves. 450.

Purchaser having taken possession, but objecting to the title, required to pay in the purchase money, or deliver up possession. Clarke v. Wilson, 15 Ves. 317.

A purchaser may be committed for disobeying an order to pay in his money. Lansdown v. Elderton, 14 Ves. 512. CONTEMPT.

In sales under a decree, it is irregular to pay the purchase money to the party: it ought to be paid into court. Bennett v. Hamill, 2 Sch. & L. 581. SALES JUDICIAL.

Where two purchase one lot jointly, one party will not be permitted to pay into court his moiety of the purchase money. Durkin v. Marye, 1 Anst. 22.

7. In other cases and generally.

The court has no jurisdiction to order, upon motion, a person not a party to the cause to pay into court the arrears of an annuity granted by him to a defendant against whom a sequestration had issued for want of a sufficient answer, unless the grantor, as, by his conduct, waived the objection to the jurisdiction. But he may notwithstanding, and without applying for the leave of the court, obtain from the grantee a release of the annuity. Johnson v. Chippindale, 2 Sim. 55. PR. SEQUESTRATION; CHOSE IN ACTION.

Where order has been obtained for payment into court by given day, a motion to rescind it will not be entertained by court till money shall have been paid in; motion refused with costs. Dacie v. John, 13 Pri. 117.

A solicitor cannot obtain the taxation of his agent's bill without bringing the amount into court. Ostle v. Christian, 1 Turn. & R. 324. PR. TAXATION; SOL. & AGENT.

If sum be reported due, and exceptions are taken to report, the money cannot be ordered to be paid into court on motion. Creak v. Capell, 6 Marl. 114. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT; PR. MOTION.

Where courts of Scotland have power to preserve property pendente lite instituted there, the court has no jurisdiction to that end. Cruikshank v. Pokans, id. 104. SCOTCH COURTS; JURISDICTION.

Where debt is ascertained, though court can only order payment by decree, it will secure money in court upon interlocutory application. Lingen v. Simpson, id. 290.

Order made that A B, who had received monies on behalf of plaintiff before the institution of the suit, but who was not a party thereto, might be at liberty to pay money into court in trust for cause. Francis v. Collier, 5 Mad. 75. STRANGER.

A sequestration having issued for non-payment of money into court, an individual in possession of a sum claimed by the party against whom the sequestration issued, and by a stranger, was ordered to pay that sum into court. Franklyn v. Colhoun, Franklyn v. Thornhill, Rucker v. Pinney, 3 Swan. 276. PR. SEQUESTRATION; BAILEE.

Leave given to except to master's report of costs on payment of taxed costs into court. Exp. Leigh, 4 Mad. 394. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Estates being conveyed, among other purposes, to secure a debt of comparatively small amount, the court will not direct a release upon payment into court of the largest sum to which the debt can, in probability, amount; the incumbrancer being entitled to retain the security till the debt is discharged. Pastlethwaite v. Blane, 3 Swan. 256. SECURITY, DISCHARGE OF.

After injunction and order for payment into court at a future time, on threat of going abroad, the court orders instant payment of money, or dissolves the injunction. Whitehouse v. Partridge, 3 Swan. 375. PR. INJUNCTION; PR. NON EXEAT REGNO.

General rule as to payment of money into court is, that the plaintiffs must be solely entitled, or have such an interest jointly with others as to entitle them on behalf of themselves and of those others to have the fund secured. Freeman v. Fairlie, 3 Mer. 29.

The court refused to order money to be paid into court, appearing upon books deposited in the master's office. Roe v. Gudgeon, Coop. 304.

After judgment and execution in ejectment for non-payment of rent, a bill does not lie at the suit of the tenant for an account, and to be restored to the possession on payment of what shall appear due without bringing the rent and costs into court, if the question appears to be merely whether so much rent was due and not to be of too complicated a nature, to be tried at law. The account sought in this case consisting only of three disputed items, admitted to have been paid, if at all, on account of rent, and being such as a jury might easily have investigated: the bill was dismissed with costs. It would have been otherwise, sensible, if there had been a ground of defence which could not be set up in the ejectment, but which it was unconscionable in the landlord not to admit, or if the account had been so complex that it could not properly have been taken at law. O'Mahony v. Dickson, 2 Scho. & L. 400. LANDL. & TEN.; ACCOUNT.

Motion for payment of money into court in future to name a day. Higgins v. —, 8 Ves. 581. MOTION, FORM OF.

Defendant ordered to pay money into court before answer, in a case of gross fraud appearing by affidavit of plaintiffs, and by defendant's affidavit in answer. Jervis v. White, 6 Ves. 738.

Defendant, on motion, ordered to pay in a balance ascertained by the report. Gordon v. Rothly, 3 Ves. 572.

In suit for account of tithes, defendant cannot pay money into court before answer. Hill v. Mathews, 2 Anst. 444. TITHES.

Upon bill by son, committee of his father, a lunatic, to set aside a voluntary settlement by him, motion for defendant to let the house, sell the furniture, &c. and bring the whole into court, refused; plaintiff not consenting. Colman v. Croker, 1 Ves. J. 160. DEEDS, VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT.

Estate ordered to be sold for debts; money raised under sequestration paid into court, though contempt cleared. — v. Bennett, id. 89. PR. CONTEMPT; PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Where money is directed, by act of parliament, to be paid to the accountant-general, he is bound by the act to receive it; and the court will not make an order for that purpose. Anon. id. 56. ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL.

Before report, court refused to order balance of charges allowed against defendant upon account, and the whole alleged in his discharge, to be paid into court upon certificate by the master and defendant's examination before him: but also refused a motion take the certificate off the file. Fox v. Mackreth, id. 69. PR. MASTER'S REPORT.

Solicitor's bill taxed without bringing the money into court as formerly. The judgment not afterwards opened for the client to have an account taken in respect of monies due to him. Anon. 2 Ves. 452. PR. TAXATION OF COSTS.

On the client's neglecting to attend the master on the taxation of the bill, the chancellor would not order him to bring the money into court, but only that the order of reference should not be discharged if he did not procure a report in a fortnight. Anon. Mos. 68. PR. ATTENDANCE, BEFORE MASTER; PR. TAXATION OF COSTS.

If plaintiff bring 223l. into court, execution stayed for the rest. Stanebridge v. Hales, Cary, 47.

LXVII. PAYMENT OUT OF COURT.

A sum of stock, claimed as a legacy by A, was ordered by the decree to be carried over to the account of A, "subject to the further order of the court," with a direction that it should not be sold or transferred without notice to B: Held, that the court might upon petition, and without rehearing the former decree, order the money to be paid to B, if his title appeared to be the better of the two. Barksdale v. Abbott, 3 Russ. 186.

In a creditor's suit, instituted by simple contract creditors, in which the assets after the payment of the costs, being insufficient for the discharge of the specialty debts, are apportioned among the specialty creditors; these specialty creditors are entitled without contributing to the extra costs of the plaintiffs, to the use of the order for the payment of the money, and of the report founded upon it, so as to enable them to get the fund out of court. Lechmere v. Brazier, 1 Russ. 72. CREDITOR'S SUIT; PR. ORDER FOR PAYMENT.

In a suit instituted to restrain proceedings on bill, of exchange alleged to have been given for monies lost at play, an injunction until the hearing of the cause or further order was obtained upon the answer of the defendant; the plaintiff paying into court the amount of the bills and interest; but at the hearing, the plaintiff having no evidence in support of his case, and the defendant in his answer denying all knowledge of the gambling transaction, out of which the bills were said to have originated; and, having sworn that he gave valuable consideration for them, though as to the particulars of that consideration, his statements were vague, and not very satisfactory, the bill was dismissed with costs. Under such circumstances the decree ought to direct the fund in court to be paid to the defendant without putting him to the further prosecution of the action, or awaiting its result. Wynne v. Jackson, 2 Russ. 351.

Where assignee of money in court to credit of cause, claiming under an assignment from the party entitled to it, petitions to have it paid out to him, he must show that party, or (if dead) his personal representatives, has had due notice of the petition. Hurd v. Davenport, 13 Price, 735. PR. PETITION; PR. NOTICE.

Taking money out of court of law, paid in there by rule of court, is breach of common injunction against proceedings at law. A motion for that purpose was refused. Parke v. El. Shrewsbury, 1 M'Clel. 103. S. C. 13 Price, 289. PR. INJON. BREACH OF.

Where legacy is given for permanent charitable purposes to trustees not having corporate character, court will not transfer fund to them without reference. Wellbeloved v. Jones, 1 S. & S. 40. PR. REFERENCE; CHARITY; TRUSTEE; LEGACY.

A fund carried to a separate account, paid out on motion by consent, the title to it being clear. Heathcote v. Edwards, 1 Jac. 504.

Money, belonging to the wife, paid to the husband, the parties being subjects of Denmark, and the law of that country not requiring a settlement. Cayple v. Cudell, 1 Jac. 544. HUSB. & WIFE; SETTLEMENT BY COURT; FOREIGNER.

A fund paid out to persons entitled to it, subject to the contingency of a female of advanced age having children, on their recognizance to refund in case of that event happening. Leng v. Hodges, 1 Jac. 585.

INTEREST, CONTINGENT.

Order for payment of money to the solicitor of the party, refused. Edwards v. Lane, 6 Mad. 315. SOLICITOR & CLIENT.

Sums below 10l., payable out of court to a number of persons, paid to their solicitor to save the expence of powers of attorney. Brandling v. Humble, 1 Jac. 48.

The court will not, under any circumstances, suffer money paid in by a purchaser of an estate sold under its order, to be paid out to a mortgagee, until a proper conveyance shall have been executed to purchaser. Rex v. Adam, 9 Price, 660. VENDOR & PURCH.

Where a gross sum is required to be paid out of hands of court, it is to be done by petition; but where interest only is sought, a motion is sufficient. Anon. 4 Mad. 228. But see Shipbrooke v. Hinchinbrook, 13 Ves. 394. PR. MOTION; PR. PETITION.

Court will dissolve injunction granted on ground of fraud, to restrain proceedings by assured against assurer, on terms of latter paying sums claimed into court, to await event of answer not come in, if the amount of the losses claimed be not paid into court; and they will not permit money so paid in to be taken out on ground of great lapse of time between the filing bill and putting in the answer, unless it clearly appear that the delay was gross and wilful on the part of the defendant, and that he was plainly not disposed to answer at all. Kensington v. White, 3 Price, 164.

Arrears of annuity ordered to be paid to widow and executrix, although no report of debt had been made, it being stated by her answer, that there was no deficiency of assets. Skinner v. Sweet, Coop. 54. PR. MASTER'S REPORT AS TO DEBTS; ANNUITY, ARREARS OF.

Order after the bill dismissed for payment of money out of court. Wright v. Mitchell, 18 Ves. 293. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL.

Money not paid out of court on motion. Id. Shipbrooke v. Id. Hinchinbrook, 13 Ves. 394. But see Anon. 4 Mad. 228. PR. MOTION.

To get money out of the court, however small the amount, a prerogative probate is necessary. Thomas v. Davies, 12 Ves. 417. PROBATE; EXECUTOR.

Payment in part of a legacy, ordered on motion with consent; the funds admitted to be ample. Pearce v. Baron, 12 Ves. 459. LEGACY; PR. MOTION.

The rule of evidence in the accountant-general's office ought to be the same as in the court; therefore upon marriage of woman entitled to interest of fund for separate use, an affidavit was required beyond that of the marriage and identity, that there was no settlement, or agreement for settlement; without prejudice to future cases. Clayton v. Gresham, 10 Ves. 288. PR. ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE; PR. EVIDENCE.

To obtain payment to representatives, mere production of probate is not sufficient, proof of death is now required, and that testator was the party in the cause. Id. 289. REPRESENTATIVES; EXECUTORS; PR. EVIDENCE.

Order for transfer, and payment out of court though cause abated, the right being clear. Roundell v. Currer, 6 Ves. 250. PR. ABATEMENT.

A legacy of 100l. was ordered to be paid to a person having a general power of attorney from the legatee, without any power authorizing him to receive this legacy specifically. Carr v. Eastbrook, 2 Cox, 390. POWER OF ATTORNEY.

In a suit for payment of creditors, the real estates of testator were ordered to be sold. A, being reported the purchaser of one of the estates for 14,480*l.*, entered into possession, and accepted the title, and proper conveyances were executed on application by the creditors to have the purchase money paid out. The purchaser stated that the tenants of the estate had been served with a writ of right at the suit of a person who claimed the whole estate under an adverse title; but the court thought that the purchaser, having accepted the title, &c., could not prevent the money being paid out of court, and ordered accordingly. Thomas v. Powell, 2 Cox, 394. VENDOR & PURCH.; TITLE.

An executor, having admitted a large balance of the personal estate to be in his hands, was ordered to pay the whole into court, although he stated that an action at law was depending against him for a debt to a considerable amount, due from the testator; but with liberty in case the plaintiff in the action should recover, to apply to the court to have a sufficient sum paid out again. Yare v. Harrison, 2 Cox, 377. EXECUTOR; PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

Money devised to be laid out in land for feme covert in tail, with reversion to her in fee; she chose to have it paid to her husband: not paid without affidavit by the husband and wife that there is no settlement. Binford v. Bawden, 2 Ves. J. 38. HUSB. & WIFE; SEPARATE ESTATE.

Court will retain monies decreed to parties, on the applications of persons having claims upon them. Dk. Bolton v. Williams, 4 Bro. C. C. 430.

Where money was in court decreed to be laid out in land, the court refused it to be paid out to the person first entitled to an estate tail in it, with the ultimate remainder in fee, if any intermediate remainders should be found to exist. Hardcastle v. Shafto, 1 Anst. 67. MONEY DECREED TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND; TENANT IN TAIL.

Prerogative probate necessary for the accountant general to pay money out of court. Dicker v. Horner, 3 Bro. C. C. 240. Vide S. C. Dick. 746. WILL, PROBATE OF.

A sum of money being in court to be laid out in lands which, when purchased, would be subject to the bond debts of testator, the debts decreed to be paid out of the fund in court. Cattell v. Money, 3 Bro. C. C. 256.

The court will not direct money to be paid out to an infant executrix, but will refer it to the master to enquire whether there are any debts or legacies, and to consider of a maintenance. Cumport v. Cumport, 3 Bro. C. C. 195.

Upon a second verdict the same as the first, but for a less sum, the last sum recovered only, and the costs of the last trial ordered to be paid out of money in court, upon an injunction to stay execution on the first, the costs of which are to be returned. Waddle v. Johnson, 1 Ves. J. 30.

Though a cause be abated, money may be ordered to be paid out of court, without reviving the cause, upon the consent of all the parties actually interested. Beard v. El. Powis, 2 Ves. 399. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR.

On motion for application of money placed in bank by a former order, you must not only have a certificate that the money was paid in the bank, but that it is actually there at the time of the motion. Anon. 1 Atk. 519. PR. MOTION.

The court will order money out of court to person entitled to it by decree, notwithstanding death of some of the parties. Finch v. Id. Winchelsea, 1 Eq. Ab. 2. PR. ABATEMENT.

Defendant must put in plea before he applies for prohibition. Walker v. Tunderheide, Dick. 336.

Plea put in after time to answer obtained, discharged. Newton v. Dent, Dick. 234.

On time given to answer, the defendant may put in a plea, for that is as an answer and on oath, but he cannot put in demurrer. Anon. 2 P. W. 464. and see notes there. PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

Defendant cannot plead after proclamations returned, nor can plea be taken upon a general commission to take the answer only. Lloyd v. Gunter, 1 Vern. 275. See 1 Sim. & S. 226. PR. PROCLAMATION; PR. COMM. TO TAKE ANSWER.

Wrong party sued; advantage must be taken by plea, not by motion. Harrison v. Haule, Cary, 61.

3. Jurat, attestation and signature of.

A plea may be put in without oath, in a case where the matter of the plea appears on record; but if it be any thing that does not appear on record, the plea must be in on oath. Beame's Ord. 26.

Pleas in disability of the person, or to the jurisdiction of the court under the hand of counsel, shall be received and filed, although defendant does not deliver the same in person, or by commission. Beame's Pleas, 315, apprehends this has been considered to imply, that it was not necessary to swear the parties to such particular pleas; and he refers to Curs. Canc. 181. Wy. Pr. Reg. 324. Mitt. Pl. 239. Newl. Har. 230. Newl. Pr. 42.

All pleas and answers, as well those taken by commission as those sworn before a master, to be signed by the parties swearing the same in the presence of the master, or of the commissioners before whom the same shall be taken respectively. Beame's Ord. 452. 2 Atk. 289.

Plea taken by commission need not be signed by counsel. Simms v. Smith, 4 Mad. 366. PR. SIGNATURE OF COUNSEL; PR. COMMISSION TO TAKE PLEA.

Plea of matter of record, with averments of matters in pais, must be filed upon oath; therefore, plea of the stat. 32 Hen. 8. c. 9. against selling pretended titles, with the necessary averments of want of possession, &c., not being on oath, ordered to be taken off the file, though set down by the plaintiff for argument; this irregularity not admitting waiver. Wall v. Stubbs, 2 V. & B. 354. BUYING OF TITLES; STAT. C. OF.

Plea of mere matter of record not filed on oath, being proved by production of the record. Id. 367. OATH.

Plea, without oath, of plaintiff's conviction for felony, to a bill by the residuary legatee for an account of the personal estate for a testatrix, who died after the conviction but before sentence of transportation completed, allowed: the conviction proved by the record alone, and not necessary to state even the identity upon oath. — v. Davis, 19 Ves. 81. PL. PLEA.

A plea of the plaintiff's bankruptcy must be put in upon oath. Joseph v. Luckey, 2 Cox, 44. PL. PLEA OF BANKCY.

Plea of outlawry, with the common averment of the identity of the person, need not be upon oath. Took v. Took, 2 Vern. 198. See Mitt. Pl. 243.

Plea of privilege ought to be upon oath. Gibson v. Whitacre, id. 83.

Plea of outlawry to be on oath. Parrot v. Bawden, id. 37.

Plea of a former suit depending for the same matter, is put in without oath. Urtin v. Hudson, 1 Vern. 332.

An answer and plea taken by commission was returned, "this answer was taken upon oath," &c. so the plea was not on oath, and therefore rejected; but without costs; because the court apprehended it to be the fault of the commissioners who took it. Jefferson v. Dawson, 2 Ch. Ca. 208.

Plea of outlawry, or plea of privilege by a scholar resident at an university, need not be upon oath. Pratt v. Taylor, 1 C. C. 237. Anon. id. 258.

Plea put in by husband, in the names of himself and his wife, who refuses to swear to it: ordered to be accepted as the plea of the husband only. Pain v. —, 1 C. C. 296. Husb. & Wife.

Defendant put in a foreign plea, without swearing it: ordered, that he be sworn to it, or else a nil dicit to be returned. Conners v. Savil, Cho. Ca. Ch. 164. Yelverton v. Burton, Toth. 148.

4. Setting down, and argument of.

Demurrers and pleas which tend to discharge the suit shall be heard first upon every day of orders. Beame's Ord. 26.

No plea or demurrer to be entered in the paper at the instance of any person, or warrant for setting down the same on any certain day, unless the suitor shall bring such order or warrant to the registrar to be entered at least two days before the day appointed for hearing such demurrer or plea; and no addition or alteration to be made in paper after it shall have been made and set up in the registrar's office. Id. 121.

Such pleas as are grounded on the substance and body of the matter, or extend to the jurisdiction of the court, shall be determined in open court; and for that purpose defendant must enter the same within eight days after the filing, or in default it shall be disallowed of course as put in for delay, and shall not afterwards be admitted to be set down and debated, unless by order of court. Id. 174. If defendant does not enter his plea within the eight days, he must be presumed to have abandoned it. Jordan v. Sawkins, 3 Bro. C. C. 372. Costs, on allowing or overruling a plea, to be 5*l.* Beame's Ord. 320. And if this be inadequate, such further costs as the court shall think fit. Id. 456.

Where defendant puts in a plea, he must set it down by the Wednesday se'nnight following, or it is to stand overruled. If so overruled, or if overruled at the hearing, defendant is forthwith to pay 40*s.* costs; if it be ordered to stand good, plaintiff to pay 30*s.* costs. If defendant will put in an answer two days before the day appointed for the hearing of the plea, or give notice thereof to plaintiff's attorney, he is to pay plaintiff 20*s.* costs. Ord. Exch. (10.) Kirkby's Ord. 6.

Whenever a plea is filed so late in or after the term that it cannot be argued by the sittings after that term, or if filed before the seal day after term, it shall be put down to be argued in the first Wednesday of the succeeding term. Id. 38.

If plaintiff shall, two days before a plea is appointed to be heard, give notice to defendant that he will reply thereto, plaintiff shall then reply thereto within a week without costs, or in default defendant to be dismissed with 30s. costs. If two days before the hearing plaintiff will give notice that he admits the plea, he may do so on payment of 20s. costs. Id.

All pleas, &c. to be set down to be argued on every Wednesday in the term, and whenever a term begins on a Wednesday, all pleas filed on or previous to the last day of the preceding sitting of the court to be argued on such Wednesday; and all pleas filed on a Wednesday in term, to be set down for that day se'night, if within the term. Ord. Exch. 10th May, 1777. 1 Fowl. 39.

When a plea is filed to a bill, the defendant should not only set down the plea, but give a rule for arguing it. Parker v. Alcock, 1 Y. & J. 195.

A plea had been set down, but at the hearing plaintiff declined arguing it, stating his intention to amend. By desiring to amend, plaintiff admits the validity of the plea; it must therefore be allowed with usual costs. Lopes v. De Tustet, 3 Mad. 183.

When a plea is directed to stand for an answer, with leave to except, plaintiff is entitled to costs. Houling v. Butler, 2 Mad. 245.

Plea set down by defendant, if he does not appear when plea called on, and affidavit of plaintiff having been served with order to set down, plea will be overruled; and if no such affidavit made, will be struck out of paper, and will not be restored but on affidavit accounting for delay. Mazarrado v. Maitland, id. 38. PR. HEARING, DEFAULT, APPEARANCE.

A plea of outlawry ought to be set down for argument by the defendant. Chapman v. Lansdown, 2 Anst. 554. PLEA OF OUTLAWRY.

After a plea was set down, plaintiff obtained an order of course to amend the bill, which he served on defendant. When the plea came on to be argued he did not appear, whereupon it was allowed with costs. The Ld. Ch. said, he much doubted whether an order to amend does, without more, strike the plea off the record. Jennings v. Pearce, 1 Ves. J. 447.

A plea of another suit depending for the same matter is referred to the master of course without being set down. Anon. id. 484.

If plaintiff should not obtain a reference within a month, defendant may move to dismiss the bill, notwithstanding he should have erroneously set the plea down. Baker v. Bird, 2 Ves. J. 672.

Plea must be set down within eight days. Jordan v. Sawkins, 3 Bro. C. C. 372.

Plaintiff having referred a plea for impertinence, afterwards set the plea down for argument. This is a waiver of the reference for impertinence, notwithstanding the defendant had attended the master upon it. Dixon v. Olmuis, 1 Cox, 412. WAIVER; IMPERTINENCE.

Bill for relief and discovery, answer to relief; plea to discovery; argument of plea not necessary before exceptions taken to answer. Pigot v. Stace, Dick. 496. S. P. Sidney v. Perry, id. 602.

If upon plea of former decree or another suit depending, the master reports the fact true, plaintiff may except to the master's report, and bring on the matter before the court. Durrand v. Hutchinson, Mitf. Pl. 247.

Bill amended after plea set down, on payment of 20s. costs, and 5l. for the plea. Vernon v. Cue, Dick. 358.

When a plea is put in, the bill cannot be dismissed for want of prosecution, until the plea is argued. Anon. Barn. 208.

After a plea put in there can be no motion for an injunction till the plea is argued. Humphreys v. Humphreys, 3 P. W. 396. PR. INJUNCTION.

A defendant in a plea of a purchase for a valuable consideration omits to deny notice; if the plaintiff replies to it, all the defendant has to do, is to prove his purchase, and it is not material if the plaintiff proves notice, for it was the plaintiff's own fault, that he did not set down the plea to be argued, in which case, it would have been overruled. Harris v. Ingledew, 3 P. W. 94. VEND. & PURCH.; NOTICE.

Defendant pleaded pendency of a former suit, and answered to other part. Plaintiff replied generally to the answer, without taking notice of the plea. Witnesses were examined on both sides, and the cause was heard, and a trial directed, which went against defendant, who then petitioned for a rehearing, and insisted that plaintiff ought to have set down the plea. But the court held that defendant, by his proceedings, had waived the plea. Lucas v. Holder, 1 Eq. Ab. 41.

Where a defendant pleads to part, and answers to the residue of the bill, the plaintiff cannot except to the answer till the plea is argued, or an order obtained that it shall stand for an answer, with liberty to except. Darnell v. Reyney, 1 Vern. 344. PR. EXCEPTION TO ANSWER.

Wherever there is a plea put in to a bill, though there is an answer likewise, the bill cannot be dismissed for want of prosecution till the plea is argued. Anon. Barn. 280. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

If the defendant pleads in bar, the plaintiff is not obliged to elect till the plea is argued, for the plea denies the right to sue in equity. Anon. Mos. 304. Vaughan v. Welsh, id. 210. PR. ELECTION.

5. Withdrawing and waiver.

Plea to bill of review of length of time since enrolment of decree, under which part of the estate had been sold to bona fide purchasers, who had possession for twenty-seven years; on argument of plea, and on appeal, leave was given to withdraw plea, with liberty to plead and demur, answer or demur alone, without introduction of new matter. Gorman v. McCulloch, 5 Bro. P. C. 597. BILL OF REVIEW; PL. PLEA; LENGTH OF TIME.

In what manner and case defendant may waive his plea. Lucas v. Holder, 1 Eq. Ab. 41.

6. Allowance and overruling, when, and effect of.

After plea allowed to part of bill, plaintiff cannot amend his bill without special order to be obtained on notice of motion, stating proposed amendments. Taylor v. Shaw, 2 S. & S. 12. PR. BILL; AMENDMENT.

After plea of settled account allowed to part of bill, motion to amend bill by stating facts which tended to shew that there was no settled account, or that plaintiff ought to be allowed to surcharge and falsify, was refused with costs. Id. ib. PR. BILL; AMENDMENT.

Defendant who has pleaded to bill cannot demur to it ore tenus on his plea being overruled, because there is no demurrer on the record. Hook v. Dorman, 1 S. & S. 227. PR. PLEADING, &c. ORE TENUS; PR. DEMURRER.

After a plea overruled, an order for time to answer obtained as of course, is irregular. Ferrand v. Pelham, 1 Turn. & R. 404. PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

Plaintiff wishing to amend bill after plea is set down, admits plea, and on payment of usual costs of 6l., plaintiff is at liberty to amend. Lopes v. De Taster, 3 Mad. 183. PR. AMENDING BILL.

On plea found false, plaintiff is entitled to decree, and if discovery is necessary, to examine defendant on interrogatories. Wood v. Strickland, 2 V. & B. 158. PR. EXAMON. OF DEFT. ON INTERROGATORIES.

The plea was overruled on a ground of form. The defendant pleaded the same matter again more formally. This is irregular. Semble. Freeland v. Johnson, 2 Anst. 407.

After plea set down, order obtained of course by plaintiff to amend the bill, and served on defendant, plaintiff not appearing when the cause came on to be argued, it was allowed of course with costs. Jennings v. Pearce, 1 Ves. J. 447. LACHES.

Amended bill is out of court by allowance of plea posterior to the date of the bill; otherwise, if prior. Id. 448. PR. AMENDED BILL.

A defendant to a bill of revivor cannot plead to that suit a plea which had been pleaded by the original defendant and overruled. Samuda v. Furtado, 3 Bro. C. C. 70. PR. PLEA; PR. ABATEMENT AND REVIVOR.

Amending bill after plea, is not allowing of plea. Vere v. Glynn, Dick. 441.

When plea is allowed, injunction is dissolved absolutely. Philips v. Langhorn, id. 148.

A demurrer may be put in after a plea is overruled. E. I. Comp. v. Campbell, 1 Ves. 246. PR. DEMURRER.

Where plaintiff replies to plea, he admits it to be a good bar, if the facts alleged therein are true; and, therefore, he cannot afterwards complain of the order made for allowing the plea, but must proceed to examine witness to falsify it. Dunsany v. Shaw, 5 Bro. P. C. 267. PR. REPLICATION.

If plaintiff replies to defendant's plea, he thereby admits the plea to be good, if it be true, and the validity of the plea can never after be considered, but only the truth of it, as he proves it, or the plaintiff disproves it. Parker v. Blythmore, Præc. Chan. 58. Id.

Though a plea in bar be allowed, yet the plaintiff may reply and put the defendant to the proof of it. Anon. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 184. Id.

If a plea or demurrer be overruled, the defendant must answer the whole bill, and the ordinary process of contempt issues to compel an answer as in other cases; but if an answer was filed with the plea or demurrer, the defendant, upon his plea or demurrer being overruled, need not put in another answer till the plaintiff has taken exceptions. Cotes v. Turner, Bunb. 123. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER; PR. ANSWER; PR. DEMURRER, OVERRULING.

7. Amendment of.

Where to an information for discovery against an army agent under the stat. 45 G. 3. c. 58. s. 25., which empowers the secretary at war, &c. to call for the accounts of army agents which have not been finally settled, the defendant pleaded a stated account by clearing warrants, which plea was overruled by the court, and afterwards the documents upon which the clearing warrants were founded were produced, and the defendant deposed, that by the course of the war office, the clearing warrants amounted to a stated account, the court refused to permit the defendant to amend his plea by embodying the accounts, being of opinion, that they would not amount to a plea of a stated account. Att. Gen. v. Brooksbank, 2 Y. & J. 37.

Amendment of plea allowed where error was occasioned by clerk of outlawries, and did not affect substance. Waters v. Mayhew, 1 S. & S. 220. PR. OFFICER OF COURT; MISTAKE.

When plea is supported by answer, no amendment of plea will be permitted. Tompson v. Wild, 5 Mad. 82.

Where defendant had described their farms by so many acres, and an objection was taken at hearing to want of sufficient description of local situation, the court permitted the cause to proceed, suggesting, that if the objection was insisted on, leave would be given to defendant to file interrogatories for the purpose of enlarging the description. Wright v. Southwood, 5 Price, 607. TITHES.

Defendant was permitted to go into evidence of his right to tithes, where his title appeared likely to be clearly established, although he had inaccurately stated the subject matter of his defence in his answer. Wilmot v. Lillaby, 5 Price, 355. Id.

Where defendant states in his answer, that modus has been immemorially paid to vicar in lieu of tithes, and vicarage is shewn to have been endowed within time of legal memory, court will allow modus to be re-stated so as to take issue to try modus. Prece v. Bennett, 1 Price, 236. Id.

Leave to amend plea not of course; amendment must be stated. Wood v. Strickland, 2 V. & B. 150.

Plea good in substance but bad in form, allowed to be amended. Merrewether v. Mellish, 13 Ves. 435.

Not usual to refuse leave to amend a plea; but defendant must be tied down to a very short time; and where it seemed incapable of amendment he had leave to withdraw and plead de novo in a fortnight. Nobkissen v. Hastings, 2 Ves. J. 85. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 252.

Bill to set aside agreement and release on ground of fraud, &c.; plea of the agreement and release to the whole: no answer put in, nor any denial of fraud; leave to amend refused, and plea overruled. Freeland v. Johnson, 1 Anst. 276.

In Pope v. Bish, 1 Anst. 59., the bill charged an award to have been corruptly obtained; defendant put in a plea setting up the award, and denying the specific charges of fraud. The court overruled the plea, as not bringing the cause to a single point, but gave leave to amend it by striking out the special averments.

The plea having been once amended, the court refused to allow any further amendment or liberty to plead anew. Nabob of Arcot v. E. I. Comp. 3 Bro. C. C. 292. Vide S. C. 1 Ves. J. 371.

Though there have been cases in which the court has permitted pleas to be amended, where there has been an evident slip or mistake, and the material ground of defence seemed to be sufficient, yet the court always expects to be told precisely what the amendment is to be, and how the slip happened, before they allow the amendment to take place. Newman v. Wallis, 2 Bro. C. C. 147.

8. Of former suit, reference on.

Plea of another suit for the same matter referred to master. Wild v. Hobson, 2 V. & B. 110. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Plea of a former suit depending for the same cause set down by the defendant, was struck out; but the plaintiff not having procured a reference to the master within a month, the bill was upon motion dismissed under the standing order. Baker v. Bird, 2 Ves. J. 672. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL; GEN. ORDER.

Plea of another suit, depending for the same cause, referred to the master of course without being set down. Daniel v. Mitchell, 1 Ves. J. 484. S. C.

3 Bro. C. C. 544. PR. SETTING DOWN CAUSE TO BE ARGUED.

Where, on plea of former decree, plaintiff sets down cause, he waives his right to reference to master as to such decree. Morgan v. Morgan, 1 Atk. 63. WAIVER; REFERENCE TO MASTER.

9. Where ordered to stand for answer, practice on.

See PL. PLEA, 19.

When plea is ordered to stand for answer with liberty to except; plaintiff is entitled to costs. Howling v. Butler, 2 Mad. 245. PR. COSTS.

The defendant pleaded to the whole bill, and on arguing the plea, it was ordered to stand for an answer without saying one way or the other, whether the plaintiff might except; the plaintiff not allowed to except, for that by an answer was meant a sufficient answer; an insufficient answer being as none. Sellon v. Leven, 3 P. W. 239.

If a plea is to stand for an answer without liberty to except, the plaintiff may except to the rest of the answer. Coke v. Wilcocks, Mos. 73. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWER.

If a plea is ordered to stand for an answer the defendant cannot move to dissolve the injunction absolutely, but only nisi. Osborn v. Couper, id. 133. PR. MOTION TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION.

LXX. PRIORITY OF SUIT.

See also PR. CROSS BILL.

Plaintiff, in original bill, loses his priority of suit, and his right to have an answer to the original bill before he is called upon to answer cross bill, by amending original bill; though such amendment be after the order for time to answer the cross bill, until after answer to original bill. Johnson v. Freer, 2 Cox, 371. PR. BILL; AMENDMENT; PR. CROSS BILL.

Bill abated by marriage of plaintiff, and not revived till after cross bill filed, loses priority. Smart v. Floyer, Dick. 260.

Original bill must be answered first; but if after cross bill filed, plaintiff materially amends, he loses his priority. Long v. Burton, id. 82.

R, and his wife, filed an original bill, to which the defendant, D, put in his plea, and it was allowed; D filed a cross bill against R and his wife, to which they put in their answer, and exceptions were taken; then B and his wife filed their amended bill against D, who appeared and prayed six weeks time to put in his answer to the amended bill, after R and his wife shall have answered the cross bill; the plaintiff in the cross bill, having procured a report that the answer of R to it was insufficient, R, by that means, lost the priority of suit. Ratray v. Darley, 3 Atk. 724. PR. CROSS BILL.

If, after a cross bill filed, plaintiff, in original bill, will amend it in material parts, and thinks fit to compel an answer to the amendments, at the same time with the original bill, he waives his priority of answer to the original. Long v. Burton, 2 Atk. 218. PR. AMENDMENT; PR. CROSS BILL.

LXXI. PRISONER.

As to persons in custody refusing to be served with a copy of the decree, 5 G. 2. c. 25. s. 3.

Where a messenger has been sent upon a return of corpus, and the defendant is in K. B. prison upon mesne process, a habeas corpus must next be obtained. Nadine v. Wagstaff, 1 Sim. 389. PR. PROCESS.

Where party is in custody of warden of Fleet under process from the C. P. and is detained by attachment from chancery, he must be brought up by habeas corpus to bar of this court and turned over to warden of Fleet before sequestration can issue. Const v. Barr, 2 S. & S. 452. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Where an attachment issues against a defendant in custody in the K. B. prison, it is to be lodged with the marshal, and an habeas corpus may then be moved for before return of the attachment. Trotter v. Trotter, 1 Jac. 533. PR. ATTACHMENT.

An order that defendant shall be released from Fleet prison on payment or tender of costs of contempt, warden must release him on affidavit of such tender. Anon. 1 Mad. 109. PR. ORDER, C. OF.

Process to obtain decree pro confesso not applied to prisoner in Newgate under criminal sentence, who, if brought up by habeas corpus, must be remanded immediately, and cannot as in a civil cause be turned over to Fleet cum causis, subject to further process by alias habeas corpus. Moss v. Brown, 1 V. & B. 306. PR. PROCESS; PR. DECREE PRO CONFESSO.

Order, that defendant, a prisoner in Newgate under sentence for forgery, being brought up for want of answer, should be turned over to the Fleet; and then carried back to Newgate with his cause. S. C. id. 78. PR. CONTEMPT.

Defendant, in Newgate, under a criminal sentence, having been brought up by habeas corpus for not putting in his answer, and remanded to Newgate, as to the farther proceeding; quære? Lloyd v. Passingham, 15 Ves. 179. PR. HABEAS CORPUS; PR. ANSWER.

Plaintiff, by an order of the secretary of state confined, and to be removed out of the kingdom under the alien act, ordered on motion after appearance and before answer, to give security for the costs according to the practice where the plaintiff is resident abroad. Seiluz v. Hanson, 5 Ves. 261. PR. SECURITY FOR COSTS; ALIEN.

Special return to an attachment for not appearing, that defendant was imprisoned for felony, the plaintiff must proceed in the usual way by habeas corpus. Rogers v. Kirkpatrick, 3 Ves. 471. PR. ATTACHMENT; PR. HABEAS CORPUS.

Sequestration only goes where defendant is in custody of warden of Fleet, not of sheriff. Markham v. Wilkinson, 2 Anst. 579. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

On an injunction obtained, the court will not discharge the party out of custody, if taken on legal process. Willis v. Daniel, 1 Anst. 36. INJUNCTION.

Defendant in contempt and in custody, must be turned over to Fleet before sequestration can issue. Kinsey v. Yardley, Dick. 265.

A defendant, a prisoner in the K. B. prison under a criminal prosecution, brought up by habeas corpus, and turned over to the prison of the Fleet pro forma (to ground an order for a sequestration) and from thence carried back to the K. B. with his cause, and immediately a sequestration was moved for and granted. Bowes v. Cs. Strathmore, Dick. 711. PR. PROCESS.

LXXII. PRIVILEGE FROM ARREST.

Protection from arrest during attendance through an interval of adjournment to another period of the same day, at the same place. Id. ib.

A person attending commissioners of bankruptcy, without a summons, swearing, that he was a material witness, and not contradicted, protected from arrest, while remaining, though having left the room by order for the purpose of separate examination; and while returning; whether while going. Qu? Order to be discharged immediately, by the party in the first instance; if disobeyed, to be extended to the officer, with costs. Application at the bar without a petition, the proper form in such a case; and time to answer the affidavit refused. Exp. Ryne, 1 V. & B. 316. S. C. 1 Rose, 451. BANKRUCY; WITNESS.

Protection from arrest of persons attending commissioners of bankruptcy, for the purpose of aiding them in the administration of justice eundo, morando et redeundo, not by having a summons, but upon principle applying to a witness or party. Id. 319.

A solicitor arrested on his way from his residence to Lincoln's-inn Hall, without deviation, for the purpose of attending a bankrupt petition as solicitor, discharged on personal examination by the Ld. Ch., the oath administered by the register, but to be entitled in the bankruptcy. Castle's Case, 16 Ves. 412.

A solicitor arrested upon his return, direct from attending his client's business in Lincoln's-inn Hall to his own house without delay or deviation, discharged, upon examination rius vice of him and the officer, taken, and the oath administered, personally by the Ld. Ch., sitting in the bankruptcy; the register therefore not being present. Cascone's Case, 14 Ves. 183.

Solicitor arrested in his return from attending the master, discharged in the original action and subsequent detainers, the proper course is an order upon all the plaintiffs to discharge him. Exp. Sedwich, 8 Ves. 698. CONTEMPT OF COURT; PR. ATTENDANCE BEFORE MASTER.

Plaintiff in action and detainers on arresting defendant returning from examination before master, ordered to discharge him. As to deviations from straight road. Sidgier v. Birch, 9 Ves. 69. PR. EXAMINATION BEFORE MASTER.

Plaintiff in his return from attending a motion against him in this cause was arrested, and a detainer lodged against him in another action: he was discharged from both; the court examining the parties personally, not by affidavit. Bromley v. Holland, 5 Ves. 2. CONTEMPT OF COURT.

A party attending an arbitrator under an order of the court, is privileged from arrest. Moore v. Booth, 3 Ves. 350. ARBITRATOR.

Where order nisi for sequestration is obtained against a privileged person, he is not in contempt, unless he neglects to obey the order nisi. Smallbrook v. Ld. Donegal, 3 Anst. 647. CONTEMPT; SEQUESTRATION.

Such order nisi may be served on clerk in court of defendant. Id. ib. PR. SERVICE OF SEQUESTRATION.

Where a party is taken after he has obtained an injunction, but before notice given of it, the detaining him after notice is no contempt. Willis v. Daniel, 1 Anst. 36. PR. INJUNCTION; PR. CONTEMPT.

Where plaintiff is under protection of foreign ambassador, he must give security to costs. Adderly v. Smith, Dick. 355.

Arresting servant of foreign minister; not lodging in his house, was breach of privilege within 7th Anne. In mre. Count Haslang, Dick. 274.

Defendant coming for the purpose of putting in his answer, was arrested at the plaintiff's suit, and detainers lodged against him. He was discharged, being a breach of the privilege of the court. Alisbury v. Troughton, 1 C. R. 92.

Order upon the sheriff to discharge a defendant, arrested while attending his suit in chancery, and an order upon the party to discontinue an action against the sheriffs for the escape. Meynel v. Cooper, 1 C. R. 217.

LXXIII. PROCESS.

Process to obtain decree pro confesso, not applied to prisoner in Newgate, under criminal sentence, who, if brought up by habeas corpus, must be remanded immediately, and cannot, as in a civil cause, be turned over to Fleet cum causis, subject to farther process by alias habeas corpus. Mass v. Brown, 1 V. & B. 306. PR. DECREE PRO CONFESSO; PR. PRISONER.

Defendant in custody for want of his examination, discharged immediately on putting it in; but, if on reference it proves insufficient, the plaintiff not having accepted the costs, may proceed from the last process. Bonus v. Flack, 18 Vcs. 287. PR. CONTEMPT, DISCHARGE; PR. COSTS.

After process to a serjeant at arms issued, but not executed, answer and exceptions submitted to by a note between the clerks in court, but no further answer being put in, the serjeant at arms ordered to go. Waters v. Taylor, 10 Vcs. 417.

Serjeant at arms not granted under a four-day order to bring in books, &c. before the master, until made absolute by a subsequent order upon the master's certificate of the same date. Carleton v. Smith, 14 Vcs. 180.

The practice of personal service as a foundation for process of contempt, dispensed with where the party has had notice, as upon being in court on making a short order for execution of a decree. Riderv. Kidder, 12 Vcs. 202. S. P. De Manneville v. De Manneville, id. 203. PR. CONTEMPT; PR. NOTICE.

After cepi corpus, the plaintiff cannot move until the sheriff may bring in the body, but for a messenger, and afterwards a serjeant at arms. Wilkinson v. Belsher, 2 Bro. C. C. 161.

Sequestrators on mesne process will not be ordered to make leases. Ray v. —. PR. SEQUESTRATION; LEASE.

If after fi. fa. executed, other effects are discovered, another fi. fa. may issue, or a ca. sa. Hopkins v. Adcock, Dick. 443.

After ca. sa. executed, fi. fa. cannot issue, but after fi. fa., ca. sa. may. Id. ib.

Executing sequestration on mesne process improper. Heather v. Waterman, Dick. 335.

After return of cepi corpus, messenger sent to bring up body, defendant not to be found, serjeant at arms sent. Sambroke v. Ekins, id. 68.

Goods sequestered being insufficient to answer duty decreed, serjeant at arms revived. Barnesley v. Powell, id. 130. S. P. Hopkins v. Adcock, id. 443.

By prior consent of defendant, on petition, serjeant at arms sent, in case he did not answer. Ca. of Londonderry v. Cornthwaite, id. 285.

The whole line of process having been gone through against the plaintiff's husband, who had not appeared, is equal to the proceeding to outlawry at law, and there may be a decree for transfer of her separate property against the other defendants who did not appear. Vaneusen v. S. S. Comp., 1 Vcs. 395. S. C. Dick. 140. quod vide. HUSB. & WIFE.

The court will not order a serjeant at arms against a defendant in contempt for disobedience of an order, without an affidavit of service. Whitehead v. Thistlethwait, 3 Ark. 619.

A feme covert is liable to be arrested by the serjeant at arms, for not putting in a separate answer, pursuant to an order obtained at her own request. Powell v. Prentice, Ridgw. 258. PR. ANSWER; HUSB. & WIFE.

LXXIV. PROCHAIN AMI.

See also PR. COSTS, 10 (x).

The court will remove a next friend, and appoint a new one, where the former is so connected with a defendant having an interest adverse to that of the infants, as to make it probable that their interest will not be properly protected by him. Payton v. Bond, 1 Sim. 390.

A suit being instituted on behalf of infants by a solicitor wholly unconnected with the family, it was, on the motion of the defendant, referred to the master to inquire whether it would be for the infant's benefit that the suit should be prosecuted; the defendant undertaking to render to the master the accounts prayed for by the bill. Richardson v. Miller, 1 Sim. 133. INFANT; PR. REFERENCE OF SUIT FOR INFANT'S BENEFIT.

Prochain ami becoming insolvent, and receiving costs after answer filed, motion that he might be removed, and another appointed, refused as informal, but leave given to apply to stay proceedings, and to be changed, or security given for costs. James v. Alvin, 1 S. & S. 264. MOTION; COSTS; SECURITY FOR; INSOLVENCY.

Circumstances of proposed prochain ami not to be inquired into, though suggested that he was indigent. Davenport v. Davenport, 1 S. & S. 101.

Prochain ami withdrawing himself, ordered, on substitution of new prochain ami, to give security for costs already incurred. Id. ib. PR. COSTS.

Prochain ami of feme plaintiff being dead, she was ordered to appoint new one in two months, or bill dismissed with costs out of fund in court. Barlee v. Barlee, 1 S. & S. 100. PR. ABATEMENT AND REVIVOR.

The court will not, upon petition of an infant party, direct an enquiry whether the cause has been properly conducted; but if the next friend or guardian does not do his duty, he will be removed. Russell v. Sharpe, 1 Jac. & W. 482. INFANT.

Prochain ami cannot remove himself from that situation without reference to master. Melling v. Melling, 4 Mad. 261. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Infant on coming of age may dismiss bill filed for him, but cannot make prochain ami pay costs, unless he prove suit improperly instituted. Anon. 4 Mad. 461. INFANT; COSTS.

Prochain ami plaintiff dying after decree, reference to master to appoint another directed on motion of defendant. Pracey v. Sandiford, 3 Mad. 468. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR.

No reference, upon an application by the next friend of an infant, to see whether a suit which he himself has instituted, is for the infant's benefit. Jones v. Powell, 2 Mer. 141. PR. REFERENCE OF SUIT, IF FOR INFANT'S BENEFIT.

Prochain ami of infant plaintiffs not permitted to act as receiver. Stone v. W'ishart, 2 Mad. 64. PR. RECEIVER, WHO.

The court will change a next friend upon his not proceeding with a cause; solicitor is not to attach without orders from his client, but where the client is next friend of an infant, and moves to discharge the attachment on that ground, although otherwise regularly issued, it seems that the court will refer it to the master, to see whether it is for the interest of the infant, that the next friend should be continued. Ward v. Ward, 3 Mer. 706.

Trustee or next friend of infant is entitled to fair expenses beyond taxed costs, under the head of just allowances. Fearn v. Young, 10 Ves. 184. PR. COSTS; TRUSTEE.

Bill by infant dismissed with costs, upon facts which, though not known when the bill was filed, might have been with reasonable diligence; the next friend not allowed the costs out of the infant's estate; but whether they shall be repaid, and from what fund, or by whom, was reserved until the hearing. Peauce v. Pearce, 9 Ves. 548. INFANT; PR. COSTS.

Court refused prochain ami the costs beyond taxed costs. Osbrye v. Denuc, 3 Ves. 424. PR. COSTS.

Writ of ne exeat regno obtained by a resident here against a resident in the West Indies, upon a demand arising there, when the answer came in, was discharged under the circumstances, with costs against the prochain ami of the infant plaintiff, but upon the admissions in the answer, the defendant was ordered to give security to abide the decree. Roddam v. Hetherington, 5 Ves. 91. NE EXEAT REGNO; RESPONDER; COSTS.

After answer plaintiff not compelled to change next friend, on affidavit that she was worth nothing, and not found till after answer contradicted by her, swearing to 44l. a year; defendant ought not to have answered, but should have said he could not find her. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 409. PL. ANSWER.

Next friend cannot sue in forma pauperis, but ought not to be discharged for poverty; dangerous to displace him, though perhaps there may be a case gross enough for it. Id. 410. PR. PAUPER.

A master's report on a reference to inquire whether a suit instituted in the name of an infant, by a prochain ami, was necessary, is not a subject for exceptions; but any objection to it must be made on the motion to confirm the report. Whitaker v. Marlar, 1 Cox, 285. PR. MOTION; PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Nothing short of a dishonest intention will be sufficient to fix a prochain ami personally with costs; no degree of mistake nor misapprehension will be sufficient. Id. ib. PR. COSTS.

Reference, which suit by prochain amis most advantageous to infant, one ordered to prosecute, other not restrained further, it being at his peril to proceed. Owen v. Owen, Dick. 310.

On death of prochain ami, and plaintiff refusing to name new prochain ami, defendant, after ten day's notice, to be at liberty to name one. Lancaster v. Thornton, id. 346.

Motion on infant's behalf to restrain defendant's executor receiving more of personal estate, and rents and profits of real estate, and for receiver; prochain ami ordered to pay costs of motion refused. Buckley v. Buckeridge, id. 395.

Order to appoint a new prochain ami in the room of the deceased prochain ami. Lancaster v. Thornton, Amlbl. 398. S. C. 1 Dick. 346.

The next friend of an infant allowed costs, though the bill had been dismissed, the master having previously reported the suit for the infant's benefit. Tanner v. Ivie, 2 Ves. 466. S. C. Dick. 168. PR. COSTS.

The deposition of the prochain ami of the plaintiff cannot be read for the plaintiff, he being liable to costs. Head v. Head, 3 Atk. 511. PR. EVID.

The depositions of a wife of a prochain ami cannot be read, as the husband is liable to costs. Id. 547. PR. EVID. WITNESS, COMPETENCY; HUSB. & WIFE.

A prochain ami need not be a relation, but he must be a person of substance, because liable to costs. Anon. 1 Atk. 570.

A feme covert was permitted to change her prochain ami, after a considerable progress in the cause, the new one entering into a recognizance to answer the costs, and abide the order. Linsley or Halpen v. Halpen, Bunb. 310. FEME COVERT.

An infant, by prochain ami, brings a bill, and never stirs in it after he comes of age, and the bill is dismissed; the infant and prochain ami are both liable to pay costs. Turner v. Turner, 2 P. W. 297. Sel. Ca. in Ch. 49. 2 Stra. 708. INFANT; COSTS.

Any person may, as prochain ami, exhibit a bill in the name of an infant, without his leave, but cannot in the name of a feme covert. Andrew v. Craddock, Prec. Chan. 376. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 38.

Where it appears upon affidavit that the prochain ami is insolvent, he must give security for costs. Wale v. Salter, Mos. 47. Anon. Mos. 66. PR. SECURITY FOR COSTS.

A prochain ami shall not be obliged to give security because he is a privileged person. Anon. id. 86. PR. SECURITY FOR COSTS.

LXXV. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

See also PR. INSPECTION OF DEEDS.—PR. INSPECTION.
ORDER FOR.

The master may order what books and papers shall be produced, and when and how long they are to be left in his office. 60th Gen. Ord. 3rd April, 1828.

The court does not usually compel a party to produce his title deeds as evidence, but where a party produces them to defeat his adversary, the opposite side is entitled to an inspection of them. Grange v. Cass, 2 Y. & J. 241. TITLE DEEDS; PR. INSPECTION OF DEEDS.

In a suit by a vicar against occupiers for tithes, a motion was made by the plaintiff for production of deeds, papers, and writings admitted by the answer of one of the defendants to be put in his possession or power. The defendant resisted the application on the ground that several of such documents related to and showed his title as lay impropriator to some of the tithes in question, the court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to the production of such of them as related to the title of the defendant to the tithes in question. Collins v. Gresley, 2 Y. & J. 490.

A party ordered to produce books, &c. before the master, is bound to leave them if the master thinks fit so to direct. Sidden v. Liddiard, 1 Sim. 38.

Where an information was filed by the attorney general under the 43 G. 3. c. 58. s. 25. against an army agent for a discovery of accounts from 1792 to 1802, who pleaded a settled account by clearing warrants, and the plea having been overruled, afterwards moved to amend the plea, and for the purpose of so doing that the attorney general or the secretary at war might be ordered to produce certain vouchers, accounts, &c. rendered annually during that period by the defendant to the war office, and there deposited, and which the defendant swore were material to his defence; the court under the particular circumstances ordered the proceedings upon the information to be stayed until the documents were produced. Att. Gen. v. Brookbank, 1 Y. & J. 439.

Where by arrangement between parties in cause to save time, it was agreed that deeds should not be read but should be entered as read, and an abstract thereof delivered to court, and plaintiff to be allowed to compare abstract with deeds: Held that plaintiff was only entitled to compare them as though read, and take minutes, but not to take copies or extracts therefrom. Brasier v. Mytton, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 613.

Under the general charge in a bill that the defendant has divers papers, writings, &c. in his possession or power, relating to the matters in the bill mentioned, the plaintiff is entitled to the production of cases submitted for the opinion of counsel admitted by the answer of the defendant to be in his possession, but not to the opinions given upon those cases. Though a plaintiff is generally speaking, entitled to the production and discovery of all papers relating to the matters in the bill mentioned in the defendant's possession or power, yet it seems that he is not entitled to the production of letters stated by the answer of the defendant to have been received by him since the filing of the bill in answer to enquiries made by him in respect to some of the matters in question, with a view to his proofs in the cause, nor to any particulars respecting such letters which would disclose the names of the witnesses or the facts likely to be proved by them. Preston v. Carr, 1 Y. & J. 175.

A party interested in documents in the custody of his adversary is entitled to their production. Imman v. Hodgson, 1 Y. & J. 28.

Under an order for production and inspection, it is not sufficient to leave the box containing the deeds in the hands of clerk in court locked, but the key must also be left, though party undertakes to attend with key when called on. Preston v. Carr, 1 M'Clel. 457.

Where defendant referred to his schedule as containing all deeds, &c. in his custody, &c. the plaintiff is entitled to the inspection of all such deeds, &c. as of course, unless it appeared by description of any particular instrument in schedule, or by affidavit that it was evidence not of the title of plaintiff but of the defendant, or that plaintiff had otherwise no interest in its production. Tyler v. Drayton, 2 S. & S. 309. PL. ANSWER.

Production of deed in plaintiff's possession ordered on motion, and affidavit that defendant believed instrument to be forged; and that he could not fully answer bill before he inspected it. Jones v. Lewis, 2 S. & S. 242.

It does not establish sufficient interest in a title deed relating to real estate, to warrant an order for its production, that if its effect be such as is sworn to by the party claiming the estate under it, legatee will lose the benefit of legacies bequeathed to them by that party's ancestor, from whom he immediately derives title. Wilson v. Forster, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 274.

As to how far vicar, plaintiff in title cause, is compellable to produce for inspection, &c. vicar's books and those of predecessors admitted by him in his answer to cross bill by defendant to be in his possession; and to contain entries relating to payments of sums of money as compositions corresponding in amount with the money payments set up by defendant as modus relied on. The costs of all proceedings had for the obtaining the discovery by such means, must be paid by party so acquiring it. Firkins v. Lowe, 13 Price, 193. S.C. 1 M'Clel. 73. PR. COSTS; TITHES, EVIDENCE.

Where partnership has expired by efflux of time, and in a suit for an account, &c. a receiver has been appointed before decree, the court will not compel defendant (the former managing partner) to deliver up to receiver for the purpose of making out bills of costs, partnership books and accounts which have remained in his hands, and title deeds belonging to a third person which came into possession of co-partners as solicitors, such defendant offering the receiver free access thereto, and to assist in making out such bills. Dacie v. John, 1 M'Clel. 206. S.C. 13 Pri. 446. PARTNERSHIP.

Where a party has a pressing necessity for papers in the hands of his solicitor, the court will order them to be delivered up, upon a deposit being made sufficient to cover the amount of the solicitor's bill and the costs of the taxation. Chilton v. Pardon, 1 Turn. & R. 304. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN.

In a suit instituted against a solicitor who had also acted in the capacity of steward, for an account and for delivery of title deeds, the court upon motion ordered the deeds to be delivered up to the plaintiff upon payment into court of so much of the balance claimed by the answer as was not covered by any security. Batch v. Symes, 1 Turn. & R. 87. See Tyler v. Drayton, 2 S. & S. 309. SOL. & CLIENT.

Where a deed is sought to be impeached, the plaintiff is entitled to have it produced, and the defendant cannot resist the production upon ground of lien. Id. ib. IMPEACHMENT OF DEEDS; LIEN.

A solicitor has no lien upon the will of his client, and cannot refuse to produce a deed executed by the client in his favour, containing a reservation of a life interest, and a power of revocation. Id. ib. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN.

Where a defendant admits books in the West Indies to be in his possession, custody or power, the court will order him to bring them here within a rea-reasonable time, and if they are not brought, will consider it the same as if he had them here in the first instance, and refused to produce them. Ferguson v. Balfour, 1 Turn. & R. 190.

A solicitor who has declined to proceed with a cause, will be ordered, though his bill of costs are not paid, to deliver up the papers to the present solicitor of the party, the latter undertaking to hold them subject to the former solicitor's lien, for what shall be found due to him on the taxation of the bills. An offer on the part of the former solicitor, after the motion is made, to proceed with the cause, will not prevent the court from ordering him to deliver up the papers on the terms above mentioned. Colegrave v. Manby, 1 Turn. & R. 400. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN; DECLINING TO ACT.

Covenant to produce title deeds remains with land for benefit of purchasers, but not for benefit of vendors. Barclay v. Raine, 1 S. & S. 449. COVENANT.

Solicitor refusing to allow deed in his possession to be proved on behalf of plaintiff because he had lien on it for costs due from defendant, ordered to produce it at his own expence and pay costs occasioned by his refusal. Brassington v. Brassington, 1 S. & S. 455. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN.

Plaintiff in title cause, lessee of vicar ordered on motion on part of defendant to bring in and deliver to clerk in court, books, papers, &c. stated in affidavits to be in his possession and to belong to vicar who was not a party to suit. Foreman v. Cooper, 11 Price, 515. PARTY.

Defendants setting up defence of title in landlord, and producing in evidence on hearing certain deeds belonging to landlord, ordered on petition to produce such deeds on trial of issue, or that they should admit facts which, as alleged by other parties, deeds would establish, although landlord was no party to suit. Pulley v. Hilton, 10 Price, 118. LANDLORD & TEN.; PL. PARTY; PL. ADMISSION BY ANSWER.

The court leaves it to the discretion of the master to determine under the usual order for production of books, whether they are to be merely produced from time to time or to be deposited with the master. Hennu v. Dunn, 6 Mad. 340.

A solicitor discharged by his client or his representatives, is not bound to produce the papers in his possession for the purpose of the cause, his bill of costs not being paid. Lord v. Wormleighton, 1 Jac. 580. SOL. & CLIENT.

Person interested in issue disaiti vel non, refusing to be party to it, is yet allowed to attend trial by counsel, and ordered to produce deeds, &c. except those she held as mortgagee. Pindar v. Smith, 6 Mad. 48. PR. ISSUE AT LAW.

A document which is stated in the bill, and which the answer admits and refers to, cannot be read from the bill at the hearing, but must be produced. Cox v. Allingham, 1 Jac. 339. PR. EVID.

A party ordered to produce papers which are in the hands of his solicitor, must pay his bill of costs if he cannot otherwise procure them. Exp. Shaw, 1 Jac. 272.

Rule that there must be schedule before court will order production of deeds and papers, applies only in cases of discovery. Anon. 6 Mad. 97. PL. DISCOVERY; PR. ANSWER; SCHEDULE.

The court will make interlocutory orders for production, only for security or discovery, and will not anticipate the decree. Lingen v. Simpson, 6 Mad. 290. PR. INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

It is not by the practice of exchequer required of a party charged by a bill to have deeds and documents &c. in his possession, material to the case on the other side, that he should protect himself from producing them by plea. The court will take care that he be not called on without good reason to produce his securities, for they watch with jealousy proceedings instituted for that purpose, and will require an unnecessary case to warrant their interference in making an order for their production. Vansittart v. Barber, 9 Price, 641. PL. PLEA.

Solicitor claiming lien on deeds cannot be compelled to produce them at hearing of cause, without subpoena duces tecum. Busk v. Lewis, 6 Mad. 29. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN; PR. SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM.

On a motion for a defendant to produce a deed before the examiner, affidavits cannot be read to prove the fact of its being in his possession; it must appear upon his answer. Leave given though the cause was at issue, to amend the bill for the purpose of obtaining that admission. Barnett v. Noble, 1 Jac. & W. 227. PL. ANSWER; PR. BILL, AMENDMENT.

If the original writ is required, the motion cannot be made without producing it. Ellerton v. Thirk, 1 Jac. & W. 376.

Production of deed unconnected with plaintiff's title and which destroys defendant's title, refused. Sampson v. Sweettenham, 5 Mad. 16.

The court has jurisdiction in bankruptcy to order the papers deposited by the bankrupt with his attorney, in actions commenced before the bankruptcy, to be delivered up to the assignees, provided they are necessary to the administration of the estate. But where assignees wanted such papers for the purpose of instituting criminal proceedings against the bankrupt, the court refused to make the order, and dismissed the petition with costs. Exp. Innes, Buck. 337. BANKRUCY, JURISDICTION.

After an order that the defendants should have a fortnight's time to answer, after the plaintiff had produced an instrument stated in the bill, fifteen months having elapsed without production, the plaintiff was ordered to produce the instrument on or before a day named, and production not being made, the bill was dismissed with costs. Princess of Wales v. El. Liverpool, 3 Swan. 567. PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

Order to registrar of ecclesiastical court should be directed "To the registrar of the court," and security for return of a will to him should be approved of by master. Quiley v. Quiley, 4 Mad. 213.

Court will not order plaintiffs (where cause has been referred to commissioners) to produce and leave documents, &c. in their possession in the hands of their clerk in court for inspection of defendants. Governor, &c. of Shrewsbury School v. Muddock, 7 Price, 655.

The court will not, on bill for tithes praying discovery of documentary evidence, order production of a tithe book of former rector shown to have been in the possession of defendant's attorney, unless it clearly appear from admissions in the answer that it would assist plaintiff's case. But if there be enough shown to give colour for the application, court will not give costs to defendant. Bligh v. Benson, 7 Price, 205. TITHES; EVID.

Admission in answer that defendant some time past had deed in possession, not sufficient to warrant order for its production. Heenan v. Midland, 4 Mad. 391. PL. ANSWER; ADMISSIONS.

The plaintiff is entitled to the production of documents referred to in the answer, and admitted to be in the custody of the defendant, although an injunction obtained by the plaintiff has been dissolved on the ground that the contract which he seeks to enforce is illegal. Erans v. Richardson, 1 Swan. 7. ADMISSION IN ANSWER.

In ordering the production of documents, the court proceeds on the principle, that they are by reference incorporated into the answer, and become a part of it. Id. 8.

The master's certificate in support of a motion for an absolute order for production of books, &c. or commitment, must bear date on the day of the motion. Hopkinson v. Leach, 3 Swan. 98. PR. MASTER'S CERTIFICATE.

A defendant ordered to deliver a copy of a deed, and refer to it in her answer as a true copy. Ld. Pelham v. Ds. Newcastle, 3 Swan. 284.

A clerk in court and solicitor refusing to continue the conduct of a cause until his fees are paid, ordered to produce an office copy of the bill to be marked. Mayne v. Haukey, 3 Swan. 93. PR. OFFICERS OR COURT; SOL. & CLIENT, LIEN.

An agent, defendant to a bill for an account by his principal, ordered, on motion, to give with his clerk in court, documents in his possession, containing entries relating to the cause, sealing up entries on other subjects, and making affidavit that he has sealed such entries only. Gerard v. Penswick, 1 Swan. 533.

Production of books, &c. referred to in answer, ordered, though it was contended that answer shewed plaintiff was not entitled to relief. Unsworth v. Woodcock, 3 Mad. 432. PR. ANSWER.

Motion, on the part of a plaintiff, for the production of a deed alleged to be in possession of the defendant as tenant in common with the plaintiff, refused, it appearing by the answer that the defendant had sold his share, and was in possession of the deed in question, only as mortgagee to the purchaser. A mortgagee has no right to show the title of his mortgagor. Lambert v. Rogers, 2 Mer. 489. MORTGAGE & MORTGAGEE.

On a bill to set aside a partition on the ground of inequality, and for a new partition, stating a valuation and estimate, the gross result of which, without the particulars, was contained in a schedule to the bill, the answer denying the accuracy of the valuation, but alleging that the defendant was unable to set forth in what particulars it was inaccurate, a reason of such omission; a motion by the defendant for production of the valuation, and papers, &c. relative thereto, refused with costs. Micklethwait v. Moore, 3 Mer. 292.

Where a defendant seeks the production of deeds, &c. stated to be in the plaintiff's possession, the usual course is by filing a cross bill; but such a case as the present would not, even if a cross bill were filed, suffice to obtain an order for the purpose. Id. ib.

General rule as to the deposit of papers and writings is, that an executor must deposit them for the benefit of the parties interested, unless there are purposes which require that he should retain them. Freeman v. Fairlie, 3 Mer. 30.

Attorney, submitting to produce title deeds of his client in his possession as the court shall direct, may be called upon to produce them if the principal could himself have been called upon to do so. Fenwick v. Reed, 1 Mer. 114. SOL. & CLIENT.

On a motion for an attachment for refusal of production and inspection of documents, pursuant to order, or for immediate inspection, the defendants objecting that the documents contained passages improper for inspection, the lord chancellor refused the application, but directed the defendants to pay the costs of it. Id. v. Piddell, 1 Swan. 535. PR. ATTACHMENT.

Order for production of papers on a trial at law, limited to those referred to by the answer of the particular defendant, and not extended to any other answer, except upon a trial directed by the court, when the production is more general. Marsh v. Sibbald, 2 V. & B. 375.

Solicitor is bound to produce papers of his client for him, or in bankruptcy for his assignees, though not employed by them in the cause for the purposes for which he received them, but not bound to deliver them up, or produce them in any other business without payment. Ross v. Laughton, 1 V. & B. 349. SOL. & CLIENT, LIEN.

Whether an attorney's lien upon papers extends to the original will of his client, qu? Order to produce it before the examiner, and for the hearing of the cause without prejudice. Georges v. Georges, 18 Ves. 204. SOL. & CLIENT, LIEN.

Plaintiff appealing from a decree, dismissing the bill, entitled to the usual order for the production and inspection of deeds. Church v. Barelay, 16 Ves. 435. PR. APPEAL.

The object of a bill being to set aside deeds, the court will not, on motion, go beyond the usual liberty to inspect, &c. and for production at the hearing, by an order to deposit them with the master for safe custody, without a special case establishing danger, that they may not be produced; therefore, where most of the circumstances relied upon, viz. variations in two deeds, appeared upon the answer, the order was limited to production at the hearing. Beckford v. Aldman, id. 438.

Bill by a widow, devisee in fee, impeaching a mortgage by her while covert, for want of a fine; answer, admitting possession of the will, and the title under it, alleging the loss of the settlement, stating it differently from the bill, by the addition of a power of revocation and appointment of new ones, by the exercise of which a fine was not necessary, production of the will not being offered by the answer, ordered on motion. Bird v. Harrison, 15 Ves. 408. PR. ANSWER.

Motion for production of deeds and papers, referred to as in defendant's possession, but not described by the answer or schedule, and without an offer to produce them, as the court shall direct, refused. Aikens v. Wright, 14 Ves. 211. Id.

Defendant cannot be ordered to produce deeds, &c. unless stated in a schedule to his answer, or at least described with certainty. In Ireland it is still the practice to pray in bill a schedule. Anon. v. Smith, 117. PL. ANSWER.

Answer admitting the execution of an instrument, and craving leave to refer to it, when produced, is not a ground to move for the production; not admitting that it is in the possession or power of the defendant. Darwin v. Clarke, 8 Ves. 158. PL. ANSWER.

Motion by defendant, for inspection of letters, referred to by plaintiff's depositions as exhibits, refused with costs. Wiley v. Pistor, 7 Ves. 411.

Order made upon registrar of consistory court, that an original will may be produced for hearing on giving security. Hodson v. —, 6 Ves. 134. S. P. Ford v. —, id. 302.

Where bill seeks relief, as well as discovery, the court will not, on motion, aid the plaintiff in proceeding at law without authority and controul of court; any such proceeding must be under a decree; therefore, in such a case, a motion that defendant should produce deeds, &c. at the trial of ejectment, was refused. Aston v. Id. Easter, 6 Ves. 288. S. P. Hilton v. Morgan, id. 293.

Motion to compel attorney to produce papers of his client, refused with costs. Wright v. Mayer, 6 Ves. 200. ATT. & CLIENT.

No subpoena duces tecum upon attorney to produce papers of client. Id. ib.

Court will not direct ecclesiastical court to deliver out original will to be produced here merely to save expence of copy. Wells v. Corbyn, 3 Anst. 648. JURISDICTION.

Bill for discovery and delivery of a settlement under which plaintiff claimed, and other title deeds, and possession of the estate, demur to all the relief, and all the discovery except of the settlement for want of equity, and answer admitting the settlement, and offering to produce it, and denying that defendant had any other relative to plaintiff's title, the title being legal, the court would only order the settlement to be produced at the trial; the demurrer therefore, going to all the relief, the defendant had leave to amend. Benison v. Ashley, 2 Ves. J. 459. PL. ANSWER, AMENDMENT OF DISCOVERY.

Defendant referring to deed in his answer, as in his possession, bound to show the whole deed. Potts v. Adair, 1 Anst. 259.

Defendants put in separate answers; one of them moved that the other might leave with his clerk in court certain deeds mentioned in his answer, for the inspection of the defendant moving. Motion refused, with costs. Dussaux v. Sheppard, 2 Fowl. 60.

In an abstract of a vendor's title, a will which formed part, was represented as having been proved in the spiritual court, which afterwards appeared not to have been done. The purchaser filed his bill, praying that the defendants might either be decreed to prove the will, or that it might be deposited in the hands of the master for safe custody. It appeared that two other persons were interested under the will, and they were added as parties; and they not objecting, the will was directed to be deposited with the master for safe custody: the vendors having by their misrepresentations occasioned the suit, were ordered to pay all the costs. Harrison v. Coppard, 2 Cox, 318, 319. VEND. & PURCH.; TITLE; PROOF OF WILL.

To a bill of discovery, praying amongst other things, a discovery of the correspondence between the parties defendants in the schedules to their answer, set forth a list of all letters, &c. in their possession, and also extracts from the correspondence, stating in the body of the answer, that such extracts were the only parts which related to the matters in question, and that many of such letters related also to other matters; on a motion for the production of such letters, the court refused the application, the defendant undertaking, that on the trial, the plaintiff might read the extracts from the schedules, without reference to the body of the answer. Campbell v. French, 2 Cox, 286.

A plaintiff claiming under a deed, not stated particularly by him, and not particularly and explicitly admitted by the defendant, cannot be entitled to a judgment or decree founded upon such deed, against such defendant, without producing and proving such deed. Berney v. Moore, 2 Ridg. P. G. 323. PR. EVID.

Upon what terms a party is to be excused, the production of books of account and papers which are out of the kingdom, and necessary to his business. Gabbett v. Carendish, 3 Swan, 267.

A plaintiff is entitled to the production of maps, rentals, &c. in the possession of, and belonging to the defendant, which elucidate the right of the plaintiff. Potts v. Adair, id. 268.

The plaintiff is entitled to a production of such papers only in which he has a common interest with defendant. Burton v. Neville, 2 Cox, 242.

On an issue from chancery, original answer not sent down to the trial, whether between same parties, or not, till after refusal of the office copy as evidence. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 154. PR. EVID.

The statement of a defendant by his answer, of the contents of an instrument, is not a sufficient ground for an order for the production, without an express admission of the instrument being in the defendant's custody or power. Erskine v. Biss, 2 Cox, 226. PL. ANSWER.

Whenever a defendant wants a discovery of a deed in the hands of the plaintiff, he must file a cross bill for the purpose, although the deed be referred to by the original bill, as being in the plaintiff's custody, and ready to be produced, as the court should direct. Spragg v. Corner, id. 109. PL. DISCOVERY; PL. CROSS BILL.

Whenever a plaintiff has established an interest in any instrument in the hands of the defendant, he is in general entitled to a production of it; and in this case the court thought the plaintiff had established a sufficient interest in the documents required, and ordered a production of them. Smith v. Dk. Northumberland, 1 Cox, 363.

Bill filed against a steward for an account of monies received in that capacity, and of the interest made by him of it. By his answer he admitted he received this money, and mixed it with his own, and used it accordingly. This admission will induce the court to direct a production of his banker's books, though they may contain many other private matters. El. Salisbury v. Cecil, id. 277. PL. ANSWER.

Deed is made to two severally; possessor of deed bound to produce it for advantage of other. Cary, 15.

Commission of partition, and parties to produce deeds, defendant in contempt for not producing, &c. Sequestration finally ordered. Trig v. Trig, Dick. 325.

Order was made on registrar of Breen to deliver a will to defendant's attorney, to be produced at the hearing of the cause, on giving security to return it. Williams v. Floyer, Amb. 343.

It is not enough to entitle an heir at law to inspection of deeds, that at the close of an answer admitting the ancestor's will, he introduces an allegation that he is heir. Potter v. Potter, 3 Atk. 719.

A jointress is not obliged to bring her jointure deed into court, unless the party requiring will confirm it, but she must deliver in a schedule of the deeds she has. Petre v. Petre, id. 511. JOINTURE.

A jointress had her own part of the marriage set-element in her custody, and became possessed of her husband's, as his executrix; on motion, she was ordered to produce it to the clerk in court, but refused to deliver it up, that being the very end of the matter. Aston v. Aston, 3 Atk. id. 302.

A jointress or purchaser ought to produce their deeds, to see if the lands they claim are comprised therein. S. C.

Where a son, remainder-man in tail, under a settlement made by his grandfather, in which the father was tenant for life, without impeachment of waste, preferred a bill to have the title deeds brought into court, Ld. H. refused to direct it, observing that some third person, and a secure place agreed upon by the parties, would be a much more proper repository than a master; and he added, that the relief prayed, was the first application of the kind. Pyncent v. Pyncent, 3 Atk. 571. TENANT FOR LIFE, AND REMAINDER-MAN.

If bill impeaches account, and charges that plaintiff has no copy, defendant in pleading stated account, must annex a copy. Hankey v. Simpson, id. 303.

Motion that plaintiff might be at liberty to inspect the books of the East India company at Bombay, in relation to a transaction respecting certain bills, and that the factor might produce them on oath; the company had put in answer, alleging that the entries specified in their answer were all which related to the transaction, as they were informed by their factor; but this was not satisfaction enough to plaintiff, as companies do not answer upon oath, and did the factor swear that these were all the entries. Motion refused, first, because duplicates of the books had been transmitted to England, and the motion should have been to inspect the entries here; secondly, because the books contained other matters besides those relating to private trade, and plaintiff had not named particularly in his notice what particular entries or papers were to be examined; and thirdly, because plaintiff might have made some of the members of the company defendants, and got their answer on oath. Steward v. E. I. Comp. 9 Mod. 387.

If a defendant submits to produce a deed, he will be obliged to do so before the hearing, if the court shall think fit to order it. Stanhope v. Roberts, 2 Atk. 214.

The plaintiff claimed, by virtue of a remainder in tail expectant on the tenant in tail's dying without issue, and was the heir male of the family; the defendants were sisters and heirs general of the tenant in tail, and by their answer shewed that their brother, the tenant in tail, suffered a recovery, declaring the use to himself in fee, and referred to the deeds in their custody; the court ordered before the hearing, the defendants to leave with their clerk in court the deeds making the tenant to the præcipe, and leading the uses of the recovery. Bettison v. Farrington, 3 P. W. 363.

The defendant's witness proves a deed, and refers to it in his depositions; the plaintiff cannot compel the defendant to produce the deed at the hearing, the reference therein not making it part of the depositions. Hodson v. E. Warrington, id. 34.

Plaintiff had proved a deed in the cause, and defendant had got an order at the Rolls for leave to inspect it, on the ground that the deposition referring to the deed, had made it part of the deposition. Order discharged per Ld. Ch., because defendant is not before the hearing to see the strength of the cause, or any deed to pick holes in it. Davers v. Davers, 2 P. W. 410. 2 Stra. 764. S. C. Ogle v. E. Gower, 2 Fowl. 57. And the rule extends equally to letters referred to as exhibits by the depositions. Wiley v. Pistor, 7 Ves. 414. S. P.

Plaintiff filed a bill for discovery and account against defendant, who lived at Constantinople. Defendant set forth the particulars of all the books, accounts, &c. and offered to produce them at Constantinople to any person plaintiff would appoint. On exceptions to the answer, this was held sufficient, defendant to produce the book, &c. upon an affidavit to be sworn by the master, and sworn before the consul or ambassador abroad; plaintiff to be at liberty to take copies at his own expence. Hornby v. Pemberton, Mos. 57.

Bill by one co-heir against another, who set up testator's will in his favour, but acknowledged the deeds to be in his hands. He shall produce the deeds to plaintiff, though the validity of the will has not yet been tried at law. Floyer v. Sydenham, 9 Mod. 99. 2 Ch. Ca. 4. Sel. Ch. Ca. 2.

A peer disinherited by his ancestor is entitled to the favour of the court, and on bill, and answer to have the family deeds brought before the master, in order to see whether anything can be discovered for his advantage. El. Suffolk v. Howard, 2 P. W. 177. PEER; HEIR AT LAW.

Bill for a discovery whether in a mortgage made by A to B, which had been assigned to the defendant, there was not some trust declared for the benefit of the plaintiff; defendant by answer, denied that there was any trust declared for the plaintiff; the answer being replied to, the question at the hearing, whether the defendant should be obliged to produce the deed, the court would not compel him to do it; qu? Hall v. Atkinson, 2 Vern. 463. DISCOVERY; TRUST.

It is not sufficient that a party swears he has no books, &c. to his knowledge, concerning the matters in question, but those produced; he must swear without the qualifying words "to his knowledge." Hertford M. v. Hertford Poor, 4 Vin. Ab. 440. 2 Eq. Ab. 14. Bridg. Prac. Dig. 423.

A peeress ordered to produce deed confessed in her answer on honour only, not on oath. Hamilton v. Gerrard, Prec. Chan. 92. PEERS.

Deed in favour of volunteer ordered into court at his suggestion. Brookbank v. Brookbank, 1 Eq. Ab. 168.

A corporation as trustees for a charity shall not be obliged to produce their books relating to the trust, though they submitted by their answer to produce them as the court shall direct. Att. Gen. v. City of Coventry, Bun. 290.

Bill setting forth a settlement, and to compel the execution of it by defendant, a trustee; defendant, by answer, said that he believed there was such a deed as in the said deed is set forth. At the hearing, plaintiff would have read this deed, though not proved, supposing it to have been confessed by the answer; but the court would not permit it, because the confessing went no farther than what was set forth in the bill, and would not warrant the reading of the deed produced, though it had such clauses in it. Anon. 2 Vent. 361.

LXXVI. PRODUCTION OF PARTIES.

Party examining witness is bound to keep him in town forty-eight hours after his production at seat of adverse clerk in court, and if cross-interrogatories are left with examiner within forty-eight hours, party must keep him in town till cross-examination finished, and if witness departs, party must bring him back at his own expence, or examination in chief will be suppressed. Whitlock v. Lysaght, 1 S. & S. 446. PR. CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Prohibition to the prize court for proceeding after treaty of peace with America, refused. Case of the ship Harmony, Coop. 325.

Prohibition to injoin, judge of prize court from proceeding in question of prize or no prize, refused. Exp. Lynch, 1 Mad. 15. JURISDICTION.

Proceeding upon bail bond in Marshalsea court assigned according to the practice of that court to one of its officers, is not a proceeding against a prohibition restraining the original action so as to incur a contempt. Iveson v. Harris, 7 Ves. 251. PR. CONTEMPT.

A writ of prohibition may be had in the court of chancery in the vacation, the court being always open. Id. 257.

But in Montgomery v. Blair, 2 Sch. & Lef. 136, Ld. Redesdale was of opinion, that when the other courts are open, this court should not entertain an application for a prohibition; and his Lordship directed the application to be made to a court of law.

Prize jurisdiction extends to question whether a person, who received and sold the property, received it as consignee for valuable consideration, or as prize agent. A prohibition, therefore, against a monition to bring in the property or the proceeds, was refused. Noysonhed, Case of the Danish ship, 7 Ves. 593.

Motions for prohibition must be founded on affidavit, not suggestion. Corp. of Worcester v. Bennett, Dick. 143.

Prohibition issues of course on proper affidavit, but defendant must plead before he applies for it. Walker v. Fianderheide, Dick. 336.

Where a custom for a church rate is pleaded in the ecclesiastical court, and the plea admitted, they may proceed to try the custom, but, if denied, a prohibition lies. Dunn v. Coates, 1 Atk. 289. PR. ECCLESIASTICAL COURT.

A prohibition to the ecclesiastical court cannot be granted upon petition; but by motion and a proper suggestion, it may. Hill v. Turner, 1 Atk. 516. ECCLESIASTICAL COURT.

If a party be sued in an inferior court in vacation, for a matter out of jurisdiction, a prohibition lies in chancery, or an affidavit to that effect; but no affidavit is necessary where, on the face of the declaration, the matter appears to be out of the jurisdiction. Anon. 1 P. W. 476. JURISDICTION.

Prohibition to an inferior court for holding plea of a matter out of their jurisdiction. Newhouse v. Milbank, 1 Vern. 276.

Prohibition lies not to an inferior court after the defendant has pleaded there, for by pleading the defendant submits to the jurisdiction; but at the suit of the king prohibition lies, though the defendant has pleaded. But if a prohibition has been granted, the court will grant a supersedeas if there is an affidavit that the cause arose within the jurisdiction. Anon. 1 Vern. 301. JURISDICTION; WAIVER; CROWN.

If the spiritual court go about to compel an executor to pay a legacy without security to refund, a prohibition shall go. Noel v. Robinson, 1 Vern. 93. 8. 2 Vent. 359. 2 Ch. Ca. 145. 2 Ch. Rep. 248.

Prohibition granted for arresting in the marshal's court for matters arising out of their jurisdiction, which being disobeyed, an attachment issued against the persons disobeying the same. Keale v. Sutton, 2 Rep. Ch. 301.

The purchase money of timber belonging to a lunatic estate permitted to be paid to the receiver, in order to be by him paid into court. In re Starkie, 1 Russ. 476. PR. PAYMENT OF MONEY INTO COURT.

Where a receiver is in possession, other persons not permitted, without the leave of the court, to enter under a claim of a right of common not previously exercised. Johns v. Cloughton, 1 Jac. 572.

Receiver granted in default of payment into court, on an equitable charge and a judgment, but execution prevented by the circumstances of the title. The right not affected by a subsequent variation of circumstances, and established over the whole estate, though of great value compared with the debt, as a reasonable part may be tendered as security, or the debt may be paid into court. Curling v. Townshend, 19 Ves. 628.

The possession of a receiver or sequestrator is not to be disturbed without leave of the court. Brooks v. Greathel, 1 Jac. & W. 178. SEQUESTRATOR.

A mortgagee of a term created for raising portions, and expired, is not entitled to an account of rents and profits in the hands of a receiver, accrued before the expiration of the term. Gresley v. Adderly, 1 Swan. 573. MORTGAGEE; ACCOUNT.

A mortgagee of a term is not entitled to a retrospective account of rents and profits. Id. 579. MORTGAGEE; ACCOUNT.

Plaintiff suing for equitable relief, part of which only could be had at law, is not entitled to elect, but can proceed at law only by leave of the court. A receiver, appointed at his instance, who, though an officer, ought, as indifferent, to restrain him, not aided by an order for liberty to distrain without his undertaking to proceed no farther at law. Mills v. Fry, 19 Ves. 277. PR. ELECTION, LAW, OR EQUITY.

Creditor going into possession as quasi mortgagee, not entitled to receiver's fees. Trimleston v. Hamill, 1 Ball & B. 384. DEBTOR & CRED.; MORTGAGEE & MORTGAGEE ALLOWANCE TO.

After a bill of foreclosure filed by mortgagee, and a receiver appointed, tenant for life of the mortgaged premises, with leasing power, makes leases. A bill is filed by a judgment creditor, who moves to set the premises pending the cause. Ordered to set, without prejudice, to any right of the tenants against their lessor, and they, as tenant from year to year to the receiver, being entitled to notice to quit. Id. Mansfield v. Hamilton, 2 Scho. & L. 28. TENANT FOR LIFE; LEASE.

Where a receiver is in possession, an ejectment cannot be brought without leave of the court. Angel v. Smith, 9 Ves. 335. PR. EJECTMENT.

Upon motion that receiver may be at liberty to defend an ejectment, the parties interested being adults, and consenting, a reference was made whether it was for their benefit. Ames v. Ves. 287. EJECTMENT.

Court will order person to be examined pro interesse suo, as well against receiver as sequestrator. Gomme v. West, Dick. 472.

The course of the court is, that if a receiver is appointed, and the owner of the estate is in possession of part of the premises, application should be made to the court that the owner should deliver possession to the receiver, who cannot distrain on the owner in possession as he is not tenant to him. If, therefore, loss arises, it was the parties' fault in not applying for that. Griffith v. Griffith, 2 Ves. 401.

Tenants directed to pay their rents in a given time on the first application, or to stand committed, or the receiver to be at liberty to distrain on one tenant. Mitchel v. Dr. Manchester, Dick. 787.

A receiver will be continued until deeds of sale under the decree are executed for the purpose of collecting arrears of rent. Quin v. Holland, Rigdw. 295.

The court will not allow a mortgagee more than his principal and interest, notwithstanding the mortgagor has agreed he shall be paid for his trouble of receiving the rents. French v. Barr, 2 Atk. 120. MORTGAGEE; ACCOUNT.

A receiver need not be served with a writ of execution of a decretal order, but only with a copy; and if he disobeys, shall be committed. Macarty v. Gibson, Mos. 40. PR. SERVICE OF DECRETAL ORDER.

Where a receiver is appointed in a suit for specific performance, if the purchaser is compelled to take the title, the receiver is to be considered as his receiver. Boehm v. Wood, 1 Turn. & R. 345. SPEC. PERF.; VEND. & PURCH.

A receiver appointed by the court, is appointed on behalf of all parties. Davis v. Marlborough, 2 Swan. 118.

Application for injunction and appointment of receiver, should be made the subject of two successive motions. Lawson v. Morgan, 1 Price, 303. PR. INJUNC.; MOTION.

To maintain an exception to the master's appointment of a receiver, a strong case of disqualification is necessary. Sharpe v. Sharpe, 12 Ves. 317. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Exceptions to the master's appointment of a receiver, disallowed. Wilkins v. Williams, 3 Ves. 588. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

The court will not control the master's appointment of a receiver, without a special case. Anon. 3 Ves. 515.

Appointment of a receiver in the place of the sequestrators, discharges the sequestration. Shaw v. Wright, 3 Ves. 23. STAT. 36 Geo. 3. c. 90. WAS PASSED IN CONSEQUENCE OF THIS CASE. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Exception will not lie to a master's report of the appointment of a receiver, without shewing that the person appointed is improper. Thomas v. Dawkin, 3 Bro. C.C. 508. S.C. 1 Ves. 452. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT.

Exceptions to a master's report of a proper person to be receiver, overruled, as the report ought to stand till the party approved is impeached as an improper person. Cruise v. Pop. of London, 2 Bro. C.C. 253. S.C. Dick. 687. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

A commission of bankruptcy cannot supersede a decree for a receiver, which is discretionary in the court, and as useful a power as any that belongs to it, and it is provisional only, not affecting the rights of the parties. Skipp v. Harwood, 3 Atk. 564. BANKCY. COMMISSION.

The court has not a jurisdiction to appoint a receiver, unless a cause be depending. Exp. Whitfield, 2 Atk. 315. PR. PETITION.

The appointing a receiver is not in all cases a turning the party out of possession where a receiver is appointed of an infant's estate; in such case, the receiver's possession is the possession of the infant; but on the appointing a receiver in an adversary's suit, as where the plaintiff in ejectment has recovered a verdict, here the receiver's possession seems to be the possession of him that has the right to it. Sharp v. Carter, 3 P.W. 379.

(b) Before answer.

Motion by simple contract creditors of one who had been a trader, but ceased to be so, and was not a trader at the time of his death, for a receiver, upon affidavit before answer, refused, not being within the stat. 47 G. 3. sess. 2, c. 74. Keene v. Riley, 3 Mar. 436. DEBT. & CRED.; TRADER; STAT. C. OF.

Receiver granted before answer upon the bill of a purchaser pendente lite, viz., a suit instituted by the wife of the vendor, claiming under a settlement voluntary, as being after marriage. Metcalf v. Pulvertoft, 1 V. & B. 180. ALIENATION, PENDENTE LITE; PR. ANSWER.

Receiver appointed before answer in a case of a devise to four trustees, of whom two declined to act, all parties being before the court, and consenting. Bradie v. Barry, 3 Mer. 696.

Receiver appointed, on affidavits before answer. Duckworth v. Trafford, 18 Ves. 283.
Motion for a receiver, in a strong case of waste, granted before answer. Vann v. Barnett, 2 Bro. C.C. 168. WASTE.

(c) Who may be.

Prochein ami of infant plaintiffs not permitted to act as receiver. Stone v. Wishart, 2 Mad. 64. PR. PROCIN. AMI.

Solicitor under a commission of lunacy not to be appointed receiver of the estate of the lunatic. Exp. Pincke, 2 Mer. 452. LUNACY, SOL. UNDER COMMISSION.

Peer not to be a receiver. Att. Gen. v. Gee, 2 V. & B. 208. PEER.

General rule, that a trustee shall not be the receiver, with emolument. Sutton v. Jones, 15 Ves. 584. TRUSTEE.

Trustee not to be receiver, unless a special case, and without emolument. Sykes v. Hastings, 11 Ves. 363. TRUSTEE.

The trustee cannot be receiver. Anon. 3 Ves. 515. TRUSTEE.

The master's judgment is conclusive in appointing a receiver, unless some substantial objection is shewn. It is no objection to a receiver, that he is a practising barrister; but the solicitor in the cause cannot be receiver. Garland v. Garland, 2 Ves. J. 137.

Executor and trustee becoming bankrupt, a receiver was appointed, though testator knew the commission had issued. Langley v. Hawk, 5 Mad. 46. EXECUTOR.

Court will appoint receiver of intestate's personal estate, if admor is sworn to be insolvent, before his answer is come in, although fact of his being abroad (stated in plaintiff's affidavit) be denied. Scott v. Becker, 4 Price, 346. INSOLVENCY; ADMOR.

Receiver will not be appointed, on mere ground of executor being poor. Howard v. Papera, 1 Mad. 142. EXECUTOR.

A receiver having been appointed, the executor being out of the jurisdiction, on administration afterwards taken out, it was referred to the master to reconsider the appointment of receiver, regard being had to the administration granted. Faith v. Dunbar, Coop. 200. ADMOR.

Receiver ought not to be appointed where there is a trustee with power of entry and distress. Buxton v. Monkhouse, Coop. 41.

Though this court will appoint a receiver upon misconduct of the executor, it will not, upon the single ground that he is in mean circumstances. Anon. 12 Ves. 4. EXECUTOR.

Receiver appointed before answer, upon affidavit of misapplication, and danger to the property, in the hands of an executor, the co-executors consenting to the order. A strong case necessary against an executor. Middleton v. Dodswell, 13 Ves. 266. EXECUTOR.

Where an heir had, by decree, been substituted as trustee to execute a devise to charity, upon his laches, an account was decreed, and receiver appointed. Att. Gen. v. Bowyer, 3 Ves. 714. ACCOUNT; HEIR AT LAW.

The court will not appoint a receiver of assets in the hands of executor, merely because the executor is not of affluent fortune. Nathornthwaite v. Russell, 2 Atk. 126. EXECUTOR.

An executor is under no obligation to give security; nor is it usual for a court of equity to compel him to give any, unless upon affidavit of insolvency or misconduct; but where an executrix, appointed guardian of her three children by her first husband, marries a second husband in necessitous circumstances, the court will appoint a receiver. Dillon v. Ly. Mount-Cashel, 4 Bro. P. C. 312. EXECUTOR.

Where it is probable there will be a misapplication and wasting of the effects of an intestate, by a limited administrator, who is only trustee for an infant, the court will appoint a receiver. Havers v. Havers, Barn. 23. ADMOR.

The court refused to appoint a receiver of a charity estate, against a corporation as trustees. Att. Gen. v. Mayor of Stafford, Barn. 33. CHARITY; TRUSTEES.

(e) Over infant's estate.

Court will not order receiver of infant's estate to keep down interest of mortgage debt, unless master reports it due. Anon. 6 Mad. 9. INFANT.

Bill for sale of real estate for payment of debts. The heir at law being an infant, the parol demurred. The court will appoint a receiver as in other cases. Sweet v. Partridge, 1 Cox, 433. S. C. Dick. 696. DEMUR, PAROL.

Receiver appointed of infant's estate immediately on filing bill. Pitcher v. Helleur, Dick. 680.

The court will not appoint a receiver of an infant's estate where there is no bill filed. Anon. 1 Atk. 489. 578. INFANT.

(f) Against joint tenants, and tenants in common.

Vice chancellor entertained a doubt whether in any case of one tenant in common excluding actually the other from enjoyment, &c. of estate, this court would grant a receiver. Tyson v. Fairclough, 2 S. & S. 144. TENANT IN COMMON; EXCLUSION.

Motion made by a tenant in common for a receiver against his co-tenant in possession, refused; it not amounting to a case of exclusion. Millbank v. Retett, 2 Mer. 405. Id.

Tenant in common in possession ordered to give security for payment of the proportion of rents to his co-tenant; otherwise a receiver. Street v. Anderton, 4 Bro. C. C. 414. TENANT IN COMMON.

(g) Against mortgagor or mortgagee, and other incumbrancers.

The grantor of an annuity secured by an equitable charge on certain lands which are subject to a prior charge, goes to reside abroad, but by his agent continues in receipts of the rents and profits. The court, on the application of the annuitant, will appoint a receiver, though the grantor has not appeared to the suit. Tunfield v. Irvine, 2 Russ. 149. PR. APPEARANCE; ANNUITY.

Motion for receiver on mortgage of mines who had become partner by purchasing shares in them, on ground of mismanagement, and excluding mortgagor from interference, refused: the parties having regulated their rights by subsequent agreement, and mortgagee denying his mortgage was satisfied. The rights and duties of persons in that situation are not to be governed solely by principles applicable to one standing simply in character of mortgagee or partner, and to deprive him of possession on ground of mismanagement, it must be of a clear and specified nature. Rowe v. Wood, 2 J. & W. 553. MORTGAGE; PARTNERS.

On motion for receiver against mortgagee insisting by answer, he is not fully paid, court will not try that fact on affidavit. Id. 557. MORTGAGE.

The management of the estates, and misapplication of the rents, and collusion with the mortgagee, are not grounds for a motion, before answer, to take possession from him. Berney v. Sewell, 1 Jac. & W. 647. Id.

When the first mortgagee is not in possession, a receiver may be appointed at the suit of a subsequent incumbrancer without prejudice to the first mortgagee's taking possession. Id. ib.

A mortgagee who has the legal estate cannot have a receiver. Id. ib.

When a first mortgagee is in possession, a receiver will not be appointed against him, except on his confession that he has been paid off, or his refusal to accept what is due to him. Id. ib.

The appointment of receiver is for benefit of incumbrancer only so far as expressed to their benefit, and they choose to avail themselves of it. Gresley v. Adersley, 1 Swan. 579. INCUMBRANCER.

A third incumbrancer on a rectory having obtained a sequestration, a receiver was appointed at the instance of a second incumbrancer. White v. Ip. Peterborough, 3 Swan. 109. CHARGE ON BENEFICE.

Receiver upon a mortgagee in possession who cannot ascertain the debt due to him. Codrington v. Parker, 16 Ves. 469. MORTGAGE.

A receiver cannot be appointed without mortgagee's being before the court, if a mortgage appears upon the face of pleadings. Pratt v. Williams, Coop. 31. PL. PARRY; MORTGAGE; & MORTGAGE.

A second mortgagee (the plaintiff) applied for receiver, this was opposed by a defendant who had purchased from plaintiff part of mortgage and was in possession as tenant of a part of estate of which the rent was equal to the interest of his share of the mortgage. The court held, the two characters of tenant and mortgagee could not be united, and, therefore, granted the receiver. Archdeacon v. Fowes, 3 Anst. 752. MORTGAGE.

The court will appoint a receiver of the rents of lands in mortgage, pending a bill to foreclose. Crowe v. Halliday, 2 Ridgw. P. C. 58. MORTGAGE, FORECLOSURE OF.

When a mortgagee is not in possession, the court will, upon application of creditors, appoint a receiver of the mortgaged premises, but without prejudice to the right of the mortgagee to obtain possession. Bryan v. Cornick, 1 Cox, 422. MORTGAGE.

Second mortgagee, the mortgagor living, cannot have receiver without consent of first mortgagee. Phipps v. Ip. Bath & Wells, Dick. 608.

(h) In partnership.

Receiver of the debts due to a business appointed at the suit of persons to whom a share of the profits had been assigned, against a subsequent assignee of the debts. Candler v. Candler, 1 Jac. 225.

Receiver appointed of mines in which several persons were interested, the concern, from the nature of the subject, being a species of trade, and not a mere tenancy in common in land. Jeffereys v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 298. MINES.

The court will not, upon motion, appoint a receiver of a partnership, unless it appears that the plaintiff will be entitled to a dissolution at the hearing. S. P. Chapman v. Beach, id. 594.

Where some members of a partnership, either in the ordinary course of trade, or in closing the transactions after a dissolution, seek to exclude others from a just share in the management, the court appoints a receiver. Wilson v. Greenwood, 1 Swan. 401.

Motion for a receiver in a mining concern, refused upon a claim of partnership in the equitable interest, not raised until the concern, at a great expence, became prosperous, and denied by the answer. Norway v. Hays, 19 Ves. 144. ACCOUNT.

Receiver not ordered merely on a dissolution of partnership. Order on breach of the duty of a partner, or of the contract, as by continuing trade with joint effects on the separate account. Harding v. Glover, 18 Ves. 281. PARTNERSHIP, DISSOLUTION.

Court will not appoint receiver of effects of subsisting partnership, unless on gross abuses of some of the partners. Oliver v. Hamilton, 2 Anst. 453.

In a cause for an account of a partnership, both partners being dead, a receiver shall be appointed, secus, in the case of surviving partner. Philips v. Atkinson, 2 Bro. C. C. 272.

(i) Pendente lite.

Chancery will appoint receiver pending suit in ecclesiastical court to recall probate on a case of strong presumption. Rutherford v. Douglas, 1 S. & S. 111. JURISDICTION.

The profits of the office of clerk of the peace being assigned for payment of creditors, a receiver was appointed, pending the question of the validity of the assignment. Palmer v. Vaughan, 3 Swan. 123. PUBLIC OFFICER; ASSIGNMENT.

Demurrer lies to bill, inter alia, for a receiver till letters of administration granted, where no reason is shown why they cannot be immediately taken out. Jones v. Frost, 3 Mad. 1. DEMURRER; ADMON.

Pending a question whether estates devised were subject to a bond executed by the testator for making a settlement on his wife and children, the court refused to appoint a receiver, the devisees in trust consenting to pay the rents into court. Prebble v. Boghurst, 1 Swan. 313.

Jurisdiction of a court for an account of personal estate and a receiver, pending a litigation for probate, though an administration, pendente lite, might be obtained in the ecclesiastical court. Atkinson v. Hewshaw, 2 V. & B. 85. S. P. Bull v. Oliver, id. 96. JURISDICTION; ADMON.

The court of chancery will not interfere by appointing a receiver upon the mere ground that two wills are in controversy in the spiritual court; and no special case that the property is in danger and cannot be secured by administration pendente lite. Richards v. Chare, 12 Ves. 462. SPIRITUAL COURT.

The court will not appoint a receiver on bill by heir against a devisee to convert the will unless there are strong circumstances. Knight v. Deplassis, 1 Ves. 324.

The court is not to appoint a receiver on account of a dispute in court ecclesiastical concerning the probate. Id. ib.

Whilst will is contesting in ecclesiastical court on the ground of insanity of testator, receiver appointed of the whole estate to pay in from time to time what he receives. Montgomery v. Clark, 2 Atk. 379. INSANITY; EXOR.

(j) Against vendor and purchaser.

On a bill to set aside a purchase, the answer of the defendants, the devisees of the purchaser, admitting great inadequacy of price, and stating their ignorance as to other circumstances of fraud alleged, a receiver appointed. Stilwell v. Wilkins, 1 Jac. 280. PL. ANSWER.

Receiver appointed on the motion of the vendor pending a reference of title. Boehm v. Wood, 3 Jac. & W. 236. VEND. & PURCH.; PR. REP. AS TO TITLE.

If a purchaser of the legal estate in lands, subject to an equitable rent-charge, refuse to pay the rent-charge, a receiver will be appointed. Pritchard v. Fleetwood, 1 Mer. 54. VEND. & PURCH.; RENT-CHARGE.

Receiver appointed after answer of purchaser under circumstances. Hall v. Jenkinson, 2 V. & B. 125. VEND. & PURCH.

(k) In other cases.

Where a tenant in tail in remainder had agreed to pay a sum of money after the death and failure of issue of his brother, the tenant in tail in possession, and had secured the money by a mortgage of the estate, and covenanted to levy a fine and suffer a recovery to give effect to the mortgage, but on coming into possession of the estate refused to perform this covenant, the court appointed a receiver of the rents. Freer v. Hinde, 2 Sim. 7. POST OBIT BOND.

The commissioners of a canal make an agreement for letting the tolls not warranted by the act under which they derive their authority, and prejudicial to an interest expressly reserved by the act to the public. This agreement is acquiesced in for forty-seven years without complaint on the part of any of the share holders, and during that period the lessee remains in undisturbed possession of the tolls: the court will not, at the suit of the share-holders, disturb his possession by the appointment of a receiver. Gray v. Chaplin, 2 Russ. 126. ACQUIESCENCE; LENGTH OF TIME.

A court of equity will not appoint a receiver of rates which are to be assessed by commissioners, and collected at a future period. Drewry v. Barnes, 3 Russ. 94.

Where it appears by the answer that the real estate must be responsible (as that there is no personal estate to be first applied to debts), a receiver will be granted in the first instance. Williams v. McNamara, 8 Ves. 71. PR. ANSWER.

The court will not order a receiver of an estate where the matters in dispute depend on a mere legal title, except strong ground of title is shown and the rents are in danger. Mordaunt v. Hooper, Ambl. 311.

Receiver not appointed on behalf of heir at law as against a devisee. The heir must try the question at law. Knight v. Duplessis, 2 Ves. 360. HEIR AT LAW.

Committee of the person and estate of lunatic, with restriction not to receive any part of the estate. Receiver appointed of the estate. Exp. Billingham, Ambl. 104. COMMITTEE OF LUNATIC.

3. Powers, duties, and liabilities.

In orders directing the appointment of a receiver, there shall be a discretion to manage as well as let and set. 64th Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

A receiver, though he passes his accounts and pays his balances regularly, is not entitled to make interest for his own benefit of monies which come into his hands in his character of receiver during the intervals between the times of passing his accounts. Shaw v. Rhodes, 2 Russ. 539.

Receiver, who is solicitor, will not be permitted to bring actions against tenants for arrears of rent, with the approbation of the master, in the name of a trustee of the estate, but in opposition to his wishes. Nor in such circumstances will the court refer it to the master to see whether it would be proper for receiver to proceed in his own name. Della Caine v. Hayward, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 272.

Court will not empower a receiver to sue for debts due to the estate, where the proceeding would be oppressive to creditors, or it is unlikely any advantage would be derived from it. Dacie v. John, 1 M'Clel. 575.

Receiver may distrain for rent due one year without an application to the court. Brundon v. Brundon, 5 Mad. 473.

No instance of power being given by court to receiver to grant lease which would bind infant remainder-man. Gibbins v. Howell, 3 Mad. 469.

Receiver of the personal estate of the testator, not passing his accounts and paying in the balances, deprived of his salary and charged with interest, not upon cash from the time it was received, according to the strict rule, applicable to a receiver of annual profits and rents, but as an executor would be charged. Potts v. Leighton, 15 Ves. 273.

Receiver not permitted to lay out more than a very small sum at his discretion. Waters v. Taylor, 15 Ves. 26.

Appointment of a receiver of an estate in India; the receiver to be in England, acting by an agent. Inquiry directed what should be the term, beyond which he should not be permitted to let. — v. Lindsay, 15 Ves. 91. E. I. ESTATE.

Receiver, not paying in a balance under an order, may be proceeded against personally by commitment. A previous order, in the alternative, that by a certain day he shall pay or stand committed, is necessary, though he was under an order for payment by a certain day upon his appearance by counsel, praying time. Davies v. Cracroft, 14 Ves. 143. PR. ORDER FOR PAYMENT.

Receiver charged with a loss by the failure of the banker, having made the remittances to his own credit and use, and not to a separate account for the trust. Wren v. Kirton, 11 Ves. 377. INVESTMENT.

Receiver is not to lay out money in repairs at his own discretion; but under circumstances an inquiry was directed, and the report stating that expenditure was for lasting benefit of estate, and by directions of trustees, order for that allowance was made. Bunt v. Clitherow, 6 Ves. 791. REPAIRS.

Executors of a receiver admitting assets, bound to answer what was upon a subsequent inquiry found due for interest. Honey v. Blakeman, 4 Ves. 606. INTEREST.

Receiver not liable by the failure of the testator's banker at Bristol, with whom the receiver, when going to London to pass his accounts, deposited the money, intending to draw for it. Rowth v. Howell, 3 Ves. 566. INVESTMENT.

Motion by a remote remainder-man and tenants to restrain receiver from ejecting tenants, refused with costs, their interest not being sufficient. Receiver is to let the estate to the best advantage, but he cannot raise the rents upon slight grounds, nor turn out tenants, nor let even for one year without application to the master. Wynne v. Ld. Newborough, 1 Ves. J. 164, 165. EJECTMENT; INJUNCTION.

Receiver here gives security duly to account; not for faithful management. He cannot set and let, nor make expenditures, without application to court: manager in West Indies, may. Morris v. Elme, 1 Ves. J. 139. MANAGER OF W. I. ESTATE.

A receiver appointed by the court has a power to distrain for rent, and need not apply for a particular order for that purpose, unless there be a doubt who had a legal right to the rent. Pitt v. Snowden, 3 Atk. 750.

A receiver appointed by the court shall not make good a loss which was not owing to his own default; for where the rents in hand were large, it is a necessary precaution on his part to remit them by bills to London, rather than in specie. Where a receiver pays money to a tradesman, and takes bills for the sum, if he was in credit at the time, though he failed soon after, it shall not affect the receiver. But if the money had been lost by his wilful default in placing it in hands notoriously improper, he shall make good the loss. Knight v. Ld. Plymouth, 3 Atk. 480. INVESTMENT.

A receiver during the infancy of plaintiff (who had no guardian), was decreed to place out the surplus of the rents, when the same should amount to a competent sum, at interest, on government or other securities, which he neglected to do. The court, therefore, directed that he should pay interest at four per cent. from the time of the default till the infant came of age; and it is no excuse for the receiver that the master did not give any directions about it, for it was his duty to remind the master to lay out the surplus rents when they should amount to a competent sum. That buildings and farms were in a ruinous condition, and tenants often breaking, will not justify a receiver's keeping the balance in his hands, for it is not to be supposed he could exhaust the whole money received from the rents of the estate. So where a receiver settles his accounts, and delivers the vouchers to the infant, only two days after he came of age, it shall have no weight, though the infant admitted the balance, and received it without objection. Hicks v. Hicks, 3 Atk. 274. Vide Lonsdale v. Church, 3 Bro. C. C. 41. Adams v. Gale, 2 Atk. 106. INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

4. Security by, and liabilities and rights of sureties for.

A receiver, who had omitted to account regularly, became bankrupt, being indebted to the trust estate in a large sum, and for some time no steps were taken to have the accounts duly passed: Held, that under the particular circumstances of the case, his sureties were not liable to pay interest on the balance found due from him, though he himself, if solvent, would have had to pay such interest. Sebble. That in general the sureties of a receiver are answerable for such interest as well as for such principal as the receiver himself is liable to pay. Dawson v. Raynes, 2 Russ. 466. PRINCIPAL & SURETY.

Receiver appointed, on application of executor, to collect assets in India; but receiver to find sureties resident in England. Cockburn v. Raphael, 2 S. & S. 453. EXECUTOR.

Recognizance of surety for receiver being forfeited, and action brought against surety. On application, reference directed as to what was due, and payment by instalments ordered, and injunction to stay proceedings granted by consent, on payment of costs of application and proceedings consequent to order. Walker v. Wild, 1 Mad. 528. INJUNCTION TO STAY PROCEEDINGS AT LAW.

A surety for a receiver is entitled to stand in the place of the receiver, to be paid sums ordered to the receiver out of funds in court, in respect of disbursements made by him, the money for making such disbursements having been advanced by the surety, and the same giving him therefore a lien on the money ordered to be paid to the receiver. Glossop v. Harrison, Coop. 61. S. C. 3 Ves. & B. 134.

Receiver appointed with salary on his own recognizance by consent. Cs. Carlisle v. Ld. Berkeley, Amb. 599.

Sureties of receiver not discharged at their own request. Griffith v. Griffith, 2 Ves. 400.

The course of the court requires a security by the receiver, and two sureties in a recognizance; and taking the assignment of a mortgage belonging to a receiver instead, is very improper, and ought not to be done. Mead v. Ld. Orrery, 3 Atk. 237.

Surety in recognizance of receiver discharged; fresh recognizance entered into; time for enrolment elapsed; entered nunc pro tunc. Vaughan v. Vaughan, Dick. 90. S. P. Blois v. Betts, id. 336.

A receiver appointed to collect in assets, and to bring actions in the name of an executrix, must give security to indemnify the executrix on account of such actions. Taylor v. Allen, 2 Atk. 213. EXECUTOR.

Persons named by parties appointed receivers on their own recognizances only. Ridout v. Ld. Plymouth, Dick. 68.

5. Accounts and allowances to.

Master may order settlement of receiver's accounts at intervals of less or more than a year, at discretion. 63rd Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

General order that the master shall annually, at the second seal after Trinity term, certify to the court the state of the several receiver's accounts in their respective offices. Gen. Order, 1792, 2 Ves. J. 39. GEN. ORDER.

Receivers ought annually to account and pay in their balances. Beame's Order, p. 454.

The masters are annually to certify state of receiver's accounts. Id. ib.

And are to fix the days upon which receivers are to deliver their accounts to the master. Id. 462.

As also the days on which they are to pay their balances. Id. ib.

Receivers neglecting to deliver accounts and pay balances at such times, are not to be allowed their salaries, but to be charged with 5l. per cent. on such balances. Id. ib.

Are annually to pass their accounts before the master within a certain time. Id. 463.

Masters to certify defaults. Id. ib.

A master's report of receiver's account does not require confirmation, and cannot be excepted to. But the court will enter into the consideration of objections to the general principle on which the master has proceeded in taking such account, but not of objections to particular items of it. Shewell v. Jones, 2 S. & S. 170. PR. MASTER'S REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF.

Formerly a receiver was not entitled to any allowance for sums of money laid out by him on the estate, without a previous order. But according to the present practice, a reference is directed to the master to inquire whether the transaction is for the benefit of the parties interested. Tempest v. Ord, 2 Mer. 55.

A receiver is not entitled to any compensation for his trouble in attending a survey of the minor's estate, there being no order for his attendance. In re Ormsby, 1 Ball & B. 189. COMPENSATION.

Guardians and receivers obliged to account on application by petition or motion, being bound by recognition to account regularly, or when called on, and are considered as officers of the court, which is not the situation of executors. In mre. Burke, id. 74. GUARDIAN.

General order, that receivers shall annually pass their accounts, and pay in their balances; or less their salaries, and be charged with interest at five per cent. Gen. Order, 23rd April, 1796. 15 Ves. 278. ACCOUNT.

Receivers and committees not to apply the trust fund in repairs to any considerable extent without previous application. Upon a receiver's application to be allowed for repairs done, an inquiry was directed whether repairs were reasonable. Att. Gen. v. Vigor, 11 Ves. 563. REPAIRS.

Receiver who does not pass his accounts regularly, not to be allowed poundage. White v. Ly. Lincoln, 8 Ves. 371. POUNDAGE.

Receiver not passing his accounts shall always pay interest upon the balances in his hands. — v. Jolland, id. 72. INTEREST.

Receiver must pay in his money yearly, and must pay nothing out without an order; he shall pay interest for money kept in his hands, even a quarter of a year as if it ought to have been paid in. Inquiry directed as to that, though he had passed his accounts, and all parties had declared themselves satisfied. Fletcher v. Dodd, 1 Ves. J. 85.

A receiver of a public trust having a salary, making interest of balances in his hands, is accountable to the trustees for interest made ultra, notwithstanding prior accounts settled without demanding it. El. Lonsdale

v. Church, 3 Bro. C. C. 41. See 7 Pri. 45. INTEREST WHEN PAYABLE; ACCOUNT.

Not usual to have reports of receiver's accounts confirmed. Cowper v. El. Cowper, 2 P. W. 729. PR. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT.

A receiver to the guardian of an infant who has his account allowed him by the guardian, shall not be obliged to account over again to the infant when he comes of age. Clavering's Case, Prec. Chan. 535. GUARD. & WARD; ACCOUNT.

6. Discharge and removal.

Receiver allowed costs of his application to be discharged. Richardson v. Ward, 6 Mad. 266. PR. COSTS.

Receiver of rents of estates conveyed to secure an annuity, discharged on acceptance of the price of the annuity with interest, deducting the part payments. Davis v. Dk. Marlborough, 2 Swan. 108.

The order for a receiver obtained by the plaintiff, discharged on payment of the sum due to him, although defendants prior incumbrancers, opposed the discharge. Id. 168.

Petition to change a receiver. The master's judgment not absolutely conclusive, but the court interferes with reluctance. The recommendation of the testator, and the respect due to a considerable family, are to be attended to in the appointment. The circumstances of the person proposed, (in this instance, a relation of the family) a resident, distant from the estate, being in parliament, and a practising barrister in town, though no absolute disqualification, are to be considerably regarded. Distinction with reference to such circumstances, between an auditor and a receiver with powers to let and manage, &c. Wynne v. Id. Newborough, 15 Ves. 283.

Bill filed by creditor on behalf of himself and other creditors, and a receiver appointed; the receiver shall not be discharged upon the consent of the plaintiff, against the consent of an incumbrancer, who is a party defendant. An allegation that such incumbrance was satisfied, referred to the master. So, although an incumbrancer were not a party, nor had proceeded in the suit, and was obliged to file a new bill, yet ssemble, the court would not discharge the receiver, and would direct that such bill should be taken as filed at the same time with the former. Largan v. Bowen, 1 Scho. & L. 296.

When a receiver is appointed, and has given security, he must shew a reasonable cause to entitle himself to be discharged. Smith v. Vaughan, Ridgw. 251.

LXXIX. REHEARING.

See also PR. HEARING, &c.

Any person served with a copy of decree pro confesso, or any person not being so served petitioning a rehearing within seven years, and giving security for costs, admitted to answer, and the cause to be reheard again. 5 Geo. 2. c. 25. s. 6. PR. BILL PRO CONFESSED.

No rehearing without a deposit with the registrar of 5l. Beame's Order, 266. 468.

Not to stop proceedings on decree or order, appealed from, without special order. Id. 266.

Two days before rehearing, party to furnish court with copy of decree, and copy of petition. Id. 287.

Party making default, or suffering decree nisi to be made absolute, on what costs he shall rehear. Id. 316.

Such party must before end of next term procure an order to rehear, or be precluded. Id. ib.

Deposit on rehearing of cause, 10l. Id. 316. 459.

Deposit of exceptions, 5l. Id. ib.

Party also liable to such further taxed costs as court shall order. Id. ib.

Petition for rehearing, to be within a fortnight after order pronounced. Id. 334. 338.

Petition of appeal from rolls, within what time. Id. 334. 338. 339.

New evidence admitted on a rehearing, and a petition of rehearing permitted to be amended to state the discovery of such new evidence. Wyld v. Ward, 2 Y. & J. 381. PR. EVIDENCE.

Where in order to save time of the court, it is arranged between the parties that evidence should be entered as read, if parties, on examination, could arrange to admit it; and afterwards the parties cannot agree, the court will not permit the cause to be reheard on merits, but only on that evidence. S. C. 1 Y. & J. 536.

On a rehearing, evidence in the cause may be read which was not read at the original hearing. Williams v. Goodchild, 2 Russ. 91. PR. EVIDENCE.

A rehearing will in no case be granted after six months of decretal order. Bowyer v. Bright, 13 Pri. 316.

A rehearing will not be granted where the object is not to correct an error in decree, but to remedy a grievance consequent upon it, resulting from circumstances post facto, not making part of the case as it originally stood. Id. ib.

Where defendants at law file bill for discovery and relief by cancellation of deeds, and bill is dismissed with costs, they having a good defence at law, and they succeed at law, and afterwards petition for a rehearing on account of costs, on ground that they were substantially entitled to such cancellation of deeds. The order was made, but without costs. Duncan v. Worrall, 10 Price, 31. COSTS; DELIVERY UP OF DEEDS TO BE CANCELLED.

Application by defendant for liberty to file a supplemental bill in aid of a rehearing, to put in issue evidence discovered during and since the hearing, refused the evidence discovered, being a deed and proceedings in suits to which the defendant was a party, and must have been apprized of their nature, and by negligence lost the benefit of them as a defence, and the object of the supplemental bill being to abandon the original defence and rely on a new one. Blake v. Foster, 2 Ball & B. 457. SUPPLEMENTAL BILL IN NATURE OF REVIEW; LACHES.

Injunction not revived pending a rehearing of order allowing exception to report that answer was insufficient. Scott v. Mackintosh, 1 V. & B. 503. INJON. REVIVAL OF; PR. ANSWER, EXCEPTIONS TO.

After the order, permitting the defendant to rehear the decree made on his default, setting aside the charity lease, and directing an account of the rents; he was ordered to give security for the sum reported due. Att. Gen. v. Brooke, 18 Ves. 496. PR. SECURITY.

After great lapse of time, and the deaths of the parties, from the residence abroad of the defendant, and upon an affidavit by him and his solicitor, that they had not discovered deeds material for his defence until after issue joined, leave was given to file a supplemental bill to put them in issue, and they were admitted to evidence upon a rehearing. Burrington v. O'Brien, 3 Ball & B. 140. SUPPLEMENTAL BILL IN NATURE OF REVIEW; LENGTH OF TIME; EVIDENCE.

On appeal and rehearing, additional evidence permitted in some instances. If the rule is so, it must be subject to costs. White v. Russell, 1 V. & B. 153. PR. EVIDENCE, FURTHER; PR. APPEAL.

Decree on default, setting aside a lease of a charity estate, with covenant for perpetual renewal, and directing an account of the actual rent. Rehearing permitted on paying costs, not disturbing proceedings before the master to the draft of a report of what was due, but the money not to be paid into court before the report made: petition, not motion, the proper mode of application. Att. Gen. v. Brooke, 18 Ves. 319. PR. PETITION; PR. MOTION.

Rehearing of course on the certificate of counsel. Id. 325.

Petition of rehearing after an appeal from the rolls, dismissed. E. I. Comp. v. Boddam, 13 Ves. 421. PR. APPEAL FROM ROLLS.

Rehearing granted on terms after a decree nisi made absolute. Fowles v. Young, 9 Ves. 172.

A rehearing will not be granted, though one only of several defendants, has signed and enrolled the decree of dismissal. Gore v. Pardon, 1 Scho. & L. 234.

A rehearing is the proper mode of impeaching a decree not signed and enrolled for error. Bolger v. Mackell, 5 Ves. 510. PR. DECREE, IMPEACHMENT OF.

Rehearing refused after decree to account, exceptions taken and disallowed, acquiescence of party therein, and final report made up. Macartney v. Blackwood, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 602.

There shall not be an appeal or rehearing for costs only. Newton v. Bennett, 1 Bro. C. C. 140. S. C. Dick. 594. PR. COSTS; PR. APPEAL.

An appeal from the rolls to the Ld. Ch. cannot be reheard. For v. Muckreth, 2 Cox, 158. APPEAL.

An original and two supplemental bills considered but as one cause, and therefore but one deposit necessary. Couper v. Scott, 1 Eden, 17. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 141.

Decree nisi, made absolute two years afterwards, ordered to be reheard on terms. Cunyngham v. Cunyngham, Ambl. 89. S. C. Dick. 145.

On a rehearing, depositions taken on part of defendant may be read, though not read at original hearing. Id. 90. PR. EVIDENCE.

After a decree has been signed and inrolled, it is too late to apply for a rehearing of the cause. Chetwynd v. Fleetwood, 1 Bro. P. C. 306. PR. ENROLMENT OF DECREE.

A decree must be complete against a defendant, though he have made default before there can be a petition for a rehearing. Baxter v. Wilson, 2 Atk. 152.

Supplemental bill, in nature of review, cannot be heard until petition to rehear original cause is presented. Moore v. Moore, Dick. 66.

Decree nisi. Defendant sets down cause to shew cause against it; makes default. Decree absolute. Rehearing granted him afterwards on terms. Hankwitz v. Occarel, id. 109.

Decree nisi made absolute, and proceedings before master. Defendant at liberty to rehear upon terms. Fry v. Prosser, id. 298.

Bill against husband and wife taken pro confesso. Husband died. Reheard on wife's petition. Took v. Clark, id. 350.

Court cannot give interest unless reserved by decree; but cause reheard for that purpose. Herle v. Greenbank, id. 370.

A cause upon rehearing must be opened as a case. Anon. 2 Ark. 50.

An agreement was signed by the parties, and by consent made an order of court to submit to such decree as the court should make, and neither party to bring his appeal; yet, the cause was allowed to be reheard. Duck v. Faucett, 3 P. W. 242. AGREEMENT.

A decree was made ex parte against A, to pay one moiety of a sum of money said to be due from A and B to C, upon a stated account between B and C, but to which A was neither party nor privy. Some years passed before A knew of this decree, but on being informed of it, he applied by petition for rehearing. On appeal a rehearing was directed. Hamilton v. Manby, 6 Bro. P. C. 347.

It is in the discretion of the court whether or no to grant a rehearing. Mills v. Banks, 3 P. W. 8.

Where a decree is obtained by default, and upon petition a rehearing is granted, if the person in the possession of the decree does not attend at the rehearing, the bill will be dismissed with costs to the petitioner. Wilson v. Dabbs, Sel. C. C. 50. PR. BILL, DISMISSAL OF; PR. DEFAULT, APPEARANCE AT HEARING.

A cause reheard after thirty years, the enrolment being lost. Devering v. Cooper, 3 C. R. 27. PR. ENROLMENT OF DECREE LOST; LENGTH OF TIME.

After a rehearing by Judge Rainsford for the Lord Keeper Bridgeman, and afterwards a rehearing before the lord keeper, the cause was again reheard. Porter v. Hubbard, 2 C. R. 65. 3 C. R. 78.

If the petition of rehearing be against the decree in general, the whole cause is open, otherwise if it be only in respect of particular parts of it. Colchester v. Colchester, Sel. Ch. Ca. 13.

Omission in a bill of review to make one defendant a party is no cause of rehearing, the proceedings having been in the said defendant's name. Peachey v. Vintner, 1 C. R. 252.

If a fact be mistaken at the hearing the decretal order, it must be rectified by rehearing, and not by bill of review. Combs v. Proud, 1 C. C. 54. 2 Free. 182. PR. BILL OF REVIEW.

LXXX. REJOINDER.

Rejoinder not to be stuffed with repetitions of deeds in hec verba. Deane's Ord. 69.

Only to contain effect, &c., avoiding useless tautologies, &c. Id. 70.

If immoderately long, party, &c. to pay costs. Id. Before subpoena to rejoin, replication must be filed, &c. Id. 109.

Otherwise, the other side to pay costs. Id. 109. 183.

To subpoena to rejoin of force, unless replication filed. Id. 183.

To be filed with six clerk. Id. 231.

Every defendant taking out or craving a commission, is to rejoin gratis. Ord. Exch. 2 Fowl. 48. So if after exceptions allowed, and defendant putting in his answer within eight days. Id.

From M. 1815, it shall not be necessary to enter any side bar rule, to substitute service of the subpoena to rejoin, but that service thereof on defendant's six clerk and solicitor at his registered lodgings, shall in all cases be good service. Ord. Ch. Irel. 27th Jan. 1815. O'Keeffe's Ed. 112.

It is not the practice of the exchequer to issue subpoenas to rejoin. Johnson v. Mackaness, 9 Price, 213.

Order, that defendant might be at liberty to rejoin

de novo, giving notice of his intention to dispute the bankruptcy; allowed to be retained only on his consenting to admit as evidence the depositions of a deceased witness, as being necessary to prove the act of bankruptcy. Brickwood v. Miller, 1 Mer. 4. S. C. Coop. 270.

Defendant permitted to withdraw rejoinder, and rejoin de novo, giving notice of his intention to dispute the bankruptcy; but subject to costs. S. C. 2 Rose, 216. Not, however, if plaintiff's witnesses to prove commission are dead. S. C. Id. 340. BANKCY. NOTICE OF INTENT. TO DISPUTE.

Order to withdraw rejoinder and rejoin de novo, for the purpose of giving notice of intention to dispute act of bankruptcy under statute 49 G. 3. c. 121. By analogy to practice at law, to permit plea to be withdrawn according to practice in exchequer, the affidavit to state the deponent's information and belief, that it is essential to the justice of the case. Berks v. Wigan, 1 V. & B. 221.

After rejoinder, a defendant cannot move to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution. Tozer v. Tozer, 1 Cox, 288. PR. DISMISSAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

If plaintiff replies, defendant may rejoin gratis, and after the next term may give rule to produce witnesses. Flower v. Herbert, Dick. 349.

A rejoinder is only a fiction of the court, and is never actually filed. Rodney v. Hare, Mos. 296.

The defendant, though he is not served with a subpoena, may rejoin gratis; but plaintiff cannot compel him to rejoin with a subpoena. Anon. Mos. 123.

If plaintiff reply to an answer, and bring the cause to a hearing without giving subpoena to rejoin, the answer shall be taken for true, as if there had been no replication, for the opportunity which defendant had to prove his answer is taken from him. Anon. 2 Ch. Ca. 21. But see ante.

LXXXI. REPLICATION.

After replication filed, plaintiff shall not be permitted to withdraw it and amend bill, but on special application. 15th General Ord. 3d April, 1828.

A replication filed in discharge of an order of dismissal is not to be withdrawn without special motion, on notice to defendant's solicitor. Ord. Exch. 11th June, 1788. Kirkby's Rules & Ord. 43.

Replication of immoderate length subjects party, &c. to fine. Deane's Ord. 25. 70.

After replication answer cannot be excepted to as insufficient. Id. 28.

Must contain no new matter. Id. 29. S. P. O'Keeffe's Ord. 19.

Exception. Id. 29.

Not to be stuffed with repetitions of deeds in hec verba. Id. 69.

Only to contain the effect, &c. briefly, avoiding useless tautologies, &c. Id. 70.

No more points to be replied to than necessary. Id. 70. 180.

Must be filed before subpoena to rejoin issues. Id. 109. 183.

To be filed with six clerk. Id. 231.

Replication allowed to be withdrawn and bill amended by striking out the name of a plaintiff and making him a defendant, and by stating such facts and circumstances relating to certain transactions between that plaintiff and the defendant as were material to show that the other plaintiffs were not, and ought not to be bound by the facts or misrepresentation of that plaintiff respecting the property in the pleadings mentioned, or the purchase thereof, and as were material to show, that such acts and misrepresentation of the said plaintiff were evidence against the defendants, the plaintiffs who made the application giving security for costs to the satisfaction of the master, and undertaking to amend within a given time, paying the costs of the application, the usual costs of the amendments, and withdrawing the replication. The extra costs of the amendments to be costs in the cause. Small v. Attwood, 2 Y. & J. 512. PR. AMENDMENT.

Under special circumstances leave given to withdraw replication, and file exceptions nunc pro tunc. Evans v. Veysey, 1 M'Clel. 341.

Motion to withdraw replication (filed in the same term, and without much previous delay to save a bill,) and amend, granted on payment of costs, and undertaking to amend within a week, although it did not appear that the matter sought to be introduced had come to the party's knowledge subsequently to filing the replication. Callanan v. Salwey, 1 M'Clel. 598. S. C. 13 Price, 799.

Semhle. Where replication is filed, defendant cannot dismiss bill for want of prosecution, but should set down the cause. Atkinson v. Hutton, 13 Price, 6. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL.

Where the plaintiff is misnamed in an order to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution, in consequence of an error in the six clerks' certificate, a replication filed after service of the order will not be irregular. Semble. Verlander v. Codd, 1 Turn. & L. 9. S. C. 1 S. & S. 94. PR. ORDER TO DISMISS MISNOMER.

The application for leave to withdraw the replication and amend the bill, is not of course in the exchequer, but must be moved on an affidavit of the nature and materiality of the proposed amendment. Markham v. Smythe, 9 Price, 163.

Notice was given of motion to dismiss on same day that motion was made, and subsequent thereto replication was filed: Held bill not dismissed, and defendant not entitled to costs of motion. Reynolds v. Nelson, 5 Mad. 60. See Obs. 10 Ves. 404. DIVISION OF TIME; DISMISSAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION; FILING PLEADINGS, &c.

It is a motion of course to withdraw a replication and amend a bill, unless some further proceeding has been had in the cause, or plaintiff has undertaken to speed the cause. In the Exchequer, the Vice Ch. observed, it was not a motion of course, but a special case must be made. In this case, rules had been given to produce witnesses; and the motion was to withdraw the replication and the rules to produce witnesses, and for leave to amend, which his Honor said was a motion that required a special case. Ld. Kilcoursy v. Ley, 5 Madd. 210.

Replication filed after notice thereof, & before the motion to dismiss; motion not sustainable. Defendant entitled to costs. Spurrier v. Bennett, 4 Mad. 39. PR. NOTICE; PR. MOTION TO DISMISS; PR. COSTS.

After plaintiff has twice amended his bill, and filed a replication for cause against a second order nisi to dismiss, as against a defendant who has not caused delay, the court will not permit the replication to be withdrawn for the purpose of further amending the bill, by striking out the name of such defendant, and in other respects. Turner v. Calvert, 3 Price, 161.

Replication filed on day cause is shown against dismissal of bill, ordered to be taken off file as irregular. Christie v. De Tastet, 1 Price, 242. PR. FILING PLEADINGS; DISMISSAL OF BILL.

Order to withdraw the replication on payment of 20s. costs of course: the General Order, 27th of April, 1748, giving a discretion to exceed 40s. costs; in case of dismissal on bill and answer. Cowdell v. Taillock, 3 V. & B. 19. Otherwise in Exch. Markham v. Smythe, 9 Price, 163. REG. GEN., CONSTRUCTION OF; PR. COSTS.

The plaintiff in a bill of interpleader is not entitled, after replying to the answers, to move for his costs, but must set down the cause for hearing. Jones v. Gilham, Coop. 49. PR. COSTS; PR. INTERPLEADER.

After the usual undertaking to speed his cause, plaintiff filed his replication, and rested for three terms more; and upon another motion to discontinue, he again undertook to speed the cause, and afterwards obtained an order for leave to withdraw his replication and amend. The Register denying this practice to be regular, the court discharged the order with costs. Pitt v. Watts, 15 Ves. 126.

In the Exchequer, where plaintiff applies to withdraw a replication (filed to save a bill) and amend, he must satisfy the court, not only that the amendments sought to be made are material, but that the circumstances came to his knowledge subsequent to the time of filing the replication. Turner v. Chalvin, Forrest's Ex. R. 23.

In the Exchequer, on moving for leave to withdraw the replication and amend the bill, plaintiff must show the materiality. Longman v. Calliford, 3 Anstr. 807.

Leave obtained to withdraw the replication and amend the bill, by striking out certain parts, on undertaking to reply immediately. Turner v. Williams, 2 Fowl. 46. But this motion is not of course, but must be supported by affidavit of the materiality of the amendments. Markham v. Smythe, 9 Price, 163.

After an undertaking to speed a cause, plaintiff will not be allowed to withdraw his replication and amend the bill as of course, but must move specially. Ryan v. Stewart, 1 Cox, 397.

Replying to answer and serving subpoena to rejoin, will not prevent defendant from moving to dissolve, unless cause, an injunction granted till answer. Molineux v. Luard, Dick. 684.

Defendant cannot be examined after his answer is replied to. Winter v. Kent, id. 595.

To plea in bar, plaintiff may reply generally, and examine at large. Ord v. Huddleston, id. 510.

If plaintiff replies, defendant may rejoin gratis, and after the next term may give rule to produce witnesses. Flower v. Herbert, id. 349.

Orders for leave to withdraw replications are very rarely granted, unless some reasonable ground be shown, as that plaintiff be thereby enabled to amend his bill; because otherwise it may be a contrivance of plaintiff to defeat defendant of his full costs, by getting the bill dismissed at the hearing with 40s. costs only. Pitt v. Reynolds, 3 Atk. 565. In M. 1747, the Ld. Ch., after mentioning this case, directed the Register to frame a general order, to prevent similar applications for leave to withdraw the replication in order to set down the cause on bill and answer only; but his lordship would not make any order that should affect this particular case. See Beame's Ord. 450.

After witnesses have been examined, the replication cannot be withdrawn. Gascogne v. Chandler, 3 Swan. 420.

If plaintiff who is of age does not reply, it is an admission of the facts in answer. But an infant can admit nothing, and therefore, his replying does not affect him. Legard v. Sheffield, 2 Atk. 377. INFANT.

After publication, plaintiff cannot amend without withdrawing his replication. Anon. 1 Atk. 51. PR. BILL AMENDMENT.

Where plaintiff replies to plea, he admits it to be a good bar, if facts alleged therein are true; and therefore, he cannot afterwards object to order for allowing plea, but must proceed to examine witnesses to falsify it. Dunsany v. Shaw, 5 Bro. P. C. 267. PR. PLEA.

After cause set down to be heard on bill and answer, plaintiff may, on payment of costs, reply. Ld. Donegall v. Warr, 1 Eq. Ab. 43.

If plaintiff replies to defendant's plea, he thereby admits the plea to be good, if it be true, and the validity of the plea can never after be considered, but only the truth of it as he proves it, or the plaintiff disproves it. Parker v. Blythmore, Free. Ch. 58. PR. PLA.

Though a plea in bar be allowed, yet the plaintiff may reply and put the defendant to the proof of it. Anon. Gilb. Eq. R. 184. Id.

Where there is a plea and answer, the replication must be to the answer as well as to the plea. Niccol v. Wiseman, 2 Vern. 46.

In Nosworthy v. Bussett, 1 Vern. 351., the court refused to give any opinion whether, after a plea or demurrer to a special replication allowed, plaintiff may put in a general replication.

In Cock v. Arnold, Finch, 426., the question was, whether the replication was not a departure from the bill. But special replications, with all their consequences, are now out of use. See Mitf. Pl. 260.

If plaintiff replies to an answer, and without rejoining and giving rules for publication, brings the cause to a hearing, the answer shall be taken wholly true, as if there had been no replication; for the opportunity for defendant to answer is taken from him. Grosvenor v. Cartwright, 2 Ch. Ca. 21. See Hampton v. Spencer, 2 Vern. 288. Legard v. Sheffield, 2 Atk. 377.

In drawing a replication, the counsel neglected to put in issue a material fact; but as it was the case of an infant, the court would not hold him concluded by a mere slip in the pleading. Savage v. Whitebread, 3 Rep. Ch. 24.

Plaintiff put matter into his replication which was not contained in the bill, and which matter plaintiff knew of at the exhibiting the bill. Demurrer to the replication allowed. Goodfellow v. Marshall, 1 Ch. Rep. 259.

Where witnesses have been examined and no replication, the court at hearing, or even after a decree, will order a replication to be filed nunc pro tunc. A cause is at issue by the replication, and a rejoinder is never actually filed. Rodney v. Hare, Mos. 296.

Bill charged defendant with tearing a bond. Defendant by his answer denied having done so. Plaintiff by way of replication shewed it was an indenture of covenants. Defendant demurred that this was a departure from the bill; but defendant ordered to rejoin, and join in commission. Passmore v. Ford, Cho. Ca. Ch. 147.

Plaintiff, for putting in a long replication, fined 10*l.* and imprisoned, and a hole to be made through the replication, and to go from bar to bar with it hung round his neck. Mitward v. Wollen, Tolt. 101.

Rents and profits of real estate descended to be applied before inheritance is sold. Rowe v. Beavis, Dick. 178.

The court will not oblige a judgment creditor to wait till he is paid out of the rents; but will accelerate the payment by directing a sale. Stileman v. Ashdown, 2 Atk. 610. But the sale cannot be of more than a moiety. Id.

Where debts and legacies are by will directed to be raised by perception of rents and profits, or by leasing or mortgaging of the land, this restrains it merely to a payment out of rents, and the court cannot decree a sale. Ridout v. El. Plymouth, 2 Atk. 105. TRUST FOR PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

In the above cases Ld. H. recommended it to the parties to apply for a private act of parliament to obtain a sale of the testator's real estates. Id. ib.

In case of judgment recovered against an heir who has a reversion in fee, which is only assets cum acciderit, court will not decree a sale of the reversion, but the creditor must wait till it falls. Fortrey v. Fortrey, 2 Vern. 134. REVERSION.

Land settled on trustees for raising portions for daughters; on a bill for a sale, court will decree the heir to join in the sale though he has no legal interest. Roll v. Roll, 2 Vern. 40. HEIR AT LAW.

3. Vendors, liabilities and duties.

Upon sale in court of copyhold. Vendor coming for aid is compelled to surrender in person if conveniently it can be done. Noel v. Weston, 6 Mad. 50. VENDOR & PURCH.; COPYHOLD SURRENDER.

4. Purchaser's rights, liabilities and duties, and herein of the title.

A purchaser under decree is entitled to his costs where master reports against title though no fund in court. Smith v. Nelson, 2 S. & S. 557. COSTS.

Order directing timber to be sold before master, and purchase-money to be paid by instalments. Purchaser desirous of paying purchase-money immediately on allowance of discount, the same ordered on consent of defendant. Sitwell v. Sitwell, 4 Mad. 183.

Purchaser under decree of two-sevenths of estate in one lot is not obliged to take one-seventh to which only title can be made. Roffey v. Smalleross, 4 Mad. 227. TITLE.

Purchaser who is dissatisfied with deputy remembrancer's report of title of premises sold, under decree of court must move for leave to file exceptions thereto, otherwise the motion to confirm may be made absolute in the first instance, but on moving if prepared, he may show exceptions instant. Eyton v. Dicken, 4 Price, 303. PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Title reported good by deputy remembrancer in creditor's suit, purchaser not bound to take it if only prima facie title. Id. ib. TITLE.

Purchaser having employed the vendor's agent who had notice of an incumbrance, charged with notice, notwithstanding the purchase was made under the sanction of the court, and an infant was interested in it. Toulmin v. Steere, 3 Mer. 210. PRIN. & AGENT; NOTICE.

The court of chancery does not warrant the title of an estate which is purchased under its directions. Id. 223. TITLE.

A purchaser under a decree shall not be affected by error in the decree: ex gratia in its not having given a day to an infant defendant to shew cause, or in decreeing a sale of lands to satisfy judgment debts without an account of the personal estate. Bennett v. Hamill, 2 Scho. & L. 566. VENDOR & PURCH.; DECREE, ERROR ON.

A purchaser has right to presume that the court has taken the steps necessary to investigate the rights of the parties, and that on that investigation it has properly decreed a sale, but he ought to see that all proper parties to be bound are before the court, and that he does not take a title which can be impeached, alioquin. Id. ib.

In sales under a decree it is irregular to pay the purchase-money to the party; it ought to be paid into court. Id. 581. PAYMENT OF PURCHASE MONEY.

Motion that a person reported best purchaser, should complete his purchase by a certain day, refused, the report not being absolutely confirmed. Anon. 2 Ves. J. 335.

It is no objection on the part of a purchaser of land sold by a master, that more land is sold than is necessary for the purpose of the testator's will. Lutwyche v. Winford, 2 Bro. C. C. 248.

Conveyances made under a decree are to be settled by the like rule as men of judgment among conveyancers would direct. Lloyd v. Griffith, 3 Atk. 267.

A reversion expectant on an estate for life is decreed to be sold, B is confirmed the best purchaser, and the order made absolute 1st Jan. 1724. On the day of Jan. 1726, B is ordered to bring his money into the bank, the life drops; if the life had dropped, the next day after the report of B's being the best purchaser made absolute, the purchase must have stood, and as from that time the life was wearing so from that time, the purchaser ought to pay interest. Exp. Manning, 2 P. W. 410.

Whilst conditional orders for attachments are depending against plaintiff and defendant for not executing the deeds of conveyance to the purchaser; the creditors who came in under the decree, cannot be paid out of the purchase-money though the purchaser has gone into possession, but the court will give them leave to proceed on their securities. Ormsby v. Nicholson, Vern. & Scriv. 115. DEBTOR & CRED.; PR. DECREE FOR SALE.

5. Sale when completed, letting purchaser into possession.

Sale of an annuity before the master, takes effect from the confirmation of the report and the sale being on the 11th of August, and the report confirmed in Michaelmas term, interest was given upon the purchase-money from the first day on which the report could have been confirmed, viz. the first seal before the term. Twigg v. Fifeild, 13 Ves. 517. ANNUITY; INTERMEDIATE PROFITS.

Purchaser under a decree of the court is not entitled upon an affidavit that he has had his money lying ready for some time, to be let into possession of estate, and receipt of rents for all such time so passed. Barker v. Harper, Coop. 32. DELIVERY OF POSSESSION.

A purchase before the master is not complete before confirmation of the report, therefore, a loss by a fire after the report, but before confirmation, falls upon the vendor, and the circumstance that the sale had been delayed by the purchaser having opened the biddings was not attended to. Exp. Minor, 11 Ves. 559.

Purchaser under decree considered only as owner, from time he pays the purchase-money, and not from confirmation of report by which he is declared the best bidder, he having taken objections to title. Mackrell v. Hunt, cited 2 Mad. 34.

6. Discharge of first, and substitution of another purchaser.

Purchaser of estates sold under a decree, discharged, on motion, from his purchase, upon error in the degree being shewn, though the parties are proceeding to rectify it. Whether he is entitled to his costs, quære? Jechmere v. Brasier, 2 Jac. & W. 287.

Consent of owner of property sold under decree, is necessary to a motion to vacate a bidding. Re v. Brickdale, 8 Price, 630. CONSENT.

The court refused to discharge the solicitor in the cause from a purchase before the master, with the view of preventing a sale at under value. Nethorpe v. Pennyman, 14 Ves. 517. PUFFER; SOLICITOR.

Court will not discharge purchaser, and substitute another in his place, even upon paying in the money, without affidavit that there is no under-bargain. Rigby v. M'Namara, 6 Ves. 615. S. P. Vale v. Davenport, 6 Ves. 615.

One reported, the highest bidder compelled to complete his purchase. Cunningham v. Williams, 2 Anst. 344. SPEC. PERF.

One purchaser substituted for another upon motion, with consent. Matthews v. Stubbs, 2 Bro. C. C. 391.

Purchaser before a master submitting to forfeit his deposit not bound to proceed to the purchase. Seville v. Seville, 1 P. W. 745. But see note (c), id. 747. SPEC. PERF.

7. Opening Biddings.

- (a) Generally.
- (b) Deposit on.

(a) Generally.

Biddings opened on the application of a person who was present at the sale, though the advance offered was less than five per cent. on the price. Leffroy v. Leffroy, 2 Russ. 606.

A purchaser for B, but without authority, an estate sold under a decree; B died, without adopting the purchase; the order nisi was nevertheless obtained. The court refused to order B's executor to pay the purchase money, and on the heir declining the purchase, discharged the order nisi, and directed a re-sale. Lord v. Lord, 1 Sim. 503. HEIR AT LAW; EXECUTORS.

If the executors of a purchaser under a decree refuse to pay the purchase money they cannot be compelled to pay it, unless a suit be instituted by the heir. Id. ib.

Purchaser who has confirmed his report nisi cannot after notice, to open biddings confirm absolutely. Vunsittart v. Collier, 2 S. & S. 608. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT; VENDOR & PURCH.

Biddings for an estate allowed to be opened by a person who had attended the former sale by an agent, he offering an advance of 500*l.* in 8950*l.* the best bidding reported. Pearson v. Collett, 1 M'Clel. 82. S. C. 13 Price, 213.

The rules which regulate the practice of opening biddings upon a sale of landed estate, do not apply when a colliery is the subject of sale. Williams v. Attenborough, 1 Turn. & R. 70. COLLIERIES.

Upon an offer to give 10,000*l.* for a colliery sold for 8,850*l.* a motion to open the biddings was refused. Id. ib.

The rule is not universal, that biddings shall not be opened in favour of parties present at the sale; Id. ib.

The person who opens the biddings is discharged, if he is outbid at the sale. Id. ib.

Biddings not opened, even on creditor's suit, upon an advance of 350*l.* being less than 10 per cent. Garr-ton v. Edwards, 1 S. & S. 20.

Upon advance of 500*l.* though less than 10 per cent., court will act. 1 S. & S. 20.

Biddings not opened, under advance less than 40*l.* Brookfield v. Bradley, id. 23.

Two lots ordered to be re-sold in one, where advance on smaller lot under 40*l.* Id. ib.

Where several lots have been purchased by the same person, and the biddings are opened as to some of them, which were first purchased, the purchaser will be allowed option of opening biddings as to remainder. Price v. Price, id. 386.

In a similar case, upon an affidavit of the purchaser that he had bid for the lot in consequence of having been declared the best bidder for the prior lot, the bidding was opened. Fidler v. Fidler, cited id.

A person present at the sale allowed to open biddings, but a larger advance expected from him. Tynedale v. Warre, 1 Jac. 525.

There is no general rule that a party present at the sale shall not open biddings; each case must depend on its own circumstances. A party who neglects to bid, in consequence of the auctioneer declaring that a person may open the bidding, if he comes within eight days after the report, cannot allege surprise as a ground for opening the biddings, if he does not come within that time. Thornhill v. Thornhill, 2 Jac. & W. 347.

At a sale by order of the court, a reserved bidding allowed to be made one of the conditions. The master to fix the amount, and to use his discretion in communicating it to the parties, or their solicitors. Jervoise v. Clarke, 1 Jac. & W. 389.

One party having moved to open biddings, although he has not drawn up the order, nor paid his deposit, another person cannot open biddings without notice to the first. Gibbons v. Howell, 4 Mad. 52.

Biddings not opened, unless advance of 40*l.* is offered. Farlow v. Weildon, 4 Mad. 460.

Costs of former purchaser, see id. note. Costs.

Where two lots are purchased together, biddings cannot be opened as to one lot only, unless the first purchaser choose to keep the one remaining lot alone. Exp. Tilsley, 4 Mad. 227. note.

Person present at sale not allowed to open biddings. McCulloch v. Colbatch, 3 Mad. 314. See quere.

In a creditor's suit bidding opened on an advance of 500*l.* upon 10,000*l.* paying the advance into court, and the expenses of the discharged purchaser. Brooks v. Smith, 3 V. & B. 144.

A re-sale, on opening biddings, producing considerable increase of price, is no ground for giving party his costs of opening biddings. Tregusis v. Clinton, 1 V. & B. 361. PR. COSTS.

Biddings opened upon a second application by the same person, the purchaser not appearing upon notice. Preston v. Barker, 16 Ves. 140.

In bankruptcy application to open biddings when deed executed, and purchaser put in possession too late. Exp. Partington, 1 Ball. & B. 209. BANKCY. SALE IN.

General rule not to open biddings, after confirmation of the report, upon negligence, surprise, the circumstances of the estate, &c. without something unconscious on the part of the purchaser. No rule, fixing the advance on opening biddings at 10 per cent.; more or less will be required, according to circumstances. White v. Wilson, 14 Ves. 151.

A person who opened biddings not being the purchaser, allowed his expenses on the circumstances against the general rule, having interposed at the instance, and for the benefit of the family. West v. Vincent, 12 Ves. 6. Costs.

Biddings will not be opened after confirmation of the report, unless fraud is shown in purchaser, or fraudulent negligence in agent, &c. or other special circumstances. Morice v. Br. Durham, 11 Ves. 57. PR. CONFIRMATION ON MASTER'S REPORT.

After a sale regularly confirmed, the court cannot open the bidding, merely on a suggestion of there being persons ready to bid in advance, without first setting aside the order confirming the sale; and that order ought not to be set aside, but on grounds of fraud. Executors of Fergus v. Gore, 1 Scho. & L. 350.

Person who opened biddings, but was not the purchaser, allowed his costs, on the special circumstances, having opened them not on his own account, but for the benefit of the family. Owen v. Foulks, 9 Ves. 348. PR. COSTS.

A person who opened biddings, but was not the purchaser, the estate upon the resale going considerably higher, cannot on that ground have his costs. El. Macclesfield v. Blake, 8 Ves. 214. COSTS.

Person opening biddings, though not purchaser, not entitled, in any case, to costs. Rigby v. McNamara, 6 Ves. 466. PR. COSTS.

Biddings opened by person who was present at sales. S. C. Id. 117. S. P. Tait v. Id. Northwick, 5 Ves. 655.

Bidding opened on advance of 50*l.* on 380*l.* and paying the expense. 10 per cent. not sufficient on a small sum. Upton v. Id. Ferrers, 4 Ves. 700.

Biddings opened after the report confirmed simply upon an advance of 61*l.* on 305*l.* 35*l.* not sufficient. Chetham v. Grugeon, 5 Ves. 86.

Biddings opened on advance of 200*l.* upon 3200*l.*, but 100*l.* was held too little. Anon. 5 Ves. 148.

Increase of price offered is not alone a reason to open biddings after the report confirmed. Boyer v. Blackwell, 3 Anst. 656.

Where a person is reported purchaser of several lots before the master, if the biddings are opened as to one, he shall have an option to open them as to all. Semble. Id. 657. VENDOR & PURCH.

Biddings opened on advancing 100*l.* on 800*l.*, and 200*l.* on 1200*l.* Anon. 2 Ves. J. 487.

Biddings opened after confirmation of the report on circumstances, as where the owner of the estate who joined in the motion was in prison at the time of the confirmation, and a fourth of the original price was offered in advance; but a deposit of the whole advance was required. Watson v. Birch, 2 Ves. J. 51. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 172.

*On opening biddings, the court, in the reference of costs of the purchaser, will not give a particular direction for a specific expense. Anon. 2 Ves. J. 286. PR. COSTS.

The bidding on a lot sold in this court may be opened upon a proper offer, even a second time, if the master's report has not been confirmed, but shall not be opened at all after confirmation. Scott v. Nesbit, 3 Bro. C. C. 475.

Bidding opened on terms of paying the former bidder all costs, charges, and expenses, to be settled by the master. Watts v. Martin, 2 Bro. C. C. 113.

Biddings are opened for the benefit of the suitor and estate, not of the purchaser; as where he was too late, and the overbidding is small. Anon. 1 Ves. J. 453.

Estate sold before the master for payment of debts, and A reported the best bidder. Before the report was confirmed, it was discovered that A was insane at the time of the bidding. It was moved on behalf of all the parties in the cause, that B, the next best bidder might be reported the purchaser at the sum bidden by him, and B consented; but the court thought this was irregular, and directed the estate to be re-sold generally. Blackbeard v. Jandigren, 1 Cox, 205.

The court has always discretion to open biddings, resting wholly on circumstances of the case. Ryder v. Gower, 6 Bro. P. C. 386.

Where applications to open biddings are frivolous or litigious, and grounded only on application of the owner, and especially where value of estate is but little more than will satisfy incumbrances, court are well justified in refusing such applications. Baillie v. Chaigneau, 6 Bro. P. C. 313.

Biddings opened after confirmation of the master's report, upon a considerable advance, there having been a mistake made in a particular of the estate left with master: and one of the parties who confirmed the report having been steward of the family, and knowing more than he communicated. Cs. Gower v. El. Gower, 2 Eden. 340. FRAUD; PR. CONFIRMATION OF MASTER'S REPORT.

Person opening biddings setting up sham bidders, who are reported best bidders, ordered himself to be best bidder at price he opened biddings. Molesworth v. Opie, id. 289.

(b) Deposit on.

Where biddings have been re-opened, and party opening them does not become the purchaser, he cannot have his deposit repaid, till report of re-sale is confirmed. Rex v. Hilton, 1 M'Clel. 595.

On opening biddings, ten per cent. to be deposited. Anon. 3 Mad. 494.

Upon opening biddings, the court refused to dispense with deposit, or order a trifling one to be taken upon particular circumstances. Anon. 6 Ves. 513.

Where a person, who has made a deposit upon being declared the highest bidder at a sale under a decree, is outbid at a subsequent setting up of the lands to sale, he is entitled to have his deposit back immediately, but for his interest and costs he must wait until the same shall have been completed. Archibald v. Montgomery, Vern. & Scriv. 302.

A deposit made on opening a bidding having been laid out in the public funds, this deposit is considered as part of the purchase money paid, and therefore the depositor is not entitled to the dividends accruing between the time of the deposit and the completion of the purchase; but only interest on the deposit at four per cent. Doyley v. Cs. Powis, 1 Cox, 206. S. C. 2 Bro. C. C. 33. INTEREST; INVESTMENT, DIVIDENDS ON; VEND. & PURCH.

The deposit made upon opening a bidding is considered as part of the purchase money paid, although, on the event of the depositor not being reported the best bidder, it must be returned to him, and therefore, where the deposit is laid out in the public funds, which rise between the time of the deposit and the purchase being completed, the estate will have the benefit of the rise. Ambrose v. Ambrose, 1 Cox, 194. ACCRETION; VEND. & PURCH.

8. The conveyance.

No objection to sale in court, under a will, that infants interested under will cannot join in conveyance. Powell v. Powell, 6 Mad. 53. DEEDS, PARTIES TO; INFANTS; VEND. & PURCH.; TITLE.

Where confirmed purchaser of estate under decree died before conveyance made, having, in mean time, devised his interest therein to trustees, court ordered conveyance to be made to them, without consent of heir at law, who was an infant. King v. Gregory, 4 Price, 380. PL. PARTIES; HEIR AT LAW.

9. Setting aside.

Lands in strict settlement, with power to grant leases, being subject to prior incumbrances, are, by decree in a suit instituted by incumbrancers, directed to be sold subject to charges prior to deed of settlement. Pending the suit, the tenant for life, under settlement, grants leases not authorised by the power, and raises money upon annuities for his life, which he charges upon the lands, and they are sold subject to those charges. Held, (reversing decree of court below) on suit by remainder-man in tail, that the sale subject to charges not warranted by decree, is void. Coleclough v. Sterum, 3 High, 181. DECREE.

A sale under a decree, all necessary parties being before the court, not set aside after a lapse of time, though the surplus of the purchase money was directed to be paid to the tenant for life, there being no surplus, and the sale appearing to be properly conducted. Lightburne v. Swift, 2 Ball & B. 207. LENGTH OF TIME.

An estate being sold before a master, where the purposes of the decree did not require it, the sale shall be set aside, although the reports of the several purchasers were confirmed; but the purchasers must be fully reimbursed all their expenses out of pocket. Prideaux v. Pringleaux, 1 Cox, 34. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 287; where stated to have been reversed.

Sale declared to be made subject to the trusts of the testator's will, where, under a decree that his real estate (which was devised in strict settlement, subject to debts) should be sold, the sale had been effected by collusion between the creditors and tenants for life. Manaton v. Molesworth, 1 Eden, 18. TRUST.

SCANDAL, see PR. ANSWER, 18.—PR. MASTER, REFERENCE, 1, (d).

LXXXIII. SEAL AND SEAL DAY.

No motion for an injunction can be made the day on which a seal day is continued, if the party were not in a condition to make it on the seal day. Rome v. Jarrold, 5 Mad. 45.

Strictly, no motion can be made at a seal, the brief for which was not delivered to counsel at least on the first day of the seal; and a motion being made where this had not been done, the court discharged the order with costs, for the irregularity. Sharp v. Ashton, 2 Ves. & B. 412. 413. Anon. 2 Mad. Pr. 213. S. P.

Instruments not considered as sealed, for the purpose of proceeding on them, while remaining in the Ld. Ch.'s hands; but are so considered, from the moment of delivery to the party. Exp. Freeman, 1 V. & B. 39.

Writ of supersedeas and second commission of bankruptcy considered as sealed, from delivery to the messenger. Id. ib.

Order to amend, upon petition, at the rolls, after notice of motion to dismiss for want of prosecution; for the seal, the day on which the order was obtained, and the motion, could not be made regular. White v. Hall, 14 Ves. 208. PR. MOTION TO DISMISS; PR. ORDER TO AMEND.

Qu., Whether it is regular to issue a sequestration against the property of a party who is in the Fleet, under process from the common pleas, and is detained also upon an attachment from the court of chancery, but who has not been brought up by habeas corpus to the bar of the court in order to be turned over to the custody of the warden? Const. v. Barr, 2 Russ. 161.

The irregularity of a sequestration is waived, if the party against whom it is issued gives the sequestrators directions how to deal with his property. Id. ib. PR. WAIVER OF IRREGULARITY.

Where party is in custody of warden of Fleet, under process from the common pleas, and is detained by attachment from chancery, he must be brought up by habeas corpus to bar of this court, and turned over to warden of Fleet, before sequestration can issue. S. C. 2 S. & S. 452. PR. PRISONER.

The warden's certificate of a prisoner being, in his custody for contempt, for non-payment of costs taxed, is sufficient to found a motion for a sequestration, without any affidavit of demand and refusal to pay. Phillips v. Stephenson, 11 Price, 473. PR. WARDEN'S CERTIFICATE.

Order for sequestration made upon the return to a single distringas, issued under a decree for payment of costs; such an order is only an order nisi in the first instance. Jowther v. Mayor, &c., of Colchester, 3 Mer. 543. PR. DISTRINGAS.

Form of distringas regular, being to appear and answer contempt merely; (not ad comparandum et solvendum) but the cause for which it issued being specified by indorsement. Id. ib.

Sequestration for want of answer can only be obtained upon order nisi, and not absolute in the first instance. Bernal v. Marq. Donegal, 11 Ves. 43.

Sequestration for not performing the decree, upon the return to an attachment that the defendant was in custody of the warden of the Fleet. Errington v. Ward, 8 Ves. 314.

Construction of the General Order, 23rd January, 1794, in the case of a peer defendant, that in the cases specified, upon application for time to answer, the defendant enter his appearance, and undertake, that if the answer is not put in, a sequestration, i. e., a sequestration absolute. Gregor v. Ld. Arundel, 8 Ves. 87. GEN. ORDER, C. OF; PEER; PR. TIME TO ANSWER.

Sequestration will issue against defendant for contempt, in not putting in examination to interrogatories before master. Lupton v. Hescott, 1 S. & S. 274. PR. CONTEMPT.

A sequestration will be granted in chancery or exchequer for a personal duty; for the court hath authority to see its decrees executed. Guavens v. Fountaine, 2 Free. 99. H. C. C. 91: 2 Free. 125. 168.

All decrees in chancery, as well for personal as for real things, shall be executed by sequestration. Beddingfield v. Zouch, 2 Free. 168. Hide v. Pettit, 1 C. C. 91. 2 Free. 125. 168.

A sequestration, which is a kind of suspension nisi, &c., was granted against the warden of the Fleet for not answering: no attachment lies against him, because he is supposed to be always in court; and though it is directed to the sheriff, the body, when brought in, is turned over to the Fleet. In C. B., if the warden will not appear, they forejudge him his office. Anon. Mos. 238.

Defendant, in contempt for disobedience of a decree, was brought from Bristol by habeas corpus cum causa, and turned over to the Fleet, and a sequestration issued. Eldard v. Warren, 2 C. R. 151.

On the return of an attachment for non-performance of an order against one in the Fleet, the next process is a sequestration. Anon. Mos. 301.

Sequestration against an infant lord for not appearing. Anon. 2 C. C. 163.

2. Execution and effect of, and what liable to.

The court has no jurisdiction to order, upon motion, a person not a party to the cause, to pay into court the arrears of an annuity granted by him to a defendant, against whom a sequestration had issued for want of a sufficient answer, unless the grantor has by his conduct waived the objection to the jurisdiction; but he may notwithstanding, and without applying for the leave of the court, obtain from the grantee a release of the annuity. Johnson v. Chippindale, 2 Sim. 55. PR. JURISDICTION; CHOICE IN ACTION.

If the goods sequestered are not sufficient to answer the duty decreed, the plaintiff may move to revive the order for a serjeant at arms. Barnesly v. Pooel, Dick. 130. Hopkins v. Adcock, Id. 443. Anon. 246. PR. SERJEANT AT ARMS.

A sequestration covers the personal estate, and the court will direct a sale for a duty; it also covers the rents and profits of the real estate, but not the land. Hule v. Greenhill, Dick. 107. And see Athol v. F. Derby, 1 C. C. 222.

3. Abatement and discharge of.

Whether a sequestration after decree is determined by the death of the defendant. Mary Caermarthen v. Hawson, 3 Swan, 294.

Sequestration for non-production of deeds, discharged on payment of costs, the party having been examined, and denied knowledge of them. Id. Perham v. Ds. Newcastle, Id. 293. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

In general the amendment of a bill puts an end to all process of contempt for want of an answer, and the court will not allow a plaintiff to amend without prejudice to a sequestration, notwithstanding he undertakes not to require any answer to the amendments. Symonds v. Ds. Cumberland, 2 Cox, 411. AMENDMENT; CONTEMPT.

Appointment of a receiver in the place of the sequestrators discharges the sequestration. Shaw v. Wright, 3 Ves. 23. Stat. 36 G. 3. c. 90. was passed in consequence of this case. RECEIVER.

An order having been made against the defendant for a sequestration for non-performance of the decree, an application was made to discharge the order for irregularity; the defendant by his affidavit positively denying that he had been served with the order nisi, the court would not discharge the order, but stayed the sequestration for a fortnight to give the defendant an opportunity of complying with the directions of the decree by executing certain deeds, &c. Shuttleworth v. Lonsdale, 2 Cox, 47. PR. SERVICE OR ORDER NISI.

Sequestration on mesne process abates on death of plaintiff, and revives with suit. Hyde v. Foster, Dick. 132. Wharam v. Broughton, Id. 137.

Sequestration to compel performance of a decree, abated by death of plaintiff. Wharam v. Broughton, 1 Ves. 182. PR. ABATEMENT AND REVIVOR.

LXXXV. SERVICE, SUBSTITUTED.

Service on clerk in court of subpoena to rejoin or to answer amended bill, or hear judgment, good. 20th Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

Service on the solicitor of a person who is not represented by a clerk in court, good service. 44th Gen. Order, 3rd April, 1828.

A person keeping out of the way to avoid the service of an order made upon petition in bankruptcy. It was ordered, upon motion, that service at his office should be good service. Exp. Anderson, Buck. 38.

Where defendant cannot be found, nor his place of residence discovered, if his solicitor refuse to accept subpoena to hear judgment, the court will order that service on defendant's clerk in court be deemed good service. Furquarson v. Theobald, 13 Price, 130. PR. SUBPOENA TO HEAR JUDGMENT.

Either party at law is entitled to assistance of court of equity to obtain commission to examine abroad. Defendant retiring from jurisdiction, service of subpoena to appear to bill for that purpose on his attorney at law ordered good service. Devis v. Turnbull, 6 Mad. 232. PR. COMMISSION TO EXAMINE ABROAD.

Service of subpoena on persons who in one instance had acted as agents of the defendant, who resided in Ireland, ordered. English v. Hendrich, 6 Mad. 205. PRINC. & AGENT.

To support an application, that service of subpoena on bill of interpleader upon solicitor who conducts the action ought be deemed good service, it is not only necessary that party applying should state that he knows not where plaintiff at law is, and that solicitor has refused to appear, but that solicitor should be stated to have positively refused to inform them where plaintiff at law is to be found, and also that the process should have been previously formally tendered to him. E. I. Comp. v. Collins, 6 Price, 404. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Service of order to pay money ordered, under circumstances, on defendant's clerk in court. Anon. 4 Mad. 462. ORDER.

The affidavit of service of subpoena on a bill filed for obtaining an injunction to stay process at law in the exchequer, served on attorney of plaintiff at law, must state positively that neither the plaintiff in equity, nor his attorney, knew where to find defendant in equity, nor where he might be served with process, or it will be considered insufficient, on motion, for that purpose, however full it may be in all other respects. Jardine v. Hayes, 7 Price, 239. PR. AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE.

One of two partners, the other being abroad, proves a debt and dies. Service of the petition to expunge the debt upon the attorney appointed to receive the dividends, ordered to be good service, upon motion. Exp. Peyton, Buck. 200. BANKRUPT PETITION TO EXPUNGE.

Substitution of service of subpoena to appear and answer, refused, where one defendant resided out of the jurisdiction, and the other admitted by his answer that he had received a power of attorney from him to receive the arrears (then due) of an annuity, which it was the object of the bill to set aside. Rickford v. Redriff, 2 Mer. 458.

Court will order solicitor of party residing abroad, who had been employed to commence actions at law, to accept subpoena on injunction bill, supported by affidavit of facts, and of subsistence of account between the parties. Wattleworth v. Pitcher, 2 Price, 5. SOLICITOR & CLIENT.

Bill against two partners, one abroad; service of subpoena against him, on motion, permitted on the other. Coles v. Gurney, 1 Mad. 187. PARTNERS.

Service upon the attorney, the defendant being abroad, only to compel appearance, not for the purpose of a special injunction in the first instance. Anderson v. Darcy, 18 Ves. 447.

Where a party is avoiding service, and the clerk in court is dead, the proper course is to move first that service of a subpoena to name a clerk in court on the solicitor may be good service; and if none is named, then that service on the solicitor may be good service. Franklyn v. Colquhoun, 12 Ves. 2. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR; PR. OFFICERS AFFIDAVIT, CLERK IN COURT.

A defendant residing out of the jurisdiction, had given a power of attorney to P, to act for him in the management of his affairs. The court refused to allow substitution of service of subpoena to appear and answer on P. Smith v. Hibern. Mine Comp., 1 Scho. & L. 238.

Service of a writ of execution upon the clerk in court, not good. Ellison v. Pickering, 8 Ves. 319. PR. WRIT OF EXECUTION.

Order, that service of subpoena to answer amended bill on clerk in court, or solicitor, may be good service, granted on special circumstances. Gelidneki v. Charnock, 6 Ves. 171.

Service on the defendant's wife ordered to be deemed personal service on the defendant, and upon that service ordered that he stand committed for breach of injunction. Pulteney v. Shelton, 5 Ves. 147. HUSB. & WIFE.

Service, by sending the subpoena to the defendant under cover to the person to whom he had directed his letters to be sent, ordered to be good service. Hunt v. Lever, 5 Ves. 147.

After final report of costs, &c., nothing remaining but application of the fund, ordered, that service on the clerks in court of the defendant should be good service, in order to confirm the report, on motion and affidavits, that some lived in the E. and W. Indies, and others in different parts of this country, though there were only five defendants. Jackson v. —, 2 Ves. J. 416. PR. CONFIRMATION OF REPORT.

A defendant having appeared and answered the original bill, the plaintiff afterwards amended it, at which time the defendant was out of the jurisdiction. The court will not order service on the clerk in court in the original suit to be taken as good service on the defendant of the subpoena to appear to and answer the amended bill. Roberts v. Worley, 2 Cox, 389. PR. AMENDED BILL.

There are cause and cross-cause, and the plaintiffs in the original cause are many, several of whom are out of jurisdiction, others not to be found, and some peers of the realm. A motion, that service on the clerk in court should be good service, refused; but plaintiffs shall not pass publication in the original cause till they have answered the cross bill. Anderson v. Lewis, 3 Bro. C. C. 429. PR. CROSS CAUSE.

Where defendants are beyond the jurisdiction of the court, service of the subpoena on their clerk in court cannot be allowed to be deemed good service, though they have, by that clerk in court, filed a bill relative to the same subject. Bond v. Dk. Newcastle, 3 Bro. C. C. 385.

Orders for substituted service of process, discretionary. Anon. 2 Ves. 23.

Where neither the party nor her clerk in court, could be found, the court ordered that the service of a subpoena, to hear judgment, on her solicitor should be deemed good service, if accompanied by a copy of the order left at the last place of abode. Id. ib.

An infant having a day to shew cause against a decree of foreclosure after he attained twenty-one, attained that age, and left the kingdom, before he was served, to avoid his creditors. Application to serve his clerk in court with the subpoena. Lord Thurlow thought it must be personal service; but it being again moved upon strong affidavit, it was granted. Elcock v. Glegg, Dick. 764. DECREE OF FORECLOSURE, DAY TO SHOW CAUSE; INFANT.

A, while beyond the seas, sues B at law: B brings his bill against A. The court will order that service on A's attorney be good service, but not that such attorney shall put in answer without oath. Anon. 1 P. W. 523.

Qu., If the defendant were in an enemy's country, where no commission could go to take the answer? Id. ib.

LXXXVI. SIGNATURE OF COUNSEL, &c.

See also BARRISTER.

No counsellor to put his hand to any bill, answer, or other pleading, unless it be drawn, or at least perused, by himself in the draft, before engrossment, which they shall do well also for their own discharge to sign after perusal, and counsel are to take care that the same be not stuffed with repetitions in hæc verba; much less may any counsel insert therein matter merely criminal or scandalous, on penalty of good costs, to be paid by the counsel himself before he can be heard in court. Beame's Ord. 82. 83. 165. In Nickman v. Clarke, 2 Fowl. 478, an order is set forth from Lib. Ordin. in the exchequer, to disable a counsel from signing pleadings in that court, he having signed his name to long, frivolous, and scandalous answers. Bill dismissed because (amongst other reasons) without counsel's hand. Bingham v. Warren, Cary, 127.

An appeal to the lords must be signed by two counsel, and no person is to presume, as counsel, to sign any appeal, unless he have been of counsel in the courts below, or shall attend as counsel at the bar of the house, when the appeal shall come on to be heard. Ord. Dom. Proc. 3d March, 1697.

No person to deliver any printed case or cases to any lord of the house, unless it be first signed by one or more of the counsel in the cause; in the court below, or on the appeal. Ord. 19th April, 1698. Id. ib.

If any pleadings be filed whereto a counsel's hand is put, and not signed by the counsel himself, the pleading shall be taken off the file. Ord. Ch. Irel. 7th Feb. 1705. O'Keeffe's Ed. 25.

Any counsel signing a bill that afterwards shall be found scandalous or impertinent, shall pay the costs thereof. Ord. Ch. Irel. 30th April, 1719. And if such counsel's name be put to such bill or answer without his knowledge or consent, if a bill, it shall stand dismissed, and plaintiff to pay the whole costs: if an answer, defendant to pay the costs. Ord. Ch. Irel. 27th May, 1719. O'Keeffe's Ed. 29. By the 10th Rule of the exchequer, (Ireland) How. Pr. Ex. Irel. 706, all pleadings are to be signed by counsel allowed to practise; and in Wogan v. Jones, id. the court of exchequer (Ireland) refused to accept an answer and plea signed by an English barrister, on the ground that his signature did not satisfy the words of the order.

Where draft of amended bill is signed by same counsel who signed original bill, and no new engrossment is necessary, counsel's name need not be repeated on the amendment. Webster v. Threlfall, 1 S. & S. 135. PR. AMENDED BILL.

Otherwise, if by different counsel. Id. ib.

Pending an appeal from an order, overruling a demurrer, the court will stay proceedings for enforcing an answer, where answering would, under the appeal, be useless. Wood v. Milner, id. 636. APPEAL.

There being two suits to take executors' accounts, the prosecution of first suit was, under circumstances, stayed, and prosecution of decree in second suit was given to plaintiff in the first suit. Hawkes v. Barrett, 5 Mad. 17. ACCOUNT; EXOR.

An order directing security to be given, omitted to direct all proceedings to be stayed till it should be given, and a motion, of course, obtained in the meanwhile before security given, was held to be regular. But in future such order to direct, in all cases, proceedings to be stayed till security given. Fox v. Blew, 5 Mad. 147. SECURITY.

Bill for specific performance of agreement to take lease, and action for rent of occupation, not allowed at same time. On motion, court will order rent to be paid. Carriek v. Young, 4 Mad. 437. PR. TWO SUITS FOR SAME MATTER.

Pending an appeal from the rolls, an application to stay further proceedings, or to stay a final decree, must be made to the Ld. Chancellor. Macnughten v. Boehm, 1 Jac. & W. 48. APPEAL.

Where a solicitor became liable to costs of taxation, but without deducting them brought an action for taxed costs; on petition, action was stayed, and reference made to master to tax costs of taxation, after deducting which solicitor was ordered to be paid costs. Bellot v. Lingard, 4 Mad. 379. PR. PETITION; PR. COSTS OF TAXATION.

On motion of defendant before answer, it was ordered that reference be made to master to ascertain debt, &c. claimed by the bill, the same to be paid by a given day, and the suit to be stayed; and if not paid, plaintiff's costs given him, and plaintiff at liberty to proceed in the cause. Boys v. Ford, id. 40. PR. REF. TO MASTER.

After an order for the taxation of a solicitor's bill, staying proceedings at law till the report, the solicitor having died before a report, and no measures having been taken for continuing the taxation, his administrative proceeding at law against the client, was held not to have committed a contempt. Houlditch v. Houlditch, 1 Swan. 58. PR. CONTEMPT.

A reference to the master to inquire whether proceedings at law and in equity are for the same matter, stays all proceedings without the special order of the court, which will give or withhold leave to proceed according to the circumstances of each case. Carwick v. Young, 2 Swan. 239. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER IF TWO SUITS FOR SAME PURPOSE.

Plaintiff in original bill amending after cross-bill filed loses his priority of answer. But in order to stay proceedings on original bill until cross-bill is answered, defendant in original must obtain order to stay proceedings. Noel v. King, 2 Mad. 392. PR. CROSS-BILL; PR. ANSWER, PRIORITY OF.

An appeal does not form a ground to stay process for costs previously commenced, viz. by subpoena. Distinction where the appeal is before any step taken. Roberts v. Totty, 19 Ves. 446. PR. APPEAL; PR. COSTS.

Order nisi to stay proceedings at law obtained on motion after the last seal in the vacation, the brief not having been delivered to counsel on the seal day, discharged with costs for irregularity. Sharp v. Ash-ton, 1 V. & B. 412.

Practice of staying proceedings till costs of former proceedings paid is not applied to the case of a suit, as ejectment at law, and a suit in the spiritual court by some of next of kin, disputing as paupers a will on the ground of incapacity, the plaintiff in equity being another next of kin. Wild v. Hobson, id. 105. JURISDICTION; PR. COSTS.

Proceedings stayed until costs of former suit by same party suing in forma pauperis in cases only of great vexation. Id. 112. COSTS; PAUPER; VEXATION.

Motion to open the inrollment of a decree, and to stay proceedings under it to give an opportunity of appeal, refused; the decree being made upon the merits at law: a judgment by default is vacated on motion, not a judgment on the merits. Charman v. Charman, 16 Ves. 115. PR. DECREE, INROLMENT OF; PR. APPEAL; PR. MOTION.

Order of the House of Lords made that proceedings under a decree of the court of equity shall not be stayed by an appeal, unless by special order upon application to the house or the court. Writ of error generally stays execution in civil cases, not in criminal. Huguenin v. Barclay, 15 Ves. 180. See Leves v. Morgan, 5 Price, 468. PR. APPEAL.

General rule that an appeal does not stay proceedings without a special ground, the decree being for the specific performance of a contract for purchase according to the answer; the execution only was suspended, the master to proceed to settle the conveyance, &c. Gwynn v. Lethbridge, 14 Ves. 585. PR. APPEAL.

This court will not, before a decree, interpose in favour of an executor against a creditor proceeding at law. Rush v. Higgs, 4 Ves. 638. EXOR.

The plaintiff filed his bill in chancery, and dismissed it after answer; he then filed another bill in exchequer for same matter. Proceedings stopped till costs in chancery paid. Baldwyn v. Malo, 3 Aust. 835. PR. COSTS.

The plaintiff, as mortgagee, got possession of the estate, sued at law on the covenant for non-payment, and brought this bill to foreclose: this is regular, and the court will not stop the proceedings at law unless the defendant brings in the money. Rees v. Parkinson, 2 Aust. 497. MORTGAGE. & MORTGEE.; PAYMENT INTO COURT.

Court will not stay proceedings on either of the two bills brought for the same purpose—one by the assignee of the party interested, and the other by the party himself; but if they proceed to hearing, the court will dismiss that which is improperly brought. Court will not, on motion, stay proceedings on one of the two bills for the same purpose, unless both are brought by the same person, or on behalf of an infant. Gage v. Bulkeley, Ambl. 103. S. C. 1 Ves. 544.

Person forging subpoena, committed to Fleet. Beame's Ord. 160.

Unbaptised child, how to be described in subpoena. Fley v. Broughton, 2 S. & S. 183.

Subpoena cannot be altered after it has left the office sealed, though a practice has prevailed of permitting process to be altered by postponing the return day. Where plaintiff had obtained injunction for want of appearance to writ so altered, by changing the return day from the 30th June to 2d July, the court on motion quashed the subpoena, and set aside the attachment and injunction which had been granted thereon, on the ground of the irregularity. Where there appeared to have been undue advantage attempted to be obtained by so altering writ, the usual rule that the parties who move to set aside the process for irregularity, must apply in the first instance, was held not to preclude the party against whom the attempt had been made; the court, on granting the motion, ordering it with costs. Parker v. Fawcett, 9 Price, 441.

In default of appearance in such cases, process of contempt shall issue, returnable the first return of the next term. Ord. Exch. 27th Nov. 1721. Kirkby's Ed. 29.

The bill was in the name of A B et al. C; the subpoena only ad sectam A B. Defendant got costs for want of a bill as he supposed; but the court ordered the costs and the attachment for non-payment thereof, to be discharged. Anon. Prac. H. C. Ch. 159.

Subpoena may be sued out without affidavit out of term to appear and answer returnable immediately, but no attachment until eight days after service. Gen. Ord. June 30, 1828, 2 Y. & J. 492. PR. VACATION; PR. ATTACHMENT.

Subpoena returnable immediately, not to be granted upon petition to the master of the Rolls. Deame's Ord. 102.

The clerks of this court not to issue any subpoena returnable immediately, without the special command of the lord keeper. Id.

John Hungerford, for forging subpoenas and counterfeiting the great seal, and Theophilus Aylmer for bespeaking and buying a forged subpoena of Hungerford, were on affidavit and examination, committed to the Fleet for their contempt. Id. 159.

No subpoena to be made returnable immediately, unless the party be at the time in Dublin or the suburbs, or within ten miles thereof (1d. Ch. Bolton's Ord. 1639; and no subpoena to answer to be made returnable in vacation, but within fifteen days before or after term, unless defendant be resident as aforesaid. Primate Boyles' Ord. Ch. Ir. O'Keefe's Ord. Ch. Ir. 1. App.

Service of subpoena issued on an injunction bill, though effected at eleven o'clock on night of return day, and at so great a distance from town as to render it impracticable for defendant to appear in time to prevent an injunction for want of appearance, is sufficient. Nightingale v. Merryweather, 1 Pri. 287. PR. INJUNCTION.

Subpoena served on Sunday irregular; attachment and injunction therefore set aside before appearance, on entering appearance with the register. Macketh v. Nicholson, 19 Ves. 367. Newl. Pr. 66, though contrary is stated in Gilb. For. Rom. 43. and Newl. Har. 103. SUNDAY.

Defendant in contempt, and some exceptions to his answer allowed, and some overruled. If plaintiff excepts to the master's report as to the exceptions overruled, and defendant to those which the master had allowed, defendant is entitled to a subpoena for a better answer, upon the specialties of the case. Agar v. Regent's Canal Co. Coop. 221.

Service of subpoena by leaving label at a counting house of defendant, is not sufficient, unless given to a partner, or some acknowledged clerk thereof. Menzies v. Rodriguez, 1 Pri. 92.

Defendant may move to dissolve injunction for insufficient service of subpoena, although he has not appeared. Id. ib. PR. INJUNC. MOTION TO DISSOLVE; PR. APPEARANCE.

Service of subpoena necessary in the case of special injunction, but the practice having been unsettled, the defendant was put to dissolve upon the merits, and the plaintiff permitted to show cause by affidavit.

Att. Gen. v. Nichol, 1 Ves. 338. PR. INJUNC. SPECIAT.

Service of subpoena upon the father in law of an infant good service. Thompson v. Jones, 8 Ves. 141. INFANT.

Upon an application for the writ of ne exeat regno, no subpoena is served, but upon personal service of the writ, the party is bound to appear, and to put in his answer, and then he may apply to supersede the writ, but not upon his affidavit. Russell v. Asby, 5 Ves. 96. NE EXEAT REGNO; PR. SERVICE OF ORDER.

Subpœnas not necessary to an amended bill. Skelfington v. —, 4 Ves. 66. PR. AMENDED BILL.

Where there is but one defendant in exchequer, the subpoena itself must be served, and not a copy of it. De Tillon v. Sidney, 1 Anst. 79. PR. ATTACHMENT.

On amended bill it is not necessary to serve new subpoena on the original defendants. Angerstein v. Clarke, 1 Ves. J. 250. PR. AMENDED BILL.

Although a defendant has appeared and answered the original bill, if he cannot be found to be served with a subpoena to answer a bill of revivor, the plaintiff must proceed under 5 G. 2. c. 25. to have the bill taken pro confesso. Henderson v. Meggs, 2 Bro. C. C. 127. PR. BILL, PRO CONFESSED; PR. BILL OF REVIVOR; STAT. C. OF.

Service of label on solicitor and body of subpoena for costs at defendant's house, good under circumstances. Tyffen v. Ward, Dick. 166. See New Orders.

Where there is but one defendant, he must be served with the body of the subpoena, but where there are several, the labels only must be left with those first served, showing them the body of the subpoena, and the body itself must be left with the defendant last served; but entering appearance cures irregularity of service. Anon. 3 Atk. 567. But see the "New Orders."

Service of subpoena is sufficient on a mother where she secretes her children who are infants. Smith v. Marshall, 2 Atk. 70. INFANTS.

A subpoena returnable immediatè may be moved for against an officer without the usual affidavit, because presumed always to attend. Anon. Mos. 42.

Service on person holding power of attorney of defendant abroad, held good. Hales v. Sutton, Dick. 26.

Leaving a subpoena to appear and answer, at the lodgings of a defendant, who was not to be found, not good service, though an order was obtained for that purpose; it appearing afterwards the defendant had left his lodgings above a year before the subpoena served. Parker v. Blackbourne, 2 Vern. 369. PR. Ch. 99. S. C.

There can be no contempt without service of the subpoena. Thomson v. Baskerville, 3 C. R. 215. PR. CONTEMPT.

The plaintiff may move for a subpoena returnable immediately, without an affidavit against an officer of the court, for he is presumed always to attend. Anon. Mos. 41. PR. OFFICER OF COURT.

Ld. Ch. as one of the commissioners of oyer and terminer gave leave to serve a subpoena upon a defendant who was in confinement for murder, for which he was indicted, and a special verdict found. Anon. Mos. 237.

A subpoena out of chancery here may be made returnable in chancery of Ireland. Kildare v. Fustace, 1 Vern. 406. But said arguendū in S. C. Id. 420. that if defendant will not appear on that subpoena, no attachment can be taken out upon it. So it may be made returnable in the mayor's court. Id. 406.

The bill was by G alias R. The subpoena omitted the alias. Attachment for costs obtained for want of a bill, discharged. Gooding v. Yard, Ch. Ca. in Ch. 159.

If defendant cannot be found, or hath no house, then it is sufficient to give notice to the clerk in court. Pollard v. Evelin, id. 72.

3. To hear judgment.

Subpoena ad audiendū. jud. not to issue, but on note from register and certificate from sic clerk. Beame's Ord. 46. 48. 50. 104. 109.

No subpoena to hear judgment to be made without six clerk's certificate. Id. 241.

Subpoena to hear judgment shall be served in London or within sixty miles thereof, ten days before the day of hearing, as mentioned in the subpoena, and in more remote places fourteen days before such days of hearing, except in Trinity term, and then ten days only. Ord. Exch. 2 Fowl. 173.

On affidavit that defendant is beyond sea, the court will order service of the subpoena to hear judgment on the clerk in court, to be sufficient service; but the service must be the term before the hearing. Ord. Ch. Irel. 17th April, 1706. O'Keeffe's Ed. 25.

All subpoenas to hear judgment, to be made returnable on the first hearing days in the terms next ensuing the issuing the same. Ord. Ch. Irel. 12th Nov. 1792. O'Keeffe's Ed. 85. Ord. 16th Nov. 1813. Id. 109.

Where defendant cannot be found, nor his place of residence discovered, if his solicitor refuse to accept subpoena to hear judgment, the court will order that service on defendant's clerk in court be deemed good service. Farquharson v. Theobald, 13 Price, 130. PR. SERVICE SUBSTITUTED.

Irregularity of subpoena to hear judgment waived, by appearing on a motion to advance the cause, and not then taking the objection. Carriek v. Young, 1 Jac. 524. WAIVER.

If one of two defendant's sets down cause, he need only serve plaintiff with subpoena to hear judgment, and not his co-defendant. Clarke v. Dunn, 5 Mad. 474. PR. PARTY; CO-DEFENDANT.

When cause is set down and subpoena to hear judgment served, and afterwards bill of revivor is filed, no new subpoena to hear, &c. is required. Bray v. Woodran, 6 Mad. 72. PR. BILL OF REVIVOR.

Decree by default made upon service of a subpoena, not indorsed to hear judgment, is irregular, and will be discharged on motion. Powell v. Martin, 1 Jac. & W. 292. DECREE BY DEFAULT.

Subpoena to hear judgment not being served, on account of other party undertaking to appear, but which he did not, bill could not be dismissed for want of affidavit of service thereof; but cause must be struck out of paper, and on application party breaking the undertaking, to pay costs occasioned thereby. Ellis v. King, 5 Mad. 21.

Where neither defendant nor his clerk in court could be found, the court ordered service of the subpoena to hear judgment on his solicitor to be deemed good service, a copy being also left at defendant's last place of abode. Anon. 2 Ves. 23. Substitution of service of the subpoena has been allowed, on an affidavit that defendant had absconded. Anon. 2 Mad. Chan. 451.

Service of subpoena to hear judgment necessary, though the cause was set down under the order upon a preceptory undertaking to speed the cause. Dixon v. Shum, 18 Ves. 520.

Plaintiff under an undertaking to speed his cause, obtained an order to withdraw his replication, and set down on bill and answer; but did not serve a subpoena to hear judgment; or appear, when the cause was called. The bill was dismissed with costs. Rogers v. Goore, 17 Ves. 130. PR. DISMISSAL OF BILL; PR. UNDERTAKING TO SPEED CAUSE.

The defendant dying after service of the subpoena to hear judgment, whether upon a bill of revivor, to a new subpoena to hear judgment is necessary; Qr.? Burn v. Potter, 5 Ves. 305. PR. ABATEMENT & REVIVOR; PR. BILL OF REVIVOR.

Service of subpoena to hear judgment on infant, not good, guardian ad litem must be served. Freeman v. Carmock, Dick. 439. INFANT.

If a cause is adjourned for want of parties, though the defendant is served with the order, he must be served with a subpoena to hear judgment. Knowles v. Spence, Mos. 225.

Where an infant is defendant, the service of the subpoena to hear judgment must be on the guardian, not on the infant. Taylor v. Atwood, 2 P. W. 643.

Subpoena to hear judgment delivered to defendant's brother, and the next day a ticket served on defendant himself; held good service. Baines v. Wren, Chb. Ca. Ch. 163.

4. For other purposes.

Where plaintiff files a replication without having been served with any notice to dismiss the bill, plaintiff shall serve subpoena to rejoin within one week after. 17th Gen. Ord. 3rd April, 1828.

Subpoena ad respondendum may issue before bill filed. Beame's Ord. 168.

To answer, revive, review, rejoin, to testify or to hear judgment, how to be served. Id. 169.

No subpoena to rejoin of force, unless replication filed. Id. 183.

Subpoena to appear and rejoin is not necessary, to enable plaintiff to proceed to hearing, and no instance of such subpoena known. Johann v. Mackenness, 9 Price, 213. S. P. Petre v. Wells, Id. 670. PR. HEARING.

Process of subpoena ad respondendum may be issued out of the office of pleas, and it is not necessary that such process should be signed by the chief secondary, or a sworn clerk in the office of the king's remembrancer; rules made respecting thereof, in reigns of James and Car. 2nd, are obsolete. Taylor v. Riley, 9 Price, 385.

Solicitor claiming lien on deeds, cannot be compelled to produce them at hearing of cause, without subpoena duces tecum. Busk v. Lewis, 6 Mad. 29. SOLICITOR & CLIENT LIEN; PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

In exchequer it is sufficient (where only one defendant) that a copy of subpoena ad respondendum be left, and the original shown him secus in chancery. Bland v. Buckley, 6 Price, 34.

If copy of subpoena to answer be left with servant of defendant's brother (who is also his partner and co-defendant in suit), at whose house such servant acknowledged he resided, will be a good service, though party be out of kingdom at the time; and a rule for setting aside an attachment obtained on a representation, that the party was abroad at the time of service, will be discharged on cause shown, with costs. Birdwood v. Hart, 3 Price, 176.

Mistake of defendant's name in subpoena to answer an attachment, not sufficient to set aside proceedings, though defendant give notice of determination to take advantage of mistake and tenders plaintiff his demand. Shaw v. Tyntherleigh, 2 Price, 328. PR. ATTACHMENT; MISTAKE.

After a decree the master may examine witnesses, but ought not to do so by his six clerk; the same subpoena issues as to bring them before the examiner; which is the same as a subpoena to answer; but the label expresses the purpose upon an examination in the country, the body of the writ expresses, that it is to testify. Parkinson v. Ingram, 3 Ves. 603. PR. EXAMINATION BEFORE MASTER.

After subpoena to rejoin, a bill may be dismissed for want of prosecution. Squirrel v. Squirrel, 3 Swan. 250. PR. BILL, DISMISSAL OF.

If a cause has slept twelve months in court, there shall be no proceedings had upon it without first serving a subpoena ad faciendum altornat. Anon. 1 Vern 172. LACIES.

Husband and wife sue for an annuity in the right of the wife, the wife dies: upon a bill of revivor by the husband, the defendant must be served with a subpoena. Cecil v. El. of Rutland, Toth. 173.

A defendant to a bill of revivor must have an opportunity to show cause against the order to revive, but where the defendant had pleaded, the court upon overruling the plea, ordered the cause to be revived without a subpoena being issued. Higgins v. York Building Company, Barn. 83.

Plaintiff's father seized in fee with condition to re-entry, devised for life; subpoena duces tecum granted for evidences. Cary, &c.

XC. TAKING PLEADINGS OFF FILE.

Answer taken off the file and entrusted to one of the baron's clerk's, for the purpose of being produced before the grand jury on an indictment for perjury preferred by the plaintiff, security in 20l. being given for the safe return of the record. Thompson v. Crosthwaite, 2 Y. & J. 512.

Affidavit verifying proceedings at law not evidence, and taken off the file with costs. Exp. Barnes, 1 Mont. & M. 27. PR. EVIDENCE.

Answer taken off the file for irregularity, on the grounds (inter alia) that insofar as to one defendant, a mistake had been made in the year 1817, being written for 1827, and that the answer had been affirmed by another of the defendants who was a quaker, under a commission issued to take the answer of that defendant upon his corporal oath. Park v. Christey, 1 Y. & J. 533. PR. ANSWER.

An answer however evasive, will not be ordered to be taken off the file, after the plaintiff has excepted to it. Claxington v. Thwaites, 2 Russ. 458. PR. ANSWER, EVASIVE; WAIVER.

Exceptions to an answer having been allowed, plaintiff obtained an order to amend, and for defendant to answer the exceptions and amendments at the same time; defendant put in an answer to the amended bill only. The plaintiff then moved for attachment; held that it was irregular, and a plaintiff ought to have moved to take the second answer off the file. De Tastet v. Lopez, 1 Sim. 11. PR. ANSWER TO AMENDED BILL; PR. ATTACHMENT.

Defendant demurring after process of contempt issued, demurrer ordered off file. Mellor v. Hull, 2 S. & S. 321. CONTEMPT; PR. DEMURRER.

Misnomer in order to dismiss for want of prosecution; replication filed after such order drawn up and served, will not be taken off file. Verlander v. Codd, 1 S. & S. 94. PR. ORDER TO DISMISS; MISTAKE.

Motion to take answer off file on account of erasures therein, and in jurat and alterations in commission refused, but without costs. Gwynn v. Badmer, 9 Price, 320. PR. ANSWER, ERASURES IN; PR. COSTS.

A bill may be taken off the file, if filed in the name of a plaintiff who is in a state of mental incapacity, sensible. Wartnaby v. Wartnaby, Jac. 377. LUNACY.

A suit being properly instituted, the proceedings not to be stayed on the ground of the plaintiff's subsequently becoming imbecile. Id. ib. PR. STAYING PROCEEDINGS.

Information amended without the sanction of the attorney general, ordered to be taken off the file, with costs. Att. Gen. v. Fellows, 1 Jac. & W. 254. PR. AMENDMENT.

Motion cannot be made to take answer off file, because it is delusive, exceptions must be taken. Marsh v. Hunter, 3 Muel. 437. PR. ANSWER TAKEN.

Defendants, after two orders for time, having filed an answer which was found in part illegible; a motion that it might be taken off file, resisted on affidavit that it was legible when sworn, was refused. Att. Gen. v. Mayor, &c. of Fowey, 3 Swan. 184. PR. ANSWER.

A demurrer and answer filed by a defendant, attached for want of an answer after orders for time to plead answer or demur, not demurring alone, ordered to be taken off the file. Curson v. De La Zouch, 1 Swan. 185. PR. TIME TO ANSWER; PR. DEMURRER; PR. ATTACHMENT.

The court refused to order an answer to be taken off the file, on the alleged ground that it was illusory, the defendant merely stating that he had no knowledge of any of matters in the bill mentioned, and left the plaintiff to except. Olding v. Glass, 1 Y. & J. 340. PR. ANSWER.

Exceptions to a report may be taken off the file, if filed after the report has been confirmed absolute. Sterling v. Thompson, Coop. 271. PR. REPORT, CONFIRMATION OF; PR. EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT.

Answer taken off the file, when the title omitted the words "to the bill of complaint of." Pieters v. Thompson, Coop. 249. PR. ANSWER; PR. INTITLING PLEADINGS.

An application to take an answer off the file, in order to prosecute the defendant for perjury, granted as a matter of right, being in furtherance of public justice. Stratford v. Greene, 1 Ball & B. 294. PERJURY.

Motion to take off the file for irregularity, a plea to a bill, amended under the usual order, after exceptions allowed, refused; as a case for a plea may arise either from the amendments themselves, or from their effect upon the original part of the bill. Ritchie v. Aylwin, 15 Ves. 79. PR. PLEA.

Defendant having applied and obtained an order for time to answer, cannot put in an answer and demur without a special case. As the demurrer being coupled with an answer could not be taken off the file, it was moved to be expunged or overruled. Taylor v. Milner, 10 Ves. 444. PR. TIME TO ANSWER; PR. DEMURRER.

Answer mis-naming plaintiff, ordered to be taken off file, as no answer; describing it as a paper writing, purporting to be an answer; a proper answer being put in. Griffiths v. Wood, 11 Ves. 62.

To prevent decree pro confesso, defendant should have not only the answer on file, but also a receipt for costs; the answer being actually filed without payment or tender of costs, the defendant was remanded to give an opportunity of moving to take it off the file for irregularity, but plaintiff having taken an office copy of answer, that course failed. Sedgier v. Pyte, 11 Ves. 202. PR. DECREE PRO CONFESSO; PR. COSTS; WAIVER.

A demurrer overruled for informality, but good in substance, taken off the file, with liberty for the defendant to demur again, as he shall be advised on payment of costs. Devonsher v. Neenham, 2 Scho. & L. 199. PR. INFORMAL DEMURRER.

Where an answer is required as evidence upon a trial, the court, except in a criminal case, does not permit the record itself to go, but an office copy, unless proof of the signature is necessary, not granted where the action is by a stranger unconnected with the suit in equity. Jarris v. White, 8 Ves. 313. PR. EVIDENCE AT LAW; STRANGER.

Bill and answer (the cause being agreed) ordered to be taken off the file by consent of plaintiff and defendant. Tremaine v. Tremaine, 1 Vern. 189.

XCI. TERM TIME.

This court will not entertain a motion for prohibition in term. Montgomery v. Blair, 2 Scho. & L. 136. PR. MOTION FOR PROHIBITION.

Though the next day after the first day of the term be not in strictness part of the term, and therefore no motion can be made on the petty bag side, yet as to the other purposes it is part of the term, for which reason a motion made at the time to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution, on a certificate that there had been no prosecution within three terms, of which the last term was one, was denied. Anon. 1 P. W. 522. PR. MOTION TO DISMISS FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

So where the last seal continued three days, and computing the third day according to the day of the month, the time would be expired for making a report absolute, yet this not so, it being only a continuance of the first day. Id. ib.

XCIII. WRIT.

See also LUNACY.—OUTLAWRY.—PR. CERTIORARI.—PR. HAB. CORPUS.

1. De coronatore elegendo.
2. Of error.
3. De excommunicando capiendo, and de contumace capiendo.
4. Ne exeat regno.
  - (a) When granted.
  - (b) Discharge of.
  - (c) Bond and surety.
5. Of supplicavit.
6. De ventre inspiciendo.
7. Generally and of other natures.

1. De coronatore elegendo.

Confinement in prison out of the county, is a sufficient ground for the removal of a coroner from his office, although during his absence, another coroner of the same county has performed his duties. The great seal has power, independently of the statute 25 G. 2. c. 29, to remove coroners from their office for neglect of duty. Notice to a coroner of a petition for his removal, is not necessary. The practice is, to issue the writs de coronatore exonerando and de coronatore aliando at the same time; the latter is dated last, but it is not irregular to execute it before a return is made to the former. Exp. Parnell, 1 Jac. & W. 451.

The under sheriff under pretence of administering the oath, swears a candidate coroner. The court ordered him to shew cause why he should not be committed, and not to file a return to the writ without leave of the court. But this is not a good cause at law, and therefore not in equity to direct the new writ to the other coroner. Exp. Jones, Mos. 254.

2. Of error.

Writ of error generally stays execution in civil cases; not in criminal. Huguenin v. Barclay, 15 Ves. 180.

The court will not order the filing an original to make good a judgment on error brought without some excuse for not filing one before, though a slender excuse may be sufficient. Anon. 3 P. W. 314. PR. ORIGINAL WRIT.

A writ of error can in no case be amended, and why? Id. 315. note.

Where reference is to judges on a case stated, no writ of error will lie on their judgment. But if they certify their reasons, the court may reconsider of it. Gore v. Gore, 9 Mod. 5. CASE FOR OPINION OF COURT OF LAW.

Suing the bail below pending a writ of error in parliament is a contempt and breach of privilege. Throgmorton v. Church, 1 P. W. 685. CONTEMPT.

This court will not order a writ of error in a criminal cause to be sealed till it is first signed and allowed by the attorney general. Writ of error in a criminal matter not due ex debito iustitie. Crawle v. Crawle, 1 Vern. 170.

The court will not allow writs of error in the King's Bench upon judgments in the petty bag. Hier v. Carey, 1 Vern. 131. JURISDICTION.

Error lies in K. B. on judgment in sci. fa. in chancery. Dyer 315. pl. 100.

3. Excommunicando capiendo, and de contumace capiendo.

See stat. 53 Geo. 3. c. 127., by which this writ is discontinued, except in certain cases; and the writ de contumace capiendo substituted. Chit. Stat. 248, and notes.

Must be under seal of ordinary. Beame's Ord. 27.

A plea that plaintiff is excommunicated, is good. Beame's Ord. 26. But in Phampton v. Headlam, and Brookes v. —, Toth. 74. demurrers because plaintiff excommunicated, overruled; and in Tomes v. Vaughan, id. where two executors were plaintiffs and one was excommunicated, it was held that defendant must answer the other. That excommunication is a good plea to an executor or administrator, though they sue in autre droit. Vide Co. Lit. 133. b. 4 Bac. Abr. 36. Aliter, as to the prochein ami, or guardian of an infant. Wy. Pr. Reg. 327. Curs. Canc. 185. For the reason of this difference, vide Wentw. Pl. 9.

This plea may be put in without oath. Beame's Ord. Ch. 26. But it must be put in under the seal of the ordinary. In Curs. Canc. 198., it is said, that the bishop is to certify the excommunication, and that certificate to be annexed to defendant's plea, and pleaded. See further, as to this plea, Beame's Pleas, 106. Beame's Ord. Ch. 27, n. Mitf. Pl. 185. Wy. Pr. Reg. 327. Coop. Pl. 246.

Where the spiritual court has excommunicated a party for a cause for which it has no authority to do so, he has a right to some writ to absolve him; but notice must be given to the complainant in the spiritual court of the application for such writ. Borlase's Case, 16 Ves. 346.

Executrix in custody under a writ de excommunicato capiendo, for not appearing to a citation by a creditor to exhibit an inventory, moved for a supersedeas disputing the debt upon equitable grounds; motion refused. Rex v. Blatch, 6 Ves. 113. EXECUTOR.

Motion to supersede a writ de excom. cap.; the court refused to interfere; and ordered the party applying to pay the taxed costs of the application. Exp. Cheveley, Dick. 473.

The court cannot do any thing after the return of the writ excommunicato capiendo is out, the King's Bench having the recognizance; for they can compel the sheriff to return it, and the application to quash it must be there. Exp. Little, 3 Atk. 479.

If the writ had issued in the vacation, and not returnable, the court of chancery would have given relief and discharged the person out of custody. Id. ib.

On motion to quash the writ of significavit, because the cause of excommunication was not set forth, and for divers other causes, it was held sufficient to warrant the writ of excommunicato capiendo. Trebee v. Keith, 2 Atk. 498.

Motion to supersede a writ of excommunicato capiendo, first, for want of addition, secondly, because not said the defendant was commorant in the diocese. Court allowed both the exceptions, but inclined to think, that after the writ had been issued out of this court, and then brought into B. R. and then delivered to the sheriff, but not yet actually returned into B. R. this court, on a plain error appearing, may supersede or quash it. By stat. 53 G. 3. c. 127. excommunication is now discontinued, except for offences of ecclesiastical cognizance. Rea v. Burrard, 1 P. W. 435.

Supersedeas to a writ de excommunicando capiendo denied, though the significavit was general and uncertain; and said, that the method was to proceed by habeas corpus; but an appeal being brought, a supersedeas was granted. Rea v. Sneller, 1 Vern. 24.

One that had been a prisoner in Newgate for debt, but since removed to the Fleet, is excommunicated; the court of chancery will not direct the cursitor to make out a writ of excommunicato capiendo to the warden of the Fleet, but the writ may be directed to the sheriff, who may return a non est inventus; and on the return, the King's Bench may grant a habeas corpus, and thereupon charge him with an excommunicato capiendo. Capt. Studwick's Case, 3 P. W. 53. S. C. Anon. Mos. 365.

After a plea of excommunication, plaintiff obtained letters of absolution, and produced them; defendant ordered to answer, and on payment of costs, to be discharged of process of contempt which had issued against them. Amers v. Legg, Cho. Ca. Ch. 164. In Mitf. Pl. 185, 186, it is laid down, that on obtaining letters of absolution, plaintiff may sue out fresh process, and compel defendants to answer. And see Pra. II. Ch. 164.

The defendant must answer the bill though excommunicated. Tichborne v. Edwards, Toth. 11. PR. ANSWER.

On a motion for a ne exeat, the sum sworn to be due must be mentioned in the order granting the writ, that the sheriff may know how to measure the bail. 1r. Ord. Ch. 1750. O'Keeffe's Ed. 60.

In a suit for specific performance by a vendor, a writ of ne exeat regno ought not to issue against the purchaser, unless the court deems it quite clear, that there must be a decree for the specific performance of the contract. Morris v. McNeil, 2 Russ. 604. VENDOR & PURCH.

Ne exeat regno does not lie in respect of costs taxed in a chancery suit. Goodman v. Sayers, 5 Mad. 471. PR. COSTS.

A writ of ne exeat regno against a feme covert administratrix cannot be sustained. Pannell v. Tayler, 1 Turn. & R. 96. Overruling, Ambl. 62. S. C. 3 Atk. 409. Dick. 107. See, however, 6 Mad. 218. FEME COVERT.

The writ of ne exeat regno does not issue for alimony after a decree in the ecclesiastical court pending an appeal from that decree. Street v. Street, 1 Turn. & R. 322. ALIMONY; PR. APPEAL.

The writ of ne exeat regno is not granted for interim alimony before a decree. Id. 323. ALIMONY.

What the sheriff does in the case of a writ of ne exeat regno is upon his own responsibility. Buchan v. Wood, 1 Turn. & R. 340. SHERIFF.

Upon the defendant's stating, that if the plaintiffs obtained a decree he would leave the kingdom, the writ of ne exeat regno was issued in an early stage of the cause. Id. 342.

The master of the rolls has jurisdiction to direct this writ to issue. Id. 343. JURISDIC. OF MASTER OF ROLLS.

Ne exeat regno granted against husband and wife, executrix, plaintiff undertaking to serve only one writ. Id. ib. HUSB. & WIFE.

Writ of ne exeat regno refused, on a bill to enforce an agreement to give a bill of exchange to secure the debt of a third person. Blaydes v. Calvert, 2 Jac. & W. 211.

A residuary legatee cannot have a writ of ne exeat regno against a debtor of the testator, on the ground that he colludes with the executor. Graves v. Griffith, 1 Jac. & W. 646. RESIDUARY LEGATEE.

Writ of ne exeat regno granted against the obligor in a bond given to trustees, at the suit of a party beneficially interested in the money secured by it. Leuke v. Leuke, id. 605. TRUSTEE AND CESTUI QUE TRUST.

Writ of ne exeat regno, granted at the suit of an English subject against a native of Russia, generally resident, and carrying on business in partnership at St. Petersburg, and in this country only for a temporary purpose, upon a balance of account in respect of goods consigned to him and his partner. The writ will issue on a balance of account sworn by the deponent to be due, to the best of his belief; but if the mode of computing the account be mentioned, and it appears to comprise unascertained sums, it will not be granted. The court will always hear a defendant moving to discharge the writ; but it will only enquire whether there is reasonable ground to suppose that the plaintiff will succeed in the suit. Exemption from arrest for a debt of the same nature by the laws of Russia, is not a sufficient ground for discharging the writ, when one of the parties is an Englishman, and was resident in this country. Whether the writ will be granted where the debt has been contracted while the plaintiff and defendant resided in a foreign country, by the laws of which arrest for debt is not permitted; Qu. Flaek v. Holm, id. 405. FORMIGNER.

The court acts on evidence of intention to go abroad, without regard to denial. Whitehouse v. Partridge, 3 Swan. 375. EVIDENCE.

In general, the writ of ne exeat regno can be issued only for an equitable debt actually payable. Id. 377.

The ground on which the writ of ne exeat regno issued, is always stated in the body of it. Hyde v. Whitfield, 19 Ves. 345.

Court of exchequer will grant an order in nature of ne exeat regno, against an accountant of crown, sworn to be about to leave the kingdom without rendering his accounts, though no precise sum sworn to, by affidavit made, to support the motion, as being the amount in value of the stores unaccounted for: but they will use a discretion as to the amount of sureties, and will require notice of the order to be given before attachment shall issue. Att. Gen. v. Mucklow, 1 Price, 289.

A writ of ne exeat regno obtained on behalf of a lunatic by his committee, on a note as given for the balance of an account, restraining the captain of an East Indian ship from proceeding on his voyage: that the debt will be endangered is sufficient, without stating that the object is to avoid the jurisdiction. Stewart v. Graham, 19 Ves. 313.

Writ of ne exeat regno granted against a person, generally resident in Ireland; and in this country only for a temporary purpose: under the circumstances, that a balance was sworn to, for which bail might have been had; that the plaintiffs had filed a bill in Ireland, where the transactions arose, for an account, and a proposal of reference: the writ discharged on giving security. Horden v. Rogers, 1 V. & B. 129.

Ne exeat regno granted; the defendant's general residence being in the West Indies, Scotland, and Ireland. Id. 133.

Prayer for a writ of ne exeat regno in the bill not essential, nor affidavit of the debt established by the master's report absolutely confirmed. Collinson v. —, 18 Ves. 353. S. P. Moore v. Hudson, 6 Mad. 218. PR. BILL; PRAYER.

No notice of motion to the writ of ne exeat regno Id. 355.

A writ of ne exeat regno upon the current jurisdiction in account, though bail might be had at law against a positive affidavit, the defendant's affidavit, or evidence of the plaintiff's admission, that no debt is due, will not avail. The affidavit of a threat or intention to go abroad, must be positive, not upon information and belief. Jones v. Adephsin, 16 Ves. 470. NE EXEAT REGNO; JURISDICTION; ACCOUNT.

Defendant arrested under a writ of ne exeat regno, for a debt due to an intestate, was discharged, plaintiff not having obtained administration in Ireland. Swift v. Swift, 1 Ball & B. 326. ADMINISTRATION.

A writ of ne exeat regno granted on the application of a defendant against a plaintiff, whose bill was dismissed with costs, it being, from the declarations of the plaintiff, apprehended he would leave the country before service of the process to pay costs could be made effectual. Stewart v. Stewart, 1 Ball & B. 73.

Writ of ne exeat regno upon a legal demand against an attorney, on the ground of his privilege, by analogy to the case of equitable demands, refused. Gardner v. —, 15 Ves. 444.

The writ of ne exeat regno is in the nature of equitable bail; therefore, in the case of alimony marked only for the arrears, actually due; and not carried farther by analogy to the case of a judge, holding to bail for uncertain damages upon a personal tort. Haffey v. Haffey, 14 Ves. 261. ALIMONY.

In an account ne exeat granted, though bail might be had at law. Hannay v. M'Entire, 11 Ves. 55. ACCOUNT; BAIL.

If a child were grown up, and about to leave the kingdom, the prerogative might, by ne exeat regno, prevent him, and if gone, might, by great or privy seal, call on him to return, and if not obeyed, take its property. De Manneville v. De Manneville, 10 Ves. 63. INFANT; JURISDICTION.

Belief, without circumstances or declarations shewing the ground of it, will not sustain a writ of ne exeat regno. Answick v. Barklay, 8 Ves. 597.

Ne exeat granted in cases of alimony, but only for sums actually due, and costs. Shafte v. Shafte, 7 Ves. 171. S. P. Dawson v. Dawson, id. 173. S. P. Oldham v. Oldham, id. 410. ALIMONY.

Writ ne exeat regno refused, upon an undertaking for indemnity; to obtain it there must be equitable demand in nature of a debt actually due. Cock v. Harie, 6 Ves. 283.

There is no instance where a writ of ne exeat regno has been applied for upon admissions in the answer, but the admission would certainly do as well as an affidavit. Rodlum v. Hetherington, 5 Ves. 95. PR. ANSWER, ADMISSION BY.

Where plaintiff has two demands on defendant, the one liquidated, the other matter of account, a writ of ne exeat regno shall be marked for the former demand only. Parker v. Appleton, 3 Bro. C. C. 427.

Ne exeat regno refused against the agent of a surviving executor, having in his possession a bond which was the security for a residue to which plaintiff was entitled. Storey v. Higgins, 3 Bro. C. C. 476.

A writ of ne exeat regno was granted in respect of a debt for which the plaintiff had made himself liable on the defendant's account, but which he had not yet paid. Sealy v. Laird, 3 Swan. 368. PRINC. & SURETY.

Motion for leave to amend without prejudice to a ne exeat, refused. Grant v. Grant, 2 Sim. 14. PR. AMENDMENT.

Where a writ of ne exeat regno issues for a larger sum than is due, the court will make an order that so much only shall be raised as is due, without quashing the writ. Pannel v. Taylor, 1 Turn. & R. 100. overruling Amb. 62. and S. C. 3 Atkins, 409. Dick. 107. See, however, 6 Mod. 218.

Where the writ issues against an executor, at the instance of a legatee, it must be marked for the whole amount of what is due, not only to the plaintiff, but to other persons. Id. ib. EXECUTOR.

In a suit against a purchaser for specific performance where a receiver had been appointed, and was in possession of the estate, and the master's report in favour of the title, except as to a very small part of the estate for which the purchaser was entitled to an abatement, had been confirmed; and followed by an order, by which, after referring it to the master to ascertain what abatement the purchaser was entitled to, and to compute interest upon the remainder of the purchase-money, and to settle the conveyances, it was ordered, that upon the execution of the conveyances, and delivery thereof, and of the title-deeds to the purchaser, he should pay to the plaintiffs the remainder of the purchase-money, after deducting the abatement, with the interest, to be computed by the master; and that the receiver should thereupon deliver up to him possession of the estate; the court refused to discharge a writ of ne exeat regno issued against the purchaser, and marked for the full amount of the purchase money, though the abatement (which it clearly appeared would be less than the interest) had not been ascertained by the master, and no steps had been taken towards the execution of the conveyances. The sheriff having taken the defendant under the writ, refused to release him out of custody, until the whole sum for which the writ was marked was paid into his hands, and the court did not disapprove of his conduct. Boehm v. Wood, 1 Turn. & R. 332.

Ne exeat obtained on the filing of the bill, discharged, on the ground that the defendant had been previously arrested at the suit of the plaintiff, for the same debt, and discharged. Raynes v. Wyre, 2 Mer. 472.

Writ of ne exeat discharged with costs, it having issued against a captain of ship on point of sailing, who had been in England a considerable time. Dick v. Swinton, 1 V. & B. 371.

Writ of ne exeat is a great prerogative writ, and applied to purpose of equitable bail. Id. ib.

Writ of ne exeat regno for a demand upon which bail might be had, viz. the admitted balance of an account, on the ground that, if bail was given, plaintiff disputing the balance would be entitled to an account, and the defendant could not put him to his election, to sue at law or in equity, except upon terms. Jones v. Sampson, 8 Ves. 593.

Plaintiff having twice held the defendant to bail, obtained a writ of ne exeat regno, discontinuing the action; the writ was discharged. Amsinck v. Barklay, 8 Ves. 594.

Writ of ne exeat regno, upon declarations or facts, as evidence of the intention to go abroad, not discharged upon affidavit denying the intention. Id. ib.

Upon an application for the writ of ne exeat regno, no subpoena is served, but upon personal service of the writ, the party is bound to appear, and to put in his answer, and then he may apply to supersede the writ, but not upon his affidavit. Russell v. Ashby, 5 Ves. 96. PR. SUBPENA; PR. SERVICE OF ORDER.

Writ of ne exeat regno obtained by a resident here against a resident in the W. Indies, upon a demand arising there, when the answer came in, was discharged under the circumstances, with costs, against the prochein ami of the infant plaintiff; but upon the admissions in the answer, the defendant was ordered to give security to abide the decree. Roddam v. Hetherington, 5 Ves. 91. FOREIGNER; COSTS; PROCHAIN AMI.

Writ of ne exeat regno obtained by one French emigrant against another, discharged upon the circumstances appearing upon the affidavits in support of the bill, and upon the answer, which may be read, the application not being in the nature of an affidavit to hold to bail, but to the discretion of the court applying a remedy, not in its origin distinctly applicable to private transactions between subject and subject. De Carriere v. De Calonne, 4 Ves. 577. FOREIGNERS.

Writ of ne exeat regno, obtained by one inhabitant of Antigua against another casually in this country, upon a bond stated in the bill to be lost, discharged on giving security to abide by the decree. Atkins v. Leonard, 3 Bro. C. C. 218.

Writ of ne exeat regno discharged on paying into court the sum for which it was marked. Evans v. Evans, 1 Ves. J. 96.

Order for ne exeat regno discharged, the demand being for negroes in Antigua, and the defendant is going there where he will be amenable. Pearne v. Lisle, Amb. 76.

Ne exeat till answer and further order. Writ discharged after answer on security for want of cause. Boon v. Collingwood, Dick. 115.

(c) Bond and surety.

Defendant being committed for want of answer, his bail, under a writ ne exeat regno, not discharged. Stapylton v. Peill, 19 Ves. 615. BAIL; DISCHARGE OF; PR. COMMITMENT FOR WANT OF ANSWER.

Order on sureties to pay money into court, on forfeiture of recognizance entered into on a ne exeat. Musgrave v. Meder, 1 Mer. 49. S. P. Utten v. Utten, id. 51.

Defendant having given bond, with sureties on writ, and being in custody for contempt; sureties and bond discharged. Debusin v. Debusin, Dick. 95.

Sheriff having taken bail bond on writ ne exeat, defendant, after appearing and putting in two insufficient answers, left the kingdom. Court discharged an order obtained for leave to put the bond in suit, as the court has nothing to do with prosecuting the bond. Collinridge v. Mount, id. 688.

A surety in a ne exeat regno could not be discharged after answer put in by the defendant, not even after decree against the defendant, and commitment for 19000*l.* decreed against him, for if (as urged), there is no danger of defendant's going beyond sea, (being in prison), then the surety is in no danger. Le Clea v. Trot, Prec. Chan. 230. PR. SURETY; DISCHARGE.

5. Writ of Supplicavit.

For good behaviour, when and how to be granted. Beame's Order, 39.

The security under a writ of supplicavit, on articles by a wife against her husband, is not unreasonable with reference to his circumstances, but leave was given to apply again, in case of a repetition of ill treatment. Tunncliffe's Case, 1 Jac. & W. 348. HUSB. & WIFE.

Order for security, under a writ of supplicavit on articles by wife against her husband. Dobbyn's Case, 3 V. & B. 183. HUSB. & WIFE; SECURITY.

Order for security, under supplicavit, on articles exhibited by wife against husband, under 2 Jac. 1.

c. 8. Ileyn's Case, 2 V. & B. 182. HUSB. & WIFE; PR. SECURITY.

Court tender of discharging a supplicavit. Clarering's Case, 2 P. W. 202.

Where a cause which leads to the ill treatment of the wife, upon which a supplicavit was granted against the husband continued to exist, the court refused to discharge the supplicavit. Exp. King, Amb. 333. S. C. 2 Ves. 578.

The court can only bind the husband to his behaviour, not remove the wife from him. Id. 334. HUSB. & WIFE; JURISDICTION.

Court will not discharge supplicavit on affidavit denying the fact, nor in any case but where combination and contrivance appear. S. C. Amb. 240. S. C. 2 Ves. 578.

It is usual to discharge persons committed for want of surety on articles of peace or supplicavit, at the end of a year, if nothing new happens. Baynum v. Baynum, Amb. 63.

A quaker cannot be admitted to exhibit articles of peace against her husband upon her affirmation, as it is in nature of a criminal prosecution. And in case of articles of peace, when party complained of is not in court, attachment for breach of peace goes on the oath of the complainant. Exp. Gumbleton, 2 Atk. 70. S. C. 9 Mod. 232. QUAKER; ATTACHMENT.

A, in a letter to his wife's father, said, as he did not choose to be a witness to her infirmities, he would allow her 400*l.* per annum while she lived with her father. The wife, on a bill for separate maintenance, moved for the arrears (600*l.*) to be paid for her support till the hearing. The court granted 400*l.* in gross, but not as arrears, and said it would be refused in future. The husband in his answer, swore he was desirous of cohabiting with his wife. Two years after the motion, the wife filed a bill for the arrears and growing payments for the 400*l.* pursuant to agreement, and the husband contended that the agreement was only intended to exist during his occasional absence. It appeared that the wife was disordered in her mind, and that upon the husband's attempt to confine her, she obtained a supplicavit. Ld. Ch. gave judgment, 1st. That the 400*l.* was only intended to continue during the husband's occasional absence. 2d. As to the liberty to live separate, prayed by the wife, the court could not decree a separation or separate maintenance, unless upon the parties' own agreement. And 3d. The obtaining a supplicavit does not justify the wife's elopement, for it is granted on a supposition that they are to live together. Decreed, that as the court saw grounds for granting a supplicavit, and the husband's offer to receive his wife was only judicially made by his answer, the arrears of the annuity should be paid, and that the husband should take his wife home and maintain her; if she refused, the maintenance should cease; but if he refused, then the maintenance to continue. Head v. Head, 3 Atk. 295. 447. 1 Ves. 17. HUSB. & WIFE.

One taken on a supplicavit, and continued in prison a year, without any fresh threatening, ought to be discharged. Exp. Grosvenor, 3 P. W. 103.

After an imprisonment for fifteen months on supplicavit, party may be discharged on slender security. Grosvenor v. Edwards, Fitzgib. 268.

The master of the rolls would not order a supplicavit to be marked with the sum the sheriff should take security in, because there was an affidavit of the husband's circumstances as a measure for him to go by. Exp. Lewis, Mos. 191.

The Ld. Ch. ordered a supplicavit to be marked without affidavit, only upon enquiry of the husband's circumstances from the solicitor of the wife. Exp. Gibson, id. 198.

Supplicavit of the peace granted on petition and articles, and not on motion, and issued without indorsement, was yet held regular. Stoell v. Botelar, 2 C. R. 68.

A supplicavit against defendant; he complained that the articles were too general to ground it, and produced a certificate of his good behavior. The court referred it to the two next justices of the peace in the neighbourhood, to inquire into it. Snelling v. Flatman, 1 Dick. 6.

6. Writ de ventre inspiciendo.

Their apparent cannot have a writ de ventre inspiciendo in life of ancestor. Id. Dursley v. Berkeley, 6 Ves. 260.

Writ de ventre inspiciendo ordered to issue against a married woman, whose husband had been ten years abroad, on the application of a devisee, there being a limitation in the will, that if she had a male child within forty weeks after testator's decease, it should take previous to the devisee; but to lie in the office fourteen days, and if she submitted to an examination of midwives in the meantime, not to go; otherwise to issue. Exp. Wallop, 4 Bro. C. C. 90. S. C. Dick. 781.

A writ de ventre inspiciendo may be had by devisee, as well as by an heir at law. Id. ib. DEVISEE.

A writ de ventre inspiciendo is always applied for by petition. Exp. Bellett, 1 Cox, 297. PETITION.

The effect of writ de ventre inspiciendo, decreed upon a bill in equity, where a sum of money was devised to a charity on the death of A, without issue; A dying and leaving a widow of ill fame, who pretended to be with child. Exp. Aiscough, 2 P. W. 591. Mos. 391. CLARITY.

Held to be a writ of common right, being to secure the next heir from a fraudulent and supposititious birth; and lies for a tenant in tail, because at the time it was first allowed, an estate tail was a fee-simple conditional. Id. 593.

A widow being admitted to be with child, the court will fix a place agreeable to both parties, where she shall be till delivered, and where the heir may, from time to time, at proper seasons, and on notice, send women to see her, and to be present when the child is born, and in such cases, no need to execute the writ in a strict manner. Id. ib.

7. Generally, and of other natures.

Writ of dedimus potestatem, to whom to be directed. General Ord. July 12, 1798., 4 Ves. 1.

Only one writ of consultation to issue in the same cause. Beame's Ord. 37.

Scire facias not to be awarded, unless upon recognition enrolled. Id. 36.

Anciently awarded on injunctions. Id. 41.

No writ of scire facias to issue after day of return. Id. 321.

Every such writ to be lodged two days before return. Id.

No testat. or alias scire facias to issue before the first scire facias be issued, &c. Id.

Procedendo to issue, if plaintiff in certiorari put not in bond to prove his suggestion. Id. 12.

Whether general or special, only one in the same cause. Id. 37.

Writs of which only one in same cause. Id.

What are only to pass by warrant under counsel's hand. Id.

Of privileges, how to issue. Id. 38.

Ret. coram lege in cause, to be filed in Roll's chapel. Id. 40.

Writ of duces tecum to examine witnesses in perpetual memory, and to shew cause only, to be made by clerks of the subpoena office. Id. 143.

What writs pay no fees. Id. 155. 234. 413.

No writ of scire facias to issue after return. Id. 321.

Every such writ to be lodged two days before return. Id.

No testat. or alias scire facias to issue before first scire facias be issued, &c. Id.

To whom writs of dedimus potestatem are to be directed. Id. 463.

Writ of privilege to be granted only to ministers, officers, and known clerks of the court. Id. 54.

And that on certificate or affidavit. Id.

Other requisites. Id. 55.

To be enjoyed by George Mynn. Id. 90.

As to fees on privilege writs. Id. 413.

Where a distringas was issued, and served upon the secretary of the Bank of England, accompanied by a notice, that it was for the purpose of preventing the transfer and payment of stock and dividends, standing in the name of W W, but no bill has been filed against the bank, or W W, the distringas was, under the circumstances of the case, set aside with costs. Scott v. Gov. &c. of Bank of Engl., 2 Y. & J. 327.

In a writ of intrusion by a remainder-man, or reversioner after a life estate, the demandant must allege and court upon an actual seisin, by the person creating the life estate taking the espices; and the fifty years allowed by stat. 32 Hen. 8. c. 2. s. 2., for bringing the writ, is reckoned from that seisin, and not from the death of the tenant for life, or the commencement of the adverse possession. Widdowson v. El. Harrington, 1 Jac. & W. 532.

Order for sequestration, made upon the return to a single distringas, issued under a decree for payment of costs. Such an order is only an order nisi in the first instance. Lowten v. Mayor, &c. of Colchester, 3 Mer. 543. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Form of distringas regular, being to appear and answer contempt merely (not ad comparendum et solvendum), but the cause for which it issued being specified by indorsement. Id. ib.

Injunction to restrain sheriff from executing fi. fa. on goods, &c. of landlords', in possession of plaintiff, his tenant, refused. Garstin v. Asplin, 1 Mad. 150. INJUNC.; LANDLORD & TENANT.

Writ of executio ad curiam, to remove a real action for copyhold estate from the Lords' court to the C. P., superseded. Scott v. Kettlewell, 19 Ves. 335. CONVERSION. COURT.

Court of Exchequer will not in exercise of its equitable jurisdiction over extents, grant a writ of amoveas manus to release property seized under extent in aid, against a debtor in a more remote degree, on ground that debt which had been found on original commission to be due to King's debtor, has been subsequently satisfied by payment of bills of Exchequer, deposited by him for securing that debt; if it appear that those bills were not bona fide the property of the person depositing them, who thereby committed a breach of trust. Res v. Blackett, 1 Price, 96. n. JURISDIC.; EXTENT.

A writ of restitution will not be granted to put into possession a person not a party to the cause, who had been turned out by an injunction, though he had a legal title, he having obtained such possession under a grant from the defendant pending the suit. Gaskell v. Durdin, 2 Ball & B. 167. PL. PARTY.

In a writ to absolve a person unlawfully excommunicated, notice is required. Bornaine's case, 16 Ves. 346. PR. NOTICE.

Injunction on motion of course, to deliver possession of land decreed, as a ground for the writ of assistance, the only mode of obtaining immediate possession: a court of equity properly acting only in personam. Haguenin v. Baseley, 15 Ves. 180. SEC. LEVIES v. Morgan, 5 Price, 468. INJUNC.

Writ of execution, only in the case of a party to cause, a stranger, must be served, first, with an order to pay the money by a given day, and in case of default, with an order to pay on another day, or stand committed. Anon. 14 Ves. 207.

Order, that a person against whom a commission of lunacy was established, should be delivered up to the committee; habeas corpus not necessary. Exp. Cranmer, 12 Ves. 445. LUNACY.

Writ of right does not lie for a devise. Saunders v. Id. Annesley, 2 Sch. & L. 104. DEVISER.

The custody of an examiner taken under a dedimus in the country, belongs to the clerk in court, who is entitled to make copies of it. Drake v. Woodford, 1 Smith, 116. PR. EXAMINATION.

Service of a writ of execution upon the clerk in court, not good. Ellison v. Pickering, 8 Ves. 319. PR. SERVICE SUBSTITUTED.

Writ improvidently issued, while within the controul of the court, shall be quashed: if beyond its controul, shall be superseded. Lawlor v. Murray, 1 Scho. & L. 76.

In a scire facias to repeal a patent, the venue cannot be changed from Middlesex to any other county. Rex v. Haine, 2 Cox, 235. PR. MOTION IN PETTY BAG.

A dedimus issued to take the acknowledgement of a husband and wife, who were resident in Jamaica. Owing to accidental circumstances, the dedimus was not returned until a year after the teste; and on this account the cursitor refused to receive it, as being contrary to the practice of their office. But the court directed the cursitor to receive it. Townsend v. Lowe, 1 Cox, 410.

Writ of assistance, and the course of proceeding previously to applying for it. Dore v. Dove, 1 Bro. C. C. 375.

If after fi. fa. executed, other effects are discovered, another fi. fa. may issue, or ca. sa. Hopkins v. Adcock, Dick. 443.

After ca. sa. executed, fi. fa. cannot issue, but after fi. fa., ca. sa. can. Id. ib.

To run in liberty of Rolls, writ must be backed by Master of Rolls. Exp. Carpenter, Dick. 334.

Writ de homine replegiando, against man running away with woman of weak mind and infant; on second day being married, husband and clergyman committed. Exp. Ashton, id. 23.

Defendant, against whom supplicavit had issued, opposing it, matter referred to two justices of peace. Snelling v. Flatman, id. 6.

Writ de vilaica removenda, for part of parsonage, and injunction for the house. Boult v. Blunt, Cary, 51.

Of privilege granted to a suitor in Chancery. Dutton v. Alersey, id. 43.

As to the writ of ad quod damnum to change the condition of a way. Exp. Armitage, Ambl. 294., and seq.

Application to the court to set aside an ad quod damnum, on a suggestion of surprise upon the neighbouring inhabitants, when the inquisition was taken, and for want of a new road being set out (in lieu of the road taken away by the person who issued the writ) in his own ground. Lord Hardwicke held there was no surprise, nor was it necessary the new road should be set out on the party's own soil. So where a new road is made, and the parish can be at no farther expence with regard to the old one, the inhabitants ought in future to repair the new; but where the new road lies in another parish, the person who sued out the writ, and his heirs, ought not only to make it, but keep it in repair. In cases of ad quod damnum, equity must judge according to the rules of law, and the inconvenience to the public in such cases is not inquirable in equity, for the jurisdiction belongs to the quarter sessions, and it is sufficient if the inquisition is executed in a fair and open manner, and though the appeal is directed to be at the next quarter sessions, by 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 16., the justices may adjourn it to a subsequent sessions. Exp. Vennor, 3 Atk. 766. JURISDIC.

Certiorari may be returnable in court from whence it issues. Woodroffe v. Kinaston, Dick. 233.

Return of certiorari too long, ordered, cursitor to prepare writ to shorten same. Id. ib.

Defendant committed to Fleet on confession of rescue, allowed to prosecute action of false return. Bouville v. Bouville, Cary, 106.

Sheriff amerced 5l. for return of non est inventus, he having been in defendant's company. Stradling v. El. Pembroke, id. 44.

Cause to quash a writ must be apparent on the face of it. Ld. Ch. cannot quash an original writ after it is returned into another court, but may supersede it. Ogier v. Heywood, Ambl. 59. JURISDIC.

After a writ of execution of a decree, and an attachment served on the defendant, the plaintiff may have an injunction to the defendant to deliver possession, and next a writ of assistance to the sheriff, commanding him to be aiding in putting the plaintiff in possession. Strebly v. Hawkie, 3 Atk. 275. Dove v. Dove, 1 Cox, 101. Huguenin v. Baseley, 15 Ves. 180.

K was cited to the Bishop of London's court, for officiating as a clergyman without licence in a chapel of ease; and being for forty days denounced excommunicate for contempt, upon the bishop's certificate, a significavit issued in Chancery.—Upon a motion to quash the writ of signif., Lord Hardwicke overruled all the exceptions, and held, that there was sufficient to warrant a writ of excom. cap. Dr. Trebec v. Keith, 2 Atk. 498. Vide Exp. Little, 3 Atk. 479.

A man may be resident in one diocese, and come into another to commit the offence charged upon him in the significavit. This, for the purpose of being cited, is a sufficient residence, and he may be prosecuted in the diocese where the offence was committed. S. C.

The court will not, on motion, supersede a writ of replevin, unless there is a fraudulent use made of it. Anon. 2 Atk. 237.

After a writ of replevin has once issued here, it is de officio, and the court has nothing further to do with it. Id.

Distingas against relators after subpoena, to pay defendant money due. Att. Gen. at rel. of Tenby v. Waters, Dick. 73.

The writ de hom. repleg. is original, returnable in a court of law, and suable of right on petition or motion, without shewing cause. It is remedial, and therefore the defendant in the writ must assign some reason why he does not comply with it. It is not supersedeable in Chancery, but the party must plead to it below. Treblecock's Case, 1 Atk. 633.

The court will not order the filing an original to make good a judgment on error brought, without some excuse, for not filing one before, though a slender excuse may be sufficient. Anon. 3 P. W. 314. WRIT OF ERROR.

A scire facias is not in nature of a new action, but a continuation of the old one only. Morris v. Hankey, 3 P. W. 148. See S. C. 2 Eq. Ab. 628.

Instructions for an original, against an hundred for a robbery, were brought to the cursitor, within the year, but the writ passed the great seal after the year, though tested within the year, (viz.) when the instructions were brought to the cursitor: this held good, being warranted by the practice of the cursitor's office. *Price v. Plaintiff was in execution at suit of the king, and there being no just cause thereof, he was delivered by supersedeas. Pyke v. Grant, Cary, 39.

An injunction will never be granted upon a bill and affidavit to stay any proceedings at law, till the defendant prays a dedimus, or is in contempt; an injunction upon a dedimus must never be granted concerning the possession, but only to stay process at law. Anon. 2 Freem. 6. Pr. INJUNCT. TO STAY PROC. AT LAW.

Where a tenant, party to the suit, refuses to deliver possession of the estate pursuant to a decree, and the court grants an injunction to deliver possession upon motion supported by affidavit of personal service of the writ of injunction, and of disobedience to it, the court will grant a writ of assistance. *Dove v. ## PRE-EMPTION.

Option to a tenant to purchase; the rents, until the option made, belong to the heir; from that time the connection takes place, and the purchase money belongs to the personal representative. Tonole v. Redwell, 14 Ves. 591. LANDL. & TENANT; EXORS. GENERALLY.

A right of pre-emption given by will, whether at a price expressed, or to be fixed by the trustees, will be executed; the construction in the latter case being a reasonable price to be ascertained by reference to the master. But to pass such right to the heir or devisee, the intention to accept the offer, must appear by some act, or at least by will. El. Radnor v. Shafto, 11 Ves. 448. WILL, C. OF.

A, seised in fee, devised lands to his daughter and her heirs; and his mind was, that if his son paid to her 50*l.*, then his son should have the land; the money was not paid at the day, and the daughter sold the land, but decreed against the vendee on the son's paying the money; for the court took it to be but in the nature of a security. Bland v. Middleton, 2 Ch. Ca. 1.

A, having five daughters, devises lands in trust to convey to eldest, in case she should pay 6000*l.* among her four sisters, and if not, he gives the like pre-emption to each of his daughters. Equity will not enlarge the time. Muster v. Willowby, 2 Bro. P. C. 244. CONDITION.

Equity will not, after a sale, enforce a covenant for pre-emption against mortgagor, in favour of mortgagee. Orby v. Trigg, 9 Mod. 2. MORTGAGOR. & MORTGEE; COVT.

I. OF TITLE.

II. OF SATISFACTION, RELEASE, AND PAYMENT.

III. OF DEEDS AND OTHER MATTERS, AND GENERALLY.

I. OF TITLE.

The statutes of a college, directing that the president, on his election, should be admitted, and prescribing an oath to be taken by him, and some other ceremonies to be performed, held upon evidence of a particular form of admission, besides the oath, and ceremonies mentioned in the statutes having been used, and upon the ground that in such offices the admission is generally a distinct act, that the admission did not consist in taking the oath and going through the ceremonies mentioned in the statutes, but in the observance of that particular form. In a college of royal foundation, a practice having, for many years, prevailed of electing two fellows of a county, for which the statutes allowed only one, a dispensation from the crown authorising that practice, was presumed. Case Queen's Coll. 1 Jac. 1.

A grant from the crown of an advowson, (excepted in a former grant under general words,) will be presumed after a possession evidenced by title deeds for 133 years, and three presentations. Gibson v. Clark, 1 Jac. & W. 159. LENGTH OF TIME; GRANT.

Presumption from length of time in favour of long possession of whatever is necessary to constitute a right. Chalmer v. Bradley, id. 63. LENGTH OF TIME.

To make good a title to the residue of an old term, mesne assignments, which cannot be produced, will be presumed, even at law. White v. Foljambe, 11 Ves. 350. TITLE.

Upon possession for many years, the origin of it not appearing, and no title except as cestui que trust under a term to raise a sum of money, the court would not presume any other title; and therefore decreed the plaintiff to be let into possession on payment of the charge, but with reluctance, and upon the laches refused an account of the rents even from the filing of the bill. Acherley v. Roe, 6 Ves. 565. LENGTH OF TIME; TITLE; ACCOUNT; LACHES.

II. OF PAYMENT, RELEASE AND SATISFACTION.

Length of possession, as a ground for presuming a release, depends on the nature of the possession, whether adverse or not. Fenwick v. Reid, 1 Mer. 114. LENGTH OF TIME.

The presumption of payment of a bond after twenty years, may be repelled by evidence that obligor had no opportunity or means of paying. Fladong v. Winter, 19 Ves. 196. LENGTH OF TIME; PR. EVID.

Presumption of payment of a bond upon twenty years or less, without payment of interest, unless repelled by circumstances. Hillary v. Waller, 12 Ves. 266. BOND.

Mortgage presumed satisfied, no interest having been received for twenty-five years. Id. MORTGAGE.

Distinction between a legacy and a residuary bequest as to a presumed satisfaction by the advancement of a portion. The presumption from the former does not arise from the latter, and parol evidence of an intention to satisfy cannot be admitted originally, as it may, where first introduced, to repel a presumption. Freemantle v. Pankes, 5 Ves. 79. LEGACY, SATISFACTION OF; RESIDUARY BEQUEST, SATISFACTION OF; EVIDENCE.

After thirty-five years a legacy would be barred on presumption of satisfaction. Pickering v. Id. Stamford, 2 Ves. J. 280. 4 Bro. C. C. 214. LENGTH OF TIME.

Payment of a legacy presumed after above forty years without demand. Jones v. Turberville, 2 Ves. J. 11. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 115. Id.

Arrears of annuity presumed to have been paid after the lapse of twenty-two years from the death of the annuitant to the bringing of the bill. Smallman v. Hamilton, 2 Atk. 71. ANNUITY, ARREARS OF.

Owner of charge not to be presumed to have released it by permitting it to run largely into arrear, nor without proof to be suspected of so doing to prejudice those in remainder. Aston v. Aston, 1 Ves. 264.

Where no demand of principal or interest for twenty years, satisfaction will be presumed, except in cases of mortgages. Mortgagee is supposed continuing in possession, and mortgagor tenant at will to him. Lennan v. Neunham, 1 Ves. 51. LENGTH OF TIME; MORTGAGE.

An executor of a house steward to Ld. B. after an acquiescence of seventeen years, set up a demand for a large sum for business done by this testator, which Ld. B's representatives resisted on the statute of limitations. Per cur. Satisfaction is to be presumed from the length of time, for it is not to be imagined, if any thing was really due to the plaintiff, he would have been quiet under it. Lacon v. Briggs, 3 Atk. 105. Id.

Where no demand has been made on a bond for twenty years, the judge will direct a jury to find it satisfied. Gratwick v. Simpson, 2 Atk. 144. BOND, SATISFACTION PRESUMED.

Bond fraudulently obtained fifty years back, under circumstances deemed satisfied. Hancock v. Hancock, 10 Mod. 436. BOND.

III. OF DEEDS AND OTHER MATTERS, AND GENERALLY.

If bill for specific performance of agreement state that agreement was in writing, signature will be presumed. Rist v. Hobson, 1 S. & S. 543. PL. BILL; AGREEMENT; DEEDS, EXECUTION OF.

A reconveyance of a mortgage made in 1745, but not afterwards mentioned in the title deeds, ought to be presumed where no demand of either principal or interest has been made for several years, and mortgage deeds have been long in possession of the owner and his ancestor. Cooke v. Soltau, 2 S. & S. 154. LENGTH OF TIME; RECONVEYANCE.

Where there is an ambiguity in expressions of settlement regarding the issue, the presumption is taken in favour of the children. Perfect v. Curzon, 5 Mad. 442. SETTLEMENT, C. OF; AMBIGUITY; CHILDREN.

A deed creating composition real will not be presumed from payment of a sum in lieu of tithes for 200 years. Esourt v. Kingscote, 4 Mad. 140. LENGTH OF TIME; TITHES; COMPOSITION REAL.

A father having purchased, in the names of his sons a copyhold estate, which he afterwards demised by licence obtained subsequently to the purchase; the sons take the estate successively as an advancement. To repel the presumption of advancement, evidence of the father's intention must be contemporaneous with the purchase. Murless v. Franklin, 1 Swan. 12. PAT. & CHILD; ADVANCEMENT.

The presumption in respect to advancement to a child, arising from the circumstances of the purchase of one estate, cannot be qualified by transactions relative to other estates. Id. 19.

A grant of tithes of land will not be presumed from long non-payment, although lands may be shown to have been once in possession of a former lay proprietor, unless some evidence of the existence of a grant be offered, or the enjoyment of tithes be shown by at least something like peramancy or dealing with tithes as owner. Nor will evidence of retainer only be sufficiently strengthened to support such presumption by its being shown that a former proprietor had declared the lands in question to be exempt from tithes, or by instances of exception of tithes in leases by improper rector. Wood, B. dissentiente. Meade v. Norbury, 2 Price, 338. TITHES.

From the obscurity and inaccuracy of a deed, fraud and inadequacy of consideration will not, after the deaths of the parties, be presumed if not proved. M'Namara v. Browne, 2 Ball & B. 1. FRAUD.

The existence and execution of a settlement by indentures of lease and release presumed from circumstances, principally the existence of the drafts; the statement is an abstract of the title, and the existence of the lease for a year of other estates appearing to have been included in the same place of settlement. Ward v. Garmons, 17 Ves. 134. SETTLEMENT.

From tenant for life paying off a charge, it is not to be presumed he meant to exonerate the estate, but that may be rebutted and disproved. Reddington v. Reddington, 1 Ball & B. 141. PAYING OFF INCUMBRANCES; TEN. FOR LIFE.

Presumption that the cancellation of one duplicate of a will cancels the other, though both are in the testator's possession, and the cancelled instrument had been altered. In the two latter cases the presumption weaker. Pemberton v. Pemberton, 13 Ves. 310.

Presumption is not always on a belief that the thing has actually taken place. Hillary v. Waller, 12 Ves. 252.

Grants presumed upon the principle of quieting possession. Id. ib.

Every fair presumption is to be made against a stale demand. Matters of record are presumed. Deeds are presumed to be lost. Pickering v. Id. Stamford, 2 Ves. J. 583. LENGTH OF TIME.

Presumptions are to be made in favour of a charity. Id. 584. CHARITY.

A declaration of uses by the founder of a charity presumed from an entry in an ancient book purporting to be such declaration, but without signature or date, the book being kept by the trustees for entering their proceedings, and containing an order by the trustees dated six years after creation of the trust that the declaration of the founder be there entered as a direction to the trustees. Att. Gen. v. Boulbee, 2 Ves. J. 379. DECLON. to USES.

A settled estate is sold, but no part of the money is laid out in other lands; yet this court will, under certain circumstances, presume an agreement between the parties interested, that it should be so laid out, and upon such presumption will decree the money to that person who would have been entitled to the land if any purchase had been made. Newton v. Newton, 6 Bro. P. C. 408. SETTLEMENT.

I. THE APPOINTMENT AND AUTHORITY OF AGENT, AND WHAT ENGAGEMENTS BIND PRINCIPAL.

Consent of counsel is to be given upon their own conception of the authenticity of their own instructions, and if given, is binding on the client. Mole v. Smith, 1 Jac. & W. 673. BARRISTER; CONSENT.

Two counsel appearing for same party by different attorneys, petition to stand over to verify the retainer of the attorney by affidavit. Butterworth v. Clapham, cited 1 J. & W. 673. note. SOL. & CLIENT; COUNSEL'S RETAINER.

An objection to title on purchase having been waived, an offer of compensation made by a clerk of the vendor's solicitor, without express authority, is of no effect. Burnell v. Brown, 1 Jac. & W. 168.

Specific performance decreed against the purchaser of an estate by an agent, upon the signature of the agent's name by the auctioneer, who is an agent lawfully authorised for that purpose within the statute of frauds. Kemeys v. Proctor, 1 Jac. & W. 350. S. C. 3 V. & B. 57. SPEC. PERF.; STAT. OF FRAUDS.

The question as to the authority of an agent to sign, denied by the answer, and by his deposition, stating his declaration to the contrary at the time of execution, is to be determined by an issue: the evidence of a witness, impeaching the instrument he has attested, as a witness to a will, denying the sanity of the devisor, &c., being admissible, but to be received with the most anxious jealousy. Howard v. Braithwaite, 1 V. & B. 202. PR. EVID.; PR. ISSUE AT LAW.

Specific performance of a contract concerning land, not decreed on the signature of an agent, without authority. Id. SPEC. PERF.; REAL ESTATE.

Distinction between a general and special agent as to their powers to bind the principal. Id. 209.

Auctioneer may limit his general power of agency, but only by declaration, equivalent in legal effect to the general authority: upon that principle, evidence of loose declarations at the sale not admitted. Id. 210. AUCTIONEER.

For the purpose of commitment under short order to pay money, the person serving the order must have authority to receive the money. Wilkins v. Stephens, 19 Ves. 117. PR. SERVICE OF SHORT ORDER FOR PAYMT.; PR. COMMITMENT.

Parol authority sufficient for a written agreement by an agent. Deverell v. Id. Bolton, 18 Ves. 509.

Though an agent may, within the scope of his authority, bind his principal by his agreement, and in many cases by his acts, evidence of his declarations is confined to what is either by the statement itself, or as tending to determine the quality of cotemporary acts, the foundation of, or inducement to, the agreement. Fairlie v. Hastings, 10 Ves. 123. EVID.

Authority of agent may be by parol, though the agreement must be by writing. Mortlock v. Buller, 10 Ves. 311. FRAUDS, STAT. OF.

Letter by an agent is not evidence against the principal of a pre-existing agreement, though it may be of an agreement contained in that letter. Fairlie v. Hastings, 10 Ves. 128. EVID.

Vendor is bound by signature of agent's clerk thus: "witness, E P, for Mr. S., agent for the seller," upon evidence of assent; but clerks in general have no authority to bind the principal. Coles v. Trecothick, 9 Ves. 234. S. C. 1 Smith, 233. STAT. OF FRAUDS; VEND. & PURCH.

Agent need not be authorised in writing. S. C. Id. 250.

A principal is answerable for the act of his agent in concealing or suppressing deeds, though not done with the knowledge of the principal. Bowles v. Stewart, 1 Scho. & L. 209. DEED, SUPPRESSION OF.

An agent to contract for the sale, &c., of land, under the second section of the statute of frauds, need not be authorised by writing. Clinan v. Cooke, 1 Scho. & L. 22. FRAUDS, STAT. OF.

Agent, authorised to make agreements for leases for lives or years, makes an agreement in which the term of the proposed lease is not mentioned: this is an agreement not pursuant to his authority, and not binding on his principal. Id. 32.

An authority given to A to draw bill in the name of B may be exercised by the clerk of A. Exp. Sutton, 2 Cox, 84.

A joint stock company having permitted a transfer of stock under a forged letter of attorney, held that the company, and not the fair purchaser, should bear the loss. Ashby v. Blackwell, 2 Eden, 299. S. C. Amb. 503.

Baron and feme having joint power to sell an estate of the wife's, give authority to an agent to sell by auction: he sells by private contract for more than the price they required: the buyer shall not compel specific performance. Husband delivering his wife's compliments in a letter to the agent, is no proof of her joining in giving authority to agent. Daniel v. Adams, Amb. 495. SPEC. PERF.

An agreement for a lease made with an agent, who acts under a power of attorney, and a lease executed by such agent in pursuance of the agreement, shall effectually bind the principal. Hamilton v. El. Clanricarde, 1 Bro. P. C. 341. LEASE.

M, owner of a ship, lets it to the commissioners of the navy, and appoints T his factor and attorney, with power to receive the freight and profits, and to compare and transact with the commissioners. T settled the account, and took a navy bill for the money to M: he then sells it, and indorses it, as attorney for M. Qu., whether M bound? Ekins v. Mackintosh, Amb. 184. ACCOUNT, WHO BOUND BY.

Brokers very often transfer stock without the principal being so much as mentioned, and yet he may maintain an action against the person to whom the stock was transferred. Lissett v. Reave, 2 Atk. 394. BROKERS.

A country client employs an attorney or solicitor in the country in a cause in chancery; the solicitor employs a clerk in chancery; the client in the country pays his solicitor, but the clerk in chancery is unpaid. The client is not bound to pay the clerk in chancery, but if the latter has any papers in his hands, he may retain them. Farwell v. Coker, 2 P. W. 460. SOL. & CLIENT LIEN; CLERK IN COURT.

See the case of the liability of the great duke of Marlborough to the contract for building Blenheim house, from the circumstance of a person giving directions to workmen, as his agent. Dk. Marlborough v. Strong, 1 Bro. P. C. 175. CONTRACT.

A steward has a general authority to contract with tenants, &c. This will not bind the lord, without his consent, nor unless part of the bargain is executed. Anon. 5 Vin. 522, pl. 35.

In a voyage, the master of ship is the owner's servant, and his duty requires him to provide necessaries for the ship, and it is the owner's interest that they should be provided; therefore, what the master necessarily takes up, (though not on bottomry) and employs for that purpose, the owners must pay. Cary v. White, 5 Bro. P. C. 325. SHIP.

Master of a ship buys provision for the ship, and has money from the owners to pay for the provisions, but fails, without paying the money. The owners are liable to pay in proportion to their respective shares in the ship. Master of the ship is but a servant to the owners. Speerman v. Degraeve Galloway, 2 Vern. 643. SHIP.

S, having borrowed 100*l.* of A on a bond, B, the scrivener, when the bond was sealed, delivered it to A. S paid many years' interest, and 50*l.* of the principal, to B, which he paid over to A; but the remaining 50*l.*, which S paid to B, was not paid over to A when B failed. Per curiam, though B received the interest so long, and 50*l.* of the principal, it did not imply he had any authority from A, and, as S could not prove he had any such authority, he shall pay the last 50*l.* again. Wolstenholme v. Davies, 2 Freem. 289. PAYMT.

Defendant had stock in the E. I. funds, in trust for plaintiff, and a bond in his own name from the company, but in trust for plaintiff; plaintiff being abroad, drew a bill on defendant, and promised to send him effects to pay it; defendant accepted the bill; but, before it was due, plaintiff failed; defendant thereupon sold the stock and bond to pay the bill, at a great discount, though at the current price. Two years afterwards, the stock and bond having risen in value, defendant went to plaintiff, and desired him to sell, and reimburse himself: on a bill by plaintiff for an account, it was held, that the want of effects was sufficient to justify defendant in the sale without orders, for as much as would pay the bill; but it appearing that the produce of the stock alone was sufficient to answer the bill, defendant was decreed to account for the bond according to the value at the time plaintiff gave directions for the sale. Henriques v. Franchise, Pre. Ch. 205.

If one trusts his scrivener (who puts out money for him) with the custody of his bonds, and the scrivener receives the money, and delivers up the bond, the obligee is barred as against the obligor for ever. Secus, in case of a mortgage, because a legal estate is vested which cannot be divested without assignment. Martyn v. Kingly, Pre. Ch. 209. BOND.

Scrivener puts out money on bond, and receives the interest from time to time, and then receives part of the principal, the bond remaining in the obligee's custody: held no good payment. Roberts v. Matthew, 1 Vern. 160. See 1 Salk. 157. BOND; PAYMT.

It is the rule of the court, that if the scrivener have the custody of the security, payment of the interest is good; if he deliver it up, being a bond, payment of the principal is good; but where payment of the principal, in case of a mortgage deed, the giving up the deed is not sufficient to restore the estate, there must be a re-conveyance, so payment of interest good, if the mortgagee consents, or after his death his executor either expressly or by implication, as if he accept the money afterwards of the scrivener, though the scrivener have not possession either of deed or bond.

Whitlock v. Waltham, 1 Salk. 157. 1 Vern. 150. in note. PAYMT.

II, AGENT'S DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.

The bare relation of principal and agent is not sufficient to entitle the former to relief in equity, if the account can be fairly tried at law. King v. Rossett, 2 Y. & J. 33. ACCOUNT.

A mere agent of the trustee may not be accountable to the cestui que trust, but otherwise with respect to a substituted trustee, who accounts to nobody else. Myler v. Fitzpatrick, 6 Mad. 360. ACCOUNT; TRUSTEE.

Consent of counsel is to be given upon their own conception of the authenticity of their instructions, and if given, is binding on client. Mole v. Smith, 1 J. & W. 673. COUNSEL; CONSENT.

Agent to receive particular monies, is bound to pay same over to principal, notwithstanding claims of third persons; therefore, he cannot file bill of interpleader. Nicholson v. Knowles, 5 Mad. 47. INTERPLEADER.

Agent acting gratuitously, charged with loss, arising from failure of his bankers, having paid in the monies to his own account. Agent depositing money with a banker to his own account, cannot relieve himself from liability, by informing his principal of the payment, without a correct specification of the particulars. Massey v. Bunner, 1 Jac. & W. 241. INVESTMENT.

A town agent of attorney cannot be ordered to be taxed on motion of client. Wildbore v. Bryan, 8 Pri. 677. TAXATION OF COSTS.

A gratuitous agent receiving money under a trust deed, and placing it mixedly with his own in banker's hands, is liable for loss by their failure. Massey v. Bunner, 4 Mad. 413. INVESTMENT.

Bankers the agents of executors, authorized by them to receive certain assets, but prior to receiving them advancing the amount to executors in the course of their duty as agents, and afterwards applying the assets when received in payment of the amount of such advances, are not responsible, in respect of the misapplication by the executor's agents, not being privy to any intention of such misapplication. Keane v. Roberts, id. 332. BREACH OF TRUST; EXORS.

Bill for account will lie against agent. Mackenzie v. Johnston, id. 373. See S. P. id. 417. ACCOUNT.

Where agent was obliged as such to indorse bill, and fact was known to indorsees; injunction was granted to restrain proceedings thereon against him. Kidson v. Dilworth, 5 Price, 564. INJUNCTION; BILL OF EXCHANGE; INDORSEMENT.

Where town agent of country solicitor (since a bankrupt), had received papers from him belonging to his client, for purpose of his client's business, they have a lien against the client for amount of money due from him to solicitor, and from solicitor to them on account of business done in that cause. And where client had after solicitor's bankruptcy paid the agent his bill to obtain such papers, although an action had been previously commenced against him by assignees for recovery of it, the court granted and continued an injunction against the action, on the ground of agent's lien. Bray v. Hine, 6 Price, 203. LIEN; BANKRUPT. ASSIGNMENT; SOL. & CLIENT.

Interpleader allowed by a factor against both defendants residing abroad, and one not appearing. The subject, a policy on a cargo lost, for effecting which, the plaintiffs claimed to be reimbursed their expenses. Martinus v. Helmuth, Coop. 245. PL. INTERPLEADER.

Bill of interpleader sustained upon bills of exchange, received by the plaintiff, as agent to procure payment for his principal in Scotland, to whom they were remitted, against an order for goods, pursued in an action of trover by the party, who so remitted them, and by attachment in Scotland by a creditor of that party. Stevenson v. Anderson, 2 V. & B. 407. See Farebrother v. Prattent, 5 Pri. 303. BILL OF EXCHANGE; INTERPLEADER.

Bill of interpleader by a factor upon opposite claims, as principals to the benefit of a policy of insurance retained by him, subject to his expenses. Martinius v. Helmuth, id. note (1.) 2nd Edit. INTERPLEADER.

Agent or bailiff, confounding his principal's property with his own, charged with the whole, except what he can prove to be his own; and in this instance, the case of a breach of the terms, upon which the court dissolved an injunction, the inquiry was directed with costs. The court refused in such a case a prospective direction to admit books, not legal evidence; usual in a fair case; as, where from want of notice of an adverse claim a strict account cannot be given; merely giving liberty to apply upon any question of evidence. Lupton v. White, 15 Ves. 432. ACCOUNT; EVIDENCE.

Interest and costs decreed against a steward upon fraud, wilful concealment, &c., and in such cases generally there is no limitation of time. El. Hardwicke v. Vernon, 14 Ves. 504. ACCOUNT, IN FACT; COSTS.

Agent not responsible; he names his principal as the person to be responsible. Exp. Hartop, 12 Ves. 352.

Account against a confidential agent in possession of estates since 1780, without giving any account to his principal, residing in Ireland, and an inquiry into the circumstances of a lease granted under his direction, and in which he took an interest. Ly. Ormond v. Hutchinson, 13 Ves. 47. Affirmed 16 Ves. 94. ACCOUNT.

A confidential agent, in that character bound to keep regular accounts: having neglected to do so, and to preserve vouchers against himself, though he had preserved those in his own favour, on the ground of gross neglect of duty, was not allowed a charge in respect of bills of costs for business done as a solicitor. White v. Ly. Lincoln, 8 Ves. 363.

Injunction until answer, restraining a transfer of stock standing in the name of a steward, on strong evidence by affidavit, that it was the produce of his master's property, rents, &c. received for many years without account; refused, as to money at his bankers in his name. Id. Chelworth v. Edwards, 8 Ves. 46. PR. INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN TRANSFER.

The character of the defendant as agent, accompanying him in his situation as tenant, deprives him of the benefit of an objection, that might be competent to another person; as the neglect of the plaintiff in not bringing forward the demand at an earlier period. Beaumont v. Boulthbee, 5 Ves. 485. 7 Ves. 599. LANDLORD & TENANT; LACHES.

On suspicious circumstances in the answer, a general account was decreed against a steward, notwithstanding a receipt in full, which was allowed only as proof the particular payment, not of a general release or discharge upon an account stated; though under circumstances it might have that effect, as upon proof that the principal never would give any vouchers, and an account kept by the steward. Middleditch v. Sharland, 5 Ves. 87. FRAUD; ACCOUNT SETTLED.

An agent, charged with personal fraud, cannot by disclaiming interest, avoid answering fully. Bulkeley v. Dunbar, 1 Anst. 37. FRAUD; DISCLAIMER; ANSWER.

Servant taking by collusion more than belongs to his office, must account: so must a stranger upon a bargain with a servant, which is a fraud on the master. E. J. Comp. v. Hensham, 1 Ves. J. 289. ACCOUNT.

A usually employed B as his agent, to buy hops of the several planters in and about Canterbury, but having in a particular season omitted to give him any orders at the usual time, B enters into a partnership with three others, for purchasing hops of that year for their mutual benefit. The hops are accordingly purchased, but A having intelligence of this transaction before they were delivered, prevails upon B to declare to the planters, that he bought them as A's agent, and by that means A got the hops delivered to him. Held that this was a fraud upon the partners of B, and that A should account for the value of the hops, according to the highest price for which he sold them. Hunter v. Shippard, 4 Bro. P. C. 210. FRAUD; PARTNERS; ACCOUNT.

Scrivener, &c. receiving money, and giving a note to place it out at interest, is bound to do so, and is not discharged from paying interest for it, unless his employer accepts the security and interest. Balance of an account, stated by such scrivener, &c., will carry interest. Barwell v. Parker, 2 Ves. 364. INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

Factor or correspondent pretending to insure as directed, charged as if he had insured. But such equity does not extend to an agent employed by him (ignorant of such deception.) Tickel v. Short, 2 Ves. 239.

Plaintiff, a factor abroad, having exceeded the price limited for the purchase of hemp, the defendant, who objected to the contract, but afterwards reshipped and disposed of some of it on a risk, was ordered to account for the cost price. Cornwall v. Wilson, 1 Ves. 509. ACQUIESCENCE; ACCOUNT, WHEN DIRECTED.

Factor exceeds orders on one part, saves on another, the principal to take the whole. Id. ib.

Broker or factor not naming principal, may be examined on action in name of principal; but simply for benefit of trade: if principal is declared, action must be against him. Dixon v. Parker, 2 Ves. 221. WITNESS, COMPETENCY OF.

But such broker or factor must act for another at the very time; no subsequent consent or agreement will do. Id. ib.

Attorney as agent, on sale of an estate, not disclosing to the buyer an incumbrance, and leading him to suppose the title would be a good one, held liable to make satisfaction in default of the vendor. Arnot v. Biscoe, 1 Ves. 95. VENDOR & PURCH.: FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT.

J, of K, caused a sum in S. S. stock, belonging to another person of the same name to be transferred into his own name, and then into the name of a broker, for sale, and who accordingly sold it for him. In a bill against the representative of J, of K, and the S. S. Comp. for satisfaction, the broker is not a necessary party. Harrison v. Pryse, Barn. 324. PL. PARTY.

An attorney on behalf of his client, the defendant, promises to pay 500*l.* to plaintiff; this being done by the authority of the client, attorney not liable, but only client; otherwise, if the attorney had no authority from client to make the engagement. Johnson v. Ogilby, 3 P. W. 277. SOL. & CLIENT.

Brokers and factors who act or agree for their principals, not liable in their own capacities. S. C. Id. p. 279.

Where one recovered in trover against a servant of the African Comp., equity would not relieve, because plaintiff in equity might at law have defended himself, but decreed that the company should indemnify the servant, and that the plaintiff at law (one of the defendants in equity), might prosecute the decree in the servant's name. Langdon v. African Comp. Prec. Chan. 221.

Infant cannot be made to account as factor. Smally v. Smally, 1 Eq. Ab. 6. ACCOUNT; INFANT.

Scrivener or attorney puts out his client's money on a security, which he might on the least inquiry have found to be defective, or even where he had notice of ejectment delivered on a prior mortgage, yet could not be charged in equity to answer the money. Luke v. Bridges, Prec. Chan. 146. INVESTMENT.

A articles on behalf of B to purchase some houses, and covenants to pay 800*l.* for the same, and the houses are afterwards destroyed by an earthquake. Though A had no effects of B's in his hands, yet the court decreed him to pay the 800*l.* Cass v. Rudell, 2 Vern. 280.

A trustee empowered S to manage a trust estate; S accounted to him. The trustee died, yet S was decreed to account again to cestui que trust. Pollard v. Downes, 2 Ch. Ca. 121. ACCOUNT.

III. AGENT'S POWERS, AND INCAPACITIES.

Assignment of a policy by a master to a confidential clerk, as to two thirds of the premium of which the master had paid, the clerk paying the residue; under circumstances as well as the firing of a jury upon an issue, being satisfied that it was executed under undue influence, declared the assignment as to such two thirds of the amount of the policy fraudulent and void. Collins v. Hare, 1 Dow, N. S. 139. S. C. 2 Bli. N. S. 106. FRAUD; UNDOE INFLUENCE.

Service of subpoena on persons who in one instance had acted as agents of the defendant who resided in Ireland, ordered. English v. Hendrick, 6 Mad. 205. PR. SERVICE OF SUBPOENA SUBSTITUTED.

Consent of counsel is to be given upon their own conception of the authenticity of their instructions, and if given, is binding on the client. Mole v. Smith, 1 J. & W. 673. COUNSEL; CONSENT.

The agent of trustee for sale of estate, employed therein, cannot purchase the same. Whitcomb v. Minchin, 5 Mad. 91. TRUSTEE; FRAUD, FID. SIT.

An agent employed to sell an estate, secretly buys it himself in the name of a trustee, whom he represents to his employer to be the real purchaser; he cannot call for an execution of the trust until the transaction is confirmed by the vendor. Woodham v. Meredith, 1 Jac. & W. 204. VEND. & PURCH.; FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Demurrer to bill by annuitant against an incorporated company and their clerk, for a discovery of funds not appropriated, overruled, on account of clerk joining in demurrer. Gibbons v. Comp., &c. of Waterloo Bridge, 5 Price, 491. PL. PARTY.

It is doubted whether equity ought to allow a dealing between an agent and his principal, under any circumstances, there being such a conflict between interest and duty. Dunbar v. Tredennick, 2 Ball & B. 319. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Agents permitted under circumstances to sign petition, principals being in the country. In re. Boldevo, 1 Rose, 231. BANKCY. PETITION, SIGNATURE OF.

Reversionary leases at under value obtained by agent from principal, the relation of creditor and debtor also subsisting after an acquiescence of twenty-seven years, not set aside; the fiduciary character having, during that period, ceased to exist, and the transactions being recognized on oath by the principal as fair. Medlicott v. O'Donel, 1 Ball & B. 156. FRAUD; FIDUCIARY SITUATIONS.

Bill to set aside leases obtained by an agent and attorney from his principal, dismissed as to voluntary leases; being pure gift, and no fraud, misrepresentation, &c. with costs as to some, intended as a provision upon, and inducement, to the marriage of the defendant: without costs as to others, the relation of the parties and the circumstances upon general principles of public policy and utility justifying inquiry. Another lease decreed to be delivered up, the verdict in an issue establishing that a full consideration was not paid. Harris v. Tremenheers, 15 Ves. 34. FRAUD FID. SIT.

Demurrer by a married woman to a bill, praying discovery only against her, and relief against her husband as to contracts, &c. by her as agent for her husband; alleging the vouchers, &c. to be in her possession; allowed upon the objection, first, to making a mere agent a party; secondly, to admitting the testimony of a wife in her husband's name. Le Terrier v. Marg. Aspach, 15 Ves. 159. HUSBAND & WIFE; DISCOVERY; PL. PARTY.

The only case, in which a person, against whom no relief is prayed, is allowed to be made a party, is that of the agent of a corporation. Where an agent is so involved in a fraud, that the court will charge him with costs, though relief cannot be prayed against him, yet if costs are not prayed against him, a demurrer lies. Id. 164. PL. PARTY.

Jurisdiction by bill in equity for the delivery of a specific chattel, a valuable picture deposited by an executor with a dealer in pictures, and claimed to be retained by him as purchased at a very low price; issue directed to ascertain whether there was a sale, who therefore could not purchase without full communication. An objection that the transaction not being in the usual courses of administering assets, could not protect a purchaser from the executor, was therefore not determined. Louthier v. Louthier, 13 Ves. 95. CHATTEL SPECIFIC; JURISDICTION.

Valuable leases and agreements for leases, obtained by an agent from his principal, the principal reposing confidence in the agent, and the agent availing himself of the inexperience, negligence and extravagance, of the principal, set aside; or held securities only for money advanced. Watt v. Croze, 2 Sch. & L. 492. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Purchase of a share in a colliery, in trust for the agent and manager, confirmed under particular circumstances, but with reluctance. Wren v. Kirton, 8 Ves. 502. Id.

The indemnity of the trustees under a deed of trust, does not give the persons employed by them a right as creditors against the trust fund. Worrall v. Harford, 8 Ves. 4. TRUSTEES.

Under a general power to sell, assign, and transfer, an agent cannot pledge for his own debt. De Bouchout v. Goldsmid, 5 Ves. 211.

Agent employed to sell estates, took them for himself under colour of a fictitious purchase, and sold part; after his death an inquiry was directed to ascertain the real value according to which his estate was to be charged, the principal having an option to take what remained unsold, and the agent having fraudulently prevailed on his principal to execute a lease at a rent under the real value, the agent's estate was charged with the loss arising from that. Id. Hardwick v. Vernon, 4 Ves. 411. FRAUD FID. SIT.

A covenanted servant of the E. I. Comp. being a senior merchant, and acting as agent of the company (as resident or chief at one of their factories) is incapable of forming any contract whatsoever, in which the company is interested; so as to derive profit to himself or any otherwise however than for the profit and advantage of the company. And if any such contract be actually made between him as a merchant dealing for himself and the company board of trade in India, in which contract undue advantage is taken by him, by means of his knowledge and influence as resident at the factory, he cannot demur generally on ground of want of equity, to bill for discovery and relief by company. Henchman v. E. I. Company, 9 Bro. P. C. 85. PL. DEMURRER; PL. DISCOVERY TENDING TO CRIMINATE.

An agent who was to have no emolument beyond his salary, decreed to account for profit made by a clandestine sale to his principal on his own account. Timber purchased for a colliery: before it was applied to the use of the colliery, some of the owners retired, and it was paid for by those only who remained; the former owners are not necessary parties to a suit by those who remained, against the vendor on account of sale. Mussey v. Davies, 2 Ves. J. 317. ACCOUNT; PL. PARTIES.

Among the various acts which in a court of equity constitute fraud, the abuse of confidence is one. A, reposing an unlimited confidence in B, makes him a trustee of his estates, for the purpose of paying his debts; B at the same time negotiates with A, for the absolute sale of those estates to himself, and obtains a conveyance at an under value; B afterwards sells the estates at a very advanced price; this conduct of B was held to be fraudulent, and he was decreed to account to A for the advanced price, with interest and costs; although it appeared, that the purchaser at the advanced price was a considerable loser by his bargain. Muckreth v. Far, 4 Bro. P. C. 258. S. C. 2 Bro. C. C. 400. 2 Cox, 320. FRAUD FID. SIT.

An agent employed by a young man to sell a reversionary legacy, shall not be permitted to be purchaser thereof himself at an under value, and nothing shall amount to a confirmation of such a transaction, until the vendor be fully apprized that he might be relieved against the original transaction, if he chose to impeach it. Cove v. Ballard, 2 Cox, 253. S. C. 1 Ves. J. 215. 3 Bro. C. C. 117. FRAUD FID. SIT.; CONFIRMATION.

At a public auction, the vendor's known agent bade for the plaintiff the vendee, and under the circumstances the sale was damped thereby, a specific performance refused on that account. Twining v. Morrice, 2 Bro. C. C. 326. SALES BY AUCTION; FRAUD.

Agents must sue in name of principal. Leigh v. Thomas, 2 Ves. 313.

Voluntary conveyance by one lately come of age, to an agent of a reversion of no great value, for a nominal consideration of 180*l.* and containing covenants, as in the case of a purchase, not absolutely rescinded, as not being a case of fraud, but the transaction modified by decree that the agent should release the covenants at his own expence, and remove the impropriety of them as referable to a gift. Gray v. Mansfield, 1 Ves. 379. FRAUD FID. SIT.

Service on agent of principal in Jamaica, good. Hyde v. Foster, Dick. 102.

A factor who sells goods for a principal may bring an action in the name of the principal against the vendee, and make himself a witness; or a vendor of goods to a factor for the use of his principal, may maintain an action against the principal, and the factor may be a witness for the vendor. Snee v. Prescott, 1 Ark. 248.

A being standing counsel and manager for B, obtained leases for long terms of different parts of his estate, and a release of the equity of redemption of other part; on a bill brought to set aside these transactions for fraud, it was proved that A had as great a power over B as a parent has over a child, and could persuade him to do whatever he pleased; but it being proved on the other side, that the purchase money was nearly equal to the value of the land, and that A had in many respects been exceedingly serviceable to B, the bill was dismissed. Decree of the court of chancery in Ireland, affirmed. Ld. Kingsland v. Burnewall, 4 Bro. P. C. 154. FRAUD FID. SIT.

IV. ACCOUNTS BETWEEN; AND HEREIN, OF ALLOWANCES TO AGENT.

An executor in India is entitled to a commission of 5*l.* per cent. on all assets of a testator collected by him there, including the assets which he retains in respect of a legacy to himself, not given to him in the character of executor, and including monies belonging to the testator, which were in the hands of a commercial house in which the executor was, and the testator had been a partner. Cockerell v. Barber, 2 Russ. 585. EXOR., WHEN ENTITLED TO COMMISSION.

In an action by the assignees of a bankrupt underwriter against a broker, for premiums due to the bankrupt; semble, that the broker cannot set off a loss on a policy, effected by him as agent, without a commission del credere, where there has been no adjustment, though the loss took place before the bankruptcy. Baker v. Langhorn, 2 Marsh. 215. BANKCY. SET OFF.

Reasonable commission, 2*s.* 6*d.* per cent. allowed to a country agent on discounts, though for a person resident in London, and paid through a banker there, if not colourable. Exp. Jones, 17 Ves. 332. S. C. 1 Wils. 29. BANKER'S COMMISSION.

A reasonable commission beyond legal interest, for extra incidental charges, as upon agency in the remittance of bills, not usurious. Baynes v. Fry, 15 Ves. 120. USURY; COMMISSION, CHARGE OF.

Claims by the agent for expences on account of the principal, which from the conduct of the agent undertaking the business without authority or agreement, could not be ascertained, disallowed. Beaumont v. Boulthée, 11 Ves. 358. ACCOUNT.

Agent, by the desire of his principal, keeping large sums in his hands, for which he was to be responsible from time to time and duly accounting, not liable to interest, even supposing he employed it. Ld. Chedworth v. Edwards, 3 Ves. 48. INTEREST.

Account opened, and general account decreed against an agent who was also tenant, to his principal in respect of fraud; and laches in landlord, under circumstances not an objection. Beaumont v. Boulthée, 7 Ves. 599. 5 Ves. 485. ACCOUNT SETTLED.

Agents, being also appointed executors of the principal, are not entitled to commission upon remittances from India by the testator, not received till after his death. Hovey v. Blakeman, 4 Ves. 596. EXECUTOR; COMMISSION; FOREIGN LAWS.

Account between principal and agent settled from loose papers, the agent having kept no regular books after his death, liberty was given to surcharge and falsify upon allegation of errors since discovered. Ld. Hardwicke v. Vernon, 4 Ves. 411. ACCOUNT.

A, by will, devises all his estates to his eldest son in tail male, with remainders over; part of the property consisted of an estate in Jamaica, and therefore the testator added the following clause: "and I recommend to my executors, that all sugars, rum, and other plantation produce that is sent to the port of London, be consigned to the house of C. E. & Co. until such time as any of my sons shall set up in the business of a sugar factor; then my desire is, that the consignments may pass through his or their hands." C, a natural son of the testator's set up in the business of a sugar factor during the minority of the devisee, and accordingly got the consignments; upon the devisee's coming of age C accounted with him, but insisted on being entitled to his commission, not only upon the produce which he had actually sold, but also upon the produce which had been consigned to him, but was not then arrived in the port of London. Held, that the words of the above clause were not imperative, or amounted to words of bequest in favour of C, but were recommendatory only. Held also, that C was entitled to a commission only upon what he had actually sold, and not upon what was only consigned, but not delivered to him; decretal order affirmed, Beckford v. Beckford, 4 Bro. P. C. 38. WILL, CONSTRUCTION OF; ACCOUNT.

V. EFFECT OF BANKRUPTCY OR INSOLVENCY OF PRINCIPAL OR AGENT OR FACTOR, AND THEIR RESPECTIVE LIEN ON CONSIGNMENTS.

Factor's lien both for his expenditure on the goods in his possession, and his general balance, lost by a special contract for a particular mode of payment. So in various trades. Covell v. Simpson, 16 Ves. 280. LIEN.

A agreed to sell goods to B to be accounted for in part of a debt to B; C with notice, agreeing to sell the goods as factor, not allowed to retain for a debt to him from A. Weymouth v. Boyer, 1 Ves. J. 416. NOTICE.

Bill sent by a correspondent to a merchant to be applied to a particular use; if the merchant becomes bankrupt before the money is received, the correspondent has a special lien and shall be preferred to the general creditors, aliter where bills are sent on a general account. Exp. Orsell, Amb. 297. LIEN.

Where goods consigned to a factor continue in specie, and are found in his hands at the time of the bankruptcy, the principal is entitled to them and not the creditors at large. Exp. Dumas, 1 Atk. 234. Godfrey v. Furzo, 3 P. W. 186. Mase v. Cadell, Comp. 233. Also, if notes and not money be taken for the goods, they shall belong to the principal. Ibid. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Factor gains a lien on goods consigned to him from his correspondent for the balance of his account, as well as for the duties, &c. and may retain for such balance; but if he parts with the possession of the goods to the owner, he loses the lien for the balance of accounts. Kruger v. Wilcol, Amb. 252. S. C. 1 Dick. 269. CONSIGNMENT; LIEN.

Where agents abroad are in disburse for their principal, and upon being doubtful of his circumstances, make bills of lading to their own order indorsed in blank; notwithstanding these bills of lading come to the principal's hands; yet if the agent's partner in London writes them word that their principal is become bankrupt and desires them to send the bills of lading, and an order to the captain to deliver the goods to him, he may retain them for himself and company against the assignees under the commission till paid and reimbursed so much as the partnership is in advance. Snee v. Prescott, 1 Atk. 245.

A factor makes an agreement with the master for the hire of a ship on his own account, for 48l. per month, and not on the part of the merchants his principals; they are not liable, nor are their goods put on board to satisfy the master's demand, but they are liable to pay the factor the freight for their cargo, and as he was bound by the charter-party, which gave the master a specific lien on the goods, the master has a right to be paid in the first place, before the assignees of a factor under a commission of bankruptcy, for the assignees only stand in the bankrupt's place. So, if a factor becomes bankrupt, and the merchant's goods are not mixed with his, the assignees shall not have them. Whoever lets a ship to hire, must take care that the hirer is substantial, for if he be not competent, the master must pay for his neglect; yet a factor may retain goods to pay custom for salvage. Paul v. Birch, 2 Atk. 621.

Merchant's goods in hand of factor are not liable to debts of a superior nature: otherwise of money. Whitcomb v. Jacob, 1 Sal. 160.

A. employs B as his factor to sell cloth, B sells cloth on credit, and before the money is paid, dies, indebted by specially more than his assets will pay; this money shall be paid to A, and not to the administrator of B, as part of his assets, but thereout must be deducted what was due to B for commission: a factor is in nature of a trustee only, for his principal. Burdett v. Willett, 2 Vern. 638. DEBTOR & CREDITOR; ADMON. OF ASSETS; LIEN.

Administrator of a clothier brings an action against the factor for cloths sent by the clothier to the factor; the factor cannot in equity deduct out of the value of the cloth, the money owing to him from the clothier. Chapman v. Derby, 2 Vern. 117. SET OFF.

A surviving factor must account both for himself and his co-factor, though admitted that the executrix of the deceased factor was compellable, and that among merchants, the jus accrescendi has no place. Holtcomb v. Rivers, 1 Ch. Ca. 127. ACCOUNT.

If a factor evades the customs of goods due to a foreign prince, and thereby incurs the punishment of a felon, and the forfeiture of the whole freight: he shall have the benefit, for he ran the risk. Smith v. Orenden, 1 Ch. Ca. 25. Knipe v. Jesson, 1 Ch. Ca. 76. S. P. Secus, if the factor evades the customs due to the king of England, for that is a fraud. Por v. Vandoal, or Boore v. Vande, 1 Ch. Ca. 30. Nels. Ch. Rep. 87.

VI. NOTICE TO AGENT, ITS EFFECT ON PRINCIPAL.

Whether notice to an attorney in one transaction, shall be notice to him in another transaction, must in all cases depend upon the circumstances. Mountford v. Scott, 1 Turn. & R. 280. SOL. & CLIENT.

Notice to an agent, in order to fix principal, must be given in the same transaction by which they are so related, even in the case of attorney for vendor and vendee. Mountford v. Scott, 3 Mad. 34.

Whether publication of decree of court in the provincial newspaper, is a sufficient notice to agent in that neighbourhood of its contents, so as to commit him for breach of injunction? Jewes v. Morgan, 5 Price, 518. PR. INJUNC., BREACH OF.

Purchaser having employed the vendor's agent, who had notice of an incumbrance, charged with notice, notwithstanding the purchase was made under the sanction of the court, and an infant was interested in it. Toulmin v. Steere, 3 Mer. 210. VEND. & PURCH.; PR. SALE JUDICIAL.

An agent receiving notes from an executor, payable to him as executor, as a security for advances by the principal to the executor on his private account, and not as executor, affects his principal, with notice that it is a dealing with an executor for the assets for a purpose foreign to the trusts he was to discharge; the principal is thereby a party to the devastavit and liable to the consequences of it; and cannot therefore retain the notes against those claiming under the will. Downes v. Power, 2 Ball & B. 491. EXOR.; DEVASTAVIT.

Notice actual or constructive, as to an agent, which must be while concerned for the principal and in the course of the transaction which is the subject of the suit. Heirn v. Mill, 13 Ves. 120.

An agent must be confidentially employed by his principal, in order to affect the latter with constructive notice. Chandos v. Brownlow, 2 Ridgw. P. C. 394.

Notice to agent, held to affect principals, and no difference in this case by his being owner of the estate. Sheldon v. Cur, 2 Eden, 224.

Notice to agent placing out money on mortgage, of a prior judgment, shall affect the employer. Ashley v. Baillie, 2 Ves. 370.

No constructive notice from title deeds, &c. laid before counsel or attorney, or anything that could not be supposed to make an impression on the memory. Id. ib.

Where by a transaction foreign to the business in hand, a counsel or attorney employed to look over a title has notice, that shall not affect the purchaser. Louthier v. Carlton, 2 Atk. 242. S. C. Ca. Temp. Talb. 186. VEND. & PURCH.

To affect purchaser by notice to his counsel, it should be in the same transaction. Fitzgerald v. Fauconberge, Fitzgib. 207. Id.

A agrees to take a lease of certain lands, but previous to signing articles he has notice that B has a previous agreement for lease. B disregards notice and obtains lease in his son's name. Held, that notice to father affected son. Cooté v. Mammon, 5 Bro. P. C. 355.

A, having notice of an incumbrance, purchases in the name of B, and then agrees that B shall be the purchaser, and he accordingly pays the purchase-money without notice of the incumbrance. Though B did not employ A, nor knew anything of the purchase till after it was made, yet B approving of it afterwards, made A his agent ab initio, and therefore shall be affected with the notice to A. Jennings v. Moore, 2 Vern. 609. Blankarne v. Jennen, 2 Bro. P. C. 278. VEND. & PURCH.

A makes three several mortgages to B, C and D, and in the last mortgage B is a party, and agrees that after he is paid, that he will stand a trustee for D. Decreed, that C shall be paid before D; for all the security being transacted by the same scrivener, it was notice to D. Brotherton v. Hutt, 2 Vern. 574. MORTGAGE, PRIORITY OF SECURITY.

Where notice to the party's counsel, is notice to the party. Preston v. Tubbin, 1 Vern. 287.

I. GENERALLY, AND OF CONTRIBUTION BETWEEN CO-SURETIES.

Where creditor who has proved is fully paid by surety, he cannot sign certificate. Rutcliffe v. Gunson, 6 Mad. 193. BANKCY. CERTIFICATE.

Right of contribution between co-sureties, whether by separate instrument, or by the same instrument. Mayhew v. Crickett, 2 Swan. 185. CONTRIBUTION.

In the case of an ordinary money bond, there is no distinction upon the face of it between principal and surety. Secus, in the case of an indemnity bond, where the surety expressly stipulates for the act of his principal. Antrobus v. Davidson, 3 Mer. 578.

A surety may in equity compel his principal to relieve him of his liability by payment of the debt. Id. ib.

All obligors in joint and several bond, principals and sureties, must be parties generally. Exception, where the surety is insolvent or has paid nothing. Cockburn v. Thompson, 16 Ves. 326. PL. PARTIES.

No contribution in favour of one surety against another; his engagement, according to the bond, and parol evidence, which was held admissible, being not as co-surety, but without the privity of the other; as a distinct collateral security, limited to the default of payment by the principal and the other surety. Craythorne v. Swinburne, 14 Ves. 180. CONTRIBUTION.

Right to contribution as between co-sureties; whether by the same or several instruments, whether prior or not, and whatever their number, depending rather upon a principle of equity than contract, except as upon the implied knowledge of that principle. Id. 164. Id.

Right of contribution among co-sureties, limited by the extent of their respective contracts; as, where they are for different sums. Id. 165.

This doctrine of contribution amongst sureties is not founded in contract, but is the result of general equity on the ground of equality of burthen and benefit. Dering v. El. Winchelsea, 1 Cox, 318. CONTRIBUTION.

On a bill filed by a surety against his co-surety and the principal, for a contribution from the co-surety, in respect of money actually paid by the plaintiff for the principal, it is not necessary to prove the insolvency of the principal; otherwise, where the principal is not a party to the suit. Lawson v. Wright, id. 275. PL. PARTY; PR. EVIDENCE; CONTRIBUTION.

A bill by the surety of an officer of commissioners of excise, after being sued upon his bond for an account, alleging the officer had over-paid, the commissioners must be parties. Makepeace v. Needler, Bun. 291. PL. PARTY.

A is bound for B, and has a counter bond. Equity will compel B to pay the defendant, though A is not sued. Ranelagh v. Hayes, 1 Vern. 190. PR. BILL. QUIA TIMET.

Suit by one surety against another for contribution; the representatives of another surety, who died insolvent, ought to be parties. Hole v. Harrison, Rep. T. Finch, 15. PL. PARTIES; EXORS. & ADMORS.; CONTRIBUTION.

II. SURETY'S LIABILITY.

A, on taking B as a clerk, took a bond from him, and a surety to secure his duly accounting for his receipts. No time was fixed for the continuance of the service; that it was to be determinable at the option of either party. The surety died. His executrix gave notice to A, that he should no longer consider himself liable on bond. A read the notice to B, and required him to execute a new bond with another surety, which was done. Then B died, and deficiencies were found in his accounts subsequent to the notice. An injunction obtained as of course by the executrix to restrain an action on the bond, was dissolved. Gordon v. Culvert, 2 Sim. 253.

A receiver who had omitted to account regularly became bankrupt, being indebted to the trust estate in a large sum, and for some time no steps were taken to have the accounts duly passed. Held, that under the particular circumstances of the case, his sureties were not liable to pay interest on the balance found due from him, though he himself, if solvent, would have had to pay such interest. Semble, that in general the sureties of a receiver are answerable for such interest, as well as for such principal as the receiver himself is liable to pay. Dawson v. Raynes, 2 Russ. 466. PR. RECEIVER SURETIES OF, LIAB. OF.

Proof allowed against each person liable upon bill or bond, if nothing is received before bankruptcy, until 20s. in the pound is received, without distinction whether principals or sureties. Exp. Rushforth, 18 Ves. 416. BANKCY., PROOF IN.

Relief upon a lost bond against sureties, the principal being out of the jurisdiction, upon giving an indemnity against the demand of the plaintiffs, or persons claiming under them by virtue of the bond, and such costs, damages, and expences, as defendants may be put to by loss of the bond. E. I. Comp. v. Biddain, 9 Ves. 462. BOND, LOST.

A writ of ne exeat regno was granted in respect of a debt for which the plaintiff had made himself liable on the defendant's account, but which he had not yet paid. Sealy v. Laird, 3 Swan. 368. NE EXEAT REGNO.

Second tenant in tail, joins in a mortgage and bond with the first, who receives the money lent. Held to be only a surety, and the real estate not liable in aid of the personal estate of the first, although he had joined in hopes to prevent a recovery. Robinson v. Cee, 1 Ves. 251. TENANT IN TAIL; CHARGE ON REAL ESTATE; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

A is principal in a recognizance of 5000*l.*, and B and C sureties. A, afterwards jointures his wife, before marriage in some lands, without notice either to the wife or her friends of this recognizance, and devises his real and personal estate to B, one of his sureties, and dies. First, the personal estate of A, the principal, shall be applied towards the recognizance; then his lands devised, the devisee being a volunteer; next the paraphernalia of the wife of A, the principal; and lastly, the two sureties shall contribute to make up the deficiency. Tynt v. Tynt, 2 P. W. 542. MOS. 192. RECOGNIZANCE; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

✓ If bond is lost, equity will set it up against surety, as well as principal debtor. Sheffield v. Ld. Castleton, 1 Eq. Ab. 93. LOST DEEDS, &c.

A surety not chargeable in equity, further than he can be by law. Ratliffe v. Grays, 1 Vern. 196.

Sureties relieved from the penalties of the bond in chancery. Cary, 12.

III. SURETY'S RIGHTS IN BANKRUPTCY, AND GENERALLY AGAINST PRINCIPAL AND HIS ESTATE.

The liability of sureties in a replevin bond is limited to the amount of the rent in arrear at the time of the distress and costs, and they are not liable for subsequent rent; and therefore, where on the trial of an action of replevin, a verdict was taken by agreement between the plaintiff in the action, and the avowant for the penalty of the bond subject to reference, not only as to the amount of the rent due at the time of the distress, but of the rent then due, and also of certain penal rents, the sureties being no parties to such agreement, and the arbitrator awarded damages to the full amount of the penalty of the bond: the court held, that the sureties were entitled to be relieved from the bond, it appearing that the rent originally distrained for had been fully paid before the trial of replevin. Ward v. Henly, 1 Y. & J. 285.

A surety for part of a debt is not entitled to the benefit of a security given by the debtor to the creditor, at a different time, for another part of the debt. Wade v. Corpe, 2 Sim. 155. DEBTOR & CRED.

A surety paying after the bankruptcy to a creditor who has proved, can only stand in his place upon the bankrupt's estate, and in case of a surplus, can claim no interest which the creditor could not have claimed. Exp. Houston, 2 G. & J. 36. BANKCY. PROOF.

Where two persons execute a bond, the one as principal, the other as surety, and no other assurance is executed at the time, the surety paying the bond debt, is a simple contract creditor only of the principal. Copis v. Middleton, 1 Turn. & R. 224. SIMPLE CONTRACT CREDITOR; BOND.

It is a general rule, that in equity a surety is entitled to the benefit of all the securities which the creditor has against the principal; the rule, however, must be qualified, by considering it to apply to such securities as continue to exist, and do not get back upon payment to the person of the principal debtor. Id. 229.

Where a bond is given by principal and surety, and at the same time a mortgage is made for securing the debt, the surety, if he pays the bond, has a right to stand in place of the mortgagee. Id. 231. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Surety paying the debt after proof by the creditor under the commission, is entitled to stand in the place of the creditor for the debt paid, not only in respect of dividends, but of the certificate. Exp. Gee, 1 G. & J. 330. BANKCY. PROOF.

Surety in a bond for the bankrupts, after the bankrupts obtain their certificate, joins with them in a new bond to the representatives of the creditor, and the old bond is delivered up to the surety; held, that this was not equivalent to payment by the surety so as to enable him to prove under the commission. Exp. Sergeant, 1 G. & J. 183. AFFID. 2 G. & J. 23. Id.

Surety under an annuity deed, redeeming the annuity subsequent to the bankruptcy of the grantor of the annuity, is entitled to the benefit of the grantee's proof under the grantor's commission, and to proceed by action against the grantor, having obtained his certificate, for the arrears of the annuity subsequent to the commission. Watkins v. Flanagan, 1 G. & J. 199. S. C. 6 Mad. 280. Id.

Sureties are entitled to the benefit of every security which the creditor has against the principal. Mayhew v. Crickett, 2 Swan. 191. DEBT. & CRED.

If a surety become bankrupt, the creditor cannot, under the 49 G. 3. c. 121. s. 8. prove the debt if it become due after the bankruptcy. Exp. M'Millan, Buck, 287. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

Settlement by a husband, of money, in trust to pay the interest to the wife during her life, with a proviso against anticipation. The husband joins with a surety in a covenant to pay an annuity, secured by an assignment by the wife, of the interest to become due, and of the principal sum in the event of there being no children of the marriage: held, the surety not entitled to any remedy in equity under the assignment in respect of his payment of the arrears of the annuity recovered against him by an action upon the covenant, although he had no notice of the proviso against anticipation in the settlement; a charge of fraudulent concealment not being sufficiently established: and even if fraud had been fully made out against the wife, it seems it would not be sufficient to support the assignment, which would be to give her a power of alienation against the intention of the settlor. Jackson v. Hobhouse, 2 Mer. 483. HUSB. & WIFE; SETTLEMENT; FRAUDUL. CONCEALMENT.

Surety entitled to dividends on the debt proved by their satisfied principal. Exp. Brook, 2 Rose, 334. BANKCY. PROOF.

Surety paying off specialty debts is to be considered as a specialty creditor. Robinson v. Wilson, 2 Mad. 434. DEBT; SPECIALTY CREDITOR.

The drawer of a bill of exchange, though not strictly a surety for the acceptor who is generally primarily liable, may be in the nature of a surety; but the drawer, if first liable by the real nature of the transaction, with reference to the distinction, whether the acceptor had effects or not, is to have relief as a "person liable" within the stat. 49 G. 3. c. 121. s. 8. Exp. Yonge, 3 V. & B. 40. BILL OF EXCHANGE.

Surety for a receiver indemnified out of the balance due to him. Glossop v. Harrison, 3 V. & B. 134. COOP. 61. S. C. INDEMNITY; RECEIVER.

Surety cannot prove for interest due and paid subsequent to commission under the 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 52. Exp. Wilson, 1 Rose, 137. INTEREST; BANKCY. PROOF.

The court will not, sitting in bankruptcy, on behalf of the sureties of a bankrupt, direct a sale of mortgaged premises for payment of the debt secured by recognizance, or for payment of any other security, except a mortgage. Exp. Usher, 1 Ball & B. 197. SALE; BANKCY.

Annuity bond forfeited when the grantor was discharged under an insolvent act, which provided that future estate should not be discharged, the penalty being less than the subsequent arrears, was allowed as the debt, and not only in favour of the purchaser of an annuity, but also of a co-obligor as surety having compounded with the purchaser, and obtained possession of the securities, by repaying the money advanced with the arrears then due, being at that time less than the penalty. Butcher v. Churchill, 14 Ves. 569. BOND PENALTY.

Surety for indemnity to a limited amount having paid to the extent of his engagement, entitled to dividends, upon proof by the creditor under the bankruptcy of the principal debtor, subject (see Exp. Turner, 3 Ves. 243.), to a deduction of the proportion of dividend upon the residue of the debt proved beyond that for which the surety was engaged, supposing that expunged. The surety not entitled to the benefit of the proof against other estates, upon a distinct security. Paley v. Field, 12 Ves. 435. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

Surety by bond for advances generally, but under a limited penalty, is not liable beyond that amount. Therefore, paying that sum, he is entitled to a proportion of the dividends on the proof by creditor to a greater amount under the bankruptcy of the principal debtor. Exp. Rushforth, 10 Ves. 409. Id.

Surety in bond may compel creditor to prove under bankruptcy of principal, and creditor will be a trustee of dividends for surety paying the whole: but party liable with others upon bill of exchange, cannot raise that equity by payment subsequent to proof of holder, until he has received 20s. in pound. Id. 414. DEBT. & CRED.; BANKCY. PROOF IN; BILLS OF EXCHANGE; MARSHALLING SECURITIES.

It is a rule, that surety charged for the whole debt, and paying only part, has no equity to stand in the place of party paid. Id. 420. BANKCY.

Surety depositing money, and indemnifying against expence, &c. may compel creditor to go against principal, and even to prove under commission of bankruptcy for benefit of surety. Wright v. Simpson, 6 Ves. 734. DEBT. & CRED.; BANKCY. PROOF IN.

Holder of bill of exchange may be compelled to prove under bankruptcy of acceptor for benefit of drawer. Id. Id. BILL OF EXCHANGE, DRAWER AND INDORSEE; BANKCY. PROOF IN.

B was a surety for A, in a joint bond to C and D, for 180,000*l.* conditioned to pay 90,000*l.* with interest, at 5 per cent. By a counter bond of equal date, A was bound to B, in a like penalty; with condition to indemnify B, his heirs, executors, &c. from payment of the said 90,000*l.* and interest, and from all damages he might sustain on account of the non-payment of the said sum, and interest. After the deaths of A and B, the executors of B were called upon, and did pay to C and D 22,000*l.* on account of the principal, and several large sums for interest on A's debt. In a suit for the administration of A's estate, the court allowed the executors of B to come in as creditors for the several sums so paid by them, and for interest on the 22,000*l.* but not for interest on the several sums of money paid for interest on the original debt. Rigby v. Macnamara, 2 Cox, 115. INTEREST; BOND.

The E. I. Comp. having compelled payment from a surety in India by their power over him, as one of their servants, without an account or proceeding against the principal, though solvent, and otherwise under harsh circumstances, he was restored to the same situation by a decree for re-payment, with interest at 5 per cent. upon giving security for re-payment in case in a future suit by the company, he should be held liable; the court would not, upon the circumstances, give Indian interest. Law v. E. I. Comp. 4 Ves. 825. E. I. COMP.; INTEREST.

Bond of indemnity to a surety for payment of instalments, the first of which was not due till after the bankruptcy of the principal, cannot be proved, though payable before the bankruptcy. Exp. Walker, 4 Ves. 385. BANKCY. PROOF IN; BOND.

A and B join in executing a bond and warrant to C, who entered judgment thereon, and issued execution against A; he being merely a surety, filed bill to have judgment assigned upon payment of the debt, which was decreed. Hill v. Kelly, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 265.

A surety admitted under the bankruptcy of his principal as to all recovered against him and his costs, there being a surplus. Exp. Mills, 2 Ves. J. 302. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

A surety by bond for advances generally, but under a limited penalty, is not liable beyond the penalty; by paying the penalty he is entitled to a proportion of the dividends from a proof by the creditors to a greater amount under the bankruptcy of the principal debtor; and a surety may compel the creditor to prove under the commission against the principal, and to become a trustee of the dividends for such surety having paid the whole. Exp. Wood, cor. Id. Thurlow, Bridg. Index. BOND PENALTY; BANKCY. PRINC. & SURETY.

A being indebted to B, lodges several securities for money with him as collateral securities for the debt; A afterwards borrows a further sum of money of B, for which C becomes his surety; A becomes bankrupt, and B calls upon C to pay the second debt. The securities in the hands of B, being more than sufficient to pay the first debt, C shall have the benefit of the surplus in reduction of the second debt. Praed v. Gardiner, 2 Cox, 86. BANKCY. SURPLUS.

Surety paying a debt after the act of bankruptcy, but before the commission taken out against the principal, cannot prove this debt under the commission, nor can he stand in the place of the creditor if the debt be paid by the surety before any proof made by the creditor under the commission. Exp. Badger, 1 Cox, 28. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

Executor surety with testator for another, allowed to retain out of estate, whole amount due on bond. Mathurst v. De la Zouch, Dick. 460.

In cases of a bond debt, interest is computed only to the commission. In the case of principal and surety, if principal become bankrupt, the surety cannot prove for interest paid by him after date of the commission. Francis v. Rucker, Ambl. 674. BANKCY. PROOF OF; INTEREST; BOND.

Bill by principal debtor for injunction being dismissed, the bail cannot bring another taking up the equity, unless for collusion. Anon. 2 Ves. 630.

One of two joint debtors becomes a bankrupt, and the creditor proves his whole debt under the commission, but no dividend made; that creditor, though he receive a composition from the other debtor, may still receive a dividend upon his whole debt, as proved, till he obtain 20s. in the pound. It would have been otherwise if he had received a dividend before the bankruptcy. Exp. Wyldman, 2 Ves. 113. S. C. 1 Atk. 109. BANKCY. PROOF.

Bill of surety in a bond, to have it assigned after having paid its amount, dismissed with costs, as useless. Gannon v. Stone, 1 Ves. 338.

Principal and surety, on a note payable by instalments; after one payment became due, principal discharged under the insolvent debtor's act. Bill by creditor, and decree against surety and him, to have remedy over against effects of the principal for the first money due on the first payment, and the common decree for the rest. Daniel v. Carrolls, Amb. 611. DEBTOR & CRED.

Where the surety pays off debt in bankruptcy, he is entitled to have an assignment of the security to enable him to obtain satisfaction for what he has paid above his own share. Exp. Crisp, 1 Atk. 133. BANKCY. ASSIGNMT. OF SECURITY.

A mortgaged his own estate, and his wife joined him in charging her's; this is a pledge, and the wife shall stand in the mortgagee's place. Parteriche v. Penlett, 2 Atk. 384. In Clinan v. Cooke, 1 Sch. & Lef. 35. Ld. Redesdale said, this case was imperfectly reported by Atkyns. ADMON. OF ASSETS; MARSHALLING ASSETS.

If A borrows money for B, on a mortgage of his estate, the covenant in the mortgage deed to pay the money will bind him for whom it is borrowed. The mortgagor may file a bill against his debtor to have his estate disencumbered, and so may every surety against his principal, for he shall not be put to his indeb. assump. Lee v. Rook, Mos. 318. COVT. WHO BOUND BY.

A, together with B and C, as his sureties, executed a bond to D, for securing 300*l.* and interest; the debt is paid by C, with the proper money of A, but C neglects delivering up the bond to A, to be cancelled; C afterwards procures this bond to be assigned as a collateral security for a debt of his own: held, that this assignment was a gross fraud in C, and a perpetual injunction was granted to restrain all further proceedings upon the bond. May v. Harman, 4 Bro. P. C. 156. FRAUD, ASSIGNMT.

The principal in a bond being arrested, gave bail, and judgment is had against the bail; on a bill by the sureties, who had been sued on the original bond, and paid the money, decreed the judgment against the bail to be assigned to them in order to reimburse them what they had paid, with interest and costs. Parsons v. Bridglock, 2 Vern. 608. ASSIGNMT. OF SECURITY.

Bond creditor shall have the benefit of all counter bonds or collateral security given by debtor to surety. Maure v. Harrison, 1 Eq. Ab. 93.

A, bound with his father for the debts of the father, who enters into a statute to the son to pay the debts, and indemnify the son; one of the creditors delivers up his bond, and takes a mortgage from the father. The son shall not set up the statute to defeat the mortgage. Legriel v. Barker, 2 Vern. 39.

A is indebted by bond, (in which J is bound as security) and also by simple contract to B; A states an account of both debts with B, and makes a bill of sale for securing the balance, which proves deficient. On a bill by the surety, decreed the money arising by the bill of sale should be applied towards discharge of both debts in proportion. Perris v. Roberts, 1 Vern. 34.

Surety having paid defendant for fear of arrest, shall recover same in chancery. Cary, 19.

IV. SURETY, HOW DISCHARGED.

A creditor pending an action on a guarantee against a surety who contests the question of his liability, proves the debt under a commission of bankrupt against the principal debtor, and, by his signature, enables the bankrupt to obtain his certificate, though the surety had given him notice not to sign it: the surety is not thereby discharged from his liability on the guarantee. Browne v. Carr, 2 Russ. 600.

A surety is not discharged by the creditor's taking from the debtor a cognovit in an action he had brought against the debtor, with a stay of execution until a day earlier than that on which judgment could have been obtained in the regular course. Hulme v. Coles, 2 Sim. 12.

A court of equity will not relieve a surety by bond upon the ground of the creditor having given time to the principal debtor, unless there has been an express and positive contract between them for that purpose. Heath v. Key, 1 Y. & J. 434.

The liability of a surety in a bond is not discharged by the delay of the creditor in suing for the debt, or by the circumstance of the principal debtor afterwards executing to the creditor another bond for a larger sum. Lyre v. Everett, 2 Russ. 381.

If by neglect of the creditor the benefit of some of securities for the debt is lost, the surety is pro tanto discharged. Crope v. Butler, 28. & S. 457.

A and B entered into a joint and several bond for securing a sum of money advanced to A by his bankers. After the execution of the bond, and before it became due, A paid money to the bankers, and he continued to draw upon them until his banking account was overdrawn. Some years afterwards an account was settled between A and the bankers, in which the whole money secured by the bond was treated as remaining due from A. The bankers then took a warrant of attorney from A for securing payment of the balance found due upon the settlement by instalments at distant periods. Several of the instalments were paid, but A became bankrupt before the whole debt was liquidated. It being proved that B was privy to the settlement of accounts between A and the bankers, and to the arrangement respecting the warrant of attorney: held, first, that B was not discharged by the time given to A; and secondly, that the bond was not discharged by the course of payment, the money paid by A to the bankers being applicable to the banking account, and the bankers being entitled to hold the bond and warrant of attorney as distinct securities. Upon the occasion of the bond being executed, the title deeds of an estate purchased by A were deposited with B as an indemnity against his liability upon the bond; the legal interest in the estate was likewise conveyed to B, and it was agreed that he should also hold it as an indemnity. After the death of B, his executor delivered up the title deeds to A, upon a false representation by him that the bond had been paid off. Held, that a conveyance of the legal estate could not be compelled until the indemnity was worked out, and that the lien upon the title deeds remained. Tyson v. Cor, 1 Turn. & R. 395. BOND; INDEMNITY.

Where sureties are bound after a certain time's demand, creditor may make arrangements with debtor for time, &c. prior to that interval, so that it does not interfere with sureties' recourse back on debtor. Prendergust v. Devey, 6 Mad. 124.

It is competent for creditor's executing a deed of composition with the principal debtor, and certain of his sureties, to reserve their remedies against other sureties. Exp. Carstairs, Buck. 560. See Exp. Glendinning, id. 517. DEED OF COMPOSITION.

If a creditor execute a deed of compromise with the principal debtor, he thereby discharges the surety. Not so if it be stipulated in the deed of composition that the remedies against the sureties shall be reserved. Parol evidence of the understanding of the parties to the deed that the remedies against the sureties should be reserved, cannot be admitted. Exp. Glendinning, Buck. 537. See Exp. Carstairs, id. DEED OF COMPOSITION; PAR. EVIDENCE, PAROL.

Where action in replevin is by agreement referred to arbitration, and without consent or privity of surety in bond, time for award is enlarged, surety becomes charged. Burmaker v. Moore, 7 Price, 228. ENLARGEMENT OF TIME FOR AWARD.

By giving time to the principal, the grantee of an annuity exonerates the surety for past and future arrears. Eyre v. Bartrop, 3 Mad. 221.

Creditor giving time to debtor without notice to surety, releases him, and injunction granted to restrain proceedings against him at law. Gov. & Bank of Ireland v. Beresford, 6 Dow, 233. INJUNCTION.

A creditor whose debt is secured by a warrant of attorney, having received promissory notes from the debtor and two sureties, and afterwards entered up judgment and taken the goods of the debtor, and without the knowledge of the sureties withdrawn the execution, has discharged sureties; but a subsequent promise to pay the debt by one surety, knowing that the execution has been withdrawn, renews his liability. Mayhew v. Orickett, 2 Swan. 185. DEBTOR & CRED.

A guarantees the payment of any goods to be supplied by B to C between the 2nd April, 1814, and the 2nd April, 1815; C having accepted bills for the amount of the goods delivered, which B permits him to renew when payable without any communication to A on the subject of such renewal: Held, that A was discharged from his guarantee by virtue of the rule that a creditor giving further time to the principal debtor, without the consent of the surety, releases the surety; and that although it was proved that the renewal was given only in consequence of C's inability to pay, and that no injury could accrue to A, the surety being himself the fit judge of what is or is not for his own benefit. Samuel v. Howarth, 3 Mer. 272.

Court will grant injunction to restrain landlord from proceeding at law on assignment of replevin bond against the sureties, if there has been an agreement to refer, and a reference between landlord and tenant (the debtor) without concurrence of surety, whereby performance of condition of bond (to proceed with effect) has been suspended. Burmaker v. Moore, 3 Price, 214. PR. INJUNCTION TO STAY PROCEEDINGS AT LAW.

Creditor having, among other securities, a bond with a surety, taking a mortgage from the principal debtor, and agreeing to receive the residue by instalments, secured by warrant, &c. without prejudice to any security he now holds; injunction granted against suing the surety. Boulthée v. Stubbs, 18 Ves. 20. INJUNCTION.

Composition, with reserve of the remedy against sureties valid, but must plainly appear. Id. 22.

Holder of a bill of exchange discharging the acceptor by receiving a composition, cannot come upon the drawer. Exp. Wilson, 11 Ves. 410. BILL OF EXCHANGE.

Holder of a bill giving time to the acceptor discharges the drawer. Id. ib.

Creditor may sue surety first: if he sues principal first and gives time, surety is discharged. Wright v. Simpson, 6 Ves. 734. DEBT. & CRED.

Discharge of surety by creditor has not the effect of a discharge of the principal without reserve, and, therefore, a co-surety is not discharged. When it is ascertained what each of the co-sureties has paid beyond his proportion, the equity as between them is arranged upon the principle of contribution for excess. Exp. Gifford, 6 Ves. 805.

Held, in bankruptcy, that after a voluntary discharge by agreement, the creditor cannot make use of a security against third persons, where the effect would be to make the party discharged again liable, though in another form and in the shape of the claim of another person. Mawson v. Stock, id. 306.

A surety to the E. I. Comp. discharged by payment of a balance to the principal under an erroneous settlement by the officer of the company without their authority or knowledge. Law v. E. I. Comp., 4 Ves. 824. E. I. COMP.

Creditor sues the principal by direction of the surety, but without his privity agrees to stay execution, the surety is discharged. Rees v. Berrington, 2 Ves. J. 543.

Obligee in a bond with a surety, without communication with the surety takes notes from the principal, and gives further time, the surety is discharged. Fordyce v. Ford, id. 539.

A creditor giving the principal debtor further time for payment, discharges the surety. Nisbet v. Smith, 2 Bro. C. C. 579.

Plaintiff, by examining a defendant as a witness, precludes himself from obtaining any relief by decree against him; and if from the nature of the case that defendant would be primarily liable to plaintiff, and another defendant only in a secondary degree, the plaintiff has lost his remedy altogether. Thompson v. Harrison, 1 Cox, 344. PR. EXAMON. OF PARTY DEFENDANT.

If A take a joint bond from B, C and D, and then accepts the notes of B and C in discharge of the bond, D, as a surety, is no longer liable. Skip v. Edwards, 9 Mod. 438. 3 Atk. 91. S. C. nom. Skip v. Huey, or Wilcar v. Edwards.

Defendant having given bond with sureties on writ of ne exeat, and being in custody for contempt, sureties and bond discharged. Debusin v. Debusin, Dick. 95.

A surety in a ne exeat regno could not be discharged after answer put in by the defendant, not even after decree against the defendant, and commitment for 19000*l.* decreed against him, for if (as urged) there is no danger of defendant's going beyond sea (being in prison), then the surety is in no danger. Le Clea v. Trot, Prec. Chan. 230. NE EXEAT REGNO.

A judgment in the lord mayor's court obtained against the garnishee does not entitle the plaintiff to rank as a judgment creditor in the administration of the garnishee's assets. Holt v. Murray, 1 Sim. 485. ADMON. OF ASSETS; JUDGMENT IN MAYOR'S COURT.

Where there was a debt due for money had and received, and the same was secured by a promissory note on an improper stamp, the debt was held sufficient to support a sequestration in Scotland. Where petition for a sequestrator against a party domiciled in Scotland, was on the 26th January, and the first deliverance upon that petition, on the 26th January, and the sequestration awarded by interlocutor of the 16th of August, and a commission of bankruptcy issued on the 15th March upon an act of bankruptcy committed on the 4th of January: Held, that the sequestration had the priority. Exp. Geddes, 1 G. & J. 414. BANKCY. COMMISSION OF; SCOTCH SEQUESTRATION; STAMP.

A person having a beneficial interest in a sum of money invested in the names of trustees, assigns it for valuable consideration to A, but no notice of the assignment is given to the trustees; afterwards the same person proposes to sell his interest to B, and B having made enquiry of the trustees as to the nature of the vendor's title and the amount of his interest, and receiving no intimation of the existence of any prior incumbrance, completes the purchase and gives the trustees notice; B has a better equity than A to the possession of the fund, and the assignment to B, though posterior in date is to be preferred to the assignment to A. It is of no importance in the questions as to the priority of title acquired under the assignments, whether the interest of the vendor be vested or contingent, present or reversionary. Dearle v. Hall, 3 Russ. 1. S. P. Leveridge v. Cooper, id. 30. and see Cooper v. Fynmore, id. 60.

Where English commission precedes Scotch sequestration, all Scotch personal estate would pass under that commission; personal is not, therefore, liable to the subsequent sequestration. Exp. Criddland, 3 V. & B. 100. SCOTCH SEQUESTRATION; BANKCY. COMMISSION.

The question of priority between incumbrancers, if the legal estate has not been got in, depends upon the better right to call for it, and the prior incumbrancer, if he has the right, is, in equity, in the same state as if he had an assignment. Exp. Knott, 12 Ves. 616.

A papist, by articles on his marriage, in 1764, agrees "to convey to trustees in strict settlement, in case he should, at any time thereafter, during his life, be qualified by law so to do." In 1778 he becomes qualified by law to carry these articles into execution. The lands held not to be specifically bound by these articles until 1778, and therefore judgments subsequent to 1764, but before 1778, were prior liens. Kennedy v. Duly, 1 Scho. & L. 355.

A mortgagee is prevented by the operation of the registry act, 6 Anne, c. 2, from tacking, so as to gain a priority against mesne registered incumbrances. And for the purpose of adjusting the priorities between deeds under this act, judgments also obtain priorities, although not generally within the contemplation of the act. Latouche v. La. Dunsany, 1 Scho. & L. 137. TACKING SEC.; REGISTRY ACT; C. OF.

The general rule of equity is, that all fair creditors stand in a situation equally favoured, and therefore if a subsequent creditor, by using due diligence, has contrived to receive his debt, the court will not interfere to oblige him to account for what he has so received, and refund it to a prior creditor. Dillon v. Burton, 3 Ridgw. P. C. 104. DEBTOR & CREDITOR.

Owner of eight sixteenths of a ship mortgages them; he afterwards sells the eight sixteenths to different persons, one of whom, the plaintiff, took possession of the ship and got possession of the grand bill of sale, upon which the names of all the purchasers were indorsed, but there was no date to it. Held, the mortgagee should be preferred. Gillespy v. Coutts, Ambl. 652.

Rector entitled to an annual stipend in lieu of tithes, assigns it by way of mortgage; afterwards a creditor of the rector obtains judgment, and in the regular course sequestration of the stipend. Held, the mortgagee should be preferred; without prejudice to sums received by judgment creditor, before he had notice of the mortgage. Errington v. Howard, Ambl. 485.

Creditors under successive decrees are entitled to payment, according to their priorities. Abbis v. Winter, id. 578. DECREE FOR ADMINISTRATION.

A judgment was signed in June, 1726, and a mortgage was made to plaintiff in 1728; in January, 1730, the judgment was docketed. Ifeld, that the docket was not good, being after the time limited by 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 20., and that thereby the mortgage got the preference of the judgment; and notice or no notice, is not material, for the statute is express, that judgments not docketed shall lose their preference: Decreed for the plaintiff. Farshall v. Coles, 7 Vin. Ab. 54. pl. 6. But where A purchased an equity of redemption, and it plainly appeared that he had notice of a judgment that was not docketed in due time; it was held a strong presumption of an agreement to pay off the judgment, and it was so decreed, especially as the judgment creditor by the defect in the docket, was deprived of his remedy at law. Thomas v. Pledwell, 6 Vin. 53. pl. 5. The former case, however, seems to prevail as being the last adjudged. BRIDG. IND. JUDGMENT, DOCKETING OF.

of statutes, judgments, and recognizances, with a saving to all but the rights of the heirs of the Ld. S. Decreed, that subsequent mortgages shall be paid before precedent statutes. Ward v. Cecil, 2 Vern. 711.

A mortgaged house to B, and C and D were his sureties; money being due for interest, C paid it to prevent suit. D lent A money on equity of redemption, on which C requested him to include debt, in consideration money, which he did. Held, that C shall have his demand first satisfied. Beckett v. Booth, 2 Eq. A, seised in fee in right of his wife, joins in a fine, and declares the uses to B by way of mortgage for securing 15,000*l.*, and subject thereto to the use of A for life, remainder to the wife in fee, then A acknowledges a statute to C for 500*l.*; then the wife dies, and A sells his estate for life for 3000*l.* to D, the son and heir at law of the wife, who had no notice of the statute, and the mortgage is assigned to a third person, who paid off the 15,000*l.* and advanced the 3000*l.*; then D acknowledges a statute to E, who had no notice of C's statute, makes his will and devises these lands to A, and dies. As to the 3000*l.*, held clearly, that it should be preferred to C's statute; held also, that E's statute should be preferred to C's, because the mortgage was but in nature of trustee for the son. Blake v. Hungerford, Prec. Chan. 158.

A decree in chancery against an executor preferred to a judgment at law against him, being prior in time. Joseph v. Mott, id. 79. EXOR; DECREE; JUDGMENT.

A purchases lands of B, and mortgages back those lands for part of the purchase money, and gives a note to B for 200*l.*, the other part thereof; A devises those lands to be sold for payment of his debts. This 200*l.* note, though for part of the purchase money, shall not be preferred to other debts, nor be a charge on the land in equity. Bond v. Kent, 2 Vern. 281. LIEN; VENDOR & PURCHASER.

The husband, in consideration of his wife's joining with him in a fine, and parting with her jointure of 40*l.* per annum, gives her trustee a bond to settle other lands of 40*l.* per annum on the wife for life; remainder to the heirs of his body by her. The husband being indebted in other bonds, dies intestate, and the wife takes administration and confesses judgment to her trustee: on a bill by another bond creditor, decreed the wife's bond as to herself only, to be performed before the plaintiff is paid; but the children to have no benefit of the bond, preferable to the other bond creditors: the husband being to be made tenant in tail of the lands, by the condition of the bond. Cottle v. Fripp, 2 Vern. 220.

A recognizance being enrolled by the special order of the court, after the time for enrolling it was elapsed, the consor, betwixt the date of the recognizance and the enrolling of it, borrowed money of S upon a judgment, which was now overreached by the recognizance: and the estate of the consor was in mortgage prior to the recognizance, so that neither the recognizance nor the judgment could reach the estate without the aid of equity. The court inclined to give the preference to the judgment creditor. Fothergill v. Kendrick, 2 Vern. 234.

A voluntary judgment given by a freeman of London, payable three months after his death, is to be postponed to debts by simple contract, and to the widow's part, but will bind the freeman's legatory part. Fairebeard v. Bowers, 2 Vern. 202. Prec. Ch. 17. S. C. CUSTOM OF LONDON.

A man possessed of a term for years, mortgages it, and then becomes indebted by statute, and afterwards by judgment, and dies. The judgment shall be first satisfied out of the equity of the redemption of the term. Morgan v. Sherrard, 1 Vern. 293. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Where, by the custom of a manor, no time is limited for presenting surrender of copyholds, an incumbrancer, whose security has not been enrolled until long after a subsequent incumbrance, will not be postponed, although the subsequent incumbrancer had no notice of the prior charge. Harlock v. Priestley, 2 Sim. 73. COPYHOLD.

A mortgagee of a leasehold house gave up the indenture of lease to his mortgagor, in order that it might be shewn to an intending purchaser who wished to see what the covenants in it were; the mortgagor concealed from the purchaser the fact of the existence of an incumbrance on the property, and produced the lease to him, and left it in his possession: within a week afterwards, the purchaser accepted a conveyance, paid his purchase money, and took possession of the house; without any notice of the existence of the mortgage; but the solicitor of the mortgagee deposed, that in an interview which he had before the completion of the purchase with the solicitor of the purchaser, he had informed the latter, that a client of his was to receive a considerable sum out of the purchase money, and had requested to have notice of the time when the money was to be paid, and though the solicitor of the purchaser denied that any such interview had taken place before the completion of the purchase, a jury gave a verdict in favour of the statement made on that point by the solicitor of the mortgagee: Held that the mortgagee was not to be postponed to the purchaser. Martins v. Cooper, 2 Russ. 196. FRAUD.

Mortgage by demise for a term of years, the mortgagor does not deliver to the mortgagee the purchase deed conveying the freehold to the mortgagor, but keeps it back, and subsequently deposits it with another person as a security for a loan; the conveyance to the mortgagor and the mortgage were executed within a day of each other, and were both registered on the same day; the deposit was not made for a considerable time afterwards, but no notice by the subsequent incumbrancer of the mortgage being proved, and being denied by his answer, it was held that he was entitled to the benefit of the deposit, as against the mortgagee, and was not bound to deliver up to him the conveyance. Wiseman v. Westland, 1 Y. & J. 117. MORTGAGOR; & MORTGEE; DEPOSIT OF DEEDS.

If third incumbrancer, having constructive notice of second mortgage, fails to keep on foot first security for his protection, he is not entitled to stand in place of first mortgagee against second. Purry v. Wright, 1 S. & S. 369. MORTGAGE; NOTICE.

A agrees verbally to sell an estate to B; he afterwards agrees in writing to sell it to C, and then conveys it to B, in pursuance of the first contract, B having notice of the second. Semble, C cannot call on B for a conveyance. Dawson v. Ellis, 1 Jac. & W. 524. NOTICE; VEND. & PURCH.

A second incumbrancer having obtained the appointment of a receiver, and a decree for a sale, without making the first incumbrancer a party, a petition by the latter, for a reference to ascertain priorities, and for the receiver to keep down the interest, refused, on the ground that the petitioner had commenced a suit for the same purpose, and had delayed it; but leave was given to bring an ejectment. Brooks v. Greathed, 1 Jac. & W. 176. LACHES.

Where trustees to raise money grant annuity as a security, and retaining the title deeds, mortgage the premises, without notice, as a further security, the mere retaining the deeds does not postpone the annuitant to the mortgage. It depends on whether or not the first incumbrancer ought to have, and was remiss in not having the deeds in his possession. Harper v. Fowler, 4 Mad. 129.

A testator having directed his trustees and executors, after sale of his estates, to stand possessed of the money arising from the sales, upon trust, in the first place, to invest 400*l.* in trust for his wife for life, in bar of dower, and after her death for W C; and upon farther trust, out of the residue of the money, to invest 400*l.* in trust for J R for life, and after his death for his children; and upon further trust, to pay other sums to persons named; and having bequeathed the residue of his estate to W C, and the only acting executor having made no investment on the trusts of the will, but having paid interest on the two sums of 400*l.* to the respective legatees, and applied the assets to his own use, and afterwards become bankrupt; it was held, that by that dealing the two legatees had waived whatever priority the will might have given to them; and the dividends payable on the whole sum proved under the commission against the executor in respect of the testator's estate, was divided among the pecuniary legatees and the residuary legatee, in the proportion of the amount of their legacies, and of the residue, as it was computed at the death of the testator, with interest on each. Exp. Chadwin, 3 Swan. 380. WAIVER; BANKRU; EXECUTOR.

To affect a registered deed by notice of a prior unregistered deed, the policy of which has been much doubted, actual notice must be clearly proved, amounting to a fraud. Wyatt v. Barwell, 19 Ves. 435. REGISTRY OF DEEDS; NOTICE.

A plea of purchaser for valuable consideration, without notice, cannot avail against a prior duly registered deed, and whether a legal or equitable title be conveyed, the deed will have priority from its registration. Eyre v. Dolphin, 2 Ball & B. 300.

A person having notice of a prior unregistered deed, cannot avail himself of the registry of a subsequent deed to defeat the priority of the other, for it would be a fraud to take a conveyance to defeat a prior deed of which there was notice. Id. 302. DEEDS, REGISTRY OF.

It is not a general rule in equity that second mortgagee who has title deeds, without notice of prior mortgage, shall be preferred to first: negligence alone will not postpone him; there must be fraud. Evans v. Bicknell, 6 Ves. 183. MORTGAGE.

A registered conveyance of premises in Middlesex for valuable consideration, established against a prior devise, not registered; the evidence of notice, which ought to amount to actual fraud, not being sufficient. Jelland v. Stainbridge, 3 Ves. 478. REGISTRY OF DEEDS; NOTICE.

The title deeds of an estate were deposited with the plaintiff as a security for his demand. The defendant, fourteen years afterwards, upon the eve of the bankruptcy of the mortgagor, took a mortgage, antedated; he had notice of the deposit, but avoided enquiring the purpose for which it was made. The court decreed for the plaintiff. Birch v. Ellames, 2 Anst. 427. MORTGAGE; NOTICE.

Title deeds were deposited as a security for money, the defendant, a creditor of the mortgagor, fearing his immediate insolvency, took a conveyance of the same premises, without notice of the incumbrance; this was held good. Plumb v. Fluit, 2 Anst. 432. Id.

Judgment creditor, prior to a mortgage, need not make the subsequent mortgagee party, in order to postpone him. Shepherd v. Guinnet, 3 Swan. 151. JUDGMENT CREDITOR; MORTGAGE; PL. PARTY.

Mortgagee of a reversion not having the title deeds, shall not be postponed to another mortgagee, whose mortgage was made after mortgagor came into possession who has the title deeds, there being neither fraud nor gross negligence. Tourle v. Rand, 2 Bro. C. C. 650. MORTGAGE.

J being about to mortgage an estate, upon which his younger brothers and sisters had charges, got them to join in the conveyance, and acknowledge the receipt of their portions, giving them an undertaking that he would grant them a subsequent mortgage, and enter into prior security. He afterwards makes a subsequent mortgage to plaintiff, for money lent before on bond, and a fresh sum advanced; the claims of the younger children have priority in equity, and shall be preferred to plaintiff's mortgage. Beckett v. Cordley, 1 Bro. C. C. 353.

Registration in Middlesex of an equitable mortgage is not presumptive notice of itself to a subsequent legal mortgagee, so as to take from him his legal advantage. Morecock v. Dickens, Amb. 678. EQUITABLE MORTGAGE; REGISTRATION OF DEEDS.

Notice of an unregistered mortgage, held to affect subsequent mortgagees, who had registered. Sheldon v. Cox, 2 Eden. 224. Id.

The custody of the deeds creating a term, accompanied by a declaration of the trust of it in favour of a second incumbrancer, without notice of the prior mortgage, held to give him an advantage over the first incumbrancer, which a court of equity would not deprive him of. Stanhope v. El. Ventry, 2 Eden. 81.

The person claiming under such second incumbrancer, upon purchasing the equity of redemption from the mortgagor, was held not to have relinquished such advantage by having covenanted to retain part of the purchase money to redeem the prior mortgage, as it was agreed that he might use the money adversely, in case he could not adjust the matter amicably. Id. ib.

Where premises had been sold under a decree, held that the lien of an incumbrancer was not transferred to the purchase money, so as to be out of the registry act, and he was, therefore, postponed to subsequent incumbrancers. Hennard v. Moore, 1 Eden, 327. SALES, JUDICIAL; REGISTRATION OF DEEDS; LIEN.

Deed of appointment of lands in a register county, pursuant to a power in a former deed which was not registered, postponed to a mortgage made subsequent to it, and registered before it. Scruton v. Quincy, 2 Ves. 413. REGISTRY OF DEEDS.

The first mortgagee permits the mortgagor to keep the title deeds, and the mortgagor shewing a fair title, mortgages the premises to a second mortgagee, to whom he delivers the deeds; the first mortgagee is accessory to the drawing in of the second. Head v. Eger-ton, 3 P. W. 281. MORTGAGE; FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT.

Where a first mortgagee is a witness to the second mortgage, though no actual proof of his knowing the contents thereof, yet since the presumption is, that he might have known the same, this shall postpone him. Mocatta v. Murgatroyd, 1 P. W. 394. sed quære, see note (1) id. ib. MORTGAGE; NOTICE.

Mortgagee of a ship by deed intrust: the mortgagor with the original bill of sale, and the mortgagor indorses thereon subsequent mortgages, or bills of sale, of several parts of the ship, and mortgagee acquiesces; this is evidence of an assent in such mortgagee, and shall therefore postpone him. Id. ib.

A, having a mortgage of a leasehold estate, the mortgagor borrows the original lease of A, with an intention to borrow more money on the premises. If A was privy to the mortgagor's intention of taking up more money on the premises, A's mortgage shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgage, as being accessory to the fraud; otherwise, if A was not privy to the subsequent loan, but innocently lent the lease to the mortgagor. Peter v. Russell, 2 Vern. 726. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 122. S. C. FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT OF TITLE.

A made a mortgage for years to B, to secure a sum already lent, and all sums thereafter to be lent by B to A; A made a second mortgage to C, with notice of the first, and then B, with notice of C's mortgage, lent more money. Per cur. the second mortgagee having notice, shall not redeem without paying the whole due to B. Gordon v. Graham, 7 Vir. 52. pl. 3. MORTGAGE; NOTICE.

The steward of a manor mortgaged his estate four times, but entered the admittance of the third mortgage in a wrong book, contrary to the custom of manor; per curiam, where there is a second mortgage of part of the lands, that were before in mortgage, he shall not redeem part of the first mortgage, and so put the first mortgagee to seek what is due to him out of the residue of the lands where he has a precedent title to the whole; but paying all that is due, he shall redeem the whole. Ordered that the second mortgagee shall redeem what was contained in his own mortgage, and the master settle what proportion he shall pay to the first; decreed also, that the fourth mortgagee being without notice of the third, which was entered in a wrong book, the third shall be postponed until after the fourth is satisfied. Welman v. Warren, 2 Eq. Ab. 595. MORTGAGE, REDEMPTION.

A registered deed, with notice of an unregistered one, shall not prevail against it. Blades v. Blades, 1 Eq. Ab. 358. DEEDS, REGISTRY OF.

A makes three several mortgages to B, C, and D, and in the last mortgage B is a party, and agrees that after he is paid, he will stand a trustee for D. Decreed that C shall be paid before D; for all the securities being transacted by the same scrivener, it was notice to D. Brotherton v. Hatt, 2 Vern. 574. NOTICE; PRINC. & AGENT.

A lends money to B on mortgage, but before he does so, sends C to enquire of D, who had a prior mortgage, whether he had any incumbrance on B's estate, who denied he had any. This was proved by C, D, by answer, confessed C enquired of him what money B owed him; but denied C told him that A was about to lend B any money. Decreed, the estate should stand charged, in the first place, with A's debts; but upon an appeal, issue directed to try whether C told D, that A was about to lend money on B's estate. Abbottson v. Rhodes, 2 Vern. 554. FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT OF TITLE.

A counsel having a statute from A, advises B to lend A 1000*l.* on a mortgage, and draws the mortgage with a covenant against all incumbrances, and conceals his own statute. The statute shall be postponed to the mortgage. Draper v. Borlase, 2 Vern. 370. FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT OF TITLE.

A, bound by statute to B; C lends money to A, and land bought therewith; B extending this land, hath priority. Cary Rep. 8.

2. By tacking Securities.

Where several mortgagees have all equal equity, and the legal estate is obtained by neither of them, but remains in trustees throughout; the incumbrances are available according to their several dates only, and there can be no preference inter se; therefore, first mortgagee being also third, cannot tack the two securities, so as to exclude the mesne one. Frere v. Moore, 8 Price, 475. MORTGAGE.

Purchaser of an equity of redemption, cannot set up a prior mortgage of his own, or which he has got in against subsequent incumbrances, of which he had notice. Toulmin v. Steere, 3 Mer. 210. NOTICE; VENDOR & PURCH.

First and second mortgagees, the mortgagor a bankrupt; the first mortgagee entitled to take a subsequent judgment, docketed, though no execution had issued at the time of the bankruptcy. Baker v. Harris, 16 Ves. 397. MORTGAGE & MORTGEE; JUDGMENT.

The claim to tack by a third mortgagee having taken in the first mortgage of the inheritance, but subject to a term outstanding, given up as against a mesne incumbrancer, as against the assignees under the bankruptcy of the mortgagor; quære, the commission being subsequent to the last mortgage, whether the act of bankruptcy was previous? doubtful; no objection that the consideration for the last mortgage was a debt originally by simple contract. Exp. Knot, 11 Ves. 609. BANKRUPTCY, ASSIGNMENT.

A subsequent incumbrancer, without notice, protected by getting possession of the deed, creating an outstanding term. Id. 613. NOTICE.

Mortgagee may tack a subsequent judgment, but a mere judgment creditor cannot tack, not contracting for an interest in the land, though he has a lien. Id. 617. JUDGMENT CREDITOR.

The right to tack in equity not affected by the relation to the act of bankruptcy. Id. 619.

Tacking allowed up to a decree to settle priorities, not afterwards. Id. ib.

Distinction as to tacking between a commission of bankruptcy, and a decree to settle priorities. Id. ib.

Mortgagee not permitted to tack, as against the assignees in bankruptcy, a mortgage subsequent to an act of bankruptcy, though without notice, and previous to the commission, and though he had the legal estate. Exp. Herbert, 13 Ves. 183. BANKRUPTCY, ASSIGNMENT; MORTGAGE.

The right of the first mortgagee with the legal estate to take as against mesne mortgagee, does not cover a mortgage of the equity of redemption coming to him as executor. To postpone the first mortgagee on the ground of having the title deeds in the possession of the mortgagor, the case must amount to fraud. Barnett v. Weston, 12 Ves. 130. MORTGAGE.

Rule between incumbrancers, that a subsequent incumbrancer, without notice, and having as good a right, getting in the legal estate by assignment of term or possessing himself of the deed creating it, is protected. Maundrell v. Maundrell, on appeal, 10 Ves. 260.

Subsequent incumbrancer cannot protect himself by a satisfied term against a prior incumbrance, unless in some sense got in either by an assignment or making the trustee a party to the instrument, or taking possession of the deed creating the term; nor if he has notice before he pay his money; distinction upon that as to the dower, upon no principle, but established by practice. Id. 271. TERM, ATTENDANT.

A mortgagee is prevented by the operation of the registry act, 6 Anne, c. 2. from tacking, so as to gain priority against mesne registered incumbrances; and for the purpose of adjusting the priorities between deeds under this act, judgments also obtain priorities, although not generally within the contemplation of the act. Latouche v. Ld. Dunsany, 1 Scho. & L. 137. REGISTRY ACT, C. OF.

The registry act in Ireland does not permit tacking. Id. 157.

Tacking securities against creditors or assignees for valuable consideration. Adams v. Clifton, 6 Ves. 226.

Mortgagee may protect himself against a claim of dower, by taking an assignment of an old mortgage term, prior to the right to dower. Wynn v. Williams, 5 Ves. 130. MORTGAGE; DOWER.

A purchaser of an equity of redemption filed his bill against the mortgagee, to redeem the original mortgage, having made a mortgage of other premises to the same mortgagee for a distinct debt, the purchaser cannot redeem the first without redeeming the second mortgage; and the parties interested in the equity of redemption of the second mortgage, are necessary parties to the suit. Freson v. Denn, 2 Cox, 425. MORTGAGE, REDEMPTION OF; PL. PARTIES.

Bond not to be tacked to a mortgage against creditors. Hamerton v. Rogers, 1 Ves. J. 513. BOND.

Mortgagee having also bond, cannot tack it against other specialty creditors, though he may against the heir. Louthain v. Husel, 3 Bro. C. C. 162. MORTGAGE.

Third mortgagee buying in the first mortgage pendente lite, shall exclude the second. Robinson v. Davison, 1 Bro. C. C. 63. MORTGAGE; LIS PENDENS.

Executor of a mortgage lends a further sum on bond; he may tack against the heir or devisee of mortgagor, but not against other creditors if the estate be charged with, or devised for payment of debts. Price v. Fastledge. Ambl. 685.

Mortgagee may tack a bond debt as against heir or devisee. Id. ib.

It is an established rule in equity, that a third mortgagee without notice of second, may, by paying off first incumbrance, and taking an assignment of his interest to himself, hold the estate against the second mortgagee, until he shall be paid what is due to him on both mortgages. Belchier v. Renfurther, 5 Bro. P. C. 292. MORTGAGE.

Third mortgagee, having, pendente lite, and after the first mortgagee had by his answer submitted (on payment of the money due to him) to assign to the plaintiff, the second mortgagee, obtained an assignment of the first mortgage, decreed to be entitled to hold the estate against the second mortgagee, till he should be paid what was due to him upon both; he having had no notice of the second mortgage when he advanced his money. Belchier v. Rutler, 1 Eden, 522. MORTGAGE; LIS PENDENS.

A prior mortgagee may tack a subsequent judgment, but a prior judgment creditor for obtaining a subsequent mortgage cannot; a prior mortgagee, however, cannot tack a bond debt against the mortgagor, his assignee of the equity of redemption, or creditors; though he may, as against the mortgagor's heir, to prevent a circuitry. Anon. 2 Ves. 662.

Where a mortgagee has tacked a judgment to his mortgage, he shall not be confined to the penalty of his judgment, but he is entitled to interest upon his judgment debt, though it should exceed the penalty. Godfrey v. Watson, 3 Atk. 518. MORTGAGE; JUDGMENT; INTEREST BEYOND PENALTY.

M gave plaintiff at different times three notes to secure different sums of money, and expressed in each "to be secured on his Stoke Hall estate," which was mortgaged to defendant; plaintiff took in a prior mortgage, to protect the money lent on the notes: Held, that plaintiff, the note holder, on his having notice of the second mortgage to defendant, and paying off the first incumbrance, shall protect himself against defendant's mortgage, and shall be paid, not only the money due on the first mortgage, but the money due on the notes also. Matthews v. Cartwright, 2 Atk. 347.

As to tacking securities, see Morret v. Parke, 2 Atk. 52.

Where a first incumbrancer, by judgment, has likewise a mortgage; though there is another judgment prior to the mortgage, yet if the mortgagee had no notice of it, the court will not direct a sale in favour of the second judgment creditor, unless he will pay off the first incumbrancer. Smithson v. Thompson, 1 Atk. 520.

Mortgagee having notice of a judgment, cannot tack against the judgment creditor sums advanced after such notice on security of the mortgaged premises. Siah v. Hopkins, Ambl. 793. MORTGAGE.

Where copyhold is twice mortgaged, by surrender before the same steward, a third mortgage to the steward, who buys in the first, shall not postpone the second. Brothers v. Bence, Fitzgibb. 118. NOTICE.

If a puisne mortgagee buys in a judgment or statute, being the first incumbrance, he shall hold till by law he can be evicted. Brace v. Dr. Marlborough, 2 P. W. 493. Mos. 50. See also 9 Mod. 38.

So where the first mortgagee lends a further sum to the mortgagor, upon a statute or judgment, he shall retain against mesne mortgages till the statute or judgment is paid. So if a puisne mortgagee buys in a prior judgment, extended on an elegit at an under value, he shall hold the extent till evicted. But in all these cases there must not be notice of the mesne incumbrances when the money is lent. If a puisne incumbrancer buys in a prior mortgage, and the legal title be in a trustee, or in any third person, then the buying in such first mortgage will not avail; but in all cases where the legal estate is standing out, the incumbrances must be paid according to their priority. Id. ib.

Third mortgagee buying up first, becomes prior to second. Husket v. Strong, 1 Stra. 689. MORTGAGE.

A mortgagee of a copyhold cannot tack a judgment to his mortgage, because no judgment can affect that estate. Cameon v. Pack, 6 Vin. 222. pl. 6. MORTGAGE; COPYHOLD.

Where bond is tacked to mortgage, mortgagor cannot redeem without paying the whole, though exceeding the penalty. Piers v. Baldwin, 2 Eq. Ab. 611. INTEREST; PENALTY BOND.

Assignee of equity of redemption shall not be affected by judgment after confessed by the mortgagor, though the judgment creditor purchase in the mortgage; but shall redeem upon payment of the first mortgage money only. Breerton v. Jones, 1 Eq. Ab. 325, 6. MORTGAGE, REDEMPTION; JUDGMENT CREDITORS.

So also if first mortgagee buys up a judgment. S. C. id. 326. Id. ib.

A, in 1687, lends £1000 to B on a judgment, at which time there was a term of years attendant on the inheritance, which had been assigned to three trustees. In 1688, B and one of the trustees assign the term to C for securing money then borrowed of him. A, having notice of this assignment, gets an assignment of the term from the two other trustees to D, in trust for the better securing his £1000; A shall have the benefit of this assignment and he paid before C. Bristol v. Hungerford, 2 Vern. 524.

Third mortgagee buys in the first, and brings bill to foreclose the second. He need not prove the money actually lent on the third mortgage, the producing an acquittance being sufficient. Holt v. Mill, 2 Vern. 297. MORTGAGE.

A makes a mortgage, and afterwards a commission of bankruptcy is taken out against him, and commissioners make an assignment of his estate, and then B lends £200 to the bankrupt on a second mortgage, having notice of the bankruptcy, and afterwards he gets in the first mortgage: this prior mortgage shall not protect the mortgage subsequent to the bankruptcy. Hitchcock v. Sedgwick, 2 Vern. 177. MORTGAGE.

When a purchaser buys in an old estate or mortgage, though nothing is due upon it, yet in equity, he shall defend himself by it. So he shall, though he got in this prior incumbrance by undue means. Id. 159.

A man makes a first mortgage, and afterwards for a further consideration absolutely releases the equity of redemption, and then makes a second mortgage: the second mortgagee shall protect himself under an old statute. Id. 160.

One articles to sell lands to A, and afterwards articles to sell the same lands to B. B pays the money and gets a conveyance, and A assigns his articles to C, who gets in an old statute, he shall defend himself by it. Id. ib.

A subsequent purchaser protected by getting in an old satisfied statute. Stanton v. Sadler, 2 Vern. 30.

After a bill brought by a second mortgagee against the first and third mortgagee to discover incumbrances, the last mortgagee may get in the first incumbrance, and project himself against the second. Hawkins v. Taylor, 2 Vern. 29. MORTGAGE.

Third mortgagee without notice at the time of his mortgage, buys in the first incumbrance; being a satisfied judgment, he shall have the benefit of it. Edmunds v. Povey, 1 Vern. 187. MORTGAGE.

Assignee of a statute purchases the estate, having notice of a second statute. How far he shall make use of the first statute to protect his purchase. Huntington v. Greenville, 1 Vern. 49.

Conusee of a statute having extended the land, assigns it to J and dies. One that had a second statute, gets administration and acknowledges satisfaction on the first statute. Equity will relieve against this practice, and put the assignee in the same plight as if the statute was still in force. Id. 51.

If A mortgages land to B, and then makes another mortgage of it to C without notice, and C purchases a precedent mortgage outstanding at law, though nothing be due upon it, or a statute whereon money is due which he extends; he shall hold the land until he is satisfied, though he had notice of B's mortgage before his second purchase of the prior security; for as he lent his money innocently at first, he may do what he can to secure it, and it is of no consequence that money is not due on the first incumbrance, since the legal title is bought up. Marsh v. Lee, 1 Ch. Ca. 162, 163, 166. 2 Vent. 337. Churchill v. Grove, Ch. Ca. 36. Edmunds v. Povey, 1 Vern. 187. Hig-

PROFESSIONAL CONFIDENCE.

Protection of confidence between solicitor and client extends to all communications made by client for professional assistance, but not where solicitor employed in matter not professional. Walker v. Wildman, 6 Mad. 47. SOL. & CLIENT.

A clerk to a solicitor commencing practice for himself, not to be restrained from acting as solicitor for parties against whom his master was employed, upon general allegations of his having in his former service acquired information likely to be prejudicial to the clients of his master. Briehono v. Sharp, 1 Jac. 300. SOL. & CLIENT; INJUNCTION.

Motion to restrain a solicitor from giving evidence of confidential matters, refused; the propriety of his being examined, being left to the consideration of the court before which he might appear as a witness. Beer v. Ward, id. 77. PR. INJUNCTION; SOL. & CLIENT.

A solicitor who has been discharged, may upon proof of misconduct be restrained from communicating information that came to him confidentially from his client. Semble. Id. ib.

Professional adviser not bound to discover knowledge communicated by client, but such as he knows alunde he must. Morgan v. Shaw, 6 Mad. 57. PL. DISCOVERY; SOL. & CLIENT.

A witness not compelled to discover matters of which he obtained knowledge in professional confidence. The privilege not of the attorney but the client, its principle and limitation. Packhurst v. Lowten, 2 Swan. 216. WITNESS.

How far solicitor may after being concerned for one party, be restrained from being concerned for the opposite party. Robinson v. Mullett, 4 Price, 353. SOL. & CLIENT.

An attorney or solicitor cannot give up his client and act for the opposite party in any suits between them. El. Cholmondeley v. Ld. Clinton, 19 Ves. 261. ATTORNEY & CLIENT.

Attorney prevented from communicating his client's secrets, even by striking off the roll; not permitted to give evidence of them. Id. 268.

Solicitors in partnership cannot dissolve their partnership, as against their client without his consent, so as to enable the retiring partner, as discharged, to act against him. Id. 273. ATTY. & CLIENT; PARTNERSHIP.

Practice of solicitors, partners, dividing their business, considering one only as agent to the other, disallowed; the client being entitled to their united exertions. Id. ib.

A solicitor may by answer to a bill against him and his clients refuse to discover any deeds or facts confidentially communicated to him. Stratford v. Hogan, 2 Ball & B. 164. SOL. & CLIENT; PL. ANSWER.

Counsel or attorney cannot be called upon to reveal the advice given to the client; demurrer therefore overruled as to the case, and allowed as to the opinion. Richards v. Jackson, 18 Ves. 474. DISCOVERY; PL. DEMURRER.

No breach of confidence in a solicitor to prove client's handwriting; he is bound to do so, if called upon. Bowles v. Stewart, 1 Scho. & L. 226. SOL. & CLIENT.

Defendant having examined B his clerk in court, plaintiff exhibited interrogatories to cross-examine him, to which he demurred, for that he knew nothing but as defendant's clerk in court or agent. Demurrer overruled, as covering too much for it ought to conclude, that he knew nothing but by the information of his client. Valliant v. Dodmoult, 2 Atk. 524. PR. CROSS-EXAMON; PL. DEMURRER.

Where at law the party calls upon his attorney as a witness, the other side may cross-examine him to the point in the cause. S. C. ib.

Counsel, solicitor or attorney may be privileged from being examined in such cases, but not an agent.

Demurrer to examination, as being counsel for the opposite party, was overruled, for that what he knew was as conveyancer only. S. C. ib.

Counsel is not bound to disclose professional confidence. Rothwell v. King, 2 Swan. 221. S. P. Spencer v. Luttrell, id. ib. and Stanhope v. Nott, id. ib. COUNSEL.

A scrivener is entitled to same protection. Harvey v. Clayton, id. SCRIVENER.

PUBLIC CALAMITY.

By terms of French contract, rentes viagères for two lives in succession, were, after the death of first life, payable with all arrears to survivor. Representative of first life relieved against loss of arrears occasioned by the French revolution. Hachett v. Pattie, 6 Mad. 4. ACCIDENT.

It has been the constant rule of courts of equity in Ireland, that when, by a general and national calamity, nothing is made out of lands which are a fund for the payment of interest, no interest ought to run during the continuance of such public calamity. Basil v. Atcheson, 4 Bro. P. C. 502. INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

It seems that arrears of an annuity or jointure, which accrued due during the time of a public rebellion, cannot be recovered under a bill in equity. Kirkby v. Ormsby, Colles' P. C. 134. The decree in this cause does not appear.

PUBLIC POLICY.

See also AGREEMENT, VI.—BOND, III.—PR. INJON. 12. (g).

A revolted colony of Spain not recognized as an independent state by Great Britain, executed bonds at six per cent. interest as securities for a loan. P acting in collusion with B, a holder of the bonds in England, by falsely representing that he had purchased some of them, induced the plaintiff to become a purchaser: Held, on demurrer, that the bonds were not usurious, as it did not appear by the bill that the contract for the loan was made, or the amount of it to be paid in this country, that P and B would have been answerable to the plaintiff for losses sustained upon his purchase, but that as the original contract was made with a government not acknowledged by Great Britain, the court would not relieve them: Thompson v. Powles, 2 Swan. 194. USURY; VEND. & PURCH.

An agreement between two sons to divide equally whatever property they may receive from their father in his lifetime, or become entitled to under his will, or by descent or otherwise from him, is not contrary to public policy, but will be enforced in equity. Wethered v. Wethered, 2 Sim. 183. AGREEMENT.

To prevent a demurrer to bill, it was falsely alleged in it that a revolted colony of Spain had been recognized by Great Britain as an independent state: the court is bound to know judicially that the allegation is false, and not to give it the intended effect. Taylor v. Barclay, id. 213. P.L. BILL.

Where, on bill for account of profits of voyage against captain of East India ship, the executors of captain alleged the consideration to be that of procuring him the command of the ship; a case was sent to law as to the consideration, and question as to agreement being against public policy, reserved. Money v. Macleod, 2 S. & S. 301. AGREEMENT, CONSIDERATION; ISSUE AT LAW.

A sum of money was paid by A to B for the purpose of purchasing C promotion in the army, and it remained unapplied in the hands of B at the death of A. C having been compelled, from the bad state of his health, to quit the army, and having no prospect of being able to enter into the service again, filed a bill for the money, and it was decreed to be paid to him. Leche v. Id. Kilmorey, 1 Turn. & R. 207. FRAUD, ILLEGAL, BARGAIN.

Not against public policy that trader sells secret in trade, and restrains himself generally from use of it. Bryson v. Whitehead, 1 S. & S. 74. TRADE, RESTRAINTS ON; TRADE, SECRET IN.

Injunction to restrain the infringement of copyright in a work as to which it appears doubtful whether it did not tend to impugn the doctrines of the scriptures, refused. Lawrence v. Smith, 1 Jac. 471. INJUNC.; INFRINGEMENT OF COPYRIGHT.

Securities given to persons who would be prejudiced by the passing of a private bill in parliament in consideration of their withdrawing their opposition to it, are not illegal. Vaughall Bridge Comp. v. El. Spencer, id. 64. CONTRACT.

An agreement between an insolvent debtor and his assignee, by which an estate of the insolvent is to be held in trust by the assignee to pay out of the rents and profits, annuities to the insolvent and his wife, and the surplus towards the extinction of a debt owing to the assignee, is a transaction which, being brought before a court of equity at the instance of the insolvent himself, must be rescinded on the ground of public policy. McNeill v. Cahill, on appeal, 2 Bli. 229. AGREEMENT; INSOLVENCY.

A person executing a deed for the purpose of defrauding the law, cannot come into equity for the purpose of setting it aside, even though the instrument has never been made use of; and, therefore, if A convey an estate to B as a qualification to kill game, equity will not compel a reconveyance. Roberts v. Roberts, Dan. 143. FRAUD.

Demurrer to bill of discovery in support of an action to recover the expenses of entertainment given by the plaintiff under an agreement with the defendant to introduce him to a woman of fortune with a view of marriage, allowed. King v. Burr, 3 Mer. 693. P.L. DEMURRER.

Securities given in consideration of withholding opposition to bill in parliament are illegal as against public policy, and securities ordered to be delivered up. Vaughall Bridge Comp. v. E. Spencer, 2 Mad. 356. But see S.C. 1 Jac. 64. SECURITIES, DELIVERY UP OF.

Injunction granted to restrain the defendant from suing for a rent-charge, granted to qualify him to sit in parliament, the purpose never having been answered. Platanora v. Staple, Coop. 250. FRAUD; INJUNCTION.

Equity will not look minutely into the circumstances of a transaction impeached on the grounds of public policy. Roche v. O'Brien, 1 Ball & B. 338. CONTRACT.

Agreement between A, B and C that they shall purchase ship, and that it shall be registered in the names of A and B is against public policy, and demurrer allowed to bill for account in such transaction. Buttersby v. Smith, 3 Mad. 186. SHIP REGISTRY; AGREEMENT.

An agreement between two persons having expectations from a third to divide equally whatever he might leave them, is valid. Harwood v. Tooke, 2 Sim. 192. Wethered v. Wethered, id. 183. AGREEMENT.

Contracts contrary to the policy of the law, as a deed of gift by a client to an attorney, by an heir to guardian, the purchase of a reversion from a young heir, the trustee selling to himself, set aside without evidence of fraud. Morse v. Royal, 12 Ves. 371. CONTRACT.

Bond to marry or pay money established at law; but injunction granted till hearing on ground of policy, being an engagement upon expectations under will of third person, though not a relation, from whom it was kept secret, to marry at his death, and no mutual obligation. Cock v. Richard, 10 Ves. 429. BOND; MARRIAGE; INJUNCTION; MUTUALITY.

A bond, given as a remuneration to obligee for having assisted obligor in affecting an elopement and a marriage without consent of the friends of the wife, declared void, though given voluntarily after the marriage, and without any previous agreement for the same. Williamson v. Gihon, 2 Scho. & L. 357. BOND.

Contract for sale of command of E. India ships is illegal, and therefore cannot be enforced by suit upon equity against the fund paid by Comp. as a compensation under the regulations of 1796, to restrain the practice in future. Thompson v. Thompson, 7 Ves. 470.

Bond by a father to secure an annuity to his son until he should be in possession of a living of a certain value, and an agreement of the same date reciting the bond, declaring that the son would forthwith enter into holy orders and accept such living. The Ld. Ch. expressed a strong opinion that upon grounds of public policy, by the effect of the agreement, the transaction was illegal; but the decision was, upon the ground that son had not complied with the condition, having received the annuity nine years, and being still only in deacon's orders, that the annuity was determinable by the father or his representatives. Id. Kircudbright v. Ly. Kircudbright, 8 Ves. 51. BOND.

Bill for reconveyance of qualification to sit in parliament, given by father to his son, dismissed, with costs. Curtis v. Perry, 6 Ves. 747. FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

Bill for specific performance of agreement, originating in communications by commissioners who took the depositions in a cause, and by witnesses, to defendant, as to nature and effect of evidence; though plaintiff was not implicated in the transaction, bill was dismissed on grounds of public policy. Cloth v. Jackson, 6 Ves. 12. SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

The command of an E. India ship is a public trust; and the sale of it, contrary to a public regulation of the Company, is a breach of public duty.

E. I. Comp. v. Neave, 5 Ves. 181. E. I. Comp.; OFFICES, SALE OF.

Bill for discovery whether the plaintiffs were not employed by one defendant, a peer, as solicitors, to present and prosecute a petition on behalf of the other defendant, complaining of a return of a member of parliament, that he might be duly elected. Demurrer allowed on grounds of public policy, and because the discovery could have no effect; and principally because such transaction would amount to maintenance at common law. Wallis v. Dk. Portland, 3 Ves. 494. PL. DISCOVERY; MAINTENANCE OF SUIT.

Bill of exchange given to secure procuration money, stipulated to be paid to colonel of regiment for commission, is void, and court will interfere even after the money is in hands of sheriff on execution at law. Whittingham v. Bourgoigne, 3 Anst. 900. INJUNC.; SALE OF OFFICES.

An assignment of the half-pay of an officer in the army is bad in equity, as well as at law. Stone v. Lidderdale, 2 Anst. 533. ASSIGNMENT OF HALF-PAY.

Perpetual injunction granted against a bond for the purchase of an estate upon the public policy of the law, although the office was not within the stat. Hamington v. Du Chatel, 2 Bro. C. C. 124. INJUNC. PERPETUAL; BOND.

Money advanced by plaintiff to the defendant to procure him a commission in the marines, decreed to be refunded with interest, plaintiff having, after six months, been discovered to have worn a livery, and being thereupon discharged, first, upon grounds of public policy, and secondly, as plaintiff had been imposed upon, defendant knowing that he was incapable of holding the commission. Morris v. McCulloch, 2 Eden, 190. Ambl. 432. FRAUDULENT AGREEMENT.

Exhibits ordered to be delivered before determination of question on ground of public policy. Elliot v. Williams, Dick, 325.

A promissory note suspicious in itself, under the circumstances, and the admitted object of it being an improper one, even if the note were actually genuine, decreed, at the instance of the person alleged to have given it, to be deposited with the register of the court, in the first instance, with a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to be relieved against it, without preventing the defendant from bringing an action on it within a reasonable time; and if delay in doing so, then to be delivered up. Bp. Winchester v. Fournier, 2 Ves. 445. DELIVERY UP OF VOIDABLE SECURITIES.

A bill in equity lies not to compel specific performance of an agreement to pay money, in consideration of having stifled prosecution for felony. Secus, if to stop a prosecution at law for a fraud. Johnson v. Ogilby, 3 P. W. 279. SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

The purchase of a share in mines, which proved to be a bubble, or money paid for effecting illegal insurances, are not such considerations as will support a bill of exchange in equity. Brown v. Marsh, Gilb. Eq. Rep. 154. Exp. Mather, 3 Ves. 373. CONSIDERATION.

It seems that arrears of an annuity or jointure, which accrued due during the time of a public rebellion, cannot be recovered under a bill in equity. Kirkby v. Ormsby, Colles' P. C. 134. The decree in this cause does not appear. PUBLIC CALAMITY.

Bond given by A to B for B's quitting his pretence, and procuring A to be admitted purser to one of the king's ships. Court will relieve on payment of principal without interest or costs. Symonds v. Gibson, 2 Vern. 308. BOND.

One apprentice gives a bond to another apprentice for 50l. won at play. Bond decreed to be delivered up, gaming among apprentices being of the worst consequences. By the custom of London, a master may justify turning away his apprentice if he frequents gaming. Woodroffe v. Farnham, 2 Vern. 291. GAMING; APPRENTICE; CUSTOM OF LONDON.

A policy of insurance being made an ill use of, the court decreed it to be delivered up. Whittingham v. Thornborough, Prec. Chan. 20. S. C. 2 Vern. 206.

One differing with his mother, settles his mansion-house on his brother, but first takes a bond from him in his sister's name, that the brother should not permit his mother to come into the house. Bond set aside in equity as unnatural bond. Traiton v. Traiton, 1 Vern. 413. BOND.

A agrees to surrender his office to B for 100l., for which B gives a bond to A. A surrenders; but B is refused to be admitted. No relief against this bond. Berisford v. Done, 1 Vern. 98.

Legacy left to procure a dukedom, void. El. Kingston v. Piecpoint, 1 Vern. 5. LEGACY.

QUAKERS.

As to Quakers answering and deposing. Deame's Order, 248, 249.

If one puts in his answer as being a Quaker, the court will not enquire whether he is such. Marsh v. Robinson, 2 Anst. 479. PR. ANSWER.

A Quaker cannot be admitted to exhibit articles of the peace against her husband upon her affirmation, as it is in nature of a criminal prosecution. Exp. Gumbleton, 2 Atk. 70. S. C. 9 Mod. 232. PR. SUBJICAVIT.

The court allowed a Quaker to put in his answer without oath or affirmation, where the bill appeared frivolous. Wood v. Story, 1 P. W. 781. PR. ANSWER, JURAT OF.

By the Irish stat. 6 Geo. 1. c. 6. s. 5. Quakers are obliged to give in their answers to bills against them in Chancery or the Exchequer, with their names or marks subscribed, making the affirmation prescribed by the act; by which the affirmant is required to declare that he is persuaded in his conscience, that the taking of an oath in any case is contrary to the law of God, and that the answer he gives is true; such affirmation to be written at the foot of the ingrossed copy of the answer, and to be signed or have the mark put, witnessed by the affirmant's six clerk or attorney or solicitor; any Quaker convicted of so declaring contrary to the truth, to be liable to the penalties of perjury: provided (s. 6.) that no person shall be deemed a Quaker within the act, unless he produce a certificate to the court, under the hands of six creditable persons of his own congregation, of his being of that profession for at least three years past.

A bill being preferred against a Quaker for tithes, who refused to answer upon oath, the defendant was brought to the bar, and having been brought three times before, the bill was taken pro confesso, and it was referred to a master to examine what was due, and not to be armed with a commission for that purpose. Anon. 2 C.C. 237. 2 Free. 27. PR. ANSWER, JURAT; PR. BILL, PRO CONFESSO.

QUIT RENTS.

Quit rents, being incidents of tenure, are proper subjects of compensation. Estelle v. Stephenson, 1 S. & S. 122. COMPENSATION; VEND. & PURCH.

Quit rent shall not be apportioned as between the tenant for life and remainder-man, the stat. 11 Geo. 2. c. 19. s. 4. having no application in this case. Sutton v. Chaplin, 10 Ves. 66.

Bill does not lie against several tenants of a manor for quit rents, the plaintiff's remedy being at law, and the suit also multifarious as to the different tenants. Bouverie v. Prentice, 1 Bro. C. C. 200. PL. MULTIFARIOUSNESS; LANDL. & TEN.

Though a bill in equity lies to recover a small quit rent, yet it ought to appear that plaintiff has no remedy for the same at law. Holder v. Chambery, 3 P. W. 256.

Bill by the landlord against his tenant for a quit rent: the bill alleged, that the land out of which it issued, by reason of the unity of possession of the lands out of which the rent was supposed to issue, with other lands, was not known. Defendant answered as to discovery, but demurred as to relief. Sed quare, whether a demurrer to all relief be good. North v. El. Stafford, 3 P. W. 149.

An owner of a quit rent shall pay taxes only in proportion to what the land pays; but if the matter has been examined by the commissioners of the land tax, the court will not re-examine it. Brockman v. Honeywood, 1 P. W. 328.

The court of judicature for rebuilding houses burnt down by the great fire in London, having settled the rent which the tenant was to pay for a house at 5l. per annum, and there being an ancient rent of 25s. per annum issuing out of the same house to a charitable use, now twenty years in arrear, a question arose, whether the landlord or tenant should pay this rent? Upon reading the act of parliament, Ld. Keeper was satisfied the tenant was in no case to be charged with more than the rent of 5l. per annum in the whole, and directed plaintiff to bring Lady D., who had the reversion expectant on the lease, before the court, and ordered the tenant not to pay any more of his rent in the mean time, and declared that the growing payments, and the arrears of the 25s. per annum, should be deducted out of the rent. Grice v. Banks, 1 Vern. 309.

Bill in equity lies for recovering ancient quit rents, though very small as 2s. or 3s. per annum; and if proved to be constantly paid, the court will decree payment, or will direct an issue to try whether any and what rent is issuing out of all or any of the lands in the bill. Cocks v. Foley, 2 Vern. 359.

Where conveyance is executed to purchaser which expresses purchase money to have been paid, estate does not pass by the conveyance in equity till money actually paid, although receipt for same is indorsed on conveyance. Winter v. M. Anson, 1 S. & S. 444. CONVEYANCE; VEND. & PURCH.

A right is not barred, by merely signing a receipt as a witness, upon payment by the executor to the adverse party, not amounting to a release or fraud. Holmes v. Custance, 12 Ves. 279.

Joining in a receipt, though perhaps not absolutely necessary, not conclusive against an executor, any than against a trustee, to charge him with the receipts of his co-executor. Hovey v. Blakeman, 4 Ves. 608. EXOR. PERSONAL LIAB.

Plaintiff, being in execution on statute, released on recognizance, no cause being shown. Rosse v. Laszels, Cary, 60.

A is principal in a recognizance of 5000*l.*, and B and C sureties. A afterwards jointures his wife before marriage in some lands, without notice either to the wife or her friends of this recognizance, and devises his real and personal estate to B, one of his sureties, and dies first. The personal estate of A, the principal, shall be applied towards this recognizance; then his land devised, the devise being a volunteer; next the paraphernalia of the wife of A, the principal; and lastly, the two sureties shall contribute to make up the deficiency. Tynt v. Tynt, 2 P.W. 542. Mos. 192. ADMON. OF ASSETS; PAIN. & SURETY.

A recognizance not enrolled, shall be looked upon as a bond, and paid as a debt by specialty. Bothomly v. Fairfax, 1 P.W. 334. 2 Vern. 750. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

So a recognizance, not regularly taken, may be sued as an obligation. Id. ib.

An action at law will lie upon a recognizance; but if it is entered into in pursuance of an order of this court, the court will not allow it to be sued otherwise than by a scire facias in this court. Grant v. Stone, 1 Vern. 313. INJUNC. AGAINST PROCS. AT LAW.

The relief in respect of expenditure, under an erroneous opinion of title, or an expectation of a larger interest, or that the enjoyment would not be disturbed, with the knowledge and permission of the other party, requires a case of bad faith clearly made out. In this instance, it failed for want of evidence. Dann v. Spurrier, 7 Ves. 231.

Bill by a former churchwarden against the parish officers, trustees of an estate for the poor of the parish and forty inhabitants, to be reimbursed money laid out on account of the trust under an order of vestry; his accounts being passed, and an order made for payment: upon demurrer, the Ld. Ch. expressed a strong opinion against such a bill, and, as it appeared not to be signed by counsel, ordered it to be taken off the file, and the plaintiff to pay the costs. *French v. First cousins twice removed come under denomination of first and second cousins, as second cousins, they being related to propositors in same, viz. sixth degree. Silcox v. Bell, 1 S. & S. 301. DISTRIBUTION.

Word "relations," in a will, means "next of kin;" bequest of residue to testator's wife for life with a direction to dispose of the residue amongst his relations in such manner as she should think fit. Appointment to relations not being next of kin, void, and the residue decreed to be distributed amongst those who were next of kin to the testator at the time of his death. *Pope v. ## RELEASE.

See also DEEDS, IV.—DEEDS, VI.—DOWER, IV.—PL. PLEA, 16.—PRESUMPTION, II.—PRINCIPAL & SURETY, IV.

A plea of release, if the consideration be impeached, must contain averments supported fully by an answer covering the grounds upon which the consideration is impugned, and cannot extend to a discovery of the consideration. Parker v. Alcock, 1 Y. & J. 432. PL. PLEA OF RELEASE.

The assignee of a lease executes a bond to indemnify the original lessees against the covenants contained in the original lease; he afterwards quits the country; the house is left untenanted, and the original lessees are obliged to pay the rent reserved; the assignee having subsequently returned to England, makes a compromise with them for the sum then due, in respect of his non-performance of the covenants, and shortly afterward goes abroad; they demise the house to a person who continues in the possession till the end of the term: held, that this mode of dealing with the premises does not give the assignee any title in equity to relief against the legal effect of his bond. Anderson v. Bailey, 1 Russ. 313. BOND; OBLIGOR AND OBLIGEE.

A charge on lands created by deed cannot be discharged but by deed, or at least by some formal act of release. Cupit v. Jackson, 13 Price, 721. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 495. CHARGE ON LANDS.

If the wife insist upon her equity against the assignee in bankruptcy of her husband, it attaches for the benefit of her children, and she cannot afterwards release it in favour of her husband. Barker v. Lee, 6 Mad. 330. BANKCY. PROVISION FOR WIFE; HUSB. & WIFE.

Demurrer to a bill by a surety, stating that two partners, having agreed to execute a release to the principal, in consideration of an assignment of his effects, one alone executed the release, overruled; whether a release so executed binds all the partners; Quere? Hackshaw v. Parkins, 2 Swan. 539. PARTNERSHIP.

R G having died intestate, possessed of considerable personal property, and entitled, after the death of his wife, to the principal of certain bank stock, standing in the name of a trustee, his brother, by letter, expressed his intention of relinquishing his share of the intestate's estate to the said widow, executed to the trustee (transferring to the widow) a release of the bank stock, and directed the preparation of a release of the general personal estate, the execution of which was prevented by his death, but his wish to execute it continued to his last hour; the release of the stock is effectual in favour of the intestate's widow; but the intention to relinquish the share of the general personal estate not being perfected, amounts not to a gift, and she, as administratrix, must account to the representatives of the brother, but without interest. Hoopes v. Goodwyn, 1 Swan. 485. EXEMPTION OF DEBTS; GIFT.

A solicitor has a lien upon costs, ordered to be paid to his client upon a petition in bankruptcy, although there be no fund in court; nor can the client release the benefit of the order to the prejudice of the solicitor. Exp. Bryant, 2 Rose. 237. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN; BANKCY. ORDER FOR PAYMENT; DEBTOR AND CRED.

A bond from the owner of an estate charged to the person entitled to the charge, who signed a receipt for the amount, is not a substitution for the charge, but merely an additional security, and the estate not thereby released. It is not incumbent on the creditor to prove that it was not the intention of the parties to this transaction that the bond should be a substitution of the charge, but it lies on the owner of the estate to make out that the estate is discharged. Saunders v. Leslie, 2 Ball & B. 509. CHARGE ON ESTATE; PR. EVID. ONUS PROBANDI.

Notwithstanding declaration of the testator to his executor, that he never meant to call for payment of a promissory note, it was held part of the assets which were insufficient for the legacies, a charge on the real estate failing for want of a proper attestation of the will. Byrn v. Godfrey, 4 Ves. 6. ASSETS; DEBTOR & CRED.

"I return A his bond," in a will, is not a release, but a legacy, and having lapsed, the bond remains in force against a surviving co-obligor. Maitland v. Adair, 3 Ves. 431. BOND; WILL, C. OF; LAPSED LEGACY.

Plea of general release containing the words "decree and orders of the court of chancery," is good bar to any demand set up under a decree of that court made prior to the date of the release; and if the defendant, by his answer, denies all charges of fraud, &c. in obtaining the release, such answer is sufficient to corroborate the plea. *Walter v. Sale of reversion by public auction held good, and not within the general rule of sales of reversions, that purchaser must prove he gave full value. Shelly v. Nash, 3 Mad. 232.

Tenant for life and remainder-man in tail, both in distress, join in selling estate for inadequate consideration. Held, that it could not be considered as the sale of reversionary interest, subject to rules relating to such sales, but that sale was invalid on account of inadequacy of price, coupled with distress of vendors and their want of advice. Wood v. Abrey, 3 Mad. 417. TENANT FOR LIFE AND REMAINDER-MAN; FRAUD, OPPRESSIVE BARGAIN.

Husband cannot reduce wife's reversionary interest into possession. If they join in assigning it as security for debt of husband and she survives, she takes it disencumbered. Hornshy v. Lee, 2 Mad. 16. HUSB. & WIFE; CROSS IN ACTION.

Wife's reversion, which cannot fall into possession during the husband's life as if it is upon his death, not assignable by him. Dalbui v. Dalbui, 16 Ves. 122. HUSB. & WIFE, SEPARATE ESTATE, ASSIGNMENT.

Bill to set aside the sale of a reversion, dismissed with costs, the only ground on the evidence being inadequacy of price, and no fraud; &c., and the bill filed twelve years after the sale. Moth v. Atwood, 5 Ves. 845. LACHES.

The court leans against the construction for raising portions or maintenance out of reversionary term, and upon that principal when the term fell unto possession, and the portion was raised, refused to charge the difference between the sum annually allowed by the infant's grandfather for her maintenance, and the sum charged. Clinton v. Seymour, 4 Ves. 440. PORTIONS, RAISING OF; MAINTENANCE.

Upon sale of a reversion, part of the terms was, that purchase-money be paid by a certain time; not being so by default of the vendee, vendor discharged from his contract. Newman v. Rogers, 4 Bro. C. C. 391. VENDORS & PURCH.; SPEC. PER.

Testator devised all his manors, messuages, lands, &c. to trustees, in trust for A for his life, with remainders to his first and other sons in tail male, and for want of such issue, he devised all the same manors, &c. to his daughters and grand-daughters respectively, during their lives, and after their deaths, to the heirs male of their bodies, to take as tenants in common; and on failure of such issue, he devised the remainder of his whole estate to his own right heirs. The devise will create cross-remainders amongst the daughters and grand daughters. Stanton v. Peck, 2 Cox, 8. WILL; C. OF.

A, seized in fee and in possession of several estates, and of the reversion in fee of the manor of S, subject to the estate tail of three persons who were living, devises all his estates, generally, to trustees in trust to be sold, and to invest the money for benefit of their children. This reversion passed by will, and was well vested in trustees for benefit of testator's children. Atkyns v. Atkyns, 3 Bro. P. C. 408. WILL, C. OF, WHAT PASSES.

Articles on marriage, for settling land to be bought with money, on all the children of the marriage and their respective issues, and for default of such children and their issue, over. Held, there should be cross-remainders by implication. Treiden v. Lock, Ambli. 663. ARTICLES ON MARRIAGE; MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

Question as to cross-remainders in will. Eastland v. Reynolds, Dick. 317.

A, devised to the use of trustees and their heirs in trust for B for life; remainder to his first and other sons in tail; remainder to the future sons of C, successively for life; remainder over. B died without issue in testator's lifetime; the contingent limitations were taken as executory devises, because no child was then born to C; afterwards a child was born to C and died; and a subsequent remainder-man claimed the estate, upon a supposition, that all the preceding intermediate limitations which could not vest at the death of such child, were destroyed, as it had been decreed, that upon the vesting of the executory devise in that child, the subsequent limitations became contingent remainders upon that executory devise; but it was held, that the inheritance in the trustees was sufficient to support the intermediate contingent remainders till they should come in case, although no particular estate to support, &c. was inserted, and that the estate should not vest in possession whilst any of the preceding limitations might come in case. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Atk. 580. 1 Ves. 268. Ca. temp. Talb. 44. Vide Hubergham v. Vincent, 4 Bro. C. C. 390., where Lord Loughborough has stated this case from a corrected copy. Vide etiam Bunfield v. Popham, 1 P. W. 46. 1 Ves. 26., where Ld. Trevor said it had been resolved that a cestui que trust for life could not destroy the contingent remainders to his first and other sons. TRUST TO PRESERVE CONTINGENT REMAINDERS.

The legal estate in trustees will support contingent remainders of a trust declared by a will, where no conveyance is directed. S. C. 1 Atk. 594. CONTINGENT REMAINDERS IN EQUITABLE ESTATES.

Though contingent remainders by law must vest, during or at the instant the particular estate determines, yet it does not hold in the case of trusts; the ground the law goes upon is, that a freehold cannot be in abeyance, because there must be a tenant of the freehold to perform services and answer all writs concerning the realty; but this objection is obviated in the case of an equitable estate, because the trustee is the tenant of the freehold to perform those services, and if there are ever so many contingent limitations of a trust, it is sufficient to bring the trustees before the court, together with him in whom the first remainder of the inheritance is vested. Id. 589, 590.

The legal estate in trustees will preserve contingent remainders of a trust declared by will, where no conveyance is directed. Id. 594. CONTINGENT REMAINDERS, WHEN PRESERVED.

The resulting trust of a freehold to support contingent remainders of a trust, may connect with the limitation in tail, though not created together with it. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Atk. 386.

In a limitation to preserve contingent remainders, it is not material to restrain it to the life of the tenant for life, provided it be restrained to the life of a person in being. Id. 596.

A devised lands to his wife for life, and then to his son and daughter, to be equally divided between them and the respective issues of their bodies, and for want of such issue, to his wife in fee. This will not create a cross-remainder, which can only be raised by an implication absolutely necessary, which is not here the case, for the words "several and respective," effectually disjoin the title. Davenport v. Oldis, 1 Atk. 579.

Cross-remainders have never been adjudged to arise merely upon these words, "in default of such issue." S. C. 1 Atk. 580.

The mortgagee for a term of years being in possession, devises the premises as an estate of inheritance, to three several persons for life successively, with remainder to their first and other sons, remainders over. The remainders over are void, as tending to a perpetuity. Brett v. Sawbridge, 3 Bro. P. C. 141. PERPETUITY; WILL, C. OF.

Tenant in tail, with remainders in tail, and reversion in fee to tenant in tail, the lands having been mortgaged for a term by donor, previous to those estates, and so every of them having the equity of redemption incident to it; tenant in tail, by will, appoints the mortgage to be paid off, and then the mortgaged term to be assigned to his mother; and by the same will (being seised of other lands in fee) devised all his lands to W, and his heirs, by which the reversion of the mortgaged premises passes, estate tail, and remainders being spent. Held, that equity of redemption, which was incident to the reversion in fee of tenant in tail, did not pass to mother by the will, and was therefore not severed from the reversion. Amhurst v. Litton, Fig. 99; affirmed 5 Bro. P. C. 254. WILL, C. OF.

Reversion in fee after estate tail spent, held assets to pay debts. Cs. Warwick v. Edwards, Dick. 51.

Settlement, wherein manor of Dale is settled to the use of grandfather for life, remainder to his son; the husband for life, remainder to trustees for 1000 years, for raising 20,000*l.* for a daughter, if but one, payable at twenty-one, or marriage, &c. in the mean time 300*l.* per ann. for maintenance, and to be raised by trustees, either by rents and profits, or by sale, or mortgage, and to be paid quarterly; the first payment to be made at such of the feasts as shall next happen after the father's death. Father dies, leaving one daughter, and the grandfather living. Bill prayed a mortgage of the reversion for the infant's maintenance, but the court strongly inclined against it. Pierpoint v. Cheney, 1 P. W. 498. Pre. Cha. 503. SETTLEMENT; C. OF; INFANT MAINTENANCE.

Reversion never mortgaged to raise maintenance, where the mother was able to keep the child. Id. ib.

One seised in fee, devised land to his granddaughter for life, remainder to his right heirs male for ever, and died, leaving his granddaughter his heir at law, and his deceased brother's son his next heir male; the devise of the remainder is void. Dawes v. Ferrers, 2 P. W. 1. Pre. Cha. 589. DEVISE TO HEIR AT LAW.

Where court has at instance of eldest son ordered trustees to join in destroying contingent remainders, it has sometimes imposed conditions on the son as a provision for a sister. Frewin v. Charlton, 1 Eq. Ab. 386.

A devised a farm to B for life, and after some legacies, devised all other his personal estate, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, not before devised to C. The reversion of the farm passed by the general devise. Id.

Willes v. C. Kingman v. Kingman, 2 Vern. 560. WILL, C. OF, WHAT FATHER.

A directs 1000*l.* to be laid out in the purchase of lands, that the rents and profits thereof might come to his nephew W, for his life; but the testator made no disposition of these lands, after the death of W. Held, that the lands belonged to the testator's heir at law. Fletcher v. Chapman, 3 Bro. P. C. 1. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

A remainder of a term is an assignable interest; as if J G, being possessed of a term of 2000 years, devised the estate to his wife for 50 years, if she should so long live; and, after her decease, to his son for 50 years, if, &c.; and, after his decease, to his two grandchildren, for the remainder of the term. One of the grandchildren assigns his interest in the life of the father or grandmother. Per cur. This is an assignable interest, and a moiety passed by the assignment. So decreed. Kingslader v. Courtney, 2 Freem. 236. Kimpland v. Courtney, 2 Freem. 250, semb. S. C. POSSIBILITIES, ASSIGNMENT OF.

A, seised in fee by deed and fine, conveys the lands to the use of trustees for 70 years, if A so long live, remainder to trustees for 3000 years, and, after the death of A, then to his son B. Whether the remainder to B is good? Penhay v. Hurrell, 2 Vern. 376. 2 Freem. 258. S. C.

A, having an estate for three lives, settles it to the use of himself in tail, remainder to B: the remainder is void, or if good, it might be barred by deed, surrender, or other conveyance. Baker v. Bayley, 2 Vern. 225. ESTATE, PUR AUTRE VIE; LIMITATION.

In case of judgment recovered against an heir, who has a reversion in fee which is only assets cum acciderit, court will not decree a sale of the reversion, but the creditor must wait till it falls. Fortrey v. Fortrey, 2 Vern. 134. SALE.

A remainder-man in tail in a voluntary settlement, brings a bill for the discovery of the deed, and it appearing the entail was discontinued, the court would not relieve him. Kelley v. Berry, 2 Vern. 35. DISCOVERY.

A term being limited in trust for H in tail, remainder, if T die without issue male in the life of H, to C in tail: the remainder is good. Howard v. Dk. Norfolk, 2 Swan. 454. LIMITATION.

RENT CHARGE.

Widow held barred of dower in equity by rent charge granted in trust for her by way of jointure by marriage settlement, to which her father was party, although she was infant at time of marriage, and rent charge failed by defect of husband's title, and was afterwards confirmed by deed and recovery during coverture, which, though the recovered a valid confirmation, might have been defeated if there had been a son of the marriage. Corbet v. Corbet, 1 S. & S. 602. DOWER; JOINTURE; INFANT.

Grant of rent charge out of particular lands to an infant, in consideration of marriage for her jointure, though the grantor be afterwards evicted, being in equity a general agreement to grant rent charge of that amount out of some lands, will bind infant if her guardian or parents assent to it. Id. 621.

The statute of limitations does not bar a demand for a rent charge. Cupit v. Jackson, 1 M'Clel. 495. S. C. 13 Price, 721. STAT. OF LIMITATIONS.

Quere as to rent charge being subject of compensation; though when small, court has allowed them to be such. Eddale v. Stephenson, 1 S. & S. 122. COMPENSATION; VEND. & PURCH.

Rent charge not incident of tenure. Id. ib.

If a purchaser of the legal estate in lands, subject to an equitable rent charge, refuse to pay the rent charge, a receiver will be appointed. Pritchard v. Fleetwood, 1 Mer. 54. PR. RECEIVER; VEND. & PURCH.

It is a general rule, that where a party is prevented by court from proceeding to establish his right at law, it is the duty of the court to see no injury arise to him in consequence of its interference; therefore, where an annuitant was restrained by injunction from proceeding at law to recover the arrears of rent charge; interest was allowed. O'Donoghue v. Browne, 1 Ball & B. 262. S. P. 6 Ves. 93. See also 2 Y. & J. 73. 1 Vern. 74. INTEREST; INJUNCT.

Upon a bill for equitable relief as to a rent charge, all the persons whose estates are liable, must be parties. The rule dispensed with under circumstances, making it impracticable, or highly inconvenient. Att. Gen. v. Jackson, 11 Ves. 369. PL. PARTIES.

Whether an annuity or rent charge out of the profits of the New River company, is to bear the full assessment to the land-tax, or is to have the benefit according to the proposition of a reduction, in consequence of an assessment upon the profits of the company at an under value, quere? The bill by the annuitant was dismissed, the court refusing to raise an equity as to the profit arising from disobedience to the act. Adair v. New River Comp. 11 Ves. 429. ANNUITY; LAND TAX.

No limitation to a rent charge at law or equity; but demand may be excluded by presumption from length of time, and acquiescence. Stackhouse v. Barnston, 6 Ves. 467. LENGTH OF TIME.

A woman entitled to a rent charge marries, and at the husband's death there are arrears due; they shall go to the wife surviving, notwithstanding she had no settlement, there being no express or implied intention that the husband should be a purchaser of all her fortune. Salwey v. Salwey, Amb. 692. HUSB. & WIFE; CHOSE IN ACTION; ACCOUNT.

As to a fine of land, not barring a rent charge issuing out of the lands. Whitfield v. Faussett, 1 Ves. 387. FINE AND RECOVERY.

Bill in equity lies for payment of an entire rent out of a manor where there are no demesne lands on which to distrain; but it seems that the lands must be indisputably of greater value than the rent. Leeds v. Powell, id. 171. JURISDICTION.

The augmentation of vicarage by yearly payments of corn and money out of rectory, is a charge on rectory inappropriate, into whose hands soever it shall come. Where vicar brings bill for arrears of annual payments issuing out of inappropriate rectory, he shall recover against the improprator, though a considerable time has elapsed between the commencement of arrears and improprator's possession: but purchaser, with notice of such claim, pending such suit, shall only account for arrears after his possession. Cooke v. Smees, 2 Bro. P. C. 184. ACCOUNT; VEND. & PURCH; NOTICE.

S had a rent-charge granted to him and his assigns for three lives. S, and his wife mortgaged it to A, his executors, administrators, and assigns. Habendum to him, his heirs and assigns, during the three lives, upon trust that A, his executors, administrators, and assigns, should enjoy 100l. per annum out of it, till the mortgage was satisfied. A, made an unattested will, and appointed plaintiff his executor, who brought his bill against the heir of A for this 100l. per ann. Decreed, that the heir of S should take this rent charge, but for the benefit of the executor, agreeable to the trust in the mortgage deed. Kendal v. Micfield, Barn. Ch. Rep. 46. TRUST; DEEDS, C. OF.

A, is tenant in tail, subject to a rent charge to B, for life; A dies, the rent charge being in arrear; the issue in tail not liable by the statute of 32 H. 8. c. 38. to the arrears incurred in the life of his ancestor. 5 Co. 118. a. Ld. Fairfax v. Ld. Derby, 2 Vern. 612. TENANT, AND ISSUE IN TAIL.

Devisee of a rent charge out of lands, with power of distress, dies; his executrix brings a bill for the arrears: decreed, that she may enter, and hold and enjoy till paid the arrears. Foster v. Foster, 2 Vern. 386. PR. CH. 122. S. C.

Rent charge in fee, granted out of gavelkind land, shall descend in gavelkind. Edwin v. Thomas, 1 Vern. 489. GAVELKIND.

A, on his marriage, settled a rent charge on his wife for her jointure, and afterwards devises to the wife part of the land charged with the rent charge: bill is, that the rent charge might be apportioned. Bill dismissed. Knight v. Calthorpe, 1 Vern. 347. WILL, C. OF; APPORTIONMENT; SETTLEMENT.

A rent charge of 20l. granted in consideration of 240l. redeemable on repayment of the consideration to the grantee's heirs, within a year after notice of the death of his wife, ceases on repayment of the sum stipulated to his executors, the conveyance being considered as a security for money. Stokes v. Verrier, 3 Swan. 634. SECURITY.

Under a suspension of a rent charge by act of the parties, the rent ceases pro tempore. Cook v. Fountain, 3 Swan. 596.

Purchaser of one of several parcels, into which land had been divided, shall not be subject to the rent charge on the whole; grantor restrained by order. Cary, 2. S. P. Dolman v. Varasor, id. 92.

Where the deeds by which a rent-charge was granted were lost, and the rent had been paid twelve years, equity decreed the arrears and future payment to be secured. Collet v. Jacques, 1 Ch. Ca. 120. LOSS OF DEEDS; SECURITY.

RENTS AND PROFITS.

Where, in consideration of sale, there is no stipulation as to interest, and purchaser completes his part, he pays 4 per cent. interest, and takes rents and profits; but if rents and profits value under that rate, he pays no interest, and vendor takes them. Esdaile v. Stephenson, 1 S. & S. 122. VEND. & PURCH; INTEREST.

Where by will, estate is directed to be sold, (but no time therein is stated,) and interest of produce is bequeathed to plaintiff, and estates continue unsold, plaintiff on construction of will is entitled to rents and profits of first year after testator's death. Pittsgerald v. Jervoise, 6 Mad. 25. ADEEMOR OF ASSETS; WILL, C. OF.

Words in will, "rents and profits," extended beyond their natural meaning, viz. "annual profits" to mortgage or sale, when necessary to effect the object, such as raising a gross sum for fines on renewal, as well as portions; and are not controuled by apparent intention to preserve estate entire. Allan v. Backhouse, 2 V. & B. 65. AFFID. 1 Jac. 631. WILL, C. OF.

Devise of "profits" will pass land. Id. 74. WILL, C. OF, WHAT PASSES.

Account of rents and profits confined to six years, by analogy to the action for meane profits. Reade v. Reade, 5 Ves. 744. ACCOUNT.

In a doubtful case, an account of rents and profits directed only from the time of the filing of the bill. Forder v. Wade, 4 Bro. C. C. 521. Id.

Rents and profits of real estate descended, are to be accounted for, and applied before inheritance sold and applied. Rouse v. Hewis, Dick. 178.

Rents and profits undisposed of, belong to the owner of the inheritance, or persons entitled to the enjoyment. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Ves. 268. CA. TEMP. TALB. 44. TRUST, RESULTING.

Lands are limited by marriage settlement, upon failure of issue male, to the daughters of the marriage and their heirs, until the next remainder-man should pay them 3000l. there being four daughters only; they entered: decreed at the Rolls, they should account for the profits, and that the rents should be applied first to pay the interest, and then sink the principal, as in case of a common mortgage. Decree affirmed by the Ld. Chancellor, with this variation, that the principal should not sink till a third part was raised above the interest, and so again when another third part was raised. Blagrove v. Clunn, 2 Vern. 523. SETTLEMENT, C. OF.

REPAIRS.

Tenant for life choosing to reside in mansion-house, must submit to repairs done by himself. Hibbert v. Cooke, 1 S. & S. 552. TEN. FOR LIFE & REM.-MAN; MANSION.

The registered owners of ship are prima facie alone liable, though so registered without their knowledge. Exp. Mackell, 2 V. & B. 216. S. C. Rose, 447. SHIP REGISTRY.

Receivers and committees not to apply the trust fund in repairs to any considerable extent without a previous application. Upon a receiver's application to be allowed for repairs done, an inquiry was directed whether the repairs were reasonable. Att. Gen. v. Vigor, 12 Ves. 563. RECEIVERS.

An order specifically to repair the banks of a canal and stop gates, &c. refused. But, by injunction restraining defendant from impeding plaintiff from navigating, &c. by continuing to keep banks, &c. out of repair, &c. the effect of such former order was given. Lane v. Newdigate, 10 Ves. 192. INJON.; CANALS, &c.

Repairs made without previous order, though reported necessary, are not allowed to committee of lunatic's estate. Anon. id. 104. ALLOWANCE TO COMMITTEE OF LUNATIC.

Receiver is not to lay out money in repairs at his own discretion, but under circumstances an inquiry was directed, and the report stating that expenditure was for lasting benefit of estate, and by the direction of trustees, order for that allowance was made. Blunt v. Chithrow, 6 Ves. 799. PR. RECEIVER, DUTIES OF.

A mortgagee is not bound to keep up buildings in as good repair as he found them, if the length of time will account for their being worse. Russell v. Smith, 1 Anst. 96. MORTGAGEE.

REPRISES.

The word "reprises" being of uncertain signification, ought to be construed secundum subjectum materiam. Spelman has not the word in all his glossary, though it is explained in Blount's Law Dictionary, and in Cowell's Interpreter. Blundford v. Marlborough, 2 Atk. 545.

I. ITS INCIDENTS.

Survivorship may take place among executors. White v. Williams, 3 V. & B. 72. S.C. Coop. 58. EXOR.; SURVIVORSHIP.

Executors take the residue precisely in the same plight as residuary legatees would take it. Darson v. Clark, 15 Ves. 417. Affd. 18 Ves. 247. EXORS.

Probate conclusive as to the character of executor. The appointment of executor gives a joint interest in the residue, which not being severed, survives. Griffiths v. Hamilton, 12 Ves. 298. EXORS.; JOINT TENANCY; SURVIVORSHIP.

Residuary bequest construed to vest only as the property was received. Gaskell v. Harman, 6 Ves. 159. But see further as to the decree in this cause, 11 Ves. 489. Held, therefore, that the representatives of a deceased residuary legatee are entitled only to that part which was got in before his death. Id. 10. Innes v. Mitchell, id. 461. From this decree plaintiff appealed, when the Ld. Chancellor reversed that part of it which declares that the residuary property vested only as it was converted into money; his lordship holding that such an intention, (though if clearly expressed, must, notwithstanding its inconvenience, be executed,) was not the true construction of the whole will, and it is not to be collected unless clearly expressed. S.C. 11 Ves.; 489. INTEREST, WHEN IT VESTS; WILL, C. OF.

Distinction between a legacy and a residuary bequest as to a presumed satisfaction by the advancement of a portion. The presumption from the former does not arise from the latter, and parol evidence of an intention to satisfy cannot be admitted originally, as it may where first introduced to repel a presumption. Frémantle v. Bankes, 5 Ves. 79. LEGACY, SATISFACTION OF; PRESUMPTION; EVID.

Persons taking a residue as executors, take as joint tenants; therefore, if one die before severance, his share survives. Frazer v. Belfe, 2 Bro. C. C. 220. EXORS. JOINT TENANCY; SURVIVORSHIP.

On marriage, the husband covenanted that if the wife should survive him and there should be no issue, his executors should, within nine months after his death, pay to the wife 800*l.* for her own use, but if there should be issue, then the 800*l.* should be laid out by the trustees, and the interest paid to the wife for life, and after her death the principal divided amongst the children. There was no issue of the marriage. The husband, by will, bequeathed one moiety of certain articles of his personal estate to his wife, which moiety greatly exceeded in value the sum of 800*l.*: Held not a performance or satisfaction of the covenant in settlement. Gift of residue is never considered a satisfaction of a certain provision made for wife on marriage, although much more beneficial. Deves v. Pontet, 1 Cox, 188. MARRIAGE SETTLM., SATISFACTION OF.

II. WHAT CONSTITUTES AND PASSES AS.

A B bequeathed dividends of property in funds to C D for life, and directed that after his decease principal should be divided amongst his children in manner after mentioned. He then gave children certain sums of money which would have exhausted whole funded property at date of will. Between that time and A B's death, that property greatly increased: Held, executors entitled to surplus as undisposed of. Haynes v. Littlefear, 1 S. & S. 496. WILL, C. OF.

A bequest "to my two executors whom I appoint to this purpose (i. e. the performance of trusts of the will, in trust to see the above fulfilled), I bequeath ten guineas, together with all the rest and residue of my estate whether real or personal, wherever deposited after my funeral expences, &c. are paid by them, my executors." Held, that legacies lapsed fall into the general residue, and that one executor having died in the lifetime of the testator, the other executor, though he died shortly after the testator, and had done no act manifesting an intention to take upon himself the execution of the will, was entitled to the whole of such general residue. Parsons v. Saffery, 9 Price, 678. LAPSED LEGACIES; WILL, C. OF; EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

Where a residue is given to a valid purpose, it will fail with a prior or void purpose if not capable of being ascertained except by the execution of that void purpose. Limbrej v. Gurr, 6 Mad. 151. MORTMAIN; CHARITABLE USES.

Gift of the residue of a fund after the application of an undefined amount to a void charity, is void for uncertainty. Att. Gen. v. Hinnamam, 2 Jac. & W. 277. WILL, UNCERTAINTY; CHARITY.

Bequest of personal property held a general residuary disposition, although accompanied with expressions favouring a more limited construction, and pointing only to a surplus beyond property specifically mentioned. Blund v. Lamb, id. 399. WILL, C. OF.

Reasons for the rules on which a residuary bequest of personal estate is extended to that which testator subsequently acquires. Id. 405. Id.

Very special words required to confine a residuary bequest to property belonging to testator at date of his will. Id. ib.

The excess of accumulation prohibited by the stat. will form part of the residue of estate. Haley v. Bannister, 4 Mad. 277. ACCUMULATION.

A testator having bequeathed annuities issuing out of a leasehold estate to some annuitants for life, to some during the continuance of the fund, and to others indefinitely, with a general provision for an increase or diminution of the annuities, in proportion to the increased or diminished income of the estate; and a particular provision that, on the death of some of the annuitants for life, their portion should be paid to the survivors: the annuities given indefinitely are payable during the continuance of the fund, and the amount of annuities ceasing by the death of annuitants for life, not named in the particular provision, belongs not to the survivors, but forms part of the residue. Huck v. Tuck, 3 Swan. 270. WILL, C. OF.

A testator having, by his will, directed his execution to transfer 500*l.*, part of his residuary estate, to H N, and made a specific disposition of the other parts, and having afterwards drawn a pen through the name of H N, and by a codicil declared that he razed her name out of his will with his own hand; the 500*l.* belongs as undisposed of to his next of kin. The costs of ascertaining the right to that sum paid thereout in exemption of the general residue. Skrumsher v. Northcote, 1 Swan. 566. WILL, C. OF; LEGACY, ADEMPMENT OF.

Construction of a residuary devise, as including under the general words "estate and effects," a copyhold not surrendered in favour of a younger son subject to debts, the will reciting that the eldest son was provided for, and no freehold estate. Pennington v. Pennington, 1 V. & B. 406. COPYHOLD; WILL, C. OF.

General residuary disposition of real and personal estate not hereinbefore specifically disposed of, held to comprehend specific legacies lapsed; the words "specifically disposed of" held to comprehend specific legacies lapsed, the word specifically being construed particularly. Roberts v. Cook, 16 Ves. 450. WILL, C. OF; LEGACIES LAPSED.

Construction of a residuary claim as comprehending a legacy given upon a contingency which did not happen. Bird v. Le Fevre, 15 Ves. 589. WILL, C. OF.

Testator gave all his estate and effects to two persons, their heirs, executors, &c., upon trust in the first place to pay, and charged and chargeable with all his debts and funeral expences, and the legacies after given. Those persons, whether they could claim in their individual characters or not, being afterwards appointed executors, held entitled to the residue, undisposed of (including a legacy to a charity void by the stat. 9 Geo. 2. c. 36.) for their own benefit, against the claim of the next of kin, the whole property being personal. Dawson v. Clark, 15 Ves. 409. Affd. 18 Ves. 247. WILL, C. OF; EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

The general residue of personal property comprehends every thing, not otherwise effectually disposed of; and no difference whether a legacy falls into it by lapse, or as void at law: the next of kin, therefore, excluded by an express bequest of the residue. Dawson v. Clark, 15 Ves. 416. Affd. 18 Ves: 247.

Trust of an annuity for a charity charged upon a devised estate being void under the act 9 G. 2. c. 36. does not pass by a residuary disposition, but sinks for the benefit of the specific devisees. Baker v. Hall, 12 Ves. 497. MORTMAIN; TRUST, VOID; DEVISEE; TRUST, RESULTING.

The words "what remains" at the close of a bequest of a specific fund, held a general residuary disposition: the full sense not being necessarily confined; comprising, therefore, personal estate bequeathed upon a contingency too remote, not being to take place until thirty years after the testator's death. Crook v. De Vandes, 11 Ves. 330. WILL, C. OF.

Residuary clause passes all personal property that is not disposed of, as by lapse, construed upon the particular expressions to have been separated, and now intended to pass with the residue. Cambridge v. Rous, 8 Ves. 13. Id.

A leasehold house, the bequest of which being to a charity, fails, passes under a general disposition of the residue, and does not belong to the next of kin as undisposed of. Shanley v. Baker, 4 Ves. 732.

A legacy out of the produce of a copyhold estate directed to be sold, failing, was held to pass by the residuary clause against the heir, the object being a general conversion out and out. Kennell v. Abbott, 4 Ves. 892. LEGACY LAPSED; HEIR AT LAW.

Resulting trust for the heir at law as to the produce of the sale of real estate not exhausted by a trust in which it was combined with the personal. Robinson v. Taylor, 1 Ves. J. 44. RESULTING TRUST; HEIR AT LAW.

Bequest of all other unbequeathed goods and chattels, notwithstanding a subsequent bequest to the same person of debts due to the testator. Bennett v. Hatchellor, 1 Ves. J. 63. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 28. WILL, C. OF.

No difference between a lapse and what is not disposed of, except for construing intention. Id. 1 Ves. J. 67. 3 Bro. C. C. 28. Id.

Real and personal by will to be sold, legacies, &c. therewith to be paid, residue by fifths to five persons. One dies before testator, held to be real estate to heir of testator. Digby v. Lingard, Dick. 500.

Residue under particular circumstances will not take in lapsed legacies, the residue being given as a small remainder of about 100*l.*, and the lapsed legacies amounting to 20,000*l.* In general, the residue takes in lapsed legacies: as to real estates it is otherwise. But the legatee must be a general legatee. Att. Gen. v. Johnstone, Ambl. 577. 580. LAPSED LEGACY; WILL, C. OF.

A being possessed of a bond for 1400*l.*, deposits it in the hands of B, who signs a proper acknowledgment for the same. A afterwards assigns this bond to B, and takes his promissory note for the value, but the note was never paid. A, by his will, gives several legacies, and appoints B and another executor; but makes no disposition of the residue of his estate: Held, that the money due on this bond is part of the residue, and shall go to the executors equally, and that B's note is not such a debt as can be extinguished by his being made an executor. Decree affirmed, except as to costs. Matthew v. Fitz Simon, 4 Bro. P. C. 11. EXOR.; BOND; EXTINGUISHMENT OF DEBT.

If devise of land is revoked or does not take place, the land does not pass by the residuary clause. Watson v. Lincoln, Ambl. 328.

Residuary bequest of personalty includes every thing; as a void or lapsed legacy. Durour v. Motteux, 1 Ves. 320.

Though not at law, yet in equity a man may die partly testate and partly intestate; but when a whole residue is given, it is a contradiction to say any part of that estate is undisposed of; and if a personal estate is increased by any event after the testator's death, it is a part of the residue, and will pass as such, and so will the interest of that residue, for that interest is assets and part of the estate. Green v. Ekins, 2 Atk. 475. 3 P. W. 306. Vide Héath v. Perry, 3 Atk. 102. (n. 1.)

Devise of lands to his executors to be sold, and thereout to pay 500*l.* to A if he return from beyond sea, and the residue to B. A died before testator. This 500*l.* legacy being given on a contingency that never happened, is as no legacy, and falls into the residue; otherwise if it had been an absolute legacy of 500*l.* Sprigg v. Sprigg, 2 Vern. 394. AFFECT OF ASSETS.

III. WHO TAKE.

Executors having equal legacies for care, are trustees of residue for next of kin. Gibbs v. Ramsey, 2 V. & B. 294. S. P. Southouse v. Bate, 2 V. & B. 396. EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

No instance of an issue upon the question between executor and next of kin as to the residue. Walton v. Walton, 14 Ves. 323. ISSUE AT LAW; EXECUTOR; NEXT OF KIN.

Under a residuary disposition to the testator's right heirs on the part of his mother, his sister, and a nephew by a deceased sister, were held entitled against remoter relations claiming on the ground of an express provision, by an annuity for the separate use of the sister. Forster v. Sierra, 4 Ves. 766. WILL. C. OF WHO ENTITLED.

Testator gave certain leasehold houses in trust for A, absolutely for her separate use; and other leasehold houses in trust for B for her separate use for her life; and after her decease for her children; if none, to fall into the residue: and he gave the residue in trust for A and B to be divided between them, share and share alike; and to be paid and applied in like manner for their use and benefit, as the rents and profits of the leasehold premises herein before settled upon them; and their receipts to be a sufficient discharge. The reference in the residuary clause is not to the interest of A and B in the houses, but to the provision that they shall take for their separate use: therefore they take the residue absolutely. Thauley v. Baker, 4 Ves. 732. WILL. C. OF.

Residue unbequeathed, codicil disposing of it, but with blanks for names, &c. not filled up and unexecuted, found with the will and contradictory evidence of intent; executor having a specific legacy, trustee for the next of kin. Nourse v. Finch, 1 Ves. J. 344. EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

Legacies in grandchildren then in existence by name, to sons at twenty-three, daughters at twenty-one, mesne interest for education, surplus to accumulate with survivorship; residue for all the grand children generally for their benefit "as aforesaid." by codicil a fund set apart to pay life annuities. Grandchildren born after testator's death, not entitled to a share of the residue into which the fund under the codicil falls, after the purpose answered. Hill v. Chapman, 1 Ves. J. 405. WILL. C. OF.

Where a man gives his wife a legacy of £300, which he declares to be his own money, and makes her executor, but makes no disposition of the residue of his estate, this legacy shall not exclude her from being entitled to such residue. Both the decrees of the Lord Chancellor reversed. Lawson v. Lawson, 4 Bro. P. C. 21. EXECUTOR, BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

Residue, if nothing given to them, and no intention evident to the contrary, belongs to executors. Wilson v. Wombell. DICK, 477.

A legacy to the next of kin does not exclude him from taking the residue. Att. Gen. v. Parkin, Amb. 568. NEXT OF KIN.

A gives all his personal estate to trustees in trust, to pay interest to wife during widowhood, but on her second marriage, to pay her an annuity of £110 for life; and in that case he gave residue to P, but made no disposition of it in case wife remained a widow. Wife remained widow; representatives of son who died after twenty-one in mother's life time, held entitled to residue. Jeffreys v. Reynors, 6 Bro. P. C. 398. affd. 2 Eden, 365. WILL. C. OF, WHO TAKE.

A by his will gives the residue of his estate to three of his children, share and share alike, as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants. But by a codicil he revoked his daughter M from being one of his residuary legatees, and in lieu thereof, gave her a pecuniary legacy. This third shall go to the testator's next of kin, and does not belong to the two other residuary legatees as such. Chestyn v. Crosswell, 3 Bro. P. C. 246. EXORS. OF ASSETS; WILL. C. OF.

Where testatrix by will directed a sum of money to be laid out in land, and settled after some previous limitations, on her own right heirs, and afterwards made a general residuary devise of all her real and personal estate: held, that upon the evident intent of the testatrix to exclude the residuary devise, the heir at law was entitled to a remainder in fee in the lands to be purchased. Robinson v. Knight, 2 Eden. 155. WILL. C. OF.

Executor at law takes the whole personal estate subject to debts and legacies, but in this court he is trustee of the residue for the next of kin. Humphrey v. Tayleur, Amb. 137. S. C. 1 Dick. 161. EXECUTOR.

A by his will gives several legacies to his children, and appoints his two eldest sons joint executors; but makes no express disposition of the residue of his personal estate. Held, that this residue belongs to the executors as joint tenants; and that one of them having died without making any severance, the whole survives to the other. Hall v. Digby, 4 Bro. P. C. 577. JOINT TENANCY.

When a legacy is left to one of two executors, neither of them is thereby excluded from the surplus of the personal estate undisposed of. And though there have been a variety of opinions and some different determinations, touching the residue of personal estates not expressly bequeathed by will, yet it has never been carried so far as to exclude two executors, by reason of a legacy given only to one of them. Decree affirmed. Mason v. Hankins, 4 Bro. P. C. 7. EXECUTOR BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

B made his wife executrix, and devised to her the use of his table-plate for life, and after, to C his grandson; but made no disposition of the surplus of his personal estate. Parol evidence was admitted, that the testator intended his wife should have the surplus to her own use; it being only to rebut the construction of a court of equity, which would create a resulting trust, and make the executrix a mere trustee for the next of kin. Ds. Beaufort v. Ly. Granville, 3 Bro. P. C. 37. WILL. C. OF.

J devised to A & B (his wife's children as he called them, not owning them to be his) 10s. a piece and "no more," and gave the children he owned considerable legacies. He then devised to executors, but did not mention the devise to be for their care, &c. Held that executors did not take the surplus beneficially, but that A and B should have a share with the other children in the distribution. Vachell v. Brettton, 5 Bro. P. C. 51. WILL. C. OF; EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

IV. RESIDUARY LEGATEES AND DEVISEES.

A residuary legatee cannot have writ of ne exeat regno against a debtor of the testator, on the ground that he colludes with the executor. Graves v. Griffith, 1 Jac. & W. 646. PR. WRIT. NE EXEAT. REGNO.

Residuary legatees not necessary parties to suit against executors. Brown v. Douthwaite, 1 Mad. 446. PARTIES.

A residuary legatee has not such an interest as to prevent his becoming himself a purchaser of premises sold under a decree in the cause. Hooper v. Goodwin, Coop. 95. FRAUD FID. SIT.

Generally a residuary legatee must bring before the court all persons interested in the residue; exception, where not necessary or convenient. Cockburn v. Thompson, 16 Ves. 328. PL. PARTIES.

Where court can be satisfied that the fund is clear allowance for maintenance, will be allowed, pending the account, to the residuary legatee; not if an accounting party. Wharter v. —, 13 Ves. 92. INFANT, MAINTENANCE PENDENTE LITE.

Residuary legatee need not be a party to a bill for specific legacy. Wainwright v. Waterman, 1 Ves. J. 311. PL. PARTY.

All residuary devisees must be parties. Parsons v. Neville, 3 Bro. C. C. 365. PL. PARTY.

In a bill against the executor either by creditors or legatees, it is not necessary to make the residuary legatee a party. Lawson v. Barker, 1 Bro. C. C. 303. PL. PARTY.

A residuary legatee, on a deficiency of assets, allowed to come in pari passu with the other legatees, by reason of the special circumstances of the case. Dyose v. Dyose, 1 P. W. 305. ADMON. OF ASSET.

Satisfaction of a mortgage to be presumed after twenty years possession by the mortgagor, without payment of interest, demand, or acknowledgment. Semble. Christophers v. Sparke, 2 Jac. & W. 223. MORTGAGE; LENGTH OF TIME.

Land not a satisfaction for money, nor money for land, not being ejusdem generis. Bengough v. Walker, 15 Ves. 512.

On presumption of satisfaction by will, evidence admissible, first to constitute fact that testator was debtor, and secondly to meet or fortify the presumption. Pole v. Ld. Somers, 6 Ves. 321. WILL, C. OF; EVIDENCE.

There is no general rule in this court for presuming a mortgage satisfied after twenty years, or any other period of time elapsing without payment or demand of principal or interest; and if a jury should on that ground presume the bond satisfied, which is given as a collateral security to the mortgage, the mortgagee is not thereby prevented from shewing the truth of the case in this court, if in fact the money has not been paid. Toptis v. Baker, 2 Cox, 119. LENGTH OF TIME; MORTGAGE.

Where a husband, by settlement before marriage, was obliged to do a particular act for his wife's benefit, and he does a thing equally satisfactory, the court will presume a satisfaction by implication. Weyland v. Weyland, 2 Atk. 632. HUSBAND & WIFE.

The presumption of satisfaction is stronger in the case of a deed than of a will, where a bounty is supposed to be intended. S. C. 2 Atk. 634.

Court will not, from length of time, presume judgment to be satisfied. Kemys v. Ruscomb, 2 Atk. 46. LENGTH OF TIME; JUDGMENT.

So of a rent-charge. Stackhouse v. Barnston, 6 Ves. 467.

Money and lands being things of a different kind, the one though of greater value shall never be taken in satisfaction of the other, unless so expressed; whatever is given by a will is prima facie to be intended a benevolence. Eastwood v. Vinke, 2 P. W. 616.

SCOTLAND.

Injunction to restrain proceedings in the court of session in Scotland, dissolved under the circumstances. Kennedy v. El. Cassilis, 2 Swan. 313. PR. INJUNCTION TO STAY PROCEEDINGS; JURISDICTION.

Whether property is to be administered according to the English or Scottish notions of equity, is dependant on the national character of the parties, and the property to be affected by the decree. Id. 321. JURISDICTION.

The court of session is a court of law and of equity. Id. ib. COURT OF SESSION.

Residuary estate bequeathed to the minister and church officers of a parish in Scotland, for charitable purposes, was directed to be invested in stock, in the name of the accountant general, and the dividends to be paid from time to time to the minister and church officers of the parish; but the courts of Scotland having jurisdiction to administer the charity, an order confirming the master's report, in approbation of a scheme, was reversed. Att. Gen. v. Lepine, 2 Swan, 181. JURISDICTION; CHARITY.

Decree establishing a charity in Scotland. S. C. 17 Ves. 309. Id.

The assignment under an English commission of bankrupt vests in the assignees and without the necessity of intimation, the whole of the bankrupt's personal property in Scotland, and all subsequent diligence, by any Scotch or other creditor, is thereby precluded. Selkrig v. Davies, 2 Rose, 97. 291. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT, WHAT PASSES.

The Scotch acts of sequestration, many of which passed since the Union, support the general principle, passing all the property of a bankrupt to his assignees. Exp. Cridland, 3 V. & B. 100. PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Scotland out of jurisdiction of court. Stevenson v. Anderson, 2 V. & B. 407.

A certificate obtained under an English commission, operates as a discharge of the debts of Scotch creditors proveable under commission. Bk. of Scotland v. Cuthbert, 1 Rose, 462. BANKCY. CERTIFICATE.

A commission of bankrupt, vests in the assignees under it, all the property of the bankrupt, wherever situate; precluding creditors in Scotland from attaching by sequestration, their debtor's property remaining or situate in that country, and from administering it in a course of distribution, under such process of sequestration. Id. ib. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT, WHAT PASSES.

Legacy to be laid out in land in Scotland, in a charity, established, being within the exception of the stat. 9 Geo. 2. c. 36. Mackintosh v. Townsend, 16 Ves. 330. MORTMAIN.

Scotland is out of jurisdiction of court, and therefore witness going there may be examined de bene esse. Botts v. Verelst, Dick. 454.

Though England and Scotland be now one kingdom, yet the writ of ne exeat regno has not been altered since the Union. It was originally a state writ. Qu. Whether, in the common form, and security given thereupon, it can restrain the party from going into Scotland. Hunter v. Macraury, Forbes. 196. ## 1. WHERE ORDERED GENERALLY, & WHAT SUFFICIENT.

See also LEGACY, X.—PR. COSTS, 6.

In equity the court will not make an order to stay proceedings, until security be given for the costs, upon the ground of the plaintiff being about to leave the country. Willis v. Garbutt, 1 V. & J. 511.

It is not the habit of the court to direct security to be given for the result of an account. Nerut v. Bernard, 2 Russ. 56. ACCOUNT.

Husband and wife defendants, husband without order for title to answer separate, puts in answer separate, stating wife not to live with him, and he had no controul, &c. He being taken on an attachment for want of wife's answer, ordered to be discharged, and wife to answer separate and indemnify husband as to costs. Garey v. Whittingham, 1 S. & S. 163. HUSB. & WIFE; PR. ANSWER; PR. COSTS.

Testator having directed annuity to be paid out of his personal estate, a sum of five per cent. stock, was, in the course of the cause, ordered to be set apart as security. Fund becoming insufficient by reduction of five per cent. to four per cent. deficiency, was directed to be supplied out of another fund, to which other persons interested in residue had been declared entitled. Davies v. Wattier, 1 S. & S. 463. INVESTMENT; ANNUITY.

Legacy to father, on condition he would not interfere with daughter's education. On bill for legacy, court ordered security and directed costs out of legacy. Colston v. Morris, 6 Mad. 89. CONDITION, SUBSEQUENT; LEGACY, CONDITIONAL.

An order directing security to be given, omitted to direct all proceedings meanwhile to be stayed; a motion of course obtained in the mean time, was held to be regular; but in future, all such orders are to direct proceedings in meanwhile to be stayed. Fox v. Blew, 5 Mad. 147. PR. ORDER TO STAY PROCEEDINGS.

Vendor having lost title deeds, agrees to give real security for title: held, that personal security is not sufficient, and that he must purchase real estate for that purpose. Walker v. Barnes, 3 Mad. 247. TITLE; VEND. & PURCH.; SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

The investment of trust money on personal security is a breach of trust. Walker v. Symonds, 3 Swan. 63. INVESTMENT; BREACH OF TRUST.

Interpleader; all the defendant's but one residing out of the jurisdiction in Scotland. The plaintiff, after a reasonable time having used due diligence to bring them in, being decreed to give up the subject to the only defendant appearing, protected afterwards against the others by injunction and order, that service on the attorney should be good. Stevenson v. Anderson, 2 V. & B. 407. JURISDICTION; PL. INTERPLEADER.

Order for security under supplicavit, on articles exhibited by wife against husband, under 2 Jac. 1. c. 8. Heyn's Case, 2 V. & B. 182. PR. SUPPLICAVIT; ARTICLES OF PEACE; HUSB. & WIFE.

After the order permitting the defendant to rehear the decree made on his default, setting aside the charity case, and directing an account of the rents, he was ordered to give security for the sum reported due. Att. Gen. v. Bracke, 18 Ves. 496. PR. REHEARING.

Settlement of stock to the separate use of a married woman for life, and after her death for her husband absolutely: decree upon the bill of the husband and wife for a transfer to him upon his personal security. Cheslyn v. Smith, 8 Ves. 183. HUSB. & WIFE; TENANT FOR LIFE.

On sale of estate, part of the consideration was to be an annuity, but it was not settled how it should be secured; the court ordered it to be secured on the estate as well as by bond and judgment, which latter was the mode proposed by purchaser. Remington v. Deverall, 2 Anst. 550. PURCHASE.

Tenant for life let into possession on consent, and giving security to pay charges payable out of rents and profits, and to keep down interest of the fund to answer contingent charges. Blake v. Bunbury, 1 Ves. J. 514. 4 Bro. C. C. 21. TENANT FOR LIFE; DELIVERY OF POSSESSION; INCUMBRANCES.

Tenant for life subject to a trust term, not let into possession before account till the trust is executed, unless on paying into court a sum sufficient to answer it, or where the best way of performing the trust appears to be by letting him into possession. S. C. 194. TENANT FOR LIFE; CHARGE ON ESTATE.

Manager of estate in West Indies is not to give security faithfully to manage; only to account. Ordered to account for produce, and to consign so far as the management requires it; but must have a discretion as to what to be applied there. Morris v. Elme, 1 Ves. J. 139. MANAGER OF WEST INDIA ESTATE.

Where annuity given by will payable out of residue, part thereof was ordered to be appropriated for the purpose; but executors not directed to give security. Stanway v. Styles, 2 Eq. Ab. 246. APPROPRIATION OF FUND; ANNUITY.

An executor is under no obligation to give security, nor is it usual for a court of equity to compel him to give any security, unless upon affidavit of insolvency or misconduct. But where an executrix appointed guardian of three children by her first husband, marries a second husband, in necessitous circumstances the court will appoint a receiver. Dillon v. L. Mount-Cashell, 4 Bro. P. C. 312. EXECUTOR; PR. RECEIVER.

A man makes a deed-poll for payment of an annuity, and after by will subjects his estate to the payment of it; he shall have further security, and not rest on the deed-poll. Grenon v. Rawson, Sel. Ch. Ca. 57.

One by will gives an annuity out of his personal estate; if the executor has misbehaved himself, the court will order part of the personal estate to be set aside to secure this annuity. Batten v. Earnley, 2 P. W. 163. ANNUITY BY WILL.

A, by will, gives portions to his daughters, but mentions no time when to be paid, but adds a proviso, that his daughters should marry with consent of his wife, and if any married without such consent, her portions to go over; on a bill brought by the daughters for their portions, the court decreed the portions to be paid, but on security to refund if the consideration should be broken. Aston v. Aston, 2 Vern. 452. 1 Ch. Rep. 164. PR. Ch. 226. S. C. WILL, C. OF; PORTIONS, PAYMENT OF; CONSIDERATION SUBSEQUENT.

One covenants on marriage articles to pay 1000*l.* within six months after his death, and after growing old and infirm, covenantee would have obliged him to have given security; but the court held, that they could not alter this agreement of the parties, or make it better than they themselves had; and though executors might be obliged to give better security for legacies payable in future, that is because they are in nature of trustees, and there is no agreement one way or another. Warrington v. Langham, Prec. Chan. 89. COVENANT.

Bill to bring one who lived out of the jurisdiction of London to come in and give security for orphan's portions; Ld. Keeper decreed plaintiffs to try the custom. London Corp. v. Slaughter, 1 Ch. Ca. 203. CUSTOM OF LONDON; JURISDICTION.

II. EXTENT AND EXTENSION OF.

A security for a separate demand does not extend to a joint demand. Exp. Freen, 2 G. & J. 246.

The interest of partners as tenants in common, where the estate was purchased out of the joint property, and mortgaged by the firm for a joint debt, is a joint security. Id. 250. PARTNERSHIP.

An agreement by way of deposit of title deeds, with a firm of five, one of whom was a nominal partner only, extended by subsequent agreement to the actual partnership of four. Exp. Alexander, 1 G. & J. 409. See S. C. further, 2 G. & J. 275.

Where title deeds are deposited by way of security with a firm, upon a verbal agreement, the deposit may be extended by a subsequent verbal agreement for the security of a new sum, upon a change of partners. Exp. Lloyd, 1 G. & J. 389.

Merchants in London agreeing to become sureties for a West India planter, on being secured by a conveyance of his plantation, in trust, with a covenant that they should be continued as consignees till the expiration of five years after the reimbursement of what they might advance; held entitled to the benefit of this covenant. Whether a covenant to continue a mortgagee as consignee after payment of the debt, is valid; Qu.? Bunbury v. Winter, 1 Jac. & W. 255. COVENANT; CONSIGNEE; W. INDIA ESTATES.

A mortgagee having advanced to the mortgagor a further sum upon his bond: Held, that the bond though obscurely worded, was evidence of an agreement for a further charge upon the mortgaged premises. Exp. Hearn, Buck. 165. BOND; EVIDENCE; MORTGAGE.

A security to a firm continued after an alteration in the members of it, upon the construction of a letter, raising an agreement to that effect. Exp. Marsh, 2 Rose, 239. AGREEMENT.

Equitable mortgage by deposit of deeds extended beyond original purpose, to advances subsequent by implication or parol. Exp. Kensington, 2 V. & B. 79. S. C. Coop. 66. EQUITABLE MORTGAGE.

A borrows 4000*l.* from B, and deposits title deeds as a security for that sum. He afterwards obtains further advances, and after an act of bankruptcy, signs an agreement subjecting the deposit to such further advances. B declared to be entitled to a lien of the whole amount. Exp. Langston, 1 Rose, 26. BANKCY. LIEN.

A security bond for a deputy post-master, for three years, shall extend further; but sensible, if the arrears had been paid up at the end of three years, the surety might have been relieved. Williams v. Jones, Bunb. 275.

A bond given as a security for a collector of customs, does not extend to a subsequent duty on coals, where the collector had a new deputation, and gave security for the duty on coals. Bartlett v. Att. Gen. Parker, 277. So held, where no security was given on the second deputation. Bowlage v. Att. Gen. id. 278.

III. WAIVER AND LOSS OF.

See PRIN. & SURETY.

Where creditor takes from debtor assignment of debt due from third person, as a security for his own demand, and by his wilful default the debt becomes irrecoverable, he must bear the loss. Williams v. Price, 1 S. & S. 581. DEBTOR & CRED.; LACHES.

Solicitor's lien is superseded by taking a security. Baldwin Symes, 1 Turn. & R. 92. See Tyler v. Drayton, 2 S. & S. 309. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN.

In accommodation of C, J accepted bill drawn by R, which was given by C to B, as security for loan. Before it became due, J became bankrupt; R never paid the amount, but by substituting another bill obtained the former from B. Held, R should not prove amount of bill under J's commission. Exp. Hunter, 5 Mad. 165. Affirmed, 2 G. & J. 7. See this case, 3 Mad. 117. 1 G. & J. 9. BANKCY. PROOF IN; ACCOMMODATION BILLS.

Estates being conveyed, among other purposes, to secure a debt of comparatively small amount, the court will not direct a release upon payment into court of the largest sum to which the debt can in probability amount; the incumbrancer being entitled to retain the security till the debt is discharged. Postlethwaite v. Blythe, 2 Swan, 256. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

Specialty security not waived by a promissory note, taken for the balance of the account of interest. Curtis v. Rush, 2 V. & B. 416.

Solicitor's lien on papers superseded by taking security. Cowell v. Simpson, 16 Ves. 275. SOL. & CLIENT; LIEN.

IV. SALE AND ASSIGNMENT OF.

Joint creditor having separate security from one of his co-debtors, admitted to prove his debt, against the joint estate, without surrender or sale of his security. Exp. Peacock, 2 G. & J. 27. BANKCY. JOINT & SEP. CRED.

A trader having given to a creditor an order on the executor of her debtor to pay the debt to the creditor, and the executor having received the order, and retained it until the assets of the testator should enable him to pay simple contract debts, and the trader having become bankrupt before payment, the creditor was entitled to receive the amount of the order from the executor, notwithstanding a subsequent assent of the trader. Exp. South, 3 Swan, 392. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Injunction to restrain the negotiation of bills of exchange, void in their creation. Lloyd v. Gordon and Chaintee, 2 Swan, 180. INJUNCTION; BILL OF EXCHANGE.

Where the grantee of lands, subject to a limited power of redemption, has not all the remainder of a mortgage, the conveyance is not a mortgage, but a conditional sale. Goodman v. Grierson, 2 Ball & B. 274. DEEDS, C. OF.

Not necessary for tenant for life to take assignment from creditors of a charge on the estate which he paid off, in order to keep it alive. Reddington v. Reddington, 1 Ball & B. 142. PAYING OFF INCUMBRANCES; TEN. FOR LIFE.

Stock transferred as a security for a floating balance, and under an agreement to continue it transferred and re-transferred by and to the creditor by way of loan, held a sale. Exp. Dennison, 3 Ves. 552.

Sale of a share of a ship is good without actual delivery. Whether an executory agreement for the sale of a ship, must recite the registry, under the 26 G. 3. c. 60. s. 170. Qu.? Addis v. Baker, 1 Anst. 222. SHIP.

A, having borrowed 30,000*l.* of B, transferred to him 14,000*l.* E. I. stock, by way of pledge for the repayment of the money so borrowed; and B agreed that he would not sell any part of the stock, until after the expiration of one year from that time. Notwithstanding this agreement, B sold the stock on the very same day. Held, that he was answerable for the money received by such sale, with interest. André v. Crawford, 1 Bro. P. C. 366. ACCOUNT.

Where one executor is indebted to testator by mortgage, if the co-executors are apprehensive he is insolvent, they should bring bill against him for sale of estate; to pray foreclosure would be improper. Lucas v. Scate, 2 Atk. 56. MORTGAGE; EXORS.

Account charged for all monies received on sale of pledge of stock, notwithstanding day of redemption had passed; it not appearing defendant had stock sufficient at the day. Harrison v. Hart, 1 Com. 393. ACCOUNT.

A, having borrowed of B 1100*l.*, gave bond for it, and as collateral security deposited with him a subscription receipt of the S. S. Company, No. 195, for 600*l.*, with liberty to sell in case default should be made in payment of debt. Before bond became payable, B sold receipt for 2700*l.*, but pretended it was another receipt. On bill to discover which receipt it was B sold, it being by issue found to be that deposited by A, account was decreed for difference, with interest and costs. Tutt v. Mercer, 2 Bro. P. C. 563. ACCOUNT.

Exchequer annuities were assigned by way of mortgage, for securing 5000*l.* and interest. The money not being paid, the mortgagee (after repeated notice to the executor of the mortgagor, and demand of his money), sold the annuities on exchange at the market-place. Held, that this was a good sale, and that there was no necessity of previously foreclosing the equity of redemption. Wilson v. Tucker, 5 Bro. P. C. 193. MORTGAGE.

The principal in a bond being arrested, gave bail and judgment is had against the bail. On a bill by the sureties who had been sued on the original bond, and paid the money decreed, the judgment against the bail to be assigned to them, in order to reimburse them what they had paid, with interest and costs. Parsons v. Bridgock, 2 Vern. 608. PRIN. & SURETY.

V. REDEMPTION AND RE-TRANSFER OF.

A invests in name of trustees stock as security for B against certain payments. Stock remains uncalled upon for length of time. A cannot have it invested in himself, but dividends ordered in future to be paid to A. Linton v. Hyde, 2 Mad. 94. TRUST.

Bank notes, though always regarded by common usage, as cash, cannot be considered as a security for money. Southcot v. Watson, 3 Atk. 233.

One for £300 grants a rent of £60 per annum for seven years; whether redeemable. Furcet v. Bowers, 2 Vern. 287.

Plaintiff for £80 conveys an estate absolutely to the defendant and brings a bill to redeem; defendant insists the conveyance was absolute, but confesses that after the £80 paid with interest it was to be in trust for the plaintiff's wife and children. Plaintiff replies to the answer, and no proof of the trust, yet decreed the trust for the benefit of the wife and children. Hampton v. Spencer, 2 Vern. 287.

A, for £500, makes an absolute assignment of a lease for three lives to B, and B by a writing under his hand agrees that if A pays B £600 at the end of the year, B will reconvey. B dies, leaving C his son and heir. Money was not paid, and two of the lives die, and the lease is twice renewed, yet redemption decreed on payment of the £500, and the two fines with interest, and during the life of B. the profits to be set against the interest of the £500. Munroe v. Bale, 2 Vern. 84. CONDON. BREACH, WHEN RELIEVED.

Conusee of a judgment extends the lands of the conusor upon an elegit; conusor grants over the reversion without notice of the judgment and extent; the grantee may bring a bill to redeem the conusee, though at a great distance of time, and though a former bill for the same purpose was dismissed. Clobery v. Symonds, 1 Vern. 397. 2 Ch. Rep. 392. JUDGMENT.

What circumstances may induce the court to make an absolute conveyance redeemable or not. Where there is a clause or provision in the conveyance, for the vendor to repurchase, the time limited for that purpose ought to be precisely observed. Barrell v. Sabine, 1 Vern. 268, 269. See 3 Salk. 241. CONDON.

A rent-charge of £20 granted in consideration of £240, redeemable on repayment of the consideration to the grantee's heirs, within a year after notice of the death of his wife, ceases on repayment of the sum stipulated to his executors, the conveyance being considered as a security for money. *Stokes v. To a bill of foreclosure against the principal mortgagor, the mortgagor of another estate, as a collateral security, is a necessary party. Stokes v. Clendon, 3 Swan. 150. PL. PARTY.

T was devisee of an estate which had been mortgaged to A by the testator, which mortgage carried interest at five per cent. S joined in an assignment of the mortgage from A to B, discharged from the former promise of redemption, and subject to redemption on payment of principal and interest at the rate of four per cent. only, and S covenanted for payment of such principal and interest. Afterwards S agreed to raise the interest to five per cent., and covenanted to pay interest at that rate; then S died, leaving an arrear of interest due on the mortgage. This not being originally the debt of S, his covenants are only collateral, and his personal estate is not primarily liable to discharge any part, either of principal or interest due on the mortgage. Shafte v. Shafte, 1 Cox. 207. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Interest may be carried beyond the penalty, where the bond is only taken as a collateral security. By marriage articles the lady's father was to pay her portion at different times and in different sums, towards disincumbering the husband's estate; the father advanced money to the husband, and also maintained the wife and child for some years. The money so advanced, together with an allowance for the maintenance, shall be added to the foot of the account; but shall not carry interest. Kirrane v. Blake, 4 Bro. P. C. 532. INTEREST; BOND.

A being indebted to B in a sum of £1000, executed a bond to him for securing that amount and interest. B subsequently died, having made his will, and appointed C and D his executors and residuary legatees; an apportionment of B's residuary estate being made, the bond is allotted to C as part of his share; C being the steward of A, and having a running account with him enters the bond in that account; C dies intestate; leaving a widow who takes out administration to his estate, and also administration de bonis non to B, and as such last mentioned administratrix, she files a bill as a specialty creditor against the representatives of A. Held, that in this suit the representatives of A could not make a set-off against the demand in respect of sums which they alleged to have been omitted or improperly charged in the account of C; but must file a cross bill. Settlement of sum of money, in trust to be transferred to surviving parent for the benefit of him or her, and any of child or children of the marriage. Held, upon construction of whole instrument, that surviving parent took for life, with remainder to children. Chambers v. Atkins, 1 S. & S. 382. ESTATE FOR LIFE.

By a marriage settlement, containing the usual limitations, the husband, having a life estate in reversion, expectant upon the death of his father, was empowered, when in possession under the limitations of the settlement, to revoke, &c., as to so much and to such part of the premises conveyed, "as shall be then in possession of any one or more tenants, by virtue of any one or more lease or leases, whereon a rent of rents, not exceeding 300*l*. by the year in the whole, shall be reserved, &c. so as there shall not, at the time of such revocation, be less than twenty years, or three lives, unexpired of such lease or leases." The clause of the settlement conferring the power, concluded with a declaration, that it was the true intent and meaning of the parties, that the husband should, at any time during his life, after he should come into, and be in the actual possession of, the premises, (settled), have absolute power and dominion over so much thereof as should be of the clear yearly value of 300*l*. sterling, and be at full liberty to dispose of the same in such manner, and to such uses and purposes, as he should think proper. The husband, (donee of the power), after the death of his father, when he was in possession under the trusts of the settlement, by a deed of revocation, purporting to be an execution of the power, and reciting that certain lands therein specified then produced a clear yearly rent of 300*l*. or thereabouts, revoked the uses of the settlement as to those lands, and appointed the same in trust for him, (the donee) his heirs, and assigns. Afterwards the donee died, indebted to an amount exceeding the value of the lands so appointed, and having no other estate or effects. By his will, duly attested, and reciting his title and power to dispose of the lands specified in the deed of revocation and appointment, he devised to trustees his right and interest therein, upon trust, to sell the same, and out of the purchase money to pay his debts, &c. The lands revoked, appointed, and devised, except a very small part to the value of 8*l*. a year, were not (as recited in the deed of revocation) under lease at the time of the appointment by that deed, nor at the date of the will: but, in a suit instituted in behalf of creditors and legatees to carry the trusts of the will into execution, it was found, and reported by the officer of the court, that the lands so appointed and devised were of the value of 300*l*. a year. By the decree in that suit, the will was established, and the revocation and appointment held valid; and, upon appeal to the house of lords against the decree, it was held that the power was rightly applied to the subject, and that the appointment was well executed. Lidwell v. Holland, 2 Bli. 99. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

Settlement by a feme sole, in contemplation of marriage, of part of her fortune, in trust to pay the dividends to herself for her separate use for life, and after her death, for her intended husband; and after the death of the survivor, to transfer the capital according to her appointment by will: and in case she should die without appointment, and he should be then dead, in trust for her next of kin, their executors, &c., according to the statute of distributions. An interest for life only in the widow, with a power of disposition by will. Anderson v. Dawson, 15 Ves. 532. ESTATE FOR LIFE.

Settlement, on marriage, of lands of husband to the use of husband for life, without impeachment of waste; remainder to trustees, to preserve contingent remainders; remainder to wife for life for her jointure, and in bar of dower; remainder to first and other sons of the marriage in tail male; remainder to daughters in the same manner; remainder to the heirs of the body of husband and wife. The husband being dead without issue, as to the right of the widow to cut timber, and which would be a consequence to the property in it when severed, as tenant in tail after possibility of issue extinct, either in possession by the effect of merger, if the estates can unite, or, if not, in remainder; querre? Williams v. Williams, 15 Ves. 419. WASTE; TIMBER.

A remainder in fee by settlement to trustees, limited to the life of tenant for life, though not so expressed, the object of the trust terminating with that life, and a remainder following to the same trustees upon the death of tenant for life for a term of years. A subsequent remainder therefore to the heirs of the body of tenant for life, held a legal estate, uniting with the legal estate for life, and vesting an estate tail, according to the rule in Shelley's case, not an equitable estate capable of taking effect only as a contingent remainder. Curtis v. Price, 12 Ves. 89. REM. CONTINGENT.

On articles previous to the marriage of W with R, the father of W, "bound the whole of the farm, &c. as a marriage portion to his son W, along with R; the one half of said farm to be the right, title, and interest of the issue, whether son or daughter, if begotten on the body of R by W." The issue take as tenants in common. Taggart v. Taggart, 1 Scho. & L. 84. ESTATE, TENANCY IN COMMON.

By articles relating to leases pur autre vie, and for years, and to money, it was agreed, that said leases for lives, and for years should be conveyed to trustees, in trust, (after successive life estates to D and J.) "After the decease of J, to the issue of J and A, in such shares and proportions as the said J should appoint, and for want of such appointment to go to such children equally, share and share alike; and for default of such issue, to the heirs, executors, and administrators of said J, during said leases: the money or the lands agreed to be purchased therewith, to go to the issue of said J and A, in such shares and proportions, &c.; and for want of such appointment, to be equally divided among such children, share and share alike; and if no children of said marriage, or all should die before twenty-one," then a power to dispose of said money: held, that issue is to be construed children, and that the issue of J and A, took the absolute interest in the chattel property, and a quasi fee in the freehold property; that a quasi estate tail cannot be barred by will, semble. Campbell v. Sands, 1 Scho. & L. 281. S. P. Williams v. Jekyl, 2 Ves. 681. ESTATE, FEE SIMPLE.

Remainder in a settlement, after successive estates tail in the sons to the daughters as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants, and in default of such issue to the right heirs of the father, admitted without argument, an estate for life only in the daughters. Shall v. Silcock, 5 Ves. 469. ESTATE FOR LIFE.

A term settled to the husband for life, remainder to the wife, her executors, administrators, &c. for the residue of the term for her jointure; and for the better settling the term on her for life for her jointure, a covenant to renew and insert her name. The addition of those words will not reduce it to an estate for life. Clarke v. Huckwell, 2 Bro. C. C. 304. Id.

Settlement to permit "all and every the children to take rents, &c. to them and their heirs for ever"; they are joint tenants, not tenants in common. Stratton v. Best, id. 233. JOINT TENANCY; TENANCY IN COMMON.

On marriage the husband executes a deed poll, whereby he purports to settle all his real and personal estate on the wife, and the heirs of her body by him begotten, obliging her to give each of her children by him begotten, 1000*l.* a-piece, at twenty-one, and to divide the residue equally amongst them at her death. This gives an estate for life only to the wife, with remainder in fee to the children as tenants in common. These marriage articles so far tied up the property of the settlor, that a real estate purchased by him in his lifetime, with a part of his personal estate, shall be considered as personal estate, and be disposed of accordingly. Lauther v. Westmoreland, 1 Cox, 64. ESTATE FOR LIFE; ADMIN. OF ASSETS.

Lands are settled to the use of the husband and wife, for their lives, remainder to the heirs of both their bodies. The children of this marriage are joint tenants, and if any one dies before severance, his share shall survive to the others. There is nothing hard, severe, or unreasonable in the law of joint-tenancy, there being always an equal chance of survivorship in all the joint-tenants. If any of them have a bad opinion of their own lives they may sever; but if the joint-tenancy be not severed, it is an evidence of intention in the party to submit to the chance of survivorship, or of that supineness and neglect to which the law affords no assistance. Sir Robert Staples v. Maurice, 4 Bro. P. C. 580. JOINT-TENANCY.

A woman being entitled to some estates in possession, and to others in reversion, on the decease of her mother, settled them previous to her marriage, to trustees for ninety-nine years, to secure pin-money, remainder to herself and her intended husband for their joint lives, and in case she should survive, remainder to her for life; with remainder as to the estates in reversion, to the first and other sons of the marriage in tail male; remainder to such uses as she, notwithstanding coverture, should appoint, and in default of appointment, remainder to her in fee; with remainder as to the estates in possession, after her death, to such persons as she should appoint, with like remainder in default of appointment; and by the marriage articles it was agreed, that if the husband would have been entitled to be tenant by the courtesy, in case of no settlement, he should enjoy the lands, as if no settlement had been made. The husband became entitled to be tenant by the courtesy; after the marriage a sum of 2500*l.* for paying debts of the wife due prior to the marriage, was raised by mortgage of the estates, the husband joining and covenanting for payment of the mortgage money; and a further sum of 4500*l.* was raised on a like security; and afterwards a sum of 1000*l.* for paying interest on the former sums. The wife died without issue surviving her, having by her will devised the estates to her husband for life, with a limitation of them after his decease, "subject to such incumbrances as they were then subject to." On a bill by the husband, an inquiry was directed into the application of the money raised, and the husband was held discharged from so much as was applied to the wife's use, except that as tenant for life, he ought to keep down the interest; but the will of the wife was construed not to charge the estates with the whole sum, in exoneration of the husband. El. Kinnoul v. Money, 3 Swan. 203. KEEPING DOWN INCUMBRANCES; CHARGE ON LAND; HUSB. & WIFE.

Covenant in marriage settlement, that the settlor would surrender certain copyholds which were intermixed with his freeholds, to be settled upon the first issue of the marriage, with limitations to collateral branches of the family; his eldest son, upon his marriage, covenants to suffer a recovery of the freehold, (which was done,) and to settle the copyhold, (to which he was admitted in fee). Upon a bill brought by a nephew of the first settlor, on failure of issue of that marriage, for a specific performance of the covenant to surrender in favour of collaterals: held, that though the consideration of marriage extended to collaterals, yet that the son, by the covenants on his marriage, and by his admission in fee, had taken the copyholds discharged of the specific limitations. Hale v. Lamb, 2 Eden, 292. SPEC. PERF.; COLLATERALS.

A, upon his marriage with B, settles his estates to the use of himself for life, remainder to first and other sons in tail male, remainder to trustees for one thousand years, remainder to his brother C, for life, remainder to the heirs male of his body hereafter to be begotten; and then declares the trust of the term, that if there should be no issue male of the bodies of A and B begotten, that should live to the age of twenty-one years, or be married and have issue, and that there should be a daughter or daughters of the bodies of A and B, such daughter should have 4000*l.* for her portion; and if two or more, they to have 5000*l.* equally to be divided at their ages of twenty-one, or days of marriage, which should first happen; and if only one daughter, she to have the yearly sum of 100*l.* to be paid her half-yearly for her maintenance; if two or more, the like sum to be paid them half-yearly in equal shares, until their respective portions paid; if the portions not paid, the trustees to raise them out of the rents, or by sale or mortgage of the premises, or of part. Provided that if the father should in his lifetime prefer them in marriage with portions equivalent, or the remainder-man should, after the father's death, or that there should be no daughter who should attain the age of twenty-one, or be married, then the term to cease. B died in the life of A, leaving no son, but three daughters, who are all unmarried; C, took an estate tail under this settlement, and the portions may be raised for the daughters in the lifetime of A, their father. Hebblethwaite v. Cartwright, Forres. 30. ESTATE TAIL; PORTIONS, WHEN RAISEABLE.

Father and son, on the son's marriage, by lease and release, convey lands to trustees and their heirs, to the use of the father for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to the son for ninety-nine years; if he should so long live, remainder to trustees during his life, to support contingent remainders to the son's intended wife for life, for her jointure, remainder to the first and every other son of that marriage in tail male, remainder to the daughter or daughters of that marriage, and the heirs of their bodies, till they shall out of the rents, issues, and profits, have received 3000*l.*; remainder to the heirs of the body of the son, remainder to the second son of the father and to his first and other sons, remainder to the right heirs of the son for ever. There were issue of the marriage only two daughters, who being in possession after all the particular precedent estates determined, suffer a common recovery; and it was held that this was no bar of the subsequent remainders, the limitation to them being only a security till the 3000*l.*

was raised. Stankope v. Thacker, Preg. Chan. 435. FINE AND RECOVERY.

A, on the marriage of his son B, settles lands to the use of B for life, remainder to the wife for life, remainder to the heirs of their two brothers, remainder to B in fee; B and his wife, by deed and fine, mortgage in fee, and subject to the mortgage the lands are settled to the use of B for life, and after his and his wife's death, to the heirs of his body by him begotten, remainder to his right heirs. The wife, after her husband's death, suffers a common recovery. Whether the estate of the wife for life, by the first settlement, and the limitation to the heirs of her body by the second did consolidate, and if it did, whether the estate of the wife was aliened, within the statute of 11 Hen. 7. Clifton v. Jackson, 2 Vern. 455. ALIENATION.

2. What Interest.

Under a settlement and recovery, lands were limited to the use of A for life, and after his decease to the use of B and his heirs, during the life of A, to support contingent remainders; remainder to the use of C for life, remainder to the same B and his heirs during the life of C, to support contingent remainders, remainder to the first and other sons of C in tail male, remainder to the use of D for life, and if she should marry, and her husband should survive her, to her husband for his life, and after the determination of those estates to the said B and his heirs, (without saying during the life of D,) to support and preserve contingent remainders; remainder to the first and other sons of D, in tail male, remainder to the use of E for her life, and if she should marry, and her husband should survive her, to her husband for his life; and after the determination of those estates to the said E and his heirs (without saying during the life of E) to support contingent remainders; remainder to the first and other sons of E, in tail male: held, that under the limitations to B and his heirs, after the limitations of estates for life to D and E, the trustee took the fee, and that E took only an equitable estate. Colmore v. Tyndall, 2 Y. & J. 605. LIMIT. C. OF.

It is not a sufficient ground for restraining an estate limited a deed to a trustee and his heirs, to an estate for life, that the estate given to the trustee seems to be a larger than was essential to its purpose, or that the limitation has been unnecessarily repeated. Id.

A father covenanted, upon the marriage of a younger son, to grant a perpetual annuity or rent charge of 600*l.* to be issuing out of an estate, which consisted principally of collieries; and the deed granting the annuity was to contain a covenant, that the grantor, his heirs, executors, &c. would make good the deficiency, if the produce of the estate should not be sufficient to answer the annual payments. By his will the grantor gave to his executors a sum of 15,000*l.* upon trust, out of the interest thereof, to make good at the end of every year, any deficiency of the collieries to answer the annuity; and at the end of each year to pay the surplus of the yearly interest to certain persons therein described. The profits of the estate charged with the annuity were in some years not sufficient, and in others much more than sufficient to pay the 600*l.* a year: held, that the person interested in the surplus of the 15,000*l.*, could not claim compensation out of the surplus profits of the collieries in prosperous years, for that portion of the interest of the 15,000*l.* which had been applied in discharge of the annuity in those years, when the profits of the collieries were not sufficient to satisfy the annuity completely. Murray v. Butts v. Cunningham, 2 Russ. 276. COMPENSATION.

In marriage settlement, the father of the wife, after making a provision for her during life, movements, that in case there shall be a child or children of the marriage living at her decease, he will pay 30,000 to such child or children, on their attaining twenty-one, or if they shall have attained that age in their mother's lifetime, at her death. In the directions that are afterwards given for the distributions of the sums in different events, among the children of the marriage and their issue, no reference is made to the contingency of their surviving the mother, and though there is an express enumeration of the cases in which the money is not to be payable, the death of a child in the mother's lifetime after having attained twenty-one is not specified as one of those cases: Held, that the interest which a child who has attained twenty-one takes in these sums, remains contingent during the life of the mother, there not being enough in the subsequent clauses to controul the plain words of the covenant. Fitzgerald v. Field, 1 Russ. 430.

In the same settlement the father covenants to pay upon the death of the husband 2000l. to the eldest or only son of the marriage: Held, that this covenant is controlled by subsequent clauses, so as not to give a vested interest upon the death of the father to an only son who was then under age. Id. ib.

It is declared by a marriage settlement, that a trustee is to lay out a sum of money, which the husband had agreed to settle in the purchase of any public stocks or funds, or annuities for the life of the intended wife, in his own name, in trust for her, and that he is during her life to pay her the dividends and other produce of the stock or annuity so to be purchased, to her separate use during her life: Held, that the wife is entitled absolutely to a sum of three per cent. stock purchased with the money, and not merely to a life interest in it. Smith v. King, 1 Russ. 363.

Construction on settlement; ultimate limitation "to the executors or administrators for their lives, and assigns for ever," as to what benefit they take. Wellman v. Bowring, 1 S. & S. 24. S. C. Affirmed, 1 Russ. 374. EXECUTOR.

The plaintiff's father, upon the marriage of his daughters, demises an estate to trustees, upon trusts for raising certain sums, which are settled upon the daughters and their children; and by his will, after charging the estate with other sums, to be settled upon the same trusts, with portions for sons, and with a further sum in discharge of a mortgage of another estate, directs it to other trustees, upon trust, from time to time to receive the rents, &c., and to invest the same in the purchase of stock, so as to accumulate and form a fund for the payment of the aforesaid charges; "and after the same should have been raised and paid, upon trust to pay the net rents, &c. unto, or for the benefit of such persons of his own name, blood, and family, as for the time being should succeed to and be invested with his title and dignity of baronet, to the end that his said estate might be continued in his name, blood, and family, and be enjoyed and go along with his title, so long as the rules of law and equity would permit; but if upon failure of issue male of his body, there should not be any person who should be entitled to enjoy his title, upon trust to stand seised of the estate, for the benefit of the person or persons who should be his right heir or heirs at law, and to convey and assure the same accordingly." Held, that the trust for accumulation was good, and that the plaintiff, the succeeding baronet, took a vested estate for life. Bacon v. Proctor, 1 Turn. & R. 31. ACCUMULATION; ESTATE FOR LIFE; INTEREST VESTED.

Settlement in trust for the separate use of a married woman for life, but so as not to anticipate, with remainder to be should succeed by will, and in default of appointment to &c. On the death of her husband, the restraint on anticipation ceased, and therefore she is entitled, with the concurrence of A, to a transfer of a fund. Barton v. Briscoe, 1 Jac. 603.

Though in settlement there was a direction to pay the rents and profits of wife's equitable estate of inheritance, to her separate use for life, yet husband might be tenant by the curtesy. Morgan v. Morgan, 5 Mad. 408. TENANCY BY CURTESY.

A bond is given by a trader previous to his marriage, to a trustee, and by marriage settlement of same date, it is covenanted that the sum mentioned in the bond is to be payable only in the event of the wife surviving the husband; and it is also covenanted, that in case of the husband failing in his circumstances, but not otherwise, the trustee shall sue on the bond. The husband fails, living the wife. The trustee ought not to be admitted a creditor. In mrs. of Murphy, 1 Scho. & L. 44. BANKRUPT PROOF IN.

Covenant in marriage settlement to settle leasehold estates in trust for such persons, and such or the like estates, ends, intents, and purposes, as far as the law would allow, as declared concerning real estates, limited to the first and other sons in fail male, with several remainders; the court, in executing the covenant, declared that no person should be entitled to the absolute property unless he should attain twenty-one; or die under that age, leaving issue male. Dk. Newcastle v. Cs. Lincoln, 3 Ves. 387. But see the variations in this decree, id. 398, note, and 12 Ves. 218. on appeal. COVENANT.

By settlement on marriage, reciting an intention to provide for the wife and children, certain tolls were granted for the remainder of grantor's term in trust to raise an annuity for the lives of the wife and her mother and the survivor; then reciting, that the remainder of the term might expire in the life of the wife or her children; therefore, to make a provision for her and her children by her then or any future husband, the trustees should be possessed of the said tolls for the remainder of the term upon trust to raise, after the deaths of the grantor and the mother of the wife, 100l. annually, to be placed out in the purchase of freehold lands or hereditaments or leasehold estates for two or three lives, as often as a competent sum should be raised for that purpose; and until convenient purchases should offer, to be invested in government securities upon trust, in case the wife should survive the term, to pay the rents and profits of such estate or estates so to be purchased, or the interest, produce, and profits to arise from the money so intended to be placed out, until such purchase should be made, to the wife for life; and after her decease, to apply the said rents and profits or interest money towards the support and maintenance of such child and children of her as should be living at her death, till the youngest should be twenty-one, and then to be possessed of such estates so to be purchased, or of the money arising from the annuity not placed out in one or more purchase or purchases, to the use of such child and children, in such share and proportions payable at twenty-one, as the survivor of the husband and wife should by will or deed direct, limit, and appoint; in default thereof, to the use of all such children equally to be divided at their respective ages of twenty-one; but if she should die without leaving any child or children, or all should die under twenty-one, then to the use of the grantor, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, and after paying the said annuities, to be paid out of all the surplus money arising from the said tolls during the remainder of the term, for the use of the grantor, his executors, &c. From the death of the grantor, who survived the wife's mother, the trustees received 100l. a year, and laid out in stock the sums received and the produce. One son was the only issue: he attained twenty-one in the life of his mother, and survived her. The court would not invest the fund in land; and held it with the accumulations from the death of the grantor and the future payments, a vested interest in the son at twenty-one, and a personal estate belonging to his administrator. Swain v. Fennereau, 3 Ves. 41. INT. VESTED.

By marriage settlement, the husband's family estate was settled in the usual way, and it was covenanted with the husband that the wife's portion (1500*l.*) should be paid to trustees to provide for the daughters and younger sons after his death, in equal shares, in default of an appointment by him. It was provided also, that in case of there being but one child, it should have 1000*l.*, and the eldest son the other 500*l.*, and that a daughter, being an only child, should have the whole. The husband was to have the interest for his life, and a power of laying out the principal in the purchase of lands, in trustees' names, as a fund for the purposes aforesaid. Of this marriage there was issue two sons, the elder of whom only survived his father, and claimed the 1500*l.*; but the court decreed him only 500*l.*, to which it was admitted he was entitled. Where money was to be laid out in land as a more secure fund, for certain purposes it (as well as the land when purchased) shall be considered as money, and the heir can claim no benefit of it. Watkins v. Watkins, Vern. & Scriv. 61.

On marriage, a sum of 9000*l.* was vested in trustees upon trust to pay the interest to the husband for life, and after his death to the wife for life, and after the death of the survivor, to pay the principal to such persons as the survivor should direct. The husband having occasion for money, the wife joined him in executing a deed-poll, whereby they appointed the money immediately to the husband; but the trustees declining to act without the directions of the court, this bill was filed; and upon personal examination of the wife, the court directed the trustees to pay the money to the husband, and to deliver up the settlement to be cancelled. Macarnick v. Butler, 1 Cox, 357. HUSB. & WIFE.

By settlement made previous to marriage of A and B, certain exchequer annuities were vested in trustees in trust for the husband for life, then to the wife for life, and after both their deaths, for the children of the marriage equally, if more than one, and if but one, for such only child, to be assigned over to such child or children respectively at their ages of twenty-one, happening after the death of survivor of husband and wife; but if either children should attain twenty-one during joint life of father and mother, or life of survivor, then his or her share was to be paid within 3 months after death of such survivor. But if there should be no children of the marriage, or being such, all of them should die before their share should become transferable as aforesaid, then the annuities were to go to the survivor of husband and wife. There was issue only a son, who attained twenty-one, but died in lifetime of mother, who survived husband: Held, that the annuities became vested in her on his attaining twenty-one years, and were transmissible by him, notwithstanding he died in his mother's life-time. Jeffreys v. Reynolds, 6 Bro. P. C. 228. INT. VESTED.

Settlement of money on husband and wife, &c., and in case the husband shall die and the wife survive, he leaving no issue of her body, or such issue shall die in the lifetime of the wife, then the money to be paid and assigned to the wife. There was issue a daughter, who married, attained twenty-one, and died in the lifetime of the mother, leaving two children, who survived their grandmother: Held, the daughter acquired a vested interest, transmissible to her representatives. Hawtley v. Mason, Amb. 621. INT. VESTED.

Limitation of a leasehold estate in a marriage settlement after the decease of husband and wife, in trust for such child and children as they should appoint, and in default of appointment, to all and every the said and children equally: Held to be a vested remainder, which should take in the issue, as they came in issue. Lawrence v. Maggs, 1 Eden, 462. INT. VESTED.

Settlement of 10,000*l.*, the interest to be paid to husband and wife for themselves, and after their death the principal to all or such of their children as husband should appoint, and in default, as wife should appoint, and for want of such appointment, to all the children equally at twenty-one, or marriage. There were two children, one died in lifetime of the father, then the father died: Held, the other was entitled to the money after the death of the mother, and to have it secured in her lifetime: Held a contingent vested interest in the children, subject to be divested on appointment. Gordon v. Levi, Amb. 364. INT. VESTED.

A agreed on marriage to lay out 4000*l.* in land in strict settlement, with remainder to himself. Wife and issue died, living A. A may bequeath the 4000*l.* as money. Fulham v. Jones, 2 Ed. Ab. 296. MONEY AGREED TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND.

By a marriage settlement, a term was limited to trustees for raising, on failure of issue male, 3000*l.* for daughters' portions, payable at eighteen, or marriage. The father and mother die, leaving issue two daughters only, who at the death of the father (who survived the mother) were fifteen or sixteen years of age, and who had by the father's will 500*l.* a-piece devised to them, payable at the same time with their original portions; but the estate was devised to S, one of the daughters, being married, and being of the age of twenty: Held, on her bill, that she must have maintenance from the time of her father's death till the portion became due, and from thence interest at 5 per cent. till paid. Greenhill v. Walder, Prec. Chan. 367. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 31. MAINTENANCE; WILL, C. OF.

A, on his marriage, assigns a term for 1000 years, in trust for himself for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to the heirs of his body of the male, and wife, remainder to the husband's right heirs. The wife dies, leaving issue; the whole term was in the husband, and he may assign it. Webb v. Webb, 1 P. W. 132. 2 Vern. 668. WIFE.

2500*l.* is provided by settlement for the issue of the marriage, in such proportion as the husband should appoint. He dies, leaving a daughter only, and makes no appointment: she shall have the 2500*l.* Davy v. Hooper, 2 Vern. 665; affd. 6 Bro. P. C. 615. POWER OF APPOINTMENT.

By marriage settlement a term is created for raising 400*l.* a piece for younger children, to be paid them within a year after the father's death, and with interest from his death; one of the children dies, after the father, but within a year after his death the portion not being raised: held, that it should sink in the inheritance and not be raised for the benefit of its representative. Tournay v. Tournay, Prec. Chan. 290. PORTIONS, RAISED OR.

Husband conveys lands to a trustee in fee, in trust out of the rents to pay 6*l.* per annum for the separate use of the wife, and to be at her disposal for the use of the husband for life. After the decease to the use of the heirs of the wife until the next assignment of the husband should pay to the next assigns, administrators or assigns of the wife, with interest from the death of the husband, to be paid for her life for her jointure, and after her death to be paid for her first husband's life. Held 100*l.* Held the wife had no power to dispose of this money. Sawyer v. Blewett, 2 Vern. 328. HUSB. & WIFE.

By marriage articles, the household goods and plate of the wife were assigned to trustees, the husband to have the use of them for his life only, afterwards to the wife, her executors and administrators. But if the husband survived, then the absolute property to be to him. A, having got judgment against the husband, takes the goods in execution. The wife's friends give security to the sheriff who returns nulla bona, whereupon A brings an action against the sheriff, and recovers, afterwards the same goods are taken in execution by B, another creditor of the husband, and the sheriff on the like security given him by the wife's friends, returns nulla bona, whereupon B also brings an action and recovers. The wife's trustees bring bill, but could not have relief, it being all at law, in whom the property of the goods are. Underwood v. Mordaunt, 2 Vern. 238. JURISDIC.; HUSB. & WIFE; BANKCY. ASSIGNMT.

A man has issue a son and four daughters, he settles lands on himself for life, remainder for twenty-one years for raising 5000*l.* daughters' portions, 2000*l.* whereof to be paid to the eldest, remainder to the son in tail, remainder to himself in fee. The son dies without issue, and after, the father devises the lands to his four daughters equally; yet held that the eldest should have 1000*l.* more than any of the rest. Terriot v. Spencer, Prec. Chan. 5.

A long term of years is assigned upon trust for A for ninety-nine years, if he lived so long, and then to his wife for her life, remainder to the heirs of A begotten on his wife. The whole term does not vest in A, but after the death of him and his wife, shall go to all their children equally. Ward v. Bradley, 2 Vern. 23.

3. Who take under.

P, on his marriage with T, executed a bond in the penalty of 2000*l.* with condition to be void, if, in the event of T surviving P, his executors, &c. should, within three months after his decease, pay to trustees 1000*l.* in trust for T, and if in the event of P surviving T, and there being any child or children of the marriage living at the decease of P, his executors, &c. should, within three months after his decease, pay to trustees 1000*l.* in trust for such child or children; "and further, if P should, at any time during his natural life, become seised of any messuages, &c. in possession, and should settle the same upon T, and the issue of the said intended marriage, by such good conveyances in the law as counsel should advise, in such parts and proportions, and to such use and uses, as should be thought requisite, the better to make a provision for T, in case she should happen to survive P." After the death of T, P having married again, and then, and not before, become seised of real estates, and having, at his death, left issue by both marriages, all the real estates of which he became seised during his life, were subject to the obligation, and settled on the issue of the first marriage, as tenants in common in fee. Prebble v. Boghurst, 1 Swan. 309. CHARGE ON REAL ESTATE; BOND, PERF. OF.

An obligation to make a settlement on the wife and the issue, includes an obligation to make a settlement on the issue, after the death of the wife. Id. 319. ISSUE; CHILDREN.

Under a limitation, in a marriage settlement, of the wife's property, in default of her appointment, for her next of kin, or personal representative, the husband, taking a prior partial interest, is not entitled. Bailey v. Wright, 1 Swan. 39. HUSB. & WIFE.

On limitation by settlement to next of kin of said

A P, of her own blood and family, as if she had died sole, and unmarried, the next of kin take as under the statute of distributions. Cotton v. Scarsnapke, 1 Mad. 45.

Limitation by settlement, of personal property, to next of kin, in equal degree, passes the property to a surviving sister, in exclusion of children of deceased brother. Anon. 1 Mad. 36.

A sum of money settled on marriage to the use of the husband for life, after his death to the wife for life, and if they should both die, leaving children, to such children, vests in all the children of the marriage, and not exclusively in the children surviving both parents, such being the clear intent of the parties, though contrary to the literal expressions in the settlement. Bradish v. Bradish, 2 Ball & B. 479.

Under a limitation in a marriage settlement, of the wife's property, in default of her appointment for her next of kin, a personal representative, the husband not entitled. Bailey v. Wright, 18 Ves. 49. HUSB. & WIFE.

A trust created to raise 36,000*l.* for the portions of three children, A, L, & C, to be paid to and amongst them at such time and times, and in such share and proportions as M should appoint by deed or will, and in default of appointment, to be paid, &c. and amongst said A, L, and C, in equal shares, on their respectively attaining twenty-one, or marriage, provided that if any of said daughters should die under twenty-one, or unmarried, 24,000*l.* only to be raised for the surviving daughters, to be paid to and amongst them, at such time or times, and in such shares as M should appoint; and if no appointment, then to be paid equally between them at twenty-one or marriage; and if two die before twenty-one, and unmarried, then a like proviso for raising only 12,000*l.* L attains twenty-one, and dies. The whole 36,000*l.* to be raised; but M has no power to appoint the share of L. It goes equally between the survivors and the personal representatives of L. An appointment as to the remaining 24,000*l.* between A and C unequally, is good. Fane v. Id. Dugannon, 2 Scho. & L. 118. POWER, EXEC. OR.

Trust, in case husband and wife should, at death of survivor, leave any child, &c. and such child, &c. attain, twenty-one, to convey to such child, if but one, and if more than one who should attain twenty-one, to convey to such children who should attain twenty-one, according to appointment of father and mother surviving; in default of appointment, equally at twenty-one, with survivorship; and if both parents die without leaving any child, &c. remainder to the father: Held, vested in children having attained twenty-one, who died in life of one parent, with those who survived both. King v. Hake, 9 Ves. 438. INTEREST VESTED.

Settlement of wife's estate to such uses as husband and wife, or survivor, should appoint by deed or will, with three witnesses, in default thereof to the heirs of husband; the wife surviving made a disposition by her will, to a charity, and therefore void; decreed to the heir of the husband. Att. Gen. v. Ward, 3 Ves. 327. POWER, EXEC. OR.

Settlement upon marriage, of wife's property, only upon certain trusts for husband, wife, and children, in one event for husband absolutely, but making no provision for the event that happened, a resulting trust for the wife. Langham v. Nenny, 3 Ves. 467. RESULTING TRUST.

Trust under marriage settlement for the next of kin of the wife, subject to her appointment in favour of the husband, by an unattested will being void, the children are entitled, not the husband, who is not of kin to his wife, and whose claim to her personal property is not in that character under the statute, but jura mariti, and in this case, according to the plan of the settlement, he was not intended. Watt v. Watt, 3 Ves. 244. HUSB. & WIFE; NEXT OF KIN.

Where property is settled on husband and wife for life, remainder to the issue, subject to a power of appointment, an interest vests in an only child, though no appointment was made. Mudoc v. Jackson, 2 Bro. C. C. 588. INTEREST VESTED.

By settlement 500*l.* was assigned to trustees, in trust to lay the same cut in land, with consent of wife, and to pay rents to wife for life, for her separate use, remainder to husband for life, and after the death of survivor, in trust, to convey same to such persons, and for such estates as wife should, by deed or will, appoint; and in default of appointment, in trust for the right heirs of wife for ever, proviso, that until such purchase should be made, trustees should invest the money in the public funds, with the consent of wife, and pay the dividends to wife for life, for her separate use, and after her death, to such persons as the rents of the lands to be purchased would go to, according to the limitations aforesaid, and to pay or transfer the principal sum of 500*l.* or the stock in which the same should be invested, to such person as, according to the limitations aforesaid, would be entitled to the inheritance of such lands. This 500*l.* was never paid to trustees, but remained in the hands of husband at the death of wife. She having made no appointment, this 500*l.* vested in her heir at law (subject to the life interest of the husband), but the heir took it as money, and therefore at her death this interest passed to his personal representatives. Russell v. Smythies, 1 Cox, 215. INTEREST VESTED; MONEY TO BE LAID OUT; ADMIN. OF ASSETS.

A and B are co-heiresses of estate; A being married, her moiety is settled on husband C for life, remainder to A for life, remainder to B for life, remainder to trustees for 1000 years, remainder to right heirs of survivor of B and C. The trusts of term were to raise 1000*l.* to be paid to such relations of A as the survivor of B and C should appoint, and in default of appointment, to next heir or co-heirs of B. A and her husband died in life of B, and B, by will, devised the whole estate to trustees, for certain purposes, but made no appointment of the 1000*l.* It was decreed that heirs at law of B were entitled to have the 1000*l.* raised, and that the term of 1000 years, created by the settlement, was merged in the inheritance of the moiety to which B became entitled. Morris v. Cantle, 6 Bro. P. C. 418. MERGER OF TERM.

Settlement after marriage of stock, which had been the wife's property, in trust for the husband for life, then to the wife for life, and then to the heir male of the body of husband and wife, in default of such heir male, to the heirs female, &c., with a clause, that if the husband should settle lands of equal value to the like uses, the stock should be re-assigned to him; a son being afterwards born, who died in the lifetime of the father, without issue, and under age, held, that the property vested in the father, and passed by his will. Le Rousseau v. Rede, 2 Eden, 1. INTEREST VESTED.

In what case money, covenanted by marriage articles to be laid out in lands, shall still be considered as money, and as such go to the personal representative of the party entitled to the money, in prejudice of the heir. Bowes v. Shrewsbury, 5 Bro. P. C. 144. MONEY COVENANTED TO BE LAID OUT IN LANDS.

A papist, by marriage articles, previous to the disabling statute, 11 and 12 W. 3. covenanted to lay out 12,000*l.* in the purchase of land. The money is never laid out, and therefore shall still be considered as money, and go to the personal representative, instead of the heir, though that heir be a protestant. Id. 148. MONEY COVENANTED TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND; PAPIST.

Trust of the residue of a term, with a double aspect, viz. settlement on marriage, by deed, of a leasehold estate, in trust for the husband and wife for life, and after the decease of the survivor, to be assigned by the trustees, with the rents and profits to the eldest son, "and for want of such issue of such son," to daughters. A son having been born, who died without issue in the life of the mother, held, that it did not vest in him, but was a good remainder to an only daughter, at the death of the surviving parent. Esel v. Wallace, 2 Ves. 118. Affid. id. 318. INTEREST VESTED.

Upon settlement of lands to be sold in trust for several purposes, the residue is given to B and his heirs, reserving only 200*l.* to be paid to such person as settlor should appoint. Settlor died without appointment; the 200*l.* shall go to his heir, and not to B, or his assigns. Anon. 1 Com. 345. POWER TO APPOINT; HEIR; TRUST, RESULTING.

Money by marriage articles to be laid out in land, to uses of husband and wife for life, then to the children as they should appoint, in default of appointment equally; but if one, to that one in tail, reversion to husband in fee. There was one daughter: the trustee pays it to her and her husband; she not being sui juris, not separately examined, the payment not sufficient to make it considered as money, and sister of the half blood may claim the reversion in fee from the father, but the husband of the other sister, who was tenant in tail, will be tenant by curtesy. Cunningham v. Moody, 1 Ves. 174. MONEY TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND; TENANT IN TAIL; TENANT BY CURTESY.

A posthumous child, within a provision in marriage articles, for such children of the marriage as should be living at the death of the father or mother. Millar v. Turner, 1 Ves. 85. POSTHUMOUS CHILD.

A settlement was made on the marriage of I S, of two shares in the New River water, to I S for life; to his wife for life, and after their decease one share was limited to such of the younger children as should not be heir at law, or for want of such issue, to the sisters of I S, and their children, as I S should appoint; but in case of no issue of I S, or if he should make no appointment, the same was limited to the sisters, and the children of one of the sisters, under whom plaintiffs claimed, in such manner as they were entitled to one whole share. If there had been only one child, it would have been excluded by the words, "Other than such as shall be heir at law;" or if there had been several daughters, as they would have made but one united heir, they would have been excluded; or if both sons and daughters, and reduced only to one child, that child could not have taken. Townsend v. Ashe, 3 Atk. 338, 338.

R, on his marriage, settled exchequer annuities for ninety-nine years, amounting to 300*l.* per ann. in trust to himself for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to his children in such manner as he should appoint. By the marriage there was an only child, a daughter. Held, that she was entitled to the exchequer annuities under the settlement, and that the father had no power of disposing of them otherwise. Bellasis v. Uthwatt, 1 Atk. 427.

Limitations to collateral relations in marriage settlement are voluntary. Reeves v. Reeves, 9 Mod. 132. CONSIDERATION; COLLATERAL RELATIONS.

A, by deed, settles his estate to himself for life, and then to trustees, to raise portions for his younger children, provided that if his eldest son (who was otherwise provided for) should pay the portions, then the trustees were to stand seised to the use of the right heirs of A for ever; and after raising and paying said portions, the trustees and their heirs to stand seised of such part of the premises as should remain unsold to the use of the right heirs male of A for ever. The son did not pay the portions. But died intestate, leaving D, his daughter and only child. Held, that D being heir general, was entitled to the estate, subject to the charge thereon by the grandfather: Beckford v. Pendurris, 5 Bro. P. C. 93.

Lands were settled at marriage on trustees, that if wife survived, she should receive the then profits. Husband made leases and advanced the rent. Held, heir at law entitled to advanced rent. Lawley v. Lawley, 9 Mod. 32. HEIR AT LAW.

Provisions for daughters to be born, shall extend to daughters then begotten. Hewet v. Ireland, 1 P. W. 426. Gillb. Eq. Rep. 145.

A settlement of money to be paid to such children "as shall be begotten, &c.," but "that if the husband shall die without any children, then the said money shall be paid to A," extends to a child in esse at the time the settlement was made. Stingsby v. —, 10 Mod. 398.

I S surrendered his copyhold to the use of himself and wife, in special tail, remainder to the wife in fee, with a condition to be void if he pay 50*l.* to A, her daughter, on a certain day; the day elapsed, the money not paid, and I S died without issue. Bill, by the heir of I S, against a purchaser from the wife to redeem. Held, this never was a mortgage; and plea that he was a purchaser without notice, was allowed. King v. Bromley, 2 Eq. Ab. 595. MORTGAGE, WHAT CONSTITUTES.

Lands by marriage settlement are limited to the son in tail male, remainder to A the husband in fee, provided if A and his wife, or either of them, die without issue male living at the time of his or her death, leaving only one daughter unmarried; the trustees to stand seised till they have raised 1500*l.* for such daughter, and if more daughters unmarried at the death of A and his wife, or either of them, and no issue male leaving, begotten between them, then 3000*l.* for such daughters. A dies, leaving daughters, and his wife enurente of a son, which is afterwards born. Whether the daughters are entitled to the 3000*l.*? Palmer v. Cracroft, 2 Vern. 578. POSTHUMOUS CHILD.

One possessed of a term for years on his marriage, assigns it to trustees in trust for himself for life; remainder to his wife for life, remainders to the heirs of the body of the wife by the husband. They have a son. This is a good limitation to the heirs of the body of the wife, and they are words of purchase and not of limitation. Dufforne v. Goodman, 2 Vern. 362. Pre. Ch. 96. 2 Freem. 23. S. C. LIMITATION.

One possessed of a term for years, in consideration of marriage assigns it to trustees in trust for himself for life; remainder in trust for the children of the body of the wife. This shall be intended for the children of the wife by this marriage, and not to let in her children by another husband. Id. 363. Pre. Ch. 96. 2 Freem. 23. S. C.

A, on his marriage, conveys his land to a trustee to the use of himself for life; remainder to his wife for life; remainder to the heirs of their two bodies; remainder to A in fee: proviso, that in default of issue of the marriage, the trustee shall convey to such uses as the survivor should appoint. Although the husband devises the land and dies first without issue, yet the wife has a good power of disposing of the estate by her appointment. Bp. of Oron v. Leighton, 2 Vern. 376. HUSB. & WIFE; POWER.

W made a deed of settlement, in which an intended marriage between the Dk. of S. and his daughter was recited, and then a clause, that in case the daughter should live to attain sixteen and should refuse to marry the duke, the duke should have 20,000*l.* out of his personal estate; but if the marriage should take effect after the daughter attained sixteen, and he should have issue male, then in trust for the duke and his wife during their joint lives, with benefit of survivorship, remainder over. W, by will, confirmed the settlement, and directed that in case the marriage should not take effect according to the limitations of the settlement, or in default of issue of the marriage (if had), then remainder to testator's daughter for life, if she should survive the duke; remainder to her eldest son; remainder over. Testator died, and the marriage took effect with the duke before the daughter was sixteen, but she lived to attain sixteen and died before seventeen, without issue. On the hearing, it was insisted, that by the deed and will, the personal estate was not vested as to entitle the administration of the wife, by reason of her marriage before sixteen, and that it was testator's intent to restrain his daughter from marrying before that age. Ld. Ch. thought the thing aimed at by the testator was a marriage with the duke, and for that intent the penalty of 20,000*l.* was inserted upon refusal; the latter clause was only to bring the 20,000*l.* again into the personal estate, and to be settled to the same with the rest, in case of a marriage before sixteen, and which did not imply that the marriage might not be before sixteen. Ld. Ch. therefore decreed an assignment, &c.; but the lords reversed the decree. Wood alias Cramer v. Dk. of Southampton, Show. P. C. 83. 1 Ves. 338. 2 Freem. 186. CONSIDERATION OF MARRIAGE.

Term assigned in trust for baron and feme for their lives, remainder in trust for the heirs of the body of the feme by the baron. Baron and feme die. The term shall go to the heir of the body of the feme by baron, and not to her executor or administrator. The words, heirs of the body, being a good description personae. Peacock v. Spooner, 2 Vern. 195. S. C. 2 Freem. 114. See quare, see note there. Id. ib. ADMON. OF ASSETS; HUSB. & WIFE.

A, on the marriage of his son, articles to settle a jointure on the wife and her issue; but no provision is made for the son during his life. The father has the portion, and the wife dies without issue. Whether the son is entitled to an estate in the lands? West v. Delaware, 1 Vern. 198.

A, a widower, settles lands to raise 100*l.* a year for his eldest son, and 100*l.* a piece for his younger children, and afterwards marries again and has children by his second wife. Decreed, the children by his second wife were equally entitled with the other younger children, though portions of the younger children were by the settlement to be paid according to their seniority, yet in case of a deficiency they shall be paid in average. The portions of the younger children, who died in the life of their father, not to be raised in favour of the administrators; otherwise, if any of the daughters had married in the lifetime of their father, and afterwards died. Brathwaite v. Brathwaite, 1 Vern. 334. YOUNGER CHILDREN.

4. What passes under, or is comprised in.

Settlement of "all the two-thirds parts of all my property, &c., belonging, &c., lately devised unto me by M." Held to pass only two-thirds of such property as then remained, and did not extend to such parts of property as had been spent previous to settlement. Cullen v. Missing, 1 Mad. 175.

Effect of a contract on marriage by bond, convey convey or assure, all such goods, personal estate and effects, that the husband should at any time during the joint lives of him and his wife be possessed of, to the use of them and the survivor; attaching on capital, not income, unless laid up as capital; admitting therefore expenditure, and debts, in a fair application of income, not liable to a minute account. On that principle an estate, purchased by the husband with money partly his own, partly borrowed on his personal security, and some paid off by him, was after his death held to belong, not to the trust, but to the heir, charged for the benefit of the trust with the money that was his own, the debts paid on account of that purchase, and expenditure in repairs, improvements, &c. Lewis v. Muddocks, 17 Ves. 48. APPOINTMENT OF ASSETS.

Tenant for life, under a settlement of a crown lease, gets a renewal in reversion; it shall go to the uses of the settlement. Taster v. Marriott, AmbL. 668. RENEWAL; TENANT FOR LIFE; TRUST.

On agreement before marriage, that everything which should come to the wife by her father's death, should go to them for their respective lives, and after the death of the survivor, to the heirs of the body of the wife by him begotten. Held, that 6000*l.*, to which the wife was entitled under the settlement of her father and mother vested in her only, and the husband consenting, the 6000*l.* was decreed to be settled on the younger children. Green v. Fkins, 2 Atk. 474.

By marriage articles, A makes a provision for his wife by way of jointure, and in bar of dower, &c.: proviso, that nothing therein contained should bar or hinder her from enjoying any legacy or bequest which the husband might give to her, nor should extend to all or any the household goods, or utensils, or household stuff, rings, plate, jewels, or linen of the husband at the time of his death. A lived in London, but had a large house furnished at Gosport, which he let out to government as an hospital. On his death intestate, the widow claimed to be entitled, under the articles, to the furniture in both houses; but held, that she was only entitled to the furniture of the house in London. Pratt v. Jackson, 1 Bro. P. C. 222. S. C. 2 P. W. 302.

Covenant in marriage articles, "to leave wife a moiety of personal estate at his death," held to apply to his property at the time of the articles. Webster v. Milford, 2 Eq. Ab. 362.

On marriage, lands are settled on A for life; remainder to the first &c. son of the marriage in tail male; remainder to trustees for 500 years, to raise 5000*l.* portions for daughters, payable at eighteen or marriage; remainder to A in fee. After the marriage, A settles other lands, and a term is created for raising the like sum of 5000*l.* for daughters, on failure of issue male, payable at sixteen or marriage. A dies, leaving a daughter his heir at law, who attains eighteen and dies unmarried. The trust of the term is not merged in the fee, but the portion shall go to the daughter's executors, and is indisposible by her will; but there shall be but one 5000*l.* raised. Thomas v. Kemys, 2 Vern. 348. 2 Freem. 207. S. C. MERGER OF TERM.

A, on the marriage of B his son, settles a lease on B for life, to the wife for life, and then to the issue of the marriage; and B covenants from time to time to renew the lease and assign it on the same trusts. B renews the lease, but does not assign it, and dies indebted. This lease is bound by the marriage articles, and is not assets for the payment of debts. Ploeman v. Ploeman, 2 Vern. 289. ASSETS.

5. Generally.

A being indebted, as his father's executor, to the trustees of his sister's marriage settlement, settled on her and her children a sum to a large amount, in consideration of the natural love and affection he bore them: held, that this was not a satisfaction of the debt. Drewe v. Bedgood, 2 S. & S. 424. DEBT, SATISFACTION OF.

Covenant on marriage to make provision for daughter, by will or otherwise, as great as testator should, by will or otherwise, provide for his other children: held, that proportion did not extend to any advancement made for other children during testator's life time. Willis v. Black, 1 S. & S. 526. ADVANCEMENT.

Settlement of two estates in remainder on T for life, with remainders to his sons in strict settlement, and remainder over to M, with power to tenants for life in possession to charge the estates with a jointure of 400*l.* and power to revoke the uses of the settlement as to one of the estates, and to appoint new uses: by a subsequent deed the settlor exercises the power of revocation as to the remainder to M, in lieu thereof, appoints real estate to S, and repeats several of the powers contained in the first settlement, and gave power to T & S to charge the estate with a jointure of 400*l.* T by separate deeds executes both powers of jointuring: held, on bill by his widow for both jointures, that T had no new power to jointure under the second settlement. Wiggell v. Smith, 1 S. & S. 321. POWER OF REVOCATION.

Articles for a settlement with a power of leasing for twenty-one years, and other usual powers, &c., do not authorize the introduction of a power of granting building leases for long terms. Preece v. Bruch, 1 Jac. 158. USUAL POWERS, WILLS.

Where there is an ambiguity in expressions of settlement regarding the issue, the presumptions are taken in favour of the children. Perfect v. Curzon, 5 Mad. 442. PRESUMPTION: CHILDREN.

Power in a marriage settlement to grant to a wife any annual sum of money, or yearly rent-charge to be tax free, and without any deduction, and to be issuing out of, and chargeable upon, lands in Ireland, so that such rent-charge do not exceed, in the whole, the yearly sum of 3000*l.* of lawful money of Great Britain: held, that a rent-charge appointed under this power is payable in Ireland in the currency of England; but that the appointee is not entitled to have the sum transmitted to England free of the charge of conveyance and exchange properly so called. The lex loci contractus, and the law applicable to cases of money charged as a rent payable out of land, where no provision as to the place of payment is made by the instrument, are inapplicable to a case where the instrument itself furnishes the means of interpretation. In ambiguous contracts the domicile of the parties, the place of execution, the purpose, and the various provisions of the instrument, are material to be considered in the construction. Lansdowne v. Lansdowne, 2 Bligh. 60. DOMICIL.

Where lands are in settlement, and husband and wife join in mortgage of them, if deed creating the security is no more in effect than a simple charge on lands, and does not alter limitations further than is necessary to create the charge, the right of redemption, although reserved by deed to husband and wife or either of them, their or either of their heirs, &c. belongs only to those who are entitled under settlement, and not to heirs of husband if he survive wife. But where lands of wife on marriage are settled to use of husband and wife successively, for life, remainder in strict settlement, remainder to wife and her heirs, with power of revocation and appointment of new uses and she joined with him, in mortgage and by deed, to lead uses of fine afterwards levied by them according to covenant; the lands, after determination of term created to secure re-payment of money borrowed, were limited to husband and wife and survivor, for life, remainder in tail special, remainder for default of such issue to right heirs of survivor of husband and wife: wife having died without issue, leaving husband surviving: held, husband and his heirs, and not heirs of wife, were entitled to equity of redemption. Jackson v. Innes, 1 Bl. 104. See 16 Ves. 366. HUSBAND AND WIFE; REDEMPTION OF MORTGAGE.

Bond executed on marriage of child.

to settle lands, "if he should become seised in possession," affects copyhold as well as freehold. Prebble v. Boghurst, 1 Swan. 580. BOND; CORNWOLD, CHARGE ON.

A bond conditioned to settle lands, "if the obligor shall become seised," will not affect lands of which he is seised at the date of the bond. Id. 321. CHARGE ON LAND; BOND.

Construction of ambiguous and incorrect settlement as vesting portions at twenty one, against words importing condition of surviving the parents; an intention, which, if clearly expressed, must prevail; but is not to be inferred as not a rational construction of an ambiguous family settlement. Hougrate v. Carter, 3 V. & B. 79. COOP. 66. S. C.

Construction of a clause, giving trustees liberty to forbear enforcing payment; that it was for their indemnity, as if with a view to insolvency, it might amount to fraud. Exp. Alcock, 1 V. & B. 179.

Money charged on land, by articles on marriage, to be laid out on government security or freehold estate, in a particular situation, with consent of the wife, to be settled upon trust for her separate use for life; and after her death, to be conveyed or assigned to her husband, his heirs or executors; if she survive; for the issue, if more than one, subject to her appointment by deed or will, equally, at twenty-one, their heirs, if land; their executors, if money; if no issue, subject to her appointment, and in default to his or her next of kin, their heirs or executors: after the husband's death, having disposed of his personal estate by will, this property held personal; to the interest of which his widow was entitled for life, with power of appointment by implication in the event of an only child dead under age, and intestate, and liberty to apply. Tan v. Barnett, 19 Ves. 102. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

In the constructions of articles the intention of the parties must be the guide. Lechy v. Knox, 1 Ball & B. 216.

Distinction between marriage articles and wills; all the parties to the former considered purchasers to effectuate their intention; none of the parties mentioned in the latter are so, as the testator's intention is alone to be considered. Stratford v. Powell, 1 Ball & B. 25. WILL, C. OF.

Settlement of personal estate upon a second marriage, upon trust to pay to such persons, &c. as the settlor shall by deed or will appoint, and in default thereof to his issue. Construction upon the whole, that it was to operate unless a subsequent instrument should be executed; a prior will, therefore, revoked. Leigh v. Norbury, 13 Ves. 340. WILL, REVOCATION OF.

Settlement of estates on trustees and their heirs, during the joint lives of W H and his wife, without impeachment of waste, upon trust, out of rents and profits, to pay all expences and out-goings, and to raise and pay a sum, by way of pin money, to the wife, and subject thereto to pay the clear residue of rents, &c. to W H during the lives of himself and his wife, remainder to W H for life, without impeachment of waste, remainder over, with power for the trustees to sell and buy out the produce in the purchase of other lands to the same uses; the land being sold under the power, W P was held entitled to the produce of timber cut down by him previous to the sale, not to the value of timber then standing. Wolf v. Hill, 2 Swan. 149. TIMBER.

Money settled to separate use of wife, and in event of no children, to her absolutely surviving husband, with power to trustees, with her consent, to invest it in land: held, that no lien existed on estates purchased, by husband having obtained the money from trustee, the circumstances not raising the presumption, as if he had been under an engagement to purchase, that his purchases were in pursuance of engagement, and upon evidence, the fact of the application of trust fund, or the inability of husband by other means not being made out. Lench v. Lench, 10 Ves. 511. LIEN; HUSB. & WIFE.

As between representatives, money was considered as land under a direction in a settlement, with all convenient speed, after request to lay out; though no request was made; upon the construction, all the limitations being adapted to real uses and other circumstances. Thornton v. Hawley, id. 129. MONEY DIRECTED TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Limitation in an article on marriage to A for life, subject to annuities for the lives of B & C, and a charge for a jointure for D, if she should survive A, and after the death of said B & C, A & D, then to the use of the issue, &c. The limitation to the issue is not to await the deaths of A, B, C, and D, but they are to take upon the death of A, subject to the charges for B, C, and D. Bushell v. Bushell, 1 Scho. & L. 95.

Settlement to such uses as husband and wife should jointly appoint, and in default of such appointment, to them for life, and after decease of survivor, to the use of all or any of the child or children of them in such shares and proportions, and for such estate and estates, term or terms, and payable at such time or times, and in such manner and form as the husband should by deed or will appoint, and in default thereof to him and his heirs. The event upon which the last limitation depends, is in default of appointment, not of children. Jenkins v. Quinchant, cited, 5 Ves. 596.

Under marriage articles, 15000*l.* was vested in trustees on trust, together with 5000*l.* covenanted by the husband to be paid, to be laid out in land to be settled upon the husband for life, remainder to the wife for life, remainder to the use of such child and children, in such shares, for such estates, and subject to such powers, limitations, and provisions as the husband and wife, or the survivor, should appoint; in default of appointment, to the children in tail; in default of issue to the husband in fee. The husband and wife joined in a direction to the trustees, reciting their resolution to invest the trust fund in an estate lately purchased by the husband for 16,300*l.* and directing them to deliver the said stock, &c. to him, at the price they were at on the day of the purchase, which was done. The wife died; there were two daughters; the father, by will, reciting the purchase, and that he had not conveyed it to the uses of the settlement, and that it was not his intention, that the said purchase should be an investment of the trust fund, but that the said fund, with its increase, should be taken out of his personal estate, gave 10,000*l.* part of the trust fund, in trust, to be laid out in land, to be conveyed to one daughter for life for her separate use, remainder to her children in tail, remainder to the other daughter in fee, for whom he also appointed the residue of the fund, but revoked that by codicil, reciting a portion given on her marriage: held, first, that grandchildren are not objects of the power, but the excess only would be void: secondly, the fund, with its increase, was invested in the purchase: thirdly, there was no appointment of the estate of money due on the covenant: fourthly, the remainders in default of appointment are vested subject to be divested by appointment, and will take effect as to what is ill appointed or unappointed: fifthly, the share of the daughter, to whom the portion was advanced on marriage, was thereby satisfied. Smith v. Ld. Camelford, 2 Ves. J. 698. See further this case, nom. Pitt v. Jackson, 2 Bro. C. C. 51. POWER.

Estates are settled on A & B on their marriage, in strict settlement; provided, that if the wife should, when requested by her husband, refuse to settle her estates in a particular manner, the settlement of the other estate should be void: the husband and wife join in a different settlement of her estate, proceeding, however, on the foot of the former covenant, as if it had been performed; this is no avoidance of the settlement. Matthews v. Jones, 2 Anst. 506.

Tenant in tail restrained as to alienation, but with powers of leasing and jointuring, as in case of tenant for life, considered as tenant for life, and, therefore, his personal representative is a creditor for a charge on the estate paid by him (intent to the contrary not appearing), though the subsequent remainders were exactly of the same nature; and the term having been very short, little more than forty years remained. Cs. Shrewsbury v. El. Shrewsbury, 1 Ves. J. 227. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 120. TENANCY FOR LIFE; CHARGE ON ESTATE.

Under a power to appoint a sum of money among children; but that the eldest son, or the son possessing the estate shall have no part of the money, a younger son becoming an eldest is excluded, though mentioned by name in the execution of the power whilst he was a younger son. Broadmead v. Wood, 1 Bro. C. C. 77. YOUNGER CHILDREN.

L having joined her father in raising 24,000*l.* to pay his debts, afterwards, upon her marriage, a settlement being made by which 30,000*l.* was to be raised for the payment of E's debts, it was determined by the court, and affirmed in parliament, that the 24,000*l.* should be taken as part of the 30,000*l.* and not raised beyond it. Shelburne v. Inchiquin, 1 Bro. C. C. 339.

Covenant in an infant's marriage settlement, that whatever should come to the wife from the mother, or otherwise, shall be bound by the settlement, restrained to what shall come from the mother, not to property coming unexpectedly from other quarters. Williams v. Williams, 1 Bro. C. C. 152.

Articles on marriage for settling land to be bought with money, on all the children of the marriage, and their respective issues, and for default of such children, and their issue, over. Held, there should be cross remainders by implication. Twicken v. Lock, Amb. 663. ARTICLES ON MARRIAGE; IMPLICATION.

Tenant in tail conveys his estate to the use of himself and his intended wife, for their lives, with remainder to the heirs of their bodies, and after marriage suffers a recovery; the recovery bars but a moiety, and is a severance of the joint estate. Moody v. Aldrich, Amb. 649. FINE AND RECOVERY.

The court will, from the general frame of a settlement, collect the intent, contrary to the express words of a particular clause. El. Northumberland v. El. Egremont, 1 Eden. 435.

It is a certain rule of law, that if such a construction can be put upon a limitation as that it may take effect by way of remainder, it shall never take place as a springing use, or executory devise. Curwaine v. Curwaine, 1 Eden. 28.

A limitation in a settlement "to trustees, to the use of the settlor for life, remainder to B, his intended wife, for life (except as thereafter excepted), remainder to the heirs of the body of A, begotten on B, remainder to A and his heirs, with a proviso, that if A should die, and leave such issue as aforesaid, without making any provision for such child or children in his lifetime, the same trustees should stand seised of one moiety, from and after the decease of A, to the use of such child: held, a contingent remainder, and not a springing use, and therefore barred by a fine levied by A and B. Id. ib.

A, on his marriage, covenanted that if his wife should die before him, leaving issue of their bodies, he would pay, &c. to and for such issue, one third part of all his chattels, real and personal, which at the death of his wife he should be possessed of, to be divided between them; if more than one, as he should direct. The wife died, leaving two daughters, and the husband, during the coverture, acquired some freehold leases for lives. Held, that these leases were included in the covenant, but that daughters were not entitled to a division till after father's death, he being ordered to give security. Hunkes v. Jones, 6 Bro. P. C. 136. SECURITY.

Articles previous to settlement cannot, in general, be read to construe the settlement, unless the bill is brought to rectify the settlement, or the settlement refers to them. Fritchard v. Quinchant, Amb. 147. EVIDENCE.

The words in marriage settlement, "such child as married without father's consent, should forfeit the said intended portion," extended to the whole interest each child might expect under the settlement, whether certain or contingent. Wrottesley v. Wrottesley, 2 Atk. 584.

A widow of a freeman of London who left children and died intestate, was entitled to four-ninths of his personal estate, and having, by deed, assigned over her four-ninths for her separate use, in case of marriage, and to such persons as she should appoint, and for want of such appointment, then to her children; the widow intending to marry a second husband, by another deed, to which the husband was a party, in consideration of the intended marriage, and of a settlement made on her by him, recites that if she did not dispose of her four-ninths, the husband would be entitled thereto, and then assigns it over to trustees, in trust for the intended husband, during their joint lives, subject to her control and disposal by writing; after which she dies, without disposing of it. Decreed, the second husband is as a purchaser, and the recital, that he would be entitled to it, if the wife should not dispose of it, was a gift. Poulson v. Wellington, 2 P. W. 533.

Portions at twenty-one or marriage. "when C and his wife should die without issue male;" Held a condition precedent, and not to be raised till both are dead, though one die and other remain tenant in tail after possibility of issue extinct. Champney v. Champney, 10 Mod. 312. CONDITION, PRECEDENT; PORTION; TEN. IN TAIL AFTER POSSIBILITY OF ISSUE EXTINGUISHED.

Articles on marriage to settle lands on the husband and wife for their lives, remainders to the first, &c. son of the marriage, remainder to the heirs male of the body of the husband, by any wife, remainder to the heirs of the body of the husband by the first wife, remainder to the husband in fee, with provisions for the daughters of that marriage, if no son. Husband has one daughter by the first wife, suffers a recovery, and marries a second wife, taking notice of his first marriage articles, in his second settlement. He being tenant in tail by the articles, was allowed, by his articles, to have barred his daughter of the first marriage. Powell v. Price, 2 P. W. 535. FINE & RECOVERY; TEN. IN TAIL.

In marriage articles there is a diversity between a limitation to the heirs of the body of a man, and to the heirs female of the body of a man, and the sons more favoured than daughters. Id. 539.

One agrees, before marriage, to settle certain lands on his wife for life, and afterwards devises these lands for payment of his debts; the covenant is a specific lien on the lands; secus, had it been only an agreement to settle so much per annum without mentioning any lands in certain. Freemount v. Dedire, 1 P. W. 429. LIEN.

A proviso in a settlement; if the wife survive her husband, they not having issue between them, then she may revoke the settlement. Husband dies, leaving a son, who dies in the life of his mother; she may revoke the settlement. Holt v. Burley, 2 Vern. 651. Pre. Ch. 293. S. C. POWER OF REVOCATION.

One makes a settlement, with power by deed to revoke it, and by the same deed, or any other, from time to time, to limit new uses; he revokes the settlement, and limits new uses; but reserves no further power to himself; he cannot, by virtue of the first power, limit any other uses. Hele v. Bond, Prec. Chan. 474. POWER, C. OF.

A, on marriage of his son, settles a messuage on himself for life, sans waste, remainder to his son; the father, though his estate for life be sans waste, cannot pull down the house, nor commit any voluntary waste thereon. If he does, the court will grant an injunction to stay waste, and compel the father to put the messuage in as good repair as before the waste committed. Fane v. Id. Barnard, 2 Vern. 738. S. C. Pre. Ch. 454. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 127. 1 Salk. 161. TEN. FOR LIFE; WASTE.

A, seised of a leasehold estate to him and his heirs for their lives, settles it on his daughter and her husband for their lives, remainder to the use of his own executors and administrators. The daughter and her husband die; A dies indebted by simple contract, and devises his estate to his wife. Decreed, that the use of this estate being limited to the executors and administrators of A, this makes it personal estate in A, and being personal estate, A cannot devise it exempt from his debts, though due by simple contract. Deion v. Kinton, 2 Vern. 719. ASSETS.

Articles construed against the words for the sake of the intent, as where the wife's portion was to be laid out in land, to be settled on husband and wife, and the heirs of their bodies, and if not laid out in land during their joint lives, and the wife should die first, that the money should go to the wife's brother and sister; wife dies first, leaving issue, and the money is not laid out in a purchase; yet the issue, and not the wife's brother and sister, shall have it, equity supplying the words, "if the wife die without issue." Kentish v. Newman, 1 P. W. 234.

When a man makes a settlement equivalent to his wife's portion, it shall be intended, that he was to have the portion, though there is no particular agreement for that purpose. Holt v. Es. Hereford, 2 Vern. 502. HUSB. & WIFE.

The words begotten, and to be begotten, are the same as well on construction of wills as settlements. Cook v. Cook, 2 Vern. 545.

An agreement to settle lands of such a value on wife, must be made up so much, and value proper to be settled, by master. Hedges v. Eversall, 1 Eq. Ab. 18. SPEC. PERM.

By a settlement, two estates one in N and the other in S, are subjected to the raising of a portion of 2,000*l.* to a daughter, by a term of 500 years, commencing after the respective decease of two several lives; one upon the S estate, and the other upon the N estate; the life on the S estate fell, and the daughter bringing her bill for the 2,000*l.*, J S, to whom that estate was come, paid the 2,000*l.* Afterwards the life on the N estate fell, and the fee simple thereof descended to the daughter. J S that paid the 2,000*l.* shall have the contribution out of the N estate, in proportion to its value only; the estate shall be valued as an estate in possession, and the N estate as an estate in reversion. Herevingham v. Herevingham, 2 Vern. 355. CONTRIBUTION.

A settles land to the use of himself for life, remainder to such of his four children, and in such shares and proportions, as A, by any writing, shall appoint. A may not only limit the land to any of his children, but may charge the land with any rent charge, or sums of money, for any of his children. Thwaites v. De, 2 Vern. 80. POWER, C. OF.

A, jointly seised with others, conveys his third part to the use of himself for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to his son in fee; and at the same time makes his will, and gives the same lands to his son in tail, charged with his debts. The son is not a trustee for the father in the settlement: otherwise it would have been, if the entire fee had been conveyed to the son. Baylis v. Newton, 2 Vern. 28. TRUST.

4,000*l.* portion is secured by articles, wherein is a proviso, that if the husband did not, within two years, settle a jointure, he should only have the interest for his life; the wife dies within the two years, and before any settlement made; the husband is not entitled to the portion. Yemuden v. Read, 1 Vern. 68. HUSB. & WIFE; CONSON.

1. Whether Fraudulent, Voluntary, or otherwise.
2. Settlement after Marriage in respect of Wife's equitable property claimed by Husband.
3. After Marriage when voluntary, and when for good or valuable security.
4. Constituted by letter.
5. In pursuance of articles, and variance between.

1. Whether fraudulent, voluntary, or otherwise.

Settlement on husband and wife for lives, remainder to sons in tail male, remainder to daughters in tail, remainder to survivor of husband and wife in fee, with power to wife if husband survived, and all the children of marriage died without issue, to charge estate with 5000*l.* Held that power is too remote and void. Bristow v. Boothby, 2 S. & S. 465. POWER TOO REMOTE.

Ward married day after she came of age. After the marriage, a settlement was made on her and husband, &c. but wife never confirmed the same in court. Settlement was, after husband's death, set aside as not approved of by the court, and as precipitation of marriage was a surprise on wife. Long v. Long, 2 S. & S. 119. WARD OF COURT.

Limitations to collaterals in a marriage settlement made by tenant in tail are voluntary against subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration, in the same manner as if the settler had had the fee. Cornick v. Trapaud, 6 Dow. 86. COLLATERAL RELATIONS.

Covenant in marriage articles in favour of a stranger, held merely voluntary, and not to be supported by the marriage consideration. Sutton v. Chetwynd, 3 Mer. 249. CONSIDERATION.

Settlement on marriage of freehold estates of inheritance, of freeholds for lives and years, by a man not indebted in trade or intending it, to the use of himself for life, unless he shall embark in trade, and in the life of his wife become bankrupt, and from his decease or bankruptcy to secure an annuity for his wife, and subject thereto for his heirs, executors, &c., on his afterwards engaging in trade and becoming bankrupt, is void as against his creditors. Higginbotham v. Holme, 19 Ves. 88. FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

Limitation of wife's property until the bankruptcy of her husband, or a lease determinable on the bankruptcy of the lessee good. Id. ib.

Settlement on marriage of wife's fortune in case of bankruptcy of the husband, though in form of bond by him; but as his bond, affecting his property, it is void as against the creditors. Exp. Hodgson, 19 Ves. 206. FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

Settlement sustained by the consideration of marriage against creditors, notwithstanding false recitals that the property was the wife's, protecting also voluntary expenditure by the husband after the marriage, in improvement by building and infranchising copyholds, but not jewels and furniture purchased by him after the marriage and given to her. Campton v. Cotton, 17 Ves. 264. FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

The consideration of marriage will support a settlement even of moveable effects, and neither the joint possession of furniture nor the want of an inventory, nor the fact that the settlor was indebted at the time, and that his wife knew it, will affect the settlement. Id. 271. CONSIDERATION; MARRIAGE.

Trader by settlement on marriage in consideration of 1000*l.* the wife's fortune, conveyed his house to trustees to his own use till death or bankruptcy, then in either event if wife alive, to raise 1000*l.* for her separate use. This a fair and valid settlement in nature of a mortgage to secure the wife's fortune. Higginson v. Kelly, 1 Ball & B. 252. BANKRUPTCY.

A trader cannot on marriage secure a provision out of his property for his wife in the event of bankruptcy in prejudice to his creditors. But marriage settlement of a trader securing a provision in case of bankruptcy for the wife, good to the extent of her property. Id. 255, 256. BANKRUPTCY AND SETTLEMENT.

Default of payment of the consideration on one part does not vitiate a marriage contract. But the defaulting party cannot enforce the contract against the party injured by his default. Compton v. Ormsby, 2 Scho. & L. 602.

Papist tenant in tail in the year 1766, confessed judgments to a trustee in trust for the use of a settlement made on the marriage of his nephew, and afterwards in 1770, suffered a recovery: Held that the judgments were not a fraud on the then existing disabling statutes, that the recovery, not having any operation to defeat the provisions of those statutes, was valid, and that the issue of the marriage claiming under the settlement had a right to raise the amount of the judgments out of the lands in the hands of a purchaser with notice. O'Fallon v. Dillon, 2 Scho. & L. 13. PAPIST.

T, a papist, seised in fee of lands purchased before the stat. 2 Ann. c. 6. by articles on the marriage of his son in 1708, covenanted to settle not only those lands, but others acquired since the statute in strict settlement: Held that these articles had no operation not on the lands purchased before the statute, because such a disposition was made void by that statute, nor on the lands purchased afterwards, because by the statute T was disqualified from holding an estate sufficient to support the covenant. Moore v. Butler, 2 Scho. & L. 249. PAPIST.

Articles executed in 1714, and a settlement in pursuance thereof in 1720, made between T and J his eldest son, (both being papists) settling lands acquired since 1708, and re-settling the former lands on J for life, remainder to his then first and other sons for life, remainder to their issue in strict settlement, held also inoperative except as to making a provision for younger children, and not sufficient to put the son of J to an election: Held, therefore, that under a protestant discovery decree, obtained in 1751 in trust for T and assigned to J the younger, (the son of J the settler), J the younger, was not a trustee for the persons claiming under that settlement, but that the effect of that decree was to subject the premises comprised therein to the mortgage of J the younger. Id. ib.

Consideration of marriage runs through the whole settlement, and especially supports every provision with regard to the husband and wife; she is interested in the provision for husband, enabling him to provide for her and children, and it is not affected by subsequent events as death of wife without children. Nairn v. Prowse, 6 Ves. 752. CONSIDERATION.

Personal estate settled on marriage for the husband for life, then for the wife for life, then to and among all and every the children and grandchildren, or issue in such shares, under such restrictions, at such times, and in such manner as they or the survivor should appoint by deed or deeds, or by will, for want of appointment, to all and every the children and grandchildren, or issue being at the decease of the survivor equally, payable at twenty-one or marriage; if but one, to that one, provided that in case of no appointment, the issue of any children dead should not have a greater share than their parents would have had: Issue only are within the power, but in any degree: but an appointment to any issue not living must be restrained to twenty-one years after lives in being at the creation of the power, otherwise it is void even as to such as come in esse within those limits; but on marriage of a daughter interests may be given to her children generally, and to the husband. What is ill-appointed goes as in default of appointment: but children of a living parent cannot take under the proviso. Roake v. Darril, 2 Ves. J. 356. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

On the treaty of marriage between A and B, the father and mother of B, in consideration of the settlement to be made by A, join in conveying a small estate (out of which the mother was dowerable) to A in fee; (but no fine was levied,) and they also joined in settling another estate of which the father was seized in fee on the father for life, remainder to the mother for life, remainder to the uses of the marriage. At the time of the settlement the father was indebted by specialty. This being a fair and reasonable family settlement, and not made with any view to defeat creditors, the limitation to the mother for life is not fraudulent as against creditors, within the statute 13 Eliz. more especially as she had joined in conveying the small estate in fee to the husband. Jones v. Boulter, 1 Cox, 288. FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

A, on marriage settled lands to himself for life, remainder to wife for jointure, remainder to first, &c. sons in tail male, reserving power of charging with 3000*l.* for younger children on payment of debts, and covenanted to lay out 6000*l.* part of wife's portion, in funds to same uses; the 6000*l.* is not laid out. After eldest son came of age, it was agreed in consideration of his advancing 3000*l.* for purchase of commission in army to make a new settlement more beneficial for younger children, by which lands were limited to former uses, but A was empowered to charge 3000*l.* for each of younger children and covenant to lay out 6000*l.* was released; court refused to set aside last settlement. El. Kerry v. Ld. Fitzmaurice, 2 Bro. P. C. 384.

Daughter entitled to a portion secured on land, marries clandestinely in the lifetime of her father; afterwards the father secures the portion to the husband on his making a settlement: Held the settlement was not fraudulent against the creditors of the husband. Wheeler v. Caryll, Amb. 121. FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

A settlement made in consideration of marriage is good against every body if made before marriage; if made after, is voluntary against creditors. Id. ib.

In marriage settlements, &c. on good or valuable consideration as between the immediate parties, such consideration will run through all the limitations for the benefit of the remotest persons, even of those in respect of whom the deeds would otherwise have been voluntary. Itell v. Beane, 1 Ves. 215. S. C. Dick. 132. CONSIDERATION.

Where parents did not make so beneficial a bargain for a daughter as they might have done, that is no reason to set aside the marriage agreement; for the law has entrusted them with the marriage of their children, and there are many proper considerations that may induce a parent to agree to a match, besides a strict equality of fortune. There never yet has been an objection to a father's disposing of his daughter in marriage, on what terms he pleases; and though most portions arise under settlements, the daughter is as much a purchaser, as if her portion came from a collateral relation. Harvey v. Ashley, 3 Atk. 610, 613.

Parties entitled to an estate confirming a jointress's settlement are purchasers of her interest in incumbrances paid off by her fortune which had been assigned for the better securing her rights under the settlement. Ex. Portsmouth v. Ly. Suffolk, 1 Ves. 31. HUSB. & WIFE; SEPARATE ESTATE; ESTATE BY PURCHASE; PAYING OFF INCUMBRANCES.

A widow before her marriage with A, her second husband, conveys her estate to trustees in order to make settlements upon the issue of her first marriage. Afterwards A and his wife mortgage the settled estates to persons who had notice of the settlement. Here it was declared that the settlement is no voluntary agreement, but a binding one, and no instance where such a limitation has been held fraudulent and void against subsequent purchasers or creditors: for if it should, no widow on her subsequent marriage could make any certain provision for the issue of a former. Newstead v. Searies, 1 Atk. 265. Cotton v. King, 2 P. W. 358. 674. FRAUD AGAINST CREDITORS.

If a person on marriage make an extravagant or unreasonable settlement, yet if no fraud or incapacity appear, it shall not be avoided by persons claiming under a subsequent marriage settlement. Hobson v. Stane, 9 Mod. 80. FRAUD; UNREASONABLE BARGAIN.

A seised in fee on his marriage, covenants to settle the premises on himself and his wife, and on the issue of the marriage, remainder to his nephew in fee, the remainder in fee is voluntary and not supported by the consideration of that marriage or of the marriage portion. Osgood v. Stode, 2 P. W. 245. S. C. 10 Mod. 533. SPEC. PERF.; COLLATERAL RELATIONS.

A, the father, and B the son, on the marriage of B articulated to settle lands on B and his wife for their lives, remainder to their issue, remainder to the nephew in fee, if A had the sole interest, the limitation to the nephew is voluntary. Secus, if the father and son had each same interest. Id. ib.

Purchaser for valuable consideration without notice shall not be impeached especially when a settlement has been since made in his favour. Rochfort v. Nugent, 5 Bro. P. C. 351. VEND. & PURCH. NOTICE.

A limitation to a second son in remainder in tail, on a settlement made on the marriage of the first son, and in consideration of the wife's portion, makes not the second son a purchaser. Webster v. Bishop, Prec. Chan. 224. ESTATE BY PURCHASE.

A settlement made by a lunatic though reasonable and for the convenience of the family, ought to be set aside in equity. Clerk v. Clerk, 2 Vern. 414. LUNACY.

2. Settlement after marriage, in respect of wife's equitable property claimed by husband.

Divorce obtained by wife after husband's bankruptcy, does not entitle wife to whole of fund bequeathed to her, which came into possession after bankruptcy, though no settlement was made on her at marriage, and husband at that time received 1500*l.* with her. Green v. Otte, 1 S. & S. 250. HUSB. & WIFE; DIVORCE; ASSIGT.

Bill for husband for stock held in trust for his wife; a claim was set up under a bond by the wife, and her former husband securing an annuity out of the dividends as an assignment for valuable consideration, but as it came before the court collaterally, and several objections were taken upon the annuity act, the infancy of the wife, and the nature of her interest at the time, the master of the rolls, though upon the general question inclining in favour of the wife's equity against an assignment for valuable consideration, would not determine it, but referred it to the master to approve a settlement upon the wife and her issue, with liberty to the representative of the obligee to apply. Franco v. Franco, 4 Ves. 515. HUSB. & WIFE; ASSIGNMENT FOR VAL. CON.

Legacy due to wife, she being dead, master to see if husband had made any provision for her. Cockel v. Phipps, Dick, 391.

Husband by making settlement on wife after marriage, is purchaser of mortgage of wife, though he did not reduce it into possession. Sykes v. Meynall, 1d. 368.

Injunction at suit of wife, granted against husband to stay proceedings in spiritual court by husband for legacy due to wife, he having made no settlement. Meals v. Meals, 1d. 373.

Covenant in marriage articles, that lands settled were of a certain value, which they were not, husband by will "confirms the articles and also gives his wife all his lands in A B for life." Held not to be a question of satisfaction or part performance, but of construction, and that the wife was entitled to both interests under the intent thus collected. Further covenant from the husband, "in as much as he was to be absolutely entitled to all the wife's personal estate," to settle "in respect of any sum that might come to her afterwards after the rate of 100*l.* per annum on her for life for every 1000*l.*, and upon certain contingences that she should be paid back a moiety of all that he should receive as her portion." The husband obtained a decree for 400*l.* of the wife's money, but did not receive it. Held she was entitled to a settlement according to that proportion, and the contingencies having happened, to the moiety likewise of all sums received, including the 400*l.*; since the husband might have received it. Prime v. Stebbing, 2 Ves. 409. SETTLE. SATISFYN. OF.

3. Settlement after marriage, when voluntary, and when for a good or valuable Consideration.

A settlement after a marriage in Scotland, not supported against creditors in bankruptcy as upon valuable consideration, by a re-celebration of the marriage in England, but it was sustained as the consideration of an agreement to settle by the parent of the other party. Exp. Hall, 1 V. & B. 112. S. C. 1 Rose, 30. BANKCY.; ASSIGT.; CONSON.

Voluntary settlement void under the statute 27 Eliz. c. 4, against a subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration, with notice though a fair provision for a wife and children. An injunction restraining the husband from selling was refused, but a demurrer by the husband overruled as covering too much the plaintiff being entitled until a sale to an execution of the trust. Pulvertoft v. Pulvertoft, 18 Ves. 84. VOLUNT. SETTLE.; NOTICE; INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN SALE.

Settlement after marriage, fraudulent only as against creditors at that time. Kidney v. Coussmaker, 12 Ves. 136. FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

Purchase by wife from husband through the medium of trustees for her separate use and appointment, may be sustained against creditors, if bona fide, though the husband is indebted at the time, and even though the object is to preserve from his creditors, for the family, the subject of the purchase. J. Arundell v. Phipps, 10 Ves. 139. FRAUDULET CONVEYANCE.

A settlement after marriage by a person not indebted, is not within the statute of fraudulent conveyances. Stephens v. Olive, 2 Bro. C. C. 90. FRAUDULET CONVEYANCE.

Settlement after marriage of a portion paid is on good consideration, and equal to one made before marriage. Ramsden v. Hyllon, 2 Ves. 305.

Stock was bequeathed to A after his marriage, which he vested in trustees for the benefit of himself and wife for life, and then to their children. This settlement is void as against the husband's creditors, both before and after the marriage. Taylor v. Jones, 2 Atk. 600.

Such a settlement good as against a father after marriage, and against a voluntary conveyance. S. C. Ib.

A entitled to 500*l.* marries whilst an infant. After marriage husband agrees that the 500*l.* shall be to wife's separate use for life, and after her death to issue of marriage. The deed contained power to trustee to lend a part or the whole to the husband. He lent her the 500*l.* and in fourteen months the husband became bankrupt. Decreed that trustee would come in as a creditor under the commission for the money lent. Middlecombe v. Marlow, 2 Atk. 519. CREDITORS.

A settlement after marriage is good when husband was not indebted at the time, and the wife, when married, an infant. S. C. Ib.

If a settlement be just in general, a particular advantage on one side or the other will not affect it. S. C. Ib.

A settlement after marriage, in consideration of a portion paid at the time, is good against subsequent creditors. Stileman v. Ashdown, 2 Atk. 477. CREDITORS.

Settlement after marriage, in consideration of portion given to wife, is good against husband's creditors. Russell v. Hammond, 1 Atk. 13. S. P. Stileman v. Ashdown, 2 Atk. 477. Anon. Prec. Ch. 101. Jones v. Marsh, Ca. temp. Talb. 64. Brown v. Jones, 1 Atk. 190. Lanoy v. Athol, 2 Atk. 444. Ward v. Shallet, 2 Ves. 16. Hilton v. Biscoe, 2 Ves. 308. Wherler v. Caryl, Amb. 121. CONSIDERATION.

Where settlement was made on wife after marriage, in bar of dower, &c., and by wife's waving it, she would go to heir to prejudice of creditors, she was decreed to have the estate for life according to settlement, but that she should assign it over in trust for creditors who should convey to her a third for dower. Miller v. Eden, 10 Mod. 487. ADJON. OF ASSETS; ELECTION.

4. Constituted by letter.

Settlement decreed according to a letter previous to the marriage, though no express assignment, the marriage having taken place immediately: a distinct positive dissent would be necessary to prevent the effect of the letter, and that could be evidenced only to an actual settlement before marriage. Luders v. Anstey, 4 Ves. 501.

5. In pursuance of Articles, and variance between.

Articles before marriage for settling real estates of the husband, and also all and singular his personal estate of what nature or kind soever, a proper execution would be by a covenant, that real estate that should be purchased with the personal, should, with respect to the objects of the settlement, be considered personal: the settlement, therefore, made after marriage containing no such covenant, and being in other respects a defective execution, real estates purchased by the husband according to the evidence, in order to defeat the right of his wife, were decreed to be conveyed by his devise according to the articles. A gift by him in his life in consideration of service, was not disputed but under the particular circumstances attending the marriage, and in the case of an infant the court appeared to question its validity. Randall v. Willis, 5 Ves. 262.

By articles, the wife's fortune, and an equal sum advanced by the husband were agreed to be settled for the husband for their joint lives, and if he should die first leaving issue by her, for her life; after her decease as to the capital in such manner as he should appoint; in default of appointment to be divided equally among the issue at twenty-one, with maintenance and survivorship after marriage. In pursuance of the articles, an estate purchased with the fund was settled upon the husband for the joint lives of him and his wife; remainder to trustees to preserve, &c.; remainder in case of his death first, without issue, to certain uses; remainder, in case of his death first, leaving any child or children, to the wife for life; remainder to the child or children in such shares as the husband should appoint; for want of appointment, equally in tail, with cross-remainders; remainder to the heirs of the husband, children only are the objects; and an appointment to a child for life; remainder to his children as he shall appoint is an excess of power; and the doctrine of cy pres, by giving the child an estate tail, is not applicable: but the appointment is void for the excess only; and what is ill appointed, goes as in default of appointment. Bristow v. Warde, 2 Ves. J. 336. POWEN, EXECUTION OF.

Settlement set right according to articles. Langley v. Furlong, Dick. 315. Neal v. Cust, Dick. 513.

Settlement under articles from which it deviated set right, and what estate was damaged by tenant for life not upholding it, declared specialty debt, and to be answered out of his assets. Id. ib.

The purchase of houses in London, and of lands of the tenure of borough English, held not to be a due execution of a covenant in marriage articles to purchase or settle "lands of inheritance." As to the mode of computing the value of premises in the master's office. Jinnet v. Hullet, 2 Ves. 276. S. C. Amb. 106.

Articles are considered in a court of equity as minutes only, which the settlement may explain more at large. Blandford v. Marlborough, 2 Atk. 545.

No difference between articles unexecuted in toto or in part, for the ground the court goes upon is, what is covenanted to be done is considered as done. S. C. id.

Where the articles and the indenture of settlement bear date on the same day, as in this case, they must be considered as one and the same act, and a different construction ought not to be put upon them. Heneage v. Hunloke, 2 Atk. 457.

Settlement, after marriage, purporting to be pursuant to articles before, but differing, not supported. But, secus, if both before marriage, except where the settlement purports to be pursuant to such articles. Legg v. Goldwire, Forreg. 20. DEEDS, VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT AFTER MARRIAGE.

Articles, on marriage, to settle land on husband and wife for life; remainder to heirs male of body of wife by husband; remainder to heirs male by husband by other wife; remainder to heirs female by wife. A settlement is made before marriage, and said to be in pursuance of articles whereby lands are limited to husband for life, without waste, and with power of making leases; remainder to first, &c. son of marriage in tail male: remainder to first &c. sons in tail by other marriage; remainders to heirs of body of husband. There are issue two daughters. Husband suffers recovery and devises premises to his sister: daughters may compel a reconveyance to them. West v. Erisey, 1 Com. 412. S. C. 2 P. W. 349. and on appeal, 1 Bro. P. C. 225. RECONVEYANCE; FINE & RECOVERY, WHO BOUND.

Articles, and a settlement mentioned to be made in pursuance thereof, were both made before the marriage, but the settlement varied from the uses in the articles. Decreed to go according with the articles. Honour v. Honour, 2 Vern. 658. S. C. 1 P. W. 123.

III. OF FUTURE PROPERTY.

Settlement by husband in consideration of portion of fortune which he would have or receive on his marriage, limited to the portion received upon the marriage, not extending to make him a purchaser of future accession, unless clearly the intention. Carr v. Taylor, 10 Ves. 574. HUSB. & WIFE.

Effect of an agreement to settle present and future property. Coke v. Bishop, 3 Swan. 401. AGREEMENT.

IV. EFFECT OF HUSBAND'S BANKRUPTCY, OR INSOLVENCY ON.

See also SETTLEMENT, II. ante.

A sum covenanted by the husband to be paid when demanded by the trustees, on the request of the wife, is, if demanded before the bankruptcy, provable. Exp. Breuchley, 2 G. & J. 174. BANKCY. PROOF.

Bankruptcy cannot have the effect of voluntary transfer of stock under a covenant. Exp. Alevick, 1 V. & B. 179. DELIS. VOLUNTARY TRANSFER; BANKCY. EFFECT OF.

Covenant in marriage settlement by the husband, that he would, upon a month's notice, or in the event of his default during his life, that his representatives would, within a month after his death, transfer stock, in trust, &c. in bar of dower, &c.; with a proviso, that notwithstanding the covenant to transfer upon their request in writing, it should be lawful for the trustees, if they thought fit to forbear requiring from him, during his life, the transfer: Held to be a contingent debt, not capable of proof under a commission of bankruptcy against the husband, no transfer having been made or notice given. Hill v. Cock, 1 V. & B. 176. S. C. 1 Rose, 323. BANKCY. PROOF UNDER.

Bond from father of wife to trustees on marriage for separate use of wife in case of bankruptcy of husband, declared valid. Exp. Orley, 1 Ball & B. 257. PAR. & CHILD; BANKCY.

Marriage settlement by trader, giving his bond and the rents of his house to trustees for wife and children, in the event of his bankruptcy or death, void for the former. The proof of bond to stand, the dividends invested in securities, the interest to go to assignees, during the life of bankrupt, then to wife and children. Id. BANKCY.

Bond upon marriage to pay a sum of money to the husband; which, upon certain contingencies to be determined upon his death, was declared to be subject to the trusts of the settlement for his wife and children. Upon his bankruptcy payment was decreed to the assignees. Studdy v. Tingcombe, 5 L. C. 695. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT.

Money of the wife's by settlement to be lent to the husband on bond at 5l. per cent. and no interest paid till he should decline trade, then the interest to be paid him for life; remainder to the wife, remainder to the children: husband becomes bankrupt, the assignees are entitled to the interest of the dividends during the life of the husband. Stratton v. Hale, 2 Bro. C. C. 490. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT, WHAT PASSES.

V. WHERE INFANT IS A PARTY.

Female infant not bound by agreement to settle her freehold estate on marriage, without an option when twenty-one to refuse; but her heir bound under the circumstances, claiming as special occupant the subject being leaseholds for lives frequently, during and since the coverture, renewed by the husband, who had settled his own estate: the settlement confirmed by her repeated acts and fines, though not of the life estate, and by orders of court; children having existed, though deceased under age; no claim for many years, and during eighteen, an adverse possession against a former heir by the husband; the bill claiming, not against his assets, but merely an account since his death against his devisee for life; whose possession commenced long since the fall of the surviving life in the original leases. Altner v. Lt. Harewood, 18 Ves. 259. CONTRACT, WHO MAY; HEIR AT LAW.

Though a female infant is not bound by an agreement on marriage to settle her real estate; if she does not when of age choose to accede to it, her husband would not be permitted to aid her in defeating it: nor is her act during coverture effectual. Id. 275. CONTRACT; WHO MAY; HUSB. & WIFE; REAL ESTATE.

A male infant marries an adult female, who by settlements, covenants that her estate shall be settled to certain uses; he is bound by her covenant. Stoccombe v. Glubb, 2 Bro. C. C. 545.

Infant to express his consent, joins in a settlement by a woman in contemplation of marriage with him; he is bound thereby, if on fair consideration, and no fraud; as where the transaction is public and with consent of the family; though his being privy would not have excluded him from any rights as being an infant. Cs. Strathmore v. Bowes, 1 Ves. J. 28.

To bind an infant, the marriage settlement must be fair and reasonable, and not tend to deprive her of every thing. Williams v. Williams, 1 Bro. C. C. 152. CONTRACT.

Mortgages by husband and wife of the wife's estate to persons who had notice of a settlement made before the marriage, during the wife's infancy; ordered to be assigned to the trustee in the settlement, but the interest during the life of husband and wife to be applied to the payment of the mortgages, without prejudice to her remedy against the husband. As to what settlement made during the wife's infancy will bind her? Darnford v. Lane, id. 106. MORTGAGE; NOTICE.

VI. AGREEMENTS, &c. AT VARIANCE WITH, OR FRAUDULENT AS AGAINST SETTLEMENT.

A woman, ten months before her marriage, but after the commencement of that intimate acquaintance with her future husband, which ended in marriage, made a settlement of a sum of money, which he did not know her to be possessed of; this marriage took place, she concealing from him both her right to the money, and the existence of the settlement; ten years afterwards she died, and after her death he filed a bill to have the money paid to him: Held, that the settlement was void, as being a fraud on his marital right. Goddard v. Snow, 1 Russ. 485. FRAUD ON MARITAL RIGHTS.

Trustee of a settlement not entitled by an agreement with the husband before the marriage, to a lien on the fund, settled to the separate use of the wife during the joint lives of the husband and wife, with remainder to the survivor, in opposition to a joint appointment made by them, under a power reserved to them in the settlement. Morris v. Clarkson, 1 Jac. & W. 107. LIEN; TRUSTEE.

Equity will not decree specific execution of an article which is contrary to the powers in a settlement. Stratford v. Aldborough, 1 Ridgw. P. C. 281.

Equity will not decree specific execution of a covenant in a lease violating the restrictions of a prior settlement, of which the lessee had notice. Cryford v. Oliver, id. 315. SPEC. PERF.

A settlement will control a writing executed after, but the parties refusing to execute the settlement without it, they must be construed as one entire agreement, and both consistent. Tyrell v. Hope, 2 Atk. 500.

VII. SATISFACTION AND PERFORMANCE OF.

A legacy given by a father's will is such an advancement of younger children in lifetime of father as will be accounted in equity a satisfaction, pro tanto, of portions to be raised for them under the testator's marriage settlement; if it contains a clause, providing that advancement shall be a satisfaction so far. The will being silent in that respect, is not per se equivalent to a declaration, that legacy shall not be towards such satisfaction. Golding v. Harefield, 13 Pri. 593. S. C. 1 McCl. 345. ADVANCEMENT; PARENT & CHILD.

Gift of an equal sum, by will, is a clear performance of a covenant in the settlement. The provision in the settlement is not a debt, in the ordinary sense of the word, so as to come under direction in will to pay debts. Wathen v. Smith, 4 Mad. 236. S. C. Id. 325. WILL, C. OF; TRUST TO PAY DEBTS.

G, having by marriage articles covenanted that if he died in the lifetime of his wife, his executors should within three months after his decease, pay to her 3000*l.*, and having, by his will given all his property to his executors, in trust, after payment of his debts, at the expiration of three years from his decease, to divide it "in such ways, shares, and proportions as to them shall appear right," on his death, during the life of his wife, the executors having died or renounced, his property is divisible according to the statute of distribution, and the widow's distributive share exceeding 3000*l.*, is a performance of the covenant in the marriage articles. Goldsmid v. Goldsmid, 1 Swan. 211.

Portion by settlement vested at twenty-one, or marriage of daughters, to be paid at the death of the surviving partner, if the parents, or either should in their or either of their lifetime, settle, give, or advance money, land, &c. in marriage or otherwise; such advancement to be taken as part, or the whole of the portion, unless the contrary declared in writing. A legacy payable at twenty-one, a satisfaction pro tanto. Onslow v. Mitchell, 18 Ves. 490. PORTION, SATISFACTION OF.

Rule as to satisfaction of a portion by a legacy, that there must be some express evidence, or at least a strong presumption that it was intended as such; slight variation in the time of payment between twenty-one, and twenty-one or marriage, immaterial. Id. ib.

Marriage articles carried into execution, by limiting estates in strict settlement to A and B respectively, with cross-remainders between B and the issue of A, with power to A to appoint both estates among his children. The will of A referring to the estate, but not to the power, declared a good execution of the power, to the extent of limiting estates tail to the children; the excess reformed to effectuate the general intention of the articles. Dillon v. Dillon, 1 Ball & B. 77. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

Portion by will, prima facie a satisfaction of a portion by settlement. Tolson v. Collins, 4 Ves. 491. PORTION; WILL, C. OF.

Settlement previous to marriage of the wife's fortune on herself, with a covenant by the husband in consideration of the marriage, &c., and for making some provision for the wife and her issue, to pay within three months after his death 6000*l.* to the trustees, in trust, if the wife should survive him, and there being no issue, which was the event, to pay 1500*l.* to the wife, her executors, &c., and to pay the interest of the remaining 4500*l.* to her for life, she is entitled to dower, and her share, under the statute of distributions, is not a satisfaction or performance of the covenant. Cough v. Stratton, 4 Ves. 391. HUSB. & WIFE; DOWER.

Portions for the children by the will of the parent, presumed a satisfaction of a prior provision by settlement, unless clearly not so intended, the presumption is not rebutted by slight circumstances; accounts in the testator's handwriting, where admitted as evidence of the circumstances under which he made his will, but not to explain the will. Hinchcliffe v. Hinchcliffe, 3 Ves. 516. PARENT & CHILD; EVIDENCE.

Portions for the children by the will of the parent, held a satisfaction of a provision by settlement upon the intention: slight circumstances of difference that would repel the presumption of satisfaction between strangers, are not sufficient in the case of parent and child. Sparks v. Cator, 3 Ves. 530. PARENT & CHILD; PR. EVIDENCE.

Covenant in marriage articles by the husband, to pay his wife if she should survive, 200*l.* as jointure, and 50*l.* to provide herself with a house, yearly for life; afterwards by will he gave her an estate and house, above the value of 100*l.* a year, with the household goods, &c., and an annuity of 100*l.* commencing and payable at different times from those in the articles: held, not a performance, nor intended as a satisfaction; no such intent being expressed. Richardson v. Elphinstone, 2 Ves. J. 463. WILL, C. OF.

Wife entitled, under bond by the husband upon the marriage, to the sum payable three months after death; for her for life, then for the children, if none, for her absolutely. By will he gave all real and personal estate he then had, or might be possessed of, upon trust, to pay her the rents and interest for life, then the whole equally to the children; if none, over; and revoked all former settlements and wills. There were no children: held, the widow entitled to both. Forsight v. Grant, 1 Ves. J. 298. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 242. Id.

On deficiency of assets, marriage portions no satisfaction of a legacy to the wife from her father; the portion being less than the legacy, having been paid absolutely to the husband upon giving up a certain interest of his wife; the legacy being to the wife for life, remainder to her children and grand-children, remainder over, and being expressly in satisfaction of another distinct interest of the wife, and held, no ademption, the intent not being sufficiently plain. Baugh v. Read, 1 Ves. J. 257.

Members of a society covenanted mutually, that their widows should receive annuities from the society. Payment from the society is not a satisfaction for a covenant in the settlement by the husband, to pay her an annuity in lieu of all claim on his personal estate. Rhodes v. Rhodes, 1 Ves. J. 96. BENEFIT SOCIETIES.

Gift of a residue by will, is a satisfaction for money secured to be paid by marriage articles. Pearson v. Morgan, 2 Bro. C. C. 333.

Proviso in a settlement, that the wife should not be barred of any thing the husband should give or leave by deed or will; he dies intestate, and a freeman of London: her shares by the statute and custom are not a satisfaction of the covenant. Kirkman v. Kirkman, 2 Bro. C. C. 95. SETTLM. C. OF; CUSTOM OF LONDON.

On marriage, the husband covenanted, that if the wife should survive him, and there should be no issue, his executors should, within nine months after his death, pay to the wife, 800*l.* for her own use; but if there should be issue, then the 800*l.* should be laid out by the trustees, and the interest paid to the wife for life, and after her death the principal divided amongst the children. There was no issue of the marriage. The husband by his will bequeathed one moiety of certain articles of his personal estate to his wife, which moiety greatly exceeded in value the sum of 800*l.* This bequest will not amount to a performance or a satisfaction of the covenant contained in the marriage settlement; the gift of a residue is never considered as a satisfaction of a certain provision made for a wife on marriage, although it may in the event turn out more beneficial. Devese v. Pontet, 1 Cox, 188. RESIDUE.

On marriage the husband covenants to pay to trustees the sum of 2000*l.* at least, to be by them laid out in land in the county of D, and settled to the uses of the marriage; the husband never pays the money to the trustees, but soon after the marriage purchases land in the county of D, and takes the conveyance to himself in fee, and then dies intestate, without making any settlement. These lands will be considered as purchased by the husband in pursuance of his covenant, and be liable to the trust of the settlement. Sowden v. Sowden, 1 Cox, 165, S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 582.

In marriage settlement by which a life estate was given to the wife, there was a power to raise 10,000*l.* for younger children: the settlor forgetting that he had made such a settlement, and by will reciting that he had made no settlement on the wife, provided portions of 5000*l.* if but one younger child, and 2000*l.* each, if more; there being two younger children, decreed that this provision by the will, is in part satisfaction of the portion by settlement, and that only 10,000*l.* should be raised. Warren v. Warren, 1 Bro. C. C. 305.

By marriage settlement, part of wife's fortune was advanced to husband for the purpose of his trade, for which he secured her an annuity, the rest being settled upon the children after the decease of husband and wife, in such proportions as the wife should direct by will; he directed the wife should relinquish her claim under the settlement, and left a larger sum to trustees, the interest to be paid to her while sole, with a power to her to dispose of the whole among the children; that is, a satisfaction for their portions under the settlement. Moulson v. Moulson, 1 Bro. C. C. 82. PORTIONS, SATISFACTION OF.

A provision by marriage settlement, with a proviso that sums advanced should go in satisfaction, unless otherwise declared, 4000*l.* left by will, subject to the life of the mother, and the residue of the personal estate, being given by the will to a child entitled to the provision under the settlement, must go in satisfaction of that provision. Richman v. Morgan, id. 63.

One, on marriage, gives bond to settle an estate of inheritance of clear 100*l.* a-year to the use of himself for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to the heirs of their bodies, remainder to his own right heirs; he afterwards settled a rent charge, which he was entitled to, payable out of the customs at Hull: held, a performance of the agreement. Middleton v. Pryor, Amb. 391.

Land purchased, and suffered to descend, decreed to be taken as a part performance, and satisfaction of the marriage articles. Hucks v. Hucks, 2 Ves. 568.

Covenant in marriage articles, that lands settled were of a certain value, which they were not; husband by will, "confirms the articles, and also gives his wife all his lands in A B, for life:" held, not to be a question of satisfaction or part performance, but of construction, and that the wife was intitled to both interests under the intent thus collected. Further covenant from the husband, "inasmuch as he was to be absolutely entitled to all the wife's personal estate," to settle, "in respect of any sum that might come to her afterwards, after the rate of 100*l.* per annum on her for life, for every 1000*l.*, and upon certain contingencies, that she should be paid back a moiety of all that he should receive as her portion." The husband obtained a decree for 400*l.* of the wife's money, but did not receive it: held, she was entitled to a settlement according to that proportion, and the contingencies having happened, to the moiety likewise of all sums received, including the 400*l.*; since the husband might have received it. Prime v. Stebbing, 2 Ves. 409. SETTLM. C. OF.

Devise of residue of real and personal for life, not a satisfaction for a sum to be laid out in lands in fee by articles. Alley v. Alley, id. 37.

Covenant in marriage articles, to purchase and settle lands, lands purchased and suffered to descend, taken in satisfaction of it. Lewis v. Hill, 1 Ves. 274.

But the purchase of houses in London will not answer a covenant to purchase lands of inheritance. Id. ib.

A, agrees to settle 100*l.* per annum on intended wife; falling sick, devises 100*l.* per annum to her; recovering, marries her, and the settlement is carried into execution; she can take but 100*l.*, and parol evidence admitted to prove the intent. Mascal v. Mascal, id. 323. WILL, C. OF; PR. EVIDENCE PAROL.

An annuity of 40*l.* per annum devised to wife, is no satisfaction of bond for 1000*l.* settled on her at marriage: but held she was entitled to both. Jobson v. Pelly, 9 Mod. 437.

Agreement to settle is satisfied by suffering estate to descend, or by devising it to party entitled. Seys v. Price, 9 Mod. 220.

In a settlement, a term was raised for daughters' portions (viz.) 10,000*l.*, with a proviso, that if the father by deed or will should give, or leave the sum of 10,000*l.* to his said daughter, it should be a satisfaction; the father leaves land to the daughters of the value of 10,000*l.*: this no satisfaction. Chaplin v. Chaplin, 3 P. W. 245. PORTION, SATISFACTION OF.

One gives a bond on his marriage, either within four months, to settle lands of 100*l.* per annum on his wife, or that his heirs, &c. shall pay her 2000*l.* within four months after his death; husband, after this, devises to his wife lands of 80*l.* per annum; this shall not be taken in part of the 100*l.* per annum, but only as a benevolence. Eastwood v. Vinke, 2 P. W. 614.

By marriage articles, the eldest son was made tenant in tail; proviso, that the father might sell the lands by the consent of the trustees, and purchase other lands, and settle them to the like uses; he purchased other lands, but did not settle them to the like uses, yet held good. Reeves v. Reeves, 9 Mod. 128.

Lands settled in jointure are covenanted to be of the yearly value of 1000*l.*; the husband by his will gives his wife 1000*l.* and other legacies: The jointure lands prove deficient 300*l.* per annum: held, that the legacies which were admitted to be of greater value than the defect of jointure, ought to be taken in satisfaction of such deficiency. Mountague v. Maxwell, 4 Bro. P. C. 598.

Covenant in marriage settlement, that sum of money should be laid out in land, and settled so as to descend on children, is not satisfied by the covenantor bequeathing certain sums to the heir. Slaney v. Slaney, 5 Bro. P. C. 113.

By marriage articles, the husband was to purchase and settle lands of 800*l.* value, on himself and wife for life, remainder to the heirs male of the marriage, remainders over. The eldest son brought a bill against his father's executors, for the benefit of his agreement; defendants insisted that the father purchased a copyhold estate, which descended to plaintiff, and likewise bequeathed to him 100*l.* to be raised out of land, and that these ought to be in satisfaction of the marriage agreement, especially as the husband and wife were tenants in tail, and might bar the issue: decreed, plaintiff a satisfaction of the agreement, with interest at 4*l.* per cent. from the father's death; the copyhold descending to be taken in satisfaction pro tanto, but not the 100*l.* legacy. Wilkes v. Wilkes, 5 Vin. 293. pl. 39.

In marriage articles to settle lands on the husband for life, remainder to the heirs or heirs male of his body, a court of equity will decree a conveyance to be made in strict settlement according to the intent of the parties, viz. to the husband for life, remainder to the first and every other son in tail, &c. and not direct an estate tail to the husband according to the legal operation of the words. Collins v. Plummer, 1 P. W. 106. Bale v. Coleman, id. 143. Seale v. Seale, id. 291. Trevar v. Trevor, id. 622.

S had an estate in B by his first wife, by whom also he had a daughter, M. By the marriage articles it was agreed, that S should leave his daughter, M, 2500*l.*, if the trustees demanded it, within one year after his death. A, the father of S, was then living. S married again, and had several daughters; by deed in his life-time, he gave the estate in B, to M and her heirs; and by deed also, he charged his reversionary lands in D, with 5000*l.* to each of his daughters, and died. M demanded the 2500*l.* and interest. Harcourt, Id. K. decreed, that M should have the 2500*l.* with interest, from the death of S, that the estate in B could not be an equivalent, because it moved from the mother of M, and was the condition of the marriage agreement, that the reversion of the lands in D could not be so, because they were not then in being, and the father of S was then living, and to make it an equivalent, it ought to be in being, and in view at the time of giving the equivalent. Anon. 5 Vin. 292. pl. 38.

A agreed with B to give him 2000*l.* portion, to be laid out by A. A purchased lands with 1000*l.*, and mortgaged them, and then settled pursuant to the articles, excepting only in one limitation. A devised these lands to his wife for life, and gave legacies to B and his children, and died without issue, leaving B's children his heirs at law, who, together with B, brought their bill against the widow and executor of A, to have an account of the profits, and for performance of the articles. Per cur., the land settled according to the articles is a good performance, so far as the value is over and above the mortgage. It was urged that the legacy to the children was a bounty, and not a satisfaction of the demand of the heir, because, at the time of the legacy, it was not known, whether he would be heir, or take any thing by the settlement; also, it was a legacy given to him in company with others, and the dispute is not between the executor and a creditor, but between the executor and B, and his son and daughter; and there are assets enough to answer any thing. Yet his lordship directed that the master should enquire what assets by descent in fee, and other personal estate, came into his hands, and that to be as part of the satisfaction of his demand. Lechmere v. Blagrove, Glib. Eq. Rep. 64.

A, by marriage articles, agrees to leave his wife 800*l.* and her jewels, &c.; it is declared, that notwithstanding the articles, she should not be debarred of any thing he should give her by will. A, by will, makes a disposition of his whole estate, and gives his wife 1000*l.*: the wife must either waive the articles or the will, she cannot claim the benefit of both. Herne v. Herne, 2 Vern. 555. WILL, C. OF; ELECTION.

A child entitled by his father's marriage articles to a share of his father's personal estate, has a legacy given him by the will of his father; if he will have the legacy, he must waive the benefit of the articles. Id. ib.

A covenants on his marriage to purchase lands of 200*l.* a year, and settle them for the jointure of his wife, and to the first, &c. sons of the marriage: he purchases lands of that value, but takes no settlement, and on his death the lands descend to the eldest son; on a bill by the son for a specific performance, decreed the lands descended to be a satisfaction of the covenant. Wilcocks v. Wilcocks, 2 Vern. 558.

A, on his marriage, covenants to purchase and settle 200*l.* a year on his wife for her life, and if he died before it was done, to leave her 300*l.* out of his personal estate, for her better livelihood and maintenance: he died without making any settlement, and by will gives his wife the interest of 330*l.* for her life, with a power to dispose of 30*l.* at her death: decreed, first, that she was intitled to the 300*l.* by the articles, and that the executors were not at liberty to settle 20*l.* a year on her for life: secondly, that the legacy was not a satisfaction of the articles, but she should have the 300*l.* by the articles, and the legacy, too. Perry v. Perry, 2 Vern. 505.

Covenant, that husband, if wife survive him, should secure to her one half value of her fortune, is satisfied by husband's leaving her legacy to larger amount. Cornus v. Farmer, 2 Eq. Ab. 34.

A man, by marriage settlement, provides 4000*l.* for daughters, and having two daughters by will, gives them 2000*l.* a piece for their portions, without taking notice of the settlement; the 2000*l.* a piece by the will, shall be in satisfaction of the portion by the settlement. IWebb v. Webb, 2 Vern. 111.

The husband, by articles before marriage, covenants to add 500*l.* to his wife's portion of 500*l.*, and that it should be laid out in land, and settled on the wife and the issue of the marriage; the husband, without the trustees' consent, lays out the money in a fine house and gardens: allowed a sufficient performance of the covenant. Tunbridge v. Tether, 1 Vern. 345.

VIII. CARRYING INTO EXECUTION BY COURT.

Defendant who has covenanted to pay a sum of money to trustees of his marriage settlement, but had omitted to do so: ordered, on motion in suit for performance of trusts, to pay money into court. Rothwell v. Rothwell, 2 S. & S. 217. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

The sole proprietor of a recipe for a medicine, assigned it, on marriage of his daughter, to trustees for her and her husband for their lives, and then to their children. The mother destroyed the recipe, but verbally communicated contents to A, the eldest, for the benefit of B & C, the younger children. Upon bill filed against A by B & C, A was declared to hold secret in trust of the settlement, and was decreed to account for profits: since the mother's death, and as a sale was immediately made, the profits were ascertain value of secret. Green v. Folgham, 1 S. & S. 398. ACCOUNT; TRUST; TRADE SECRETS IN.

Court retains jurisdiction over property of ward, after ward becomes of age, so long as property remains in court; and if ward marries, will order proper settlement to be made, or reform an improper one, unless ward consents to settlement either under commission or in court. Austen v. Halsey, 2 S. & S. 133. note. WARD OF COURT; JURISDICTION.

A will directing a settlement of estates; and that there should be inserted all proper power for making leases and otherwise according to circumstances, to and for the tenants for life, to be exercised by them when qualified, and when not, by the trustees, does not authorize the insertion of a power of sale and exchange. Home v. Barton, 1 Jac. 437. WILL, C. OF; POWER TESTAT.

Portion, by will, on marriage, with consent of the executors, or the major part of them, their heirs or executors, &c. One of two survivors consenting, and the other declining to interfere, inquiry directed, whether the intended marriage was suitable, and if so, a proposal for a settlement to be received. Goldsmit v. Goldsmit, 19 Ves. 368. S. C. Coop. 225. WILL, C. OF; CONDITION OF CONSENT.

Material representations of the circumstances of a person contracting marriage, directed to be made good even at the instance of persons concerned in fraudulently defeating such representations. De Mannerille v. Crompton, 1 V. & B. 355. FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION.

Covenant by husband in consideration of 1. (the purchase money of an estate of his wife), within two years, to convey lands in the county of N, of the value of such purchase money, by way of settlement; the husband having died without performing the covenant, performance of the same decreed against his representatives, by laying out in the purchase of lands so to be settled, a sum equal to the present value of the estates in N, which (at the time when the covenant ought to have been performed) should have been worth the amount of the purchase money, with interest at 4 per cent., from the death of the covenantor. Dowager Ly. Sheffield v. Tal. Sheffield, 3 Mer. 699.

Articles upon marriage of feme infant tenant in quasi tail, covenanting to settle her estate when of age, not binding upon the remainder man, she dying before twenty-one. Bill by husband for a specific execution of the articles, giving him an estate for life, dismissed. Lecky v. Knorr, 1 Ball & B. 210. INFANT; COVENANT, WHO BOUND BY.

Execution decreed of a contract on marriage by bond, with condition to settle all the personal estate that the husband should at any time, during the coverture, be possessed of. Lewis v. Mullocks, 8 Ves. 150. See this case further, 17 Ves. 48. SPEC. PERI.

Settlement on consideration of wife's fortune confined to her fortune at the time, unless expressed to comprehend future accessions. No claims can be maintained by husband, or in his right while the terms are not fulfilled on his part. Miford v. Miford, 9 Ves. 87.

The rule, that a limitation to the heirs of the body in articles shall be carried into execution by a strict settlement, does not prevail, where the concurrence of both parties would be necessary to bar the entail. Brudenel v. Elwes, 7 Ves. 390. LIMITATION.

Tenant devised his estates to trustees upon trust, as counsel should advise, to convey, settle, and answer the said premises, to or for the use of, or in trust for his daughter 1 for her life, with remainder to her first and other sons in tail general, with remainder to her daughters in tail general, &c.: the limitation being to both sons and daughters in tail general, there is no necessity for a subsequent limitation to 1 and the heirs of her body. Bastard v. Proby, 2 Cox 6. WILL, C. OF.

Marriage articles to settle estates to the use of husband for life, remainder to the wife for her life, remainder to the use of the heirs of the body of the wife by the husband. The court refused to decree a strict settlement upon them since the power of barring the entail was not in the husband alone; as to the distinctions where a court of equity will or will not rectify settlements made in pursuance of articles, &c. by decreeing a strict settlement; election as to copyholds. Highway v. Banner, 1 Bro. C. C. 584.

Where there is order for husband to propose settlement on wife and issue of marriage, and wife dies leaving issue, husband will be kept to order. Rowe v. Jackson, Dick. 604.

Articles on marriage for settling lands to be bought with money on all the children of the marriage and their respective issues, and for default of such children and their issue, over: Held, there should be cross remainders by implication. Twisdon v. Lock, Ambl. 663. CROSS REMAINDERS; IMPLICATION; MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

Where marriage articles limited a joint estate to the intended husband and wife, and after the death of the survivor to the use of the heirs of the body of the husband begotten on the wife, and the settlement after marriage pursued the words of the articles. Husband and wife levy a fine, and first mortgage, and then agree to sell; the articles not being produced, the court would not decree them to be carried into execution by a strict settlement against the purchaser who had notice of them. Cordwell v. Mackill, Ambl. 515. S. C. 2 Eden. 344. VENDOR & PURCH.

Specific performance of marriage articles refused, on the ground of their being inconsistent, uncertain, and unintelligible. Franks v. Martin, 1 Eden, 309. SPEC. PERI.

By marriage articles it was agreed that 3000*l.* should be laid out in land and settled on husband and wife for their lives, remainder to such issue, &c. as they should appoint, and in default of appointment, to the issue of their bodies: on the death of the husband without appointment, held, the land should be settled in strict settlement, viz. on wife for life, remainder to the first and other sons in tail, remainder to daughter in tail, remainder to right heirs of husband. Dod v. Dod, Ambl. 274.

Bond by husband on marriage, reciting agreement to settle wife's estate on the issue, &c., the wife not an executing party. After the marriage, a real estate of the wife came into possession. The husband dies; the wife marries B and dies; held by a younger child against B, and the heir his mother: it seems that the stat. of frauds could not have been taken advantage of on account of the wife not having been an executory party; since the marriage took place in consequence of the instrument executed by the husband. Here, however, the wife had proved and acted under the first husband's will, which recited the bond, from whence it was held she had bound herself at all events. Archer v. Pope, 2 Ves. 523. CONSON. OF MARRIAGE.

Marriage articles not decreed in strict settlement, where, by a difference in the penning, the parties intended to leave part in the father's power. Howel v. Howel, 2 Ves. 358.

Bill for a strict settlement, after long acquiescence by plaintiff's ancestor, and when impossible to bar the remainder, dismissed. Parker v. Philips, 1 Ves. 530. LENGTH OF TIME.

In agreements, no relief in equity where an action at law would not lie by reason of a substantial defect, such as a contingency, not happening. Husband covenants in marriage articles in six months after death of his mother, and that he should come to and be in possession of the estate in jointure, to settle, &c. He dies in mother's life, having no issue. The estate comes to his heir, who shall not be compelled by the wife to a specific performance. Whitnal v. Farrel, 1 Ves. 256. SPEC. PERF.

Upon the words "issue of the marriage," the court, on a bill for carrying articles into execution, have frequently directed the settlement to all the issue, to the first, and other sons, and for default of such issue, to the daughters with proper remainders. In this case the court determined in favour of the daughter. Hart v. Middlehurst, 3 Atk. 371.

Woman's portion falling short of husband's expectations, is not a reason for setting aside marriage agreement. Exp. Marsh, 1 Atk. 159.

By articles between A and B, his son, on the son's marriage, an estate was limited to the son for life; and, after divers limitations, to plaintiff, a daughter of A, and her heirs male, unless A should appoint other uses: then to his other daughters in tail, then to B his son, and then to the right heirs of B. A died; B, who survived, directed a draft to be prepared according to the articles, and then he died, some of the lands descending to his four sisters in fee: Decreed, the articles to be executed, and plaintiff's entail of the estate settled for Exp. Marsh, 1 Atk. 159. CONSIDERATION. COLLATERALS.

Where, by articles before marriage, it was agreed, that principal sum should be paid to trustee for benefit of younger children, and that certain freehold houses should be conveyed after previous particular estates, to the younger child or children, in tail general; and by indenture of same date, the houses were settled to uses of the articles. The husband and wife left a daughter, their eldest child, and a son. Held, that the daughter was entitled to the principal sum, and the freehold houses; for an elder daughter, where there is a son, is accounted a younger child. In an ejectment the daughter could not have recovered, for being the eldest, she would not at law be construed a younger child: but in a court of equity, as the articles are executory, they must be carried into execution agreeably to the intention of the parties. Hesketh v. Huntke, 2 Atk. 456.

A limitation in marriage articles to the husband for life, to the wife for life, remainder to the issue of their two bodies, will be carried into strict settlement. Villiers v. Villiers, 2 Atk. 73.

Where marriage settlement is executed, after marriage, in pursuance of articles previous to marriage, and limitations are to husband for life, to wife for life, and heirs of husband by wife, it is executory, and will be carried into strict settlement by court. Secus, if executed after marriage without previous articles. Glanville v. Payne, 2 Atk. 39. S. C. Barnard. 18. SETTLEMENT BY COURT.

Where the wife sues the husband for a specific performance of his marriage articles, and that he may settle such and such lands upon her in jointure, it is no bar to her demand, that she has eloped with an adulterer, much less if this be not by the husband put in issue in the cause. Sidney v. Sidney, 3 P. W. 269. ADULTERY; SPEC. PERF.

Articles on marriage whereby money is agreed to be laid out in land, and settled; in default of the issue male of the marriage, on the husband's brother, shall, if the husband dies without issue male, and leaving only daughters, be performed in favour of the brother, though they were voluntary. Lechmere v. Carlisle, 3 P. W. 223. COLLATERAL RELATIONS.

Father and son, on the marriage of the son, article to settle lands on the intended husband for life, remainder to the issue male of the nephew, remainder to the nephew in fee, on the death of the husband and wife, without issue; quære, whether the nephew shall compel a specific performance of the covenant. Osgood v. Strode, 2 P. W. 245. 10 Mod. 533. S. C. SPEC. PERF.; COLLATERAL RELATIONS.

A covenant, by marriage articles, that estate agreed to be settled is worth 500*l.* per annum, and to settle them to the same uses. The new purchase was never made, and estate settled was encumbered beyond its value; held, that out of the purchase money of A's estate not settled, so much shall be paid to eldest son as is equivalent in value to 800*l.* per annum, computed at twenty-two years' purchase. Barker v. Ivers, 5 Bro. P. C. 127. SPEC. PERF.

Tenant for life, with power to settle 500*l.* per annum out of such and such lands, on a wife, enters into marriage articles, by which he covenants for himself and his heirs, &c. that he or his heirs would, in pursuance of this power, or otherwise, settle 500*l.* per annum. The marriage takes effect, and a settlement is drawn accordingly, by his direction, of such lands as were comprised within the power; but never executed. The question was, whether this should bind the remainder? or whether the wife should have satisfaction made her out of the personal estate? and decreed upon a second hearing, that the lands should be settled. Lyt. Coe v. El. Coe v. El. Coe v. El. Coe, 10 Mod. 464. S. C. 2 P. W. 222. 1 Str. 596. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 160. Comyn, 312. SPEC. PERF.

One articles on marriage to settle lands on himself for life, remainder to the heirs of his body by his intended wife, with a covenant to make the settlement within two years, or in default thereof, to stand soised to the same uses; though this be an estate tail at law yet equity will turn it into a strict settlement. Trevar v. Trevar, 1 P. W. 622. 10 Mod. 436. S. C. affd. 5 Bro. P. C. 122. SETTLED BY COURT.

Where, on a marriage agreement, the husband entered into a bond to surrender his copyhold to the use of himself for life; remainder to his wife for life; remainder to the heirs of their two bodies; remainder to the heirs of the husband. Decreed, a surrender to the use of the husband for life; remainder to the first and other sons of the marriage in tail general; remainder to the daughters in tail general, in order, by making the issue purchasers, to secure them from being defeated. Nandike v. Wilkes, Gilb. Eq. Rep. 114.

A devises lands to the draper's company in trust, to convey to B for life, remainder to his first, &c. sons for their lives successively, and so to their issues male for their lives, remainder over. Though this be a vain attempt of a perpetuity, yet the trustees shall make a strict settlement as may be; making all the persons in being, but tenants for life; but the limitation to the son unborn must be in tail. Humberston v. Humberston, 2 Vern. 738. S. C. Proc. Ch. 455. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 128. 1 P. W. 332. Witt, C. of; PERPETUITY.

One, upon his marriage, covenants to levy a fine of his freehold lands, and to surrender his copyhold to the use of himself and wife for their lives, remainder to the heirs male of his body, and dies, leaving issue, a son and a daughter, before any fine levied, or surrender made. The son, for securing money, covenants to levy a fine of freehold, and to surrender copyhold; and, by will, devises his lands for payment of his debts, and dies without issue, having surrendered copyhold, but levied no fine of freehold. On a bill by daughter, to have lands settled according to marriage agreement, decreed both freehold and copyhold to the daughter. White v. Thornburgh, 2 Vern. 702. Upon a rehearing before J. Ch. Cowper, he confirmed the decree as to the freehold, but for different reasons; and as to the copyhold, "there appearing no particular custom within the manor for suffering a recovery, was of opinion the surrender would bar the entail, in case the copyhold had been well settled, and dismissed the bill as to the copyhold. S. C. Id. 704.

A covenanted on marriage, that within a month he would surrender his copyhold to his wife for life, remainder over, and if he neglected, then that he would leave his wife 500*l.* at his death. The husband made no surrender, but died after the month without assets. Decreed, the heir to surrender. Wood v. Pessey, 5 Vin. 547. pl. 36. HEIR AT LAW; COPYHOLD, SURRENDER OF.

In articles there was a covenant to covenant in the conveyance that the lands were free from incumbrance. This is not a covenant that the lands are free, and if any incumbrance is discovered between the execution of the articles and of the conveyance, whereof the party had no notice, that shall be discharged before the sealing of the conveyance, as the concealment of it would be a fraud, though against all incumbrances discovered afterwards, there is only the party's own covenant to protect a purchaser. Vane v. I. d. Bernard, Gilb. Eq. Rep. 6. COVENANT AGST. INCUMBRANCES.

A man on his marriage covenants to purchase, and settle lands of 400*l.* a year, to the use of himself for life; then to his wife for life, remainder to the heirs of their two bodies; and if he died before a settlement, the wife might elect either to have the 400*l.* a year, or 3000*l.* in money in lieu of dower and thirds. The husband dies before a settlement made. On a bill by the creditors, the wife, by answer, elects the 3000*l.* and the children insist on having a settlement made according to the articles expectant on their mother's death, by which means all the assets would be exhausted. Decreed, a settlement to be made on the wife and children, notwithstanding the election. Hancock v. Hancock, 2 Vern. 605. HUSB. & WIFE; ELECTION.

A, on the marriage of his son, covenants for himself and his executors, without naming his heirs, to settle lands of 150*l.* a year on his son, and the issue of the marriage, but dies before any settlement made. The son enters on the real estate as heir to his father, and settles it for the jointure of a second wife, who has notice of the articles. Decreed, the articles to be a lien upon the lands, whereof the father was then seized, though no particular lands are mentioned in the articles. Roundell v. Breury, 2 Vern. 402. LIX.

A father, in consideration of 2600*l.* to be paid him on his son's marriage, as the wife's portion, articles to settle 2600*l.* a year on the marriage, and it being after discovered that she had only 1600*l.*, the father was decreed to make a settlement for the 1600*l.* only, in proportion to what he was to have made for the 2600*l.* and not to deduct out of the 600*l.* per annum, 1000*l.* worth of land, viz. 50*l.* per annum, as was urged he should. Baskerville v. Gore, Proc. Chan. 186. S. C. 2 Vern. 448.

A, before marriage, covenants to settle lands, in consideration of 2000*l.* portion, on himself for life, remainder to their first and other sons in tail, remainder to the daughters in tail, remainder to himself in fee, with a power of revocation reserved to the wife's father, then beyond sea. The marriage is had, and a daughter born, and the husband being taken sick, devises 1500*l.* to his daughter, and if his wife (being eniente) should have a posthumous daughter, she to 500*l.* of the 1500*l.*; and if either died before twenty-one or marriage, the survivor to have the whole, and gave all his lands to his wife and her heirs, and the surplus of his personal estate, after debts paid, to his wife, her executors, &c. and makes his wife executrix; then another daughter is born, and the husband dies without any alteration of his will, or any settlement made. Decreed, that a settlement be made, with a power of revocation to the father, and the legacies be likewise paid the children, the youngest daughter being a posthumous child, within the intent of the will. Jaggard v. Jaggard, Proc. Chan. 175.

A marriage is treated between the plaintiff and defendant's daughter, and the articles are signed by the plaintiff, but not by the defendant, who tears the articles on pretence of being dissatisfied, though not on material objections. Defendant permitting the plaintiff to court his daughter, and not declaring his dislike to the marriage, and permitting the young couple to live with him; decreed, the plaintiff to pay the portion, according to the articles. Halfpenny v. Ballet, 2 Vern. 373. SPEC. PERFE.

Marriage agreement reduced into writing, but not signed by either party, yet decreed to be performed. Cokes v. Muscall, 2 Vern. 200. Id.

Money agreed on marriage to be laid out in land, and settled to the use of husband and wife, and their issue, with remainder to the husband in fee. The husband dies, leaving a son, who died without issue; the heir of the husband brings a bill against the wife, who is administratrix of her husband and son, to have the money laid out and settled according to the articles. Bill dismissed. This cause was reheard in 1687, and decreed for the heir. Kettleby v. Attwood, 1 Vern. 298. MONEY AGREED TO BE LAID OUT IN LAND.

A, on the marriage of his son, covenants to purchase lands, and settle them to the use of his son for life, remainder to the heirs male of the body. The son dies, leaving issue a son, who brings a bill against the executor of A for the performance of the covenant; bill dismissed in regard the plaintiff's father would have been tenant in tail, if the estate had been settled, and might have barred it. Canne v. Canne, 1 Vern. 480. TENANT IN TAIL; SPEC. PERFE.

The specific execution of articles being the most adequate justice in general, the court will not leave it to an action at law. Vide Jenkins v. Keymis, 1 Lev. 150. 237. 238. and 1 Ch. Ca. 103. SPEC. PERFE.

A, being indebted 700*l.*, agrees on his marriage to settle lands of 100*l.* a year on himself for life, remainder to his wife for her jointure, remainder in tail upon their issue; decreed, the land to be sold to pay the 700*l.* and the surplus of the money to be laid out in the purchase of lands, to be settled on the wife and her children; but this decree was reversed on a bill for review, there being no provision made for the husband in the lands to be purchased. Carpenter v. Bennet, 1 Vern. 203. APPOINTMENT OF ASSETS.

Specific performance of marriage articles decreed after marriage. Haymen v. Haymen, 2 Vent. 343. SPEC. PERFE.

Spoliation of marriage articles made good by decree. Bates v. Heard, Dick. 4.

Bond having been cancelled by obligor, lands settled according to bond by decree. Arnold v. Barrington, Dick. 5.

IX. REFORMING & RECTIFYING MISTAKES IN.

Marriage settlement of trader not securing the wife's fortune in the event of bankruptcy, the intention appearing to be so, amended accordingly. Higginson v. Kelley, 1 Ball & B. 252.

Marriage settlement not providing for a bond by husband to trustee for wife's fortune being proveable in the event of his bankruptcy amended accordingly, such being the intention of the parties. Exp. Varner, 1 Ball & B. 260.

Bill by husband to have wife's property, part of which was invested in stock, made up money on ground either of express contract or a representation, upon which the marriage took place, dismissed; the description by articles, though generally "the sum of 4000*l.*" referring to that sum in settlement, and the representation under circumstances not amounting to warranty and proceeding on a common mistake. Ainslie v. Medlycott, 9 Ves. 13. SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Settlement reformed in favour of the younger children against the heir, of the mother claiming the reversion by a letter from her on the marriage of her daughter, stating the intention. Barstow v. Kilbington, 5 Ves. 593.

Settlement after marriage reformed in favour of the issue against the devise of the husband, claiming under the reversion by his letter of instructions for drawing the settlement, but this equity did not prevail against creditors. Jenkins v. Quinchant, cited id. 596.

Articles before marriage to settle were so expressed, that the husband would have had an estate tail; a settlement copying the very words of the articles was reformed, estate for life only being intended. Randall v. Willis, 5 Ves. 275.

Settlement reformed, according to the intention declared in recital. Payne v. Collier, 1 Ves. J. 171.

Marriage settlement not altered in favour of the intention, the recital being too general, and nothing debors the words to do it by. If any thing in the recital by which to correct it, it may be done. Jordan v. Ross, 1 Ves. J. 57. 59.

Husband having a power to make a jointure of any part of the estate not exceeding 400*l.* per annum, covenants on his marriage to settle lands of the yearly value of 400*l.* clear of taxes and reprises; he afterwards makes a settlement of lands, with a covenant, that if they should fall short of 400*l.* per annum, he would make up deficiency: held, that the settlement was intended as an execution of the power, and the making the jointure clear of taxes and reprises in the articles was a mistake. Cs. Londonderry v. Wayne, 2 Eden. 170. S. C. Ambl. 424.

The court will not rectify a settlement which varies the interest of an adult from what it appears to be under the articles, to his disadvantage, unless where it was clearly intended that the settlement should pursue the articles. Partyn v. Roberts, Ambl. 315.

Where a mistake in placing a trust term is rectified. Worsley v. El. Granville, 2 Ves. 333.

Trust money in marriage articles in power of the court, and construed against the words for sake of the intent, by supplying the words, "if wife should die without issue." Targus v. Puget, 2 Ves. 194.

Marriage settlement rectified by a strict settlement agreeably to the ordinary course, notwithstanding it agreed with the articles verbatim, and both made before marriage, the plaintiff having however taken a benefit under the will which he disputed: held to have made his election, and decreed to give up part of the settlement estate in satisfaction. Roberts v. Kingsby, 1 Ves. 238.

An elder daughter where there is a son, is considered a younger child by a court of equity, and the court would rectify the mistake in the settlement; as it has done, where term for raising portions is placed after estate tail, which should have been before. Heneage v. Hunloke, 2 Atk. 457. YOUNGER CHILD.

Where children under marriage settlement have obtained a contingent advantage, the court will not, after the marriage vary it to the prejudice of the issue. O'Keefe v. Culthorpe, 1 Atk. 17.

In a marriage settlement, a term for years for securing younger children's portions, is by mistake made subsequent to the estate tail limited to the sons; this helped in equity. Uvedale v. Halfpenny, 2 P. W. 151. S. C. 9 Mod. 56.

Where a settlement shall be good and take effect, though not according to the intent of the parties.

Marshall v. Frank, Pres. Chan. 480. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 143.

Marriage articles for settling lands varied by decreeing the estate to one for life, with remainder in tail to his issue instead of an estate tail to him. Griffith v. Buckle, 2 Vern. 13.

A man articles on the marriage of his eldest son, to settle lands on the son for life; remainder to the wife for jointure, remainder to the first and other sons in tail, remainder to the right heirs of the son. The father brings a bill to be relieved against the articles, alleging that he was surprized and intended that upon failure of issue male of his eldest son, the remainder should have been limited to his younger son, charged with portions for the daughters of the marriage, bill dismissed. Seymour v. Fotherby, 1 Vern. 320. FRAUD; SURPRISE.

X. WHEN SETTLEMENT PRESUMED TO HAVE BEEN MADE.

The existence and execution of a settlement by indentures of lease and release, presumed from circumstances, principally the existence of the drafts: the statement in an abstract of the title, and the existence of the lease for a year of other estates, appearing to have been included in the same plan of settlement. Ward v. Carnous, 17 Ves. 134.

A settled estate is sold, but no part of the money is laid out in the purchase of other lands; yet this court will, under certain circumstances, presume an agreement between the parties interested, that it should be so laid out; and, upon such presumption, will decree the money to that person who would have been entitled to the land if any purchase had been made. Newton v. Newton, 6 Bro. P. C. 408.

XI. AS TO CHILDREN'S PORTIONS AND MAINTENANCE.

See SETTLEMENT, VII.

A son who, when he attained twenty-one, was a younger child, but by the subsequent death of his elder brother, in the lifetime of his parents, becomes an eldest son before the time fixed for the payment of the younger children's portions, is entitled to his share of portions which are directed to vest in the younger sons at twenty-one, though not payable till after the death of the parents; there being enough in the settlements by which the portions were provided, to show that the character of younger child was to be ascertained by reference to the time when the portions vested, and not to the time when they became payable. Windham v. Graham, 1 Russ. 331. YOUNGER CHILDREN.

Held, on construction of settlement, that will, not being duly attested, and under other circumstances, trustees had no power to allow maintenance to infants during certain period; but that the eldest son should be put to his election to allow it, as he had other benefits under the will, and was the only party that could be benefited by withholding the maintenance. Hume v. Rundell, 2 S. & S. 174. HEIR AT LAW; ELECTION; MAINTENANCE.

Term of years to trustees to raise money for maintenance, &c., of younger children of A, in such shares, &c., as A should direct, and in default of direction, to be applied for benefit of children equally, same to be paid them respectively till their respective portions provided out of other property should be paid. A, by will, appointed a certain portion for plaintiff, to be vested in her at the age of twenty-one or marriage, and directed that a certain part of the interest and dividends thereof should be applied towards her maintenance, &c., but did not make any appointment, or give any directions, relative to the sum of money raiseable for that purpose under the said term. Held, on construction of settlement, that plaintiff was entitled to have her share of the money provided by the term raised for her benefit, until her portions should become payable. Poulett v. Poulett, 6 Mad. 167.

By settlement before marriage, whereby lands given to trustees for five hundred years, in trust, that if husband and wife should leave one or more daughter or daughters, younger son or sons, that should be living at time of decease of survivors of them, the trustees should raise, &c., 20,000*l.* for portion or portions of such daughter or daughters, younger son or sons, the same to be paid to such daughter, if but one, and no younger son, at eighteen or marriage, and to such younger son, if but one, and no daughter at twenty-one, with allowance for maintenance in the meantime, &c.; and if there shall be more than one daughter or younger son, then to be paid to such daughter or daughters at eighteen or marriage, and to such younger son or sons at twenty-one years, &c. Held, that the settlement did not vest any interest in the children. Hotchkin v. Humphrey, 2 Mad. 65. INTEREST VESTED.

Trust term, by marriage settlement, without impeachment of waste, immediately exonerate upon the father's death, subject to jointure to the mother, by sale or mortgage, rents and profits, or by any other ways and means, to raise portions for younger children at twenty-one: if after the death of both parents, and by such ways and means as trustees think fit, to raise interests for maintenance, until portions shall respectively become payable; if the remainderman should pay the portions and the interest, or if there should be no younger child, the term, or so much as should remain unsold, to attend the inheritance, which was limited in the usual way. Interest due from the death of the father in the minority of all the children, and the wife surviving. Ludlow v. Lyddon, 14 Ves. 550. INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

Term in trust, after decease of father, in case he should leave a younger child, &c., to raise portions, to be paid according to appointment, and in default, &c., at twenty-one or marriage, with provision for advancement in the life of the father, by his direction; and survivorship, upon death of any child before the portion shall be payable; and if there should be no such child, or all die before the portions become payable, not to be raised. Held vested in an only younger child, who, having attained twenty-one, died in life of father, and no appointment having been made. Powls v. Hurdett, 9 Ves. 428. INTEREST VESTED.

Portions to be paid or transferred at twenty-one or marriage, if in the life of parents entitled for their life; such portions were not to be paid, &c., till the decease of such parents, with survivorship in case of death of any before his, her, or their shares should be payable, &c. Schenck v. Leigh, 9 Ves. 309. INTEREST VESTED.

Articles, on marriage, to settle estates of husband and wife, of equal value, in strict settlement, and providing portions; wife's estate being withdrawn by decree on the ground of her infancy, the younger children were confined, as against the eldest, to half the portion, the articles providing, in the event of no issue male, in which case the estates were to separate, that each should bear a moiety, though they also contemplated the case of wife's refusal to be bound, providing against it by the forfeiture of her interest. Clough v. Clough, 5 Ves. 710.

Portions held vested in case of parent and child, by implication from the whole settlement against express words, and a clause of survivorship upon death of child before the portion "should become payable" was upon the authorities construed "before it should be vested." Hope v. Ld. Clifden, 6 Ves. 499. PORTIONS WHEN VESTED.

10,000*l.* provided by settlement for one daughter or younger son, 5000*l.* if more: there being but one daughter, the father by will under a power reserved to him, appoints the time of payment and the application of the interest of the 15,000*l.* provided for her by settlement, and gave her the farther sum of 5000*l.*: she was held entitled to 20,000*l.* Phipps v. Ld. Mulgrave, 3 Ves. 613. WILL, C. OF.

Settlement on marriage to the use of the husband for life, remainder to trustees for 500 years in trust, after the death of the husband, and not before, unless with his consent as therein mentioned, to raise portions for younger children to be paid in such shares and at such times as husband and wife should appoint, in default of appointment to be paid, if but one besides an eldest or only son, 5000*l.* if two 6000*l.* if three 8000*l.* and if four or more, 10,000*l.* equally, to be paid respectively at twenty-one or marriage of daughters, if after the age of sixteen, if such times of payment happen after the death of the husband, if in his life, then within twelve months after his decease and not before, unless with such consent; provided that if any of such younger children should die before his, her, or their portions should become payable, so that the number should be reduced to less than four, no more should be raised than what would make the whole sum for the portion of the survivor or survivors of such younger children equal to the sum originally limited for the portion of such child or children, if one, two or three. Three younger children only survived their father, but more than four had attained twenty-one. The sum to be raised is 10,000*l.* Halls v. Walls, 3 Ves. J. 51.

4000*l.* settled on marriage in trust after the decease of the husband and wife, to pay among all and every the child and children, other than an eldest or only son, at such time and in such proportion as he or she, or the survivor should appoint by deed or will, for want of appointment among such child and children, other than, &c. equally to be divided, if but one, to that one, payable at twenty-one or marriage, or as soon after as the life interest should drop, the shares of any dying before payable in the 4000*l.* or so much as should not be appointed, to go to the survivors at the same time. There were four children; the marriage settlement of one recited that she was entitled to 1000*l.* part of this fund; one-fourth of it was appointed to another on his marriage, and to a third 1000*l.* as her share of that portion, the fourth died above twenty-one before his father, who survived his wife and died without any further appointment. Held that 3000*l.* was well appointed, and that the remainder vested in all equally, according to the direction for want of appointment. Wilson v. Piggott, 2 Ves. J. 351. POWER, EXECUTION OF; INTEREST VESTED.

By marriage settlement 1500*l.* was provided for younger children in such shares as the parents should appoint in default of appointment to all the children after the death of the wife. The parents afterwards made an appointment excluding one child, this deed vests the portions in the children born or to be born; except the one excluded. Mayhew v. Middleditch, 1 Bro. C. C. 162. POWER, EXECUTION OF; INTEREST VESTED.

Estate settled on husband and wife for life, and then to trustees for a term to raise portions for daughter by leasing, assigning or mortgaging: the husband dies leaving daughters at his death and no issue male.

The portions shall be raised in the life of the mother out of the reversion. Smith v. Evans, Ambl. 633. PORTIONS WHEN RAISABLE.

Where portions were provided for daughters on failure of issue male, to be paid at twenty-one or marriage, after the death of the survivor of the father or the mother, the father having died, and there being an only daughter, who had attained twenty-one, it was held, from the clear indication of the intention, to postpone the raising till after the death of the survivor, that the portion should not be raised during the lifetime of the mother. Verney v. El. Verney, 2 Eden, 25. PORTIONS WHEN RAISABLE.

Covenant in marriage articles, that in case the father should happen to die leaving issue male, and one or more younger son or daughter, to raise portions, if but one then living 1000*l.*, if two, 1200*l.*, if three 1500*l.*, to be paid at their respective ages of twenty-one or marriage, in such proportions as the survivor of the father and mother should direct, in default of such direction, equally: Held, that the share of a son who attained twenty-one was vested, though he died in the father's lifetime. Rooke v. Rooke, 2 Eden, 8. INTEREST VESTED.

Term to commence after the father's death, to raise portions for younger children, in such shares and proportions as he should appoint, for want of appointment, equally, to sons at twenty-one, to daughters at twenty-one or marriage, to be paid immediately after the decease of the father, with survivorship in case of the death of a child before its portion should become due and payable. The father died without making any appointment. Held, the portions vested at twenty-one or marriage during his life. Cholmondeley v. Meppick, 1 Eden, 77. S. C. cited 3 Bro. C. C. 253.

II. PORTIONS, VESTING OF.

Term to raise daughter's portion to daughters of son, on failure of issue male of grandson, with power for grandson to jointure. Held, the portions not raisable, nor interest payable, till after the death of the jointress. Churchman v. Harvey, Ambl. 336. PORTIONS, WHEN PAYABLE.

Portions in a settlement by a term, after mother's death for defendants, to grow due and payable at twenty-one or marriage, &c. One daughter having, after twenty-one and marriage, died in life of mother, her portion shall go to her representatives, and not to her sister. Emperor v. Rolfe, 1 Ves. 208. PORTIONS, LAPSE OF.

On a settlement before marriage, the trust of a term was, that in case husband should have no issue male, and there should be daughters, to raise, if two daughters, 25,000*l.* to be paid at twenty-one or marriage, but not to be raised till the death of their grandfather: the father died, leaving two daughters, and then the grandfather died: the husband of one daughter claimed 12,500*l.* with interest from the time of the marriage. Decreed, with interest, as a vested portion in the words of the settlement. But upon portions, or interest on them, to be raised out of reversionary terms, especially upon construction or implication, the court reluctantly interfered. Lyon v. Dk. of Chandos, 3 Atk. 416. INTEREST VESTED.

Upon a marriage settlement lands are limited to the use of the husband and wife for their lives, remainder to the first and every other son in tail, and in default of issue male of the marriage, to trustees in trust, to raise 2500*l.* for daughters, payable at twenty-one or marriage, which shall first happen, and out of the profits to pay 100*l.* per annum for maintenance, the first payment of the maintenance to commence after the estate of the trustees shall have come into possession. Husband dies without issue male, leaving a daughter and a wife, who is jointured in the premises; the portion shall not be raised in the mother's lifetime.

Brome v. Berkley, 2 P. W. 484. affd. 6 Bro. P. C. 108. PORTIONS, WHEN PAYABLE.

By marriage settlement, maintenance for daughters is made payable half yearly, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, until the portions become payable, which was at eighteen or marriage. A daughter attained her age of eighteen the 16th of August: decreed to have her maintenance pro rata from the last Ladyday to the time of her attaining her age of eighteen. Hay v. Palmer, 2 P. W. 501. APPORTIONMENT; MAINTENANCE.

By a marriage settlement a term for years is created to raise 5000*l.* portion for daughters, payable at their age of twenty-one or marriage, proviso, that if any of the daughters attain the age of twenty-one, or marry in the father's lifetime; then the portion to be paid within a year after the father's death. Also, if any of the daughters die before her portion payable, or before her age of twenty-one or marriage, her share to go to the survivor. There was issue, a son and three daughters, the first of whom married, and received her portion; the second attained twenty-one, married, and died without issue, and her husband administered; the third daughter survived both her sisters. Resolved, the husband, as administrator of the second daughter, is entitled to her share of the 5000*l.* she having lived to twenty-one, so that the right vested in her, and the payment was only suspended till her father's death. Pitfield's case, 2 P. W. 513. INTEREST VESTED.

In a marriage settlement it was agreed, that if there should be but one daughter, she should have 500*l.* for her portion, and 200*l.* each should be paid to every of the other younger daughters. There were three daughters; held, each were only entitled to 200*l.* Chamberlain v. White, 6 Bro. P. C. 61.

Settlement wherein manor of D is settled to the use of grandfather for life, remainder to his son, the husband for life, remainder to trustees for 1000 years, for raising 20,000*l.* for a daughter, if but one, payable at twenty-one or marriage, and in the mean time 300*l.* per annum for her maintenance, and to be raised by trustees either by rents and profits, or by sale or mortgage and to be paid quarterly. The first payment to be made at such of the usual feasts as shall next happen after the father's death. Father dies, leaving one daughter, and the grandfather, living. Bill prayed a mortgage of the reversion for the infant's maintenance, but the court strongly inclined against it. Pierpoint v. Cheney, 1 P. W. 488. Prec. Ch. 503. INFANT, MAINTENANCE; MORTGAGE OF REVERSION.

Reversion never mortgaged to raise maintenance, where the mother was able to keep the child. Id. ib.

Lands are limited by marriage settlement, upon failure of issue male, to the daughters of the marriage, and their heirs, until the next remainder-man should pay them 3000*l.* There being four daughters only, they entered. Decreed at the rolls, they should account for the profits, and that the rents should be applied, first, to pay the interest, and then sink the principal, as in case of a common mortgage. Decree affirmed by the Ld. Ch. with this variation, that the principal should not sink till a third part was raised above the interest, and so again when another third part was raised. Blagrove v. Chunn, 2 Vern. 523. RENTS & PROFITS.

By marriage settlement lands are limited to husband and wife for their lives, remainder to the heirs male of their bodies, and if there should be no issue male of their bodies, and one or more daughters, then to trustees for 500 years from the decease of the survivor, in trust, by sale or mortgage to raise 1000*l.* for daughters' portions, but there is no time appointed for the payment of them. The father dies, leaving a daughter only. The portion vesting in the daughter in her lifetime of the mother, it was decreed to be raised by a sale, with a reasonable maintenance in the mean time, though no maintenance is provided by a settlement. Staniforth v. Staniforth, 2 Vern. 460. PORTIONS, WHEN RAISEABLE; MAINTENANCE.

By marriage settlement a term is limited to raise 5000*l.* if but one daughter, to be paid at twenty-one or marriage, which should first happen after the death of the father and mother, or within six months after either of those days or times. There being one daughter only, and she having attained twenty-one, and her father being dead, her portion was decreed to be raised in the lifetime of her mother. Gerrard v. Gerrard, 2 Vern. 458. PORTIONS, WHEN RAISEABLE.

Where portions are provided for daughters by a settlement, the father cannot, by his will, annex any condition to the payment of them, or devise them over, in case of the death of any of the daughters before their portions become payable. Aston v. Aston, 2 Vern. 452. 1 Ch. Rep. 164. Prec. Ch. 266. S. C.

By a marriage settlement a freehold estate was settled on husband and wife for their lives, remainder to the first, &c. son in tail, remainder to trustees for 500 years, to raise portions for daughters, remainders over. Covenant from the husband to settle his copyhold estate to the same uses. A surrender is made, but no term is limited. The freehold estate not being sufficient to raise the daughter's portions, decreed the copyhold estate should be charged, and liable to raise the portions. Shouldham v. Shouldham, 2 Vern. 321. COPYHOLD CHARGE ON; PORTIONS, HOW RAISED.

On a marriage lands are limited to the husband for life, remainder to the wife for life, remainder to the first and other sons of the marriage in tail male, remainder to S in fee, provided, if there be no issue male of the marriage, and there be one or more daughters living at the husband's death, then the trustees to stand seised, subject to the intent such daughter or daughters should receive, out of the rents 10,000*l.*, and 100*l.* per annum for maintenance, but no time limited for payment of the portion. The husband dies, leaving only one daughter, who lives to seventeen, and by her will disposes of the 10,000*l.*: Decreed, this is a vested interest in the daughter, and well-disposed of by her will. El. Rivers v. El. Derby, 2 Vern. 72. INT. VESTED.

Lands are settled on marriage upon condition if there should be a daughter the persons in remainder should pay her 2000*l.* at sixteen, with power for the daughter, in case of non-payment, to distrain for the 2000*l.* and damages. Though no power to sell, yet a sale decreed for raising the portion. Wharton v. Wharton, 2 Vern. 1. POWER OF SALE; PORTIONS, HOW RAISED.

Term limited by a settlement to raise portions for younger children, payable at twenty-one or marriage. One of them dies under twenty-one and unmarried; her portion shall not be raised for the benefit of the administratrix: otherwise, if the portion was to be raised out of a personal estate. Poulet v. Poulet, 1 Vern. 204. PORTION, IF RAISEABLE.

XII. WIFE'S RIGHTS AND POWERS UNDER SETTLEMENT, AND HOW THEY MAY BE LOST OR WAIVED.

The husband of a woman entitled to a fund in a cause, signed, after the marriage, a written agreement that he would settle half wife's fortune upon her. Held, that the agreement enured to the benefit of the children of the marriage, and that, therefore, the wife could not waive it. Fenner v. Taylor, 1 Sim. 169. PARENT & CHILD.

Articles of settlement of chattels real, of infant on marriage, will bind her husband, and although no settlement be made pursuant to articles, wife is not entitled to any interest by survivorship. Trollope v. Linton, 1 S. & S. 477. INFANT.

A married woman cannot by consent, on examination in court, part with her interest in a fund settled on her marriage for her separate use for life, with remainder to survivor of her and husband. Ritchie v. Broudbent, 2 J. & W. 456. HUSB. & WIFE.

A trust term, created by a marriage settlement, to raise a sum of money on the decease of the survivor of the husband and wife, in case there should be no issue of the marriage living at her death, and to be paid as the wife, at any time or times during her coverture; and notwithstanding the same, by any deed or writing, &c. should appoint or devise, the power cannot be exercised during widowhood or a second marriage. Horseman v. Abbey, 1 Jac. & W. 381. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

Settlement by a husband of money in trust, to pay the interest to the wife during her life, with a proviso against anticipation. The husband joins with a surety in covenant to pay an annuity, secured by an assignment by the wife, of the interest to become due, and of the principal sum, in the event of there being no children of the marriage. Held, the surety not entitled to any remedy in equity under the assignment, in respect of his payment of the arrears recovered against him by an action upon the covenant, although he had no notice of the proviso against anticipation in the settlement; a charge of fraudulent concealment not sufficiently established: and even if fraud had been fully made out against the wife, it seems it would not be sufficient to support the assignment, which would be to give her a power of alienation against the intention of the settlor. Jackson v. Hobhouse, 2 Mer. 483. PRIN. & SURETY; HUSB. & WIFE; FRAUD, CONCEALMENT.

Settlement, by feme about to marry, of property to trustees for her own sole use, benefit, and disposition, gives a separate estate. Exp. Ray, 1 Mad. 199. HUSB. & WIFE; SEPARATE ESTATE.

Under a settlement in trust, to pay the rents and interest to the separate use, for the joint lives of husband and wife, if she survived, for her heirs and executors; if he survived, according to her appointment by will, in default thereof, a limitation over as to the real estate, and as to the personal, to her executors; the wife cannot, during the coverture, bind the capital surviving to her. Lee v. Mugeridge, 1 V. & B. 118. HUSB. & WIFE, SEPARATE ESTATE.

There is no jurisdiction in equity, by consent of married woman on examination, to transfer to her husband personal property settled in trust for her surviving her husband, absolutely. Richards v. Chambers, 18 Ves. 580. JURISDICTION; HUSB. & WIFE; CONSENT.

Settlement upon marriage of stock, the property of the wife, in trust from time to time, to receive the dividends and pay them into the hands of the wife for her sole and separate use, her receipt to be a discharge; after her decease, if the husband should survive, for him for life, and after the decease of the survivor, to transfer the principal among the children, according to her appointment by will; the trustees, with the privity of the wife, sold the stock and paid the money to the husband, taking his bond of indemnity. He died insolvent: upon the bill of the widow and children, the fund having been replaced by the trustees, and transferred to the accountant general, upon the trusts of the settlement; the trustees to pay the dividends to the widow from the death of the husband, with costs. Whistler v. Newman, 4 Ves. 129; see as to the authority of this case, 5 Ves. 17. n. and 694. n. TRUST, BREACH OF; HUSB. & WIFE; TRUSTEES, PERSONAL LIABILITY.

A father covenanted at his daughter's marriage to leave her at her death a full and equal share of his personal estate with his son; he began and continued for some years to sell real estates, and vested the produce in Bank-stock, together with the produce of his personal estate, the whole of which he transferred into his son's name, who verbally promised to pay the father the dividends for life. The son sold out the Bank-stock and invested produce in India-stock, which produced a greater interest; but paid his father only the amount of former interest. The father died, and left personally only to a small amount. The India-stock held liable to the articles. Jones v. Martin, 6 Bro. P. C. 437. FRAUD; COVENANT TO LEAVE BY WILL.

Money invested in trust for a married woman, to pay her interest for life to her separate use, and after her decease to such person, and subject to such powers, &c. as she should by any instrument in writing from time to time, or by will appoint (during her present coverture). She cannot dispose of the principal at once by deed, but by a revocable act only. Socket v. Wray, 4 Bro. C. C. 483. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

Settlement in consideration of marriage, the wife's present fortune, and subsequent covenants, one of which was, that the mother should give to the wife, or any child, equal to what was given to the rest. The mother leaves her a legacy, and by law a part of the residue comes to her. Wife survives husband. What he had not reduced into possession, goes to her representatives by survivorship, not to his; there being no contract to give him a certain right. Garforth v. Bradley, 2 Ves. 675. HUSB. & WIFE; CHOSE IN ACTION, REDUCTION INTO POSSESSION.

Agreement to settle a jointure in consideration of a portion by the father; though the portion was never paid, yet the wife shall have her jointure. Perkins v. Thornton, Amb. 502. JOINTURE.

One by articles, previous to his marriage, covenants, in consideration of 3500*l.* portion, and on his intended wife's conveying her lands to him and his heirs, when she came of age, to settle certain lands of his own in jointure. Neither the wife nor her trustees executed the articles. After marriage, the husband settles his lands mentioned in the articles, and recites the settlement to be in performance of the articles, and in consideration of the marriage, and for a provision for the wife (to bar her of dower) and their issue; but never requires her to convey her lands to him; the wife is a party to, and executes this settlement. After the husband's death she enters on the settled lands. This settlement is a waiver by the husband of the proposed conveyance by the wife; and she shall hold as well her own estate as also the lands settled. Lucy v. Moore, 4 Bro. P. C. 343. INFANT; WAIVER.

Where in marriage articles, the lands agreed to be limited in jointure are expressed to be of the yearly value of 500*l.*, and afterwards prove deficient, this amounts to an agreement that they were of that value, and is a sufficient foundation for making up the deficiency. Glegg v. Glegg, 4 Bro. P. C. 614. JOINTURE; SPEC. PERF.

Lands settled on A for life, for her jointure, are covenanted to be of a certain clear yearly value: after the death of the husband, the jointure lands turn out deficient. The jointress is entitled to have the deficiency made good out of other lands, and to come in as a specialty creditor upon the husband's estate for the arrears of the deficiency with interest. Parker v. Harvey, 4 Bro. P. C. 604. JOINTURE, DEFICIENCY OF; SPEC. PERF.

Where lands are settled in jointure, and covenanted to be of 500*l.* per ann. value, but the husband afterwards discovering a defect in the title, settles other lands as an additional jointure, and declares them to be in recompence of all deficiencies, either in title or value of the lands before settled; the jointress shall have lands of the full value of 500*l.* per ann. over and above the other lands, and all other provisions made for her by her husband's will. Grove v. Hooke, 4 Bro. P. C. 593. JOINTURE.

A, on his marriage, gave a bond of 600*l.* with a warrant of attorney to confess judgment thereon, defeasance on payment of 300*l.* to his wife, if she survived; afterwards she joined him in a conveyance by fine of his real estate. Held, that this extinguished her right, or any lien created by this judgment on the real estate. Goodrick v. Shatbolt, Pre. Chan. 333. S. C. Gilb. Eq. Rep. 18. HUSB. & WIFE; FINE.

Covenant, that wife shall be at liberty to dispose of her personal estate, does not extend to property acquired after marriage. Pilkington v. Cuthbertson, 2 Bro. P. C. 7. HUSB. & WIFE; SEPARATE ESTATE.

Where a woman by marriage agreement is to have the separate use of any estate during coverture, she shall have that and its produce after marriage, and if invested in any purchase, equity will regard it as the produce of what she ought to have. Easby v. Eastby, 2 Eq. Ab. 148. SEPARATE ESTATE.

A marries B, who has an estate in land and fortune in money; they being both infants, an act of parliament is obtained for settling a jointure on the wife in bar of dower; provided, that the jointure shall cease, if the wife, when of age, did not settle her land, but nothing said as to the personal estate. Part of the fortune is a mortgage for 1300*l.* taken in a trustee's name. The wife, when she came of age, settled her own land, and afterwards the husband dies. Decreed, the mortgage to the executors of A, and that it should not survive to his wife as a chose in action. Hlois v. l's. Hereford, 2 Vern. 501. HUSB. & WIFE, CHOSE IN ACTION.

I S made a settlement on his eldest son for life, remainder to his first &c. sons in tail, remainder over, with power for his son to jointure any wife he should afterwards marry, to the extent of 100*l.* per ann.; the father died, and the son married a woman, to whom, after marriage, he appointed certain lands in trust for her for a jointure; and he covenanted, that if they were not of the value of 100*l.* per ann., he would make good the deficiency at any time during his life; he lived several years, but no complaint was ever made of the value of the land, nor was he requested to make good any deficiency. Upon his death without issue, the widow brought her bill to have her jointure made up 100*l.* per ann.; and it was so decreed, a covenant to provide for a wife not being voluntary; and as to her not requiring it before, no laches can be imputed to a feme covert. Fothergill v. Fothergill, 2 Freem. 256.

A, on his marriage, settled a rent charge on his wife for her jointure, and afterwards devised to the wife part of the land charged with the rent charge. Bill is, that the rent charge might be apportioned. Bill dismissed. Knight v. Calthorpe, 1 Vern. 347. WILL, C. OF; RENT CHARGE, APPORTIONMENT OF.

A man settles land of 6*l.* per ann. to the use of himself for life, then to his wife for life, and agrees she shall hold the land until 100*l.* shall be paid by his heir to her executors, &c. She, by a writing purporting to be her will, disposes of this 100*l.* and dies in the lifetime of her husband. A good appointment in equity. Hlewsow v. Sarner, 1 Vern. 244. POWER TO DISPOSE BY WILL; FEME COVERT.

Feme covert may, in life of husband, dispose of money laid up out of her separate maintenance. Id. ib.

A charges land in D. with a portion for a daughter by a first wife, and then marries and settles part of these lands for the jointure of a second wife, who has no notice of the charge. A believing the portion would take place of the jointure, by will, gives other lands in E. in lieu thereof. The wife, by combination with the heir, refuses to accept the devise. Decreed, the daughter should hold the lands in D. till her portion was paid. Reeve v. Reeve, 1 Vern. 219. 2 Vent. 363. S. C. differently stated. CHARGE OF LANDS.

XIII. IN BAR OF DOWER, THIRDS, &c.

The personal estate of an honorary freeman of the city of London, is, in case of his dying intestate, distributable according to the custom of London; and his widow is not barred of her customary share by a settlement which is expressed to be in lieu of all dower, or thirds, or other portion at common law, or otherwise out of his freehold and copyhold lands. Onslow v. Onslow, 1 Sim. 18. WIDOW; CUSTOM OF LONDON.

Covenant in settlement by husband, in event of his death leaving his wife surviving, and children within six months after death, to pay, &c. one full and clear moiety of all such real and personal estates as he shall be seized, &c. of at his death. Held, on principle of part performance, the widow was not entitled, in addition to the moiety under the covenant, to a third of the residue of personal estate, by intestacy of husband. Garthshore v. Chalie, 10 Ves. 1. WIDOWS' THIRDS; COVT.; PART. PERF.

Provision by settlement in lieu, &c. of all dower or thirds, which wife might otherwise be entitled to of real or personal estate, held to bar her interest, in what was not disposed of by will of husband. Druce v. Denison, 6 Ves. 385. HUSB. & WIFE.

Provision by marriage settlement not held a purchase of all the property of wife, unless that is expressed or clearly imported. Id. ib. SEPARATE ESTATE.

A provision previous to the marriage of a female infant in bar of dower, thirds, and all claim upon the real and personal estate of the husband, if precarious and uncertain, as that the personal estate shall go according to the custom of London, does not bar her. Smith v. Smith, 5 Ves. 189. DOWER.

Dower barred by settlement previous to marriage, during the infancy of the wife, of stock and leasehold property, partly the husband's, partly the wife's. Williams v. Chitty, 3 Ves. 645. DOWER; INFANCY.

By the settlement made on the marriage of a female infant, an estate was settled on the husband's mother for life, remainder to the husband for life, remainder to the wife for life, with remainder over in bar of dower. The settlement will not bind the wife, in regard the mother might (which she did) survive the husband; the wife may therefore elect to take the provision under the settlement, or her dower and free bench. Caruthers v. Caruthers, 4 Bro. C. C. 509. DOWER; ELECTION.

Leasehold estate settled "in lieu of dower," is not a bar of thirds. Cresswell v. Byron, 3 Bro. C. C. 362. WIDOWS' THIRDS.

Provision in a settlement that the wife should not be barred of any thing the husband should give or leave by deed or will, he dies intestate and a freeman of London, her shares by the statute and custom are not a satisfaction of the covenant. Kirkman v. Kirkman, 2 Bro. C. C. 95. CUSTOM OF LONDON; SETTLEMENT; SATISF. OF.

Covenant by deed before marriage to settle on his wife, if she survive, part of the real estate for her jointure, and in full recompence of all dower, or thirds, which she can any way claim, &c. out of any lands, &c. of which he is or shall be seized of freehold or inheritance, she is hereby barred from claiming as her free bench, copyhold purchased afterwards. Walker v. Walker, 1 Ves. 54. WIDOW'S FREE BENCH.

L, previous to his marriage with A, covenanted that he would, by will or by some good assurance, grant to D or her mother or her executors, &c. in trust for D, 1000l. to be paid to her after his decease for their separate use; and in case he should not by deed or will assure the same, then his executors, &c. should pay the 1000l. L died without such deed or will. Held that D was not entitled to the 1000l. and her distributive share of L's personal estate also; it being meant by L not as a debt, but a security only for his wife's provision. Lee v. Cox, 3 Atk. 419. S. C. 1 Ves. 1. PORTIONS, DURABLE.

A man by marriage articles covenants to pay his wife, if she survive him, 1500l. in full of dower, thirds, custom of London, or otherwise, out of his real and personal estate. A dies intestate. The wife is barred of her share by the statute of distributions. Davilla v. Davilla, 2 Vern. 724. DISTRIBUTION.

A jointure settled on wife by articles previous to marriage, but to whom she was no party will not bar her dower. Daly v. Lynch, 3 Bro. P. C. 478. DOWER.

Settlement in bar of all the wife's demands, out of her husband's personal estate, by the custom of the province of York, or otherwise, will bar the wife of her distributive, as well as customary part. Benson v. Bellasis, 1 Vern. 15. S. C. 2 Cha. Rep. 252. CUSTOM OF YORK, HOW BARABLE.

SETTLEMENT OF FAMILY DISPUTES.

Agreement in settlement of family disputes, one party being guilty of gross fraud and concealment of the rights of the other, set aside after great length of time. Gordon v. Gordon, 3 Swan. 400. FRAUD; LENGTH OF TIME.

Family agreements not supported if founded in the mistake of either party, to which the opposite party is accessory. Id. 467. See id. 463. MISTAKE; FRAUD.

A family agreement concluded in honest error is binding; not if either party has been misled by the concealment of material information. Id. 470.

A family agreement may bind the parties, though neither of them had a valid title to the property in question. Id. 471.

Family agreements require communication of all material circumstances. Id. 473.

A deed executed by the members of a family to determine their interests under the will and partial intestacy of an ancestor, not enforced, it appearing on the face of the deed that the parties did not understand their rights, or the nature of the transaction, and that the heir surrendered an unimpeachable title without consideration, and evidence being given of his gross ignorance, habitual intoxication, liability to imposition, and want of professional advice, in the absence of direct proof of fraud, or undue influence, and after an acquiescence of five years. Dunnage v. White, 1 Swan. 137. FRAUD; IGNORANCE OR RIGHTS.

An estate being limited, under her marriage settlement, to A for life, with remainder to her children by her deceased husband in such manner as she should appoint, remainder, in default of appointment, to all the children as tenants in common, an agreement by the children that on her joining in suffering a recovery, the first use to which the recovery should enure, should be to A for life, without impeachment of waste, is, it seems, valid in equity; and the court therefore refused to continue an injunction to restrain her from cutting timber, unless security were given to her for the value of all which she might cut during her life. Davis v. Uphill, 1 Swan. 129.

In an arrangement settling the interests of all the branches of a family, children may contract with each other to give to a parent who had a power to distribute property among them, some advantage which the parent, without their contract with each other, could not have. Id. 136.

Specific performance decreed of parol agreement as to land, made as a family compromise of doubtful right, where there had been part performance by possession and improvements and acquiescence, near nineteen years, a third person being permitted to act on his conception of the rights, not questioned at the time by defendant who had acquiesced under expectations from that third person, which were in part disappointed. Stockley v. Stockley, 1 V. & B. 23. See also S. P. Stapilton v. Stapilton, 1 Atk. 2. SPEC. PERF.; ACQUIESCENCE; LENGTH OF TIME.

Family compromise favoured, if reasonable, and upon a doubtful right; even in the strongest case; as where one party was drunk at the time. Id. 30. DRUNKENNESS.

But whether upon a mere supposition of right, proving erroneous. Quare. Id. ib.

The court will support contracts entered into to preserve the peace of families; and therefore, where a son upon his marriage joined with his father in re-settling the estate, and by a memorandum executed at the same time, agreed to secure 500*l.* to each of his sisters. Held, that there was sufficient consideration for the court to decree a specific performance of the agreement, an attempt to shew that it had been obtained by an undue exercise of parental influence having failed. Wycherley v. Wycherley, 2 Edm. 175. SPEC. PERF.; PARENT & CHILD.

An uncle in consideration of natural love, and in order to reconcile the family covenants to settle his estates on his nephew. This covenant shall be executed in specie, though objected that the remedy is at law. Wiseman v. Roper, 1 Ch. Rep. 158. SPEC. PERF.

SHERIFF.

By the 47th order of the Exchequer, where a sheriff neglects to return any process delivered to him, a rule may be given the last day of the term for him to return the writ by the seal day, or be amerced 40*s.* Kirkly's Ord. Exch. 25. See 1 Fowl. Exch. Pr. 155.

What the sheriff does in the case of a regno is upon his own responsibility. Boehm v. Wood, 1 Turn. & R. 340. NE EXEAT REGNO.

Where an injunction is issued after execution against the goods, the sheriff may proceed to sell, but the court will, in special cases, stay the money in his hands. Hawkshaw v. Parkins, 2 Swan. 549. PR. INJUNCTION.

If an injunction is obtained on bill filed, after execution executed, and at the time of the injunction being obtained, the goods are not yet out of the hands of the sheriff, if the sheriff proceeds to sell without process, he will be ordered to pay the money into court. It was formerly the practice to make the sheriff a party in such case by supplemental bill, if the money has come into his hands since the injunction issued, or by the original bill, if it was in his hands at the time, but we are now got into a much looser practice. Dict. per Eldon, C. in Franklyn v. Thomas, 3 Mer. 234.

Sheriff levying upon goods alleged to be in settlement, cannot maintain a bill of interpleader. Slingsby v. Boulton, 1 V. & B. 334. PR. INTERPLEADER.

Motion granted, that the sheriff of Kent might be ordered to pay the party money under an attachment for not paying costs, with the costs of the motion. Anon. 11 Ves. 170. Solly v. Greathead, Beame's Costs, 353. S. C. Levett v. Letteney, id. 138. S. P.

So where on attachment, the sheriff returned cepi corpus and languidus, a duces tecum was awarded, upon which he returned adhuc languidus. On affidavit that defendant, neither at the time of the return nor since, was sick, but goes abroad, the sheriff amerced 5*l.* Anon. Wy. Pr. Reg. 394.

A sheriff amerced for not returning attachments, upon affidavit that they were now returned and delivered to the party, moved to discharge the attachments, they not being yet estreated, granted. Id. See Harr. Pr. 118.

An injunction against proceeding at law, extends to prevent a suit against the sheriffs, for not paying over money levied in the original suit, before the injunction issued. Bolt v. Stowway, 2 Anst. 556. INJUNCTION, TO STAY PROCEEDINGS.

Sheriff taking party on attachment for contempt, and not paying costs, and suffering party to go at large, ordered himself to pay those costs, and costs of contempt. Solly v. Greathead, 11 Ves. 170. S. P. Levett v. Letteney, Beame's Costs, 352. PR. COSTS.

Defendant, who resided in the county palatine of Chester, being in contempt for want of answer, an attachment issued, directed to the chamberlain of the county palatine, or his deputy, commanding him to issue a writ to the sheriff of the city of Chester to attach defendant. The writ not being returned, another order was made, directing the chamberlain, or his deputy, to return the writ forthwith, whereupon he returned that he had issued his writ, but that the sheriff had made no return. Plaintiff then moved that the sheriff might make a return on the writ, (which, however, could not be, as the writ was returned in court); and after searching precedents, the sheriff was ordered to return the chamberlain's mandate within six days, which he did accordingly. Clough v. Cross, Dick. 555. In Seddon v. Curghey, cited in S. C. plaintiffs sued out a test. sci. fa. against defendant, directed to the chancellor of the county palatine of Lancaster, or his lieutenant or deputy; the chancellor issued his precept to the sheriff of the county, who made no return. The question was, whether plaintiffs were to call on the sheriff in open court, or to move that the chancellor might return the writ of sci. fa. The latter method was adopted, and an order made accordingly. It was agreed that the next step must have been against the sheriff, praying that he might return the precept.

Three orders are said to be necessary to compel the sheriff to return the writ; 1st, that he do return it; 2d, that he return it in a certain number of days, or stand committed; 3d, that he do stand committed. Id.

The high bailiff of the West Riding of Yorkshire, after receiving a hab. cor. cum causis against defendant, discharged him under the insolvent act. He was ordered to stand committed for the contempt, unless cause shown, and such order was made absolute shortly afterwards. Kendal v. Baron, Dick. 89. See Weldale v. Weldale, 16 Ves. 378. where defendant, who had been charged with an attachment for non-payment of money, was discharged under an insolvent act, the marshal of the King's Bench, who had him in custody in an action of debt, refused to discharge him without leave of this court.

Where an attachment has issued against a person, and the sheriff takes a bail-bond for his appearance, and delivers it to the plaintiff, the court will discharge a rule made upon the sheriff to shew cause why he does not bring in the body; for the plaintiff is not without remedy, as he may move on a cepi corpus returned for a messenger to the county where the person lives. Anon. 2 Atk. 507.

Amorced 6l. for return of non est inventus, he having been in defendant's company. Stradling v. El. Pembroke, Carv. 44. So in Crompton v. Meredith, and Hankey v. Wight, id. 109. the sheriff was amerced for not returning a writ.

SHIP REGISTRY, AND REGISTRY ACTS.

Under a commission of bankruptcy against two partners, ship registered in the name of one of them, but in the ordering and disposition of both, forms part of the joint estate. Exp. Burn, 1 Jac. & W. 378. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Agreement between A, B, and C, that they shall purchase ship to be registered in names of A and B, is against public policy, and demurrer allowed to bill for account in such transaction. Battersby v. Smyth, 3 Mad. 110. PUBLIC POLICY; AGREEMENT.

The bill of sale passes the absolute property in a ship at sea, subject only to be divested in case of the indorsement on the certificate of registry not being made within ten days after the return of the ship to port; power of attorney to sign an indorsement on the certificate not revoked by bankruptcy of the vendor, subsequent to the execution of the power, but previous to the indorsement, being a power only to do a mere formal act, which the bankrupt himself might have been compelled to execute, notwithstanding his bankruptcy, and for a valuable consideration; therefore, in this case, the indorsement on the certificate being made within the ten days, under a power of attorney, the grantor of which had since become bankrupt: held a sufficient compliance with the terms of the registry act. Dixon v. Ewart, 3 Mer. 322. POWER OF ATTORNEY, REVOC. OF; BANKCY. EFFECT OF.

Agreement for sale of a ship void under the registry acts, 26 G. 3. c. 60., and 31 G. 3. c. 68. for want of the certificate of registry being duly recited in the memorandum of sale, although a copy of such certificate was thereto annexed. The policy of these acts prevents a court from looking on one who has not strictly complied with their provisions in the light of a purchaser. Brewster v. Clarke, 2 Mer. 75.

If on sale of a ship there is no bill of sale or indorsement of certificate of registry, no relief can be given in equity, on ground of accident or fraud. Thompson v. Leake, 1 Mad. 39. MISTAKE; FRAUD.

The registered owners of ship are prima facie alone liable for repairs; though so registered without their knowledge. Exp. Machell, 2 V. & B. 216. S. C. 1 Rose, 447. REPAIRS.

The registry of a ship is conclusive evidence of the property, even between creditors; excluding all trusts created by acts of the parties, as by payment of money on a purchase in the name of another. Distinction as to trusts arising by operation of law upon bankruptcy or death. Exp. Houghton, Exp. Gribble, 17 Ves. 251. S. C. 1 Rose, 177.

The registry of a ship is conclusive evidence of the property upon the policy of the registry acts; even against the claim of creditors upon a joint purchase and various acts of apparent ownership, within the bankrupt act, 21 Jac. 1. c. 19. s. 11. Exp. Yallup, 15 Ves. 60. EVID.; BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Transfer of a share in a ship to another part-owner, void by not procuring the indorsement upon the certificate, within the time prescribed by the registry acts, after the arrival of the ship. Speldt v. Lechmere, 13 Ves. 588.

Lien of a master of ship by bills drawn, and payment made for necessary repairs abroad in the proseecution of the voyage, though no hypothecation. Hursey v. Christie, 13 Ves. 594. LIEN.

Whether the legal title under an assignment of a share in a ship failing under the ship registry acts, 26 G. 3. c. 60., 34 G. 3. c. 68., or for want of the indorsement upon the certificate, within ten days after the return of the ship to port, if that was prevented by fraud, relief can be had in equity? in what form, and whether it may not be had as to the freight? if not as to the ship, though both were comprised in the same bill of sale. Qu.? Mestuer v. Gillespie, 11 Ves. 621. FRAUD.

Ships purchased by one partner, held separate property, as between creditors, after his bankruptcy, and death of the other, upon circumstances, particularly the registry being made in the name of one partner only, and being afterwards continued for a fraudulent purpose. Curtis v. Perry, 6 Ves. 739. PARTNERSHIP; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

No relief given to aid a defective contract, &c., not conformable to the ship registry acts. Id. 745. MISTAKE.

A bill of sale of a ship was made a collateral security, and the papers, &c. delivered, but there was no recital in the bill of sale of the registry, pursuant to act 26 Geo. 3. c. 60. This cannot be supplied against assignee of a bankrupt, and bill for that purpose dismissed. Hibbert v. Rolleston, 3 Bro. C. C. 571. MISTAKE.

An assignment of a ship by way of mortgage, which is defective by not having complied with the registry act, cannot be made good in equity. Exp. Bulleel, 2 Cox, 243.

SHIP, AND SHIP OWNERS.

See also JURISDICTION, IV.—PR. INJUNC. 20.—PRIZE.—STAT. C. OF, II. 39.

Captain of ship may file interpleader where parties claim adversely under bill of lading; but otherwise where paramount to it. Towse v. Henderson, 3 Mad. 277. PL. INTERPLEADER.

Mortgage of ship at sea (the forms of registry act being observed) held valid, and an injunction granted to prevent an improper indorsement on certificate of registry of ship. Thompson v. Smith, 1 Mad. 395. MORTGAGE; INJUNC.

No lien on a ship abroad can be created by parol, nor by bills of exchange drawn by the master; unless upon mistake clearly established, the instrument can be corrected, as in the case of a joint bond intended to be joint and several. Exp. Halkett, 19 Ves. 474. LIEN.

Lien on a ship for repairs done abroad without hypothecation: as to advances for any other purposes, Qu.? S. C. 3 V. & B. 135. S. C. 2 Rose, 194. 229. LIEN; HYPOTHECATION.

A ship, while the possession of it is retained, is specifically chargeable in respect of the expense incurred in repairing it: but the possession parted with, the lien is lost. Exp. Bland, 2 Rose, 91. LIEN.

The owners of a ship are not interested in it as joint tenants, but as tenants in common: upon a bankruptcy, therefore, the bankrupt's share passes to the creditors under the bankruptcy, without being liable specifically to the claims of the other part owners, in respect of their disbursements and liabilities for the ship. Exp. Harrison, id. 76. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT, WHAT PASSES.

Part owners of a ship are tenants in common, not joint tenants, the other partners have no lien, therefore, on the share of one, a bankrupt, having been also managing owner for outfit, freight, &c. Exp. Young, 2 V. & B. 242. S. C. 2 Rose, 78. n. BANKCY. LIEN.

Lien for general contribution to individual loss by property thrown overboard for the safety of the ship under the right of the master to require security, not extended to an injunction against delivering the cargo, receiving the freight, and parting with any share of the ship. The mode of adjustment not confined by usage to arbitration. Hallett v. Bousfield, 18 Ves. 187. CONTRIBUTION.

The property in the freight may be distinct from that in the ship, and is an insurable interest. Mes-tuer v. Gillespie, 11 Ves. 629. INSURANCE ON WHAT.

Sale of a ship at sea valid, notwithstanding the bankruptcy of the vendor before her arrival in port; and, therefore, before the title is complete by the indorsement on the certificate of registry, if the other requisites of the ship registry act were previously complied with. Id. 639. BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT.

Sale of a share of a ship is good without actual delivery. Whether an executory agreement for the sale of a ship must recite the registry under the 26 G. 3. c. 18. s. 17. Qu.? Addis v. Baker, 1 Anst. 222. SALE.

Mortgage of a ship in the port of Dublin, and delivery of muniments, the mortgage secured her there, and made a second mortgage; the second mortgagor took possession as soon as he was informed she was in an English port: this is a sufficient possession to take it out of the stat. 21 Jac. c. 19. Exp. Batson, 3 Bro. C. C. 362. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

A, by deed, assigns the cargoes of two ships to B and C, but has no charter-party or bill of lading to deliver to them. On the arrival of one of the ships he assigns to another person, and afterwards commits an act of bankruptcy: Held that B and C, not having been ready to take possession of the ship on her arrival, had thereby permitted A to continue reputed owner under the stat. 21 Jac. 1. Philpot v. Williams, 2 Eden, 231. Id.

Master being turned out of possession upon the vessel's being captured, does not deprive him of his lien for the freight in case of her re-capture. Exp. Cheesman, id. 181. LIEN.

Part owner of a ship in the E. I. Company's service is liable to pay the bills of the tradesmen employed by the husband of the said ship in fitting her out. Tolson v. Hallett, Amb. 269.

Mortgage of a ship at sea good in bankruptcy notwithstanding the stat. of Jac. 1. if the party procures the bill of sale, &c.; contra if he is incautious or negligent, as by suffering the ship to come back and go on another voyage. Exp. Matthews, 2 Ves. 272. MORTGAGE; BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

A ship pledged abroad by the master for expences, &c. well hypothecated, and the part owners liable. Samson v. Braggington, 1 Ves. 443.

No lien on a ship or proceeds from sale of it for repairs done, except in course of a voyage, liberty given to bring an action as to the personal liability of the part owners who received the benefit. Ld. Hardwick's decision in Doddington v. Hallett, id. 497. has been overruled, and now settled that part owners in a ship are not to be considered as partners. Buz-ton v. Snee, 1 Ves. 154.

Assignment of outward bound ship without possession and delivery of bills of lading, policies, &c. good against creditors. Brown v. Heathcote, 1 Atk. 160. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

A ship being insured from London to Carolina was taken by a Spaniard and retaken by an English privateer, who carried her into Boston, where no person appearing to give security, she was condemned and sold, and after the recaptors had their moiety, the residue remained in the court of admiralty at Boston. Defendant brought an action at law on the policy, and recovered; and plaintiff, by his injunction bill, insisted that defendant ought to have recovered no more than a moiety of the loss. The court refused the injunction, for as defendant had offered to relinquish the salvage, he was entitled to recover the whole money insured. By 13 G. 2. c. 14. s. 18. the recapture of a ship is the revesting of the owner's property, so that it is doubtful whether the act can operate when insurances are made, interest or no interest. Salvage must be deducted out of the money recovered by the policy, if come to the hands of the assured. Pringle v. Hartley, 3 Atk. 195. INSURANCE; STAT. C. OF.

On a ship's being repaired in the river Thames, and fitted out there with new rigging and apparel, the ship itself is not liable, but the owners; secus, if repaired or fitted out at sea, where the master alone may hypothecate. Watkinson v. Bernadiston, 2 P. W. 367.

T lent D 600*l.* D assigned a one-sixteenth in a ship, and by defalcance it was declared that T out of the earnings should pay himself 600*l.*, and should account to D for the surplus, but there was no covenant for payment of the money. The ship was lost, and T brought his bill against D's executrix for the debt; she denied assets præter to satisfy specialty debts: Decreed, she should account for testator's estate, and T to account for the earnings, and to be allowed for the outfit of the ship, though cast away. Tyrral v. J. J. Thomas, 1 Vin. 183. pl. 5. ACCOUNT.

In a voyage the master of ship is the owner's servant, and his duty requires him to provide necessities for the ship, and it is the owner's interest that they should be provided; therefore what the master necessarily takes up (though not on bottomry) and employs for that purpose, the owners must pay. Cary v. White, 5 Bro. P. C. 325. PRINC. & AGENT.

Master of a ship buys provision for the ship and has money from the owners to pay for the provisions, but fails without paying the money. The owners are liable to pay in proportion to their respective shares in the ship: master of the ship is but a servant to the owners. Speerman v. Degraze Galloway, 2 Vern. 643. PRINC. & AGENT.

A master of a ship, without the owner, entered into a charter-party with plaintiff to undertake a voyage on certain terms, and for due performance he bound the ship, tackle, &c. valued at 300*l.* The master deviated, and committed barratry, for which plaintiff obtained a sentence against him in Spain. The owner brought trover for the ship, and an action against plaintiff for the freight. Per cur. The master is liable for the deviation and barratry, but the owner is not liable beyond the sum at which the ship was valued in the charter-party. Anon. 2 Ch. Master was ordered to tax costs of all parties, and amount was directed to be paid out of assets of testator in cause by his executors, who were to be at liberty to pay the costs of certain parties to A, their solicitor. A was an attorney of K. B. and C. P., but never had been admitted as a solicitor in chancery, and master for that reason disallowed the whole of his charges, except what he had paid to his clerk in court. He had, however, previously received from his clients to full amount of his bills. Petition of clients for order on master to review his certificate and tax A's bills dismissed. Prebble v. Bughurst, 2 Sim. 247.

Solicitor, who had become incapable of practising (without being re-admitted) in consequence of having neglected to obtain a certificate for one whole year, ordered to be re-admitted, on payment of a small fine only, without the arrears of duty. Exp. Murray, 1 Turn. & R. 56.

II. PARTNERSHIP WITH UNQUALIFIED PERSONS.

Granting a moiety of the profits of the business of an attorney to an unqualified person, for the mixed consideration of the good-will of the business, which descended from father of grantor, the advancement of money and family affection, is not contrary to the policy of the 22 G. 2. c. 46. s. 11. Candler v. Candler, 6 Mad. Rep. 141. S. C. 1 Jac. 225. STAT. C. OF.

But it is otherwise to enter into partnership with an unqualified person. Tench v. Roberts, cited id. 145. n. (a). Id.

An agreement to share profits, and act as a writer in the office, but not to be considered as a partner, is, in fact, a partnership, and within the above statute. Id. ib.

III. STRIKING OFF ROLLS.

Application to remove a solicitor from being or acting as a master extraordinary of the court of chancery, and to strike him off the roll of such court, though it may be properly made, by reason of his conduct in matter of bankruptcy, should not be made in bankruptcy, but should be addressed to the general jurisdiction of the court. Exp. Lowe, 1 G. & J. 78. PR. INTITULING PROCEEDINGS.

Solicitor falsely representing that an injunction was granted, liable to damages, an indictment, and to be struck off the roll. Kimpton v. Ede, 2 V. & B. 352.

The court will not exercise its summary jurisdiction to compel a vendor's solicitor to perform an undertaking given by him at the sale, to do certain acts for clearing the title to the estate. Peart v. Bushell, 2 Sim. 38. VENDOR & P.; JURISDIC.

One of the two solicitors who were partners became bankrupt, the assignees excluded the other from interfering with the affairs of the partnership, the court nevertheless refused to order the assignees to deliver to him the papers belonging to the clients of the firm without consent of his clients. Davidson v. Napier, 1 Sim. 297. BANKCY. ASSESS. POWERS OF; BANKCY. PARTNERS.

Where a solicitor engaged in various suits obtained payment out of court of a sum of money, standing in trust in the cause, and retained it towards his costs, and upon a subsequent taxation of his bill, it appeared that at the time he obtained payment of the money he had in fact been already over-paid, the court refused, upon a motion for that purpose, to charge him with interest, the parties having made considerable delay before they taxed the costs, and there being no fraud or laches imputable to the solicitor. *Wright v. A sworn clerk may arrest a practising solicitor and attorney on attachment of privilege, and hold him to special bail. Wainwright v. Smith, 2 Russ. 568.

Where a solicitor has in his possession deeds and papers belonging to his client which he refuses to part with, the court has jurisdiction to order the solicitor to deliver the deeds and papers, and also his bill of costs, the party offering to pay what the master shall find to be due to him, though there is no cause pending, and though no part of the costs has been incurred in respect of any action or suit in law or equity. In re Murray, 1 Russ. 519. JURISDICTION.

Where the same solicitor acts for executor, and the other co-defendants, the estate will be charged in respect of the executor's costs, only with that proportion of the sum due to the solicitor from his clients, which the executors, as between himself and the co-defendants, ought to bear. Harmer v. Harris, 1 Russ. 155. EXORS.; COSTS.

Solicitor who advanced money to infant for subsistence of his family, and acted as his confidential adviser, is in nature of guardian to him, and an account settled between them within a month after infant became of age, and without latter having any assistance, was opened notwithstanding vouchers were delivered up. Revett v. Harvey, 1 S. & S. 502. INFANT; GUARDIAN; ACCOUNT; FRAUD.

A solicitor's bill having been partly taxed and paid, an order obtained as of course, referring the bill generally for taxation, was discharged with costs. The conduct of the solicitor cannot be adduced in support of such an order, and the costs of affidavits upon that subject were ordered to be paid as between solicitor and client. *Clutton v. A settlement of a bill of costs during the continuance of the suit, while the client has no professional adviser except the solicitor himself, is not a bar to its taxation. Crossley v. Packer, 1 Jac. & W. 460. TAXATION OF COSTS.

Charges by a country solicitor for attending the cause in London, to be allowed in some cases; but the circumstance of their being undertaken by the direction of the client, is not alone a sufficient ground for allowing them, as the solicitor himself is better able to judge of their necessity. Id. ib.

It is a contempt of the great seal, for a petitioning creditor to strike a docket at the instance of a solicitor who undertakes to prove the act of bankruptcy, and to guarantee him against any expenses he may be put to by issuing the commission; and the court, therefore, will not, upon the petition of such a creditor, tax the solicitor's bill of costs. Exp. Downes, 18 Ves. 120. FRAUD, FID. SIT.; CONFIRMATION.

Attorney cannot take any thing from his client for his benefit pending the suit but his demand; nor a guardian from his ward pending the guardianship; nor at its close, nor until the relation and influence have ceased in either case. Id. 127. GUARD. & WARD; FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Purchase of a reversionary interest by an attorney from his client, though in the event advantageous, without fraud or any misrepresentation, the proposal coming from the client, and no confidence upon that subject, both ignorant of the value; the bill charging fraud and misrepresentation; confidence and knowledge on one side, with ignorance on the other, and bringing forward the only incorrect circumstance, the receipt taken as for money paid, though the consideration was by deduction from a bill of costs not then of that amount, dismissed with costs. Montesquieu v. Sandys, 18 Ves. 302. FRAUD, FID. SIT.; PR. BILL.

An attorney shall not take a gift or reward from his client while the connection subsists; it must, as in the instance of guardian and ward, be previously dissolved. Id. 313. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Solicitor ordered to pay all the costs occasioned by his refusing to appear for defendant at the hearing pursuant to his undertaking, and the costs of the application. Cook v. Broomhead, 16 Ves. 133. PR. COSTS; PR. UNDERTAKING TO APPEAR.

A grant of a leasehold interest from a client to his attorney, a near relation, for whom, being on bad terms with all his other relations, he expressed great friendship, in consideration of 1000*l.* secured by bond, afterwards released, and in consideration of being indemnified from all costs, suits, and expenses, if the title should be impeached, the attorney re-demising the lands, at a nominal rent, for the lives of the client and his wife. Held, not such a dealing between attorney and client as is impeachable on a bill by the next of kin of the client, who acquiesced in it for several years till his death, and who, in his answer to a bill, recognised it as fair, and a mere preference of one relation to others who had disobliged him. Bellou v. Russell, 1 Ball & B. 96. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

All dealings between attorney and client are anxiously scrutinized in equity, in order to protect the client from his own acts done under the influence or ascendancy which an attorney acquires over him. Id. 107. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Attorney cannot be changed without leave of the court: whether he can relinquish the suit, though not paid, and as to the effect of security, quare? Cowell v. Simpson, 16 Ves. 281.

Payne*, 2 Ves. J. 199. 4 Bro. C. C. 350. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Order on the application of a solicitor to tax his own agent's bill. Comer v. Lake, 2 Cox, 173. PR. TAXATION OF COSTS.

It is an established rule in courts of equity, that no gift or gratuity to an attorney, beyond his fair professional demands, made during the time that he continues to conduct or manage the affairs of the donor, shall be permitted to stand; and more especially, if such gift or gratuity arises immediately out of the subject then under the attorney's conduct or management, and if the donor is at the time ignorant of the nature and value of the property so given. Middleton v. Welles, 4 Bro. P. C. 245.

And that without any proof of actual fraud. S. C. 1 Cox, 112. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Upon the principles of policy, no attorney shall be permitted to purchase any thing in litigation, of which litigation he has the management. Hall v. Hallett, 1 Cox, 135. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

In a suit against an attorney for the purpose of having his bills of costs on the plaintiff taxed, and for an injunction against his proceeding at law in the mean time, defendants moved that the costs might be taxed as between attorney and client; but the court said, that the rules of taxation of costs, as between attorney and client, did not apply when they appear in the court as party and party in a cause, and that these costs therefore must be taxed as between party and party. Spelman v. Woodbine, 1 Cox, 49. PR. COSTS, TAXATION OF.

Solicitor of plaintiff to be examined, except as to things in his knowledge as solicitor. Kelway v. Kelway, Cary, 89.

VII. SOLICITOR'S LIEN.

A solicitor has a lien for his costs on a fund in court, produced by his exertions; and therefore, where on a bill for discovery in aid of a defence at law, an injunction was granted on terms, one of which was the payment of money into court, and an answer was afterwards filed, and the action at law being subsequently tried, a verdict was found for the defendant, it was held, that the solicitor for the defendant in equity had had a lien on the fund for the costs of the discovery. But where the solicitor putting in the answer was removed, and his demand paid, and another solicitor employed, it was considered that the fund was exonerated to that extent, and the latter solicitor had no any for the costs of the former solicitor though paid by him. Irving v. Fina, 2 C. R. 10. FUND IN COURT.

Where plaintiff's solicitor, with notice, suffers the defendant to satisfy the demand of his client, without making effectual provision for payment of his costs; the court will not suffer him to proceed in suit against defendant for recovery of them. Morse v. Cooke, 1 McClell. 211. S. C. 13 Price, 473. COSTS.

Solicitor refusing to act longer in cause, ordered to permit client to inspect papers in his possession at all reasonable times, without any undertaking on his part to proceed to taxation of bill. Moir v. Mudie, 1 S. & S. 282. PR. INSPECTION OF DEEDS.

A solicitor who has declined to proceed with a cause, will be ordered, though his bill of costs is not paid, to deliver up the papers to the present solicitor of the party, the latter undertaking to hold them subject to the former solicitor's lien, for what shall be found due to him on the taxation of the bills. An offer on the part of the former solicitor, after the motion made to proceed with the cause, will not prevent the court from ordering him to deliver up the papers on the terms mentioned above. Colegrave v. Manley, 1 Turn. & R. 400. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

Solicitor refusing to allow deed in his possession to be proved on behalf of plaintiff, because he had lien on it for costs due from defendant; ordered to produce deed at his own expense, and pay all costs consequential on his refusal. Brassington v. Brassington, 1 S. & S. 455. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

A solicitor has no lien upon the will of his client, and cannot refuse to produce a deed executed by the client in his favour, containing a reservation of a life interest, and a power of revocation. Ratch v. Squares, 1 Turn. & R. 37. See Usher v. Drayton, 2 S. & S. 309. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

Solicitor's lien is superseded by taking a security. Id., 92. SECURITY.

Where a party has a pressing necessity for papers in the hands of his solicitor, the court will order them to be delivered up, upon a deposit being made, sufficient to cover the amount of the solicitor's bill and the costs of the taxation. Clutton v. Pardon, 1 Turn. & R. 304. PR. PRODUCTION OF PAPERS.

A solicitor discharged by his client or his representatives is not bound to produce the papers in his possession for the purposes of the cause, his bill of costs not being paid. Lard v. Warrington, 1 Jac 580. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS, &c.

A solicitor declining to be farther concerned in a cause, is not entitled to compel payment of his costs, by refusing to permit such inspection of the papers in his hands, or such production of them before the court or the master, as may be necessary in the conduct of the cause. Comacrell v. Poynton, 1 Swan. 1. PR. INSPECTION OF DEEDS, &c.

The court will not order the personal representative of a deceased solicitor, to deliver the papers in the cause to another solicitor, without payment, or security for payment of the solicitor's bill. It seems that the summary jurisdiction of the court extends to the representatives of a solicitor. Redfern v. Sowerby, id., 81.

Where town agent of country solicitor (since a bankrupt), had received papers from him belonging to his client, for purposes of his client's business, they have a lien against the client for amount of money due from him to solicitor, and from solicitor to them, on account of business done in that cause. And where client had, after the solicitor's bankruptcy, paid the agent his bill to obtain such papers, although an action had been previously commenced against him by assignees for recovery of it, the court granted and continued an injunction against the action, on the ground of agent's lien. Baugh v. Hine, 6 Price, 203. BANCROFT'S LIEN; PR. & AGENT.

An attorney (being concerned as well for mortgagee as mortgagor), had been appointed receiver of rents and profits of mortgaged estates; and on the order made for delivery of possession, there is found to be a balance remaining in his hands beyond what is sufficient to satisfy the mortgagee, he will be ordered to pay such balance into court, notwithstanding the general report has not yet been made on which there may possibly be found to be a greater sum of money due to him than the balance in his hands. Lewes v. Morgan, 5 Price, 42. PR. PAYMENT OF MONEY INTO COURT.

Though order be made on petition in bankruptcy, directing costs to be paid to petitioner personally, solicitor does not thereby lose his lien. Exp. Bryant, 1 Mad. 49. PR. ORDER.

Whenever a client is bound to produce a deed for the benefit of a third person, so also is his solicitor; though the latter may have a lien on it for costs against his client. Furlong v. Howard, 2 Scho. & L. 115. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

Upon an act of bankruptcy, by lying two months in prison, joint and separate commissions; the former being established, the latter superseded, the attorney employed by the bankrupt, and in sustaining the latter against the former, has no lien upon papers delivered to him by the bankrupt after the arrest; upon petition of the joint creditors, he was ordered to deliver them up. Exp. Lee, 2 Ves. J. 285. BANKCY. LIEN.

When there are costs in equity and at law due from the opposite parties, the court will not set off the costs at law against those in equity, if the solicitor in equity claims his lien on the latter. Smith v. Brocklesby, 1 Anst. 61. PR. COSTS; SET-OFF.

A client cannot compel the executor of his attorney to produce his papers, &c. in court, though only for the purpose of using them there, unless the testator's bill of costs be paid or secured. Magrath v. Muskerri, 1 Ridgw. P. C. 477. VERN. & SERIV. 171. EXECUTOR.

Solicitor has lien on funds of lunatic. Exp. Price, 2 Ves. 407.

Solicitor prosecuting to a decree has a lien on the estate recovered, in the hands of the person recovering, for his bill; but not in the hands of the heir. But if the suit be revived, the lien revives. Committee of a lunatic has a lien on the lunatic's estate, the solicitor employed by the committee declared to stand in his place. Barnesley v. Powell, Amb. 102.

Voluntary release by a party to his adversary, not to defeat the clerk in court of his lien for costs. If the suit had ended on a bonâ fide compromise for a reasonable consideration paid, it would have been otherwise. Anon. 2 Ves. 25. RELEASE; PR. LIEN OF CLERK IN COURT.

A solicitor who is in disburse for his client, has a right to be paid out of a duty decreed to an administrator, and has a lien upon it before the bond creditors of the deceased; nor can the administrator controvert this rule, by insisting on applying the assets in a course of administration. Turwin v. Gibson, 3 Atk. 720. 727.

A solicitor may detain title deeds as against client till payment of his bill, but not against persons who have antecedent rights. Marsh v. Bathoe, Ridgw. 256.

A clerk in court who lends money to the solicitor is not entitled thereby to detain a client's papers as a pledge. Gray v. Cockerill, 2 Atk. 114. CLERK IN COURT.

Where a clerk in court had obtained an order for taxing the costs of the solicitor who employed him, and afterwards another order for payment of the costs of taxation, he was allowed to detain the papers of the solicitor's client till the costs reported due under the first order were paid, but not for the costs of taxation. S. C. Barn. 264. PR. CLERK IN COURT.

An attorney has a lien on all the papers of a bankrupt client received by him before the bankruptcy; and he may prove the debt, though he holds the papers. Exp. Bush, 7 Vin. 74. pl. 8. BANKCY. PROOF.

A country client employs an attorney or solicitor in the country in a cause in chancery, the solicitor employs a clerk in chancery, the client in the country pays his solicitor, but the clerk in chancery is unpaid. The client is not bound to pay the clerk in chancery, but if the latter has any papers in his hands, he may retain them. Farewell v. Coker, 2 P. W. 460. CLERK IN COURT; PRIN. & AGENT.

In what case an agreement made by a scrivener, on behalf of his client, to compound a debt, shall bind the scrivener, though not the client. Parrott v. Wells, 2 Vern. 127.

Scrivener not bound to disclose evidence obtained in professional confidence. Harrey v. Clayton, 2 Swan. 221. PROFESSIONAL CONFIDENCE.

The provisions of this act shall extend to the E. I. company, and S. S. company, where they have stock standing in their books, which may become the subject of a suit in equity. 39 & 40 G. 3. c. 36. s. 4. STOCK, TRANSFER OF; E. I. COMP.

A bequeathed 1000*l.* capital S. S. stock to B; at the time of making his will he had 1800*l.* stock, which by sale he reduced to 200*l.* and afterwards increased it to 1600*l.*, and died after the making of his will, and before the act took place, which changed three-fourths of the capital S. S. stock into annuities: held, that this legacy was neither taken away or impaired by the sale, or by the act. Partridge v. Partridge, Ca. Temp. Talb. 226.

A, who is a trustee for B of 1000*l.* S. S. stock, at the desire of B, borrows 4000*l.* on this stock, of the company, and B receives the money: A pays the 10 per cent. on the late act, to be discharged of the loan, though B forbade the payment, yet he is liable. Balsh v. Hyham, 2 P. W. 453. TRUSTEE.

Bill for performance of articles for the purchase of an estate dismissed with costs, the title not having been laid before the vendee's counsel within the time limited, and the S. S. stock, from whence the money was to be raised, having fallen in the mean time 168 per cent. Lewis v. Ld. Lechmere, 10 Mod. 503.

A judgment at law was recovered against one of the late directors of the S. S. company, though all his estate was taken away from him by the late act, as a provision for his creditors, yet the court would not restrain plaintiff's proceeding at law. Holditch v. Mist, 1 P. W. 695.

10,000*l.* trust money was agreed to be laid out in land and settled, but the trustees bought S. S. stock with the money, which increased to 30,000*l.* As the trust would have suffered by the fall, so shall it have the benefit of the rise of this stock. Anon. 1 P. W. 648.

Commissions, deeds, and other instruments relating to estates and effects of bankruptcy not liable to stamp duty. 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 98. BANKCY.

A holder may recover in an English court on a bill drawn in France on a French stamp, though in consequence of its not being in the form required by the French code, he had failed in an action which he brought on it in France. Wynne v. Jackson, 2 Russ. 351. FOREIGN LAWS; JURISDIC.; BILL OF EXCHANGE.

Where there was a debt due for money had and received, and the same was secured by a promissory note on an improper stamp, the debt was held sufficient to support a sequestration in Scotland. Where petition for a sequestration against a party domiciled in Scotland, was on the 25th January, and the first deliverance upon the petition on the 26th January, and the sequestration awarded by interlocutor of the 16th August, and a commission of bankruptcy issued on the 15th March, upon an act of bankruptcy committed on the 4th January: held, that the sequestration had the priority. Exp. Coddie, 1 Y. & J. 414. PRIORITY; SCOTCH SEQUESTRATION; BANKCY. COMMISSION.

Bill founded on letter unstamped; decree made: but directed not to be delivered out till letters were stamped and produced to registrar. Chervett v. Jones, 6 Mad. 267. PR. EVIDENCE.

When a pauper plaintiff obtains a decree for payment of money, it is to be drawn up on stamps as in a dives suit. Hansard v. Kemeys, Jac. & W. 189. PR. DECREE; PR. PAUPER.

A petition in bankruptcy praying distinct orders under several commissions, requires several stamps. Exp. Wilson, 18 Ves. 439. but see 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 98. BANKCY. PETITION.

Bills purporting to be drawn abroad without stamps, but in fact drawn in England, though holder had given valuable consideration, and had no notice of above facts: held, they were not proveable. Exp. Minners, 1 Rose, 68. BANKCY. PROOF.

Bankrupt's certificate not requiring a stamp until complete by allowance, an objection from alterations after it had been stamped, before allowance, overruled. Exp. Sawyer, 17 Ves. 243. but see 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 98. BANKRUPT'S CERTIFICATE.

Objection to an award to be ready to be delivered in writing to the parties by a certain day as not having a deed stamp, overruled. Blundell v. Bretterich, id. 232. AWARD.

I. GENERALLY, AND PRIVATE ACTS.

By 4 G. 2. c. 26. s. 1. all law proceedings must be in English.

No decree upon pretence of equity shall be made against the express provision of an act of parliament. Beane's Order, 5.

As a general rule, the court requires, in all petitions under acts of parliament for local improvements, &c. for payment of money out of court, that the parties applying shall by affidavit shortly verify their title, and state that to their knowledge and belief no other person has any title to or claims any interest in the estate. Exp. Shears, 2 Y. & J. 493. PR.
AFIDAVIT OF TITLE.

It is by no means unusual in construing a remedial statute to extend the enacting words beyond their natural import and effect, in order to include cases within the same mischief. Dean, &c. of York v.

Middleborough, 2 Y. & J. 196.

Under an act of parliament for making docks, the value or compensation for property taken for the purpose of the act was directed in certain cases to be paid into the bank in the name of the accountant-general; and to be laid out in bank annuities, and until such bank annuities should be sold, and the produce invested in other hereditaments, the dividends were to be paid to the person or persons who would be entitled to the rents and profits of the hereditaments if unsold. The act also directed that the court, on the application of any person or persons making claim to the money awarded as a compensation, by motion or petition, should, in a summary way of proceeding or otherwise, order the same to be laid out and invested in the funds or distribution thereof, or payment of the dividends according to the estate, title, or interest of the person making claim thereto. On the petition of an annuitant whose annuity was charged on the property, with powers of distress and entry, and farther secured by a term for payment of his annuity, and the arrears thereof, out a fund brought into court under the act, the court held that it had no authority to proceed in a summary way on the petition of an incumbrancer, but only at the instance of the persons who would have been entitled to the rents if the property had been unsold: and dismissed the petition. Exp. Back, 2 Y.
& J. 386. JURISDICTION.

The recitals in the disabling statute do not limit the force of the subsequent enactment to cases in which the mischief by the alienation is done to the personal interest of the successor of the alienor, for it is evident from the enactment that the legislature intended to apply the prohibition to the case of persons who were seised either as mere trustees, or in a great measure in trustees, and among other persons to the master or guardian of an hospital. Dean, &c. of York v. Middleborough, 2 Y. & J. 196. LEASES.
ECCLESIASTICAL.

Clauses in local act providing that person aggrieved by the commissioners appointed to carry it into execution should appeal to the quarter sessions, and that twenty-one days notice should be given before any action or suit was commenced for any thing done in pursuance of the act, do not apply to the case of a person claiming as an incumbrancer of the rates which the act gave authority to assess and levy, and instituting his suit in order to give effect to his incumbrance. Drewry v. Barnes, 3 Russ. 94.

Courts of law and equity can only enforce the rights of parties under acts of parliament by the application of their known rules and principles; if they are inadequate to the purpose, the legislature alone can supply the defect. Weale v. West Middl.
Waterworks Comp., 1 Jac. & W. 371. JURISDICTION.

The statutes providing for the relief of subject accountants, who have equities against the crown, held not to be confined to cases where the subject be actually sued or impleaded; but he may proceed by bill in equity in the first instance, and as it were quia timet, and that during the passing of his accounts before the commissioners of audit. Cole-brooke v. Att. Gen., 7 Price, 146. PUBLIC AC-COUNTANT; P.L. BILL QUIA TIMET.

One act giving final jurisdiction, and another act giving jurisdiction subject to appeal, the court cannot proceed on both acts. In re Bedford Charity,
2 Swan. 513.

Construction of charitable bequest with reference to a local act of parliament concerning charitable bequests to the parish, &c. Att. Gen. v. Freeman, 5 Price, 425. WILL, C. OF; CHARITY.

No inference from a statute designed in favour of the liberty of the subject, to the prejudice of that li-berly. Crowley's case, 2 Swan. 68. S. C. Buck. 264.

No jurisdiction for taxing a solicitor's bill of costs for obtaining an act of parliament. Exp. Wheeler, 3 V. & B. 21. JURISDICT.; COSTS, TAXATION OF.

Effect of a private act of parliament, declaring an estate vested in trustees and their heirs in trust to sell, discharged from the trusts of a settlement; divesting the legal fee outstanding under a prior settlement. Bullock v. Fladgate, 1 V. & B. 471.

Purchasers for valuable consideration not bound by private act of parliament. El. Pomfret v. Id. Windsor, 2 Ves. 480. VEND. & PURCH.

Relief cannot be given against a forfeiture created by act of parliament. But a court of equity will see that the proceedings working the forfeiture have been regular. Blennerhasset v. Day, 2 Ball & B. 128. JURISDICTION.

The preamble of an act of parliament, though it may assist ambiguous words, cannot controul a clear and express enactment. Lee v. Sumersgill, 17 Ves. 508.

General words in a statute must receive a general construction, unless there is in the statute some ground for restraining their meaning by reasonable construction, not by arbitrary addition or retrenchment. Beckford v. Wade, 17 Ves. 91.

Where the words of a law in their ordinary signification are sufficient to include means, the virtual exception must be drawn from the intention of the legislature, manifested by other parts of the law, from the general purpose and design of the law, and the subject-matter of it. Id. 92.

Distinction between acts of parliament denying legal effect to instruments, as the act for enrolling bargains and sales, and the registry act 7 Ann. c. 20, and acts declaring instruments, void to all intents, as the annuity and the ship registry acts; notwithstanding the former, the party is bound in equity by the contract. Davis v. El. Strathmore, 16 Ves. 428.

Power under an act of parliament to lessee, his executors, administrators, and assigns, to grant building leases, does not extend to the tenant in the renewed lease, according to the usual course of church leases. Collett v. Hooper, 13 Ves. 255. COVENANT, C. OF.

If enacting part of statute will bear only one interpretation, preamble may be applied to throw light upon it. Mason v. Arncliffe, 13 Ves. 36.

A subsequent affirmative statute may repeal a prior one if the words are contrariant; but two affirmative statutes may stand, in points where they do not contradict each other. Hayden v. Carroll, 3 Ridgw. P. C. 599.

Under a private act of parliament, money to be paid to certain parties upon petition to the court: Id. Ch. refused to make an order to pay the money to persons deriving title from the original parties, and ordered them to file a bill. Exp. King, 2 Bro. C. C. 158. PETITION; EXORS. & ADMORS.

The word "purchasers" in the Irish statute 2 Ann. c. 6, means purchasers by bargain and sale for a valuable consideration only. Aylmer v. Bellew, Vern. & Scriv. 23.

Every act of parliament in which no particular time is specified for its commencement, is held to operate from the first day of session of parliament wherein it was made. Punter v. Att. Gen., 6 Bro. P. C. 486.

The domestic statutes of a charitable foundation say, that the trustees "shall and may" turn out, &c. This shall be construed imperatively that they "must." Att. Gen. v. Lock, 3 Atk. 164. And the same words shall be construed imperatively in acts of parliament. Id. 166. Stamper v. Miller, 3 Atk. 212.

Enacting words, if they take in the mischief, shall be extended for that purpose, though the preamble does not warrant it; and where a new statute is made to alter the law, the judges should so mould their practice as to render it conformable to the legislature. Basset v. Bassett, 3 Atk. 207.

The title of an act of parliament is no part of the act. Att. Gen. v. Weymouth, Amb. 22.

The enacting part of a statute extends further than the preamble in many instances, even in criminal matters. The 33 Hen. 8. c. 23., for trying treasons, &c. within the King's dominion or without, has been extended to trials in the West Indies. Kinaston v. Clark, 2 Atk. 205.

Subsequent statutes in the affirmative giving new penalties, do not repeal former methods of proceeding ordained by previous acts without negative words. Middleton v. Crofts, 2 Atk. 275. (Append.)

The preamble of an act of parliament is proper to explain the general body of it. Copeman v. Gallant, 1 P. W. 317. But see Ryal v. Rolles, 1 Ves. 365. S. C. 1 Atk. 175. where the opinion of Id. Cowper in Copeman v. Gallant against this doctrine is expressly disapproved.

Chancery cannot relieve against statute. Carew v. Worsley, Hob. 203.

1. Accumulation.

Trust of term during minorities of respective tenants for life or in tail, in possession, &c. to receive and lay out rents, &c. in stock to accumulate for such persons as should upon expiration of such minorities or death of minors, be tenants in possession, or entitled to the rents, and of the age of twenty-one, is too remote; and being void in its creation is incapable of modification, so as to establish it in extent to which it might legally have been carried. Ld. Southampton v. Marq. Hertford, 2 V. & B. 54.

Before the statute 39 & 40 G. 3. c. 98, accumulation might have been co-extensive with, but could not exceed the limits of executory devise; but a limitation to vest only in the first descendant of a person in being who might attain twenty-one, is too remote. Id. 61.

Accumulation exceeding the limits of the statute 39 & 40 Geo. 3. c. 98, void only for the excess. Id. ib.

Money by will for accumulation beyond the statute 39 & 40 Geo. 3. c. 98, is void, only for the excess. Longdon v. Simson, 12 Ves. 295.

Trust, by will, for accumulation during a life, contrary to the statute 39 & 40 Geo. 3. c. 98, is void only for excess, and is good for twenty-one years by that statute. Griffith v. Vere, 9 Ves. 127.

2. Annuity Act.

An equity of redemption is within the exception in the annuity act, stat. 17 Geo. 3. c. 26. s. 8. repealed, and see 53 Geo. 3. c. 141. s. 10. EQUITY OF REDEMPTION.

Annuity secured on dividends of stock standing in trust among other things for the grantor for life, not within the exception in the annuity act. Dupuis v. Edwards, 18 Ves. 358.

Agreement to grant an annuity, is not within the annuity act. Execution of such an agreement granted against the executor. Nield v. Smith, 14 Ves. 491. AGREEMENT; SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Bill under the annuity act to set aside an annuity, dismissed, the objections not prevailing; viz. First, that the memorial expressed the consideration to have been paid at the date and execution of the deeds, one of the grantors only having executed on the day of the date and execution of the deeds, the other some days afterwards occasioned merely by the residence of the one in Wales, the other in London. Secondly, that 30*l.* was immediately after payment of the consideration, paid by the grantor to the attorney for the expense of the transaction, not by way of a colourable reduction of the consideration. Thirdly, that the consideration was paid by an agent, the fact though not stated in the body of the deed, appearing by the receipt indorsed and being stated in the memorial. Phillips v. Cranford, 13 Ves. 474.

Stock vested in trustees of a settlement annuity granted by the husband, out of the dividends to which he was entitled for life, the trustees giving a power of attorney to receive the dividends, and covenanting not to revoke it, and to execute any other, &c. requires a memorial, not being an actual transfer within the eighth section of the annuity act. Duff v. Atkinson, 8 Ves. 377.

The annuity act with respect to annuities subsisting at that time, only restrains the action till its provisions are complied with; not limiting the time, and does not as in the case of subsequent annuities make the security void. In the former case, therefore, the bond being by accident lost, the annuitant was admitted a creditor for the arrears of the annuity, the real debt in equity. Toulmin v. Price, 5 Ves. 235.

Courts of common law, which will in their general jurisdiction enter into the validity of the warrant of attorney or judgment on motion, in the particular application under the annuity act, will only set aside the judgment or execution or warrant, but cannot order the bond to be delivered up. The word "such" in the first section of the annuity act, means every deed, &c. by which an annuity is granted, and does not refer merely to the instrument defectively stated in the memorial. Dk. Bolton v. Williams, 2 Ves. J. 154. 4 Bro. C. C. 297.

3. Arbitration and Awards, (9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15).

Award made under order of reference, need not be made rule of court, under stat. Will. 3. Marq. Ormond v. Kynnersley, 2 S. & S. 15.

Where it is one of the terms of agreement to refer to arbitration, that submission shall be made rule of court of common law, if either party require it this court has no jurisdiction to relieve against the award, though submission has not been made rule of court of common law within time limited by stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15. Davis v. Getty, 1 S. & S. 411. JURISDICTION.

Where accounts between trustee and cestuique trust are referred to arbitration, and the award is made a rule of a court of law, under the stat. 9 & 10 W. 3, though there be fraudulent misrepresentation by the trustee to the arbitrators as to particular items of the account, a bill cannot be maintained by the cestuique trusts, after the time limited by the statute has elapsed, to set aside the award as to the items impeached, leaving it to stand as to the remaining items; the award upon the face of it being entire. Auriol v. Smith, 1 Turn. & R. 121.

Jurisdiction in matters of award referred under 9 & 10 W. 3, is altogether transferred to court of which the submission is made a rule; and awards of that nature must be regulated by stat. with respect to period within which application to set them aside must be made: a case of fraud does not constitute an exception, sensible. Id. 126. JURISDICTION.

Parol submission to arbitration, not within the statute 9 & 10 W. & M. c. 15. — v. Mills, 17 Ves. 419.

No jurisdiction in equity by injunction, to stay process of a court of law upon an award, made a rule of court under the statute 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15. Gwynnett v. Bannister, 14 Ves. 536. JURISDICTION; STAT. C. OF.

A submission may be made a rule of court after the award, and held within 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15. Pownall v. King, 6 Ves. 10. S. C. Featherstone v. Cooper, 9 Ves. 67.

Bill lies to set aside for fraud an award, made a rule of a court of law under 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 15. An award in a cause depending, is not within the statute. Jd. Lonsdale v. Littledale, 2 Ves. J. 451. FRAUD, AWARD BY.

4. Attorney.

Granting a moiety of the profits of business of attorney to unqualified person for mixed consideration of the goodwill of the business which descended from grantor's father, the advancement of money and natural affection, is not contrary to the policy of 22 G. 2. c. 46. s. 11. Candler v. Candler, 6 Mad. 141. S. C. 1 Jac. 225.

But it is otherwise to enter into a partnership with an unqualified person. Tinch v. Roberts, cited id. 145. n. (a).

An agreement to share profits and act as writer in office, but not to be considered as a partner, is in fact a partnership, and within the statute. Id. ib.

Stat. of taxation does not apply to country agency. Binsted v. Hurefoot, Dick, 112.

Stat. 5 G. 2. c. 25. must be complied with in respect of bills of revivor. Att. Gen. v. Smith, id. 135.

5. Bank of England.

Application under 39 & 40 G. 3. c. 36. to restrain bank from making transfer without making them parties, must be upon notice to defendants, and on affidavit as in cases of waste. Hammonds v. Maundrell, 6 Ves. 772 a. note. PR. INJUNC. TO RESTRAIN TRANSFER.

6. Bankers.

Bankers act not applicable to cases of mutual dealings between banker and customer. Clancarty v. Latouche, 1 Ball & B. 429. ACCOUNT, ANNUAL RENTS.

7. Bankruptcy Act.

Upon a bill by assignees to set aside a settlement made by a trader in favour of his children on the ground that he was insolvent at the time of the execution of the settlement, the court considered that the insolvency mentioned in the late bankrupt act, 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 73. must mean a total insolvency, such as a general inability to pay debts in the ordinary course of trade, or the entering into a composition with creditors, and that notice of inability to meet a particular demand was not notice of insolvency, and in the present case held that evidence that the bankrupt had accepted two bills prior to the date of the settlement, and which were from time to time renewed and ultimately not paid, was not alone sufficient evidence of insolvency within the meaning of the act. Cullen v. Sanger, 2 Y. & J. 459. BANKCY. FRAUDULENT SETTLEMENT.

The workmen of a coach-maker who worked by the piece and received a specified sum for each particular job under separate and distinct contracts, and where there was no hiring for a specified time, held to be servants within the meaning of the 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 48. Exp. Grellier, 1 Mont. & M. 95. MASTER & SERVANT.

Sect. 132. of the 6 G. 4. c. 16. as to the allowance of interest to simple contract creditors is not retrospective. Exp. Sheppard, 1 Mont. & M. 67. BANKCY. SURPLUS.

The 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 18. is applicable to a case not only of deficiency in the amount, but to any original defect in the nature of the petitioning creditor's debt. Exp. Hall, 1 M. & M. 39. BANKCY. PETITIONING CREDITOR'S DEBT, SUBSTITUTION OF.

Under 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 18. where the computation of time is to be from an act done, the day when such act is done is to be included: for some purposes the court notices the fraction of a day. Exp. Farquhar, 1 M. & M. 7. COMPUTATION OF TIME; FRACTION OF A DAY.

Stock purchased by father, afterwards a bankrupt, in names of his infant son and a trustee, is within the mischief of 1 Jac. 1. c. 15. s. 5. Brown v. Bellaris, 6 Mad. 53. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP; PARENT & CHILD.

The court is not empowered by the 49 G. 3. c. 121. s. 19. to determine the question of election of a lease by the assignees. Assignees in possession having electd not to accept the lease, 'an issue of quantum damnificatus was directed. Exp. Quantock, Buck, 190. See as to this case, Eden, B. L. 240. n. (e). BANKCY. ELECTION TO TAKE LEASE.

A petitioning creditor who, with the knowledge of two or three of the creditors, received his debt from the bankrupt, held to have forfeited under the 5 G. 2. c. 30. s. 42. Exp. Brins, 1 Buck, 108. BANKCY. PET. CRED.; FORFEITURE.

To a suit instituted by assignees on behalf of a bankrupt, in the object of which the creditors have no interest, the assent of the creditors is not necessary under the stat. 5 G. 2. c. 30. s. 38. 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 88. Wilkins v. Fry, 1 Mer. 244. S. C. 2 Rose, 371. BANKCY. ASSESS.

Parol agreement, although with part performance, not within 49 G. 3. c. 121. s. 19. 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 75. Exp. Sutton, 2 Rose, 86. BANKCY. LEASE, PAROL AGREEMENT.

Order for payment of a dividend in bankruptcy with interest and costs on petition, under the stat. 49 G. 3. c. 121. s. 12., the assignees not being prepared to state their objection. Exp. Atkinson, 3 V. & B. 13. BANKCY. PAYMENT OF DIVIDEND.

Under 36 G. 3. c. 90. (repealed and re-enacted by 6 G. 4. c. 74. which see) on proof that one trustee had become bankrupt and had absconded and abroad, unlikely to return, the remaining trustee was ordered to transfer trust stock to himself and a new co-trustee. Williams v. Bird, 1 V. & B. 3. TRUSTEE; STOCK, TRANSFER OF.

Order for a transfer of stock within the statute 36 G. 3. c. 90. repealed and re-enacted by 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79. 80. as upon a refusal by a party appearing by counsel, and admitting that she had disobeyed an order to transfer. Riderv. Kidder, 13 Ves. 123. BANKCY. ORDER FOR TRANSFER OF STOCK; TRUSTEE OF STOCK.

Though debts, in general, were not within the 21 Jac. 1. c. 19. s. 11. mortgages of real estate whether original or by assignment, and though also secured by bond or covenant, were not. See 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 72. Jones v. Gibbons, 9 Ves. 407.

Purchase in joint names of husband and wife by trader, afterwards a bankrupt, is void against creditors. See 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 73. Glaister v. Hewer, 9 Ves. 12. See S. C. S. P. 8 Ves. 195. 11 Ves. 377. HUSB. & WIFE; FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

A mere gift of money by bankrupt to his son is not within the statute. See 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 73. Exp. Shortland, 7 Ves. 88. BANKCY. FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

Trustees under a foreign will dead, and no personal representation taken out in this country, not a case for relief by directing a transfer of stock within the stat. 36 G. 3. c. 99. See 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79. 80. 6 G. 4. c. 74. Lee v. Bk. of England, 8 Ves. 44. TRANSFER OF STOCK; TRUSTEE.

No point is more clear, than that a subsequent affirmative statute may repeal a prior one, if the words are contrariant; but it is equally clear, that if there be two affirmative statutes made on the same subject, in all points in which they do not contradict each other, both shall stand; therefore, in every case, where a banker commits an act of bankruptcy, and a commission of bankruptcy issues against him, it seems certain that the assignees under that commission will be bound by every clause in the acts of 29 & 30 G. 2. not altered or repealed by the bankrupt laws, as fully and effectually as trustees would be bound by the same clauses acting under a deed of trust executed under the authority of the latter act. So it is equally evident, that where the provisions of that act do so attach upon the property of the bankrupt as to prevent the operation of the bankrupt laws, that no commission of bankruptcy can issue against a banker; and that in such case, though bankers are expressly named in the bankrupt laws, they cease to be the objects of them. Per 1d. Ch. Clare, in Hayden v. Carroll, 3 Ridg. P. C. 592. 600. Vide etiam Hayden v. Rivers, 1 Ridg. P. C. 448. (n.)

Plea to a bill of discovery in support of an action under stat. 9 Ann. c. 14. for money lost at play by the assignees of the loser, a bankrupt, that the action was not commenced, and the bill exhibited within three months, overruled. Brandon v. Sands, 2 Ves. J. 514. PL. PLEA; GAMING.

A written engagement to warrant the payment of a bill of exchange, although good to other purposes, is not within the stat. of 7 G. 1. c. 31. (6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 51.) which applies only to what arises on the face of the instrument. Exp. Harrison, 2 Cox, 172. S. C. 2 Bro. C. C. 614. BANKCY. PROOF IN; BILL OF EXCHANGE.

Under the stat 5 G. 2. (6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 8.), which provides against petitioning creditor's compromising commission of bankruptcy, the creditor forfeits the whole of his debt, whether the composition made by him extends to the whole or to part only. And the forfeiture takes place as well under a commission founded on any other act of bankruptcy, as upon the act thereby created. Exp. Vernon, 2 Cox, 61. BANKCY. COMPOUNDING DEBTS. BANKCY. PET. CRED.

A creditor in Scotland is within the meaning of stat. 5 G. 2. (6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 46.) as to the mode of proving debts under commissions of bankruptcy by creditors in foreign parts. Exp. McDougall, 2 Cox, 8. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

The stat. 21 Jac. 1. c. 19. extends to conditional as well as absolute sales of goods, and the general view of that statute is to prevent traders from gaining a delusive credit. The legislature has, therefore, explained the sense of the clause by putting words "true owner" in opposition to "reputed owner." Ryd v. Rolfe, 1 Atk. 165. S. C. 1 Ves. 348. BANKCY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

8. Bills pro confesso.

See 1 W. 4. c. 36. and Appendix.

Bill against member of parliament, praying relief, may be taken pro confesso, under 45 Geo. 3. c. 124, which act is not confined to bills of discovery only. Jagan v. Grant, M. P. 1 Mad. 626. MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

The authority to take the bill pro confesso against a defendant, having privilege of parliament standing out process of contempt, under statute 45 Geo. 3. c. 124. s. 5. is confined to bill for discovery only. Jones v. Davis, 17 Ves. 368. In Jagan v. Grant, 1 Mad. 626. Sir T. Plumer, V. C. refused to follow this case. MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

Member of parliament refusing to enter an appearance, the court appointed a clerk in court to enter an appearance for him under stat. 45 Geo. 3. c. 124. Read v. Phillips, 10 Ves. 436. MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT; PR. APPEARANCE.

Defendant being outlawed, motion that he might appear within a limited time upon the equity of statute. 5 Geo. 2. c. 25. granted though he had not been in the kingdom for two years before the subpoena. Clarke v. Right, 2 Ves. J. 188. OUTLAWRY.

A bill cannot be taken pro confesso under statute 5 Geo. 2. without an affidavit of the defendant's absconding to avoid process. Short v. Doucet, 2 Cox, 84. see also S. P. Burton v. Malloon. Barn. 401. AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT.

Although a defendant has appeared and answered the original bill, if he cannot be found to be served with a subpoena, to answer a bill of revivor, the plaintiff must proceed under 5 Geo. 2. c. 25. to have the bill taken pro confesso. Henderson v. Meggs, 2 Bro. C. C. 127. PR. BILL OF REVIVOR; PR. SERVICE OF SUBPENA.

The statute of 5 Geo. 3. for taking bills pro confesso against defendants, extends as well to cases where the party has been served with the former, but hath avoided the subsequent process, as to cases where it has been impossible to serve the party with any process at all. Mawer v. Mawer, 1 Cox, 104. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 388.

Defendant left kingdom two years' precoding filing of bill. On affidavit that defendant continued abroad to elude justice, defendant to appear under 5 G. 2. c. 25. Mason v. Polier, Dick. 401. sed quare, note Wyatt's edit. 1803.

After abatement, defendant absconding, 5 G. 2. c. 25. must be complied with. James v. Dove. Dick. 63.

Defendant applying on above statute within seven years to take answer, &c. must first give approved security for costs. Bishop of Rochester v. Knapp. Dick. 70.

9. Bills of Exchange.

Promissory notes payable in cash or bank of England notes, held not to be promissory notes within the 3 & 4 Ann. c. 9. and 7 Ann. c. 25. s. 3. The holder therefore, who had received them from an intermediate person, held not entitled to prove them as a debt against the maker. Exp. Imeson, 2 Rose, 225. BANKCY. PROOF IN; PROMISSORY NOTES.

10. British Claims on France.

Notwithstanding a decision of the commissioners appointed by the statute 59 G. 3. c. 31, and the conventions for liquidating the claims of British subjects on the French government, of the privy council, on appeal in favour of a claimant, his right may be disputed, and he may be declared a trustee of the sum awarded to him for other persons, showing themselves to be entitled. Semble, injunction refused the affidavits of the plaintiff's title, not being positive. Hill v. Reardon, 1 Jac. 84. JURISDICTION.

11. Champerty and Buying of Titles.

Plea of the statute 32 Hen. 8. c. 9, against selling pretended titles, with the necessary accounts, of want of possession, &c. not being on oath, ordered, to be taken off the file, though set down by the plaintiff for agreement, this irregularity not admitting waiver. Wall v. Stubbs, 2 V. & B. 354. PR. PLEA.

12. Charities and Mortmain.

The 53 Geo. 3. c. 101. was intended to give a more easy and less expensive mode of bringing before the court a clear abuse of a charity; but not where there is any question with respect to the persons interested in the trust, or what is in the nature of the trust, or in what manner the breach of trust is to be acted upon; this is a case for information and not petition. Where therefore a petition was filed against a corporation, who had improperly become trustees for pulling down a chapel and almshouses, and it did not appear whether the chapel was private or parochial, and the heir of the founder was not a party who was in fact the surviving trustee, nor could the court see in what manner the charity was to be carried into effect, and the petitioners had lain by for above forty years, the House of Lords reversed the judgment below. Upon a petition, under the act the attorney general is not precluded, by having signed the petition, from interfering to prevent injustice to any party, and he may therefore be heard for respondents. Ludlow Corp. v. Greenhouse, 1 Bl. N. S. 17. CHARITY.

Court has no jurisdiction under 52 G. 3. c. 101. to direct upon petition an account of assets of persons who had been receiving proceeds of charity estate against his personal representatives. In re St. Wam's Charity, 2 S. & S. 66. JURISDICTION; CHARITY; ACCOUNT.

Grant of land to charity, where there is a resulting trust for the grantor during his life, is void under 9 G. 2. c. 36. s. 1. as not being an interest to take effect in possession immediately. Limbrey v. Gurr, 6 Mad. 151. CHARITABLE USES.

Jews are not entitled to the benefit of the Bedford charity. Whether that question could be decided on a petition presented under the statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. quære. In re Bedford Charity, 2 Swan. 470. BEDFORD CHARITY; JEWS.

Persons presenting a petition under statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. must have a direct interest in the charity. Id. 518. PL. PETITION; CHARITY; PL. PARTIES.

Persons presenting a petition under an act, empowering "any person or persons whomsoever" to petition against trustees of a charity, must be interested in the fund. Id. 525. PL. PETITION, CHARITY; PL. PARTIES.

On a reference in a petition under statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. the master may receive affidavits in evidence. Exp. Greenhouse, 1 Swan. 60. PL. PETITION, CHARITY.

The statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. was meant to extend only to cases of plain breach of trust, committed by persons in their character of trustees, not to the case of benefits derived from such breaches of trust by third persons. Exp. Skinner, 2 Mer. 453. CHARITY.

Constructive trusts held not within the 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. which gives relief upon petition in the case of charities. Exp. Brown, Coop. 295. CHARITY PETITIONS; TRUST CONSTRUCTIVE.

Relief for charities by petition, instead of information, under the statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. being limited to questions of abuse of trust, as between the trustees and the objects of the charity, not applicable to an adverse claim to land, as having formerly belonged to the charity. Exp. Rees, 3 V. & B. 10. PL. CHARITY PETITION.

The jurisdiction under the statute 52 Geo. 3. c. 101. substituting petition, or information in case of abuse of trusts for charity, and 40 G. 3. c. 56. as to money intailed, is discretionary. Id. 11. CHARITY PETITION, JURISDICTION.

Charity regulated on petition instead of information, under 52 G. 3. c. 101. Exp. Berkhamstead Free School, 2 V. & B. 134. PETITION; CHARITY.

Under the act of parliament, giving jurisdiction upon petition in charity cases, the trustees not approving, ordered to shew cause why the order prayed should not be made. Exp. Seageurs, 1 V. & B. 496. CHARITY PETITION.

No general appointment of visitor, excluding a commission of charitable uses, under the statute 43 Eliz. c. 4. from special powers that would fall within the general visitation power; as powers to the ordinary to interpret and determine doubts upon the statutes of amotion and punishment, and of appointment to the ordinary, and to the dean and chapter of York, in certain cases, &c.; the whole visitatorial power, particularly as to the administration of the landed property, not being intended to be given to the ordinary, as visitor. Objection to the decree under a commission of charitable uses, as having issued in a case not warranted by the statute 43 Eliz. c. 4. may be in the form of exceptions. Exp. Kirkby Ravensworth Hosp. 15 Ves. 305. CHARITY.

A conveyance of land to a charitable use, enrolled within the time limited by the statute of 9 Geo. 2.

c. 36. is not void by reason of any reservation to the grantor of a power of regulating the charity. It is sufficient that the deed is executed by the grantor at the time of the enrolment, and need not be executed by the grantees. Greives v. Case, 2 Cox, 301. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 67. 1 Ves. J. 548. CHARITABLE USES; ENROLMENT OF DEEDS.

Where A. by will executed before the statute of mortmain, directs B to settle a freehold estate to pay a sum not exceeding 100*l.* per annum, in such manner and upon such trust, on such a part of the poorer people of a parish as he should think proper; and B in pursuance thereof, by will executed after the statute, appoints a sum less than the 100*l.* per annum; held, 1st, that the appointment is not void by the statute, and 2dly, that the amount to be appointed was discretionary in B, and not to be increased under the 43 Eliz. to the whole amount given by the will of A. Attorney General v. Bradley, 1 Eden; 482. MORTMAIN; WILL, CONSTRUCTION OF.

The legislature intended by the exception in the statute of mortmain, to save devises for the benefit of particular members as well as of the whole body. The legislature intended to except such devises as were really and bona fide for the benefit of colleges, not those where the legal interest only passes to the college in trust for other charitable uses. The exception only extends to colleges established at the time when the statute of mortmain was enacted. Atty. General v. Tancerd, 1 Eden, 15, 16. S. C. Amb. 351. MORTMAIN.

13. Clergy.

An agreement for lease of a farm to a clergyman for purpose of occupation, is void, under 21 Hen. 8. c. 13., repealed and re-enacted by 57 Geo. 3. c. 99. Morris v. Preston, 7 Ves. 547.

The stat. 7 Anne, c. 18., enacting that the interest of the patron of an advowson shall not be displaced by usurpation, is not retrospective. Att. Gen. v. Bp. of Lichfield, 5 Ves. 828. ADVOWSON.

An agreement between rector and parish for tithes, is not within the 13th or 14th Eliz. Semble. Atkinson v. Folkes, 1 Anst. 67. NON-RESIDENCE.

14. Copyhold.

The stat. 9 G. 1. c. 29, providing for the admission of copyholder, infants, or feme covert, is confined to the cases expressed, viz., title by descent or surrender to the use of a will, and does not apply to a title under a decree. Ld. Kensington v. Mansell, 13 Ves. 240.

15. Copyright.

One procuring a painter to draw a drawing, is not entitled to the protection of stat. 8 G. 2. c. 13. Jeffrey v. Baldwin, Amb. 164.

The act 8 G. 2. c. 13. for the encouragement of the arts of designing, engraving, &c., is not confined to works of invention only, but means the designing or engraving any thing that is already in nature. Blackwell v. Harper, 2 Atk. 93.

A print published of any building, house, or garden, falls within this act. Id.

The property in the print rests absolutely in the engraver, though the day of publication is not mentioned. Id.

16. Costs.

Attorney's bill of costs, though not delivered, &c., according to 2 G. 2. c. 23. s. 22., is sufficient debt to support commission of bankruptcy. Exp. Sutton, 11 Ves. 163. Exp. Steel, 10 Ves. 166. BANKCY. PARTITIONING CREDITOR'S DEBT.

18. Dower.

A woman married under age of twenty-one, having before such marriage a jointure made to her in bar of dower, is thereby bound and barred of dower, within 27 H. 8. c. 10. El. Buckingham v. Drury, 3 Bro. P. C. 492. S. C. 2 Eden, 60. reversing Eden, 38. INFANT.

19. Exchequer Bills.

Order for payment out of a bankrupt's estate, with interest to the time of payment, in preference to all other creditors, with costs, under stat. 54 G. 3. c. 15. s. 48. for an issue of exchequer bills to relieve commercial credit. Exp. Holden, 18 Ves. 436. BANKCY. PRIORITY OF SECURITY.

20. Executors and Administrators, and Distribution.

See 11 G. 1. c. 18; 38 G. 3. c. 87.

The term "legal representatives" in 22 & 23 C. 2. c. 10. s. 6. signifies "descendants," and not "next of kin." Pries v. Strange, 6 Mad. 161.

Administration granted under 38 Geo. 3. c. 87. is not for a limited time, but for a limited purpose, viz.: to become, and be made, party to bills in equity, and to carry decrees into execution. Barnsford v. Tynyton, 7 Ves. 468. ADMON. DURANTE ABSENTIA.

A freeman of London, having a son by a former marriage, married a second wife, and died: she is entitled under the custom of London, which is not taken away by the stat. of 11 Geo. 1. c. 18. in this case. Dansen v. Hawes, Amb. 276. CUSTOM OF LONDON.

21. Fines and Recoveries.

Where a lease and release were made to create a tenant to the præcipe in a recovery, and the lease was lost, held to be a case to which relief given by 14 G. 2. c. 20. s. 5. applies. Holmes v. Ailsbie, 1 Mad. 551. LOST DEED.

22. Forfeiture for Treason and Felony.

A seised of a freehold lease for lives, is indicted and found guilty of coining: held, that the whole estate is forfeited to the crown, notwithstanding the proviso in the act 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 26. that no offence made treason or felony by that act, shall extend to make any corruption of blood. Horton v. Kirtton, 4 Bro. P. C. 141.

23. Fraudulent Conveyances and Devises.

The statute of fraudulent devises would prevent a devise for legacies to the prejudice of creditors by special; but not devise for debts generally; though that might be the effect. Kidney v. Cousmaker, 12 Ves. 154.

Under a covenant on marriage by husband with trustees, in case wife should survive him, to pay her a sum of money; she is a creditor within the statute against fraudulent conveyances. 13 Eliz. c. 5. Rider v. Kidder, 10 Ves. 360. DEBTOR & CRED.

To impeach a settlement after marriage, under the statute 13 Eliz. the husband must be proved to have been indebted at the time, and to the extent of insolvency. The creditor not producing any evidence, his bill was dismissed, with liberty to file another. Lush v. Wilkinson, 5 Ves. 384. SETTLMT. AFTER MARRIAGE; FRAUD ON CREDITORS.

Annuity in fee granted by K. Ch. 2. out of Barba- does duties, is not a rent nor realty, nor within statutes, either frauds or de donis, &c. Therefore, being settled on A, "and the heirs of her body," it was held to amount to a fee-simple conditional at the common law, the remainder over being void, and that A, having had issue, might bar the possibility of reverter. El. Stafford v. Buckley, 2 Ves. 171. GRANT FROM CROWN.

Conveyance by the king's tenant in chief, in consideration of natural affection to collateral relations, is not within 32 H. 8. c. 1. as conveyance to children's children is. Dyer, 286. pl. 46.

24. Friendly Societies.

See 1 W. 4. c. 60. Appendix.

Stat. 57 G. 3. c. 39., empowers court to make summary orders without suit, in matters of charity or benefit, or friendly societies. In re Friendly Society, 1 S. & S. 82. CHARITY; JURISDICTION.

The preference given to friendly societies by the stat. 33 G. 3. c. 54. s. 10. over other creditors, is confined to debts in respect of money in the hands of their officers, by virtue of their offices, and independent of contract; therefore does not extend to money held by the treasurer upon the security of his promissory note, payable with interest upon demand. Exp. Stamford Friendly Society, 15 Ves. 280.

A person in habit of receiving money of friendly society, having no treasurer appointed, upon notes carrying interest, payable a month after demand, is not an officer of society, so as to entitle them to preference under 33 G. 3. c. 54. s. 10. Exp. Ashley, Exp. Corser, 6 Ves. 441. S. P. Exp. Ross, id. 802.

25. Habeas Corpus.

The statute 31 Car. 2. is in all its enactments to be construed with reference to applications under it. Cronley's case, 2 Swan. 68. S. C. Buck, 264.

31 Car. 2. c. 2. s. 3. extends to persons committed during term. Id. 69.

26. Infant Lessees.

It was referred to the master to inquire whether the infant lessee was within the act of the 29 G. 2, and if he were, whether it was for his benefit to surrender the old lease and take a new one. Exp. Swaine, Dick. 749.

27. Infant and Lunatic Trustees.

See 1 W. 4. c. 60. Appendix.

A trustee, who is in a state of mind which renders him incompetent to the management of business, may refuse to transfer within the meaning of the 36 Geo. 3. c. 90. s. 1, (6 Geo. 4. c. 74. s. 7). West v. Ayles, 1 Turn. & R. 330. TRUSTEE REFUSING TO CONVEY.

Infant trustee for sale is not within the stat. 7 Anne, c. 19, (but see 6 Geo. 4. c. 74) though the persons entitled to the produce of the sale are adult, and join in the petition, semble. Exp. Chastaney, 1 Jac. 56. TRUSTEE FOR SALE.

Infant heir of messenger to whom in bankruptcy provisional assignment had been made, and who died before choice of assignees; held to be a trustee within 7 Anne, c. 19. Exp. Carter, 5 Mad. 81.

The costs of a committee of a lunatic, mortgagee requisite to enable him to reconvey to the mortgagor under the stat. 4 Geo. 2. c. 10, including the costs of the reference, are to be paid out of the lunatic's estate, whether the application be made by the mortgagor, or by the committee, which is the usual course. Exp. Richards, 1 Jac. & W. 264. LUNATIC MORTGEE; COSTS.

If the mortgagor be ready to pay the committee of a lunatic, mortgagee should apply for a reference under the stat., and it seems he would not be allowed to bring an action. Id. ib. MORTGAGE, REDEMPTION OF; LUNATIC.

Construction of the act 36 Geo. 3. c. 90. s. 3. directing the transfer, in certain cases, of stock standing in the name of a lunatic or his committee, not to extend to stock standing in the name of another, to which the lunatic is entitled as administrator. Exp. Adams, 2 Mer. 112. LUNATIC TRUSTEE; TRANSFER OF STOCK.

Costs of the committee of a lunatic trustee conveying within the statute, must be paid out of the lunatic's estate. Exp. Brydges, Coop. 290. CONVEYANCE; COSTS; LUNATIC.

Lunatic trustee to be within the 4 G. 2. c. 10, (see 6 G. 4. c. 74) must be without interest or duty; therefore having an interest as creditor, trust being for payment of debt, is not within the act. Exp. Tutin, 3 V. & B. 149. LUNATIC TRUSTEES.

Mortgagee is within the statutes 7 Anne, c. 19, as to infants, and 4 G. 2. c. 10, (6 G. 4. c. 74) as to lunatics, though entitled as co-executor and residuary legatee to the mortgage money; the discharge of the other executor leaving a naked trust. Id. 151. MORTGAGEE.

Infant trustee within the statutes 7 Anne, c. 19, (see 6 G. 4. c. 74) notwithstanding an interest as co-executor and co-residuary legatee, entitled to the mortgage money, the receipt and discharge of the other executor leaving the infant as mere trustee. v. Handcock, 17 Ves. 383.

Infant trustee within the statute 7 Anne, c. 19, (see 6 G. 4. c. 74) must be a dry trustee. Id. 384.

A lunatic abroad under a judicial proceeding in nature of a commission of lunacy, is not within the stat. 36 G. 3. c. 99. s. 3, (see 6 Geo. 4. c. 74) which repeals and re-enacts this stat. Sylvia v. Da Costa, 8 Ves. 316. LUNACY, COMMISSION OF; LUNATIC TRUSTEE; FOREIGN LAWS.

Estate in Ireland ordered to be conveyed by an infant mortgagee, under the statute 7 Anne. The order under the statute for the reference to the master, as well as that for the infant to convey, must be on petition, not on motion, see 6 G. 4. c. 74. Evelyn v. Forster, 8 Ves. 96.

The Id. Ch. and M. R. inclined to think the legal estate in mortgaged premises passed by a general residuary devise by the mortgagee to A, who was also executor, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns for ever, on the side of his mother. A being nineteen, the Id. Ch. would not order him to join in conveyance, under the statute 7 Anne, c. 19, but ordered the money to be paid into the bank, ex parte the infant, and said, when he should come of age, it would be very reasonable that he should join. Exp. Sergison, 4 Ves. 147.

An infant mortgagee is within the statute, notwithstanding he may be beneficially interested in the mortgage money. Exp. Bellamy, 2 Cox, 422. INFANT MORTGAGEE.

An infant directed to convey charity estates to new trustees, under the act of 7 Anne, (6 G. 4. c. 74) he having nothing to do but to make such conveyance; but where infant has any duty to perform as such trustee, beyond the mere conveyance, the case is not within the statute. Att. Gen. v. Pomfrit, 2 Cox, 221.

Where trust to be executed vests in infant, he is not trustee within above act, but must be decreed to convey on suit for that purpose. Riggs v. Sykes, Dick. 400.

Infant trustee within 7 Anne, c. 19; purchaser to enjoy, and infant to convey, at full age. Chandler v. Beard, Dick. 392. S. P. Exp. Benton, Dick. 394.

Infant devisee of land charged with payment of money, is a trustee in equity, but not within the stat. 7 Anne, c. 19. Anon. 2 Eq. Ab. 521.

28. Irish Tenantry Acts.

The six months given to tenants to redeem, under the statutes of ejectment for non-payment of rent, are calendar months, and the day on which the habere is executed is not to be included in the calculation. Where a right would be divested, or a forfeiture incurred, by including the day of the act done, the computation will be made exclusive of it. Dapling v. Foxall, 1 Ball & B. 193. 196. COMPUTATION OF TIME; LANDLORD & TENANT.

The Irish stat. 6 Anne, c. 2, does not enable a man to maintain an action of covenant at law for breach of a covenant for removal, contained in a lease which had been registered pursuant to the said stat. against one claiming the reversion and inheritance of the demised premises, as assignee of the covenantor by deed, executed prior to the lease and covenant which was not so registered; but whether such an action might be maintained at common law, with the aid of the statute, quære? Chandos v. Brownlow, 2 Ridgw. P. C. 345. IRISH LEASE, COVENANT FOR RENEWAL.

An unregistered deed of 1728, purporting to convey the reversion of certain premises for value; held, not to be valid to defeat the operation of a registered covenant, for renewal in a lease of 1729. Id. 383.

The registration of a deed does not extend the covenants beyond their original import. Id. 415. LEASES IN IRELAND.

29. Land Tax Redemption.

The court will not declare the land tax on an estate to have been redeemed, merely for the benefit of a trustee for sale, and to supply an alleged defect of title, although such redemption has in fact taken place. Exp. Sparkes, 1 McClel. 518.

30. Leases by Tenant in Tail.

Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 28. s. 2. gives tenant in tail power only to make leases for three lives absolutely, but not for ninety-nine years determinable on three lives. Glanville v. Payne, 2 Atk. 40. S. C. Barn. 18.

31. Lunatic's Estates.

Sales of copyhold estates of a lunatic are not authorized by stat. 43 G. 3. c. 75. The stat. 59 G. 3. c. 80. s. 2. extends the power of sale to estates, held by ancient demesne or copy of court roll. Exp. Birch, 3 Swan. 98. COPYHOLD.

32. Marriage of Infants.

Forfeiture by stat. 4 & 5 Ph. & M. on a woman marrying under sixteen, is during her husband's life, and not during her own. Ridley v. Wilson, Amb. 73. MARRIAGE, FORFEITURE BY.

Application to approve of infant's marriage under 26 G. 2. c. 33. s. 12. testamentary guardian being abroad. Blake v. Blake, Dick. 459.

33. Mortgages.

See 1 W. 4. c. 60. Appendix.

The court will not interfere under the 7 G. 2. c. 20. upon an application by the mortgagor to compel the mortgagee to reconvey the mortgaged premises, where the right to redeem is disputed upon the affidavits. Goodtitle v. Bishop, 1 Y. & J. 344.

Where mortgagor becomes bankrupt, and bill is filed for foreclosure against him and his assignees: court will not on application of assignees alone make an immediate decree under 7 G. 2. c. 20. s. 2. Garth v. Thomas, 2 S. & S. 188. BANKRU.

On bill of foreclosure, defendant submitting to same decree as the plaintiff, according to the case made by the bill, would be entitled to at the hearing, may at any time stay all further proceedings in cause under 7 G. 2. c. 20. Praed v. Hall, 1 S. & S. 331. PR. STAYING PROCEEDINGS.

The stat. 7 G. 2. c. 20. as to mortgages, gives no new power to courts of equity. Id. ib. JURISDICTION.

No relief to a mortgagor under the stat. 7 G. 2. c. 20. the mortgagee being entitled to execution. Anis v. Lloyd, 3 V. & B. 15. EXECUTION.

Time enlarged for appearance to a bill of foreclosure, under stat. 5 G. 2. c. 25.; notice in the parish church having been prevented while under repair. Knowles v. Broome, 1 V. & B. 305. PR. APPEARANCE; ENLARGING TIME.

Mortgagor defendant to a bill of foreclosure, being in contempt, cannot obtain the reference on motion under the stat. 7 G. 2. c. 20. Hewitt v. McCartney, 13 Ves. 560. CONTENT; REFERENCE.

A charge in the bill that A was of a weak and feeble understanding, approaching almost to idiocy, was an allegation sufficiently precise (no demurrer being taken) to put in issue, that A was of insane memory, it being proved that A was incapable of managing himself or his affairs, he was held to be within the saving of the stat. 7 G. 2. c. 14. s. 8.; but this allegation would not have been sufficiently precise on a plea, nor on a bill, if demurred to: the heir of the mortgagor only takes advantage of the saving in sect. 8. of the stat. Carew v. Johnston, 2 Scho. & L. 280. PL. BILL. LUNATIC; MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE.

The stat. 7 G. 2. c. 14. enabling plaintiffs to proceed where defendants refuse to appear, does not apply to defendant's labouring under incompetency, as idiocy, &c. Id. 292. LUNATIC.

The nine months allowed by the stat. 8 G. 1. c. 2. s. 4. to a mortgagee of an evicted lessee to redeem, are calendar months. Biddulph v. St. John, 2 Scho. & L. 521. COMPUTATION OF TIME.

Under stat. 7 G. 2. c. 20. s. 2. the time for payment of money on mortgage, may be enlarged on usual terms. Wakerell v. Delight, 9 Ves. 36. PR. ENLARGEMENT OF TIME.

No order under 7 G. 2. c. 20. s. 2. the bill not being confined to mere foreclosure, but including also another subject. Bastard v. Clarke, 7 Ves. 469.

A reference under the stat. 7 G. 2. c. 20. must proceed upon admission of the principal and interest due upon the mortgage, and the master cannot admit evidence. Huson v. Henson, 4 Ves. 105. PR. EVIDENCE.

If a mortgage by the stat. becomes irredeemable, it will remain so in the hands of the assignee, though assigned in consideration of the principal, interest, and costs, due thereon. Stofford v. Seiby, 2 Vern. 590.

If a subsequent mortgagee redeems such mortgage, he shall hold the estate irredeemable. Id. ib.

If there are more lands in the second mortgage than in the first, that seems to be a case omitted out of the stat.; but the adding an acre or two shall not exempt it, for that may be a contrivance to evade the stat. Id. ib.

34. National Debt.

The court upon petition under the stat. 56 G. 3. c. 60., will direct stock, which has been transferred to the sinking fund, to be re-transferred to the petitioners, where their title is clear, without any reference to the master to ascertain who is beneficially entitled to the stock. Exp. Nicholl, 1 Turn. & R. 119. PR. RE-TRANSFER OF STOCK TRANSFERRED TO SINKING FUND.

35. Partition.

Partition between tenants in common and joint tenants by stat. 31 Hen. 8. extended by stat. 32 Hen. 8. to limited interests, for life or years; and the same right in equity by bill as at law by writ. Baring v. Nash, 1 V. & B. 555.

36. Popery.

By an act of parliament made in Ireland, 2 Ann., to prevent the further growth of popery, no person professing that religion can be the guardian of an infant; but such guardianship, where the person entitled to it is a papist, shall be disposed of by the court of Chancery in that kingdom, to some near relation of the infant, being a protestant, and one to whom the infant's estate cannot descend; but if there shall be no such protestant relation, then to some other proper person, who will use his utmost care to educate the infant in the protestant religion, until the age of twenty-one. Preston v. La. Ferrard, 4 Bro. P. C. 298. GUARDIAN.

A papist being tenant in tail, suffered a common recovery, and declared the uses to himself and his heirs; this is not a purchase within 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 4. Appeal of Ld. Derwentwater, 9 Mod. 172.

37. Property Tax.

The Property Tax Act, 46 Geo. 3. c. 65. s. 112 & 115., in declaring covenants to pay the same, void, has a retrospective operation; therefore, covenant entered into before the act passed, void. Buxton v. Monkhouse, Coop. 41.

38. Settlement of Poor.

In statute 3 W. & M. c. 11., the apparent meaning of the word "unmarried," is "not married at the particular time," contrary to its usual import. Mabery v. Strode, 3 Ves. 452.

39. Ships.

A ship being insured from London to Carolina, was taken by a Spaniard, and retaken by an English privateer, who carried her into Boston, where no person appearing to give security she was condemned and sold, and after the recaptors had their moiety, the residue remained in the court of Admiralty at Boston. Defendant brought an action at law on the policy and recovered, and plaintiff by his injunction-bill insisted, that defendant ought to have recovered no more than a moiety of the loss. The court refused the injunction, for as defendant had offered to relinquish the salvage, he was entitled to recover the whole money insured. By 13 Geo. 2. c. 4. s. 18., the recapture of a ship is the revesting of the owner's property; so that it is doubtful whether the act can operate when insurances are made, interest or no interest. Salvage must be deducted out of the money recovered by the policy, if come to the hands of the assured. Pringle v. Hartley, 3 Atk. 195. INSURANCE.

40. Stock Jobbing.

Under the act against stock-jobbing, the six months in the first section, means lunar months, and no discovery lies where the cause of action arose prior to the expiration of six lunar months. Windale v. Fall, 3 Bro. C. C. 11. TIME, COMPUTATION OF.

41. Tenant in Tail, and Money to be laid out in Land.

Although fund of which person is tenant in tail, is subject to certain charges, court will under 39 & 40 G. 3. c. 56., order it to be transferred to tenant, after providing for charges. In re. Id. Somerville, 2 S. & S. 470.

The stat. 39 & 40 (i. 3. (Lord Eldon's act), does not apply to money paid into court in the matter of a lunatic. Exp. Verney, 1 Jac. 234. LUNATIC.

A special jurisdiction under an act of parliament must be strictly followed; therefore, under an act preventing the necessity of recovery by tenant in tail of land to be purchased, each party must petition. Baynes v. Baynes, 9 Ves. 462. JURISDICTION.

Under 39 & 40 G. 3. c. 56., authorizing payment of money (left to be laid out in land to be settled) to tenant in tail, the order was qualified in case he should be living on second day of ensuing term, and an inquiry was directed as to incumbrances. Exp. Bennett; Exp. Dolman, 6 Ves. 116. S. P. Exp. Hodges, id. 576.

42. Traders.

See 1 W. 4. c. 47. Appendix.

Where legacies were charged on real estate of trader, and his devisee and executor sold part of the real estates before the debts were paid; held that purchaser, notwithstanding the 47 G. 3. c. 74. s. 12, was liable to see to application of purchase money. Horn v. Horn, 2 S. & S. 448. VENDOR & PURCHASER; APPLICATION OF PURCHASE MONEY.

The act of 47 G. 3. sess. 2. c. 74. applies only to persons who were traders at the time of their decease, and not to persons who have bona fide left off trade before they died; consequently the real estates of such latter persons are not subject to simple contract debts. Hitchon v. Bennett, 4 Mad. 180. REAL ESTATE.

Motion, by simple contract creditors of one who had been a trader, but ceased to be so, and was not a trader at the time of his death, for a receiver, upon affidavit before answer, refused, not being within the stat. 47 G. 3. sess. 2. c. 74. Keene v. Riley, 3 Mer. 436. DEBTOR & CRED.; RECEIVER.

43. Uniformity.

The meaning of the act of uniformity is, that the party is to subscribe the declaration as soon as it is in his power. Semble. Case of Queen's Coll. 1 Jac. 29.

An Irish papist conforming any where out of Ireland, cannot purchase lands in that kingdom, before he had complied with the several requisites of the Irish acts of 2 and 8 Anne. Carrol v. Vicars, 5 Bro. P. C. 396.

44. Usury.

If a mortgage be drawn for 5 per cent. and the mortgagee takes 6, it would be void on the word "take" in the 12 Anne, stat. 2. c. 16. s. 1. Adlington v. Cann, 3 Atk. 154. MORTGAGE.

45. Witnesses.

Legacy to a subscribing witness to a will, though of personal property only, void under the stat. 25 G. 2. c. 26. extending to all wills and codicils. Lees v. Somersgill, 17 Ves. 608. LEGACY.

STIPULATED DAMAGES.

Where a lease has been granted upon lives renewable for ever, with a nomine pence in case of the lessor's neglect to renew, equity will not decree the lessor to renew, except upon the terms of paying the penalty. Donerail v. Chartres, 1 Ridgw. P. C. 122. LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Lesser covenants not to plough up, &c. and if he does, to pay 5*l.* additional rent per acre. Held to be stipulated damages, and equity no jurisdiction. Rolfe v. Paterson, 2 Bro. P. C. 436. COVENANT; JURISDICTION.

A made mortgage to B for 1769*l.* payable by five equal payments, within the space of five years, with interest at five per cent. But mortgagor covenanted, that if the money should not be paid at those times, or within three months after, he would, for every sum so unpaid, pay 8 per cent. interest, until actual payment. The money was not paid, and on bill of foreclosure, court decreed an account of the principal money and interest at 5 per cent. only: but on appeal decree was reversed, and mortgagor ordered to be charged with 8 per cent. interest from the end of three months after each payment became due. Burton v. Slattery, 5 Bro. P. C. 233. MORTGAGE; INTEREST, WHAT RATE.

Mortgagor reserving 6 per cent. with proviso to take 5 per cent. if paid within three months after due, if a great arrear, court will not relieve; scous, if but a small slip of time. Brown v. Burkhart, 1 P. W. 652. MORTGAGE; AGREEMENT; SPEC. PERP.

A mortgagee lends money at 6 per cent. and in the deed agrees to take 5 per cent. if it be paid within three months after it has become due; if the mortgagee fail to pay at the precise time, he must afterwards pay 6 per cent. Jory v. Coz, Proc. Chan. 160. AGREEMENT.

A mortgage is made with interest at 5 per cent. provided that if the interest be not paid within two months after due, then to pay 5*l.* 10*s.* This is in nature of a penalty, and the court will relieve against it; otherwise if 5*l.* 10*s.* per cent. be reserved originally, and to be lessened to 5*l.* per cent. if duly paid within two months after due. Strode v. Parker, 2 Vern. 316. PENALTY, RELIEF AGAINST; MORTGAGE.

Interest reserved at 5 per cent. but if not duly paid then to answer interest at 6 per annum; great arrear of interest; mortgagor decreed to pay but 5 per cent. the reservation at 6 per cent. being only as nomine pence. Holles v. Wynn, 2 Vern. 289. AGREEMENT; INTEREST, WHAT ALLOWED.

But where interest was reserved at 6 per cent., and if duly paid, then agrees to take 5 per cent., interest not duly paid, and court allowed 6 per cent. Id. 290. AGREEMENT; INTEREST.

In a lease for years of land, lessee covenants not to plough pasture land, and if he does, then to pay after the rate 20*s.* per annum, for every acre ploughed. The court will not grant an injunction against the tenant's ploughing; for the parties themselves have agreed the damage, and set a price for ploughing; nor will court relieve the lessee against the penalty, if he ploughs. Woodward v. Gyles, 2 Vern. 119. LANDLORD & TEN.; INJUNC. AGAINST WASTE.

Mortgage at 5 per cent. with covenant to pay 6, on default of paying the interest within sixty days after due. If the interest is behind sixty days, the mortgage shall carry interest at 6 per cent. and the court will not relieve against it. Marq. Halifax v. Higgins, 2 Vern. 134. MORTGAGE.

STOCK, DIVIDENDS AND TRANSFER OF.

See also BANKRY. XI. 1. (b). — CHATELAIN, PERSONAL — RE-CONVEYANCE, &c. — SOUTH SEA COMPANY.

Any court of equity may order the bank of England to suffer a transfer of such stock to be made, or to pay dividends belonging to, or standing in the names of any party to a suit, or issue an injunction, to restrain such transfer or payment, although the bank be not a party; court being satisfied by the certificate of the account of the said corporation, duly signed by him, that the stock is standing in their books in the name of the person required to transfer the same, &c. and that, after due service of a short order upon the said governor and company, &c. which shall contain no recital of their pleadings, or other matter, than the title of the cause, and the ordering part of such decree, or order, which respects the said governor and company, and for which the sum of 18s. and no more, shall be paid, like process shall issue, to enforce such order or decree, as to enforce them against any party to a suit depending in such court. 39 and 40 G. 3. c. 36. s. 1. On request of the clerk in court and solicitor of the party, the bank shall deliver a certificate stating the amount of such stock, or demand, &c. for which the fees therein specified shall be paid; act not to extend any further discovery than herein-mentioned, nor to any case where the bank claim an interest in the fund, and the bank may state their objection to any transfer by motion on petition. Id. s. 2. P.L. PARTY; BANK OF ENGLAND.

Ld. Ch. &c. may direct costs to be paid. 6 G. 4. c. 74. s. 16. COSTS.

Stock belonging to lunatics may, in certain cases, be ordered by Ld. Ch. &c. to be transferred. 6 G. 4. c. 74. s. 13. JURISDICTION; LUNATIC.

Where stocks standing in the names of persons declared lunatics, resided out of England, Ld. Ch. &c. may direct transfer and payment. 6 G. 4. c. 74. s. 14. Id. ib.

Indemnity to the bank, and other companies. 6 G. 4. c. 74. s. 16. INDEMNITY.

What persons shall be named in orders of court for making transfer. 6 G. 4. c. 74. s. 15. JURISDICTION.

The provisions aforesaid shall extend to the E. I. Comp. & S. S. Comp. where they have stock standing in their books which may become the subject of a suit in equity. 39 and 40 G. 3. c. 36. s. 4. SOUTH SEA COMPANY; E. I. COMPANY.

Surplus stock, arising from sales under the acts for the redemption of the land tax, will be ordered to be transferred to the party, who, if it were laid out in the purchase of lands, would be entitled to have the lands conveyed to him in fee. In mrs. Fortescue, 3 Russ. 128.

Where a testator, possessed of stock in the government fund, bequeaths it specifically, the bank cannot refuse to permit the executor to transfer it, he not having assented to the legacy. The bank having, under these circumstances, refused to permit the executor to transfer, a decree was made against them, with costs. Franklin v. Bank of England, 1 Russ. 575. BANK OF ENGLAND; COSTS.

A testator directed his executors to invest a sum of money in the 3 per cent. stock, and bequeathed the stock to the treasurer of a charitable corporation in Scotland, in order that the dividends might be applied to the purposes of the charity. The court ordered the stock to be transferred to the corporation. Emery v. Hill, 1 Russ. 112. CORPORATION; CHARITY.

Bequest of money to trustees in trust, to invest in public funds, and pay dividends to A until marriage, and then to transfer stock to her, but in case she should die unmarried, then as she should appoint by will, and in default of appointment, to her executors and administrators. Semble, she is not entitled to have fund transferred, while unmarried. Wilson v. Mount, 2 S. & S. 493. WILL, C. OF.

Where bill is filed merely to obtain transfer of stock standing in name of trustee, who is out of jurisdiction of court, order must be made at hearing of cause, and cannot be obtained on petition. Burr v. Mason, 2 S. & S. 11. TRUSTEE; PETITION.

A married woman being entitled to an annuity of 200l. out of the dividends of 10,500l. 4 per cent. stock, which, subject to the annuity, was devisable amongst the children of herself and her husband, as he should appoint. Husband appointed 2,500l. to his eldest son. Court refused to order that sum to be transferred to the son, although the remainder would have been much more than sufficient to pay the annuity. Bretton v. Ld. Clifdon, 1 S. & S. 363. ANNUITY; HUSB. & WIFE.

Bank having notice of bill refused to permit transfer of stock, though no injunction. Ordered that they should permit transfer on a certain day, unless plaintiff obtained injunction in the mean time. Ross v. Sherer, 6 Mad. 1. BANK; P.R. INJUNCTION.

Dividends of bank stock being choses in action cannot be sequestered. McCarthy v. Gould, 1 Ball & B. 387. SEQUESTRATION; CHOSE IN ACTION.

The purchaser of a life interest in stock sold before a master, is entitled to a dividend becoming due on the day following the sale. Anson v. Towgood, 1 Jac. & W. 637. VENDOR & PURCH.; INTERMEDIATE PROFITS.

Under 36 G. 3. c. 90. (repealed and re-enacted by 6 G. 4. c. 74. which see), on proof that one trustee had become bankrupt, and absconded, and was abroad, and not likely to return; order was made that remaining trustee should transfer stock into name of himself and another as co-trustees. Williams v. Bird, 1 V. & B. 3. TRUSTEE; STATUTES, C. OF.

Trustees under a foreign will dead, and no personal representation taken out in this country, is a case for relief, by directing a transfer of stock, within the stat. 36 G. 3. c. 90. See 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79. 80. and 6 G. 4. c. 74. Lee v. Bank of England, 8 Ves. 44. STAT. C. OF; TRUSTEE.

Legacy of stock at a particular age; order made upon the petition of one legatee having attained the age, for a transfer of his share to his attorney. Hill v. Chapman, 11 Ves. 239. LEGATEE; P.R. ORDER.

Specific bequest of stock to the executrix for life, and after her death, to her daughter absolutely, at twenty-one; the bank resisting a transfer according to an agreement to relinquish the life interest, without the direction of the court, are entitled to costs. Austin v. Bank of England, 8 Ves. 522. P.R. COSTS; BANK OF ENGLAND.

The bank of England are not to look beyond the legal title to the trusts of the will, and therefore cannot prevent the executor from selling out or transferring stock into his own name. Bank of England v.

Though a residue is specifically given, the bank has no right to restrain the executor from transferring the funds. Bank of England v. Moffat, 3 Bro. C. C. 260. BANK OF ENGLAND.

Bequest of stock to executor for life, remainder to M W, the executor having bought M W's reversionary interest, and the bank refusing to allow a transfer, the court ordered a transfer to be made accordingly, but nevertheless gave the bank their costs. Pearson v. Bank of England, 2 Bro. C. C. 529. S. C. 2 Cox, 175, but see note there. BANK OF ENGLAND; COSTS.

The question being, whether the plaintiff has a lien upon stock, the court will not order the bank to permit a transfer. Birch v. Corbyn, 1 Bro. C. C. 571. BANK OF ENGLAND; LIEN.

Injunction not granted to restrain transfer of stock until defendants have appeared, or are in contempt, and upon notice. Doolittle v. Walton, Dick. 442.

One is bound to transfer 300*l.* stock before the 30th of September, then next; though the stock was much risen, yet the defendant decreed to transfer the 300*l.* stock in specie, and to account for all dividends from from the time it ought to be transferred. Gardner v. Pullen, 2 Vern. 394. SPEC. PERF.

Where there is a direction to sell land and pay debts, &c., there is no instance of holding surplus after that purpose answered, to form part of personal estate, so as to pass by residuary bequest. Naughton v. Mason, 1 V. & B. 416. TRUST TO PAY DEBTS; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Devise of real estate to be sold; the object being a provision for legacies, is not an absolute conversion, and is therefore a resulting trust for heir at law as to surplus, though a receiving executor is appointed. Perry v. Usher, 11 Ves. 87. RESULTING TRUST; HEIR AT LAW; CONVERSION; WILL, C. OF; DEVISE TO SELL.

Testator bequeathed the residue of his personal estate, in trust to pay 12*l.* per annum to the schoolmaster of R, and to apply the surplus, if any, in the clothing and putting out apprentice two children of R, and one child of W; and he made no further disposition of it. The residue being more than sufficient for the specific purposes of the will, the surplus is not considered as undisposed of, but must be applied in increasing the number of the objects of the charity. Att. Gen. v. Hurst, 2 Cox, 364. S. C. nom. Att. Gen. v. Winchelsea, 3 Bro. C. C. 374. WILL, C. OF; CHARITY.

A makes a will, and his son executor, but makes no disposition of the surplus: the son dies without proving the will. The surplus shall be distributed amongst the next of kin, at the death of the testator. Bell v. Smith, 2 Vern. 634. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Land is devised to trustees to sell, and out of the money arising by the sale, amongst other sums, to pay 100*l.* to his heir at law; and no disposition is made by the testator of the surplus of his estate. The land shall not be turned into personal estate, nor more sold than is necessary to pay the legacy, and the heir shall have the surplus. Randall v. Bookey, 2 Vern. 425. PRE. CH. 162. S. C. LAND DEVISED FOR SALE; RESULTING TRUST; HEIR AT LAW.

SURVIVORSHIP.

A testator gave stock to trustees to be divided, after the death of the two persons who had life interest in it, among A, B, C, D, and E, in equal shares; and he directed, that if any of them should die without issue, before their respective shares should become payable, the share of him, her, or them, so dying without issue, should go to, and be equally divided among, the survivor and survivors of them. A died, leaving issue, who were living at the time fixed for the distribution of the fund; B died, leaving a son, who died, without issue, before the period of distribution; shortly afterwards, and also before the period of distribution, C died, without issue. Held, that B's personal representative was not entitled to any portion of the fund; that the one-third of B's share, which, on the failure of her issue, survives to C, did not, on C's death, survive to the other legatees, but was transmitted to her personal representative; that the words "survivor and survivors" were to be construed in their natural sense, and not as equivalent to "other and others;" so that no part of the share of B and C went over to A's personal representative. Crocker v. Stone, 3 Russ. 217. WILL. C. OF; INTEREST, VESTED.

Devise of real estate, to be sold after the death of tenant for life, and bequest of specific sums out of the produce to several grandchildren and a child, and of the residue to other children, to be respectively paid at twenty-one, or marriage. "But if any of my said children or grandchildren shall happen to die before the time of such legacy becoming due and payable, then I give and bequeath the share or part of such child or children, or grandchildren, so dying, into and among those that shall be then living, share and share alike." Two of the children died before the testator: their shares are to be divided among the other children and grandchildren equally. Another child and a grandchild, having survived the testator, and attained twenty-one, died before the tenant for life: their shares transmissible to their representatives. No implication that the survivorship was to take place, amongst the children and grandchildren distinctly, from the inequality of legacies, or from the bequest to each class being made by distinct clauses. Walker v. Main, 1 Jac. & W. 1. WILL. C. OF.

Words of survivorship are to be referred to the period of division and enjoyment, unless the contrary intent be specially shown. Cripps v. Woolcott, 4 Mad. 11. WILL. C. OF.

Survivorship may take place among executors. White v. Williams, 3 V. & B. 72. S. C. COOP. 58. EXON.; RESIDUE.

Bequest to the children of A, who should be living at the testator's decease, equally with survivorship, in case of death, without leaving issue; if leaving issue, the issue to have the parent's share. The survivorship cannot be restrained to the period of the testator's death, as, upon the construction, the clause would be repugnant. Shergold v. Boone, 13 Ves. 370. WILL. C. OF.

If joint tenants of leasehold or freehold lay out money jointly upon it in the way of trade, there is no survivorship. Lyster v. Dolland, 1 Ves. J. 435. JOINT TENANT; TRADE; REAL ESTATE.

Testator leaves a reversion in trust for four, with survivorship; two died. The survived shares shall survive as well as the original shares, being in case of an aggregate fund. Wardidge v. Churchill, 3 Bro. C. C. 465. WILL. C. OF.

Where feme sole conveys stock to trustees, to use of intended husband and self for life, with power to dispose of part. This power survives to wife. Horne v. Beauloes, 9 Mod. 335. POWER; HUSBAND & WIFE.

Baron and feme brings a bill to redeem a mortgage; defendants plead to the bill, and the plea overruled, and costs given to the plaintiffs, which, by the course of the court, are 5*l.*: baron dies. The feme, by survivorship, shall have the costs. Coppin v. —, 2 P. W. 486. HUSB. & WIFE; PR. TAXED COSTS; ABATEMENT & REPAIR.

Bond given to a baron and feme; during coverture, baron dies. The bond will survive to the wife. Id. ib.

J devises lands to be sold for payment of his debts and legacies, and the surplus to be laid out in the purchase of other lands, to be settled on A and B, and the survivor of them and their heirs, equally to be divided between them, share and share alike. A died in the lifetime of the testator; and the question was, whether his moiety should descend to the testator's heir at law as a lapsed devise, or should go to B, the surviving devisee? Held, that the first part of the devise made A and B plainly joint-tenants; and therefore B, by survivorship, became entitled to the whole for life; but that the inheritance being devised to them as tenants in common, one moiety having lapsed by A's death in the lifetime of the testator, shall descend to the testator's heir at law, expectant on the death of B, and that the other moiety shall go to the heir of B. Barber v. Gyles, 3 Bro. P. C. 104. WILL. C. OF, WHAT ESTATE; ESTATE, JOINT TENANCY; ESTATE, TENANCY IN COMMON.

A devises the surplus of his estate to his two nephews, equally to be divided between them, and appoints his executors to lay out for their benefit. One of them died in the testator's lifetime. The whole decreed to the survivor, not to the executors, the testator not intending them any benefit. Cock v. Burris, 1 Vern. 425. WILL. C. OF.

A gives 500*l.* to his executors on trust to pay annunities to B & C for their lives exceeding the interest of the 800l., and gives the surplus to D and E. The annuitants being dead, the 800l. shall go to the residuary legatee, and not to the executors. Cock v. Burdick, 1 Vern. 425. WILL, C. OF.

Term settled in trust for wife, if she should so long live, and after her decease, in trust for her husband, if he should so long live, and after his decease, in trust for the heirs of the body of the wife by the husband, their executors, administrators and assigns, and for default of such issue, remainder over. The husband died, never having had any issue, and the wife survived him: Held, that the term was not vested in the wife, and that the words heirs of the body were not words of limitation but purchase; and the lease was directed to be deposited in court for the benefit of all parties. Hodgeson v. Bessey, 2 Atk. 89. S. C. 9 Mod. 236. DEEDS, C. OF.

Words of limitation are improperly used in terms for years. Id. ib.

Heirs of the body here means the heir of the body living at the death of the husband, or born in a reasonable time after. Id. 92.

A, seised in fee, devises to B, his executors, &c. for ninety-nine years, in trust for himself and his wife for their lives, and the lives of the survivor, and after the death of the survivor, in trust for the heirs of their two bodies; and in default of such issue, then in trust for the heirs of the body of the husband; and in default of such issue, then in trust for the heirs of the survivor of the husband and wife. Husband and wife have issue a son, and the husband dies, and then the son dies in the lifetime of the mother, without issue: the mother administers to her husband and son, and assigns the term to the defendant. Decreed, her assignee well entitled, and that the term should not go to the heir of the husband as attendant on the reversion. Hayter v. Rod, 1 P. W. 360. WILL, C. OF. A, on his marriage, assigns a term for 1000 years, in trust for himself for life, remainder to his wife for life, remainder to the heirs of the body of the husband and wife, remainder to the husband's right heirs; the wife dies, leaving issue; the whole term vests in Subsequent incumbrancer cannot protect himself by a satisfied term against a prior incumbrance, unless in some sense got in either by an assignment, or making the trustee a party to the instrument, or taking possession of the deed creating the term, nor if he has notice before he pay his money; distinction upon that as to the dowress upon no principle, but established by practice. Maunderell v. Maunderell, 10 Ves. 271. PRIORITY OF SECURITY.

At law all terms are considered terms in gross, and therefore, without regard to purpose, prevent dowress from any legal benefit from recovery in dower; as she recovers with stay of execution during the term; but equity regards the purpose for which the term is created and subsists; and if only for the benefit of the owner of the inheritance it is considered part of inheritance, not absolutely merged, but so attendant as to accompany it, and every right and interest growing out of it by operation or agreement: not to be used, therefore, against the owner of the whole or any part of the inheritance; every description of ownership having a use in the term commensurate with the interest in the inheritance: when dower arises, therefore, the term in a proportion is as much attendant upon that interest as during the husband's life upon the inheritance, and protects it against either heir or purchaser. S. C. 7 Ves. 577. DOWER.

Before stat. 21 H. 8. tennor was in power of the owner of the freehold; since then the tennor in trust is affected as the owner of the inheritance shall think fit. Id. ib.

A bond fide purchaser without notice, if the term is in a trustee, may use it to protect or recover the possession; so if the term is in himself. Id. ib.

The term will protect against all intermediate incumbrances. Id. 284.

Defendant purchased a real estate of plaintiff's husband, and the estate being in mortgage for a term, it was paid off out of purchase money, and the term assigned to a trustee for the purchaser to attend the inheritance. Several years after husband's death, she brought her bill against defendant for an account of profits, and to be paid her dower. Sir T. Abney decreed dower, but Id. Chancellor reversed decree, and dismissed bill without costs. Hill v. Adams, 2 Atk. 208. DOWER, BAR OF.

Since the case of Radnor v. Vandebendy, it has been a settled rule, that if purchaser have taken a term precedent to the right of dower, be it a satisfied one or money for it, it is a bar to the wife's dower; but if the mortgage had subsisted at the husband's death, the wife might have redeemed, and been entitled to dower; or if he had paid it off, and taken an assignment of the term to attend the inheritance, and died seised, the wife would have been endowed. Id.

A dowress shall have the benefit of a trust term against an heir or devise, but not against a purchaser. Banks v. Sutton, 2 P. W. 707. See as to this case, Sugd. Vend. & P. 451. 7th edit. DOWER.

Whether a dowress shall be relieved in equity against a term for years. Williams v. Wray, 2 Vern. 689. S. C. Prec. Chan. 151. 1 P. W. 137. Id.

A purchaser of a man who had committed an act of bankruptcy, but without notice thereof; afterwards a commission is taken out, and there being a term standing out in trustees, the assignee brings a bill against them and the purchaser to have the term assigned to him: bill dismissed. Wilder v. Bodington, 2 Vern. 599. VEND. & PURCH.; BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT.

A purchaser without notice shall not be hurt in equity, not only where he has got a prior legal title, but where he has a better right to call for the legal estate than another who has obtained an incumbrance prior to his title. Id. ib.

A court of equity will not assist a dowress who has had judgment at law with a cessit executio in removing a trust term. Brown v. Gibbs, Prec. Chan. 97. DOWER.

Where lands escheat to the king, he shall have the benefit of a term to attend the inheritance. Bodmin v. Vandebendy, 1 Vern. 357. S. C. Prec. Chan. 65. 2 Ch. Ca. 172. ESCHEAT.

In Att. Gen. v. Sands, Hard. 488. 2 Freem. 129. 3 Ch. Rep. 33., it was held, that the trust of a term attending on the inheritance was not forfeited by the felony of the cestui que trust, because it was no more than an accessory, to the inheritance, which was not forfeited. It is not denied however, that where a term is attendant on the inheritance, and the king extends the inheritance, he shall have a right to the term. Nicholls v. How, 2 Vern. 389. FELONY; FORFEITURE.

III. TRUST TERM, EFFECT OF MARRIAGE ON.

Upon the question as to equity of a married woman, against an assignment of her separate interest by her husband for valuable consideration, whether the assignee has a more favourable case, where the object is a trust of a term for years, querre? Franco v. Franco, 4 Ves. 528. HUSB. & WIFE, SEPARATE ESTATE; ASSIGNMENT FOR VALUABLE CONSIDERATION.

Though a feme sole, cestui que trust of a term, shall have the term for her separate use, if she marries without any previous agreement with her husband, yet the husband may dispose of it for a valuable consideration after marriage, and it shall be good in equity as well as if he had had the term in herself and had married. Sanders v. Page, 3 Ch. Rep. 223. HUSB. & WIFE.

A term assigned in trust for the feme before marriage, without the knowledge of the husband, may be disposed of by the husband. Pitt v. Hunt, 1 Vern. 18. 2 Ch. Ca. 73. S. C. S. P. Turner's Case, 1 Vern. 7. HUSB. & WIFE.

A trust term is not merged in equity by the marriage of the trustee to a woman entitled to the freehold. Thorn v. Newman, 3 Swan. 603. MURGER.

Tenant for life, without impeachment, restrained from cutting timber, planted or left standing for ornament; and whether ornamental or fanciful; the protection extending beyond the mansion-house to rides through a wood at a considerable distance; but not to the whole wood, to prevent cutting other parts for repairs and sale. Wombrell v. Belhouse, cited note, 6 Ves. 110 a. 2nd Edit. INJUNC. WASTE.

Wood springing from the roots or stools of trees is titheable, and neither its own age, nor the age of the trees from the roots or stools of which it sprung, will exempt it. Chichester v. Sheldon, 1 Turn. & R. 245. TITHES.

Court will restrain cutting underwood of insufficient growth. Brades v. Stephens, 6 Mad. 279. WASTE.

Where there is infant tenant in tail in possession, court will authorize cutting of all timber fit to be felled; but where there is tenant for life impeachable for waste, with remainder over, court will only authorize cutting of timber, where interest of succession requires it. Hussey v. Hussey, 5 Mad. 44. TENANT FOR LIFE AND IN TAIL.

Injunction to restrain mortgagor from cutting timber, not granted; unless security be insufficient or scanty without timber. Hippesley v. Spencer, 5 Mad. 422. MORTGAGE; INJUNCTION.

Devise of real estate to M for life, and direction "that the timber or wood which should be on his real estates, should from time to time be used for repairing the houses thereupon, or otherwise for the benefit and advantage of his estate, or that the same should be sold, and the money arising therefrom should be applied," &c. Held, devise to M, carried the underwood, and that trustees leaving sufficient timber for repairs might cut all fit timber, except ornamental. Butler v. Barton, 5 Mad. 40. WILL, C. OF.

A mortgagee is entitled to an injunction to restrain a mortgagor in possession from cutting down timber, if the land without it, is a scanty security. It may be extended to cutting down underwood contrary to the usual course of husbandry, but not to underwood generally, although the mortgagor is insolvent. Humphreys v. Harrison, 1 Jac. & W. 581. MORTGAGOR & MORTGAGEE; INJUNC. TO STAY WASTE.

Chapter not being entitled to fell timber on the Deanery lands, except for the purpose of repairs, a lease granted by them of certain "woods, groves, hedge-rows, and springs," was construed not to include the right of felling timber; and a bill by the lessee for an account of timber felled during the lease by the lessors, was dismissed with costs. Herring v. Dean &c. of St. Paul's, 3 Swan. 492. LANDLORD & TENANT; ACCOUNT.

Timber on the estates of ecclesiastical corporations, is a fund for the benefit of the church. Id. 509. ECCLESIASTICAL CORPORATION.

Whether timber is intended for ornament, &c. by deviser of tenant for life, is to be proved from his conduct concerning it. Lushington v. Bolders, 6 Mad. 149. WASTE.

Ornamental timber, though decayed and injurious to other trees, is not to be cut unless essential to objects of such deviser. Id. ib.

A tenant for life, without impeachment of waste, not restrained from felling trees fit for the purposes of timber, though young and not such as would be felled in a course of husband-like management of the estate. Smythe v. Smythe, 2 Swan. 251. TENANT FOR LIFE.

Right of a tenant entitled to a life interest in a term of years, unimpeachable of waste, to fell timber for his own benefit. Sir Samuel Bridges v. Stephens, 2 Swan. 150. Id.

Tenant for life, without impeachment of waste, further than wilful waste, entitled to the interest of money produced by the sale of decaying timber cut by order of court. As to any further claim, a question at law. Qu.? The capital laid out in real estate to be settled to the same uses. Wickham v. Wickham, 19 Ves. 419. S. C. Coop. 288. Id.

Generally, if there is no custom for the tenants of a manor to cut timber, it belongs to the lord. Whitechurch v. Hotworthy, 19 Ves. 214. COPYHOLD.

It seems there may be, as to timber on copyhold premises, what may exist unquestionably as to mines, a custom that the lord cannot take without consent of the copyholder, and vice versa. Id. ib.

Copyholder may by custom have such an interest in the timber, that he may himself cut; so he may a special interest to prevent the lord's cutting; but such a custom ought to be proved by extremely strong evidence. Id. ib.

Devise in strict settlement, with a clause of forfeiture by cutting any trees. Upon a bill by the infant remainder-man in tail, an inquiry was directed, whether any trees, in the park, not ornamental, or affording shelter to the mansion-house, are proper to be felled; and whether it would be for the benefit of all parties interested, that they should be felled, and sold; and the money laid out in other estates, to be settled to the same uses. Delapole v. Delapole, 17 Ves. 150. WILL, C. OF; PR. INQUIRY BEFORE MASTER.

Settlement, on marriage, of lands of the husband to the use of husband for life, without impeachment of waste; remainder to trustees to preserve contingent remainders; remainder to the wife for life, for her jointure, and in bar of dower; remainder to the first and other sons of the marriage in tail male; remainder to the daughters in the same manner; remainder to the heirs of the body of the husband and wife. The husband being dead without issue, as to the right of the widow to cut timber, and which would be a consequence to the property in it, when severed, as tenant in tail after possibility of issue extinct, either in possession, by the effect of merger, if the estates can unite, or if not, in remainder, Qu? A case directed. Williams v. Williams, 15 Ves. 419. WASTE; SETTLEMENT, CONSTRUCTION OF.

Settlement of estates on trustees and their heirs, during the joint lives of W II and his wife, without impeachment of waste, upon trust, out of the rents and profits, to pay all expenses and outgoings, and to raise and pay a sum by way of pin money to the wife, and subject thereto to pay the clear residue of the rents, &c. to W II, during the lives of himself and his wife; remainder to W II for life, without impeachment of waste; remainder over; with power for the trustees to sell and lay out the produce in the purchase of other lands to the same uses; the land being sold under the power, W II was held entitled to the produce of timber cut down by him previous to the sale, not to the value of timber then standing. Wolf v. Hill, 2 Swan. 149. SETTLEMENT, C. OF.

Where there is an executory devise out of a legal estate, this court will not permit the estate to be cut, more especially in the case of a trust estate. Stansfield v. Habergam, 10 Ves. 278. INJUNCTION TO STAY WASTE.

Injunction against cutting ornamental timber, confined to timber standing for ornament, or shelter; the court refusing to extend it by inserting the words, "contribute to ornament." Williams v. McNamara, 8 Ves. 70. Id.

Injunction granted to restrain tenant for life, without impeachment, from cutting timber and other trees, planted, &c. for ornament, &c., and from cutting, except in husband-like manner. Ld. Tancorth v. Ld. Ferrers, 6 Ves. 419. INJUNCTION, WASTE.

A, tenant for life, remainder to first, &c. sons in tail, remainder to B for life, remainder to first, &c. sons in tail, remainder to C in tail. A cut down timber; A and B having no son born, C is entitled to timber. Rolt v. Ld. Somerville, 2 Eq. Ab. 759. TENANT FOR LIFE.

A, tenant for life, remainder to B in tail as to one moiety, remainder to C an infant in tail as to the other moiety, remainder over. There is timber on the premises greatly decaying. B, the remainder man, brings a bill praying that the decaying timber might be cut down, sold, and the money divided betwixt him and the infant, and the tenant for life insists to have part of the money; tenant for life must have sufficient left for repairs, &c. and an allowance for all damage done to him on the ground, but to have no allowance for the timber, which, when severed by accident or by a trespasser, belongs to the first owner of the inheritance. Decaying timber, if for ornament or safety, not to be cut down; also where an infant is interested in the inheritance, no timber can be cut down but by the approbation of the master; and the infant's moiety of the money is to be put out for his benefit. Burick v. Whitefield, 3 P. W. 267. TENANT FOR LIFE AND REM.-MAN.

In a purchase, where timber is agreed to be valued, the custom of the country makes those trees timber, which in their nature are not so; as birch, beech, &c. Pollard trees, if the bodies are sound, to be valued as timber; walnut trees, where of considerable value, to be estimated as timber. Where trees are of value, and the parties cannot agree in the valuation of them as timber, the court will send it to be tried, whether by the custom of the country, any, and which of these are timber trees. Dk. Chaudes v. Talbot, 2 P. W. 606.

A, seised in fee of land, demised the premises to trustees, B, C, & D for three hundred years in trust to pay debts, &c. for a charity. B, one of the trustees, being in possession, and as a receiver appointed by the court, cuts down 1000l. worth of timber; D, one of the other trustees consenting. B, the trustee for the charity, or as receiver, ought not to take advantage of his having possession, without which he could not cut down the timber; yet the timber must be valued according to what it would be worth at the end of the term of five hundred years. Bays v. Bird, 2 P. W. 397. TRUSTEES, DUTIES OF

Bill for partition will lie as to tithes. Demurrer overruled. Gibson v. Montford, 1 Ves. 404. PL. PARTITION.

II. THE TITLE TO, AND ENDOWMENT OF VICARAGE.

A party entitled to an impropriate rectory for life, and in possession, is entitled to receive the tithes, notwithstanding the legal estate is subject to a trust term to secure annuities, and to a mortgage. Glegg v. Leigh, 1 Dow, N. S. 98; and 1 Bli. N. S. 302.

In a suit by the vicar, where the endowment is lost, and it appears from the evidence that the rector has not received any small tithes, but that the vicar has received all the small tithes which have been rendered, the court infers, in favour of the vicar, that the endowment conferred upon him, by a general expression, all small tithes whatsoever, carrying not only such small tithes as were then actually received, but such as were at that time neglected, or came afterwards into existence by the improvements in husbandry; but where the vicar never has received, or been entitled to receive the whole of the small tithes, then it cannot be so readily presumed that the endowment contained a gift to him in those general terms. Willis v. Farrar, 2 Y. & J. 217.

Where, on the dissolution of monasteries, the possessions of an abbey came to the crown, and the crown subsequently granted all the tithes yearly, renewing with all their rights, members, and appurtenances: Held, the crown being the rector, or in loco rectoris, the tithes granted must mean the rectorial tithes, or all the tithes except such as had been withdrawn by an endowment for the minister; but royal grants being strictly construed, the court would not hold that the grant extended to the rectory, the rectory being granted in express terms. Pierrepont v. Scarlet, 2 Y. & J. 330. GRANT FROM CROWN, C. OF.

Where a rectory was granted by the crown in 22 Edw. 6., with licence to appropriate, and a direction to appoint a vicar, and endow him with a dwelling-house, and on the appropriation to endow him also with a specified annual pension or portion for his food and sustentation, and it appeared that there had been a vicar through all subsequent time, and that such vicar had, for a great number of years back, received from the lessees of the rectory for the time being a larger sum than the pension specified by the grant; but no instrument of endowment, nor evidence of the existence of such was produced, from the absence of which it was contended that the terms of the grant had not been complied with, and that the payment by the lessees was a voluntary payment by the impropriators, and determinable at their pleasure, the court held, that after so long a possession it might be presumed that an endowment had been made according to the terms of the grant, and that the vicarage had been subsequently augmented. Inman v. Whorby, 1 Y. & J. 545.

An incumbent of one parish is capable of tithes in another as a portionist, or in nature of a portionist, but it is incumbent on him, as claiming against a common right, to prove his title strictly, either by producing an actual grant, or evidence of usage, affording by presumption legal evidence of a grant. Evidence of usage to receive certain mixed tithes by an incumbent in another parish as a portionist, or in the nature of a portionist, is not, of itself, evidence of a right to receive the tithes of all description which the lands may produce under any circumstances. Carlisle v. Blain, 1 Y. & J. 123. TITHES, EVIDENCE.

Bill by the impropriate rector of A for predial tithes of lands allotted under an inclosure act. The defence was, that the land allotted was awarded in lieu of a right of common in A, appurtenant to a tenement in the parish of B, and that the tenement in B was protected from all tithes by a farm modus of 20s. payable to the rector of B, and therefore that the modus for the tenement protected the allotment. The court, however, decreed an account. By the common law, and also by general presumption, all tithes are due to the incumbent of the parish where they arise; and therefore tithes arising upon a common, are due to the incumbent of the parish in which the common is situate, not to the incumbent of the parish in which the tenement to which the common is appurtenant is situate, if that same tenement be in a different parish. Custom may, however, vary this. When the tenement is in one parish, and the common in another, the incumbent of the farm is not of right, and by the common law, independently of custom or prescription, entitled to the tithes arising upon the common; and if the common be enclosed, the allotment will become, by the general rule, for the purpose of tithes, parcel of the parish in which it is actually situate. Id. ib. INCLOSURE OF COMMON.

Commissioners under an inclosure act were to allot by their award to the rector of the parish so much of the lands so inclosed in the township of S, and of the titheable parts of the township of W, as should, quantity, quality, and situation considered, contain, or be equal in value, to 15 parts of the titheable places thereof, in lieu of tithes arising within the same lands. After enrolment of the award of the commissioners, all tithes arising within the lands enclosed were to cease; but there was a saving to all persons (other than the persons to whom any compensation by virtue of the act in respect of the interest for which such compensation should be made), all such interest as they had in respect of the said lands. Before passing of the act, an award, by which the commissioners allotted to the rector, in lieu of the tithes of S and A, lands more in quantity than two-fifteenths of the lands inclosed in S and A, but less than two-fifteenths of the lands inclosed in S, A, and W, without any allotment expressed to be in lieu of the tithes of W, is not a bar to the rector's claim of the tithes in W. Cooper v. Thorpe, 2 Russ. 78. INCLOSURE.

A title (admitted) in portioners to tithes of corn, grain, and hay, and some other, but not all the great tithes arising within the parish, in a case where nature and extent of title due did not otherwise appear than by an admission in those terms in the answer, the plaintiff giving no evidence of his claim, so that it could not be ascertained in what character, whether as rector or otherwise, he was entitled: Held not to give him a right also (as a necessary incident on the title to tithe of hay), to the tithe of clover, vetches, and other grasses, or food cut green, and applied for fodder for owner's cattle. Semble, that consumption of such titheable articles by owner's husbandry cattle, is not an available defence to a case to establish a right to the tithe of them. Lewis v. Young, 13 Price, 394. S. C. 1 McCl. 113. The judgment was reversed on appeal, 2 Bli. N. S. 63.

In suit for tithes, jurisdiction of equity is limited to discovery and account. Title must be tried at law, and if disputed, equity has no right to make a decree. Norbury v. Meade, 3 Bli. 211. JURISDICTION; TITLE.

Person suing as lay impropriator for tithes of a parish in which there has been within living memory a parish church and burial ground, in order to establish his title, must shew that there has been an appropriation, and when it was made. Id. ib. TITLE.

Upon lease of tithes by lay impropriator, if tithes of particular lands are excepted, it might admit of construction, that lessor is entitled to that which he excepts. But if former owner upon lease has made a parol declaration that he is not entitled to the tithes of those lands, that declaration is in itself important evidence, and gives a construction to the exceptions in the lease. Id. 212. PR. EVIDENCE; TITLE.

Vicar (claiming tithes) relying on a special endowment to support his case, is not precluded, by the enumeration therein of specific titheable matters, the tithe of which were assigned to him, from demanding from occupiers tithes of other articles eiusdem generis, usually called small tithes, where the vicar can shew that he has received some tithes not included in the enumeration in his endowment, and they are not shewn to be payable to some other person. Manby v. Lodge, 9 Price, 231; confirming, S.C. 2 Price, 284. ENDOWMENT.

When a defendant in a suit for tithes by a rector makes out a clear defence as portionist, claiming under the successive grantors of the crown of the possessions of one of the dissolved monasteries a right to some of the great tithes of the rectory, yet, if neither can ascertain and shew specifically what were the tithes which belonged to the rector or to the monastery, the court has no means of assisting either party in availing himself of his title. The court will not decree an account in favour of the rector under such circumstances, where he has never had perception; but they will retain the bill to give him an opportunity of taking an issue, or proceeding by commission, ejectment, or by action on the statute. The onus probandi is not on the portionist, if there has been no perception on the part of the rector. Boulton v. Richards, 9 Price, 671. JURISDIC.

Usage of rendering one article of small tithe to the rector, will not support his title against the vicar; if it appears to have originated from a mistaken notion that the article in question was a great tithe. Davis v. Benn, 1 Jac. 95.

On cross bill, plaintiff cannot compel discovery of defendant's title to tithes, though defendant must answer whether they have or not been conveyed away to another person. Glegg v. Leigh, 4 Mad. 193. TITLE; PL. DISCOVERY.

"Grant of herbage," held not to mean agistment. Scott v. Lawson, 7 Price, 267.

The king in right of his crown, has a general right to the tithes of all lands situate in extra-parochial places. Att. Gen. v. Ld. Eardley, Dan. 271. S.C. 8 Price, 39. CROWN.

A vicar, by shewing a general right to the perception of tithes in kind, places himself in the situation of a rector, and throws it upon the occupier to prove the existence of moduses set up, and the lands to which they apply; and semble, that evidence of a general payment throughout the parish, of so much in the pound, in lieu of tithes regulated according to the poor's rate or rack rent, is sufficient evidence of a vicar's general right to tithes in kind. Wright v. Southwood, Dan. 137. S.C. not S.P. 5 Price, 607.

Where an adverse title to tithes is set up and established against a demand by rector, who offers no evidence to impeach title, he is not entitled to an issue. Wilnot v. Hellaby, 5 Price, 355. RECTOR; ISSUE AT LAW.

Under an act for inclosing lands in the townships of A, S, and W, directing the commissioners to allot to the rector of the parish of W, in lieu of the tithes of the townships of S and W, so much of the lands to be enclosed in the township of S, and of the titheable parts of the township of W, as should, quantity, quality, and situation considered, contain or be equal in value to two-fifteenth parts of the titheable places thereof, and to make to the rector of W, and the vicar of B, in lieu of the tithes of a part of the lands in the township of S, and A, to which they were entitled, a like allotment, equal to two-fifteenth parts of such lands, and declaring that after the enrolment of the award of the commissioners, all tithes arising within the lands enclosed should cease, an award by which the commissioners allotted to the rector of W, "in lieu of the tithes of S, and A," lands more in quantity than two-fifteenth parts of the lands enclosed in S, and A; but less than two-fifteenth parts of the lands enclosed in S, A, and W, without any allotment in lieu of the tithes of W, is a bar to the claims of tithes in W. The award would not be vitiated by error in the allotment. The act having directed the commissioners, in estimating the proportion, to have regard to quality and situation; deficiency in quantity is not proof of error. Cooper v. Thorpe, 1 Swan. 92. ALLOTMENT ON INCLOSURE; AWARD.

Book from registry of Lincoln, containing inter alia what were called copies of endowments of certain vicarages, was received as evidence of an endowment of vicarages in Northampton. Leonard v. Franklyn, 4 Price, 264. PL. EVIDENCE.

The court will not make a decree in favour of rector claiming tithes in kind of lands not within his parish, for which he has for many years received a money payment by way of composition, which defendant does not pretend to insist on as a modus, nor will they grant a commission to ascertain boundaries of such lands without a previous inquiry; whether the plaintiff is entitled to any and what tithes on such lands by trial at law on an issue; nor can he take advantage from a former decree in favour of a predecessor of plaintiff, and a verdict obtained by him on an issue under it, especially if the intermediate rectors have taken no step of advantage from such suit. Sanders v. Longden, 4 Price, 117.

A rector (claiming tithe of seed against a vicar, endowed of all small tithes except hay, on ground of prescription, that, as the former has had perception of the tithe of seeds, notwithstanding the terms of the endowment of the latter who had also had immemorial perception of the tithe of corn of certain lands ultra his endowment, an ancient exchange must be presumed of vicarial for rectorial tithes) will be held to strict proof of his title to tithes sought, and of exchange or grant of the tithes. Nor is his perception of tithe in question available against perception by vicar, if it was ever doubtful whether they were rectorial or vicarial tithes, nor can rector insist on issue. Dorman v. Curry, 4 Price, 109.

Construction of endowment of vicarage, as to articles of modern introduction. Usage is the broad ground of presumption in favour of vicar's endowment, and if there be an endowment in proof, expressing of what tithes vicarage shall be endowed, and other tithes not so expressed are received by him, a subsequent endowment shall be presumed. Williams v. Price, 4 Price, 156.

Endowment produced, showing the vicarage expressly endowed of hay, not sufficient to support a bill for that tithe without usage, against evidence of money payment to rector in lieu of hay; but grant from crown subsequent to endowment, including all the tithes in general words, not sufficient to overturn vicar's right without proof of perception. A particular and minute enumeration of the several articles of endowment in that instrument does not preclude vicar's right to other small tithes not therein mentioned. Manby v. Curtis, 2 Price, 284. See this case confirmed, 9 Price, 231. TITHES.

The lessee of a rector, in whose lease there is an exception of various small tithes nominatim, and of all the tithes belonging to vicar, is not entitled to tithe of potatoes, though he has always received some of the small tithes in kind not mentioned in the lease speciatim, either as demised or excepted, and particularly for geese and pigs. Cunliffe v. Taylor, 2 Price, 329.

A grant of tithes of land will not be presumed from long non-payment, although lands be shown to have been once in the possession of a former lay proprietor, unless some evidence of the existence of a grant be offered, or the enjoyment of tithes be shown by at least something like actual perannuity, or dealing with the tithes as owner; nor will evidence of retainer only be sufficiently strengthened to support such presumption; by its being shown that a former proprietor had declared the lands in question to be exempt from tithes, or by instances of exception of tithes in leases by impropriate rector. Wood, B. dissentiente. Meade v. Norbury, 2 Price, 338. PRESUMPTION OF GRANT.

An account of tithes is consequential upon the legal right, and therefore if the least doubt is thrown upon it by prima facie evidence, the account cannot be decreed till the right is established at law. Forcroft v. Parris, 5 Ves. 221. TITLE; ACCOUNT.

To establish the rector's right to tithes, and for an account, the defence though informally stated as a prescription de non decimando in a que estate was, as to two-thirds possession by the lord of the manor, under an apparent title by various conveyances, &c. stated by the answer, from 37 Hen. 8, of the lands with tithes generally, or two-thirds specifically, with evidence of reputation and notice to the plaintiff who had purchased the advowson and was lessee of the tithes, but the commencement of the title did not appear: the bill was dismissed with costs. Sirutt v. Baker, 2 Ves. J. 625.

An inclosure act directed part of a waste to be sold; tithe free, to defray the expenses of the inclosure: the rector was not otherwise a party; and the saving clause was, of all claims except of the lord and of the commoners; yet the rector's right to the tithes of the waste sold tithe-free, was gone. These inclosure bills are not to be considered as merely private acts. Riddell v. White, 1 Anst. 281.

In a suit by the vicar for agistment tithe, the endowment was lost; but he produced an old extent of the rights of the impropriators and tithers, in support of his claim to all small tithes, except wool and lambs; tithe of agistment had never been paid in the parish; the defendant was in the occupation of land in the parish, and also of the other tithes, which he claimed as rector. The court decreed for the vicar without an issue. Garnons v. Barnard, 1 Anst. 296. Decree reversed in H. of L. and issue directed, see 3 Anst. 926.

One entire payment may be due for many distinct sorts of tithes; it is no objection that it falls unequally on the parishioners by being as heavy on the occupiers of small, as of large tenements and farms. Bennet v. Read, 1 Anst. 327, 328.

A modus for agistment tithe paid to the rector, is a bar to the demand of that tithe by the vicar, although by the endowment he has all the small tithes. Ellis v. Saul, 1 Anst. 342. RECTOR & VICAR.

Where there is an old endowment of a vicarage, but the modern usage varies from it, there is ground to presume that the variance has arisen from the act of persons competent to make it. The endowment is not therefore conclusive evidence in favour of vicar, but his right is properly triable at law. Curr v. Henton, 7 Bro. P. C. 100. WAIVER, PRESUMPTION OF.

A modus bad in law, received by the vicar, is proof of endowment of the tithe for which the modus was paid. Travis v. Orton, 1 Anst. 309. MODUS; EVIDENCE.

In what cases and under what circumstances a person claiming title to tithes must have his right established at law, before he can come into a court of equity for an account and satisfaction. Hawtrey v. Daniel, 7 Bro. P. C. 21. TITLE.

Representatives of a rector not permitted to enforce payment of tithes, which the rector never demanded. Curt v. Hodgkin, 3 Swan. 161. EXECUTORS.

In a suit by a vicar for tithes, the occupiers insist on certain exemptions, but the impropriator by his answer admits the vicar to be entitled to all tithes, except corn and grain. On this admission the court decreed for the vicar, without hearing the evidence touching the exceptions; but this decree was reversed on an appeal, and the court was ordered to hear the cause upon the pleadings and proofs. Berkley v. Fox, 3 Bro. P. C. 618. ADMISSIONS OF TITLE.

A perpetual curate removable at pleasure, cannot maintain a bill for tithes. Price v. Pratt, Bunt. 273. TITLE.

Bill by a lay impropriator for tithe hay; he derived his title under a grant from Jac. 1, but it appearing that no tithe had been paid since the grant, the bill was dismissed. Stone v. Rideout, Bunt. 262. Id.

Tithe of peas and beans shall be paid to the impropriator, if the vicar doth not shew an endowment or usage to the contrary. Gumley v. Burt, Bunt. 169. Id.

Tithes for agistment of cattle, are payable by the owner of cattle. So in the case of commoners. Pory v. Wright, Hard. 182. Id.

A vicar has the same right to all tithes in his endowment as a rector has of common right. Fox v. Rutty, Bunt. 37. See quare, if a vicar has received for many years tithes, not mentioned in his endowment, whether subsequent augmentation or endowment, shall not be presumed. Twiss v. Brazenrose Coll. Oxon, Hard. 328.

III. OF WHAT PAYABLE.

Wood used for hop poles upon the farm, for hurdles, for hurdling sheep, for repairing hedges, for land draining on the farm, and for fuel in the husbandry house, is not exempt from tithes by the common law, but may be so by custom. Illys v. Storie, 1 Y. & J. 262.

As to tithe for oak-wood springing from stumps or germins of eighty years old trees, formerly felled. Evans v. Howe, 1 McClell & Y. 577.

In construing the stat. of the 45th of Edw. 3. ch. 3, with reference to the law on questions of the tithe of wood, the phrase gros-bois or great wood, held to mean wood of the original trees which either are timber by common law, or are accounted timber by local custom when of twenty years' growth or upwards. Evans v. George, 12 Price, 76.

Of such timber trees, these only which are termed maiden trees or trees sprung from seed or mast, and have attained twenty years' growth, are exempt from tithe of wood as timber. Id.

Germins, or trees of whatever age or size they may be growing from old stools, stumps of roots of timber trees which have been felled; held, not to be so exempt by reason of the privilege of timber. Id.

Wood springing from the roots or stools of trees is titheable, and neither its own age, nor the age of the trees from the roots or stools of which it sprung, will exempt it. Chichester v. Sheldon, 1 Turn. & R. 245. TIMBER.

As to tithes of Mills, see Manby v. Taylor, 9 Pri. 249. MILLS.

It is a fraud in equity to remove sheep fed in one parish to another before shearing and lambing seasons, and then driving them back again without accounting for tithe in the parish wherein they were depastured. Hall v. Maltby, 6 Price, 240. FRAUD.

Agistment tithe is not claimable for after-pasture, where lands have been mown in the same year, and paid tithe. Batchellor v. Smallcombe, 3 Mad. 12.

As to payment for keep of tithe animals. See Jenkinson v. Hayston, 5 Price, 495.

Account of tithes decreed of ancient mills, altered by addition of two new mill stones. Manby v. Taylor, 3 V. & B. 71. ACCOUNT.

A water-mill is titheable as a predial and local tithe in respect of the person to whom it is due, but as a personal tithe in the mode of accounting. Hall v. Blachet, 3 Anst. 915.

Stubble mowed, and used as fodder or manure, is not tithable. Tennant v. Stubbing, 3 Anst. 640.

Agistment is a predial tithe. Scarr v. Trin. Coll. 3 Anst. 760. PREDIAL TITHE.

Grass cut, and given green to the beasts of the plough, shall not pay tithe. Collyer v. Howse, 2 Anst. 481.

Where a tithable article has been introduced into a parish within time of memory, but the mode of tithing it has always been uniform, the court will support the established practice, semble. Baker v. Athili, 2 Anst. 492.

Horses kept on one farm for its cultivation, and used occasionally on another farm, in a different parish, shall not pay agistment-tithe; otherwise, if habitually so used. Filwood v. Button, 2 Anst. 498.

Sheep kept principally for the sake of folding, if sold out of the parish before shearing time, shall pay agistment-tithe. Howse v. Carter, 2 Anst. 500.

A modus of one penny for every sheep, and a half-penny for every lamb, brought into the parish after Candlemas, and sold out before shearing time, is a wool modus, not an agistment modus. Garnons v. Barnard, 1 Anst. 320. MODUS.

If a farm has a right of common appendant in another parish, tithe of wool paid for the same, discharges from agistment tithe of the sheep in both parishes. Riddell v. White, 1 Anst. 290. RIGHT OF COMMON.

Agistment tithe is not within the 2 & 3 Edw. 6. c. 13. s. 3. Ellis v. Saul, 1 Anst. 342. STATUTES, CONSTRUCTION OF.

Agistment tithe, is the tithe of the herbage eaten by cattle not tithable; it is not tithe of the improvement of the cattle. When grass has been cut for hay, no tithe is due for the after-pasture. Id. ib.

Lops and tops of ancient pollard oaks and ashes, are exempt from tithes; the use to which wood is applied, does not determine the right to tithes. Walton v. Tryon, Amb. 130. S. C. 1 Dick. 244.

All coppice woods are liable to tithes. Id. 131.

The circumstance of loppings being tenant right profits, and therefore not part of the inheritance affords no rule as to their liability to tithes. Id. ib.

The subsequent use of a thing cannot add a tithable quality to it, which he had not before. Id. 132. Id.

Wood cut, to be burnt in house, is not exempt of common right, but by special custom. Id. ib.

All timber trees of twenty years' growth, and their lops and tops are freed from tithes, to whatever use they are put, except in cases of fraud; and this is by the statute of silva cædua, 45 Edw. 3. Walton v. Tryon, Amb. 132. S. C. Dick. 244.

The statute of silva cædua is declarative of the common law. Id. ib.

Hornbeam not timber. Id. 133.

Germius growing from stools of old timber-trees pay tithes. Id. ib.

If timber-trees be cut before twenty years, the boughs and branches shall be always tithable. Id. ib.

Pollards that have once gained their privilege shall not lose it. Id. 134. Id.

It is a question of fact, whether beech of twenty years growth is timber. Id. 135.

By Edw. 6. c. 13, land in its own nature not fit for tillage, pays no tithe for seven years after improvement; but if not fit for tillage by reason of woods, &c. pays tithe presently after improvement. Stockwell v. Terry, 1 Ves. 115.

Tithes of fish are only payable by custom, and cannot be claimed as mere personal tithe deductis expensis. Kellynack v. Graves, 2 Bro. P. C. 446. CUSTOM.

Turkeys tithable; but if tithes are paid of eggs, then none to be paid for the chicken. Carleton v. Brightwell, 2 P. W. 462.

Mills are tithable, but they are only to pay a personal tithe of the clear gains, after all manner of charges deducted. Id. ib.

Acorns are small tithes, if gathered and sold; but if they drop from the trees in the season, and the owner's cattle eat them, they shall pay no tithe. S. C. Et vide Hett. 27.

Clover seed is a small tithe, and due to the vicar. Wallis v. Pain, Bunb. 344. 2 Com. Rep. 633.

Turnips (sown after the corn is cleared) fed with sheep and barren cattle, shall pay tithes. Swinfen v. Digby, Bunb. 314.

Vetches and clover are a great tithe, but when cut green for cattle used in husbandry, tithes are not due. Hayse v. Douce, Bunb. 279. But in Dorman v. Currey, (Dan. 206). Richards, C. B. said, this was a case which ought not to have been introduced into a book of reports. In Hodgson v. Smith, ibid. 279, (n.) it was held that tares, whether green or ripe, are a great tithe, and belong to the rector.

Tithe herbage shall not be paid for sheep shorn out of the parish, because they are animalia fructuosa. Pow v. Seymour, Bunb. 313.

Tithes are payable for the after-depasturing of sheep on turnips, &c. Coleman v. Barker, Gilb. Ex. Rep. 231.

Head-lands only large enough to turn the plough upon shall not pay tithe; neither shall an ancient mill. Chapman v. Barlow, Bunb. 184.

Black cherries growing wild in hedges, and used as fences, shall pay tithe. S. C.

Bill for tithe of lambs; the ewes were kept by defendant in the parish of D. (where the demand lay) all the year until Christmas; when they were ready to drop their lambs, he removed to the parish of S. (where there was only a small modus for lambs), and there kept until Lady-day, for the convenience of forage; and at Lady-day they were driven back to D. Plaintiff complained of this as a fraud in the tithing. Per curiam, here is not a sufficient proof of fraud, and plaintiff's bill was dismissed. Boys v. Ellis, Bunb. 139. Tithe of lambs is not divisible, as wool is. S. C. FRAUD; EVIDENCE.

Bill for tithe wood in the forest of Dean, by virtue of a grant of all tithes, issuing de assartis, within the forest, de novo assartatis et assartandis; upon proof, it appeared that the lands were always wood-lands and never grubbed up, and that no tithe was ever paid. The court construed the meaning of assart to be only such lands as have been grubbed up and made fit for tillage, and dismissed the bill. Evans v. Newell, Bunb. 128. Bond v. Barrow, ibid. 312.

Wood-ground grubbed up pays tithe, and is not exempt for seven years as barren land, within the statute Edw. 6. Beardmore v. Gilbert, Bunb. 159.

Timber trees above twenty years' growth are tithable, if cut and corded for fuel, alteri nom. Greenaway v. Kent, Bunb. 98. And it is not the growth of the trees alone that will privilege them, but the use that is made of them. Buckle v. Vaucre, Aston v. Smith, Franklin v. Jones, Collier v. Leyfield, Bunb. 99, (n.).

Lamb's wool shall pay tithe, though the lambs had paid tithe two months before; and tithe shall be paid for agistment of yearlings, because a new increase. Baker v. Sweet, Bunb. 90.

Whether tithe-wood was due of common right, the court would not determine. Jordan v. Colley, Bunb. 61.

Bill for tithe of fish, taken at sea, brought within the parish of H, and there sold, and also for fish sold at sea, and the vessel brought back to the parish of

H., also for fish taken by the inhabitants, and sold at another port. Plaintiff was impropriate rector of the parish of H, and claimed the tithe as due by custom; but he did not prove his custom. Held, a good custom, for one tithe may be paid by custom, and another by common right. J.d. Scarborough v. Hunter, Bunb. 43.

Peas and beans planted in rows are small tithes. Nichols v. Elliot, Bunb. 19. Tithe milk should pay every tenth meal where there is no custom. Bate v. Sprackling, Bunb. 20.

All the garden ground in England shall pay tithe; and turnips, though pulled and sowed ever so often on the same land, shall pay tithe. So shall aftermath pay tithe, but not after-pasture, unless by custom, ut semble, set quere? Benson v. Watkins, Bunb. 10.

Hop-poles shall not pay tithe, nor hops till they are picked, and then every tenth measure before they are dried. Bate v. Sprackling, Bunb. 20.

Saddle horses shall pay no tithe, neither shall cattle for the plough or pale, nor cattle killed for the use of a man's own family. Underwood v. Gibbon, Bunb. 8. Fisher v. Leman, ib. (n).

If a man depastures unprofitable cattle, he shall pay tithe in proportion to the number of the cattle, and the value of the land, generally at the rate of two shillings in the pound; so if they are travelling cattle which come and go. Smith v. Johnson, Bunb. 1.

No are cattle fed on a meadow ground after it is mowed, unless a custom be to the contrary. Smith v. Johnson, Bunb. 1. And where tithe is payable, it shall be paid by the occupier of the ground, and not by the agistor. Underwood v. Gibbon, Bunb. 3.

Though beasts of the plough are exempt from tithe, because by the labour of such cattle, tithes of another kind arise; yet if oxen are turned to grass, and fattened for sale, they shall from such time pay tithe for the herbage they eat, being in no wise beneficial to the paison in any other tithe. Edmond v. Sandys, Show. P. C. 192.

By 2 & 3 Edw. 6. c. 13. s. 5, all barren heath or waste land shall pay tithe after seven years' improvement and conversion into arable or meadow; and the suggestion for a prohibition against the spiritual court must be proved within six months after the prohibition granted, for it is an affirmative suggestion, which six months shall be computed by the calendar, and begin to run from the teste of the prohibition. Thomas v. Gifford, 2 Show. 92. Straker v. Baynes, id. 308. INCLOSURE OF COMMON.

If a man has a nursery of trees, and sells them, and pulls them up himself, he shall pay the tithe, otherwise the vendee shall pay it, as in the case of corn sold standing; but if sold after severance, the vendor must pay it. Grant v. Hedding, Haid. 380.

Tithes for barren cattle are due of common right, according to the value of the land, but they may be paid for by custom or prescription. Holbeech v. Whadcocke, Haid. 184.

Tithes payable by custom, shall be paid though the lands be not rented. S. C.

Tithes are payable for herbage eaten by travellers' horses. Guilbert v. Peersley, Haid. 35.

Where vicar is by endowment entitled to tithes of peas and beans, set and planted in rows in garden-like manner, the use of plough instead of a spade makes no difference. Austen v. Nicholas, 7 Bro. P. C. 9.

Tithes of rectory which belonged to a dissolved abbey are due to the grantee of the crown, and not to the incumbent rector. Turner v. Smith, 7 Bro. P. C. 10.

Tithes are not due by particular custom. Buxton v. Hutchinson, 2 Vern. 46.

IV. SETTING OUT, AND HOW PAYABLE, AND CARRYING AWAY.

Where peas grown in fields, but gathered green, were gathered by women and children in small baskets or aprons, and from those emptied into sacks, each sack being computed and intended to contain three bushels, and when the sacks amounted in number to ten, one sack was set out for the tithe, and when there were not ten, each sack was calculated to contain three bushels, and upon that presumption a tenth of the whole was measured out and tendered for the tithe, and if there were a surplus over ten sacks, the surplus was measured in the same manner: held, that this was a good mode of setting out the tithe, though it was objected by the vicar, that the peas ought not to be put into sacks till the evening, and he had seen the whole measured, and by that means knew that he had the actual tenth; it being, however, shewn in evidence, that it was the usual mode of tithing in the neighbourhood, and that any other mode would greatly injure the peas, as exposure to sun and air for any time after they were gathered, would destroy their bloom, and diminish their value in the market; it being also shewn in evidence that the sack was a measure of three bushels, and that the occupier gave the vicar his choice of sacks, and did not insist upon his accepting the sack without giving him an opportunity of seeing and measuring the contents of any of the sacks he chose. Fanshawe v. Brettain, 2 Y. & J. 395. PEAS.

The incumbent is entitled to the milk of the tenth day, morning and evening, and not to the tenth meal, and the milk of the whole herd of cows must be rendered on one and the same day. Id. ib. MILK.

The tithe of lambs is due when the animals are dropped, but payable when they are able to live without their dams; and therefore, where the occupier removed lambs out of the parish, immediately after they were dropped, held that he was liable to pay for the value, when fit to be weaned. Id. ib. LAMBS.

It is easy to state the principle on which the tithe of vegetables in a garden, gathered for the consumption of a family, is to be rendered, but very difficult to imagine in what manner the principle is to be applied in practice, and therefore requires a mutual spirit of accommodation on the part of the vicar and the occupier. Id. ib. GARDENS.

Defendant in suit by bill in equity for tithes, relying on defence of tithes having been duly set out may, (notwithstanding cause be at issue,) bring action of trespass for not carrying them away. Court refused injunction to restrain him. Bradley v. Bensted, 13 Pri. 221. S. C. 1 McJel. 80. INJUNC. TO STAY PROCEEDINGS AT LAW.

The tithe of calves is to be set out when they are fit to be weaned, and to live alone on the same food with the cow. Bearblack v. Tyler, 1 Jac. 560. CALVES.

The proper mode of tithing hay is by the fork and rake. Id. ib. HAY.

The rule that involuntary rakings are not tithable, does not extend to hay. Id. ib.

The tithe of the clear profit being only due, the rent is the first deduction; and in the case of a new mill in the occupation of the owner, a yearly value in the nature of a rent, is to be set upon it and deducted. Hull v. Mallett, 3 Anst. 915.

A farmer may cut down a field in any portions most convenient, provided he sets out the tithe of all then cut down, before any is carried, and provided it be not done vexatiously. Id. ib.

Clover hay is tithable in the cock, not in the swathe. Cottger v. Hooves, 3 Anst. 954. CLOVER.

But where, by the usual mode of husbandry, clover-hay is not made into cocks at all, the farmer may set out the tithes in the swathe. S. C. 2 Anst. 481. S. P. Baker v. Athili, id. 491.

Setting out tithes cannot be dispensed with, even although the uncertainty of the weather prevents the corn from being put in shocks at all. Franklyn v. Gooch, 3 Anst. 682. CORN.

A custom of tithing, by throwing aside every tenth sheaf, as the corn is about to be carried, is bad. Tithes must be set out so that the rector may compare them with the other parts. Where, by the custom, notice of tithing is to be given, an hour's notice is not sufficient. Tennant v. Stubbing, id. 641. CORN.

Where tithe of milk is due in kind, it must be set out by every tenth morning's meal, and every tenth evening's meal. Cullimore v. Bosworth, 7 Bro. P. C. 57. MILK.

The tithe of hops is to be set out by the tenth measure after they are picked, and not by the tenth hill, as soon as the vines are severed from the ground. Tyers v. Walton, id. 18. HOPS.

Tithes of wool are due at shearing-time, and is a satisfaction for pasturage for the year past, ending at that time, but not for subsequent pasturage. If the farmer, after shearing-time depasture sheep, and sell them before the next shearing time, tithe of pasturage is due for them. — v. Gold, Anbl. 149. WOOL.

Tithes of wood must be set out on the spot at the time of felling; it is impossible at the time of cutting, to say to what use it will be applied. Watten v. Truon, id. 132. S. C. 1 Dick. 244. WOOD.

Tithe milk must be set out in vessels at the common milking place. Carthew v. Edwards, Anbl. 72. MILK.

Parishioners only bound to cut the grass, and to lay it into heaps or cocks, but not bound to make it into hay. For v. Ayde, 21 W. 523. GRASS & HAY.

Tithes of hay ought to be paid in grass cocks. Smithson v. Dodson, 9 Mod. 117.

The usual time for tithing lambs, is when they can live without a dam, (about Michaelmas) a custom therefore to tithe them on St. Mark's day, 25th April, was held unreasonable. Reignolds v. Vincent, Bunb. 133. CUSTOM; LAMBS.

If there be any custom in a parish for the manner of tithing milk, as to carry it to the church porch, or parsonage house, that must be observed by the parishioner; but if there be no particular custom, the parishioner is obliged, de jure, to pay a tenth meal, to milk the cows at the usual place of milking into his pails, and the parson is obliged to fetch it away from the milking place in his own pails, in a reasonable time; but if he does not fetch it before the next milking time, the parishioner may justify the pouring the milk on the ground, because he then has occasion for his own pails. Dodson v. Oliver, Bunb. 73. Vide Carthew v. Edwards, Anbl. 72. MILK.

Parishioners are only bound to cut the grass and lay it into cocks, but not to make it into hay. For v. Ayde, 2 P. W. 523. Vide Woodnoth v. Ld. Cobham, Bunb. 180. Bennet v. Peart, in Scacc. 1786. GRASS & HAY.

If trees in a nursery are sold after severance, the vendor must pay the tithe. Grant v. Harding, Haml. 380. NURSERY GARDENS.

In debt for not setting out tithes, the setting them out and taking them away by plaintiff himself, is not good within the statute 2 & 3 Edw. 6. c. 16. Set serus, if taken away by a stranger. Anon. 2 Show. 184.

V. WHETHER GREAT OR SMALL.

The tithe of tare seed held to be a small tithe. Daws v. Benn, 1 Jac. 95.

Agistment is a predial tithe. Scarr v. Trin. Coll. 3 Anst. 760. AGISTMENT TITHE.

The tithe of a horse malt-mill is a personal tithe, and the tenth part of the clear profits arising from corn ground in such mill, over and above all incidental charges, is to be paid as the tithes thereof, and the corn ground therein is to be tithed by the tenth toll-dish. Chamberlaine v. Neute, 7 Bro. P. C. 3.

Tithes are by law denominated and adjudged great and small, according to the nature of the thing, and not from the mode of cultivation; therefore, tithes of beans and peas, whether sown in fields or gardens, are great tithes, and do not fall under the denomination of tithes of gardens. Sims v. Bennet, id. 29. S. C. 1 Eden, 382.

Potatoes being in their nature a small tithe, the sowing them in great quantities makes no alteration. Smith v. Hyatt, 2 Atk. 364. S. C. 9 Mod. 336.

The distinction between great and small tithes might arise at first from the former producing greater, and the latter smaller quantities. S. C. ib.

Though Lord Ch. J. Holt, in Warton v. Lisle, held tithes should be determined, whether great or small, from their quantity, the judgment was contrary. S. C. ib.

If potatoes in gardens should be called small tithes, and great in fields, it must vary every year in every parish. S. C. ib.

Where arable is turned into pasture, it is an agistment tithe, and become a small one, from a great one. S. C. ib.

Clover-seed is a small tithe, and as such, due to vicar. Wallis v. Pain, 2 Com. 633.

VI. SUITS FOR, AND PLEADING, AND EVIDENCE RELATING TO.

An account of tithes in kind decreed, notwithstanding evidence of payment of certain customary payments for upwards of a century, and evidence that numerous bills had been filed by vicars, but had been subsequently abandoned, it appearing from the depositions and proceedings in an old cause, rather more than a century back that the customary payments did not then exist, but that the then vicar had endeavoured to set them up. Jackson v. Morris, 1 Y. & J. 275.

The defendant having set up a farm modus, in answer to a bill for tithes, issues were directed to try whether the ancient farm consisted of the lands mentioned in the answer, and whether a certain modus had been immemorially payable for the tithes arising upon it. The jury found that the farm consisted of these lands, together with four other closes, and was covered by a modus. The circumstance, that the jury found the ancient farm to consist of other lands, besides those mentioned in the pleadings, is no ground for a new trial, unless the plaintiff can show that he has evidence with respect to those four closes, which, upon the supposition that they are parcels of the alleged ancient farm, might materially vary the substance of the case. Baileu v. Sewell, 1 Russ. 239. MODUS; NEW TRIAL OF ISSUE.

Court will not, on motion, order depositions in tithe cause in exchequer to be read in a tithe cause in this court, against other occupiers of land in same parish, though objects of both suits, and the interest of parties, were the same. Goodenough v. Alway, 2 S. & S. 481.

Where, in a suit for tithes, the question depends entirely on the construction of ancient documents, the judge in equity is more competent than a jury, and in such case, an issue will not be directed. Fisher v. Ld. Graves, 1 McCl. & Y. 362. ISSUE AT LAW.

Vicar after issue, directed to try modus, suffering modus, to be taken pro confesso, pays costs. Drake v. Smith, id. 380. ISSUE AT LAW; COSTS.

As to costs in general, of issue at law, relative to tithes, see id. ib.

An account of tithe hay being decreed, the defendant appealed from so much as directed an account in respect of lands in the township of S; and the decree was to that extent ultimately reversed, pending the appeal the plaintiff took the account as to all the lands, including those in the township of S; the court on application declining to restrain him from so doing. On an application for costs, held, that it was convenient that the whole account should be taken at the same time, and refused to make plaintiff pay costs of account, as to the township of S, but made him pay his own costs in respect of that part of the account. Id. ib. COSTS; ACCOUNT.

Particular course pursued on hearing of tithe cause. Low v. Firkins, 1 M'Clel. 595. S. P. Drake v. Smith, 5 Pri. 375. PR. HEARING.

Bill praying account of tithes, and merely stating that impropriate rector demised tithes to plaintiff, demurred to for want of title; but on argument plaintiff was allowed to amend by making impropriate rector a party, on payment of 5*l.* costs. Jackson v. Benson, 1 M'Clel. 62. S. C. 13 Pri. 131. PL. PARTIES; PL. BILL, AMENDMT.

It is not uncertain or multifarious in bill for account of tithes, bill having stated as the foundation for plaintiff's claim, a decree made pursuant to act of parliament, also to charge two other distinct sources from which he derives his right, and on which he rests his title, the basis of those two latter being, first an agreement anterior to decree, charged to have been confirmed by act of parliament passed ten years before former act; and secondly, custom founded on immemorial usage, there being nothing uncertain or real. Owen v. Nodin, 13 Pri. 478. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 238. PL. BILL, MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

If claim of plaintiff in tithe suit be larger than he can support, the court will give costs against him for the excess up to the time of his giving notice of abandoning any part of the excessive demand by the bill. Wolley v. Brownhill, 13 Pri. 500. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 317. PR. COSTS.

* Plaintiff, in suit for tithes, having commenced action at law for treble value, ordered on motion to elect law, or equity within six days, with costs on either course abandoned, and of the motion. Taunton v. Glude, 10 Pri. 129. PR. ELECTION, LAW OR EQUITY.

Bill to enforce contribution under an agreement, by owners and occupiers of land in a parish, to defend and prosecute tithe suits at joint expence dismissed upon doubtful evidence, and long delay. Stone v. Yea, 1 Jac. 426. CONTRIBUTION; CHAMBERLIN.

Construction and effect of very ancient documentary evidence, (opposed to a case of uninterrupted non-payment,) in a suit for tithes, as applied to the claim, and to a defence of prescription in non decimando, on the ground of the lands having belonged to a religious house. To support such a defence, the lands must be shown to have belonged to a religious house before time of legal memory; it is not sufficient to show that lands were in the hands of religious house at time of dissolution. Markham v. Smyth, 11 Pri. 126. EVID.

In claiming an exemption from tithes for particular lands, they must be accurately described in defendant's pleadings and their local situation, &c. Id. ib.

Where defendant in tithe cause submits to part of plaintiff's demand, the court will, on motion for that purpose, on part of defendant refer it to master in any stage of proceedings, to ascertain what is due, and to tax costs, the defendant undertaking to pay the amount, without prejudice to any other question in the cause. Low v. Firkins, id. 453. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER; PR. WITHDRAWING FROM CAUSE.

Where defendant in tithe cause sets up modus, and is desirous of protecting himself from costs, he should move for an order that plaintiff accept sums admitted to be due by answer, or proceed at peril of costs, and court will notice such tender by minute. The motion may be made without notice, or payment of money into court. Davis v. Moseley, 9 Pri. 211. MODUS; PR. COSTS; PR. PAYMT. INTO COURT.

Vicar demanding certain specific tithes by his bill, nominatim, is not precluded from giving evidence of other tithes due to him for other titheable matters taken by defendants, where there is in the bill a general claim of all other tithes usually denominated small tithes. Manby v. Lodge, id. 231. PL. BILL.

A bill for an account of tithes received from the occupiers by a person claiming under an adverse legal title, will not lie. Bp. of St. Asaph v. Williams, 1 Jac. 349. ACCOUNT.

In a suit by an impropriate rector for tithes, when the defence is, that the tithe in question is vicarial, and vicar, who is a defendant, dies during the suit, it is not necessary to make the new vicar a party, if the plaintiff will waive the account subsequent to his induction. Duvs v. Benn, id. 95. PL. PARTY.

It is the duty of courts of equity to decree tithes in kind, when satisfied that modus is either bad, or has not immemorially existed. Short v. Lee, 2 J. & W. 464.

It is multifarious for rector and vicar to join in suit for tithes respectively due to them. Exeter Coll. v. Rowland, 6 Mad. 94. PL. MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

The vicar is a necessary party to a bill for tithes, by the impropriate rector against an occupier, when the defence made is, that the tithes in question are payable to him. Duvs v. Benn, 1 Jac. & W. 513. PL. PARTY.

Where evidence in support of tithes, and in support of modus, were very strong and conflicting, it was sent to issue to determine question. Taylor v. Cook, 8 Price, 650.

Defendant, in answer to bill for account of tithes in kind, must set forth an account of titheable matters taken by him, although he relies on a defence of a composition or modus; or it will be a ground of exception. Whistler v. Wigney, 8 Price, 1. MODUS; ACCOUNT; PL. ANSWER.

To bill against occupier for amount of tithes, arising from farms and lands situate within the township of K, in the parish of L; a plea, that defendant did not occupy any lands or farm within parish of L, or the titheable places thereof, allowed. Warrington v. Mothersill, 7 Price, 666. PL. PLEA.

If vicar, claiming an account of tithes throughout the whole parish, by bill in equity, prove his right in part of the parish only, the objection, that the claim is too largely laid, is not a ground for dismissing the bill. Scott v. Lawson, 7 Price, 267. PR. BILL DISMISSAL OF.

The court will not, on bill for tithes, praying discovery of documentary evidence, order the book of former rector, shown to have been in the possession of defendant's attorney, unless it clearly appear, from admissions in the answer, that it would assist plaintiff's case. But if there be enough shown to give colour for the application, court will not give costs to defendant. Bligh v. Benson, 7 Price, 205. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS.

As to the preponderance of conflicting evidence as to title, in tithe causes. Petch v. Dalton, 6 Price, 232. EVID.

A defendant, insisting on a modus as an outner, must prove himself to have been such at the time his lands became titheable, his being so described in the bill not sufficient. Lake v. Skinner, 1 Jac. & W. 9.

As to evidence of money payments in tithe causes. Drake v. Smyth, 5 Price, 369. PR. EVID.

Defendant was permitted to go into evidence of his right to tithes, where his title appeared likely to be clearly established, although he had inaccurately stated the subject matter of his defence in his answer. Wilmot v. Hellaby, 5 Price, 355. PL. ANSWER.

Vicar claiming title of hay may establish his right by sufficient proof of perception during living memory, where none can be shewn to have been enjoyed by rector, although his endowment actually negative his right to that title expressly, and state it to belong to rector, on presumption of a subsequent endowment, which the court is bound to adopt. Parsons v. Hellamy, 4 Price, 190. EVIN.

Perception of tithes by means of a composition which has always been understood by the parties to have been paid for tithes hay, is as strong evidence as if it had been paid in kind. And perception by vicar for a considerable period, where its inception cannot be shewn, and is not met by perception by rector, or any other person, is a sufficient proof of usage to ground a presumption of perception long anterior, and of its having been founded on subsequent endowment; nor will court grant an issue for the rector. A receipt for payment (by person sued by vicar for tithes) of plaintiff's bill of costs, is evidence of suit having resulted in favour of vicar. So also is an entry to that effect in a former vicar's books. Id. ib.

Evidence so old as to be unintelligible, issue was directed. Evidence of reputation of certain lands having been enclosed, in pursuance of agreement, not admissible. Copy of a lost terrier rejected. Leathers v. Newitt, 4 Price, 350. EVIN.

Rector ought not to be made defendant in vicar's suit, for an account of small tithes charged to be withheld by occupiers on a claim by rector. Williams v. Price, 4 Price, 156. ACCOUNT; PL. PARTIES.

Rector is entitled to an issue at law as a matter of right, where he sues alone. Id. ib. ISSUE AT LAW.

To make out a defence to a bill for tithes, of a composition real, it is not enough to shew that the same money payment has been constantly received in satisfaction of tithes for a considerable period before 13 Eliz. But evidence must be given of the existence of an agreement in writing, and made between all proper parties interested; nor will issue be granted on such evidence, or costs allowed to those defendants who are occupiers. Bennett v. Sheffington, 4 Price, 143. EVIN.

Vicar's books are evidence to show that the money payments received in lieu of tithes, are founded on, and regulated by, a criterion not in existence beyond legal memory, e. g. the poor rates. Walter v. Holman, 4 Price, 171. IB.

Courts of equity are not bound in title causes to any limitation, in point of time, for which tithes are sought, although, a conventioni, it has been usual to confine the account to the period of six years, where court sees no reason to depart from such usage. Wardens, &c. of St. Paul v. Bp. of Lincoln, 4 Price, 86. ACCOUNT, HOW FAR BACK.

The amount of money payments laid as moduses in answer to vicar's claim, being totally inconsistent with value of vicarage, as established by ancient documents, usually put in evidence, is not sufficient (where the payments have been uniform and uninterrupted) to induce the court to dispense with an issue. It seems no objection to lay a modus, that it excepts articles of modern introduction speciatim. See v. Hockley, 4 Price, 87. PL. ANSWER.

Non-perception of vicarial tithes, by either vicar or rector, (the latter admitting vicar's right, except as to certain titheable articles, there being no third claimant,) in certain parts of parish throughout which vicar receive some small tithes, is negative evidence in favour of vicar's right to all other than excepted articles. Leathers v. Newitt, 4 Price, 374.

Old terriers recording that title of hay is payable in kind, signed by rector and churchwardens, over-seers, and some of resident parishioners are good evidence to rebut presumption of farm modus attempted to be established by proof of money payment having been uniformly rendered within living memory, and the absence of any evidence, even of reputation, that tithe had ever been taken in kind, and that, though such terriers are not proved to be signed by any persons interested in the farm. Wood, B. dissentiente. nor will the court grant an issue in such case. Mytton v. Harris, 3 Price, 19.

The ecclesiastical surveys are admissible to prove an ancient endowment, and aided by perception of small tithes (though not of all) will give the vicar a right to tithes of articles of modern introduction against the lessee of the rector. Cunliffe v. Taylor, 2 Price, 329. PL. EVIN.

Plea of title to bill by improper rector, for account of tithes, overruled. Heathcote v. Aldridge, 1 Mad. 236. PLA.; TITLE.

Endowment produced, shewing vicarage expressly endowed of hay, not sufficient to support bill for that tithe, without usage, against evidence of money payment to rector in lieu of hay. But grant from crown subsequent to endowment, including all tithes, in general words, not sufficient to overturn vicar's right without proof of perception. A particular and minute enumeration of several articles of endowment in that instrument, does not preclude vicar's right to other small tithes not therein mentioned. Munby v. Curtis, 2 Price, 284. See this case confirmed 9 Price, 231. ENDOWMENT OF VICARAGE.

In pleading, case proved should correspond with case laid. Therefore, where in answer to bill for tithes, certain customary payments were alleged, and some payments, which, from their smallness, appeared customary, were shewn in evidence, without making out moduses as laid, court of exchequer, without issue, decreed for plaintiff. Blake v. Teyzie, 3 Dow. 189. PL. PLA.

A receipt, even of more than fifty years old, offered to be put in to prove a money payment, purported by it to have been received in lieu of tithes, is not admissible in evidence of fact of such customary payment having been acted on, so as to establish a defence of a modus; unless it can be proved also who the parties to the receipt were, and in what character they stood, and unless proof be given of the handwriting, or death of the party giving it. Wood B. dissentiente. Munby v. Curtis, 1 Price, 225.

Rector is not entitled to issue, where defendant sets up a grant of a portion, and constant non-payment of tithes, which defence is not impeached by plaintiff. Barker v. Parker, Wightw. 397. ISSUE AT LAW.

Miller carrying on trade of mealman is obliged to discover, on suit for tithes, the quantity, though not the price of meal ground. Chapman v. Picher, Wightw. 15. PL. DISCOVERY.

To a bill to establish a customary payment in lieu of tithes, the ordinary must be a party. Gordon v. Simkinson, 11 Ves. 509. PL. PARTY.

A bill to establish a customary payment in lieu of tithes does not lie upon a simple demand of tithes without suit. Id. ib. PL. BILL.

Bill for tithes; answer admitting the right to one third, and submitting to account, and claiming the other two-thirds, under a title, devised from a grant by Queen Elizabeth, submitting to be examined upon interrogatories, but not setting forth a description of the lands, the defendants having gone into evidence in support of their claim, pressed to have the bill dismissed generally; the plaintiff pressed for a general account. The master of the rolls decreed an account as to one-third; and as to two-thirds, the plaintiff declining to try the right at law, dismissed the bill. Foxcroft v. Parrie, 5 Ves. 221. PL. ANSWER, ACCOUNT.

The right to compel an account for tithes being consequential to the legal title, and a rector having prima facie a title to all the tithes in turns, it seems that, in questions between the rector and vicar, a court of equity ought not to make a decree in consequence of their opinion, of the vicar's title, and in derogation of that of the rector, until the title of the vicar has been established by the decision of a jury; unless such title is made out in the most clear and satisfactory manner. Burnard v. Garnons, 7 Bro. P. C. 105. ACCOUNT; JURISDICTION.

Where a title to tithes in a layman is clearly made out, though not supported by possession, the court will decree an account, without an issue. Lygon v. Strutt, 2 Anst. 602. ACCOUNT; ISSUE AT LAW.

On bill for title of agistment of "barren and unprofitable cattle," defendant, from plaintiff's loose mode of pleading, supposing it not to relate to sheep, made no defence as to them. Court refused the account as to them. Turner v. Williams, 3 Anst. 829. PL. BILL; ACCOUNT.

In suit for account of tithes, defendant cannot pay money into court before answer. Hull v. Mathews, 2 Anst. 444. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT.

Where, in a suit for tithes, the title to the rectory is in issue, to a cross bill praying a discovery of the title, the rector cannot demur, although no other title is set up. Bozman v. Lygon, 1 Anst. 4. DEMURRER; DISCOVERY.

In a bill for the single value of tithes, it is not necessary expressly to waive the treble value. Wools v. Wolley, 1 Anst. 100. PL. BILL; WAIVER.

If more tithes are claimed than defendant has kinds of titheable goods, it is practice in exchequer to dismiss bill with costs. Anon. Loft. 66. PR. COSTS; PR. IN EXCH.; BILL, DISMISSAL OF.

Plaintiff sued for thirteen different species of tithes, and proved but one; yet the court decreed costs generally. Smith v. Morgan, Bunb. 335. But see reporter's note, id. PR. COSTS.

Where two defendants were sued for tithes, and one made default, the court decreed the whole costs against the other, and left him to get the contribution as he could. Lloyd v. Mackworth, Bunb. 138. PR. COSTS.

If to a bill for tithes, the defendant does not shew a previous tender, or make one by his answer, plaintiff shall have an account; if the tender be only by answer, defendant shall account with costs; but if made before, he shall save his costs. Anon. Bunb. 38. That a tender may be made after answer, Vide Rp. of Exeter v. Trenchard, id. 47. PR. COSIN; TENDER.

VIII. IN LONDON.

The right of exemption from tithes, and the mode of computing them in the deanery of St. Paul's, London. Wardens, &c. of St. Paul's v. Bp. of Lincoln, Price, 65.

A certain customary payment in London in lieu of tithes, may be good so as to exempt an individual house, if usually made a sufficient time to acquire the character of customary in the ecclesiastical court, though within time of memory, and not general through the place or parish. Warden, &c. of St. Paul's v. Kettil, 2 V. & B. 1.

Mere non-payment of tithes under stat. 37 Hen. 8. c. 12. is no answer to a claim for them; as it would be no answer to a claim for tithes at common law. Id.

Decree under the stat. 37 Hen. 8. for payment of tithes in London as to warehouses erected by the East India Company upon the site of old buildings, and occupied by them, at 2s. 9d. in the pound upon the value, to be let, without an issue, no specific customary payment in lieu of tithes being alleged. Autrobus v. E. I. Comp. 13 Ves. 9.

Notwithstanding the statute and decree 37 Hen. 8. c. 12. the court of chancery has jurisdiction upon the subject of tithes in London. An account was decreed according to the improved rent. Another defendant setting forth his lease at a low rent and a fine, and alleging by answer that he had never heard of any greater rent being paid, there being no evidence against it, was held liable only according to that rent. Warden, &c. of St. Paul's v. Crickett, 2 Ves. J. 563. JUNTS. MERRON; EVIN.

A parson sues for 2s. 9d. per pound for tithes of houses in London, under the stat. 37 Hen. 8. But an issue was directed to try whether less than that sum had ever been paid, although there was no proof of any regular modus. Bennet v. Treppas, 4 Bro. P. C. 650. ISSUE AT LAW.

By the stat. 37 Hen. 8. c. 1. all houses in London shall pay tithe according to their ordinances, except the houses of noblemen; therefore a surmise that a house in London was a priory, and discharged from tithe by the pope's bull, and by the stat. 31 Hen. 8. which gave the possessions to the crown, will not prevent a consultation being awarded on a prohibition prayed against a suit in the spiritual court. Green v. Pipe, Mos. 912.

A bill lies in the exchequer for non-payment of tithes in London, according to the decree in 37 Hen. 8. Langham v. Baker, Hard. 116.

Houses in St. Saviour's Southwark shall pay tithe, it being the only provision made for the minister. Pacock v. Titmarsh, Bunb. 102.

Bill by the vicar of Cripplegate for 2s. 9d. in the pound on the rent of houses, in the parish, pursuant to 37 Hen. 8. c. 12. Defendant set up certain customary payments in lieu: whereupon the court directed an issue to try the constant uniformity of such payments. Bennet v. Treppas, Bunb. 106. Gilb. Exch. Rep. 191.

The books of former rectors may be produced in evidence, upon an issue to try whether any variation had been as to sums paid for tithe in London. S. C. Bunb. 143.

VIII.* EASTER OFFERINGS, &c.

Oblations, obventions, and offerings, are one and the same thing; though obvention is the largest word, and is in the nature of tithe. Offerings are reckoned among personal tithes, and such as arise from the labour and industry of the parishioner, are payable by custom to the parson or vicar, either occasionally at sacraments, marriages, burials, churching of women, &c. or at constant stated periods, as at Easter, &c. By stat. 2 & 3 Edw. 6. c. 13. they are to be paid to the parson of the parish where the party dwells. 2 Inst. 659. 661. Grant's case, 11 Co. 16. Lawrence v. Jones, Bunb. 173. Egerton v. Still, id. 198.

Easter offerings are due of common right, though demanded by custom, for they are a composition for common tithes. Lawrence v. Jones, Bunb. 173. Egerton v. Still, id. 198. Carthew v. Edwards, Amb. 72.

IX. EXEMPTION AND DISCHARGE FROM, AND PRESCRIPTION DE NON DECIMANDO.

An exemption from tithes was claimed, as to certain copyholds, on the ground of unity of possession of the rectory, manor and lands in one of the greater monasteries, dissolved by 31 H. 8.: other copyholds of the manor had belonged to the monastery at the dissolution, and were subject to tithe: held, nevertheless, that the exemption was good, because the monastery might have granted out the latter copyholds before the union of the rectory, and the former after it. Monck v. Huskisson, 1 Sim. 280.

An exemption from tithes on the ground of the lands having belonged to a monastery of a privileged order, does not rest on prescription; but the owner must shew satisfactorily, that the monastery was seized of the lands before the council of Lateran, and also at the time of the dissolution. In order to support a general exemption in non decimando, it must be shewn, that the lands were part of the possessions of a monastery before the time of legal memory; but it is seldom that such fact can be distinctly proved, and therefore it must usually depend upon presumptive evidence. Norton v. Hammond, 1 Y. & J. 943.

Where a non decimando was set up for lands as part of the possessions of a monastery which was dissolved by, or came into the hands of Hen. 8., and the answer alleged, that such lands were, at the dissolution, in the hands or occupation of the abbot, discharged of all tithes, without stating in what manner they were discharged, whether by bull, order or prescription: the court, upon the effect of the whole answer, considered it might understand it to mean prescription. Where there are no ancient documents to support the presumption of a prescription non decimando, the modern evidence of usage must be carried back a great way to satisfy the court, that it is acting upon a presumption supported by usage of considerable antiquity. Pritchett v. Honeybourne, id. 135.

As to exemption of lands from tithes as having been part of possessions of abbey, at time of dissolution, which was also supported by evidence of non-payment, other parcel of the same man r, however, paying tithes. El. Curyfort v. Wells, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 600.

In making out a defence, grounded on an alleged discharge in the hands of the Hospitalers by prescription, it is not necessary to show possession by them at the time of memory: usage of non-payment, not, in the absence of all conflicting evidence, to be accounted for, except upon the hypothesis of such a discharge, constitutes a prima facie case of prescription. Donnison v. Elstey, id. 1.

The privileged orders were capable, like every other religious order, of having their lands discharged of tithes by a real composition or by prescription; the lessees, under the crown's grantee of lands, which had belonged to the knights of St. John of Jerusalem, and his under-tenant may defend themselves against a demand for tithes just as they might have done if their lands had belonged to an order not privileged. Id. ib.

Lands which were held discharged from tithes before time of memory, by one of the alien priories, and coming to the crown on their suppression, were granted to a lay person, and by him to one of the greater monasteries, in whose hands they remained till the dissolution, are no longer exempt. Page v. Wilson, 2 J. & W. 513.

A custom in part of a hundred, exempting hedges and hedge rows less than a rod in width from tithes of wood and underwood, is bad. Id. ib.

By common law all land is equally charged with tithe; there can be no exemption inherent in the land. Id. 528.

Lucerne, tares, clover, and all other artificial grasses cut green, and given severed to husbandry horses, &c. employed on the farm on which they are grown, are not, therefore, exempt by general custom, from the render of tithes, unless the farmer have no other fodder or sustenance of any sort on the farm on which such horses, &c. may be subsisted, without necessarily having recourse to such green food. Dorman v. Sears, 6 Price, 338.

The right of exemption from tithes, and the mode of computing them in the decimery of St. Paul's, London. Wardens, &c. of St. Paul's v. Bp. of Lincoln, 4 Price, 65. LONDON.

It is not sufficient for a vicar, who rests his case on presumption of an endowment from evidence of perception, to prove that he has received the tithes claimed, from the rest of the parish generally, and even from part of the district in which the defendant's lands are situate, unless he carry it to the parts for which the exception is claimed by the defence; and year not doing so, proof on the part of the defendants, that no tithe has ever been paid for their lands, will entitle them to an issue; nor will the ecclesiastical survey, stating vicar to be entitled to tithe in parish, generally supply the absence of proof of perception from the particular lands. Armstrong v. Hewitt, 4 Price, 216. PR. EVIDENCE.

If exemption is pleaded for lands as having belonged to a dissolved priory, and it is proved they belong to a free chapel, it is sufficient. Ward v. Shepherd, 3 Price, 620. PLA.

Where exemption was claimed under 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 13. issue was directed as to facts entitling party thereto. Kingsmill v. Billingsley, 3 Price, 465.

Consumption of titheable article in the family of the land occupier, is not a ground of exemption. Qu. as to green peas? Williamson v. Ld. Lonsdale, 5 Price, 25.

Church being void and dilapidated, is no ground of discharge from payment of small tithes to the improper rector on the notion of an agreement having been entered into between the rector and the parishioners, by which the ecclesiastical duties have been dispensed with, in consideration of abandonment of small tithes. Meade v. Norbury, 2 Price, 338.

To a bill for tithes, even by a lay impropriator, prescription in non decimando, or presumption from mere retainer, without colour of title, is no defence, and will not be sent to law. Berney v. Harvey, 17 Ves. 119.

A prescription in non decimando, can only be set up for a large tract of country, well known as a distinct district. Nagle v. Edwards, 3 Anst. 703.

The lessees of the land cannot claim to hold discharged of tithes under any covenant with his lessor. Brewer v. Hill, 2 Anst. 414. LANDL. & TENANT.

There cannot be prescription in non decimando against a lay impropriator; but it is not necessary to produce the deed of severance; it is sufficient to show that it existed: where defendant and those under whom he claimed, had been upwards of 130 years in the pernaney of the tithes, a bill by impropriator was dismissed. Fanshau v. Rotham, 1 Eden, 276.

At common law no man could avail himself of a discharge from tithes by grant without producing it. Id. 293.

The stat. of H. 8. is silent as to the manner in which a person must make out his right to tithes against the church or patentees standing in the place of the church; and only provides for the assurance and recovery of them, like temporal possessions in the king's court. Id. 294.

If lands were in possession of a greater monastery at the dissolution, and no evidence of payment of tithe, they shall be considered discharged. Lamprey v. Rooke, Amb. 291.

Prescription in non decimando even against a lay impropriator, held not good. Corp. of Bury St. Edmunds v. Evans, 2 Com. 643.

A prescription in non decimando cannot be supported against a lay impropriator, any more than against a spiritual rector. Charlton v. Charlton, Bunb. 325. Bury Corp. v. Evans, Bunb. 345. 2 Com. Rep. 651.

Bill by a lay impropriator for tithes of part of the possessions of the priors of St. John of Jerusalem, which were exempt quantum propriis manibus, &c. and then defendant set forth the stat. 31 H. 8. with the clause of discharge, and also the stat. 32 H. 8. whereby these priories with all privileges, &c. were vested in the crown, and that no tithes in kind had been paid to the crown ever since: held, a good exemption. Hanson v. Fielding, Bunb. 214. Gilb. Rep. 225.

The long-contested question, whether constant non-payment of tithes is evidence of an exemption against a lay impropriator, was agitated in this case, but not determined. Fisher v. Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Bunb. 209.

Unity of possession of a manor and rectory will not exempt the demesne lands from tithes, when they come to be severed. For v. Bardwell, 2 Com. Rep. 498. Bunb. 327.

* An exemption from tithe extends to a right of common as well as to the estate to which it is appurtenant. Lambert v. Cumming, Bunb. 138.

Lands which were parcel of a monastery of the Cistercian order are only discharged from tithes quandiu in propriis manibus; and the method to prove whether the lands were purchased before or after the council of Lateran, is to shew a payment of tithes, which will induce a presumption that they were purchased after. Lord v. Turk, id. 122.

Proof of exemption resting only on belief and hearsay, is not admissible. Clark v. Dushwood, id. 66.

Where an exemption from tithe is insisted upon, because the lands were parcel of one of the greater monasteries, plaintiff must show that the lands were in the abbot's hands, and that they were discharged in his hands; for the stat. 31 H. 8. extends only to such. Hanking v. Gay, id. 37.

Where the land in question is part of a bishop's palace, the exemption goes along with the land; but where the land was belonging to a monastery, the prescription must be set forth. Com. v. Douce, id. 26.

A county or a hundred cannot prescribe in non decimando for things titheable of common right; aliter if not titheable of common right. Hicks v. Woodson, 2 Salk. 655.

Trover for a lamb and a sheaf of wheat; upon not guilty pleaded, the jury found, that Fountain Abbey, being of the order of Cesteaux, was exempted from tithe of their lands, quos propriis manibus excolerent. That the abbot was seised of the lands in question before the council of Lateran. That between the years 1216 and 1261 there was a composition between the abbot of F and the prebendary of S under their common seals, whereby the abbey should be free from tithe of all lands, tilled at their own charge, within the grange of H, and they should pay as tithe for all other lands five marks yearly to the prebendary; and that another composition was made (which did not appear to be confirmed by the patron and ordinary) whereby the prebend and his successors in time to come, should yearly elect either to receive the tithes in kind, or five marks per ann. in lieu, to be notified to the abbot before St. Thomas's day; and if the prebend should elect to receive the money, his right to the tithes of lamb and wool should be paid as formerly; and they further found that the possessions of the abbey came to the crown by 31 H. 8. and that at the time of the trover defendants were proprietors of the lands in the grange of H, and that a lamb and sheaf were renovant upon the land, and whether or no tithes in kind should be paid for the lands was the question. Per Hale, C. B. By the first composition, the abbot only was discharged, but by the second, the abbot and his tenants were discharged of tithes of corn and hay only. The doubts in this case were, whether the second composition was good without a confirmation and an annual election, and also by whom and to whom notice was to be given since the dissolution. Afterwards this cause was argued again, when the court held that the second composition did not affect the successors of the prebend, and that therefore the abbot was not bound by it; for by the first composition the prebend and his successors were only bound quandiu, &c. and by the second composition the five marks go in recompense of all, whether in propriis manibus, or in the hands of the tenants. But to this it may be answered, that the successor may still elect whether to take the five marks or tithes in kind, and therefore he is at no prejudice: held also, that the power of election is gone, for it cannot now be made according to the composition, and that therefore the first composition should stand quoad terras in propriis manibus, and for the others, that tithe in kind may be taken as before. Judgment for defendant. Ingolsby v. Wivell, Hard. 381.

In a suit for tithe, defendant by answer set forth, that the lands were parcel of a priory, whose lands were discharged by order, yet held good. Page's Case, id. 322.

The king's prerogative will not discharge him from tithes for the ancient demesnes of the crown, though he be capable of a discharge de non decimando by prescription. Compest v. —, id. 315.

Upon a bill for tithe, an issue was directed to try if the lands in question belonged to any religious order that claimed to be discharged, quandiu in propriis manibus: held, that if the lands were in lease at the dissolution, or an estate for life or in tail were upon them, the reversioner should have the benefit of the discharge, for that was only suspended during the particular estates; but if an escheat had happened, it was doubtful whether they would have been discharged, having been aliened by feoffment before the statute of quia emptores terrarum, by an abbey, to hold of them by certain services. Secus, of a discharge by unity, for that must be perpetual, and continue so at the time of the dissolution. Wilson v. Redman, Hard. 190. Vide Harpur's Case, 11 Co. 23. Archbp. Canterbury's Case, 2 Co. 46.

A tenant for life or years is not within the statute for discharging tithes heretofore part of the possessions of a Cistercian Abbey; but a tenant in tail having the inheritance, is discharged, quandiu in propriis manibus, &c. Wilson v. Redman, Hard. 174.

Unity of possession of manor and rectory, will not exempt demesne lands from payment of tithes, when they come to be severed. For v. Bardwell, 2 Com. 498.

Lands exempted from tithes, as being part of the demesnes of an ancient monastery, when enclosed by act of parliament, shall not be made liable to tithes by the general words of the act. P Pratt v. Hopkins, 7 Bro. P. C. 12. INCLOSURE ACT.

Plea of stat. 13 Eliz. c. 20. for non-residence, was allowed to bill by lessee of tithes. Bokenham v. Benfield, 1 Com. 392. PL. PLEA OF NON-RESIDENCE; STATUTES C. OF.

He who hath the inheritance of the Cistercians, Hospitalers, and Templars, is discharged from tithes, but his lessees &c. shall pay them. Stathome's case, Dyer, 277. pl. 60.

X. MODUS.

1. Validity.

2. Suits and Evidence thereon in establishing Modus by Bill, or as a defence by Plea, &c.

1. Validity.

Moduses of three halfpence for every cow calving and being milked, within the year ending at Easter, in lieu of the tithe of milk and calf of every such cow; of one penny for every cow not calving, but being milked, within the year ending at Easter, in lieu of the tithe of milk of such cow; of four pence for every colt foaled; of three pence for every lamb; of one penny for every sheep shorn, in lieu of the tithe of wool; and of one penny for every garden, in lieu of tithes of the produce of such garden: Held good moduses, but issues offered. Pierrepoint v. Scarlet, 2 Y. & J. 330.

Issue directed to try a modus of 37l. a year, payable half-yearly, alleged to be payable in lieu and satisfaction of all the vicarial tithes of certain farms, constituting a particular hamlet within the parish, notwithstanding the presumptive rankness of the modus; and though it appeared from ancient documents that the whole tithes of the land in the parish, at a date long subsequent to the time of legal memory, were of less annual value than the sum pleaded as a modus, and notwithstanding there was no evidence of any payment of tithes; the validity of the ancient documents, and their application to the subject being, however, questioned, and a great deal of parol testimony being adduced in support of the modus, uncontradicted by any parol evidence to the contrary. Strong v. Denchfield, 2 Y. & J. 594.

Where a township modus of 5l. 3s. 10<sup>3</sup>4. was pleaded as covering all the lands in a particular township, in lieu of predial tithes, and it appeared from the evidence, that for a great many years several small sums, amounting to about the sum pleaded, had been paid by the inhabitants severally, and not collectively, to the rector, the court held that though some of the payments might be good moduses, or prescriptive payments for their respective farms, yet that they could not together make a good township modus. To render a township modus good, it ought to be payable by each and every of the inhabitants, and ought not to be collected by the rector. Jackson v. Benson, 2 Y. & J. 45.

The defendants to a bill by a rector for tithes of hay, set up a modus of two pence for each load of hay, of the weight of one ton, payable at Easter by the several occupiers in lieu of tithes of hay grown from Easter in the year preceding inclusive; and they, by their answer, further stated that the amount of the modus payable to the rector under such custom had been usually ascertained by a person on behalf of the rector inspecting the ricks of hay made within the parish in each year, and forming an estimate of the number of loads of one ton weight contained in each rick, upon which estimate the whole of the annual modus payable to the rector was calculated, but that this mode of estimating the weight formed no part of the custom. It also appeared, that, in a suit instituted in the exchequer by the same rector against some occupiers for the tithe of hay in the same parish, an issue had been directed, and the jury having found that two pence for every load of hay of the weight of one ton had been immemorially paid to the rector at Easter in each year, by the several occupiers of lands, in lieu of the tithes of hay, the rector's bill had been dismissed with costs. Held, that the alleged modus was bad in law, and the account ought to be directed against the defendants, without directing an issue as to the validity of the modus. Goodenough v. Powell, 2 Russ. 219. ISSUE AT LAW.

A modus of three halfpence for every milch cow, if under seven, kept and fed on the lands, in lieu of the tithe of milk and calves of such cows; 2s. 4d. if the milch cows and calves shall amount to seven; and not seventeen; and the like sum of 2s. 4d. for every ten milch cows after the first seven, in lieu of tithe of milk and calves of such cows, considered good. A modus of two pence for every house and garden, in lieu of garden stuff, considered good; but held to cover only gardens annexed to houses for the use of the houses, and not to market gardens or the like. Pritchett v. Honeyborne, 1 Y. & J. 135.

A modus of six pence in the pound, on an ancient rent, held good, as a shifting and uncertain modus. The following moduses were held good, viz.: two pence for every milch cow called a new cow, that is, a cow that had more than one calf, in lieu of the tithe of milk of such cow; one penny for every milch heifer, or for her first calf, in lieu of the tithe of milk of such milch heifer or whey; one penny for every far cow or strip, that is, a milch cow that has not had a calf within the year, in lieu of the tithes of such far cow, and the milk thereof; one penny for every calf under five within the year; for five calves, the value of one halfpenny a calf; six calves, up to fourteen inclusive, a calf in kind, or its value; fifteen calves, a calf in kind, or its value, and the value of half a calf more; sixteen calves, to twenty-four inclusive, two calves in kind, or their value, and so on in proportion: the like modus for fowls; one penny for every garden; and four pence for a hen called a loak hen, in lieu of tithes of eggs and young poultry. The following moduses, viz.: for every number of lambs within the year, under five, nothing; five lambs, the value of one halfpenny a lamb; six lambs, and up to fourteen inclusive, a lamb in kind or its value, and the value of half a lamb more; sixteen lambs, up to twenty-four inclusive, two lambs in kind, or their value, and so on; the like modus as to fleeces; the same to geese; were considered bad, nothing being paid under five. Norton v. Hammond, 1 Y. & J. 94.

A district modus, to be good, must cover all the lands in the district; and therefore, where a modus was pleaded for a particular district, and it appeared from the evidence that certain farms within the district never paid or contributed, the modus was considered bad. Miller v. Jackson, 1 Y. & J. 65.

Modus for the cover of clover, eo nomine, as distinct from a modus for the acre of hay, held not objectionable, either on the ground of the former being an article of modern introduction in agriculture since legal memory, or as not being per se a subject matter of modus distinct from, and independently of, natural grass made into hay, and that although the modus for hay were laid generally as a parochial modus, without any exception, of hay made of clover. Davies v. Moseley, 13 Price, 423. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 143.

Moduses of seven pence for every milch cow, in lieu of tithe of calf and of milk of such cow; five pence for every heifer, in lieu of tithe of calf and milk of such heifer; four pence for every hogshead of cider, and so in proportion for a greater or less quantity, in lieu of tithes of apples, &c.; one penny for hoard or hoard-penny, in lieu of tithe of apples, hoarded, &c.: held to be legal, and issues directed to try them. Holwell v. Blake, 1 M'Clel. 559.

Modus of sum of money in gross, payable to vicar on his induction, in lieu of certain tithes during his incumbency, is bad. So also is such a payment, with a further annual payment of smaller sum in lieu of certain tithes during the same period. Manby v. Taylor, 9 Price, 249.

In a defence of modus for produce of an ancient farm, it is indispensably necessary to show, by evidence, that farm is ancient. Stuart v. Greenall, 9 Price, 106.

Tithe of milk held to be within the payment for cow and calf, laid as a modus in lieu of tithe of such cow and calf. Id. ib.

Modus of four pence for every milch cow and calf, and three pence for every heifer and calf, in lieu of tithe of calves and milk; and modus of three pence for every hogshead of cider, and one penny for fruit, in lieu of tithe of apples, pears, &c., are bad. The union of articles, distinctly titheable, in one modus, is objectionable. Short v. Lee, 2 J. & W. 464.

A modus of one penny, payable by every occupier of land, in lieu of the tithe of hay, held bad. A modus of one shilling for a milch cow, in lieu of the tithe of milk, held rank. Busk v. Lewis, 1 Jac. 363.

Modus for every occupier of land to pay a penny, in lieu of the tithes of calves, bad. Id. ib.

A farm modus for part of a farm, may be valid. White v. Lisle, 3 Swan. 344.

Modus for pasture land, stated to be in lieu of the tithes of all titheable matters, yearly arising, &c., covers too much. Lake v. Skinner, 1 Jac. & W. 9.

A modus of one penny, in lieu of the tithe of hay, of every inhabitant or occupier of a house, and having any land at, or belonging to, or used or enjoyed with any house, is invalid. The decree of the Master of the Rolls on the other moduses, affirmed. Blackburn v. Jepson, 3 Swan. 132. See this case further, 2 V. & B. 359.

Measure of oatmeal, payable in lieu of tithe of corn and grain, is a good modus. De Whelpdale v. Milburn, 5 Price, 485.

Modus of one penny, payable at Martinmas by every owner of a garden or garth within the parish, called a garth-penny, in lieu of tithes of articles produced in such gardens, as covering potatoes and turnips, is good. Williamson v. Isl. Lonsdale, 5 Price, 25.

A modus of one penny, commonly called a plough-penny, payable, &c., by the several occupiers of lands in tillage within the said parish, for and in lieu and satisfaction of all small predial tithes, arising, &c., upon lands so in tillage, as covering field turnips and potatoes, is bad. Id.

Modus of two pence for a day's mow of grass, is good, the quantum being matter of evidence. Cockburne v. Hughes, 3 Price, 403.

Modus of a penny a cow for milch cows summered on lands within a parish, disallowed, because of the uncertainty of the word "summered." Rumney v. Beale, Dan. 35. See 4 Price, 266. S. C. but see another point.

Modus of five shillings for every ten calves, where there happens to be ten, in lieu of tithe of such calves, and also of tithe of milk of cow belonging to such calves, called renew cows, or cows having had each a calf within the year, preceded by modus of three half-pence for every cow called a renew cow, or a cow that has had a calf within the year, and is full of milk, in lieu of tithe of milk of such cow, cannot be supported, as being inconsistent. Wood, B. dissentiente. Layng v. Garborough, 4 Price, 383.

One shilling for every tenth fleece, in lieu of tithe of the ten fleeces, is rank; three pence for a lamb, or two shillings and six pence for every tenth lamb, in lieu of tithe of such ten lambs, not held rank, but issue directed; so for every tenth pig; so as to geese. Modus for tithes of articles of modern introduction cannot be supported, because of the anachronism; eighteen pence, in lieu of tithe of ripe seed, when sold in seed, bad for uncertainty; four pence for messuage and garth; two pence for every cottage and garth; one penny for every strip cow; four pence for every foal; two shillings and sixpence for every tenth lamb, in lieu of tithe of such ten lambs, are good moduses. Id.

Modus of three pence a year for every cow, and six pence for every calf, in lieu of tithes of cows, calves, and milk, is good. A modus of one penny a year, in lieu of tithe of gardens, is good, and may be so pleaded without stating that it is payable for ancient gardens. Preost v. Bennett, 2 Price, 272.

Modus of 3l. payable for certain tithes within township, the occupiers of each farm or tenement within such township respectively, paying his rateable proportion, is bad for uncertainty, even in an answer. Wolley v. Hadfield, 3 Price, 210.

Modus of 10d. a score for agistment of sheep, bad. Mytton v. Harris, 3 Price, 19.

Modus may exist for artificial grasses used in improvement of hay; modus of 3d. for a lamb, not rank; modus of 4d. for a cow in lieu of milk not supported by proof of modus for every cow with calf; modus of 1s. for every seventh pig on the ninth day, held good after some doubt. Bertie v. Beaumont, 2 Price, 303.

Account of vicarial tithes decreed against a modus of 1s. per acre for each acre of marsh land, for tithe of hay and all other vicarial and small tithes, the vicarage appearing to have been established by endowment in 1367, within legal memory. Scott v. Smith, 1 V. & B. 142. ACCOUNT.

Annual payment of a 1d. by each occupier for tithe of hay, a good modus, but an issue granted: modus for turnips, bad, being of too recent introduction into this country to be the subject of immemorial usage. Leysen v. Parsons, 18 Ves. 173.

Issue directed to try modus of 1s. an acre, in lieu of tithe hay; modus of 1s. 6d. and 2s. per acre for tithe hay, held rank. Hendon v. Cooke, Wightw. 281. ISSUE AT LAW.

Modus of 1d. for each lamb, where number did not exceed four; 1s. where number did not exceed five; 1s. 8d. where number did not exceed six, and so increasing, held not rank, and sent to an issue. Askew v. Greenhow, 2 Price, 314, note.

Issue directed on modus for certain lands amounting to 1s. per acre for all tithes, notwithstanding apparent rankness. O'Connor v. Cook, 6 Ves. 665. See 6 Ves. 535. ISSUE AT LAW.

Rankness of modus is only evidence as to the immemoriality of payment, and not an objection in point of law. Distinction as to rankness between modus for tithe of particular things and a farm modus. Id. 672.

A modus payable by the owners of the land covered by it, is good. Ord v. Clarke, 3 Anst. 631.

The court will not decree against a farm modus on the ground of rankness. Atkins v. Lt. Willoughby de Broke, 2 Anst. 397.

A modus of one penny for every sheep, and a half-penny for every lamb, brought into the parish after Candlemas, and sold out before shearing time, is a wool modus, not an agistment modus. Garnons v. Barnard, 1 Anst. 320. AGISTMENT.

A modus of every tenth day's cheese during twenty weeks from Holyrood day, in lieu of tithe of milk, is good, sensible. Wake v. Russ, 1 Anst. 295.

A modus of a penny, in lieu of tithe of hay, of the lands occupied with each house in the parish, is bad. Travis v. Oxton, 1 Anst. 308.

A modus of two pence, payable by every householder inhabitant in the parish, for all tithe of fuel, of fruits, of agistment, and of wood, is a good modus. Bennet v. Read, 1 Anst. 322.

Another modus of three pence for all sheep carried out of the parish, between Candlemas and shearing time, covering the same place and persons, does not contradict the former modus for agistment, but is only to be taken, as limiting it in the extent covered by the latter. Id. 323.

A modus covering a parish or district, is rather a custom than a prescription, and may often be good when a prescriptive modus covering particular lands, would be bad. Id. 329.

A modus bad in law received by the vicar, is proof of endowment of the tithe for which the modus was paid. Travis v. Oxton, 1 Anst. 309. ENDOWMENT; PR. EVIDENCE.

Modus set up, since 13 Eliz. does not bind the successor. Anon. Loft. 66.

If it appear that a pecuniary payment has been made for any sort of tithes, the court will help the imperfect manner of setting out the modus. Mallock v. Brouse, Ambl. 423.

Issue directed whether a modus extended to modern orchards; and was so found, and decree for account accordingly. Butcher v. Hill, Ambl. 376.

A father of hay as a modus in lieu of tithes, held uncertain and void. Fenwick v. Lambe, Ambl. 365.

Doubtful modus not determined by a court of equity without a trial at law. Chapman v. Smith, 2 Ves. 506. JURISDICTION.

An exception in the alleged modus, that it was not to be paid when the land should be planted with hops, not fatal on the face of it, in point of law. Id. ib.

A modus for rabbits, part in kind and part in money, may be good. Walton v. Tryon, Ambl. 135 S. C. 1 Dick. 244.

A modus to take part of the tithes for the whole, has always been held a void custom. Abp. York v. Stapleton, 2 Atk. 138.

In a suit by rector for tithe of lambs, the defendant insists on a modus of 3d. for every lamb, payable on St. Mark's day, or so soon after as demanded. This modus is not void at law, but its validity shall be determined by a jury. Where plaintiff claims tithes in kind, and defendant sets up a modus, if plaintiff declines trying the modus at law, it shall be taken against him pro confesso. Giffard v. Webb, 7 Bro. P. C. 15.

Modus pleaded in bar against tithe of hay, that within the parish of W there were several townships, and that the occupiers of each township, time out of mind, had paid certain sums of money in lieu of tithe of hay, which sums were respectively collected by constables, and then the whole, which amounted to 15s. 4d. was by some of them paid to rectors as a modus for the whole parish: modus held good. Bp. of Hereford v. Couper, 3 Swan. 158.

Modus of 5s. payable out of every yard of land, is valid. Cart v. Hodgkin, 3 Swan. 160.

Modus for foreigners to pay 4d. per acre yearly for herbage and hay tithe, is good. Monson v. Chapman, Fitzgib. 119. S. C. 2 P. W. 565. Mos. 266, 279.

A modus that in consideration the parishioners made the tithe grass into hay, therefore the parishioners inhabitants within the parish were to pay no tithes for the herbage of dry and unprofitable cattle, and though proved that the parishioners, time out of mind, had paid no tithe of its herbage, yet the court held it to be a material objection to the modus, that foreigners living out of the parish made the tithe grass into hay, and yet paid tithe herbage. For v. Ayde, 2 P. W. 520.

The court held it to be a void modus, that the making of tithe grass into hay should not only excuse that ground from paying tithes for herbage, but that perhaps a small quantity of meadow ground, by making the grass thereof into hay, should excuse the greater part of the ground of that parish from paying tithe herbage. Id. 521.

A modus in relation to the tithe due to the parson, may be a good bar to the payment of a small tithe due to the vicar, because all the tithes did at first belong to the parson, during which time he might agree to this modus. Id. 522.

A modus, that every occupier of land within the parish of A, living out of the parish, shall pay a penny an acre for all pasture land within the parish, but if he lives within the parish, to pay tithes in kind, a good modus. Chapman v. Monson, 2 P. W. 565. Mos. 266, 279. Fitzgib. 119.

A modus for tithe of corn, for the inhabitants of such a teneement, and the lands therewith, is usually enjoyed, void for uncertainty, in regard the teneement may be uninhabited, and the lands often shifted, and let with other farms. Carteton v. Brightwell, 2 P. W. 462.

A modus may extend to hops or clover (though lately brought into England) if it covers all small tithes. Green v. Austin, Lutw. 1071.

A parol agreement to accept a modus in lieu of tithes, will not bind the parson, but it will excuse the parishioners from the penalties of 2 Edw. 6. Bremer v. Thornton, Hardw. 203. AGREEMENT. PAROL.

Milk is exempt from tithe, by a custom, that the parson shall for so many weeks, have the sole milking of all milch cows in the parish. And apples or other fruit in an orchard shall not pay tithes, if there be a modus to pay a groat for every hoghead of cider, or 2s. per annum in lieu. Hill v. Harris, 2 Show. 461.

Where a modus of 20s. was set up by a parishioner, and the parson had entered into a special agreement to accept that composition, and had for many years given a receipt for it, and had also agreed to be paid moreover 10l. yearly, a bill by the parson for tithes generally was dismissed, the court holding him to his agreement; but the lords reversed the decree, and ordered the court of exchequer to hear the cause on the right of tithe, notwithstanding the agreement. And the court having, on further hearing, directed issues to try the validity of the modus. The lords, on further appeal, affirmed the decree. Dent v. Buck, Colles' P. C. 182.

Where a parishioner insisted on a modus, and it appeared that the parishioners had usually paid differently, the alleged modus will be disregarded, and he will be decreed to account for the tithe in kind; and where the matter is plain, the court will not direct the modus to be tried at law. Charleton v. Bayly, Colles' P. C. 206. ISSUE AT LAW.

Where a modus is too rank, defendant must account for tithe in kind. Benson v. Watkyns, Bunb. 10.

For a milch cow and calf, 17d. is good for the calf and milk. So for a milch cow without calf, 11d., for the milk. So for an heifer and calf the first year, 13d., for the milk and calf; all payable at Michaelmas. For cider made of apples, grown in the parish, 8d. per hoghead. For hoard apples, 1d. For firewood spent on the farm, a hearth-penny. For fruit, herbs, roots, and other garden-stuff, a garden penny. For a colt, 1d.; all payable at Easter. Roe v. Bp. of Exeter, Bunb. 57.

12d. for a milch cow is too rank, and so is 6d. for any calf killed and sold. Franklyn v. St. Cross Hosp. Bunb. 78. But it has since been held, that 6d. for a calf is good. Reynel v. Ackland, id. 78. (n.)

A distributive modus is unreasonable, and not good. Turton v. Clayton, Bunb. 80.

1d. for orchards and gardens is good. Franklyn v. St. Cross Hosp., Bunb. 79; but they must be ancient gardens and orchards. Perrot v. Mackwick, there cited.

1s. per acre for marsh, and 4d. per acre for upland; payable at Michaelmas for hay and all small tithes (except hops,) held good. Bate v. Hodges, Bunb. 125.

Work done by carrying a cart load of turf to the parson's house, in lieu of tithe of hemp, flax, and hay, was disallowed as a modus. Tully v. Kitner, Bunb. 126.

A modus is bad where the time of payment is uncertain. Goddard v. Keeble, Bunb. 105. Phillips v. Symes, id. 173. Blacket v. Finney, id. 198. but whether it can be supplied by evidence, vide Taylor v. Walker, Bunb. 267. It seems it may, if the day of payment be omitted in the answer. Gibb v. Goodman, Bunb. 328. Sed secus, if it is a cross bill to establish a modus. S. C.

4s. at Easter in lieu of tithe hay of a farm, is bad. Burwell v. Coates, Bunb. 129.

Where a customary manner of tithing is generally alleged, defendant cannot be let in to prove a particular manner of tithing. Boughton v. Wright, Bunb. 186.

1d. at Easter for hay, and 26s. 8d. for hay and small tithes, is good. Finch v. Maister, Bunb. 161.

8d. for a cow, and 4d. for an ewe, in lieu of milk and calves, is good. Phillips v. Symes, Bunb. 171.

1s. in the pound for pasture, according to the value of the land, is too rank, and void. Smith v. Roocliffe, Bunb. 20. Harrison v. Sharpe, Bunb. 174.

Entries by the lord's steward may be admitted to prove a modus to the vicar in discharge, against the lay parson. Woodnoth v. Cobham, Bunb. 180.

Bill for tithe of fish according to the custom; plaintiff set forth a decree, temp. Car. 2. signed by 130 parishioners, and acquiescing in the custom, yet the court sent the plaintiff to law. Guevau v. Kelgnar, Bunb. 239. At law a verdict was found for plaintiff, and the barons decreed accordingly; but defendants afterwards appealed to the lords, by whom the decree was affirmed. Bunb. 258.

Nine cart-loads of log-wood, a hogshhead of cider, and 2d. per acre for eighteen acres, held good. Woolferstone v. Manwaring, Bunb. 279.

Usage as to tithes was admitted, to explain a lease of a farm, with all tithes, against the very word "tithe," the court considering it as a lease. Quaintrell v. Wright, Bunb. 274.

Bill for tithes, glebe, and right of common. Defendant insisted on a modus. Though the modus appeared to be too rank, yet the court would not determine upon any of the points until plaintiff had established his right at law. Sweetapple v. Kingston, Bunb. 238. Chamberlain v. Spencer, id. (n.)

4l. 10s. per annum for a farm of 30<sup>l</sup>. per annum, is too rank. Kennedy v. G. duin, Bunb. 311.

If a parishioner has ten lbs. the tenth is due to the rector on St. Mark's day; if nine, he shall have one, paying 1d.; if eight, he shall have one, paying 1d.; if seven, he shall have one, paying 3d.; but for less than seven, the rector shall have no lamb, but 1d. for each under seven. Where there were ten lambs, after the parishioner had taken two, the rector shall choose his lamb. And the like modus decimandi was established as to pigs; so as to poultry: for every cock and drake, three eggs, payable on Wednesday before Easter, and for every hen and duck, three eggs in lieu of tithe eggs, and chickens and ducks hatched in the parish. This modus was established without a trial. Brinklow v. Edmonds, Bunb. 309.

A halfpenny for each calf is good. So a halfpenny for each sheep dying before shearday. So a smoke penny for firewood. So 4d. per month for wool of each 100 sheep shorn in the parish. S. C.

Part of the milk of a farm for the whole is a bad modus. S. C.

Custom that the occupiers are to give notice of setting out tithes, or an allegation that there is some such custom, is uncertain and bad. Heuer v. Spritley, Bunb. 333.

6s. 8d. for one calf, if 10, but it was not said, and so less in proportion, if under 10; this is bad, but 4d. for milk payable at Easter is good. Gibb v. Goodman, Bunb. 329.

Modus of 12s. an acre for low meadow lands, and 8d. for high ones, in lieu of tithe hay, held good. Pole v. Gardiner, 7 Bro. P. C. 5.

2. Suits and Evidence thereon in establishing Modus by Bill or as a Defence by Plea, &c.

Where a district modus was pleaded, and it appeared from ancient documents that the modus could not consistently with those documents have existed at the time of legal memory, the court decreed an account of tithes in kind, and refused an issue notwithstanding the payments were proved to have existed for a great number of years. Miller v. Jackson, 1 Y. & J. 65.

Evidence that tithes had been collected from the inhabitants by a person employed by the parson, and from a list furnished by him, affords strong presumption that the payments are farm moduses, and not a district modus. Id. ib.

Evidence of reputation cannot be received in support of a farm modus. The evidence required to establish a farm modus, is 1st, the clear identity of the farm by metes and bounds; 2dly, the antiquity of the farm; and 3dly, immemorial payment of the modus. But it cannot be expected that any testimony should be adduced that the lands comprising the farm were cultivated together before the year 1189, and that the payment was then made. It would be as reasonable to require the actual production of the deed of composition. There seems to be no reason why the same evidence which establishes a parochial modus; viz. usage as far back as can be reasonably traced of the payment being made on one side, and tithes in kind not having been demanded on the other, should not be good evidence of a farm modus, and such seems to be the result of the authorities. Prichett v. Honeybourne, 1 Y. & J. 135.

The defendant having set up a farm modus in answer to a bill for tithes, issues were directed to try whether the ancient farm consisted of the lands mentioned in the answer, and whether a certain modus had been immemorially payable for the tithes arising upon it. The jury found that the farm consisted of these lands together with four other closes, and was covered by a modus. The circumstance that the jury found the ancient farm to consist of other lands besides those mentioned in the pleadings, is no ground for a new trial, unless the plaintiff can show that he has evidence with respect to those four closes which upon the supposition that they are parcels of the alleged ancient farm, might materially vary the substance of the case. Bailey v. Sewell, 1 Russ. 239. TITLE; NEW TRIAL OF ISSUE.

Modus alleged in answer to be payable in lieu of tithes is not supported by proof of payment of a larger amount. Fisher v. Graves, 1 M'Clel. & Y. 362.

A modus established by verdict of jury on an issue is conclusive on judge in equity. Davis v. Moseley, 13 Price, 423. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 143. ISSUE AT LAW.

Seemle, an issue to try money payment set up as a farm modus, may be granted on the parol evidence of a single witness uncorroborated by other evidences, but his testimony must be positive and distinct, and should apply to every thing necessary to be proved before the jury in order to establish the fact intended to be tried. If it be insufficient or unsatisfactory in any of those respects, the court will not grant an issue, but will proceed to decree an account of the tithes. Wolley v. Underhill, 13 Price, 500. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 317. ISSUE AT LAW.

The application to equity by cross bill to establish moduses against a bill to overturn them being matter of favour, costs in equity are never allowed. Morrrell v. Gregson, 11 Price, 421. PR. CROSS BILL; PR. COSTS.

Where defendant in tithe cause sets up modus and is desirous of protecting himself from costs, he should move for an order that plaintiff accept sums admitted due by answer, or proceed at peril of costs, and court will notice such tender by minute. The motion may be made without notice or payment into court. Davis v. Moseley, 9 Price, 214. PR. PAYMENT INTO COURT; PR. COSTS.

Modus set up for hay, hemp, and flax, is so far proved by receipts for money payment made for hay, hemp, and flax, for forty-five years back, although earlier receipts describe it as payable for hay only, which would have otherwise been conclusive against the occupiers, as that the payment must be made the subject matter of an issue. The payment being called a hay-rent in receipts is no objection to them as evidence of the existence of a modus. Manby v. Lodge, 9 Price, 231.

Where a modus is pleaded for a particular description of lands, it must be alleged in the answer that defendants occupy such lands. Stuart v. Greenall, 9 Price, 106. PL. ANSWER.

Ordinary is a necessary party defendant to bill for establishing modus. Cook v. Butt, 6 Mad. 53. PL. PARTY.

Modus of a sum of money laid as payable in lieu of tithe of hay and all small tithe, is not supported by proof of payment for hay and non-payment of hay in kind, or any small tithe either in kind or sub modo. Payments laid as moduses and proved to have been always paid within memory and not opposed by evidence of their origin, held sufficiently proved to establish them on a defence of moduses, although all the witnesses called them compositions. Drifffield v. Orrell, 6 Price, 324.

Money payment alleged to be a modus in lieu of tithe of lambs and of the wool of the first shearing of such lambs, or in lieu of tithe of such lambs, held ill pleaded in the alternative; so also if pleaded as a composition. Such money payment may be relied on at hearing as a composition if charged to be so in the answer in case it should not be a modus. Leech v. Bailey, 6 Price, 504. PL. PLEA.

Defendant in answer to bill for account of tithes in kind, must set forth an account of titheable matters taken by him, although he relies on a defence of a modus or composition; or it will be a good ground of exception. Whistler v. Wigury, 8 Pri. 1. PL. ANSWER; TITHES; ACCT.

If a modus be laid in an answer to a case resting on endowment as covering several titheable articles, it must be proved to be payable for all of them. A doubt from evidence as to that extent is not sufficient for issue to be directed. Kempson v. Yorke, 8 Price, 13. PR. EVID.; PL. ANSWER.

Terriers alone not sufficient to prove a modus. Lake v. Skinner, 1 Jac. & W. 20. EVID.

Where defendants had described their farms by so many acres, and an objection was taken at hearing to want of sufficient description of locality. The court permitted the cause to proceed, suggesting that if the objection was insisted on, leave would be given to defendant to file interrogatories for purpose of enlarging the description. Wright v. Southwood, 5 Price, 607. PL. PLEA.

Moduses introduced by stating that they are payable by occupiers in lieu of tithes within and throughout parish (except the occupiers of several other farms and lands) not otherwise describing them than by their respective names, held ill pleaded for uncertainty. Id. ib.

A bill to establish a modus should be filed by certain owners and occupiers of land within the parish, on behalf of themselves, of all other owners, occupiers, &c. And the ordinary should always be a party. Hales v. Pomfret, Dan. 142. PL. PARTY.

A modus being clearly invalid as laid, the question of law is decided without directing an issue on the question of fact. Blackburn v. Jepson, 3 Swan. 132. ISSUE AT LAW.

Modus laid to be payable "by certain occupiers," uncertain and insufficient. De Welpdale v. Milburn, 5 Price, 485. PL. PLEA, UNCERTAINTY.

On bill to establish modus against dean and chapter as rector, the ordinary and patron are necessary parties. Id. ib. PL. PARTIES.

Where tithe of corn has never been paid within memory in the parish, and a contributory payment comprising the whole parish is paid by certain, though not all of the owners and occupiers of estates, the question whether it is a farm or district modus, must go to issue. Id. ib. ISSUE AT LAW.

Defence to bill for tithes of a district modus where the defendants do not state on record, and prove by evidence an occupation therein, must fail. Jenkinson v. Royston, 5 Price, 496.

Money payments in lieu of tithes, although made as for such as living memory can reach: Held not to be moduses where they were apportioned by reference to the poor rates. An issue will not be granted to try the character of such payments. Walter v. Holman, 4 Price, 171.

Modus of 15s. payable on Easter Monday by all the occupiers of land in the township, &c. or some or one on behalf of all in lieu of tithe of grass growing within the same township, whether the same be mown or made into hay, or eaten by barren and unprofitable cattle covering the tithe of agistment, if there be evidence given of its having been paid, and for the tithe of agistment, will be sent to an issue. Williamson v. Ld. Lonsdale, 5 Price, 25. ISSUE AT LAW.

Uncertainty as to metes and bounds in pleading modus, is bad. Gillebrand v. Scotson, 4 Price, 267. PL. PLEA, UNCERTAINTY.

Modus of 1s. for a Welch cow in lieu of tithe of milk of such cow sent to issue. Modus of 1½d. for every calf fallen or dropped in the parish in lieu of tithe of such calf, is not proved if evidence add a qualification to custom. Leathes v. Newitt, 4 Price, 356.

An old receipt of former rector in hands of a defendant for a money payment in lieu of tithes where there was a probability of its having come to him from a predecessor in the same way, admissible evidence to support modus. A valuation of tithes made by surveyor at instance of rector with reference to certain money payments reputed to have been always made in lieu of such tithes, is not evidence to fix the rector with an acknowledgment of such money payments, unless it can be distinctly proved that surveyor was expressly required by rector to make the valuation with reference to such payments. Bertie v. Beaumont, 2 Price, 303. PR. EVID.

If it is not stated in an answer to bill for tithes which sets up modus, in respect of what titheable article the modus is laid, it is bad for uncertainty, and no evidence can supply it. But it is sufficient if from whole answer it can be collected to what article it refers. Bourke v. Isaac, 2 Price, 299. PL. ANSWER.

Where defendant states in his answer, that modus has been immemorially paid to vicar in lieu of tithes, and vicarage is shown to have been endowed within time of legal memory, court will allow modus to be re-stated so as to take issue to try modus. Prevost v. Bennett, 1 Price, 236. PR. PLEA, AMENDMENT OF.

Defendant to a bill for tithes, puts himself upon one modus in his defence and proves another. There must be a decree against him. Warden, &c. of St. Pauls v. Morris, 9 Ves. 164. PL. PLEA.

One owner of lands in a township may sue for himself and the others, to establish a contributory modus for all the lands there. Chaytor v. Trinity College, 3 Anst. 841. PARTIES.

Modus claimed for hay was described in terriers to be for all grass, "except clover and the like." Held, this was no proof of modus being modern. Franklin v. Spelling, 3 Anst. 760. TITHES, EVIDENCE.

Rector of M claiming tithes in kind, the occupier and landlord filed a cross-bill to establish a modus, payable to the rector of S, by the lord of the liberty of which the lands were parcel. It was objected, first, that the rector of S, not disputing the modus, a bill would not lie to establish it: second, that the other owners of lands in the liberty should have been parties; bill dismissed. Woolston v. Wright, 3 Anst. 801. PL. CROSS-BILL; PL. PARTY.

Modus claimed for lands as part of an ancient estate, without naming ancient estate, or setting forth the abutments, or any description of it, or of the lauds of defendant in it, is bad. Wood v. Wray, 3 Anst. 838.

A bill to establish a farm-modus, setting out the abutments of the farm, and stating that the modus had immemorably been paid for the said farm, is good, without stating it expressly to be an ancient farm. Ld. Stowell v. Atkins, 2 Anst. 564. PL. BILL.

If an action is brought by the lessee of tithes for subtraction, it is a sufficient ground for filing a bill to establish a modus. Id. 566.

A bill to establish a modus will not lie, where the person has not sued for tithes in kind. Id. ib.

Bill for tithes; modus set up as defence. Motion by defendant to pay up arrearages of modus with costs up to time, refused; but plaintiff proce. lib. on then abandoning suit, costs after tender allowed to defendant. Dean, &c. of Bristol v. L. Austhorpe, 1 Anst. 272. TENDER; COSTS.

A bill to establish a modus for every ancient farm, stating, that the whole parish consisted of ancient farms, but not setting forth the abutments of each, is bad. Scott v. Allgood, id. 16. PL. BILL.

Unnecessary words used in the laying a modus which would make it indefinite, may be expunged. Ellis v. Saul, id. 341. MODUS; PL. SURPLUSAGE.

Plea of former decree, for payment of tithes, where a modus of lands alleged to be covered by it were improperly stated, so that the court could not direct an issue, is not a good plea in bar to bill brought for establishing modus. Collins v. Gough, 7 Bro. P. C. 94. PL. PLEA OF FORMER DECREE.

Where a modus is set up, but not proved by clear legal evidence, a court of equity ought not in the first instance to decree an account, but should direct issue to try the validity of modus. Whitehead v. Travis, 7 Bro. P. C. 49. ACCOUNT; ISSUE AT LAW.

Mispleader of modus in exchequer, always occasions decree for tithes in kind. Anon. Loft. 60.

Modus for clover, instead of saying modus for grass, held sufficient, and issue directed to try modus for grass. Wood v. Harrison, Anbl. 563. PL. ANSWER.

Not necessary to use the word modus in laying it; nor a particular day of payment. A modus may be over-ruled for rankness, if for a specific thing; if otherwise, will be sent to trial. Richard v. Evans, 1 Ves. 39.

As to the propriety of bill to establish moduses. See Rudge v. Chapman, 2 Com. 697.

On issues directed by a court of equity to try a modus, though established by two verdicts, the plaintiff is entitled to his costs at law only, and not in equity. Clifton v. Orchard, 1 Atk. 610. COSTS.

If a modus decimandi be alleged no otherwise than by answer to a bill for tithes, defendant must answer all other parts of the bill; but if he pleads it, he need not answer any other matter. Langham v. —, Hard. 130. PL. ANSWER.

Bill for tithes of crops by custom, to pay every tenth coney, or the value of it; defendant, by his answer, denied the custom, whereupon the court directed an issue to try it. Randall v. Head, id. 188. ISSUE AT LAW.

Impropriator must be party to bill against his lessee to establish a modus. Glanvill v. Trelawney, Bunb. 70. PL. PARTY.

Though modus be pleaded, yet the quantities and values of tithes must be set forth. Gunley v. Fontleroy, id. 60. PL. ANSWER.

The court will direct an issue to try a modus, though not proved exactly as laid in the bill. Laithes v. Christian, id. 340. ISSUE AT LAW.

After a suit in the ecclesiastical court for a subtraction of tithes, defendant there brought a bill in equity to establish a modus, and on the bare suggestion of a modus, moved for an injunction. Injunction denied, as it would be a precedent for tripping up both the ecclesiastical and common law courts. So the K. B. will not grant a prohibition, unless it be shewn that a modus has been pleaded in the ecclesiastical court, and refused there; and equity grants an injunction on the same ground that a court of law grants a prohibition. Rotherham v. Fanshawe, 3 Atk. 628. P. N. INJUNCTION.

In a suit for tithe hay, the defendants by their answer only set up several moduses by the name of straw-tithes; an issue is in this case proper to try, whether the moduses insisted on by the defendants, in their answers, have been time out of mind paid and payable for, and in lieu of tithe-hay in kind. Harrington v. Horton, 4 Bro. P. C. 624. ISSUE AT LAW.

Bill lies to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses to prove a modus; but qu. if it will lie to establish a modus. Somerset v. Fotherby, 1 Vern. 185. PL. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

XI. CUSTOM.

A custom to pay the seventh lamb, pig, fleece, or gosling, if there be seven, instead of a tenth only of the value of the lambs, pigs, fleeces or goslings, in lieu of the tithes of such lambs, &c., and if there be seventeen, then a lamb, pig, fleece or gosling, and so an additional lamb, &c. for every successive ten: held void. Pritchett v. Honeyborne, 1 Y. & J. 135.

It is not correct to plead, that by custom used and approved in P., and nineteen other parishes, no tithes of a particular kind were due and payable to rector of P. Page v. Wilson, 2 J. & W. 521. PL. PLEA.

No custom in non decimando can be good, unless for wood, and for a known and ancient district, not less than a county or hundred. Id. 524.

Semble. A custom of rendering one in ten parcels of corn set up together in the quantity of ten sheaves to each, called kivers or riders, in lieu of corn and hay produced in the same year, is not good. Lagh v. Glegg, 8 Price, 492.

Custom that land-owner should take the two best lambs out of ten, and the tithe-owner the next best, is bad. Hall v. Malby, 6 Price, 240.

Uncertainty and unreasonableness as to time of taking tithe, and payment for keep, if not taken at that time, vitiates custom. Jenkinson v. Royston, 5 Price, 495.

Custom to pay for every ton, 1d.; for every milch cow, 2s., and for every heifer that had but one calf, 1d., for and in lieu of milk, and "all profit arising by such cow or heifer, except the calf," is good, notwithstanding the redundancy of expression. Id. ib.

As to money payment for pigs and geese, dependant in amount on their number. As to custom as to tithe of wool, hemp and flemble, rape seed, onion seed, reeds, eggs, &c. Id. 496.

As to validity of custom of taking eleventh instead of tenth of article, in consideration of labour bestowed, and where there is an option on part of farmer, which of two ways tithe shall be taken in. Issues will be granted to try such questions. Cockburne v. Hughes, 3 Price, 408.

The established course of setting out tithe milk, is, that the entire meal of the whole herd of cows shall be set forth every tenth day, both morning and evening, and where a custom to the contrary is alleged, it must be formally pleaded or supported by such evidence as will warrant a court of equity in directing an issue to try its validity. Full v. Hutchings, 7 Bro. P. C. 78.

A lessee of rectory for three lives, who had made a derivative lease, brings a bill for tithe in kind, and to establish a custom of setting out corn in shocks: Held, the bill is properly brought, though the tithes are out in lease, to prevent collusion between lessee and occupiers. Archbp. of York v. Stapleton, 2 Atk. 136. PL. BILL FOR TITHE; LESSOR & LESSEE.

A modus to take part of the tithes for the whole, has always been held a void custom. Id. MODUS.

Tithes of fish are only payable by custom, and cannot be claimed as a mere personal tithe, deductis expensis. Kelyack v. Gwares, 2 Bro. P. C. 446.

The usual time for tithing lambs is when they can live without a dam, (about Michaelmas), a custom therefore to tithe them on St. Mark's day, 25th April, was held unreasonable. Reignolds v. Vincent, Bunb. 133. TITHES, SETTING OUT.

Custom that owners of cattle, fed on common lying in two parishes, should pay tithes for agistment in parishes where they respectively reside, held good. Mickleburgh v. Crisp, 2 Bro. P. C. 444.

XIII. COMPOSITION.

By letters patent, a rectory with the appurtenances, was granted to dean, &c. of York, and their successors, for the support and maintenance of a grammar school; in 1712, an arrangement was entered into between the dean and chapter and their lessee of the rectory, and the lord of the manor of a district within the rectory, to take a perpetual composition in lieu of the tithes of that district, and such arrangement was carried into effect by deeds of covenant executed by the dean and chapter and their lessee, and the lord of the manor: and the latter granted a perpetual rent-charge to the amount of the composition out of his estates. The composition or rent continued to be received by the lessees of the dean and chapter for upwards of a century, when the dean and chapter, the rectory being then in their own hands, refused any longer to receive it, and filed their bill for tithe. The court held that the deed of covenant of 1712 was void under the disabling statute, and that the covenant was not binding on the dean and chapter, and that they were entitled to the tithes. Dean & Chap. of York v. Middleborough, 2 Y. & J. 196. CHARGE ON BENEFICE.

Where a money payment has been set up as a defence of a modus, it is a denial of plaintiff's title, and therefore cannot (failing as a modus), be used pro hac vice to defeat the immediate claim as being a composition undetermined for want of six months' notice. Wolley v. Brownhill, 13 Price, 501. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 317. PL. ANSWER.

Deed creating composition real will not be presumed from payment for 200 years of 20l. in lieu of tithes. Escourt v. Kingscote, 4 Mad. 140. PRESUMPTION; LENGTH OF TIME.

Composition for tithe puts an end to lien on the land; therefore, where produce of land is taken by sequestration and sold, tithe owner cannot demand payment thereof out of that fund. Dickinson v. Smith, 4 Mad. 177. LIEN; PR. SEQUESTRATION.

Notice to determine composition should be reasonable in point of time, and suited to convenience of farmer. A notice by parol at time of settling annual amount of the tithe due, the tithe owner telling the farmer that "for the time to come," he requires the tithes to be paid in kind, sufficient. When the farmer pleads the composition as a modus, he cannot insist on no notice to determine having been given. Leech v. Bailey, 6 Pri. 504.

A composition real, or grant of tithes made by a vicar to the lord of a manor, in consideration of his finding a priest to officiate in a chapel, &c. previously to 32 Hen. 8. c. 7., and supported by evidence of constant perception and compliance with the conditions on which it was made: held to be valid. Ridley v. Storey, Dan. 157.

Defendant in tithe cause having set up defence of composition real, cannot afterwards rely on its being in fact a modus; such defence being double and too uncertain. Ward v. Shepherd, 3 Price, 608. PL. PLEA, DOUBLE.

Composition for tithes, received after the death of the incumbent by the successor, apportioned with reference to the respective periods of enjoyment. Aynsley v. Wordsworth, 2 V. & B. 331. APPORTIONMENT.

General allegation, in answer that defendant could not be affected by notice to determine a composition in any way, is not sufficient intimation to plaintiff that defendant intended to rely on insufficiency of notice. Bennett v. Neale, Wightw. 324. PL. ANSWER.

Lessee of tithes agreed with the owner of lands, for certain collateral considerations, not to take tithes in kind from the tenants of the lands for twelve years, but to accept a reasonable composition not exceeding 3s. 6d. per acre; and thereto bound himself and his assigns. His under-lessee sued (in the name of a trustee, to whom he had nominally again under-leased) for tithes in kind against the tenant of the land, and had a decree. Such an agreement is void for the uncertainty of the sum to be paid. Breuer v. Mill, 2 Anst. 413. COVENANT, WHO BOUND BY.

Whether notice is necessary to determine a composition where a modus is insisted upon, quære? Atkins v. Ld. Willoughby De Brooke, 2 Anst. 397. MODUS.

A composition of twenty shillings yearly, out of the profits of T manor, in lieu of tithes of J park, is good. Sawbridge v. Benton, 2 Anst. 372.

The consent of the ordinary to composition real may be presumed from length of time, id. ib. LENGTH OF TIME; CONSENT.

A real composition cannot be established without shewing the deed by which it was created, or proving its existence. Heathcote v. Mainwaring, 3 Bro. C. C. 217.

In order to establish a real composition for tithes, the evidence must be such as to distinguish it clearly from a prescriptive payment. Haves v. Swaine, 2 Cox, 179. EVIDENCE.

The same notice must be given to determine a composition for tithes as between landlord and tenant, and that although the defendant set up modus. Bishop v. Chichester, 2 Bro. C. C. 161.

A vicar may avail himself of his general title for tithes in opposition to a pecuniary composition, even though established by deed: executed by parson, patron, and ordinary. Mortimer v. Lloyd, 7 Bro. P. C. 44.

Peremptory composition requires notice to determine it. Anon. Loft. 66.

An agreement was made between the rector and inhabitants of a parish, allotting lands in lieu of the ancient glebe with some additions, on account of the rector's losing certain rights of common by an enclosure, and also providing an annual stipend or pecuniary compensation in lieu of tithes. The successor declined abiding by the agreement, unless on an increase of stipend, and an amicable suit was instituted in chancery, to which the ordinary (but not the patron, who was the king) was made a party, and the parishioners agreeing to increase the stipend, a decree was made by consent to ratify the articles of agreement. This agreement was acquiesced under for eighty years (forty of which the rector, against whom the decree was made, remained incumbent.) Held that as to the pecuniary composition, the agreement was not binding, the patron not having been party thereto, and the composition being made as respected the past value of tithes, without any regard to the future increasing value. Cholmley v. Att. Gen., 7 Bro. P. C. 34. S. C. 2 Eden, 304. Amb. 510. LENGTH OF TIME.

A composition by way of retainer by parol, is good only for one year; but a parol lease of tithes, even for one year, is void. Kedlington v. Bridgman, Bunb. 3.

A composition for tithes cannot be determined as to part, and continued as to the rest. Reynel v. Rogers, Bunb. 15.

The court will not interfere, even to secure the fund, upon the application of a person who does not show any title. Brown v. Dudbridge, 2 Bro. C. C. 321.

When a bill filed for an account of tithes against one who had a lease of his own and the other tithes in the parish, and the whole question in the case turns upon the validity of the lease, and of the notice given to determine it, this court will not proceed till those points are settled at law. Bousher v. Morgan, 2 Anst. 404. LEASE; ISSUE AT LAW.

A patentee claiming an exclusive right of printing bibles, must establish his right at law before he can have an injunction in equity. Grierson v. Jackson, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 304. INJUNCTION; PATENT.

Plaintiff prayed a discovery, injunction, and delivery, of a bill of exchange; upon the answers and evidence, the right being clear, the court refused an opportunity of trying it at law, and decreed an immediate delivery. Newman v. Milner, 2 Ves. J. 483. DELIVERY UP OF DEEDS; ISSUE AT LAW.

Upon a bill to redeem, a prima facie title is sufficient; and an issue shall not be directed, though the title is complicated, if uncontradicted. Pym v. Bowerman; Bowerman v. Pym, 3 Swan. 241. MORTG.; REDEMPTION; PR. EVID.

Bill stated the plaintiff to be lessee of an ancient mill, and that defendant had erected flood-gates and other works on the river, which obstructed plaintiff's mill, and prayed that defendant might be decreed to pull down these works, and be restrained from erecting new ones, such works having been erected above three years. Such a bill will not lie until the right be established at law, and a demurrer for want of equity is good. Weller v. Smeaton, 1 Cox, 102. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 572. PL. DEMURRER; NUISANCE.

Whenever the question of right in a suit commenced in a court of equity, is a mere legal question, the court does right in sending it to law to be tried upon a proper issue; even though the whole of the evidence is written evidence, and the question depends upon the construction of that evidence. Collins v. Saurcy, 4 Bro. P. C. 692. PR. ISSUE AT LAW.

Bill for account of goods landed at a certain quay, the plaintiff claiming a right of toll by prescription. Defendant denied plaintiff's title, and refused to discover the goods: held he was not compellable till plaintiff had established his right at law. Northleigh v. Lascombe, Amb. 612. PL. On bill stating intent of defendant to encroach on plaintiff's land, &c. by building; defendant by answer claiming title to land himself; motion for injunction was refused, not being sufficient to try title on. Bateman v. Johnson, Fitzgib. 106. INJUNCTION.

Bill for tithes, glebe, and right of common; the two latter points being proper at law, the court retained the bill until plaintiff had ascertained his title, and in the meantime would not decree the tithes. Sweetapple v. Kingston, Bunb. 238. JURISDICTION.

J S agreed to sell a wood upon his estate to W, and to give him a certain time for cutting and carrying it away. The purchaser being interrupted by persons who pretended a title to the estate after the death of J S, who, they insisted, was only tenant for life, and therefore had no power to sell, brought his bill for a performance of this agreement. The court, upon the hearing, were of opinion that this was only a colourable agreement, set up in order to try the defendant's title in equity, which was properly triable at law, and therefore dismissed the bill with costs: but on an appeal, the decree was reversed, and an issue directed to try the title. Stone v. El. Anglesea, 1 Bro. P. C. 218. ISSUE AT LAW.

Bill against an executor for a debt due from the testator, and though the debt was proved, yet plaintiff sent to law, but bill retained till after the trial, in order to take the account of assets, if verdict for the plaintiff. Gorray v. Uetrich, 2 Vern. 192. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

An infant shall have an account of profits against an intruder; but when a verdict has passed against his title, he shall have no account of profits until he has recovered at law. Newburgh v. Bickerstaffe, 1 Vern. 295. INFANT; ACCOUNT.

A bill to examine witnesses in perpet. rei mem. is not proper until the party has established his right at law. Parlet v. Ingres, 1 Vern. 308. PR. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

Upon a bill to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses touching a right to a way, the plaintiff must set out the way exactly in his bill, per et trans, as he ought to do in a declaration at law; but such a bill ought not to be brought for such trivial things as right of common, or for ways or water-courses, or at least not till after a recovery at law. Gelt v. Hayward, 1 Vern. 312. PL. BILL TO PERPETUATE.

Injunction denied to stay an interloper's trading to the East Indies till the validity of the E. I. Company's patent has been tried. J. Comp. v. Sandys, 1 Vern. 127. INJUNC.

Motion by the king's patentees, for an injunction to stop the sale of English bibles printed beyond sea, denied till the validity of the patent had been tried at law. Anger, 1 Vern. 120. INJUNC.; COPYRIGHT.

III. PLEA OF.

Plea which negatives plaintiff's title, though it protects defendant generally from answer and discovery as to the subject of the suit does not protect him from answer, and discovery as to such matters as are specially charged as evidence of plaintiff's title. Sanders v. King, 6 Mad. 65. PL. PLEA; PL. DISCOVERY; PL. ANSWER.

Where bill is for discovery in aid of defence at law, and for equitable relief, plea of title in defendant in equity to whole bill, is bad. Gait v. Osbaldeston, 5 Mad. 428. But overruled on appeal, S. C. 1 Russ. 158. PL. PLEA; PL. DISCOVERY; PL. RELIEF.

To a bill to set aside a conveyance for fraud, &c. plea of title paramount under a former conveyance of all the estate and interests under which the plaintiff claimed, allowed. Hove v. Duppa, 1 V. & B. 511. PL. PLEA.

Bill by tenant for life in possession, for discovery and delivery of the title-deeds; plea, a mortgaged fee by a former tenant for life, alleging "himself to be seised in fee, without notice, ordered to stand for an answer, with liberty to except." Strade v. Blackburn, 3 Ves. 222. PL. PLEA; PLEA ORDERED TO STAND FOR ANSWER.

A plea of a negative, that a plaintiff is not the person, or in the situation alleged, as of "no partner nor heir," is good. Hall v. Noyes, 3 Bro. C. C. 483. PL. PLEA.

Plea of purchase, from one having a reversionary estate, and consequently not in possession, overruled, because it did not set out how the person, from whom the title was deduced, became entitled. Hughes v. Garth, 2 Eden, 168. S. C. Amb. 421. Id.

Where the statute of mortmain, 9 G. 2. is pleaded to an information by a defendant who is in possession, he need not show title in himself, but only want of title in the relators. Att. Gen. v. Weymouth, Amb. 22. PL. PLEA; MORTMAIN.

Where one party sets up a title, inconsistent with the title set up by another, though he fail in his own claim, yet if he appear to have a right to something under the other's claim, the court will not deprive him of it. Bennet v. Lee, 2 Atk. 533.

Plaintiff entitles himself as administrator; defendant pleads plaintiff is not administrator: a good plea in abatement in equity, as well as at law. Winn v. Fletcher, 1 Vern. 473. PL. PLEA.

IV. DISCOVERY OF.

General demurrer to bill by widow and infant, customary heir of copyholder, for discovery of title of defendants in possession, allowed for defect of sufficient case for the interference of the court. Baker v. Booker, 6 Pri. 379.

Bill prayed that the defendant might state the particulars of his pedigree, as heir, and of the births, baptisms, marriages, deaths, or burials; demurrer allowed. Ivy v. Kekewich, 2 Ves. J. 679. PL. FISHING BILL.

After twenty years' possession, and a descent cast, the heir at law of a former owner filed a bill for discovery of title of occupant, suggesting pretended devise from his ancestor; demurrer allowed. Mutloe v. Smith, 3 Anst. 709. DEMURRER; LENGTH OF TIME.

A court of equity will not compel tenant to make a discovery which may invalidate his title in a court of law. Lowther v. Troy, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 192.

Bill lies to discover the title of a person bringing ejectment, and to see if it is not in some other. Metcalf v. Harvey; 1 Ves. 249.

Claimant under a marriage settlement, without notice of prior incumbrances, shall not be compelled to a discovery. Williams v. Lane, 8 Bro. P. C. 291.

One claiming under a voluntary conveyance from tenant in tail not compellable by the issue in tail to discover the deed of entail. Bunce v. Phillips, 2 Vern. 50.

V. AS REGARDS RELATIONSHIP OF LESSOR AND LESSEE.

The act of a tenant disclaiming his landlord's title, and admitting title in a third person, shall not affect his landlord's title if the landlord have no knowledge of, or does not acquiesce in such act. Hovenden v. Ld. Annesley, 2 Scho. & L. 624.

But if the landlord, having notice of such act of disclaimer, does not proceed for the forfeiture, but acquiesces, the statute of limitations will run against him as in ordinary cases. Id. ib.

Whether, without express stipulation, a person under a contract with a lessee for years, to purchase the term, can insist upon a production of the lessor's title, and whether the lessee can compel such production, Quære? The lessee's bill, for a specific performance, dismissed, his interest described as fifty-years, the residue of a term free from incumbrances, being a few years only of an old term, and a reversionary term from another lessor, and old incumbrances not shewn to be discharged. White v. Foljambe, 11 Ves. 337. VENE. & PURCH.; SPEC. PERF.

A, gaining possession under an assignment of a lease for years, and paying rent under it, shall not be allowed to change the nature of such possession, and to set up a title to the fee by accepting a conveyance of the fee from persons claiming adversely to those under whom the lease is held, although the right be in such person; nor will the acts of A, and those under whom he derives, treating such interest as freehold for several years, conveying and settling it as such, give a title different from that under which the possession was originally gained. Saunders v. Ld. Annesley, 2 Scho. & L. 73.

If a person, having the mere right, obtains possession by contract with him who has it, he cannot be remitted to his mere right, but must hold the possession according as he received it, because it was his folly to take possession in that manner without recovering it by lawful means. Id. 103.

Non-payment of rent reserved on a lease, though for upwards of twenty years, shall not bar the lessor from recovering possession at the expiration of the term. Id. 106. RENT, NON-PAYMENT OF; LENGTH OF TIME.

Lessee of tithes filing bill for satisfaction of them, need not set forth his lessor's title. Cruthorne v. Taylor, 2 Bro. P. C. 512. PL. BILL.

VI. WHEN EVIDENCE OF TITLE PRESUMED.

Where from the answer itself there is strong presumption against defendant's title, and which is impeached by the bill, court will grant a receiver. Stitwell v. Williams, 6 Mad. 49. ANSWER; PL. RECEIVER.

No presumption of a grant of mines against an express reservation of a sale many years ago, merely from permitting expenditure without claim. Norway v. Roe, 19 Ves. 156. LENGTH OF TIME; MINES.

The court must govern itself by a moral certainty upon title, for it is impossible there should be a mathematical certainty. Hillary v. Waller, 12 Ves. 252.

Possession is the criterion of title to a personal chattel; the property therefore changed by sale in market overt. That rule adopted by the bankrupt law; distinction as to landed possession not even prima facie evidence. Legal title in contemplation of bankruptcy, protected by the previous equitable title. Hiern v. Mill, 13 Ves. 122.

To make good a title to the residue of an old term, mesne assignments, which cannot be produced, will be presumed even at law. White v. Foljambie, 11 Ves. 350.

Upon possession for many years, the origin of it not appearing, and no title except as cestui qui trust, under a term to raise a sum of money, the court would not presume any other title, and therefore decreed the plaintiff to be let into possession on payment of the charge, but with reluctance, and upon the laches, refused an account of the rents even from the filing of the bill. Acherley v. Roe, 5 Ves. 565. LENGTH OF TIME; ACCOUNT; LACHES.

VII. RELIEF AND PROTECTION GENERALLY.

Plaintiff in equity must state his title in bill, and unless admitted by defendant, must prove it. Norbury v. Meade, 3 Bli. 211. BILL.

Demurrer allowed to a bill, stating the alternative, a title at law, or in equity. Edward v. Edward, 1 Jac. 335. PL. BILL, UNCERTAINTY.

Where the possession of an estate can be referred to a good and valid title, equity will not refer it to a title obtained by fraud or disseisin. Conray v. Caulfield, 2 Ball. B. 255.

Persons doubting their rights and compromising them, are thereby bound. Burke v. Crosbie, 1 Ball & B. 504. COMPROMISE.

Where title is defective and acquiesced in, with knowledge of its being so, then the possession is quieted. Shine v. Gough, 1 Ball & B. 444. PL. BILL OF PRACE.

Question of title in King's printer in Ireland to print Irish statutes, not proper for equity. Grierson v. Fyfe, 9 Ves. 341. JURISDICTION.

Injunction obtained on affidavit against pasturing cattle and cutting in a wood, the plaintiff prayed the injunction as tenant in fee or as lord of the manor, inclosing under the statute, the defendants denying the former title, and as to the latter, claiming common of pasture and estovers, and stating that after inclosure, sufficient common of pasture would not be left, the plaintiff having before the bill filed, been nonsuited in an action of trespass, and entered into an agreement with some of the tenants. The injunction was dissolved on the answer. Quare, Whether the original and new affidavits would be read in such case. Hanson v. Gardiner, 7 Ves. 305. PR. INJUNC. TO STAY WASTE.

In a bill to perpetuate testimony of a right of common and way, the plaintiffs claimed in right of their estates, or otherwise; this is too loose; a demurrer therefore allowed. Cressett v. Mutton, 3 Bro. C. C. 481. Vide S. C. 1 Ves. J. 449. PL. BILL, AMBIGUITY.

Where bill is brought to establish title and for perpetual injunction, it is the established practice to dismiss bill, though defendant has answered and insisted on matter of title. Welby v. De Rutland, 2 Bro. P. C. 39. INJUNC.

A subsequent title which is both legal and equitable, destroys a prior equitable title. Hayshaw v. Yates, 1 Str. 240. MERGER.

TOLERATION ACT.

As to this act and doctrine of religion, condemned by law, see Att. Gen. v. Pearson, 3 Mer. 353.

No new right is given by the toleration act, but only an exemption from the penal laws. De Costa v. De Paz, 2 Swan. 490. S. C. Dick. 258. Amb. 228.

The act of toleration, 1 W. & M. c. 18, was made to protect persons of tender consciences, and to exempt them from penalties; but to extend it to clergymen of the church of England, who act contrary to the rules of discipline of the church, would introduce the utmost confusion. Trebec v. Keith, 2 Atk. 501.

TOLLS.

Though validity of custom of toll has been established in a former suit, yet this court has jurisdiction to decree an account of toll. Norfolk v. Myers, 4 Mad. 83. JURISDICTION; CUSTOM; ACCOUNT.

Plaintiff having first established his title to tolls at law, equity will decree account of such as are subtracted. Mayor, &c., Reading v. Winkworth, 5 Price, 473. ACCOUNT; JURISDICTION.

If a turnpike keeper levy an extra toll, and upon adjudication by two magistrates (under the Bath act) it is determined that the toll was not due, the money may be recovered back in an action for money had and received, and notice of action need not be given; for where a power is given to justices to determine, it is final, unless an appeal is expressly given. Parsons v. Blandy, Wightw. 22.

Money secured on mortgage of turnpike tolls, is an interest in land, and within the statute of mortmain; but there is another sort of toll which gives no right at all in the land, and that is a toll thorough. Knapp v. Williams, 4 Ves. 430. (n).

Bill by the lord, claiming a prescriptive right to tolls for goods landed, and praying a discovery of the goods landed; he is not entitled to a discovery till he has established his right at law, aliter where the title is in equity. Northleigh v. Laiscomb, Amb. 612.

Bill stating a right to a toll out of every bushel of corn brought to a market, and an evasion thereof by defendant and others by selling at his own house; demurrer allowed, the remedy being at law. Hawley v. Taylor, 3 Atk. 816.

Bill to establish a right to tolls for carts coming into a manor, dismissed, it not appearing that the toll bars stood within the manor. Att. Gen. v. Ayre, Bunb. 68.

Bill for tolls for landing goods in plaintiff's manor, dismissed as proper at law. Disney v. Robertson, Bunb. 41.

So a bill for beaconage, which plaintiff claimed by letters patent, and defendants admitted to have paid, though they insisted they had paid it in their own wrong. Boston Mayor v. Jackson, Bunb. 101.

TRADE.

See also GOODWILL.

Specific performance of agreement to sell goodwill of trade, and exclusive use of secret therein. Bryson v. Whitehead, 1 S. & S. 74. SPEC. PER. ; GOODWILL.

The sole proprietor of a recipe for making a medicine assigned it, on the marriage of his daughter, to trustees in trust for her and her husband for their lives, and directed that after their decease it should be sold for the benefit of their children. The mother destroyed the recipe, and verbally communicated the contents, to the eldest son for the benefit of the other children. On a bill by some of younger children against him, he was declared to hold the secret upon the trusts of the settlement, and was decreed to account for the profits made by the sale of the medicine after his mother's death; and as a sale was impracticable, an issue was directed to ascertain the value of the secret. Green v. Folgham, 1 S. & S. 398. TRUST; ACCOUNT; SETTLEMENT.

Trader may sell secret in trade, and restrain himself generally from use of it. Bryson v. Whitehead, 1 S. & S. 74. PUBLIC POLICY; TRADE, RESTRAINTS ON.

Specific performance decreed of agreement to sell goodwill of trade, and exclusive use of secret therein. Id. SPEC. PERF.; GOODWILL; TRADE, SECRET IN.

Injunction to restrain a defendant from communicating certain recipes for medicines, and vending them, granted, on the ground that he had obtained a knowledge of the mode of preparing them by a breach of trust. Youatt v. Winyard, 1 Jac. & W. 394. INJUNCTION AGAINST BREACH OF TRUST.

Contract with the proprietors of a theatre not to write dramatic pieces for any other, legal, as a similar restraint of a performer would be; not resembling a covenant restraining trade generally. Morris v. Coleman, 18 Ves. 437. CONTRACT.

Covenant restraining trade within particular limits, or partners from carrying on the same trade for their private benefit, good. Id. ib.

Sale of a trade with the goodwill does not prevent the vendors setting up again a similar trade, without express covenant or fraud, by representing it as a continuation of the old trade, by conduct encouraging others to involve themselves, in the confidence that he would not trade again, &c. Sale under a commission of bankruptcy of the waggon trade from B to L, with the goodwill, another concern from B to W and S, being purchased in trust for the bankrupt, who having obtained his certificate commenced trade again to L, by that road, soliciting customers by advertisement and cards, stating generally that being reinstated by his friends in the carrying business, his waggons set out at the usual hours, &c. an injunction was refused. Crutwell v. Lye, 17 Ves. 335. VEND. & PURCH.; GOODWILL.

As to a validity of a bylaw of corporation, the company of Whitstable fishermen, that any freeman engaging in any other oyster fishery on the coast of Kent, should forfeit 10*l.*, and until payment should be excluded from all share of the profits which should in the meantime be derived, as if he had wholly ceased to be a freeman, and whether such suspension is open to a mandamus as a temporary disfranchisement, Quære? Adley v. Whitstable Comp., 17 Ves. 313. See further 19 Ves. 304. S. C. 1 Mer. 107. BY-LAW OF CORP.

The statute of frauds does not require that a trust shall be created by writing, but that it shall be proved by writing, which may be subsequent to its commencement; therefore a trust may be raised by implication from letters, and a paper referred to by them in the handwriting of the party, though not signed or dated, and by operation of law from advances of money; but when letters are to raise a trust, there must be a demonstration that they relate to the subject; in this case, M. R. said, the court had gone too far in taking cases out of the statute of frauds, on the ground of part performance, or the relief ought to be confined to compensation. On appeal, Ld. Ch. affirmed the decree at the Rolls, and determined that this case was not within the statute of frauds, the question being a question of fact, whether a partnership subsisted in a colliery: but the evidence from books and papers being admitted, and the interest in the lease of the colliery passing as an incident to the trade, by operation of law, his lordship refused to direct an issue. Foster v. Hall, 3 Ves. 696. 5 Ves. 508.

If joint tenants of leasehold or freehold lay out money jointly upon it, in the way of trade, there is no survivorship. Lyster v. Dolland, 1 Ves. J. 435. JOINT TENANT; SURVIVORSHIP; REAL ESTATE.

All contracts relating to matters of trade shall be expounded by usage of trade. Baker v. Paine, 1 Ves. 459.

An injunction to restrain a man in the exercise of his trade refused before answer. Jackson v. Barnard, Ridgw. 259. INJUNC.

Transactions with a foreign prince and his government do not concern the trade of merchandise. Sturt v. Mellish, 2 Atk. 612. STAT. OF LIMITATIONS.

A letter of attorney from one merchant to another to get in debts will not make the person so deputed a merchant within the exception of 21 Jac. 1. c. 16. s. 3. Id.

Charles T. having granted a charter to the card-makers' company to use the Mogul stamp on cards; plaintiff suggesting a sole right, as having appropriated it to himself conformable to the charter, moved for an injunction to restrain defendant: but Ld. Ch. refused it. The objection of the defendant taking away the plaintiff's customers by using the same mark (the Mogul stamp on his cards) is of no more weight than if one inn-keeper should set up the same sign as another. But a cloth-worker may maintain an action against another of the same trade for using his mark, where it is done with a fraudulent design to put off bad cloths, or to draw away customers. The court, however, will never establish a right claimed under a charter only from the crown, unless the right has been first tried at law. Blanchard v. Hill, 2 Atk. 484.

A goldsmith, without any directions from the proprietors, subscribed lottery orders into the S. S. Comp. he was held indemnified by the act 6 Geo. 1. c. 4. s. 23. empowering all trustees, guardians, executors, &c. to make such subscriptions, and it would have been the same if the estui que trust had forbid him to subscribe. Trenchard v. Wanley, 2 P. W. 165. And in the next term in Weaver v. Fowler, Ld. Maclesfield made the same resolution. 2 P. W. 170. TRUSTEE.

TRADER.

See also BANKCY. III.—STAT. C. OF, II. 42.—and see post, Appendix.

When a trader shall die entitled to any real estate in lands, &c., the same shall be assets to be administered in for payment of all his debts, &c. Creditors by specialty, in which heirs are bound, shall be first paid. Act not to repeal Irish act of 33 G. 2. c. 14. 47 G. 3. sess. 2. c. 74. s. 1, 2. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Where legacies were charged on real estate of trader, and his devisee and executor sold part of the real estates before the debts were paid, held, that purchasers, notwithstanding the 47th G. 3. sess. 2. c. 74., were liable to see to application of purchase money. Horn v. Horn, 2 S. & S. 448. VEND. & PURCH.; STAT. C. OF.

The act of 47 Geo. 3. sess. 2. c. 74. applies only to persons who were traders at the time of their decease, and not to persons who have bond fide left off trade before they died; consequently the real estate of such latter persons are not subject to simple contract debts.

Hitchon v. Bennett, 4 Mad. 180. REAL ESTATE; STAT. C. OF.

Motion, by simple contract creditors of one who had been a trader, but ceased to be so, and was not a trader at the time of his death, for a receiver, upon affidavit before answer, refused, not being within the 47th Geo. 3. sess. 2. c. 74. Keene v. Riley, 3 Mer. 436. DEBTOR & CRED.; RECEIVER; STAT. C. OF.

I. GENERALLY.

<sup>A</sup> Where defendant admits by answer, that there is a trust fund in his hands, court will always, on interlocutory application, order payment into court. So, here executor is a debtor to testator at testator's death. Rothwell v. Rothwell, 2 S. & S. 217. PAYMENT INTO COURT; PL. ANSWER, ADMISSION.

Court will not order clause "enabling trustees to appoint others," to be inserted, in conveyance, there being no provision to that effect in trust deed. Bayly v. Mansell, 4 Mad. 266. TRUSTEES.

If land or money be properly given for maintaining "the worship of God," without more, the court will execute the trust in favour of the established religion; but if it be clearly expressed, that the purposes, are for of maintaining dissenting doctrines, so long as they are not contrary to law, the court will execute the trust according to the express intention; and where, as in this case, the intention clearly appears aliunde, though not expressed in the instrument creating the trust; the court will also carry the manifest design of the founder into execution, so far as it is consistent with law. Att. Gen. v. Pearson, 3 Mer. 409. DISSIDENTERS.

It is clear that a suit may be maintained against a public officer having in his hands money issued by government for the use of an individual, for the recovery of such money: but where government had ordered the money to be withheld, the question is only between government and the individual or his assignees, and the court has no jurisdiction. Priddy v. Rose, 3 Mer. 102. PUBLIC OFFICER; JURISDICTION.

Constructive trusts held not within the 52 G. 3. c. 101. which gives relief upon petition, in the case of charities. Epp. Brown, Coop. 295. CHARITY PETITIONS; STAT. C. OF.

Regulation of trust charity, supported by voluntary contribution, is proper subject for bill, not of information. Davis v. Jenkins, 3 V. & B. 151. CHARITY.

In cases of personal trust under a will, the court never interferes, unless the trust be corruptly executed. Potter v. Chapman, Amb. 99. S. C. 1 Dick. 146.

It would be dangerous where a person enters on the foot of a trust, and never makes any declaration of his having performed the trust, in pursuance of the will, to construe this such an entry, as that a fine and non-claim would bar the right of plaintiff, a remainderman. Shields v. Atkins, 3 Atk. 560. FINE AND NON-CLAIM.

Deed of trust for payment of such creditors as come in within a year, a creditor will not be excluded, though he doth not come in until after the year; but a bill may be exhibited after the year, to compel the creditors, who stand out, to come in or renounce the benefit of the trust. Dunch v. Kent, 1 Vern. 260. DEBTOR & CRED.

II. HOW CONSTITUTED.

Where A, having certain funds standing to his credit at his banker's, by letter directed them to carry some parts of such funds to the account of certain persons as trustees for his wife, and, after her decease for his son, and other parts thereof to the account of certain persons as trustees for his son; and such sums were accordingly carried over by the bankers to the account of such persons in their books, and the dividends were from time to time carried to the same accounts, but the testator never communicated the facts to the trustees, and there was some evidence that the testator had directed the transfer under an impression that he should be able by that means to evade the legacy duty, and that he had shewn an intention to exercise some acts of ownership over the funds: the court held, that the appropriations were void; and that the testator might at any time have revoked them. Gaskell v. Gaskell, 2 Y. & J. 402. ADMON. OF ASSETS; APPROPRIATION.

A testator having given an annuity to one of his next of kin, and expressed a reason for giving nothing to the others, gave the residue of his property to his wife, recommending to her, and not doubting that she would consider his near relations as he would have done if he had survived her; held that there was no trust for the next of kin, but that the wife took the residue absolutely. Sale v. Moore, 1 Sim. 534. WILL, C. OF, WORDS PRECATORY.

Lease was granted to W, who afterwards committed act of bankruptcy, and executed declaration of trust in favour of R. On issue directed by court, it was found that W's name was used in trust for R. Held, lease did not pass to W's assignees. Gardner v. Rowe, 2 S. & S. 346. BANKRY. REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Testator, after giving his real and personal estates to his wife in fee, said that he had so given the same to her unfettered and unlimited, in full confidence that in her future disposition thereof she would distinguish the heirs of his late father by devising the whole of his estate, together and entire of his father's heirs as she might think best deserved her preference: Held, that no trust was created. Meredith v. Henrager, 1 Sim. 542. WILL, C. OF WORDS PRECATORY.

The sole proprietor of a recipe for making a medicine, assigned it on the marriage of his daughter to trustees in trust for her and her husband for their lives, and directed that after their deaths it should be sold for the benefit of the children. The mother destroyed the recipe, and verbally communicated the contents to the eldest son for the benefit of the other children. Upon bill by some of younger children against him, he was declared to hold the secret upon the trust of the settlement, and was decreed to account for the profits made by the sale of the medicine after his mother's death: and as a sale was impracticable, an issue was directed to ascertain the value of the secret. Green v. Folgham, 1 S. & S. 298. TRADE, SECRETS IN; ACCOUNT; SETTLEMENT.

Testator gave to his wife all his personal estate, relying that if she should marry again she would secure whatever she should possess under her will for her separate use; and he recommended her to give by her will what he should be possessed of under his will to certain persons named: Held, that the wife's executor was trustee of the whole property possessed by her under the will for those persons named. Horwood v. West, id. 387. WILL, C. OF.

A recommendation by a testator to his son to continue his nephews in the occupation of their farms as heretofore, and so long as they continue to manage the same in a good and husband-like manner, and to duly pay their rents, is imperative. Tibbits v. Tibbits, 1 Jac. 317. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Power of appointment in grantee for life, though in favour of particular objects, is not a trust, and may be extinguished by a recovery. Smith v. Death, 5 Mad. 371. RECOVERY; EXTINGUISHMENT OF POWER.

Request in will, will raise a trust if the objects and property are described with such certainty that the court can execute it; but otherwise the devise takes absolutely. Eade v. Eade, id. 119. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Bequest to A B "trusting she would use it" to indefinite purposes, creates no trust for those purposes. Curtis v. Hippom, id. 434. Id.

Tenant in possession procured a grant of the copyhold to son in remainder, and at same time surrendered it to use of will. Held not an advancement, and son only a trustee. Prankerd v. Prankerd, 1 S. & S. 1. ADVANCEMENT; PAR. & CHILD; COPYHOLD, SURRENDER.

The position that the mortgagee is a trustee for the mortgagor, to be received with considerable qualification.

Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 2 Jac. & W. 182. MORTGAGE.

Transfer of stock of intestate into name of himself jointly with that of husband of one of his two nieces, accompanied with proof of his having said in his lifetime that it was his intention to give husband stock at his death in consideration of affection, &c. and that he had transferred it for that purpose (if not repelled by counter testimony), held to be sufficient proof of gift of such stock, and no trust; and the court will not continue injunction granted to restrain husband, who had administered, from disposing of it. George v. Howard, 7 Price, 646. GIFT; EVIDENCE.

W, landlord to P, having the power to distrain for rent in arrear, and having distrained for part, and being a creditor of P for money lent, as well as for rent in arrear, upon P's representing to him that he is also indebted to G to the amount of about 900*l.* for which he is in fear of arrest, and about to leave the country, undertakes that if P will give up to him the farm and execute an assignment of all his property, he will pay G's debt in the first instance out of the proceeds, and apply the residue in satisfaction of his own demand, and pay the surplus (if any) to P, who executes a bill of sale to W accordingly on the faith of such undertaking. Upon the bill of G and P, this agreement was enforced against W to the extent of 900*l.*, the alleged amount of G's debt, but no further, the actual debt having proved to exceed that amount; and not prevented from having effect, either by the circumstance that P's property fell short of the estimated amount, or of P's being at the time indebted to other persons besides G and W, which formed no part of the consideration for the agreement, although noticed in W's undertaking as having been represented otherwise. The engagement to pay G in the first instance not being made directly to G, but through the medium of P, by whom also the consideration was furnished, P held, in a court of equity, to be a trustee for G. But quære, if the plaintiffs could recover at law upon such agreement? Gregory v. Williams, 3 Mer. 582.

A invests, in name of trustees, stock as security to B against certain payments. Stock remains for a long time uncalled upon. A cannot have it re-invested in himself, but dividends ordered in future to be paid to A. Linton v. Hyde, Mad. 91. SECURITY, RE-TRANSFER OF.

Words of entreaty in a will held, on construction, to raise a trust. Prevost v. Clarke, id. 458. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Devise to a son, recommending him to continue his cousins A and B in the occupation of their respective farms in the county of W as heretofore, and so long as they continue to manage the same in a good and husbandlike manner, and to duly pay their rents; a trust for the cousins, who had been tenants at will; and the son being the heir, was put to his election. As to the effect of election against the will, whether compensation or forfeiture. Qu? Tibbits v. Tibbits, 19 Ves. 656. WILL, C. OF; ELECTION; HEIR AT LAW.

Recommendation in a will, where the object and subject are certain, amounts to trust. Id. 664. WILL, C. OF, WORDS RECOMMENDATORY.

No trust under words of recommendation and confidence applied to an uncertain subject, as what shall be left after the death of a person to whom the property is given in the first instance. Id. ib.

Direction to trustees to cut trees in aid of testator's real and personal estate, held not a trust, but a mere power upon the whole of the will. Gower v. Eyre, Coop. 156. POWER; WILL, C. OF.

Codicil requiring and entreating the executor, who was also residuary legatee, by will or deed to settle and secure 500*l.* to be paid at his decease; the testator declaring that he had omitted to express it in his will, not doubting that the executor will readily comply with the request; a trust by way of legacy out of the assets: not a condition enforced independent of them. Taylor v. George, 2 V. & B. 378. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Appointment of a sum of money by will: the appointee to pay an annuity, and give bond for the payment: the appointment lapsing by the death of the appointee in the life of the testator, the annuity is a trust by way of legacy, not a condition. Id. 381. WILL, C. OF.

A tenant for life of a leasehold interest, the subject of settlement, surrendering the lease and taking a new one for his own benefit, is a trustee for those entitled to estates in remainder under the settlement; and an accumulation of rent from the death of the tenant for life to the expiration of the new lease, belongs not to his devisee but to the person next entitled under the settlement. Eyre v. Dolphin, 2 Ball & B. 290. TENANT FOR LIFE & REMAINDER; SURRENDER OF LEASE.

Trustee of lease renewing for his own benefit, is considered as still holding for his cestui que trust, though it is clear the lessor would not have renewed for cestui que trust. Fitzgibbon v. Scanlan, 1 Dow, P. Rep. 269. LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Devise to a nephew in fee, "not doubting in case he should have no child, but that he will dispose and give my said real estate to the female descendants of my sister, in such part or parts and manner as he shall think fit, in preference to any descendant on his own female line;" a trust in the event described for the sister's children. Parsons v. Barker, 18 Ves. 476. WORDS, PRECATORY.

Precatory words held imperative where the object and subject are certain. Dashwood v. Peyton, 18 Ves. 41. WORDS PRECATORY.

Lease of premises where a partnership trade was carried on, renewed by one partner in his own name clandestinely, is a trust for the partnership, to be accounted for as joint property. Featherstonhaugh v. Fenwick, 17 Ves. 298.

Lease obtained by a person interfering with the assets, and compelling the surrender by executors of a leasehold interest, bequeathed to minors, a graft on the former lease so surrendered. Mulcahy v. Dillon, 1 Ball & B. 409. LEASE.

Devise and bequest of real and leasehold estates to the deviser's widow and her heirs for ever, in fullest confidence that after her decease she will devise the property to my family: held, an estate for life only, with remainder in trust for the deviser's heir as persona designata. Wright v. Atkyns, 17 Ves. 255. Affd. 19 Ves. 299. See also Cooper, 111. 1 Ves. & B. 313. 1 Turn. & R. 143. WILL, C. OF; PRECATORY.

A new lease obtained by a mortgagee of a leasehold interest which had been evicted for non-payment of rent, taken after the expiration of six and nine months, allowed to the lessee and mortgagee to redeem by 3 G. 4. c. 2. s. 4., but in pursuance of a contract entered into in the period between the six and nine months, if the parties interested did not redeem, is not a graft on the former lease, nor a trust for the lessee, the mortgagee not being in possession nor procuring the lease behind the back of the lessee. The principles on which courts of equity act in considering renewed interests obtained by mortgagees, trustees, &c., to be grafts are, that the advantage was procured either by being in possession, or, when out of it, by a contrivance to oust the lessee of the benefit of renewal. Nesbitt v. Tredennick, 1 Ball & B. 29. LEASE, GRAFT; MORTGAGE & MORTGEE.

Conveyance to B of an estate, the money being paid by A; B is a trustee, and C taking from B with notice, is also a trustee. Mackreth v. Symonds, 16 Ves. 350.

Purchase in the name of another is a trust for the party, who pays the consideration except by a parent in the name of his child, which is presumed an advancement, the presumption capable of being rebutted; but does not give way to slight circumstances. Finch v. Finch, 15 Ves. 43.

If trust is mentioned but is not expressed, or is ineffectually created or fails, the next of kin are entitled; but if the person taking has a discretion whether to make the application or not, it is an absolute gift and not a trust. Morice v. Up. Durham, 10 Ves. 535.

No trust arises on words of request or recommendation, unless the objects and subjects are certain. Id. 536. WORDS PRECATORY.

An executor to a tenant by sufferance or at will, obtaining a larger interest, is a trustee for the residuary legatee, like the case of general occupancy. James v. Dean, 11 Ves. 392. Affd. 15 Ves. 236. EXECUTOR; RENEWAL OF LEASE.

Renewal of a lease taken by a trustee, shall accrue to the benefit of the cestui que trust. Griffin v. Griffin, 1 Scho. & L. 352. LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Legacy to a father, the better to enable him to provide for his younger children: he consented to secure the capital, but was held entitled to the interest. Brown v. Casamajor, 4 Ves. 498. LEGACY; PARENT & CHILD.

When letters are to raise a trust, there must be demonstration that they relate to the subject. Forster v. Hale, 3 Ves. 708. EVIDENCE.

Testator in India gives all his estates and effects to A in England, in trust, and directs his property to be remitted to him; and, after several legacies, he gives A 800*l.*, and requests him, as soon as the property is remitted, to lay out the same in the funds or other securities, which shall appear most advantageous for those who shall be benefited by it hereafter. The 800*l.* is a beneficial legacy, not in trust. Wadley v. North, 3 Ves. 364. WILL, C. OF.

Bequest to A for life, with power, on her marriage, to appoint the interest to her husband for life, and a recommendation to dispose of the principal after her own death and the determination of the preceding trusts, among the children of B. The recommendation being held an absolute trust, it is a vested interest in all the children, subject to be divested by appointment; and there being no appointment, children born after the death of the testator, and those who died in the life of A, are entitled with the rest. Malin v. Barker, 3 Ves. 150. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY; INTEREST VESTED.

Provision by will increased, upon evidence of the testator's request to the executor and residuary legatee, and his promise; upon which the testator refused to make a new will, and said he would leave it to the generosity of the executor. Barron v. Greenough, 3 Ves. 162. EVID. PAROL.

Testator gave the residue of his personal estate to his wife, desiring her to provide for his daughter, A, out of the same, as long as she, his wife, should live, and, at her decease, to dispose of what shall be left among his children, in such manner as she shall judge most proper. This is not an absolute trust for the children after the death of the wife. Pushman v. Filliter, 3 Ves. 7. WILL, C. OF.

Trust raised, under a recommendation by will to a legatee to dispose of her legacy among certain persons after her death. Malem v. Keighley, 2 Ves. J. 529. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Testator, by shewing his desire, creates a trust, unless plain words or necessary implication that there is a discretion to defeat it. S. C. Id. 335. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

If a father purchases an estate in the name of a younger son, and the eldest disclaims a trust on his part, unless a creditor interpose, it shall be deemed an advancement for the son in whose name it was made. So is the rule laid down in Grey v. Grey, Finch, 338, where there is no clear proof of a trust between father and son, the law will not imply a trust. If a son is married in his father's lifetime, and by him fully advanced, as in a manner emancipated, there a purchase by a father in the name of a son, may be a trust for the father; but where the son is not advanced, or is advanced or emancipated but in part, in such case, there is no room for any construction of a trust by implication; without clear proof to the contrary, it must be taken as an advancement for the son. Redington v. Redington, 3 Ridgw. P. C. 176. 179. PARENT & CHILD; ADVANCEMENT.

Parol evidence not admissible to raise an equity, that a pension granted by the crown to the defendant was in trust for the plaintiff, against the oath of the defendant in his answer. Fordyce v. Willis, 3 Bro. C. C. 577. EVID. PAROL.

A devise to A for life, with liberty to leave the same to whom she thought most deserving of it, recommending to her to have a due regard to the testatrix's mother's relations, is not mandatory as to the objects of the appointment. Randel v. Hearle, 1 Anst. 124. WILL, C. OF; WORDS RECOMMENDATORY.

Residuary legatee dying in life of testator, executors are trustees of residue for next of kin, though no legacy to them, except 10l. to one for mourning. Bennett v. Batchelor, 1 Ves. J. 63. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 28. LEGACY LAPSED; EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

Copyhold granted to A, and B his wife, and C his son, to take in succession for their lives and the life of the survivors. The purchase money was all paid by A. C is not a trustee of his life interest for A, but takes it beneficially as an advancement from his father. Dyer v. Dyer, 2 Cox, 92. ADVANCEMENT; PARENT & CHILD.

A, possessed of a church lease for three lives, devised it to trustees for certain purposes till his son, R, should attain twenty-one; and when his said son should attain that age, he directed his trustees to stand seized of it to the use of his said son, and the heirs of his body: and, by a codicil, he directed, that if his son, R, should die without issue, his son, P, should inherit the estate in the same manner as R was to inherit it. R, being quasi tenant in tail, if he surrender this lease, and take a new one to himself and his heirs for three new lives, there is no equity on behalf of P, to make R or his devisees trustees of the new lease for P. Blake v. Blake, 1 Cox, 266. TEN. IN TAIL; LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Husband lends out money, in the names of himself and his wife, upon mortgages and bonds, and dies. The wife is entitled to this by survivorship, if there are assets sufficient without this money to pay debts. Christ's Hospital v. Budgin, 2 Vern. 683. HUSB. & WIFE; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Where a tenant for life of leaseholds under a marriage settlement suffered the lease to expire, and obtained another lease, and died, it was held, that the renewed lease must be held upon the trusts of the settlement, and not enure for the benefit of his representative. Pickering v. Towles, 1 Bro. C. C. 197. LEASE, RENEWAL OF; TRUST.

Words of confidence, desire, or request, in order to raise a trust, not only attach on a precise subject of property, but also describe with precision the objects of bounty. In this case, a bequest of leaseholds to a brother, "hoping he will continue them in the family," was held insufficient. Harland v. Trigg, 1 Bro. C. C. 442. WILL, C. OF.

Devise to testator's wife, "not doubting she will give what shall be left to my grandchildren," not sufficiently certain to raise a trust. For such purpose, the objects must not only be defined, but the subject of property precisely ascertained, so as to be incapable of diminution by the party. Wynne v. Hawkins, 1 Bro. C. C. 179. WILL, C. OF.

Estate devised to a body corporate, which cannot take by the statute of mortmain, in trust to sell land, and apply the proceeds for persons competent to take; though the devise of the legal estate is void at law, yet the trusts shall not be defeated; the heir at law therefore considered as a trustee for the purpose. Sonley v. Master, &c. of Clock Makers' Comp. 1 Bro. C. C. 81. MORTMAIN; CORPORATION; HEIR AT LAW.

Deputation procured by father for a natural son, on security of his estate in J, held to be for son's own benefit, and not in trust. Beckford v. Beckford, Loft, 490. ADVANCEMENT; BASTARD; PARENT & CHILD.

Tenant for life, with remainders over, of a crown lease for years, applies for a further term: a powerful opponent applies for a grant: the tenant for life gives up her pretensions for a sum of money. The money shall be settled to the same uses as the estate was. Owen v. Williams, Amb. 734. LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

One bequeathed several leasehold estates, held for years under the Duchy of Cornwall, to his wife, during so many years of the term as she shall live, and, after her decease, if the terms of the several leases be then in being, unto and amongst, &c. The wife got an additional term; and held, it shall not be for her own benefit, but should go to the uses of the will. Haw v. Chichester, Amb. 715. WILL, C. OF; LEASE, RENEWAL OF; TEN. FOR LIFE.

If trustees or mortgagees renew, the new lease is always subject to the trust and limitations of the old lease. Id. 719. RENEWAL OF LEASE.

C, having two sons, and being engaged in the sugar trade, devised his sugar houses, &c. to his eldest son; nevertheless, he gave his eldest son should die without a son or sons of his body, then he recommended to him to give and devise the sugar houses, &c., to his brother, the testator's second son. The eldest son died without issue male, leaving a daughter, and without devising to his brother. Held, not a trust for the brother, but a mere recommendation. Cunliffe v. Cunliffe, Amb. 586. WILL, C. OF WORDS PRECATORY.

Tenant for life of a lease from the crown, in settlement, got an additional term in reversion, in his own name. This shall be a trust for the uses of the settlement. Tarter v. Marriott, Amb. 668. Reuk v. Sandford, Sel. Ch. Ca. 2.

Land surrendered to lord, is not vested in him as a trustee. George v. Jew, Amb. 628. Coryhold, SURRENDER OF.

The court is cautious in following money into land, but will do it if proved that the money was laid out in land; the doubt is on the proof; always done, when admitted on the answer of person laying it out. Lane v. Dighton, Amb. 413. VEND. & PURCH.

Sale declared to be made, subject to the trusts of the testator's will, where under a decree that his real estate, (which was devised in strict settlement, subject to debts) should be sold; the sale had been effected by collusion between the creditors and tenants for life. Alcanton v. Molesworth, 1 Eden, 18. SALE.

One seized of an estate, subject to several equitable incumbrances, sells it to a purchaser, and conveys the legal estate to him free from incumbrances, which were later in date to the others: the purchaser having no notice of the other incumbrances, was held a trustee for the excepted incumbrances only, and they were preferred to the other creditors. *Ingram v. A father having provided for his eldest son, but not for the rest, takes a security for the proceeds of an estate, sold in the name of himself and eldest son: held, a trust for the father's personal representatives. Pole v. Pole, 1 Ves. 76.

Where a man enters into a treaty with a mortgagee for the purchase of his interest, but finding he has not the legal estate, procures it to be conveyed to himself without privity of the mortgagee, equity will consider such person as a trustee for the mortgagee. Houres v. Wadhwa, Ridgw. 199.

A trust is, where there is such a confidence between parties that no action will lie, but is a case merely for the consideration of equity. Start v. Mellish, 2 Atk. 612.

Where, in execution of power, cestuique trust appoints trustees to convey to use of A, and charges estate with annuities; it is a conveyance of the legal estate to A and not a trust, so that length of time will run against annuities if not demanded. Weston v. Bous, 9 Mod. 309. PL. PREFA; LIMIT. STAT. OF; LENGTH OF TIME.

R, the last life in a bishop's lease, agrees with C to surrender this lease, on a promise of the bishop to grant a new one for the lives of R & C, and the son of C; and in consideration of C surrendering the old lease, it was agreed the new one should be in trust for the infant son of C. The whole purchase money was paid by C to the bishop, but the legal estate was granted in the new lease to R and his heirs during his own life, and the heirs of C; and his son C, after the death of R, took upon him to dispose of it: R, by a deed, dated the day after the lease, declares his intention to be, that C and his son should, after his decease, hold to them and the heirs during the remainder of the term: held, that R had a valuable share in the consideration of the new lease, giving up his interest in the old, and that having a right to declare the trust, C had his life only in the lease. Crop v. Norton, 2 Atk. 74. S. C. 9 Mod. 233. Barnard, 179. CONSIDERATION; LEASE; SURRENDER OF.

J had a rent charge granted to him and his assigns for three lives; J and his wife mortgaged it to A, his executors, administrators, and assigns, habendum to him, his heirs and assigns, during the three lives upon trust, that A, his executors, administrators and assigns, should enjoy 100l. per annum out of it, till the mortgagee was satisfied. A made an unattested will, and appointed plaintiff his executor, who brought his bill against the heir of A for this 100l. per annum: decreed, that the heir of J should take this rent charge, but for the benefit of the executor agreeable to the trust in the mortgage deed. Kendall v. Miffield, Barn. 46. RENT CHARGE; DEEDS, C. OF.

A devises lands to B, on condition to pay a sum of money, and no clause of entry; the legatee at law has no lien on the lands, but the heir of the testator shall enter for breach of condition, and yet in this court is but trustee for the legatee. Wigg v. Wigg, 1 Atk. 382. CONDITION.

There can be no constructive trust, but where the intent of testator is apparent. Willing and desiring G to sell, &c. are more properly words of injunction than trust. Hill v. Bp. of London, 1 Atk. 619.

A buys a copyhold estate for his own use and two lives in the manor of M, where the custom was, that whoever purchases in it the estate shall go in succession, and by his will devises all his real and personal estate to his wife: held, that though the legal interest was according to the custom of the manor, yet A has an equitable interest from being the sole purchaser, and shall be construed as a trustee for him, he having advanced the money. Smith v. Baker, 1 Atk. 385. COPYHOLD CUSTOM.

If mortgagee and mortgagee deposit deeds with A, A is a trustee for mortgagor before condition broken, and for mortgagee afterwards. Anon. 2 Eq. Ab. 284. DELIVERY OF DEEDS.

Two persons article that whatever J S shall leave to either of them, shall be equally divided between both; such agreement good, and shall be carried into execution by this court; also, if after this, one of them contrives that J S shall lease part of his estate to a third person in trust for him, this is within the articles. Beckley v. Newland, 2 P. W. 182. AGREEMENT TO DIVIDE WHAT LEFT BY WILL.

Mother gave bond to son conditioned to surrender copyhold to him, of which she was heiress: held, that she became trustee for son. Alison's Case, 9 Mod. 62. COVENANT; PARENT & CHILD.

A by marriage article covenanted that all lands, he should afterwards purchase in the parish of K, should be to the uses of the articles. He purchased lands in K, and took a conveyance in fee in the name of his youngest son; but there was no declaration of trust: held, that youngest son was a trustee as to the lands for the parties entitled under the settlement. Blake v. Blake, 7 Bro. P. C. 241. PARENT & CHILD; TRUST, DECLARATION OF.

Where in a grant of a copyhold for three lives, viz.

to the husband and wife and a third person, the fine was mentioned to be paid by the husband and wife. This, there being no full evidence to the contrary, made the third person only a trustee for the husband and wife and the survivor of them. Benger v. Drew, 1 P. W. 781.

If A devise all her personal estate to B, to be disposed of as B shall think fit, and add by parol, "You may, if you please, give 100*l.* to my niece;" B, on a bill, in the answer to which the parol declaration is admitted, shall be decreed to pay the 100*l.* to the niece. Nab v. Nab, 10 Mod. 404. WILL, CONSTRUCTION OR; WORDS PRECATORY.

A agrees for a beneficial lease of forty-one years, B advances money towards paying the fine, &c. and lease is taken in B's name without any declaration of trust: held, that B was a mere trustee for A, and upon being repaid his advance with interest, should assign the lease to A, account with him for the profits, and pay his costs: held also, that the trust being proved by letters of B's own hand writing, takes the case out of stat. of frauds. O'Hare v. O'Neill, 7 Bro. P. C. 227. STAT. OF FRAUDS.

In copyhold estates, the lord is a trustee for the heir, and is bound to admit him, though the lord be the original grantor; yet it is only in virtue of the trust reposed in him by the law. Mason v. Dixon, 13 B. Eq. R. 77. COPYHOLD.

A disinherits his son, and will gives the greatest part of his estate to B, and tells B, if his son behaved well, he might pay him 20*l.* a quarter; and if he used that well, he might make it up 40*l.* a quarter. Decreed 40*l.* a quarter to the son. Kingsman v. Kingsman, 2 Vern. 559. WILL, C. OF.

A devises land to his brother, and makes him executor, and wills, that out of the personal estate, and half a year's rent of his real estate, he should pay his legatees, and gives an annuity to his nephew to maintain him at college. It being proved that the brother promised the testator to pay the annuity, otherwise he would have charged his real estate therewith, decreed the real estate to be charged with the annuity. Oldham v. Litchfield, 2 Vern. 506. 2 Freem. 284. S. C. FRAUD, WILL PREVENTED BY.

Vendee under contract for purchase dying before conveyance, vendor is trustee for him. Darris' Case, 3 Salk. 86. VEND. & PURCH.

An executor by the very will empowered to purchase lands for the heir, yet the purchase being in his own name, and he dead, insolvent as to the other assets, the heir could not follow the land to make a trust for him; though the executor had told the mother of the purchase he was about to make, and had her consent; and so the executor's heir went away with the land for want of express proof of the application of the trust money. Hullott v. Markant, Piec. Chan. 168.

Though in the purchase deed, the consideration money is mentioned to be paid by the purchaser, and there is no express declaration of a trust, yet upon the circumstances of the case decreed a trust, though to the disappointment of the purchaser's will and of his creditors. El. Plymouth v. Hickman, 2 Vern. 167.

A, jointly seized with two others, conveys his third part to the use of himself for life; remainder to his wife for life, remainder to his son in fee, and at the same time makes his will and gives the same lands to his son in tail, charged with his debts. The son not a trustee for the father in the settlement; otherwise it would have been, if the entire fee had been conveyed to the son. Baylis v. Newton, 2 Vern. 28. SETTLEMENT, C. OF.

Three lessees of a church lease; one renews in his own name; it shall be a trust for all. Palmer v. Young, 1 Vern. 376.

A, having made his will and his wife executrix, the son prevails with the mother to get his father to make a new will, and that he might be made an executor, and promises to be a trustee for his mother: trust decreed. Thynn v. Thynn, 1 Vern. 296. WILL OBTAINED BY FRAUD.

If a grandfather takes a bond in the name of his grandchildren, their father being dead, this shall be deemed an advancement, and not a trust; for by the death of their father, the grandchildren are under the immediate care of their grandfather. Ehrand v. Dancer, 2 Ch. Ca. 26. PARENT & CHILD; ADVANCEMENT.

If an executor renews a lease, he shall account for the new lease, as well as the old one, for the benefit of the creditors. Anon, 2 Ch. Ca. 208.

It seems that any words of a testator intimating a "request, wish, desire, recommendation," &c. are sufficient to create a trust, provided there be certainty of the gift and of the object to be benefited thereby. Brst v. Offen, 1 Ch. Rep. 246. Parry v. Juron, 3 Ch. Rep. 38. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

If I give money to purchase lands to B and his heirs, and to permit me to take profits during life, B shall be compelled by subpana. Cary, 10.

A sells lands to B for 20*l.* in trust (understood) for A's use; A has no remedy; apparent consideration on face of indenture is an estoppel. Cary, 14.

Devise to wife "on confidence," that she will leave, &c. to his son, not relievable. Cary, 22.

III. EXECUTORY.

A trust created by will to purchase land to be added and closely entailed to testator's family estate, in the possession of T B, testator declaring that his object was to have a head to the family, and that if T B should die without male issue, or dispose of the family estate, the residue of his fortune should go to A B, or his nearest relative in the male line; how to be executed. Wadhams v. Burrows, 1 Sim. 512. WILL, C. OF.

Devise of copyhold estates, the legal estate being outstanding, "to my son R W G, to be entailed upon his male heirs, and failing such, to pass to his next brother, and so on from brother to brother, allowing 2500*l.* to be raised upon the estates for female children each." Whether a trust executed or executory; and if the latter, whether an estate tail in R W G, quæ? The point too doubtful to compel a purchaser to take the title. Jervise v. R. Northumberland, 1 Jac. & W. 559. VEND. & PURCH.; WILL, C. OF.

In executory trusts the court considers the intention of the testator, and acts according to it. In the latter this court follows the law. Id. 570.

No difference between marriage articles and executory trusts in wills, except that the former afford prima facie evidence of intent which does not belong to the latter. Id. 574.

Devise in trust for a son of the testator's nephew A, at the age of twenty-four; if he have no son, to A, son of the testator's great nephew B; but if neither have a son, then to a son of the testator's great niece's daughter, taking his name, whoever should take not to be put in possession of any part of the testator's effects until twenty-four, nor the executors to give up their trust till a proper entail be made to the heir male by him; is an executory trust in tail for an only son of A, in reversion at the testator's death; and not void for uncertainty, nor too remote. Blackburn v. Stubbs, 2 V. & B. 367. WILL, C. OF; WILL, UNCERTAINTY; LIMIT, TOO REMOTE.

No distinction between executory trusts by marriage articles and will, except the inference from the object of the former, to provide for the issue, that the father should not have the power to defeat it; therefore, estate for life, with remainder to the heirs of the body, a strict settlement in the one case, an estate tail in the other, unless clearly not meant in their technical sense: Id. 369. Sed vide 1 J. & W. 571. contra.

Conveyance to trustees, in trust to sell and purchase other estates to be settled. Those entitled under the limitations directed of the estates to be purchased, have equitable interests co-extensive until a sale; therefore, a specific performance was decreed of an agreement for partition against an objection to a title under a fine by a person who would have been tenant in tail of the estates to be purchased; the effect being an election to keep the estate, binding the trustees, though it may be questionable, whether they could take upon themselves to convey in fee to a person entitled to an estate tail only. Pearson v. Lane, 17 Ves. 101. PL. PARTY; SPEC. PERF.; TENANT IN TAIL.

In an executory trust to be effected by the court, it is sufficient if it can satisfy itself of the testator's intention to carry it into execution; therefore, where testator gave his real estate to A, to devise in strict settlement, and ordered other estates to be sold and converted into personality, and the produce, with the residue of his property to be laid out in lands in A, contiguous and convenient to his estate in A, and by strong expressions, (though without direct words,) showed he intended it to be to the same uses, it was decreed so to be. Brown v. De Laet, 4 Bro. C. C. 527. WILL, C. OF.

Testator directs his executors to invest personal estate in the purchase of real estates, which when purchased, he devises to A, to him and the male heirs of his body for ever, and if A should die without issue male, then he devised the same to the heir male of the body of B, after tail to A, the court will insert a limitation to trustees to preserve contingent remainders. Harrison v. Naylor, 2 Cox, 248. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 108. WILL, RECTIFYING MISTAKE IN.

Where testator directed that money should be laid out in lands to be conveyed after the expiration of a term to the use of B for life, and his first and other sons in tail male, remainder to several others successively for life, with like limitations; remainder to his own right heirs, and there were no trustees to preserve contingent remainders: decreed, that such trustees should be inserted in the conveyances, to be settled by the master, of the lands purchased with the money. Baskerville v. Baskerville, 2 Atk. 279.

Lord Hardwicke said, in the directions he gave in this case, that he adhered to the rules of conveyancing laid down by the great men before the restoration, and during the usurpation. S. C. Id.

Upon a trust in equity, no estate can be gained by disseisin, abatement, or intrusion, while the trustee continues in possession of the land, neither will equity suffer a merger of the trust estate; for uses and mere trusts stand on very different foundations, and are not governed by the same reasoning. All trusts are executory, and the court must follow the intent of the parties, as far as the rules of law will admit, howsoever improperly a will may be penned; therefore, if a testator intended a strict settlement, the court will direct it; and where the court makes use of the words "strict settlement" in an order, it implies a direction to the master to have trustees to preserve contingent remainders inserted, and whether a conveyance be directed or not, the court must decree one, when asked at a proper time. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Atk. 593. Vide Ld. Chalmersley v. Ld. Clinton, 2 Meriv. 173. 358. and 2 Jac. & W. 18. S. C. where the report of this case is corrected from a MS. note. MENON.

Where trust is executory, and to be carried into execution by the court of equity, they will direct a conveyance of lands, notwithstanding they are gavel-kind, according to the rule of common law. Roberts Dinwell, 1 Atk. 608. GAVELKIND.

IV. IMPLIED.

Testator expressing his will and desire, that one third of the principal of his estate and effects should be left entirely to the disposal of his wife, among such of her relations as she may think proper after the death of his sisters, a trust for her next of kin at the time of her death, having made no disposition. Birch v. Wade, 3 V. & B. 198. WILL, C. OF.

Trust by implication, without the word "trusts." King v. Denison, 1 V. & B. 273.

The statute of frauds does not require that a trust shall be created by writing, but that it shall be proved by writing, which may be subsequent to its commencement; therefore, a trust may be raised by implication from letters, and a paper referred to by them, in the hand-writing of the party, though not signed or dated, and by operation of law, from advances of money; but when letters are to raise a trust, there must be a demonstration that they relate to the subject; in this case the M. R. said the court had gone too far in taking cases out of the statute of frauds, on the ground of part performance, the relief ought to be confined to compensation. On appeal, Ld. Chancellor affirmed the decree at the Rolls, and determined that this case was not within the statute of frauds, the question being a question of fact, whether a partnership subsisted in a colliery; but the evidence from books and papers being admitted, and the interest in the lease of the colliery passing as an incident to the trade by operation of law, his lordship refused to direct an issue. Foster v. Hall, 3 Ves. 696. 5 Ves. 508. FRAUDS, STAT. OF.

Testator, on renewal of a lease, takes it in the names of his brother and himself, paying the fine, and receiving the profits himself. Held, not to be assets, but vested in the brother beneficially, upon the ground of intention, though proved but by one witness. Maddison v. Andrew, 1 Ves. 58. LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Trusts by implication arise where one party pays the purchase money, and the conveyance is taken in the name of another; but the rule is not so large as to extend to every voluntary conveyance. Young v. Peachy, 2 Atk. 256.

Trusts never implied or presumed without necessity. Cook v. Fountain, 3 Swan. 592. TRUSTS PRESUMED.

V. PRESUMED.

Presumption against intending an infant to be a trustee. King v. Denison, 1 V. & B. 278. INFANT. A purchase by A in name of B, a stranger in blood, is a trust for A, unless presumption is expelled by evidence. Rider v. Kidder, 10 Ves. 360.

Trustee for the purchase of land died without personal assets, but having purchased land, the estates purchased were held not liable to the trust, the circumstances affording no presumption that they were purchased in execution of the trust. Perry v. Philips, 4 Ves. 108. AFFID. 17 Ves. 173.

Payment made in the name of A with his money, raises a trust, but it is an equity which may be rebutted by evidence. Graham v. Graham, 1 Ves. J. 275.

Nature of presumptive trusts. Cook v. Fountain, 3 Swan. 591.

Trusts never implied or presumed without necessity. Id. 592. TRUSTS IMPLIED.

VI. RESULTING.

Where deviser directs that after payment of 800*l.* to charity, to be raised by sale of real estate, residue thereof should go to residuary devisee, legacy to charity being void, goes to heir, and not to residuary devisee, costs to be equally borne by each party. Question arising on residuary clause of will concerning lapsed legacy. Jones v. Mitchell, 1 S. & S. 290. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW; LAND DEVISED FOR SALE.

Devisee of an estate for charitable purposes, with a direction that the rents should not be raised: held, that this discretion was void, and that there was no resulting trust for the heir at law as to the increased rents. Att. Gen. v. Catherine Hall, Camb. 1 Jac. 381. WILL, C. OF; CHARITY; HEIR AT LAW.

Under a devise of all the residue of the testator's effects, whatever and wheresoever, of what nature or kind soever, to trustees, upon trusts applicable only to personal property: held, that a real estate passed, with a resulting trust for the heir. Dunnage v. White, 1 Jac. & W. 583. HEIR; WILL, C. OF.

Question of a resulting trust only arises between the real and personal representative of the testator, not between the representatives of a party taking under the will. Ashby v. Palmer, 1 Mer. 296.

Devise to trustees for ninety-nine years upon the trusts hereinafter expressed, and from and after the expiration or other sooner determination of the said term, in strict settlement: the term on trust being declared, decreed to attend the inheritance, according to the limitations of the will, and no resulting trust for the heir, upon the apparent intention to devise immediate estates subject to the term, not future estates expectant on its determination. Sidney v. Shelley, 19 Ves. 352. S. C. Coop. 206. WILL, C. OF; TERM TO ATTEND; HEIR AT LAW.

Wherever land, &c. which would descend to heir at law, is devised for purposes which law will not suffer to take effect, the heir at law shall have the benefit of the interest so devised, as undistributed of; whether testator meant he should have it or not. Tregonwell v. Sydenham, 3 Dow, 194. HEIR AT LAW; WILL, C. OF.

Testator limiting remainder to his right heirs, shews his intention, that, failing the devise, the heirs should take. Id. 208. Id.

Resulting trust by a joint advance upon a purchase in the name of one. Wray v. Steele, 2 V. & B. 388.

Money produced by sale of real estate bequeathed for charitable uses, is a resulting trust for the heir. Gibbs v. Rumsey, 2 V. & B. 294. MORTGAGE; HEIR AT LAW.

Renewal of a college lease by tenant for life, with a power of appointment, in her own name, and at her expence, has not the effect of an appointment in her own favour; and therefore, by the death of the appointee, in the life of the tenant, there will be a resulting trust by lapse for the representative of the author of the power. Brookman v. Hales, 2 V. & B. 45. POWER, EXEC. OF; LEASE, RENEWAL OF.

Devise of freehold estate in trust to sell and apply the money towards payment of the legacies; the residue of the personal estate, after payment of debts, legacies, &c. upon trust to convert all the said residue of his personal estate into ready money, to be laid out in freehold property, to be settled. The personal estate, leaving a residue beyond the charges, the real estate a resulting trust for the heir at law; and charged with the legacies, not primarily, but only as an auxiliary fund to the personal estate. Alaugham v. Mason, 1 V. & B. 410. WILL, C. OF; CHARGE ON REAL ESTATE; TRUST TO PAY DEBTS.

Devise after payment of debts, legacies, &c. of specific freehold and leasehold estates to A, subject to incumbrances, and of all other his freehold and lease-hold estates, together with all his personal estate, to trustees, to sell; and out of the money, in the first place to pay their expences in execution of the will or trust, and without farther disposition, appointing the trustees executors: a resulting trust as to the produce of the real estate for the heir at law. Hill v. Cook, 1 V. & B. 173. WILL, C. OF.

Construction of a devise in fee, subject to and chargeable with annuities, upon the intention, collected from the whole will; a beneficial devise and not a trust resulting to the heir as to the surplus beyond the annuities. King v. Denison, 1 V. & B. 260. WILL, C. OF.

Distinction between a devise, charged with debts, and on trust to pay debts: the former a beneficial devise, subject to the particular purpose; the latter limited to the particular purpose; and therefore the interest not exhausted a resulting trust for the heir. Id. 272. WILL, C. OF; TRUST TO PAY DEBTS.

No resulting trust for an heir taking a benefit by the will; but subject to circumstances. Id. 273. HEIR.

Conversion directed by will of real estate into personal, not to all intents, but for the purpose only of answering legacies and annuities subject to that as to the real estate, a resulting trust for the heir, which cannot be effected by an unattested codicil bequeathing a lapsed share of the residue. Hooper v. Goodwin, 18 Ves. 156. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW; CONVERSION OF REAL ESTATE.

Residuary bequest cancelled by striking through with a pencil all the general descriptions, with notes in pencil in the margin, indicating alteration and a different disposition of certain articles, a resulting trust for the next of kin. Mence v. Mence, 18 Ves. 348. WILL, C. OF; NEXT OF KIN.

Devise when the devisee attains twenty-one, a resulting trust for the heir until that period, and by the previous death of the devisee, the remainder accelerated. Chalmers v. Brailsford, 18 Ves. 369. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

Where in a will the intention of the testator being to provide an auxiliary fund for legacies, and not a complete conversion out and out; the residue of the real estate after making good the deficiency of the personal in payment of legacies, is a resulting trust for the heir, notwithstanding a legacy given him, and the testator appointed and devised residuary legatees. Kellett v. Kellett, 1 Ball & B. 533; Affid. 3 Dow, P. C. 248. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

Conversion of real estate into personal by will, particular purpose which failed, a resulting trust for heir. Williams v. Code, 16 Ves. 500. CONVERSION OF PROPERTY; HEIR AT LAW; WILL, C. OF.

Resulting trust for the heir; the only express devise being to convey to the deviser's son, from and after his age of thirty; which he did not attain; and no devise by implication from a declaration, that he shall have no power over the estate until his age of thirty. Nash v. Smith, 17 Ves. 29. HEIR AT LAW; WILL, C. OF.

Devise of real estate in trust to sell, if a conversion to the personal property, not absolutely but for partial purposes, as the payment of debts, a resulting trust as to the surplus for the heir, but as personal property. Wright v. Wright, 16 Ves. 188. DEVISE OF LANDS TO BE SOLD; HEIR AT LAW.

General devise and bequest upon trust, not sufficient to exhaust the whole property, a resulting trust for the heir and next of kin. Dawson v. Clarke, 15 Ves. 416; Affid. 18 Ves. 247.

Resulting trust for the heir, a special disposition of the money to be raised by sale of real estate failing by lapse. Gibbs v. Ougier, 12 Ves. 416. HEIR AT LAW.

Trust of an annuity for a charity charged upon a devised estate, being void under the act 9 Geo. 2. c. 36. does not pass by a residuary disposition, but sinks for the benefit of the specific devisees. Baker v. Hall, 12 Ves. 497. RESIDUE; DEVISEE; MONTMAYN; TRUST VOID.

Devise of real estate to be sold, the object being a provision for legacies, is not an absolute conversion, and is therefore a resulting trust for the heir at law as to surplus, though a residuary executor is appointed. Berry v. Usher, 11 Ves. 87. HEIR AT LAW; SURPLUS; CONVERSION; WILL, C. OF; DEVISE TO SELL.

Testator devised a copyhold estate to his wife, upon trust to sell, and invest the money in the funds, and gave and bequeathed the interest and dividends to her use. He also gave and bequeathed to her all his effects, whatsoever and wheresoever, for her maintenance, upon full trust and confidence in her justice and equity, that at her decease she would make a proper distribution of what effects might be left in money, goods, or otherwise, to his children, accounting what they had already received in money or effects as part of their shares. The widow, executrix, held entitled to the produce of the copyhold estate for life only, with a resulting trust as to the capital for the heir. The widow entitled to the absolute interest in the personal estate. Wilson v. Major, 11 Ves. 205. WILL, C. OF, WHAT INTEREST; HEIR AT LAW.

The distinction between a direction to sell real estate out and out, for payment of debts, and a charge for payment of debts is exploded, as to any effect in exempting the personality; in either case, the residue if undisposed of goes to the heir, unless there be a disposition made demonstrative of an intent that it shall change its nature, and become personal. Cleland v. Shaw, 2 Scho. & L. 523. LANDS DEVISED FOR SALE; HEIR AT LAW.

Bequest, in trust, for such objects of benevolence and liberality as trustee in his own discretion should most approve, cannot be supported as a charitable legacy, and is therefore a trust for the next of kin. Morice v. Bp. Durham, 9 Ves. 399; aff'd, 10 Ves. 522. WILL, UNCERTAINTY; CHARITY.

Purchase in the name of a wife, or child, ordinarily, not a resulting trust, being considered an advancement. Gluster v. Hunt, 3 Ves. 199. ADVANCEMENT.

Bequest of various particulars, comprising all the testator's personal estate to his wife for life, then, after specifically disposing of and charging with legacies certain parts after the death of his wife, he appointed her executrix, she paying debts and funeral expences. Held a resulting trust, as to the residue, there being no further disposition and no evidence. Dicks v. Lambert, 4 Ves. 725. S. C. 4 Bro. C. C. 326. WILL, C. OF; EXOR. BENEFICIAL INTEREST.

Devise in 1719 to charitable purposes, limiting the sum, there not being objects sufficient to exhaust the whole rents according to the directions of the will, and the whole being appropriated to the charities specified, the surplus was applied to increase them against the claim of the heir. Att. Gen. v. Minshull, 4 Ves. 11. HEIR AT LAW; AUGMENTATION OF CHARITY.

Devise upon a future contingency, and no intermediate disposition of the rents and profits; a resulting trust for the heir. Att. Gen. v. Buryer, 3 Ves. 725. HEIR AT LAW; FUTURE PROFITS.

Devise to A and her heirs, but if she dies under twenty-one and unmarried, to B and her heirs. A dies in the life of the testator under twenty-one, and without issue, but having been married, the heir is entitled. Williams v. Chitty, 3 Ves. 546. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

Testator gave real estates to be sold, and the produce to be considered as part of his personal estate, and thereout, and out of his personal estate, gave legacies to his next of kin, heir, and others; he gave other estates to be sold, and the produce to be considered from thenceforth as other part of his said personal estate, and to be disposed of in manner following: he then gave legacies and some estates specifically, and other legacies out of his said trust monies, and personal estate; and gave his executor 1000*l.* to be disposed of according to any instructions he might leave in writing; and gave all the residue of his goods and chattels, personal estate and effects, whatsoever, subject to debts, legacies, &c. No instructions being found, the heir is entitled to the 1000*l.* Collins v. Wakeman, 2 Ves. 683. Id. ib.

Land devised to be sold, the produce to be applied as after-mentioned, if no disposition is made, the heir shall take. Sheldon v. Barnes, 2 Ves. J. 447. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW; LAND DEVISED FOR SALE.

Settlement, upon marriage, of the wife's property only, upon certain trusts, for the husband, wife, and children, in one event for the husband absolutely, but making no provision for the event that happened; a resulting trust for the wife. Langham v. Nemy, 3 Ves. 467. SETTLEMENT, C. OF.

Where an estate is given to a charity, and the rents are afterwards increased, there is no resulting trust for the heir at law, but the charity shall have the advantage of the surplus rents. Att. Gen. v. Haberdashers' Comp. 4 Bro. C. C. 103. S. C. 2 Ves. J. 1. S. C. not S. P. 1 Ves. J. 295. CHARITY; ACCRETION.

Resulting trust for the heir at law, as to the produce of the sale of real estate not exhausted by a trust, in which it was combined with the personal. Robinson v. Taylor, 1 Ves. J. 44. RESIDUE; HEIR AT LAW.

A, by will, gave lands to trustees for terms, remainder to T. Lord Foley, and E. Foley for life. The trusts of the terms were for payment of scheduled debts, and to make an allowance to Lord Foley and E. Foley. The debts being stated to be paid, a trust results to the tenants for life. A demurrer by the trustees to a bill by creditors for an account as having no interest, therefore overruled. Davidson v. Foley, 2 Bro. C. C. 203. WILL, C. OF.

W conveyed estates in fee to trustees to sell and pay debts, &c., and afterwards to apply the residue, as follows: to raise a sum of 1500*l.*, and pay the interest to D till marriage, and pay the principal to D within twelve months after marriage, then to divide the residue in shares among the plaintiffs. By will, he gave out of other lands, a charge for another daughter, the residue to plaintiffs. D died unmarried, the 1500*l.* resulted to the settlor as a resulting trust, but in his hands was personal estate, and passed as the residue thereof, under the will, and not under the deed. Hewit v. Wright, 1 Bro. C. C. 86.

By will, real and personal to be sold. Legacies, &c. therewith to be paid; residue by fifths to five persons. One dies before testator. Held to be real estate to heir of testator. Digby v. Lingard, Dick. 500.

Where lord of manor by feoffment, grants certain parcels of common, &c. to trustees, for benefit of themselves and the rest of tenants of manor, in lieu of recompence for their several claims of common in all the rest of the common lands, &c. in the manor, the whole interest passes from the lord, and there is no resulting trust for him as to the ownership of the soil. Ireton v. Simpson, 7 Bro. P. C. 306.

A grants lease to B, which is intended to be in trust for A, and B declares in trust accordingly. B afterwards surrenders the lease to A, who makes a new lease to C without a declaration of trust. Held, that C was entitled to full benefit, and that no trust existed for A. Pilkington v. Bayley, 7 Bro. P. C. 383.

If A buy land in name of B, A may prove he paid the money, and there will be a resulting trust for him. So, where there is a declaration as to part of the land, the rest results. Lane v. Dighton, Ambl. 411.

Resulting trusts of coppholds, as well as of freeholds, are within the statute of frauds and perjuries. Withers v. Withers, Ambl. 152. STAT. OF FRAUDS; COPPHOLDS.

Where a resulting trust is insisted on in opposition to the legal operation of a will, parol evidence may be admitted to rebut the equity. Lake v. Lake, Ambl. 127. WILL, C. OF; EVIDENCE, PAROL.

Rents and profits undisposed of belong to the owner of the inheritance, or persons entitled to the enjoyment. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Ves. 268. Ca. temp. Talb. 44. RENTS AND PROFITS.

If in voluntary deeds and wills there is no declaration of trusts of term, they result to donor; but secus, if for valuable consideration, and in nature of contract for benefit of wife and issue. Brown v. Jones, 1 Atk. 190. DEEDS, C. OF; VOLUNTARY DEEDS; LIMITATION OF TERM.

A bare intention, or even negative words, will not exclude an heir at law from insisting on a resulting trust; but a man, by empowering other persons to dispose of his estate, disinherits his heir as much as by his own actual disposition; therefore where a testator appoints his executor to sell his estate, it is turned into personal assets, and leaves no resulting trust for the heir; but if the testator says, "I will my heir shall sell the land," he is not obliged to sell it. Cook v. Duckenfield, 2 Atk. 566. 568. POWER OF SALE; ASSETS.

He who pays purchase money has a resulting trust, but he must clearly prove payment. Willis v. Willis, 2 Atk. 71.

Parol evidence admitted to shew a trust from the mean circumstances of the pretended owner of the real estate. Id. PAR. EVIDENCE.

Nothing is a resulting trust under the stat. of frauds and perjuries, but what are called trusts by operation of law. Lloyd v. Spillet, 2 Atk. 150.

When an estate is purchased in the name of one person, and the money is paid by another, he has a resulting trust; or when it is declared only as to part, and nothing said as to the rest, what remains undisposed of, remains to the heir at law. Id. CONSIDERATION.

In neither instances had the court declared resulting trusts by operation of law unless in cases of fraud, and where transactions have been carried on multi bit. Id.

The heir at law does not want an express intention to take by will, though it is otherwise with regard to a deed. Id.

W II, by will, devised the perpetual advowson of S to W C, upon trust to present his son to the living, and that if the church shall next after his death be full of an incumbent, then to sell the perpetuity, and to apply the profit arising from the sale first to the payment of debts, and then to distribute the surplus in thirds to his daughters. The trustees presented the son, who died before the advowson was sold, leaving an infant daughter, who brought her bill, insisting upon a resulting trust in the advowson to her, as heir at law, after debts and legacies paid. Held, that the whole legal estate being devised away, there could be no resulting trust for the heir. Hawkins v. Chappel, 1 Atk. 621.

At common law, where an estate is devised to trustees and their heirs, the whole is gone from the heir; but in equity there may be a beneficial interest remaining to the heir upon the trust. Id. 622.

It is a certain rule in equity, that where an estate is charged with an incumbrance for payment of debts, and after such payment, the surplus is given over, the whole property vests in the residuary legatee. S. C. Id.

R S, rector of B, devised his perpetual advowson of B to G S, willing and desiring her to sell it to Eton college, and on their refusal, to Trinity college, and on the refusal of both, to any other college in Oxford or Cambridge, being the best purchaser. This is not a resulting trust of the advowson to the heirs of the testator, but a devise of the beneficial interest therein to G S, with an injunction only to sell to particular societies, and on an avoidance by the death of the testator, the devise and not the heir shall present. Hill v. Bp. of London, 1 Atk. 618.

Where a real estate is devised to be sold for payment of debts, and no more is said, there is clearly a resulting trust; but if a particular reason occurs why the testator should intend a beneficial interest to the devisee, there is no precedent that it shall not be held a beneficial interest. Id. 619.

It seems to have been a general rule, that where lands were devised for a particular purpose, that which remains after the purpose is satisfied, results. Id.

Lands devised to his wife and her heirs, to be sold for the payment of debts and legacies in aid of the personal estate, and not being sold, if the personal estate is sufficient to discharge the whole, the heir shall have the lands as a resulting trust. Buggins v. Yates, 9 Mod. 122. HEIR.

A directs that his estate should be sold after his death for several purposes, and amongst others, that 200*l.* should be disposed of as he, by a note, should appoint, and dies intestate, having given no directions. This 200*l.* shall be a resulting trust for the heir at law. Lamblyn v. Freeman, Prec. Chan. 541. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

One devises lands to his executors (who are not relations) to sell for the best price, and to pay debts, legacies, and funerals, so far as the same will extend, and gives legacies to his heirs at law, and 100*l.* to the children of one of his executors, but nothing to his executors; in such case, the executors shall be but trustees for the heirs at law, after debts paid. Starkey v. Brooks, 1 P. W. 390. EXORS. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED; HEIR AT LAW.

A devised to his wife a rent charge of 200*l.* for thirteen years, in trust, nevertheless, for the payment of his debts and legacies; he also devised to her certain lands in augmentation of her jointure. The surplus of this rent charge, after debts and legacies paid, is not a beneficial trust for the wife, but a resulting trust for the heir. Wych v. Packington, 3 Bro. P. C. 44. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

Upon settlement of lands to be sold in trust for several purposes, the residue is given to B and his heirs, reserving only 200*l.* to appointee of settlor; settlor died without appointing; the 200*l.* shall go to his heir, and not to B or his assignees. Anon. 1 Com. 345. SETTLER, C. OF; HEIR; POWER TO APPOINT.

Lands are devised to three persons and their heirs, to the use of them and their heirs, upon the trusts after mentioned, and then the testator directs them to convey part to A for life, and other part to B in tail, but gives no direction as to the remainder in fee, though two of the trustees were related to the testator, yet the remainder in fee will not belong to them, but be a resulting trust for the testator's son. Hobart v. Cs. Suffolk, 2 Vern. 644. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

A, by will, devises his lands to trustees to sell and dispose of the money as he by writing should appoint, and for want of appointment, to his four nephews, and by writing appoints his trustees to pay several sums to several persons, but not near the value of lands: decreed the surplus to the heir, and not to the nephews, as an interest resulting and not disposed of. City of London v. Garraway, 2 Vern. 571. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW; LANDS DEVISED TO BE SOLD; POWER.

Land is devised to trustees to sell, and out of the money arising by the sale, amongst other sums to pay 100*l.* to his heir at law; and no disposition is made by the testator of the surplus of his estate, the land shall not be turned into personal estate, nor more sold than is necessary to pay the legacy, and the heir shall have the surplus. Randall v. Bookey, 2 Vern. 425. PR. CH. 162. S. C. LAND DEVISED FOR SALE; SURPLUS; HEIR AT LAW.

A grant of the next avoidance to one without his privity, held a resulting trust for the grantor, no other trust being declared. Norfolk v. Browne, Prec. Chan. 80. GRANT.

A mortgagee assigns over his mortgage to J, and declares a trust by parol for other persons. J acknowledges the trust; there being an express trust declared, though by parol only, shall prevent a resulting trust to the assignor. Belasis v. Compton, 2 Vern. 294. TRUST, DECLARATION OF.

Devise of lands to his cousin A, and his heirs, in trust to be sold for payment of his debts and legacies, and makes A executor, the surplus after debts and legacies, no resulting trust for the heir, as it would have been in a like case on a conveyance executed. Conningham v. Mellish, Prec. Chan. 31. S. C. 2 Vern. 246. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

Term raised for a particular purpose, when that purpose is answered the term shall be in trust for the heir. Levet v. Needham, 2 Vern. 139. TERM SATISFIED; HEIR AT LAW.

If lands are appointed to pay debts, the heir is entitled to them when the debts are paid; and if to be sold he is entitled to the surplus, but if there be any abuse, his remedy is against the trustee and not against the purchaser. Culpepper v. Aston, 2 Ch. Ca. 115. Sed quare, if a purchaser with notice might not be affected. HEIR AT LAW; DEVISE TO PAY DEBTS; SURPLUS.

If a feme covert joins with her husband in a fine and mortgage of her jointure lands, there results a trust for her when the mortgage is paid, to have the lands again; so if a jointure is made of lands which are mortgaged, the wife may redeem, and her executor shall hold over till repaid with interest. Bertie v. Stile, 1 Ch. Ca. 271. Hussey v. Hayner, 2 Vent. 343. S. P. MORTGAGE; HUSB. & WIFE.

VII. VOID OR FRAUDULENT, LAPSED OR SUBSISTING.

If a testator means to create a trust, and the trust be ineffectually created, or fails, the next of kin take. Omnanney v. Butcher, 1 Turn. & R. 270. NEXT OF KIN.

Residue to trustees on trust for purposes too general for court to execute. Next of kin shall take. Vezey v. Jamson, 1 S. & S. 69. RESIDUE; NEXT OF KIN.

Where estate is devised in trust for two daughters for life, with remainders in each moiety for their children at twenty-one, and a power of sale is given to trustees, the power of sale subsists though one daughter is dead and her children have attained twenty-one. Traper v. Knightley, 6 Mad. 135. POWER OF SALE.

Trust of an annuity for a charity charged upon a devised estate being void under the act 9 G. 2. c. 36. does not pass by a residuary disposition, but sinks for the benefit of the specific devisees. Baker v. Hall, 12 Ves. 497. RESIDUE; MORTMAIN; TRUST RESULTING; DEVISEE.

A, being in insolvent circumstances, suffers another person to become the apparent owner of his farm (though under a secret trust for him.) A shall not have against the landlord, a specific execution of an agreement made by him with the trustee, the landlord supposing the trustee to have been the rightful owner, and confiding in his solvency. O'Hertthy v. Hedges, 1 Scho. & L. 123. FRAUD; SPEC. PERF.

Devise by will, attested by three witnesses, to A, B and C, and the heirs of the survivor; the bill stated that it was upon a secret trust for a charity declared by an instrument executed at the same time as the will, and attested by two witnesses only, which was admitted by the answer: Held, that the devise was void under the statute of mortmain. Bosson v. Statham, 1 Eden, 508. S. C. 1 Cox, 16. MORTMAIN.

Devise held to be void, being proved to be upon a secret trust for a charity; conveyances having been made by the devisees, and the trust declared, though they denied by their answer, having made any promise. Edwards v. Pike, 1 Eden, 267. MORTMAIN.

Money directed to be laid out in lands for an illegal purpose shall not be laid out for the heir, but the trust is void altogether. As to the testatrix's real estate, which was devised to be sold, partly for such purposes, the heir was declared entitled to the surplus proceeds. Mogg v. Hodges, 2 Ves. 52. HEIR AT LAW.

Devise to trustees for a charity, the trustees die in the testator's lifetime, this subsists in equity though lapsed at law. Att. Gen. v. Hickman, W. Kel. 4. CHARITY.

Bill for a discovery whether in a mortgage made by A to B, which had been assigned to the defendant, there was not some trust declared for the benefit of the plaintiff; defendant by answer denied that there was any trust declared for the plaintiff. The answer being replied to, the question at the hearing whether the defendant should be obliged to produce the deed, the court would not compel him to do it. Qu.? Hall v. Atkinson, 2 Vern. 463. PR. PRODUCTION OF DEEDS; DISCOVERY.

VIII. DECLARATION OF

On lease for lives to the lessee and her heirs, another to her and her executors; as to the effect in equity of a declaration of trust for A simply; quare? but if the leases were merely renewals by a guardian, the trust must follow the actual interest of the infant, viz. in one estate to the heir, in the other to the executor. Milner v. Id. Harewood, 18 Ves. 274. DISTRIBUTION.

All declarations of trust under the statute must be in writing. Willis v. Willis, 2 Atk. 71. FRAUDS, STAT. OF.

A purchases an estate in name of B, and suffers him to execute lease thereof, and gives receipt for rents in name of B, but no declaration of trust was executed by B. Bill by A's heir for conveyance and account dismissed. Delane v. Delane, 7 Bro. P. C. 279.

A, being in possession of lands for a long term of years, contracts for the purchase of the reversion and inheritance, but to prevent merger of the term takes conveyance to B absolutely and without declaration of trust from B. The title deeds remain throughout in the custody of A and those claiming under him. B held to be a trustee only for A. Lever v. Andrews, 7 Bro. P. C. 288.

Though there can be no parol declaration of a trust since 29 Car. 2. yet parol evidence is proper in avoidance of fraud. Hutchins v. Lee, 1 Atk. 448. EVIDENCE PAROL.

A, being in possession of the office of clerk of the crown, &c. in the King's Bench, in which B has also an estate for life, procures B to surrender, and solicits a patent for himself and C, and takes a note from C, promising to declare a trust for A. The patent afterwards is obtained; A dies in debt, and without calling for a declaration of this trust; this note was held to be a sufficient declaration of trust. Bellamy v. Burrow, Forbes. 97.

C lends money upon mortgage of copyhold, but being infirm, &c. surrender, &c. is taken in name of D, who executes a declaration of trust. C after purchases the equity of redemption, and second surrender is made in the name also of D, but without a declaration of trust: Held sufficient trust within the statute of frauds without a second declaration of trust. Acherley v. Acherley, 7 Bro. P. C. 273. STAT. OF FRAUDS.

A by marriage articles covenanted that all lands he should afterwards purchase in the parish of K, should be to the uses of the articles. He purchased lands in K and took a conveyance in fee in the name of his youngest son, without a declaration of trust: Held that youngest son was a trustee as to the lands for the parties entitled under the settlement. Blake v. Blake, 7 Bro. P. C. 241. PARENT AND CHILD; TRUST.

A, a freeman of London purchases in the name of B, but no trust declared. A dies, and B gives a declaration of trust, this is good against the custom. Ambrose v. Ambrose, 1 P. C. 321. CUSTOM OF LONDON.

A, by will, gave lands to S, and having afterwards purchased other lands, he on his death-bed desired B his heir at law, not to hinder S from enjoying the new purchased lands, though he had not by any writing declared the trust for S. B suffered S to enjoy the lands eleven years, and then pretended he thought the after-purchased lands had passed by the will; decreed that this was out of the statute of frauds, and that B letting S enjoy it so long, was an execution of the trust, and though no express fraud was proved against B, (as in Lester v. Foxcroft, Colles' P. C. 108.) yet the possession for eleven years was a strong presumption that he suffered it in execution of the testator's declaration. Harris v. Hurwell, Gilb. Eq. Rep. 11. FRAUDS, STAT. OF.

A purchases lands in his eldest son's name, and puts him into possession, &c. the son falling sick takes a declaration of trust from him, and after the son's recovery he is permitted to continue in possession. The son marries and dies, and then father gets a conveyance from his younger son. The eldest son's wife shall have dower in these lands. Bateman v. Bateman, 2 Vern. 436. DOWER; PARENT & CHILD.

Mortgage in fee 700*l.* paid by A, but half of the money was B's, yet for want of a declaration in writing, B was not admitted to read the proof of it so as to create a trust for him, being against the statute of frauds. Newton v. Preston, Prec. Chan. 103. PR. EVIDENCE.

A mortgagee assigns over his mortgage to S, and declares a trust by parol for other persons; J acknowledges the trust, there being an express trust declared though by parol only, shall prevent a resulting trust to the assignee. Belasis v. Compton, 2 Vern. 294. TRUST RESULTING.

Devise of 1500*l.* to A and B for such uses as testator had declared, to them, and by them not to be disclosed. A in the life of B writes a letter disclosing the trust. This is a good declaration of the trust. Crooke v. Brookeing, 2 Vern. 106.

A purchases in the name of B, and pays the purchase-money; B claims the estate; there being no declaration of trust, A may be admitted to read proofs that he paid the purchase-money, but then those proofs must be very clear to make it a trust arising by implication of law. Gascoigne v. Thwing, 1 Vern. 366. PR. EVID.

IX. CONSTRUCTION OF.

Power to trustees to lay out money on securities, includes power to give discharges to borrowers. Wood v. Harman, 5 Mad. 368. TRUSTEES, POWERS OF.

Trust to pay the dividends from time to time into the proper hands of a man, or on his proper order or receipt, subscribed with his own hand, that they should not be grantable, transferable, or otherwise assignable, by way of anticipation of any unreceived payment, or any part thereof; on his decease, the principal to be paid to such persons, as in a course of administration would become entitled to his personal estate, and he had died intestate; an interest for life in the dividends, assignable under a commission of bankruptcy, with a limitation over of the principal to those entitled under the statute of distributions. Brandon v. Robinson, 18 Ves. 429. BANKRU. ASSIGT.

A fee will pass without the word "heirs," where a trust of land can be satisfied in no other way. Villiers v. Villiers, 2 Atk. 72. FEE.

X. THEIR INCIDENTS.

Devise to a corporation upon trust, "from time to time yearly for ever," to lay out the yearly rents and profits in the repairs of a road, "at their discretions." Upon an information against the corporation, at the relation of the trustees of the road, under a turnpike act, an account was directed from the time of passing the act. No analogy in case of trust to the statute of limitations. Att. Gen. v. Brewer's Comp., 1 Mer. 495. LENGTH OF TIME; ACCOUNT.

Though no time bars a direct trust, as between cestuique trust and trustee, a constructive trust may be barred by long acquiescence; though the true state of the fact may be easily ascertained, and the ground of original relief was clear, and even arising out of fraud. Beckford v. Wade, 17 Ves. 97. LENGTH OF TIME.

Insurable interest exists in a trustee in respect of the legal interest in a ship, as in the cestui que trust, in respect of the equitable. Exp. Yallop, 15 Ves. 67. INSURANCE.

With respect to the operation of the statute of limitations upon cases of trusts in equity, the distinction is, if the trust be constituted by act of the parties, the possession of the trustee is the possession of the cestui que trust, and no length of such possession will bar; if a party is to be constituted a trustee by the decree of a court of equity, founded on fraud or the like, his possession is adverse, and the statute of limitations will run from the time that the circumstances of the fraud were discovered. Hovenden v. Ld. Annesley, 2 Scho. & L. 633. LIMIT. STAT. OF.

Where question arises on interest in a trust fund, separated from general residue, the costs must come out of the particular fund, and having been given by decree, as specifically prayed by bill, out of the general personal estate, the decree, although affirmed in other respects, was corrected in that particular, being considered as relief prayed, and therefore not within the rule against appeal for costs only. Jenour v. Jenour, 10 Ves. 562. COSTS; APPEAL.

Rule that trust estate will pass by a general devise, is confined by objects, appearing on will inconsistent with that intention. Exp. Morgan, 10 Ves. 101. WILL, G. OF, WHAT PASSES.

By a devise in general terms, a trust estate will pass, unless an intention to the contrary can be collected from expressions in the will, or purposes, or objects, of the testator. Ld. Braybrooke v. Inskip, 8 Ves. 417. WILL. C. OF, WHAT PASSES.

A renewal taken by tenant for life, of a lease for lives, is a trust for the benefit of those in remainder, and a fine levied by the heir of such tenant for life keeping possession of the title deeds will not bar those in remainder; nor will any length of time during such a suppression of deeds. Bowles v. Stewart, 1 Scho. & L. 209. LEASE, RENEWAL OF; SUPPRESSION OF DEEDS.

Under residuary disposition by will to natural son, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns for ever, to and for his and their own use and behoof; a trust estate did not pass. Exp. Brettell, 6 Ves. 576. WILL. C. OF, WHAT PASSES; BARTARD.

A general devise by a trustee did not pass the trust estate. Att. Gen. v. Butler, 5 Ves. 339. WILL. C. OF, WHAT PASSES.

Trust legacy cannot lapse by death of trustee. Moggeridge v. Thackwell, 1 Ves. J. 475. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 517. affd. 13 Ves. 416. LAPSED LEGACIES.

Costs of course out of the fund to agents, receivers, and trustees, who have accounted fairly, and paid money into court; costs cannot be given to a college individually, nor as a corporation, unless proved so. Att. Gen. v. City of London, 1 Ves. J. 246. S. C. 3 Bro. C. C. 171. Pn. COSTS.

A rule that trusts are not within the statute of limitations, applies only as between trustee and cestui que trust, and will not hold where a claim is made after a great length of time against a trustee by implication of law, more especially where such implication is to be raised upon a doubtful equity. Townsend v. Townsend, 1 Cox, 28. S. C. 1 Bro. C. C. 551. quod vide. LIMIT, STAT. OF.

If a trust goes too far, it is void only for the excess, if capable of being clearly distinguished. Phipps v. Kelynge, cited, 2 V. & B. 57, note (b). EXCESS.

In a manor, the custom was to grant for three lives successively; A, being the last life in an old copy, obtained a fresh grant to B & C; A, paying the whole fine, B & C were held trustees for A. Withers v. Withers, Amb. 151.

Trust to take effect, according to the whole intent or not at all. Mogg v. Hodges, 2 Ves. 541.

Where the legal estate is in trustee, copyhold lands will pass under the will of cestui que trust, without surrender before the statute. Gibson v. Rogers, Amb. 94. S. C. 1 Ves. 485. 4 Ves. 288. (n). COPYHOLD; SURRENDER TO USE OF WILL.

Where legal interest in copyhold is in one, and equitable interest is in another, court can order, in bankruptcy, trustee to surrender without consent of cestui que trust. Exp. Butler, 1 Atk. 215. BANKCY. CONVEYANCE; SURRENDER OF COPYHOLD.

A wife is not dowable out of the trust of a customary freehold. Godwin v. Wismore, 2 Atk. 526. DOWER OF WHAT.

That a wife is not dowable of a trust estate is now an established doctrine. S. C. Id.

In Banks v. Sutton, 2 Plo. 705, 717, Sir John Jekyll took a distinction in regard to a trust, where it descended to the husband from another, and not created by himself, but Ld. Talbot afterwards, in the case of the Att. Gen. v. Scott, Forbes 138, determined directly contrary to this distinction. S. C. Id.

Trust estate in copyhold unsurrendered will pass by will unattested. Tuffnell v. Page, 2 Atk. 37. S. C. Barnard. 9 Dick. 76. COPYHOLD; WILL.

The trust of a copyhold not necessary to be surrendered. Macey v. Shurmer, 1 Atk. 390. COPYHOLD, SURRENDER.

A devises a trust estate to B and his heirs, and dies; B dies; the wife of B cannot be endowed of it Att. Gen. v. Scott, Forbes. 138. DOWEN.

A trust or equity of redemption of a copyhold cannot pass by a will, unless attested by three witnesses. Wagstaffe v. Wagstaffe, 2 P. W. 261. Appleyard v. Wood, Sel. Ch. Ca. 42. But see Tuffnell v. Page, Dick. 76. S. C. 2 Atk. 37. WILL, ATTESTATION OF; COPYHOLD; EQUITY OF REDEMPTION.

Statute of limitations cannot be pleaded where legal estate is in trustees. Lawley v. Lawley, 9 Mod. 33. PL. PLEA; STAT. OF LIMITATIONS.

There shall be a tenancy by the curtesy of a trust, as well as of a legal estate. Watts v. Bule, 1 P. W. 108. TENANCY BY CURTESY.

The widow of the cestui que trust of a copyhold estate shall have her free-bench as well as if her husband had had the legal estate; money is to be invested in land, and settled on a woman in tail; she marries, has a child, and dies, before the money is laid out. The husband shall have the interest of the money for his life. A man shall be tenant by curtesy of a trust, as well as of a legal estate. Outaay v. Hudson, 2 Vern. 585. HUSB. & WIFE; CHOSE IN ACTION; TENANT BY CURTESY.

A and his wife being assignees of a lease, mortgage to B; A becomes insolvent, and the title, not being good, C, who had the real title, in compassion to A's wife, makes a lease in trust for her. Decreed, the trustees to make a new mortgage to B. Seabourne v. Powell, 2 Vern. 11.

Statute of limitations does not run against a trust. Holles' case, 2 Vent. 345. STAT. OF LIMITATIONS.

Plaintiff, who was made chief justice at Oxford during the differences between the king and his parliament, but never sat at Westminster, brought his bill against the prothonotaries for an account of the monies received by them, by an implied trust, virtute officii, to which they pleaded the statute. Plea over-ruled. Sir Ed. Heath v. Henley, 1 Ch. Ca. 21. 3 Ch. Rep. 8; for the statute of limitations does not extend to a trust. Sheldon v. Wildman, 2 Ch. Ca. 26. 2 Freeman. 156. STAT. OF LIMITATIONS.

XI. ASSIGNMENT OF.

A trust for sale vested in A and his heirs cannot be executed by an assignee of A. Bradford v. Belfield, 2 Sim. 264.

Bill against a trustee who has assigned his trust; the assignee ought to be made a party as the decree should be first against him, and the trustee to stand as a security. Burt v. Dennet, 2 Bro. C. C. 225. PL. PARTY.

Trust estate will pass by a general devise. Hawkins Obern, 2 Ves. 559. WILL. C. OF, WHAT PASSES.

Trust of copyhold passes by unattested will. Tuffnell v. Page, Dick. 76. S. C. 2 Atk. 37. Barn. 12. But see contra, 2 P. W. 261.

A being impropriator of a parish, demised part of the tithes to certain parishioners as trustees for 1000 years, who re-demised it to him for 999 years under the yearly rent of 50*l.* payable to the trustees, as a provision for a preacher, to be nominated by the trustees. The heir of A afterwards sold the rectory to B, and the representative of the surviving trustee was prevailed upon to assign to B, the right of nominating a preacher. From the date of the original demise, and for forty years after the latter transaction, the preacher was constantly nominated by the parishioners; but upon a contest between them and B, it was held that the right of nomination was absolutely in the trustees, and that the assignment of that right was a breach of trust; and directions were given by the house of lords for the re-establishment of the trust in trustees to be impartially chosen. Foley v. Att. Gen., 7 Bro. P. C. 249. BREACH OF TRUST.

A, seised of the manor and patronage of W, by will gives 100*l.* per annum rent-charge, and the advowson to six trustees, and those trustees when reduced, to choose others; B, the only surviving trustee assigns his trust to others who nominate to the church, being a donative; decreed the assignees of the trust, though the assignment was made by one only who survived, had the right to nominate to the church and not the owner of the manor. Att. Gen., v. Floyer, 2 Ves. 748. ADVOWSON.

A, by will, gives 300*l.* to a feme covert without creating any separate trust of it, made payable out of a reversion expectant on an estate for life. The legatee's husband makes an assignment of this legacy to trustees for the benefit of his children, and after by will taking notice of the legacy, devises it in like manner for the benefit of his children, and makes his wife executrix and dies. The estate for life drops, and the widow applies to the executor of the first testator for the 300*l.* legacy, the widow and executor come to an agreement that she should accept of 200*l.* in full, and the land was sold. The widow joined in the sale and the 200*l.* was paid, and the widow gave a release; bill brought by the children for the 300*l.* legacy under their father's assignment and will; decreed that the husband had a power to extinguish or release the legacy, and had made a good assignment of it in equity, (though not at law as a chose in action) which he confirming by his will, had bound his wife the legatee. The widow giving no notice of this assignment, the executor should be answerable for the 200*l.* to the children, but as to the 100*l.* which the executor had drawn her in to release, he should stand charged with, for he ought at first to have paid the whole legacy; and though this legacy was charged on a fund which was not immediate for raising it, yet being given to the wife in presenti, when the fund comes in, it shall carry interest from testator's death, which must likewise go to the children. Atkins v. Darbury, 1 Gillb. Eq. Rep. 88. Vide 1 Ch. Ca. 232. 3 Ch. Rep. 90. 1 Roll. Ab. 380. HUSB. & WIFE; ASSIGNMENT OF CHOSE IN ACTION.

XII. EXECUTION AND SATISFACTION OF.

Where parent is tenant for life with remainder over to trustees for 500 years, upon interest to raise portions for younger children, and parent has power to appoint portions by deed or will, they cannot be raised during parent's lifetime, and whole sum cannot be raised until they have attained twenty-one. Hagben v. Bold, 1 S. & S. 507. PORTIONS.

A trust to be carried into execution by the court, must be of such a nature that it can be under the control of the court. Omnunney v. Butcher, 1 Turn. & R. 270.

Infant died seised of equitable estate descended ex parte maternâ. His incapacity to call for conveyance of legal estate, (whereby course of descent might be changed,) is not reason for it to be considered as actually done, it being trustee's duty not to convey till called upon. Langley v. Sneyd, 1 S. & S. 45. INFANT; DESCENT; ESTATE LEGAL; ESTATE EQUITABLE.

"I give to A C 500*l.*, and it is my will and desire that A C may dispose of the same amongst her relations, as she by will may think proper." Held a trust for the relations of A C, and the 500*l.* well bequeathed by the will of A C to her sister, and her sister's children, though made without reference to the will of the first testator. Forbes v. Ball, 3 Mer. 437. WILL, C. OF; WORDS PRECATORY.

Residuary devise and bequest for such of the testator's relations and kindred in such proportions, &c. as his executors should think proper, recommending and advising his said trustees and executors to give the greatest share to such person and persons who in their opinion and judgment should appear to them to be his nearest relations and most deserving, declaring his intention not to control their discretion, but that every thing relative to that disposition, who were his relations, and the proportions, should be entirely in the discretion of the said trustees and executors, and the heirs, executors and administrators of the survivor of them: held, a trust and a power: the ground of the power being personal confidence, it is prima facie limited to the original trustees, not without express words passing to others to whom by legal transmission the same character may happen to belong; and cannot be executed by the devisees and executors, for that specific purpose only, of the surviving trustee; a trust, therefore, executed by the court for the next of kin at the death of the testator according to the statute of distributions. Cole v. Wade, 16 Ves. 27.

The real estate, except what was converted in execution of the power, taken by the next of kin as real, the will not operating a conversion out and out; the representative, therefore, the trust being disappointed, taking the respective estates as they find them, have no equity against each other, the costs apportioned according to the value of the real and personal estates. Walter v. Maunde, 19 Ves. 424. WILL, C. OF TRUSTEES, DISCRETIONARY POWER.

Where a term for years was by settlement vested in trustees to raise, by sale or mortgage, money to discharge the debts of the tenant for life, who, soon after with his own money pays the debts, without taking assignments of the securities: a mortgage of it by the trustees, several years after, by direction of the tenant for life, is a due execution of the trust. Tenant for life has, during his own life, a right to call for an execution of the trust, and to stand in the place of creditors. After an express declaration of the tenant for life to charge, it cannot, from the debts being paid by him, from no assignment of the securities being taken, or from length of time, be presumed he intended to exonerate the estate. Reddington v. Reddington, 1 Ball & B. 131. MORTGAGE; TENANT FOR LIFE.

This court cannot execute a mere power, but will execute a trust which fails by the death of the trustee or accident. Brown v. Higgs, 8 Ves. 570. JURISDIC.; POWER.

Power, which by the will the party is requested to execute as a duty, he is a trustee for the exercise of it, and has no discretion as to the exercise of it or not: the court adopts the principle as to trusts, and will not permit his negligence, accident, or other circumstances, to disappoint the interest of those for whose benefit he is to execute it. Id. 574.

Where by neglect the number of trustees in a trust to present to a living was not filled up at the time of an avoidance, the court would not by injunction prevent the effect of a presentation under the legal title of the heir of the surviving trustee, without a special ground; but the court will take care as to the future, that the trust shall be properly filled up. Att. Gen. v. Bp. Litchfield, 5 Ves. 825. PRESENTATION TO LIVING; LACHES; INJUNCTION.

Under a commission of charitable uses, it was agreed, that copyhold lands formerly surrendered for maintenance of a minister in W. Chapel should be let, and the rents employed towards maintenance of the minister to be chosen and appointed by the inhabitants, and presented and allowed by the lord of the manor, who, upon complaint, might give the minister half a year's warning, and if he had not reformed by that time, remove him; the information prayed, that the lord might be decreed to allow and approve the candidate who had the majority of votes, which was refused on the ground of misconduct, and the evidence clearly proving it, a new election was directed, upon which the same candidate being returned, and producing strong affidavits of good conduct for the last six years, the decree stating the affidavits declared, that in consequence of them, the relator deserved the approbation of the trustees. Att. Gen. v. Mary. Stafford, 3 Ves. 77. CHARITABLE USES.

Trustees of copyholds in trust for repairing the church of A, and chapel of B, in that parish, by desire of the parishioners bought new ground and built a new chapel, the old being too small, and in ruins: this was held not a deviation from the trust, and the trustees were allowed to apply the rents and savings towards it, but not to mortgage the estate. Att. Gen. v. Foyster, 1 Aust. 116. CHARITY.

A trust fund is created by will to be laid out in the purchase of lands: an estate is purchased, and trust money is laid out in repairs and improvements; this is a misapplication, and shall not be allowed; part of the trust money was sold out just before a dividend was payable; no allowance can be made to the tenant for life who would be entitled to the dividend in the price: where a trustee sells out trust money, the cestui que trust may elect whether he will have it replaced, or be paid the produce of it. Hosbeck v. Blakeney, 2 Bro. C. C. 653.

Archbishop P. devised his options to trustees, regard being had in the dispositions of them according to their discretion, to his eldest son, Dr. P., the husbands of his daughters, his present and former chaplains, &c.: held a personal trust, and the trusteeship of C. being vacant, one of the trustees might present the other, he being within the description in the will. Potter v. Chapman, Amb. 98. S. C. 1 Dick. 146. WILL, C. OF; PRESENTATION TO BENEFICE.

A collegiate body compellable to execute a trust as a private person, and though the bill not brought recently. Green v. Ruthforth, 1 Ves. 468. COLLEGE; LACHES.

Presentation to a living; twenty-five trustees were to meet and to present and elect a clergyman; one dies, the rest are equally divided, half being in favour of A, the rest voting for B: upon the death of the supporters of the latter, the friends of A meet and sign a presentation for him: this is void at law, and cannot be supported in equity: there should have been a distinct notice for the meeting of all; a direction, that the trustees should meet for such purpose within "four months," from the death of an incumbent, does not prevent their meeting after that time: trustees cannot make proxies to vote in such a personal trust as the above, though if a choice were regularly made at a proper meeting, they might, for the mere purpose of signing the presentation. Disusage evidence of abandonment by consent, as to part of a constitution, which arose from consent. Att. Gen. v. Scott, 1 Ves. 413. PRESENTATION TO BENEFICE.

Trustees for a parish having the right of electing a vicar, cannot vote by proxy, for it is a personal trust. Wilson v. Dennison, Amb. 82.

J S, by will, lent 8784l. to A, in trust, to be invested in lands, and settled on herself for life; remainder to the heirs of B. A decree was had against A, to lay out the money in lands, and to settle the same according to J S's will. A purchased land to the value of 3300l. and devised those lands to C (who was heir at law to B) and her heirs, and gave several legacies, which could not be paid if the devise were not to be taken as part satisfaction, and for that reason it was so decreed. Gibson v. Scudamore, Sel. Ch. Ca. 63.

Where office of justice or profits is in trust, the majority of cestui que trusts may bind the rest. ounger v. Welham, 3 Swan. 180. PUBLIC OFFICER.

XIII. BREACH OF.

Court ordering loss on trust estate, in consequence of conduct of trustees, to be made up by trustees personally, refused interest on account, which was comparatively but a small sum. Bone v. Cooke, 13 Price, 343. S. C. 1 M'Clel. 168. INTEREST.

Where a person, executor and trustee of legacy to be laid out in stock, has fully administered estate and assented to legacy, and retains legacy in his hands not as assets but as trustee, he is liable for breach of trust, and ordered to purchase stock at price of time when he was first able to invest. Byrchall v. Bradford, 6 Mad. 235. LEGACY; TRUSTEE AND EXOR.

Where act of sale by trustees takes place, under circumstances of breach of trust, court will not decree specific performance in favour of bona fide or innocent purchaser. Ord v. Noel, 5 Mad. 438. SPEC. PERF.

Bankers, the agents of executors, and authorized by them to receive certain assets, but prior to receiving them, advancing the amount to executors, in the course of their duty as agents, and afterwards applying the assets when received in payment of the amount of such advances, are not responsible in respect of a misapplication by the executors; agents not being privy to any intention of such misapplication. Kenne v. Roberts, 4 Mad. 332. EXOR.; PRIN. & AGENT.

Charity estate given for the maintenance of ten decayed householders, applied to the poor of the parish generally; whether a breach of trust, if amongst the poor maintained, there have been as many as ten, who would have been proper objects of the charity; Qu? Exp. Fowler, 1 Jac. & W. 70. CHARITY.

Where some of the members of a firm are trustees of funds which they misapply, by making use of them for partnership purposes; if such misapplication be with the knowledge of the other members of the firm, the cestui que trusts may prove against the joint estate. Exp. Heaton, Buck, 386. BANKCY. PROOF IN.

A deed of compromise executed by cestui que trust, with the representatives and creditors of a deceased trustee, guilty of a breach of trust, rescinded, and co-trustees declared responsible. Walker v. Symonds, 3 Swan. 2. COMPROMISE; FRAUD.

The investment of money on personal security is a breach of trust. S. C. Id. 63. INVESTMENT; PERSONAL SECURITY.

Cestui que trust concurring or acquiescing in a breach of trust, not entitled to relief; subject to inquiry into the circumstances which induced concurrence or acquiescence. Id. 64. CESTUI QUE TRUST; ACQUIESCENCE.

Right of a cestui que trust to proceed separately against one trustee implicated in a joint breach of trust. Id. 75. PL. PARTIES; CO-TRUSTEES.

Trustees having committed breach of trust by granting longer leases than they had power by deed to do; the fact of cestui que trust receiving rents from the lessees, in ignorance of the invalidity of the leases, does not operate as a new agreement. But account only directed from filing of bill, without costs to plaintiff. Boues v. East London Waterworks, 3 Mad. 373. ACQUIESCENCE; ACCOUNT; TRUSTEE & CESTUI QUE TRUST.

Statute of limitations cannot be pleaded to breach of trust. Milnes v. Cusley, 4 Pri. 103. PL. PLA.; STAT. OF LIMITATION.

Breach of trust of charity, by pulling down chapel and selling materials, and converting burying-ground to other purposes; relieved, and conveyance to new trustees directed. Exp. Greenhouse, 1 Mad. 92. CHARITY.

A trust fund of 15,000l. created under marriage settlement, by which certain lands were limited to husband for life; remainder to first and other sons in tail, with power to husband of leasing for forty-one years, or three lives at best rent, was directed by deed to be laid out with all convenient speed in purchase of lands in fee, to be conveyed, &c. to same uses, &c., and in meantime, trustees with consent of husband, were empowered to lend money on certain security. Husband purchased leasehold for 8,911*l.* to which he took the assignment to himself alone, and obtained purchase money out of trust fund to amount of 11,696*l.* taking security for 1400*l.* less than 11,696*l.* Husband granted lease at great undervalue for his own term to attorney who managed the purchase, which purchase proved very beneficial: Held, that first son of marriage was entitled to follow that part of trust fund which had been misapplied, and to have benefit of purchases, and to have lands sold discharged of lease to attorney, whose equity against him, (the son), as personal representative of father, was barred by notice of settlement and breach of trust. Phaure v. Peree, 3 Dow, 116. S. C. 1 Bli. N. S. 594. VENDOR & PURCH.; NOTICE.

A person who has notice cannot avail himself of an act of trustees in breach of their trust. Id. 129. NOTICE.

Trustee to preserve contingent remainders joining in a recovery with the remainder-man in tail, having attained twenty-one: Held no breach of trust, and no objection to a specific performance. Biscoe v. Perkins, 1 V. & B. 485. FINE & RECOVERY; TRUSTEES TO PRESERVE.

Trustees to preserve continue, it remainders joining in a recovery, held, with reference to the circumstance and occasion, no breach of trust. Moady v. Walters, 16 Ves. 283. TRUSTEES TO PRESERVE, DUTIES OF.

Generally, trustees joining to destroy the contingent remainders before the tenant in tail is of age, a breach of trust. Id. ib.

Where tenant for life under will, with remainder in tail, is also made trustee to preserve remainders over, he is not guilty of breach of trust by joining with remainder-man in tail, to destroy remainders over. Osbrej v. Bury, 1 Ball & B. 58. BARRING REMAINDERS.

Trustees and executors charged with loss occasioned by breach of trusts, by joining in a transfer and sale, and lending the produce to a partnership in which one of them was engaged, the other receiving no benefit; decree for account against all for the funds. French v. Hobson, 9 Ves. 103. TRUSTEES, LIABILITY OF.

Executor and trustee having been guilty of a breach of trust, by selling out stock and dealing improperly with the money, the cestui que trust have an option to have the stock replaced, or the money produced by the sales with interest of five per cent., or more, if more has been made by it, and the costs occasioned by his misconduct. Pocock v. Reddington, 5 Ves. 794.

An estate having once borne a charge in favour of legatees or creditors, is discharged, though the fund has been misapplied by the trustees. Omerod v. Hardman, 5 Ves. 736. CHARGE ON LAND.

Trustee of stock sells it: the cestui que trust has an option to have the stock or the produce, with interest. Forrest v. Elwes, 4 Ves. 497.

Settlement, upon marriage, of stock, the property of the wife, in trust from time to time to receive the dividends, and pay them into the hands of the wife for her sole and separate use, her receipt to be a discharge; after her decease, if the husband should survive, for him for life; and after the decease of the survivor, to transfer the principal among the children according to her appointment by will; in default thereof, equally; if no children, according to her appointment by will. The trustees, with the privity of the wife, sold the stock, and paid the money to the husband, taking his bond of indemnity: he died insolvent. Upon the bill of the widow and children, the fund, having been replaced by the trustees, was transferred to the accountant-general, upon the trusts of the settlement to trustees, to pay the dividends to the widow, from the death of the husband, with costs. Whistler v. Newman, 4 Ves. 129. See, as to the authority of this case, 5 Ves. 17*n.* and 694 n. HUSB. & WIFE; SETTLEMENT; TRUSTEES, PERSONAL LIAB.

Bank stock specifically bequeathed to A, in trust to pay a bond debt to himself, and as to the rest, for B for life, remainder over; the trustee being also executor, transferred to persons not entitled under the will, the bank is not chargeable. Hartog v. Bank of England, 3 Ves. J. 55. BANK OF ENGLAND.

K and S being trustees of money in the funds, sell it for the benefit of S, who dies insolvent, and K becomes bankrupt. The person interested in the funds may prove against the estate of K the value of the funds at the bankruptcy, though S's estate be first liable. Exp. Shakeshaft, 3 Bro. C. C. 197. BANKCY, PROOF IN.

Trustees, who joined with remainder-man to eject cestui que trust for life, not excused from making good the whole rent reserved by subsequent accidental deficiencies. Inquiry directed as to the interference of remainder-man. Kaye v. Powell, 1 Ves. J. 408.

Trustee, mistaking his power, sold stock without authority; decreed to replace it immediately: if at a less price, to invest the surplus in the same stock to the same uses. El. Powell v. Herbert, 1 Ves. J. 297.

Where executor or trustee, entrusted with disposition of some church preferments, made a presentation to A, under a secret condition for his own benefit, the presentation was set aside, and he was decreed to present a more proper person. Richardson v. Chapman, 7 Bro. P. C. 317. TRUSTEE.

Where testator had directed that his executors should not be liable for each other's acts, one of them, who was in good credit at the time, having called in a mortgage, and received the money, sends round the assignment to his co-executors, who execute it, and sign a receipt. Held that, as no part of the money should come to their hands, they should not be answerable. Westley v. Clarke, 1 Eden, 356. EXORS. LIAB. OF.

Trustees, lending money on personal security, is not of itself such gross neglect as to amount to a breach of trust; and the legatee, and afterwards his assignee, having acquiesced in such loan, a bill to charge the trustees was dismissed. Harden v. Parsons, 1 Eden, 145. ACQUIESCENCE; INVESTMENT.

Devise of real estate to trustees, to sell and pay debts and legacies generally: trustees sell and embezzle part of the money: the purchasers not liable to the debts. An estate charged with debts not liable in hands of purchaser, unless debts specified no more than estate devised to be sold. Rogers v. Skillicorne, Amb. 188. VENDOR & PURCH.; APPLICATION OF PURCHASE MONEY.

Trustee charged with breach of trust for not putting out money at interest, nor on the best security, according to the trust in a deed. Money lent on a promissory note, is not put out on a security. Ryder v. Bickerton, 3 Swan. 80. INVESTMENT; SECURITY.

A bill will lie against directors, committee men, and other officers of a corporation, for relief against a breach of trust, fraud, and mismanagement, for they are agents to those who entrust them to superintend the affairs of the company, and a gross non-attendance makes them guilty of the breaches of trust in others. So a supine negligence, by which a great loss arises, makes them all equally guilty in the second degree, and liable, for they must not neglect to exercise the powers vested in them, to prevent the ill consequences arising from a confederacy. Charitable

Breach of trust can fall only on the personal estate of a trustee. Vernon v. Vaudry, 2 Atk. 119. ASSIGNMENT OF ASSETS.

If the persons claiming under the breach of trust have notice of it, then they are subject to the same trust; so if the conveyance be voluntary, or without a valuable consideration; but if for a valuable consideration, and without notice, the purchaser will hold the land discharged, and the trustees must buy and settle other land to the same uses. Mansell v. Mansell, 2 P. W. 681. NOTICE.

A, being improPRIATOR of parish, devised part of tithes to certain parishioners as trustees for one thousand years, who re-demised it to him for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, under the yearly rent of 50*l.*, payable to the trustees as a provision for a preacher to be nominated by the trustees. The heir of A afterwards sold the rectory to B, and the representative of the surviving trustee was prevailed on to assign to B the right of nominating a preacher. From the date of the original demise, and for forty years after the latter transaction, the preacher was constantly nominated by the parishioners; but, upon a contest between them and B, it was held that the right of nomination was absolutely in the trustee, and that the assignment of that right was a breach of trust. And the house of lords gave directions for the re-establishment of the trust in trustees to be impartially chosen. Foley v. Ill. Gen. 7 Bro. P. C. 249. ASSIGNMENT OF TRUST.

Corporation trustees of charity behaving improperly, and being guilty of gross breaches of trust: they were removed, and other competent persons chosen. Mayor, &c. of Coventry v. Ill. Gen. 7 Bro. P. C. 235. REMOVAL OF TRUSTEES.

Remedy for a breach of trust is personal, and money produced thereby, laid out on an estate in Ireland, cannot be specifically followed. The party's assets were, however, marshalled in favour of the claim. Cor v. Bateman, 2 Ves. 19. MARSHALLING ASSETS; LIEN.

Trustees in will to support contingent remainders, join with the tenant for life in a conveyance, whereby the contingent remainders are destroyed before they come into esse. This is a breach of trust, and whoever claims under such conveyance, having notice of the trust, is liable to make good the estate. Gorges v. Poe, 7 Bro. P. C. 221. S. C. Prec. Chan. 308. 1 P. W. 128. NOTICE; TRUSTEES TO SUPPORT, &c.

A trustee purchases lands out of the profits received out of the trust estate, and takes the conveyance in his own name; though possibly, if he be unable to make other satisfaction for the profits so misapplied, those lands may be sequestrated, yet they cannot be decreed to be a trust for the cestui que trust. Kirk v. Webb, Prec. Chan. 84. See also Heron v. Heron, id. 163.

Trustee sells the lands to one who had no notice of the trust, and after a fine and five years non-claim, re-purchases the land. Decreed he should stand seised in trust, as before the sale. Berry v. Smith, 1 Vern. 60. 2 Ch. Ca. 124. S. C.

Fine levied by a trustee, and five years past, does not destroy the trust, nor separate it from the land, but transfers them both together. Id. 84. FINE & NOTICE.

Both the trustee and the assignee are responsible to the cestui que trust for profits subsequent to an assignment in breach of trust. Vandehende v. Livingston, 3 Swan. 625. ACCOUNT.

XIV. NOTICE OF.

Fine and nonclaim will not bar a person claiming under a trust; if to a person having notice of the trust, it is merely a conveyance. So if trustee conveys to a person with notice, and takes a re-conveyance, it operates nothing. So if the person to whom he conveyed had no notice, yet on the re-conveyance the trust would attach, though it did not attach on the person to whom he conveyed; nor would have attached if that person had conveyed to another without notice. One taking from a trustee with notice, levies a fine to strengthen his estate: this shall not bar the cestui que trust. Kennedy v. Daly, 1 Scho. & L. 379. FINE & NONCLAIM.

Testator gave leasehold premises to his daughter for life if his term or terms and interest should therein for so long subsist, for her sole and separate use, notwithstanding her present or future coverture, and after her decease to her children equally, their executors, &c. during all the remainder of the estate, term or terms, and interest therein which should be then to come and unexpired. No trustees being interposed, the husband having possession, was held accountable according to the uses of the will, both as to the original leases, and also as to reversionary leases granted to him, as the person entitled under the will of the former tenant upon favourable terms, and the equity was established against a purchaser from him with notice. Parker v. Brooke, 9 Ves. 583. HUSB. & WIFE.

All persons coming into possession of property bound by a trust with notice of the trust, are chargeable in equity as trustees. Adair v. Shaw, 1 Scho. & L. 262.

Deed for payment of debts, the trustees convey to A for the purpose of the trust. A mortgages to several persons who have notice of the trust, these mortgages are good. Hartwick v. Mynd, 1 Anst. 109. MORTGAGE.

Quere, whether a trustee having prepared a deed of appointment under a power, but not knowing of the execution of it, shall be held to have had such notice so as to affect him in respect of his payment of the money to the legatee of the person who had the power under a subsequent will? Cothay v. Sydenham, 2 Bro. C. C. 391.

A and B being trustees of money for the separate use of a feme covert, lend to C, who gives bond to the trustees, and the trust is declared in the condition. The bond is kept by the feme, and B having received money for C, they settle an account, and B gives C a receipt for 100*l.* as received for the use of the feme. B becomes insolvent: whether C is well discharged of this 100*l.* Qu? Baldwin v. Billingsley, 2 Vern. 539. BOND, PAYMENT OF.

Payment to the obligee after notice of an assignment of the bond is not good. Id. ib.

A purchaser or mortgagee shall not protect himself by taking a conveyance from a trustee after notice of the trust, for by taking such conveyance he becomes the trustee himself. Sanders v. Dehen, 2 Vern. 271. VENDOR & PURCH.

Payment of money to a trustee, with notice of the trust, is a mis-payment, though the trustee had judgment and execution against the person that paid the money. Fritchard v. Langher, id. 197. PAYMENT, WHAT A GOOD.

An executor, in trust for an infant residuary legatee, renews a lease, part of the testator's personal estate, in his own name, and, having mortgaged it, assigns the equity of redemption to a trustee, to sell for payment of his own debts. The trustee sells to one who had notice of the infant's title. Purchase set aside. Whalley v. Whalley, 1 Vern. 484. VENDOR & PURCH.; NOTICE.

Notice of letters patent, in which there was a trust for creditors, is sufficient notice of the trust. Douch v. Kent, id. 319. NOTICE.

XV. TO PAY DEBTS.

Where real estates are devised in trust for the payment of debts, in aid of the personal estate, the statute of limitations does not run in equity after the death of the testator. Hughes v. Wynne, 1 Turn. & R. 307. STAT. OF LIMIT.

Time does not run against a creditor after the death of the testator, in case of a trust or charge for the payment of debts. Hargreaves v. Mitchell, 6 Mad. 326. STAT. OF LIMIT.

Where a trust is created by deed for the payment of debts; if a bill is filed by one of the creditors to enforce the payment of his debt, that purpose can only be effected by the general execution of the trust. The decree ought to direct a bill executed, and an enquiry as to all the debts owing and payable under the trust, and that they should be paid according to their priorities. Hamilton v. Houghton, 2 Bl. 169. PR. DECREE.

The mere direction by deed to pay debts, does not infer either contract or trust to pay interest upon debts by simple contract. Id. 186. SIMPLE CONTRACT DEBTS; INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

Covenant in settlement to leave by will satisfied by legacy to amount, though followed by general direction for payment of debts. Wathen v. Smith, 4 Mad. 236, 325. S. C. SETTLEMENT, SATISFACTION OF; WILL, C. OF.

Where estate devised to infants charged with payment of debts, if personal insufficient, sale of real not decreed till master report personal insufficient, though infants admit it so at hearing. Birch v. Gloner, 4 Mad. 376. PR. MASTER'S REPORT; PR. SALE, WHEN DIRECTED: INFANT, WHEN BOUND BY ADMISSIONS.

Devise of freehold estate, in trust to sell and apply the money towards payment of the legacies: the residue of the personal estate after payment of debts, legacies, &c. upon trust to convert all the said residue of his personal estate into ready money to be laid out in freehold property to be settled. The personal estate leaving a residue beyond the charges, the real estate a resulting trust for the heir at law; and charged with the legacies, not primarily, but only as an auxiliary fund to the personal estate. Maughan v. Mason, 1 V. & B. 410. WILL, C. OF; CHARGE ON REAL ESTATE; RESULTING TRUST.

Where there is a direction to sell land and pay debts, &c. there is no instance of holding the surplus after that purpose answered, to form part of the personal estate so as to pass by residuary bequest. Id. 416. SURPLUS; ADMINISTRATION OF ASSETS.

Distinction between a devise charged with debts, and on trust to pay debts. The former is a beneficial devise, subject to the particular purpose; the latter limited to the particular purpose; and therefore the interest, not exhausted, is a resulting trust for the heir. King v. Denison, 1 V. & B. 272. WILL, C. OF; RESULTING TRUST.

Devise in trust for payment of debts does not revive a debt, upon which the statute of limitations had taken effect, by the expiration of the time before the testator's death. Burke v. Jones, 2 V. & B. 275. WILL, C. OF; LIMITATION, STATUTE OF.

Want of surrender supplied, if copyhold estate is devised for debts. Holmes v. Coghill, 12 Ves. 216. COPYHOLD, DEFECTIVE SURRENDER OF.

Devise by general words, viz. messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, for payment of debts, will include copyholds if required; and the want of a surrender will be supplied. Kidney v. Coussmaker, 12 Ves. 136. WILL, C. OF WHAT PASSES; COPYHOLD.

Where lands are devised in trust for payment of debts, the statute of limitations runs not after death of testator, against debts not barred thereby at his death. Fergus v. Gore, 1 Scho. & L. 107. LIMITATION, STATUTE OF.

Charge for payment of debts makes equitable assets. Bailey v. Ekins, 7 Ves. 319. ASSETS, EQUITABLE.

Devise to trustees and their heirs to the use of other trustees, for one thousand years, upon trust by sale, lease, mortgage, or otherwise, to raise and pay such sum as the personal estate should fall short of the debts, and after raising and paying thereof, then in strict settlement. A bill being filed by creditors, the personal estate proving deficient, and the trustees of the inheritance having contracted to sell under a power upon their settlement, bill praying the benefit of the accounts against the surviving trustee of the term, though no party to the original cause; that the debts may be paid out of the purchase money; and that on payment, the term may be assigned to the purchasers, it was so decreed, the defendant not objecting. Fletcher v. Houghton, 5 Ves. 550.

A charge of debts on a real estate does not entitle simple contract debts to carry interest; secus, where the debtor had done something in nature of a specialty, as creating a trust in his life-time for payment of debts, and annexing a schedule of them. Stewart v. Noble, Vern. & Scriv. 528. INTEREST ON DEBTS; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Devise in trust to pay debts is out of the statute of fraudulent devises. El. Bath v. El. Bradford, 2 Ves. 590. FRAUD, STAT. OF.

Trustees to pay debts may fairly raise by sale or mortgage without waiting for a decree. Id. ib. POWER OF SALE.

Under a devise that all testator's debts should be first paid and satisfied. Held, that a customary estate surrendered in trust for several persons, and for the use of such as the testator should appoint, was subject to the testator's debts, the first disposition running over all. Gadolphin v. Bennet, 2 Ves. 271. WILL, C. OF; COPYHOLD.

Under a trust term by deed to pay debts and legacies: held, that simple contract debts did not carry interest; so likewise as to a will: contra, however, if by any deed in the nature of specialty from whence an intention can be inferred: as if the debts be annexed by way of schedule. Barrell v. Parker, 2 Ves. 364.

When debt and legacies are by will directed to be raised by perception of rents and profits, or by leasing and mortgaging of the land, this restrains it merely to a payment out of rents, and the court cannot decree a sale. Ridout v. El. Plymouth, 2 Atk. 105. PR. SALE.

In the above case Lord Hardwicke recommended it to the parties to apply for a private act of parliament, to obtain a sale of the testator's valuable estates. Id.

One devises a rent charge to be sold, to pay legacies to the amount of 800*l.*, and if the rent charge should sell for 1000*l.* the testator gives a further legacy of 200*l.* The rent charge sells for above 800*l.* and less than 1000*l.*; what exceeds the 800*l.* shall belong to heir as a resulting trust. Stonehouse v. Evelyn, 3 P. W. 252. WILL, C. OF; HEIR AT LAW.

One devises all his real estate in trust to pay all his debts, the bond creditors recover part of their debts out of the personal estate; the simple contract debts shall be equally paid out of the real estate with the bond debts, and the bond creditors shall have nothing there-out, until the simple contract creditors shall have received as much for the same as shall make them equal in payment with the bond creditors. Hastwood v. Pope, 3 P. W. 323.

In a devise of lands to pay debts, if the creditors bring a bill to compel a sale, the heir is generally to be made a party; secus in case of a trust created by deed to pay debts. Harris v. Ingledew, 3 P. W. 92. PL. PARTY; HEIR AT LAW.

Where there is a devise of lands to executors to pay debts and legacies, the debts to be first paid; for this being legal assets, payment must be in a course of administration; secus, in case of a bare trust to pay debts and legacies. Walker v. Meager, 2 P. W. 550. MOS. 204. ADMON. OF ASSETS; PRIORITY OF PAYMENT.

If an estate is devised in trust to pay debts, the heir must account from the filing of the bill. Chambers v. Harrest, MOS. 124. ACCOUNT; HEIR AT LAW.

J being indebted by simple contract which was barred by statute of limitations, made his will and devised lands in trust to pay debts. Quære, if debt is revived, and whether to a bill by creditor for trusts of will, a plea of statute is allowable. Stratford v. Blakecan, 6 Bro. P. C. 630. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

One dies, indebted by bond; and by will gives a legacy of 500*l.* and devises his lands in fee to J, leaving a personal estate sufficient only to pay the bond; the legatee shall not stand in place of the bond creditor, to charge the land, in regard the land is specially devised; secus, if the land had descended to the heir. Clifton v. Burt, 1 P. W. 679. PRE. CH. 540. MARSHALLING ASSETS.

One borrows money during his infancy, and applies it to the buying of necessaries, and afterwards coming to age devises lands for the payment of his debts; debt contracted during infancy is within the trust. Marlow v. Pitfield, 1 P. W. 558. INFANT, LIABILITY FOR NECESSARIES.

A devised his lands after debts paid (and then says, "my debts are only those contained in the schedule"). A afterwards contracted new debts. The payment of the first debts is all that is required by the will. Laddington v. Aime, 3 Lev. 433. WILL, C. OF.

One devises his lands for payment of his debts; bonds and simple contract debts shall be paid equally; but if he only charges his lands with the payment of his debts, so that the lands descended subject to the debts, the bonds shall be preferred before the simple contract debts; but if the heir sells the land before the action brought, then both to be paid equally. Freemount v. Dedire, 1 P. W. 430, 431. ADMON. OF ASSETS; WILL, C. OF.

One devises lands to his executors until his debts paid; the remainder over; the executors misapply the profits; they shall hold only until they might have paid the debts by the profits, and after that the land is to be discharged and the executors only liable. Carter v. Barnadiston, 1 P. W. 518.

One devises all his real estate to pay debts, having freehold and copyhold, and dies without having surrendered the copyhold to the use of this will; regularly, the copyhold shall not pass without being mentioned, and if mentioned, equity will, on behalf of creditor, supply the want of a surrender; but if the freehold estate be not sufficient to pay the debts, the copyhold being real estate, shall be liable. Drake v. Robinson, 1 P. W. 443. ADMON. OF ASSETS; COPYHOLD, DEFECTIVE SURRENDER OF.

Where lands are devised to pay debts, debts barred by statute are revived. Anon. 1 Salk. 154. See quære. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

Devise of lands to executors for payment of debts; no assets at law till sale; but when sold the money is legal assets. Hawker v. Buckland, 2 Vern. 106. ASSETS.

If lands are appointed to pay debts, the heir is entitled to them when the debts are paid, and if to be sold he is entitled to the surplus; but if there be any abuse, his remedy is against the trustee and not against the purchaser. Culpepper v. Aston, 2 Ch. Ca. 115. See quære, if a purchaser with notice might not be affected? HEIR AT LAW; TRUST RESULTING; SURPLUS.

If lands are devised to trustees for payment of debts, simple contracts and specialties shall be paid in proportion, and though the trustees are creditors and sureties for the testators, they shall not prefer themselves. Anon. 2 Ch. Ca. 54. But if lands are devised to an executor, they become legal assets, and shall be paid in due course according to their superiority at law. Hixton v. Witham, 1 Ch. Ca. 248. Girling v. Gee, 1 Vern. 63. ADMON. OF ASSETS.

Where an equity of redemption or trust estate is devised for payment of debts, all debts shall be paid equally; otherwise if the devise is to the executor, for there, the lands will be legal assets. Girling v. Lee, 1 Vern. 63. ADMON. OF ASSETS; EQUITABLE ASSETS.

"My debts and legacies being first deducted, I devise all my estate real and personal to J." This amounts to a devise to sell for payment of debts. Newman v. Johnson, 1 Vern. 45. WILL, C. OF.

Where debts are directed by will to be paid out of rents and profits, the court, if it is necessary, will decree a sale. Berry v. Ashum, 2 Vern. 26. SALE.

Where a deed of trust is made for payment of debts, it shall extend only to debts contracted at the time of making the deed. Purefoy v. Purefoy, 1 Vern. 28. DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

Where the husband was only a trustee, it was held that the wife was barred of her dower, though contrary to Nash v. Preston, (Cro. 191); and such was said to be the constant practice of the court. Noel v. Jeron, 2 Freem. 43. DOWER OF WHAT.

If S devises lands to be sold for payment of debts, the heir shall be compelled to join in the sale. Fowle v. Green, 1 Ch. Ca. 262. HEIR AT LAW.

A had a power to make leases for twenty-one years in possession; he made one to commence in futuro, in trust for payment of debts. This being for payment of debts, was supported in equity. Pollard v. Greenville, 1 Ch. Ca. 10. 1 Ch. Rep. 185. LEASE.

XVI. USES AND TRUSTS.

It is not of course to let the cestui que trust under a will into possession of an estate; it must depend on the testator's intention. Tidd v. Lister, 5 Mad. 429. WILL, C. OF; CESTUI QUE TRUST; CONSTRUCTION.

Where any act is to be done, as a conveyance made, the estate is a trust, not a use executed. Mott v. Buxton, 7 Ves. 201.

Devise charged with debts to trustees and their heirs, in trust to receive, &c. the rents, &c. and thereout to support and educate the devisor's son, till the age of twenty-one, and then to him: held not a use executed in son before twenty-one. Bailey v. Ekins, 7 Ves. 322. WILL, C. OF.

A declaration of uses by the founder of a charity, presumed from an entry in an ancient book, purporting to be such declaration, but without signature or date, the book being kept by the trustees for entering their proceedings, and containing an order by the trustees dated six years after creation of the trust, that the declaration of the founder be then entered as a direction to the trustees. Att. Gen. v. Boulbee, 2 Ves. J. 379. PRESUMPTION.

Though a use or trust must arise out of the original feoffment to uses, yet they need not be specifically created at the time of execution of the deed. Wright v. Id. Cadogan, 2 Eden, 256.

The statute of frauds has only imposed a form in declaring the use; the controul of the use remains, as it was before the statute, the absolute will and declared intent of the owner. Id. 257. STAT. OF FRAUDS.

A, being seised in fee ex parte paternâ, conveys to trustees in trust for herself, her heirs and assigns, to the intent that she should appoint, &c. and for no other use, intent, or purpose whatsoever. A, dying without appointment, and without heirs, ex parte paternâ: Held, per Henly, C. S. and Clarke, M. R., 1st, that the maternal heir was not entitled; 2dly, that there being a terre-tenant, the crown, claiming by escheat, has not a title by subpoena to compel a conveyance from the trustee, the trust being absolutely determined; no opinion was given on the right of the trustee. Per Mansfield, C. J. the heir, ex parte maternâ, was not entitled; 2dly, that from the analogy between trusts and legal estates, the crown was entitled by escheat, but that if the conveyance has barred the crown of its right, as between the maternal heir and the trustee, the former was entitled. Burgess v. Wheate, 1 Eden, 177. H. Bl. 121. S. C.

No case of a springing use ever introduced in the middle of a limitation, but it always comes in afterwards, and determines the first gift in fee; and whenever it happens to arise, it displaces the first gift, and changes the uses in favour of other persons. Carwardine v. Carwardine, 1 Eden, 34.

No instance where equity has considered an estate as not executed, at the same time that law would have considered it as executed. Limitation to trustees to stand seised and receive rents and profits to the use of A, is an estate executed in A. Id. 36.

Where the uses of the recovery are declared to be to the recoveror and his heirs, it does not create a new use, but he is in of the ancient use. Garth v. Cotton, 3 Atk. 756.

The statute of uses has executed the legal estate, and joined it to the use, the legal estate therefore must want to be executed by a conveyance to make it a trust in equity. Bagshaw v. Spencer, 2 Atk. 583.

If a purchaser for a valuable consideration has not the legal estate properly conveyed to him, though the consideration cannot create a use by way of covenant to stand seised, yet the vendor will be considered a trustee for the purchaser. Pollexfen v. Moor, 3 Atk. 273.

Natural love and affection is very sufficient to create a use, and will amount to a covenant to stand seised, though no other consideration appear. Lloyd v. Spillet, 2 Atk. 149. CONSIDERATION.

Uses were introduced during the contests between the houses of York and Lancaster, to avoid forfeitures, and were exactly what trusts are now. Id.

Where there is an agreement to suffer a recovery, and uses are declared by it, though it is suffered at a different time, yet if there is no subsequent declaration of uses it shall enure to those so declared. Stapilton v. Stapilton, 1 Atk. 7. RECOVERY.

The statute (27 Hen. 8. c. 10.) of uses, was made to execute and bring the estate to the use: and after the statute, the cestui que use was seised of the estate at law as before he was of the use in equity: but the necessities of mankind, and reasonable occasions in families, obliged the judges to give way to uses notwithstanding. Contingent uses, springing uses, executory devises, and powers over uses, were foreign to the notions of the common law, and could not be let in upon the common law fees, but were let in by construction (by the judges themselves), upon uses after they became legal estates; yet the judges still adhered to the doctrine, that there could be no such thing as an use upon an use; but when the first use was declared, there it was executed, and must rest for that estate. Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Atk. 691. Uses in equity and mere trusts stand on different foundations, and will not be governed by the same reasoning. Id. 592.

Lands are devised to trustees and their heirs, in trust to pay several legacies and annuities, and then to pay the surplus of the rents and profits to A during her life, for her separate use, or as she should direct; and after her death the trustees were to stand seised to the use of the heirs of her body, with other remainders over. Held that this was a use executed in the trustees, and their heirs, during the life of A, and that she had only a trust in the surplus rents and profits during her life, and that the subsequent limitation to the trustees to the use of the heirs of her body, was a use executed in the persons entitled to take by virtue thereof, and therefore, there being only a trust estate in the ancestor, and a use executed in the heirs of her body, their different interests could not unite so as to create an estate tail by operation of law in the ancestor. J. d. Say and Sele v. J. y. Jones, 3 Bro. P. C. 113. S. C. 1 Eq. Ab. 383. Will, C. 3r.

On a marriage settlement, lands were conveyed to trustees and their heirs, to the use of the trustees and their heirs, to the use of the husband for life, remainder to the use of the wife for life, remainder to the first, &c. son of the marriage: these limitations to the husband for life, &c. are trusts only, and not uses; and when the husband and wife levied a fine to a mortgagee to raise money, though the fine would have been a forfeiture of the wife's estate for her life had she had the legal estate, against which equity will not relieve, yet decreed that a trust estate was not forfeited by a fine. Whitstone v. St. Bury, 2 P. W. 146. S. C. Prec. Ch. 591. FINE AND RECOVERY.

Where a trust is limited to a man and the heirs of his body, with remainder over, the court will not decree the trustees to convey to him an estate in fee, but an estate tail only. Saunders v. Nevil, 2 Vern. 428. LIMIT OF TRUST.

Lands limited to A in trust for a feme covert, and that A should receive the rents and apply them as the feme whether sole or covert should direct. This is a trust, and not an use, executed by the statute. S. C. 1 Vern. 415.

Although cestui que use of term of years be not within statute of uses, rather, therefore, he shall have remedy in equity. Cary, 11.

Exceptions cannot be taken to master's report, approving new trustee; nor will the court interfere with report where there is no complaint that persons approved of are unfit. Att. Gen. v. Dyson, 2 S. & S. 528. MASTER'S REPORT; EXCEPTION.

When trustees have a power to appoint new trustees, the court will not, on their application, direct an appointment without a reference. — v. Roberts, 1 Jac. & W. 251. PR. REF. TO MASTER.

Trustees of a charity are never appointed by the court without a reference, though the amount of the fund be extremely small. Att. Gen. v. Fl. Arran, 1 Jac. & W. 229. REFERENCE; CHARITY.

On construction of will, Skinners' company held to be trustees of certain lands in their corporate character, as governors of the possession, and of the free grammar school of St. A. Judd, in Tonbridge, and that the same were held by them according to the tenor of letters patent of Edward the sixth for the support of the master and scholars of the said school, and for the reputation of the society, and not otherwise, nor to any other uses or intents. Att. Gen. v. Skinners' Company, 5 Mad. 173, aff'd, with variation, 1 Jac. 529. WILL, C. OF; CHARITY; CORPORATION.

Court went order a clause to enable trustees to appoint others to be inserted in a conveyance, there being no provision to that effect in trust deed. Barley v. Mansell, 4 Mad. 226. TRUST DEED.

The appointment of a trustee by creditors to receive rents, for payment of debts, discharges the estate from any loss arising from the failure of the trustee. Hutchinson v. Woodroffe, 2 Ball & B. 49. DEBTOR AND CREDITORS; CONVEYANCE ON ESTATE.

Court controls trustee in the exercise of power to appoint new trustees, though given in very large words. Widd v. El. Stablesbury, 7 Ves. 408.

One of three trustees, dismissed under an act of parliament, being gone abroad, and having released, there being no provision for the change of trustees, upon a bill, it was referred to the master to appoint a new trustee. Bartholomew v. Hamilton, 5 Ves. 722.

One executor named, by a legacy for his care, clearly a trustee of the residue for the next of kin, the other must be a trustee also. White v. Evans, 4 Ves. 20. EXEC. BENEFICIALLY INTERESTED.

Testator directed a new trustee to be appointed, if either should die or become incapable of acting; one absconded, charged with forgery; but was not outlawed: referred to the master to appoint a new trustee. Milnes v. Price, 2 Ves. 1, 94.

Where trustees of a charity devise die in the life of the testator, the conflict shall go to his heir at law. Att. Gen. v. Downing, Amb. 371. CHARITY.

If a purchaser for a valuable consideration, has not the legal estate properly conveyed to him, though the consideration cannot create a use by way of covenant to stand seised, yet the vendor will be considered a trustee for the purchaser. Pollington v. Moore, 3 Atk. 273.

Corporation may be trustees. Att. Gen. v. Landerfield, 9 Mod. 287. CORPORATION.

Testator devising an estate to persons whom he names trustees for such purposes as they, or the major part of them shall think fit, gives no benefit to them, but is an authority only by appointing a quorum out of them. Cook v. Duckenfield, 2 Atk. 668. WILL, C. OF.

No person can be a trustee in law, unless he has a vested interest in the thing given. Owen v. Owen, 1 Atk. 496.

Court will not change a mere trustee for a wife, under a marriage settlement, without sending it first to master, to see if a proper person is proposed. O'Keefe v. Calthorpe, 1 Atk. 18. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

II. ACCEPTANCE OR RENOUCEMENT OF.

Where personal property is bequeathed to the executors, as trustees, the probate of the will is an acceptance of the trusts. Mucklow v. Fuller, 1 Jac. 198. EXECUTORS.

Trustee for sale, having renounced, is not necessary as party to conveyance, or in receipt for purchase money. Adams v. Taunton, 5 Mad. 435. DEEDS, PARTY TO.

As to disclaimer of office of trustee by simple instrument, and disclaimer by conveying to other trustees. Nicolson v. Wordsworth, 2 Swan. 369. 370.

One trustee for the sale of an estate having released and conveyed to his co-trustee, refused to join in the receipt of the purchase money; upon the special expression of the deed, the purchaser was not held to the agreement with the remaining trustee; it would have been otherwise if one had merely renounced. Crews v. Dicken, 4 Ves. 97. SPEC. PERF.

A trustee in a will, who released and never acted, ought not to be made a party in a suit, to set aside the will on the ground of fraud, and therefore need not answer as to the fraud alleged. Richardson v. Hulbert, 1 Anst. 65. PL. PARTIES.

III. RELEASE, REMOVAL, AND DISCHARGE.

See stat. 1 W. 4. c. 60. Appendix.

Where trustees becomes bankrupt, the chancellor may order conveyance, or assignment to other trustees. 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79.

A new trustee may be appointed, under 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79, without a reference. Exp. Inkersole, 2 G. & J. 230.

Order made under the 79th section of 6 G. 4. c. 16, for a reference to the master, to approve of a new trustee, in the room of the bankrupt trustee, and for the transfer of the trust funds, by the assignees of the bankrupt trustee. Exp. Saunders, 2 G. & J. 132.

In bill for removal of trustee, it may be scandalous or impertinent to challenge every act of trustee's misconduct. Portsmouth v. Fellows, 5 Mad. 450. PL. IMPERTINENCE; PL. SCANDAL.

Nor to impute to him any corrupt or improper motive in execution of trust. Id. ib.

Nor to allege that his conduct is the vindictive consequence of some act on the part of the cestui que trust, or of some change in his situation. Id. ib.

But it is impertinent, and may be scandalous, to state any circumstances as evidence of general malice or personal hostility. Id. ib.

The founder of a charity having named as trustees, the occupiers of certain annual offices, other trustees appointed by the court to hold the funds, the selection of the objects being left to those appointed by the founder. Exp. Blackburne, 1 Jac. & W. 297. CHARITY.

Decree, discharging from a trust, a woman who had married a foreigner, though the answer denied an intention of the quitting the kingdom, and stated her desire of continuing in the trust. Lake v. De Lambert, 4 Ves. 592. FEME COVERT; FOREIGNER.

A trustee, by his answer, declined to act, and on the hearing it was referred to the master to appoint new trustees; the original trustee afterwards agreed to act, and on application to the court, that the trustee might be at liberty to amend his answer in this respect, so as to enable the court, on a rehearing, to vary that part of the decree the court refused to do this; but thought the master was at liberty, on statement of these circumstances, to decline the appointment of new trustees. Miles v. Neave, 1 Cox, 159. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Money in the funds belonging to wards of the court, cannot be transferred into the name of the accountant-general, to the credit of the cause, until the account is taken by a master, and his report made. This does not mean that such a transfer cannot be made, but that it could not operate as an acquittance and discharge of the trustees, until they had passed their accounts. Beneft v. Rich, 1 Bro. C. C. 56. and note (1) there. WARD OF COURT; PR. ACCOUNT BEFORE MASTER; TRANSFER OF STOCKS.

Mere trustee has no right to traverse inquisition. In re Sadler, 1 Mad. 531. TRAVERSE OF INQUISITION.

Trustees cannot deal with trust fund for their own benefit; if stock is purchased with trust money, in whatever name it may stand, the profit belongs to fund. Phayre v. Peere, 3 Dow, 128. S. C. 1 Bli. N. S. 594.

One trustee cannot sign the certificate for himself and co-trustee. Exp. Rigby, 2 Rose, 224. BANKCY, CERTIFICATE, SIGNATURE OF.

Signature of one trustee to a bankrupt's certificate without authority to act for the other, is not sufficient. One executor can do any act; secus, one trustee. S. C. 19 Ves. 463. BANKCY, CERTIFICATE, SIGNATURE OF; EXECUTOR.

Devise in trust to sell in such manner, and at such time as the trustees shall think proper. The period of conveyance as between those entitled for life and in remainder, depends not upon an authority, discretion, nor even a sound discretion in each case, but upon some fixed rule ascertaining a given period, as upon a trust to sell with all convenient speed; controlled in this instance by consent. Walker v. Shore, id. 387. WILL, C. OF.

Trustee, dying nineteen months after the testatrix, without having acted, held entitled to a legacy, given as a token of regard and a recompence for his trouble.

No refusal or neglect to act where necessary, appearing. Brydges v. Wotton, 1 V. & B. 134. LEGACY.

The trustee of a mortgage holds same in trust to the extent of the mortgage for the mortgagee, subject thereto for the mortgagors, and he cannot do any thing to prejudice the mortgagors. The trust of a mortgage, as between mortgagor and mortgagee differs from that of an outstanding term in a third person unconnected with either of the parties seeking the legal estate, the only question there being, which has the better equity to call for the legal estate. *Blennerhassett v. General rule, that trustee shall not break in of his own authority upon the capital of infant's fortune. Walker v. Wetherall, 6 Ves. 473.

Devise of copyhold (duly surrendered) to A and his heirs, in trust for B and his heirs; upon the death of B, without heirs, the heir of the trustee has no equity to compel the lord to admit him, and his bill was dismissed without costs. Williams v. Td. Lonsdale, 3 Ves. 752. COPYHOLD, ADMITTANCE TO.

The trustee cannot be receiver. Anon. 3 Ves. 515. RECEIVER.

A executed a deed, by which he conveyed chattels to B, in trust, as to one moiety, for certain scheduled creditors, as to the other for A's own benefit. C, a creditor, not in the schedule, sued A and recovered, and took out execution against the chattels in the hands of B; B sued the sheriff's officer, and recovered at law. Bill for an injunction, on the ground that the deed was void against creditors for the moiety. The court refused the injunction, for there can be no execution against goods in the hands of a trustee. Childland v. Estwick, 2 Anst. 381. EXECUTION; INJUNCTION.

A trustee, with notice of his appointment as such, interfering with the subject matter, cannot repudiate the trust, and say he acted merely as factor or agent. Conyngnam v. Conyngnam, 1 Ves. 522.

The court refused to appoint a receiver of a charity estate against a corporation as trustees. Att. Gen. v. Mayor of Stafford, Barn. 33. PR. RECEIVER; CHARITY.

Where there was a condition in an appointment that the estate should go over, if the appointee (a young lady) married without the consent of the trustees, and where there is no objection to the person or estate of the gentleman who proposes, and the young lady herself is inclined to the match; trustees should consider themselves in the light of a parent, and readily come into a consent. Daley v. Desbouverie, 2 Atk. 261. S. C. West's Rep. of 1d. Hardwicke, 547.

Trustees saying in a letter, "I shall be obliged to consent," for the happiness of the lady, will be construed a present consent. S. C. Id.

Trustee cannot change the nature of the estate by turning money into land, or a lease for years into a freehold, et c. converso. Witter v. Witter, 3 P. W. 100.

A, seised in fee of land, demised the premises to trustees, B, C, and D, for 500 years, in trust to pay debts, and for a charity. B, one of the trustees, being in possession, and as a receiver appointed by the court, cuts down 1000l. worth of timber, D, one of the other trustees consenting. B, the trustee for the charity, or as receiver, ought not to take advantage of his having possession, without which he could not cut down the timber; yet the timber must be valued according to what it would be worth at the end of the term of 500 years. Bays v. Bird, 2 P. W. 397. TIMBER.

A goldsmith, without any directions from the proprietors, subscribed lottery orders into the S. S. Company; he was held indemnified by the act 6 G. 1. c. 4. s. 23. empowering all trustees, guardians, executors, &c. to make such subscriptions, and it would have been the same if the cestui que trust had forbid him to subscribe. Trenchard v. Wauley, 2 P. W. 165. And in the next term, in Weaver v. Fowler, 1d. Macclesfield made the same resolution, 2 P. W. 170. TRADE.

2. Purchases of Trust Estate by.

The agent of trustee for sale of estate employed therein, cannot purchase same. Whitecomb v. Minchin, 5 Mad. 91. PRIN. & AGENT.

Application to impeach a sale to a trustee, must be made within a reasonable time. Chalmer v. Bradley, 1 Jac. & W. 59. LACHES.

Conveyance of an estate to D, by way of security for the investment of a specific sum of stock, and for payment of the dividends in the mean time with a power of sale in case of default. Under this deed, D is a trustee for the party making the conveyance, and as such disabled from purchasing for himself, so long as he continues to be a trustee without the consent of his cestuique trust; therefore the estate being put up to sale by auction, at which C as agent for D was the only bidder, and it was knocked down to him; accordingly the sale was decreed not to stand, although no evidence of fraud or under value, and not to be supported by evidence of the plaintiffs having known and approved of the sale taking place, and afterwards attempting to damp it, nor of a previous conversation with her attorney, in which the latter exhorted the purchaser to bid a good price for the estate to keep up the sale. Douves v. Gracbrook, 3 Mer. 200.

Purchase of trust property by trustees for their own benefit set aside, after a considerable lapse of time and several assignments. Att. Gen. v. Id. Dudley, Coop. 146. LENGTH OF TIME.

Bill to set aside a purchase by a trustee for himself and his children; after a lapse of eighteen years, dismissed upon the length of time only. Gregory v. Gregory, Coop. 201; affd. 1 Jac. 631. LENGTH OF TIME.

Trustees for sale purchased through a trustee at an under value, though without fraud and by auction, and the cestuique trust being in fact incapable of discharging the trustees: the purchase set aside with costs. Sanderson v. Walker, 13 Ves. 601.

Purchase by a trustee from the cestuique trust, established under circumstances with confirmation and acquiescence. Morse v. Royal, 12 Ves. 355.

Purchase by trustee of trust property set aside, considerable length of time before bill filed having no effect, as it did not distinctly appear that the cestuique trust knew the purchase was made on account of the trustee. Randall v. Errington, 10 Ves. 423. LENGTH OF TIME.

Purchase under trust to pay debts by trustee, as agent for his father, both creditors in partnership, established under circumstances. Coles v. Trecothick, 9 Ves. 234. S. C. 1 Smith, 233.

To set aside a purchase by a trustee of the trust property, it is not necessary to show that he has made an advantage. Exp. Haines, 8 Ves. 348. S. P. Exp. Bennet, 10 Ves. 393.

There is no rule that a trustee to sell cannot be the purchaser; but however fair the transaction, it must be subject to an option in the cestuique trust, if he comes in a reasonable time to have a resale, unless the trustee, to prevent that, purchases under an application to the court. Campbell v. Walker, 5 Ves. 678.

There is no general rule that a trustee to sell, shall not be himself the purchaser, but he shall not thereby gain profit to himself; one of the several trustees to sell having purchased, and afterwards sold at a profit, was therefore decreed to account for that profit with costs. Whitchote v. Lawrence, 3 Ves. 740.

A trustee purchasing a leasehold farm, devised to him for the use of the plaintiff at an appraisement, afterwards renewing the lease in his own name and purchasing part of the testator's stock, declared to be trustee, and to be accountable for the same to the plaintiff. Killick v. Flexney, 4 Bro. C. C. 161.

Trustees having engaged trust property in an adventure, cannot sell either to himself or another. Wilkinson v. Stafford, 1 Ves. J. 42.

The court views trustees with jealousy, and in case of two estates, one in trust, the other belonging to the trustee, will not permit him to act for his own or infant's benefit, as he pleases. Id. 42.

The testator directed his executor to lay out the residue in his estate, in the purchase of lands or upon heritable or personal securities, at such rate of interest as they should think reasonable; the executors lent the fund to one of themselves on a bond, at four per cent, when five per cent might have been made by heritable or government securities, held liable at five per cent. Forbes v. Ross, 2 Cox, 113.

Trustee not to derive advantage from a purchase of trust property. Whelpdale v. Cookson, 1 Ves. 9.

Trustee buying debts for less than is due, shall not be allowed for the whole. Anon. 1 Salk. 155.

3. Investment of Trust Fund.

Where trustees may invest in stock or on real security, and they lend on personal security, they shall be answerable for the principal money only, and not for the value of the stock which might have been purchased. Marsh v. Hunter, 6 Mad. 295.

Lands vested in trust out of receipts, &c. to make certain payments and lay out surplus upon mortgage or government securities, with a view to accumulation, with bequest of such accumulations. On petition, a real estate contiguous to testator's real estate was permitted to be purchased under the circumstances, and to be considered as personal estate. Webb v. Ld. Shaftsbury, 6 Mad. 100.

Power to lend trust money upon real or personal security, does not enable trustees to accommodate a trader with a loan upon his bond. Léngston v. Ollivant, Coop. 33.

One trustee suffering the other to have trust money under a note of hand, held liable. Keble v. Thompson, 3 Bro. C. C. 112.

Trustees not answerable for having applied the trust property, even to what turned out a losing adventure, if without fraud or negligence. Wilkinson v. Stafford, 1 Ves. J. 41.

Trustee not answerable for having engaged the infant's name in an adventure, if afraid of the consequences, he does not engage the property. Contrà, Morton Eden's Case in the House of Lords. Id. ib.

Trustees taking upon themselves to lend an infant's money on a private security, must in all cases be responsible in case of the failure of the security. Holmes v. Dring, 2 Cox, 1.

Trustee incautiously leaving trust fund in banker's hands without security: held, liable to loss, on banker's failure. Anon. Loft, 492.

If trustee pay rents to a banker in credit, who fails, the trustee is not liable. Exp. Belcher, Exp. Parson, Ambl. 219. S. C. 1 Ken. 38.

Laying out trust money in S. S. stock where it subjects the trust to a loss, is not a good security, for the directors may trade away the whole stock whilst they keep within the terms of the charter; S. S. annuities and bank annuities only, are proper and good security; for it is not in the power of the directors to bring any loss upon them. Trafford v. Boehm, 3 Atk. 444.

Trustees may lend money on good personal security, until a proper purchase in land can be had, but are not justified in placing it out in a fluctuating or precarious fund. Emelie v. Emelie, 7 Bro. P. C. 259. PERSONAL SECURITY.

Trustee of an infant having saved 3,000*l.* out of the profits of his estate, lays it out in a purchase of lands lying near the infant's estate, with the consent of his grandmother, declaring the trust for the benefit of the infant, if he, when at age, shall agree to it. Infant dies within age, the trustees shall account to the infant's executors for the 3,000*l.*; but the profits of the land set off against the interest. Winchelsea v. Norecliffe, 1 Vern. 435. ACCOUNT.

4. As a Witness.

Trustee plaintiff cannot, it seems, be examined as a witness. — v. Fitzgerald, 9 Mod. 330.

A trustee, who is ordered to account, cannot be a witness. Smith v. Dk. of Chandos, Barn. 416.

A bare trustee is a good witness for his cestui que trust, but not an executor in trust, as he is liable to be sued by creditors, and to answer costs. Croft v. Pyke, 3 P. W. 181. EXOR.

5. Discretionary Powers.

Construction of an obscure will, whether a trust or discretionary power was given. Robinson v. Smith, 6 Mad. 194. WILL, C. OF.

Where discretion of trustee is to be exercised on matter of fact, court will substitute a master; but not if upon matter of opinion or judgment. Walker v. Walker, 5 Mad. 424. PR. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Semble, that proof of general, though not universal approbation of parish, is sufficient to justify bona fide conduct of trustees of parish charity, where they have a discretionary power. In re Chertsey Market, 6 Pri. 261.

On demurrer, held, that trustees to whom discretionary power was given of renewing leases, had not an arbitrary power of renewal, but must renew when most for benefit of cestui que trust. Milington v. Mulgrave, 3 Mad. 491.

Direction in will, that executors shall pay annuity, unless circumstances render it unnecessary, impracticable and inexpedient, means unless in the opinion of executors it shall become so, and court has no controul over such discretion, unless they act malâ fide. French v. Davidson, id. 396. WILL, C. OF.

Residuary devise and bequest for such of the testator's relations and kindred, in such proportions, &c. as his executors should think proper, recommending and advising his said trustees and executors to give the greatest share to such person and persons who, in their opinion and judgment should appear to them to be his nearest relations, and most deserving; declaring his intention not to controul their discretion, but that every thing relative to that disposition, who were his relations, and the proportions, should be entirely in the discretion of the said trustees and executors, and the heirs, executors, and administrators of the survivor of them: held, a trust, and a power. The ground of the power being personal confidence, it is primâ facie limited to the original trustees, not without express words passing to others, to whom by legal transmission, the same character may happen to belong, and cannot be executed by the devisees and executors for that specific purpose only, of the surviving trustee; a trust therefore executed by the court for the next of kin at the death of the testator, according to the statute of distributions. Cole v. Wade, 16 Ves. 27.

The real estate, except what was converted in execution of the power taken by the next of kin as real, the will not operating a conversion out and out; the representative therefore, the trust being disappointed, taking the respective estates as they find them, having no equity against each other. The costs apportioned according to the value of the real and personal estates. Walter v. Maunde, 19 Ves. 424. WILL, C. OF; TRUST EXECUTED BY COURT.

Where discretionary power is given by will to trustees, to invest fund in real or personal estate, and it is to be collected from the whole will, that it shall be invested in real estate: though never invested, it shall be regarded as real estate. Cowley v. Hartstonge, 1 Dow. 361. WILL, C. OF; ADMON. OF ASSETS.

If testator's intention is clearly manifested on face of will to give an unlimited discretion to trustees, the court will not controul it: but a general discretion must be held to refer to the limitations in the will. Id. 378. WILL, C. OF.

Discretion of trustees having power to change securities with consent, is not to be controuled by court, unless mischievous and ruinous to that fund. De Manneville v. Crompton, 1 V. & B. 351.

Trust deed, whereby trustees were to give the residue of A's estate "among all his friends and relations, where they should see most necessity, and as they should think most just;" though, in other cases the court will not interpose where trustees declining to act have a power to distribute generally, according to their discretion, without any defined object, it was held, that here a rule was laid down, the word "friends" meaning "relations," and the court would judge of the respective families' necessities and occasions by a reference to the master. Gower v. Mainstaring, 2 Ves. 87.

V. LIABILITIES.

Trustees of a charity grant an improper lease of the charity lands, in which they covenant with the lessee for his actual enjoyment of the demised premises during the term; the court, in setting aside the lease, will order the indenture of the demise to be cancelled in toto, and will not have the personal covenants of the trustees in force for the benefit of the lessee. Att. Gen. v. Morgan, 2 Russ. 306. CHARITY LEASE; CANCELLATION OF DEEDS.

The trustees of a charity were made, as individuals, defendants to a suit for the administration of the charity; afterwards the information was amended, and they were made defendants in their corporate capacity; but the suit was not dismissed against them as individuals at the hearing: the record was considered as constituting two different causes, and the one against the trustees as individuals, was dismissed with costs, though in the cause against them in their corporate capacity, a decree was made, remedying abuses which had grown up in the charity, and regulating its future administration. Att. Gen. v. Mansfield, 2 Russ. 501. PL. PARTIES.

Where trustees of a charity under an instrument of doubtful construction have acted honestly, though erroneously, they will not be charged in respect of past misapplication of the funds. Att. Gen. v. Corp. of Evesham, 2 Russ. 45. CHARITY.

The trustee of a legacy which had been invested in stock, authorises the sale of the stock, and permits B to receive the proceeds; B retains the money in his hands, and during many years, the legatee, who was not aware that the legacy had ever been invested in stock, or that stock, in which it once was vested, had been sold, deals with B, as the only person accountable to her for the money; notwithstanding these dealings on the part of the legatee, the trustees continue to be accountable for the stock. Adams v. Clifton, 1 Russ. 297.

Trustees employing trust fund in their business, instead of investing it when amounting to a certain sum as directed by will, an account was directed, and they charged with 5 per cent. on balance in their hands. Brown v. Sansome, 1 McClell. & Y. 427. ACCOUNT; INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

A creditor, who makes out a primâ facie case of misconduct in trustees, is entitled to a decree that they shall account for whatever they might have received without their wilful default or neglect; though, in a prior suit instituted by another creditor, and conducted without collusion, a common decree for an account has been previously made against them. Shepherd v. Tongood, 1 Turn. & R. 379. CREDITORS; ACCOUNT.

Where a person executor and trustee of legacy to be laid out in stock has fully administered estate, and assented to legacy, and retains legacy in his hands, not as assets, but as trustee, he is liable for breach of trust, and ordered to purchase stock at price of time when he was first able to invest it. Byrchall v. Prudford, 6 Mad. 235. LEGACY; BREACH OF TRUST.

Where there is no imputation of breach of trust in trustee, suffering deed to get out of his possession, he need not be party to bill for its restitution. Knye v. Moore, 1 S. & S. 61. PL. PARTY.

The usual indemnity clause does not exonerate one of two trustees from a loss occasioned by a debt due from the other having been suffered to remain outstanding. Mucklow v. Fuller, 1 Jac. 198.

Where it is a term of trust deed that each trustee shall be answerable only for one moiety, court will not extend the liability. Birt v. Betty, 6 Mad. 90.

In a bill to compel performance of a covenant to surrender copyhold estate to A in trust for others, A must be a party. Cope v. Parry, 2 Jac. & W. 538. PL. PARTY; SPEC. PERF.

Executor and trustee becoming bankrupt, a receiver was appointed, though testator knew the commission had issued. Langley v. Hawk, 5 Mad. 46. PA. RECEIVER; EXOR.

Trustee cannot, by any act of his own, denude himself of that character till he has performed his trust. Chalmers v. Bradley, 1 Jac. & W. 68.

In suit against trustees of charity, all the trustees must be parties though they do not act. In re Chertsey Market, 6 Price, 261. PL. PARTIES.

Trustees not to be compelled to perform an agreement entered into under mistake, to sell for an inadequate consideration. Bridger v. Reid, 1 Jac. & W. 74. SPEC. PERF.; MISTAKE.

Power to trustees to advance to A 1000*l.* with consent of B under her hand, signed by two witnesses. Trustees advance the sum without consent. Subsequent acquiescence by such deed not sufficient, and trustees ordered to refund. Bateman v. Davis, 3 Mad. 98. POWER, EXECUTION OF.

Co-trustee held liable for acts of other, though he merely joined in receipt for conformity sake, and never meddled in trust beyond that. Bradwell v. Catchpole, cited 3 Swan. 78.

Infant fraudulently concealing his age, and obtaining from trustees part of stock which he was entitled to on coming of age; and when of age a few months afterwards, applying for and receiving the residue of such stock: Held, a fraud in infant, and that neither himself nor his assignees could enforce repayment by trustees of stock paid during infancy, and that applying for residue of stock when of age was a recognition of first payment. Cory v. Gertchken, 2 Mad. 40. INFANT; FRAUD.

Trustees joining in receipt are not chargeable unless they also receive the money. Chambers v. Minchin, 7 Ves. 198.

A loss happening by the default of a trustee appointed by a testator, falls on the legatees, and the estate is discharged from it. Hutchinson v. Massacreene, 2 Ball & B. 54. ADMISSION OF ASSETS.

Settlement of a renewable lease in trust out of the rents and profits to pay the fines and charges of renewing, and subject thereto for husband and wife successively for life; remainder to the first son at twenty-one. The trustees not having renewed in the lives of the tenants for life answerable as for a breach of trust, though not deriving any benefit from it. Id. Montford v. Ld. Cadogan, 17 Ves. 485. Affirmed 19 Ves. 635. quod vide, and 2 Mer. 3. SETTLEMENT OF RENEWABLE LEASE.

General rule of specific performance that the purchaser shall have what the vendor can give, with an abatement out of the purchase-money, for so much as the quantity falls short of the representation, enforced against trustees for infants, upon the mere mistake of their agent without fraud, &c. but the relief adapted to the justice of the case, viz. the purchase being of wood upon a gross valuation, without regard to the quantity of land; an abatement for a deficiency of quantity from erroneously inserting the hedges and fences not included in the purchase, was directed with reference to land. Hill v. Buckley, 17 Ves. 394. SPEC. PERF.; VEND. & PURCH.; COMPENSATION.

Trustees under a misrepresentation that the fund was invested in stock, charged with interest at five per cent. upon the same principle as if they had sold out stock and used the money, viz. an option to the cestui que trust to have the actual profit or five per cent. Bate v. Scales, 12 Ves. 402. INTEREST, WHEN.

Trustee charged in respect of a misrepresentation to a purchaser having notice, and alleging only that he did not recollect the fact. Burrows v. Lock, 10 Ves. 470.

A trustee charged, though he did not receive the money, under the circumstances, having joined in the receipt; the sale unnecessary; and permitting his co-trustees to keep and act with the money contrary to the trust; not charged in the respect of the interest of one of the cestui que trust having notice of the breach of trust, and acquiescing. Brice v. Stokes, 11 Ves. 319.

T holds shares in a trading company in trust for W, who, by his will, appoints T his residuary legatee. T continues in possession of the shares, and becomes bankrupt. The shares are not within the meaning of the bankrupt act, 11 & 12 G. 3. c. 8. s. 9. inasmuch as T is himself the "true owner and proprietor thereof," subject, however, to the debts and legacies of W. T and his partners, together with W, give securities to C for the proper debt of T. W dies, leaving T and C his executors, and T his residuary legatee, and leaving a sum of money under the controul of C. C applies this money to the payment of the securities given by T and C, and by W; and debits W in account with the amount; and on settling with T as executor of W, C hands him over these securities, and pays him, as residuary legatee, the balance due to the estate of W. C shall be answerable to the creditors and legatees of W on failure of C, as well for the sum paid to C, as that retained by C. Joy v. Campbell, 1 Scho. & L. 328.

Trustees and executors charged with loss occasioned by breach of trust by joining in a transfer and sale, and lending the produce to a partnership in which one of them was engaged, the other receiving no benefit. Decree for account against all for the funds. French v. Hobson, 9 Ves. 103. TRUST, BREACH OF.

Trustees and their representatives chargeable in equity for a breach of trust, though no benefit derived from it. Adair v. Shaw, 1 Scho. & L. 272.

Trustees charged with loss occasioned by mere negligence, and costs follow of course. Caffrey v. Darby, 6 Ves. 488. LACHES.

Trustee not charged with a loss by failure of banker to agent in whose hands money was deposited, pending transaction for change of trustee. Adams v. Claxton, 6 Ves. 226.

Legacies in trust for the testator's son for his own use and benefit, provided no misfortune in business shall in the mean time have happened to him, so as to deprive him or his family of the benefit of it, the testator declaring his intention, his son's fortune being amply sufficient by this fund to form a certain and permanent provision for him or his family; but in case he fail in business at any time before the age of thirty-two, then in trust for the support of him, his wife and children, as the trustees think proper, so long as he shall labour under the effects of any misfortune in trade: but as soon as he shall be freed and absolutely discharged from the effects of any misfortune or failure in trade, then (but not before) to be paid to him; otherwise, the interest to be continued to be paid for the support of him, his wife and children, for his life; and if, at his death, he shall be under any difficulty from misfortune or failure in business, in trust for his wife and children according to his appointment by will, and if he shall leave no widow or child, according to his disposition. There was a considerable settlement. The son, in the twenty-eighth year of his age, being discharged under a deed of composition, the legacy was decreed to him, the trustees and his children not opposing it; but the court observed, that if he should not be discharged, as in case it should end in a bankruptcy, the trustees would not be indemnified. De Mierre v. Turner, 5 Ves. 306. WILL, C. OF.

The indemnity of the trustees under a deed of trust does not give the persons employed by them a right as creditors against the trust fund. Woorall v. Harford, 9 Ves. 4. PRINC. & AGENT.

Settlement, upon marriage, of stock, the property of the wife, in trust from time to time to receive the dividends and pay them into the hands of the wife for her sole and separate use, her receipt to be a discharge; after her decease, if the husband should survive, for him for life; and after the decease of the survivor, to transfer the principal among the children according to her appointment by will; in default thereof equally, if no children, according to her appointment by will. The trustees, with the privy of the wife, sold the stock, and paid the money to the husband, taking his bond of indemnity. He died insolvent. Upon the bill of the widow and children, the fund having been replaced by the trustees, and transferred to the accountant-general, upon the trusts of settlement, the trustees to pay the dividends to the widow from the death of the husband, with costs. Whistler v. Newman, 4 Ves. 129. See as to the authority of this case, 5 Ves. 17. n. and 694. n. TRUST, BREACH OF; HUSB. & WIFE; SETTLE.

Where sale by trustee to purchaser with notice of trust, is set aside, neither purchaser nor trustee pays interest on rents. Macartney v. Blackwood, 1 Ridg. L. & S. 602. FRAUDULENT SALE; INTEREST.

Trustee, how far charged with interest and costs and profits of a farm carried on by aid of testator's personal estate. Kellick v. Flerney, 4 Bro. C. C. 163.

Trustee charged with interest for wilful misconduct, as not paying money into court pursuant to an order: but slight difference in the sums admitted and reported in his hands is not sufficient; farther enquiry whether he made interest, not to be directed unless a strong case. Sammis v. Rickman, 2 Ves. J. 36. INTEREST.

Devises in trust to sell for payment of debts, assign to the son of the devisor; the creditors receive the interest from him for eleven years, and agree with him for an increase of interest on their debts: the original trustees continue liable. Hardwick v. Mydd, 1 Anst. 110. LENGTH OF TIME; ACQUESCENCE.

Trustees are mere stake-holders, and cannot be affected with more than they actually received without wilful default. Pybus v. Smith, 1 Ves. J. 189. See qu.

A trustee joining in a receipt and reconveyance of a mortgaged estate, though he does not receive the money, is liable, and the receipt being in evidence, no enquiry can be directed as to the fact. Scurfield v. Howes, 3 Bro. C. C. 90.

Account decreed against a trustee, who, having engaged the trust property in an adventure, afterwards renounced it for the trust, and declared it to be on his own account; though no part of the trust money actually laid out. Wilkinson v. Stafford, 1 Ves. J. 32. ACCOUNT.

Parties to bill by creditors against trustees for sale. Routh v. Kinder, 3 Swan. 144. PL. PARTIES.

A trustee in a will which directed money to be lent at such rate of interest as they should think reasonable, by consent of his co-trustee keeps it at 4 per cent.: ordered to pay five, and the executors to pay the costs of taking the accounts as to that interest. Forbes v. Ross, 2 Bro. C. C. 430. FRAUD, FID. SIT.; INTEREST.

If the trustee of a term, and the cestui que trust, are before the court, an intermediate trustee of the equitable interest need not be the party to a bill filed to carry the trusts of the term into execution. Heggl v. Teynham, 1 Cox, 57. PL. PARTY.

One trustee knowing and concealing his co-trustee's having sold out the trust fund, equally liable with the trustee, who actually sold. Bourdman v. Mosman, 1 Bro. C. C. 68.

Trustee investing money at his own discretion, runs risk of depreciation. Hancom v. Allen, Dick. 498.

Writ of ne exeat against trustee upon an account acknowledged. Taylor v. Leitch, id. 380.

Trustee joining in receipt, though only for conformity, is accountable. Westly v. Clarke, id. 330.

If two executors join in giving a discharge for money, they are both answerable though one only actually received it. Exp. Belcher, Exp. Parson, Ambl. 219. S. C. 1 Ken. 38. EXORS. PERSONAL LIABILITY.

If trustees will bind themselves to be liable for the acts of each other, the court will not relieve them, especially in the case of a composition of debts. Leigh v. Barry, 3 Atk. 583.

In the case of trustees, though there are not negative words in a deed that they shall not be liable for the acts of one another, yet the court will not make them so for more than each have received. Id. 584.

Equity will endeavour to deliver a trustee from a misapplication of trust-money, where he errs in the management only; but if he goes out of it with the approbation of the cestui que trust, it must be first made good out of the person's estate who consented. Trafford v. Boehm, 3 Atk. 444.

A bill charges forgery in a lease, and prays relief; the trustees who were parties to the lease, and to whom the fraud and breach of trust is imputed, must be parties. Jones v. Jones, 3 Atk. 110. PL. PARTIES.

If a trustee files bill and brings cestui que trust before the court for his own private interest, he shall pay whole costs of suit. Henley v. Philips, 2 Atk. 48. COSTS.

By settlement before marriage, it was agreed, that 2000*l.* in the hands of a trustee should be laid out in land, and settled on the husband for life; then to the wife for life, for her jointure, and to the children equally; and in default of issue, then to the wife in fee. The husband and wife being necessitous, the trustee paid them 600*l.* on a release and their joint bond of indemnity, and afterwards 400*l.* in the same manner, with a new agreement, that the remaining 1000*l.* should be laid out in an annuity, for the separate use of the wife, during coverture, and in fee, in case of survivorship. The trustee afterwards paid the husband the remaining 1000*l.* and then he died, leaving his wife destitute. Upon a bill by the wife against the trustee's representative, upon this breach of trust, and to be paid what shall be due to her for the 2000*l.* the parties, on the recommendation of Ld. Chancellor, agreed to pay the wife 100*l.* per annum for life, tax free, together with costs, which was ordered accordingly. Thayer v. Gould, 1 Atk. 615.

Where there is a falling off of stock without the neglect of trustee, he is not liable to make good the deficiency, but is answerable only as far as the value, especially where it was specific stock. Jackson v. Jackson, id. 513. INVESTMENT.

A & B are trustees under a deed, by which neither of them is to answer for the other; A receives a sum of money under the trust, and gives a writing under hand and seal, acknowledging it, and that B had received no part of it; A never placed out the money, and dies; this writing is a specialty and good against the executor, but not against the heir of A, he not being mentioned in it. Gifford v. Manley, Forres. 109. SPECIALTY DEBT; HEIR AT LAW.

A, who is a trustee for B of 1000*l.* South Sea stock, at the desire of B borrows 1000*l.* on this stock of the company, and B receives the money; A pays the ten per cent on the late act to be discharged of the loan; though B forbade the payment yet he is liable. Balsh v. Hyham, 2 P. W. 453. S. S. STOCK.

A trustee is not answerable for an innocent mistake, and from which he derived no advantage; and a court of equity will grant a perpetual injunction to prevent any proceedings at law, grounded on such mistake. Crookshanks v. Turner, 7 Bro. P. C. 255. MISTAKE.

An executor or trustee insolvent at the time they place out money at interest, shall, if they make any, pay interest as they run no risk; secus, of one who is in good circumstances. Bloomfield v. Wytherley, Prec. Chan. 505. S. C. 1 Eq. Ab. 398. but cited and overruled 1 Bro. C. C. 360. EXORS. INTEREST.

A settlement was made by a third person to the use of the husband for ninety-nine years; remainder to trustees during his life, &c.: remainder to the wife for life, remainder to the first, &c. son of the marriage; remainder to the heirs of the body of the husband; remainder to the right heirs of the husband; there was no issue of the marriage, and the trustee joined in cutting off remainders, yet the court refused to punish them at the suit of a remote remainder-man. Tipping v. Piggot, Gilb. Eq. Rep. 34.

Two executors join in a receipt, and only one of them actually receives the money; both chargeable to creditors but not to legatees. (But see 2 Bro. C. C. 117.) Two trustees join in a receipt, and one receives the money, only the receiving trustee shall be charged. Sed quere. Churchill v. Hobson, 1 P. W. 241. S. C. Salk. 318. EXORS. LIAB.

Trustees not to take advantage of their own laches. Kentish v. Newman, 1 P. W. 236.

Although a trustee is not directed to pay money out at interest, yet if he makes interest, he shall account for it. Lee v. Lee, 2 Vern. 548.

Two trustees in a mortgage join in an assignment of the term, and in a receipt for the whole, each receiving a moiety only of the mortgage money are to be answerable only for what they respectively receive. Fellows v. Mitchell, 1 P. W. 81. 2 Vern. 504. 515.

Where on a bill to call a trustee to account, he by answer submits readily to it, though found in debt, he shall pay the interest for the balance only from the time of the account liquidated, and no costs; secus, if he controverts the account; there, if found in arrear, he shall pay interest and costs. Parrot v. Treby, Prec. Chan. 254. ACCOUNT; INTEREST, WHEN PAYABLE.

Executors who all join in a sale shall be all charged though one only receives the money; secus, of trustees. Aplyn v. Brewer, Prec. Chan. 173. EXORS. LIABILITY OF.

A trustee in a recognizance releases it without any consideration; decreed to pay the principal and interest not exceeding the penalty. Jevon v. Bush, 1 Vern. 342.

Each trustee shall be charged for no more than he actually receives. Otherwise if the trustees join in receipts. Spalding v. Shalmer, 1 Vern. 303.

If a trustee for payment of children's portions, pays one his full share, and the trust estate decays, he shall not be allowed it. Tilsey v. Throckmorton, 2 Ch. Ca. 132.

Trustee not to be charged with imaginary values, but only as a bailiff. Palmer v. Jones, 1 Vern. 144.

Defendant was trustee to plaintiff, an infant, and received for him 40*l.* in gold, of which he was robbed by his own domestic servant, together with 200*l.* of his own: Ld. Ch. allowed the trustee this 40*l.* on his own oath, for he was but to keep it as his own. Morley v. Morley, 2 Ch. Ca. 2.

If a trustee joins with a cestui que trust in any conveyance to bar the entail, it is no breach of trust, for it is no more than what he may be compelled to do, though the trustee himself might have barred such entail without his joining, and that not only by fine or recovery, but also by feoffment, bargain, or sale, devise or surrender, (if no custom to the contrary in the latter case). See Goodrich v. Brown, 1 Ch. Ca. 49. Washburne v. Downes, 1 Ch. Ca. 213. Lord Digby v. Langworth, 1 Ch. Ca. 68. North v. Champenon, 2 Ch. Ca. 64. 78.

XI. THEIR ACCOUNTS, ALLOWANCES AND COSTS TO.

A testator after devising lands on trust to constitute a grammar school, directed that the trustees should have the management of it, and should appoint a master and usher, and pay to them respectively 50*l.* a year, and 50*l.* a year; the trustees established a school, which, however, from mistake was not conducted as a free grammar school, and the rents of the charity lands having increased, an augmentation was made to the salaries of the master and usher. It held that the trustees were entitled to have the sums paid in receipt of this augmentation allowed them in their accounts, notwithstanding their error in the application of the charity, and the mention of salaries of a specified amount in the will. Att. Gen. v. Dean, &c. of Christchurch, 2 Russ. 321. CHARITY.

Trustee is of course entitled to all reasonable expences in conduct of trust, but not for personal trouble and loss of time, unless he makes out a special case therefore, before acceptance of trust. Brocksopp v. Barnes, 5 Mad. 90.

Trustee bound to pay interest on money retained a length of time. Trimleston v. Hamill, 1 Ball & B. 385. INTEREST.

Settled rule, that in all matters of trust or in the nature of trust, a trustee is not allowed any compensation for his trouble in the business entrusted to him. In re Ormsby, 1 Ball & B. 189.

Trustee, or next friend of infant is entitled to fair expences beyond taxed costs, under the head of just allowances. Fearns v. Young, 10 Ves. 184. PA. COSTS; PROCHAIN AMI.

Trustee and executor, although taking under will a commission as a satisfaction for trouble, is entitled to allowances under a general trust to set and manage as he should think proper, and out of the rents and profits to pay all rates and taxes, charges of repairs, stewards, bailiffs, and gamekeepers' salaries and expences, and all other charges and expences he should think proper; but he was not allowed to appoint an establishment, gamekeepers, &c. except as the due management required. Webb v. El. Shaftesbury, 7 Ves. 480.

100*l.* devised to an infant payable at twenty-one, and if he dies before then, it is devised over and the interest of the 100*l.* is for the child's maintenance. The trustee lays out 20*l.* of the 100*l.* for placing out the child an apprentice, and the child died under twenty-one, this 20*l.* shall be allowed. Franklin v. Green, 2 Vern. 137. INFANT MAINTENANCE.

VII. BANKRUPTCY AND ABSCONDING OF, OR REFUSING TO CONVEY.

See Stat. 1 W. 4. c. 60. Appendix.

Where trustees, &c. of friendly societies, are out of jurisdiction of court, or it be uncertain whether they are alive, or they refuse to convey, &c. court of exchequer may appoint a person to convey, 10 G. 4. c. 56. s. 15. FRIENDLY SOCIETIES; JURISDICTION.

When trustees shall be absent, &c. courts may order stock to be transferred, and dividends paid, id. s. 16.

By this statute it would seem the jurisdiction of courts of chancery on this subject is taken away. See the repealed statute. (Compiler.)

Where bill is filed, merely to obtain transfer of stock standing in name of trustee, who is out of jurisdiction of court, order must be made at hearing of cause, and cannot be obtained on petition. Burr v. Mason, 2 S. & S. 11. TRANSFER OF STOCK; PETITION.

One of two trustees absconding, the other ordered to transfer fund into his own name, and that of another appointed. In re Friendly Society, 1 S. & S. 82. FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

Infant trustee for sale is not within the statute, 7 Anne c. 19. (but see 6 Geo. 4. c. 74.) though the persons entitled to the produce of the sale are adult and join in the petition. Semble, Exp. Chasteney, 1 Jac. 56. INFANT TRUSTEE; STAT. C. OF.

When a testator directed that in case his son should carry on the testator's trade for the benefit of himself and his mother, his lease and furniture should not be sold, but that the trustees should permit the widow and children to reside therein and have the use of it; and the widow and son carried on the trade and became bankrupt. Held that the furniture, &c. was not in the order and disposition of the bankrupts. Exp. Martin, 2 Rose, 331. BANKRUPTCY; REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

When, by agreement, stock is placed in joint names, and one trustee is also a cestui que trust, he not having power to transfer his interest, it does not pass on bankruptcy to his assignees. Exp. Kensington, 2 V. & B. 79. S. C. Coop. 66. BANKRUPTCY; REPUTED OWNERSHIP; BANKCY. ASSIGNMENT WHAT PASSES.

Under 36 G. 3. c. 90. (repealed and re-enacted by 6 G. 4. c. 74. which see) on proof that one trustee had become bankrupt and absconded, and was abroad and unlikely to return, the remaining trustee was ordered to transfer trust stock into name of himself and a new co-trustee. Williams v. Bird, 1 V. & B. 3. TRANSFER OF STOCK. STAT. C. OF.

Where A is surety of B in respondentia bond, and B assigns all his goods on board ship to A, on trust to pay debt due to himself, and next to pay off all debts for which he was surety on bond, and before time mentioned in bond, A became bankrupt, and assignees receive money on account of proceeds of goods; ordered, that after deducting debt due to A, the residue should be divided among the respondentia creditors. Exp. Carstairs, 1 Rose, 130. BANKCY. ASSETS.

Order for a transfer of stock within the statute 36 G. 3. c. 91., (repealed and re-enacted by 6 G. 4. c. 16. s. 79, 80); as upon a refusal by a party appearing by counsel, and admitting that she had disobeyed an order to transfer. Rider v. Kilder, 13 Ves. 123. BANKCY. ORDER FOR TRANSFER OF STOCK.

A bill for a specific performance of an agreement was made necessary by a trustee refusing to join in the conveyance. The court being of opinion, that the trustee ought to pay all the costs of the suit, the decree was that the plaintiff should pay the costs of all the other defendants, (although he had a decree against them,) and recover over the whole costs from the defendant, the trustee. Jones v. Lewis, 1 Cox, 199. PR. COSTS.

Trustee of fund absconding, dividends of fund ordered to be paid to cestui que vie. Wharton v. Massey, Dick. 429.

Bankrupt, though in possession, yet if empowered to dispose of goods in trust for another, they are not liable to the bankruptcy, either in law or equity. Copeman v. Callant, 1 P. W. 314. BANKCY., REPUTED OWNERSHIP.

Factor in possession and empowered to sell goods for another, they are not liable to the factor's bankruptcy, id. ib.

Executor in trust becomes a bankrupt, the goods which he has as executor, not liable to the bankruptcy, id. ib.

it ought to be filed by some on behalf selves and rests. Douglass v. Horsfall, 2 S. & S. 14. PARTIES.

Semble, where trustee is in such situation as to preclude advantage over cestui que trust, dealing between them will not be set aside. Naylor v. Winch, 1 S. & S. 566. FRAUD, FID. SIT.

Generally all persons interested are necessary parties to bill of foreclosure; and where equity of redemption was conveyed to trustees to sell, &c. with power to discharge purchasers by receipt, does not dispense with necessity of making cestui que trusts parties. Culverley v. Philp, 6 Mad. 229. PL. FORECLOSURE; PL. PARTIES; DEEDS, PARTIES TO.

On motion by trustees to dissolve injunction against them, cestui que trusts not parties to suit cannot be heard. Ball v. Tunnard, 6 Mad. 275. PL. PARTIES.

It is not of course to let a cestui que trust under a will into possession of estate; it must depend on the testator's intention. Tidd v. Lister, 5 Mad. 429. WILL, C. OF; TRUST.

Writ of ne exeat regno granted against the obligor in a bond given to trustees at the suit of a party beneficially interested in the money secured by it. Leake v. Leake, 1 Jac. & W. 605. PR. WRIT NE EXEAT REGNO.

Where trust property is employed in trade without authority, the cestui que trusts must elect to take either the profits for the whole period, or interest for the whole period. Circumstances may arise to entitle them to take profits for one and interest for another part of the period; but a notice of dissolution of partnership, published for a particular purpose, and not accompanied by a settlement of accounts, or a transfer of the property, is not sufficient. Heathcote v. Hulme, 1 Jac. & W. 122. ELECTION.

Cestui que trust using trustee's name as co-defendant, ordered to give later security for costs. Annesley v. Simeon, 4 Mad. 390. PR. SECURITY FOR COSTS.

Cestui que trust concurring or acquiescing in a breach of trust, not entitled to relief, subject to inquiry into the circumstances which induced concurrence or acquiescence. Walker v. Symonds, 3 Swan. 64. BREACH OF TRUST; ACQUIESCENCE.

Right of a cestui que trust to proceed separately against one trustee implicated in a joint breach of trust. Id. 75. BREACH OF TRUST; PL. PARTIES.

If there are cestui que trusts who ought in strictness to be made parties to such a suit, and they are not so brought before court, their interests may be ascertained and protected (by indulgence of court) by a petition to be presented by them for that purpose to obviate further delay and expence. Drew v. Harman, 5 Price, 319. PL. PARTIES.
